

CAMPUS BY-PATHS

Owing to circumstances not altogether unforeseen, my activities have been somewhat circumscribed this week, but the faithful scouts have been even more active than usual, so, if the tobacco supply and the supply of scandal holds out there should be no difficulty.

Everett Kuhl is a most inconsiderate creature — for a commerce student. During Homecoming (this one is a bit ancient) Everett had one of the boys in his room over night which was, I understand, against the rules. In the wee small hours, about eleven o'clock in the morning, a prefect happened to wander into Everett's room and noticed the pair of sleeping beauties in Ev's single bed. "If I am running a hotel this will cost you $2.50," said the prefect. Everett, stiff, and more or less sore—his sleeping partner possessed a goodly amount of avoirdupois—moved gingerly and answered, "If you're running a hotel, for the love of Mike put another bed in here."

Don't tell Everett I told you.

As one of the dear departed used to say, "He owes me a nickel," and I might not be able to collect.

The door in a Journalism class opened violently yesterday and then slammed just as violently. Between the opening and the slamming, however, John Rourke entered. "Ha, ha!" he chuckled, "I fooled you; you thought I was Charlie Molz, didn't you?"

It's funny about doors. Now when Jack Scallan opens that same door at 1:50 to enter a 1:30 class you can't hear it at all, and even if you could Jack's amiable smile would immediately disarm you, and forestall any caustic comment that might be forthcoming.

We fully expect to have the Pepsi people ask, "What dental cream does this Scallan use?"

The answer is easy—his room-mate's.

All of this reminds me of a rather famous poem written here during summer school entitled, "To a Lady's Tooth Brush." I have heard a great deal about it but have never seen it. I arise and cry, "Author! Author!"

That last one will probably prove a boomerang.

Since Herbert Reed has moved down town the campus doesn't seem to be the same.

It was Herbert, you know, who introduced the wearing of riding breeches on the campus.

He wore them long before the boys took up horseback riding, and, what was more, he got away with it.

Herbert is one of the few people at school who ever heard of Rapid River, and he can't find it on the map.

One of the scouts saw Charlie Robrecht wending his way to his office in Chemistry Hall one day last week and dutifully reported the fact to headquarters.

There are a number of things which Charles does with considerable grace. Here they are tabulated for the benefit of the reader. (I'm awfully modest, and use the singular form. Somebody has to correct the mistakes).

IRISH TO MEET GOPHERS TONIGHT

Ten Men Make Trip to Minneapolis; Undecided as to Exact Line-up; Keogan Confident.

Coach Keogan and two complete teams left South Bend yesterday afternoon, for Minneapolis where they will meet the Gophers in a two game series, tonight and Monday. The fact that two teams were taken does not mean that the final choice of the squad has been made, as very little has been seen of most of the men as yet. Many changes are expected later on.

The team that meets Minnesota will be greatly handicapped, due to the lack of practice, as only four days of actual work have been spent in preparation. The greater number of the men being held back on account of football work. Ned Mahoney and Reardon are the only men who have had the advantage of earlier practice.

Clem Crowe, an all-state man in high school and individual star of the freshman team last year, has been showing much class as a forward. Rex Enright and Phil Mahoney, veterans of last year's squad, are also promising good results. First team guards last year, will probably start the game. The center position will be filled by Don Miller and Tom Reardon, both letter men last year, with a possibility that Adam Walsh may be switched from the guard position. Joe Bach of football fame, and Charlie Ward are with the team as guard and forward.

The men who made the trip are: Forwards—Crowe, Mahoney, Enright, Ward. Centers—Reardon, Miller. Guards—Kizer, Walsh, Mayl.

BADIN DECLARED INTERHALL CHAMPS

Badin, Brownson, and Sophomore in Tie; Athletic Board Draws to Determine Winner.

The Badin hall football team, Interhall champions of 1922, was awarded the trophy cup of the Interhall league at a meeting of the Interhall Athletic board yesterday noon. The award was made by drawing from a hat the names of the three halls remaining in the title race.

The result of the Badin-Sophomore game Thursday afternoon made it impossible to declare an opponent to meet Brownson in the title game, and the board decided to settle the matter by drawing the names of the three halls from a hat. A member of the board made the drawing.

Brownson hall protested the decision on the grounds that they were the leading team of the second series and therefore entitled to a game with Badin, whose percentage was higher than Sophomore.

With the filing of the protest, it is probable that another meeting of the board will be called soon to make a final settlement.

BLUE CIRCLE MEETS.

The Blue Circle met in the north room of the library at 12:30 Thursday. Matt Rothert, president of the organization, outlined plans for strengthening the DAILY; George Bischoff and Harry McGuire made short talks offering suggestions in this regard.

After a short discussion the club decided to adopt as their insignia pendants to be worn on the watch chains of the members.

Toledo Club Plans Formal Dance

Plans for a formal dance to be given during the holidays were the main business of the Toledo club meeting, held Thursday night in the Journalism room of the library.

The dance, according to Francis J. O'Boyle, president of the club, will be held at the Woman's Club building in Toledo the night of January 2. It is the first of four dances to be given by the Toledo club during the year.

The affair will be preceded by a banquet for the club members.

FINALISTS PICKED IN BREEN CONTEST

Nolan, McAllister, Norris and Breen Will Appear in Finals Shortly.

Mark Nolan, Charles McAllister, Raymond Norris, and Paul Breen survived the final preliminary in the Breen oratorical contest, held in the library Thursday afternoon. The judges of this preliminary were Professors Farrell, Becker, and McCarthy.

The four successful men will appear in the final contest to be held in Washington hall shortly before Christmas.

THE DAILY QUESTIONNAIRE

What Asked: Is a stadium for Notre Dame a practical thing? If, so, how can funds be raised?

Where Asked: Main Building.

Gene Fogarty, Litt. B IV., Sorin hall:

"A stadium for Notre Dame certainly is a practicable thing. To raise the money I would suggest a sustained drive similar to the Greater Notre Dame campaign, or else bring a powerful team like the Army or Yale to N. D. next fall. Then have a so-called Stadium Day and charge five or six dollars a seat."

Maurice McNulty, Law II, Brownson:

"I believe a stadium for Notre Dame is practical because of the disappointment of so many in not being able to get seats for our big games. With the team that Notre Dame puts on the field each year it is hardly likely that a stadium could not be filled and in time paid for. Raise money by popular subscription."

Edward Lyons, Litt. B III, Walsh hall:

"I have nothing to say as I don't care to be incriminated. Go ask Rockne."

John Hurley, Commerce III, Walsh:

"To ask if it is practical is foolish. A stadium is not only practical, it is a necessity. As to raising funds, you probably remember that a South Bend man, whose name I have forgotten, offered to go ahead with a stadium drive if given the proper sanction and co-operation. Look into that."

Walter Haecker, Journalism III, Badin:

"Any dummy knows it is practical. The thing is raising the money. A big football game or two might get results, or the students could start a drive that at least would do no harm."

ASSEMBLY DRAWS 1300 STUDENTS

S. A. C. May Buy Gridgraph Next Year

It will be definitely decided at the next meeting whether or not the Student Activities Committee will own and operate its own grid-graph next year. From the five games played on the grid-graph this season, the board netted a profit of $100. This is due to the fact that the grid-graph owners demanded a large guarantee for each exhibition.

The S. A. C. dance committee made a report at the meeting Thursday. This committee is largely responsible for the success of the football dances. This committee is composed of Norm Smith, chairman, Don Gallagher and John Moran.

All men representing jewelry companies are requested to submit prices and designs on a special order of pins to George Bischoff, secretary of the S. A. C.

WEIBEL ELECTED TANK CAPTAIN

Fr. O'Donnell Talks to Swimming Candidates; Support of Athletic Board Is Assured.

John Weibel, varsity football and track man, was elected captain of the swimming team for the coming season at a meeting of the team held Thursday. Weibel is a junior in the College of Science.

Rev. Hugh O'Donnell was the principal speaker of the meeting. In his brief talk Father O'Donnell spoke of the past efforts of the tank squad, and of the brilliant prospects for the coming season. He assured the members of the team that the students were back of the squad more than at any time in the past and promised the support of the Athletic Board. He further assured the men that they would be completely equipped and that efforts would be made to raise the sport to a major level at the University.

The first meeting of the year will be held with the South Bend Y. M. C. A. at the municipal natatorium Friday night, December 14. The South Benders have a well-trained squad that has remained intact for almost three years. The meet last year between the two squads was one of the best of the season.

The meet will embrace a varied program of endurance, speed and exhibition contests. A 40-yard dash, free style; 100-yard dash, free style; 40-yard back stroke, and a 40-yard breast stroke will be among the various speed races on the card. A plunge for distance between the two teams will be an added feature. An exhibition of fancy diving will probably close the meet.

An attempt is being made to recruit the squad from the large number of tank men on the campus. Many men of swimming ability have failed to answer the call for tank candidates. An attempt is being made to raise the standard of the Notre Dame swimming team from a secondary position in campus athletics to the place of importance that it deserves. Unless the team is backed by the entire student body the attempt will probably be a failure. Those men whose ability in the aquatic sport would be an aid to the team are requested to see either the captain or Tom Goss, swimming instructor, at once.

Regular practice will be held in the South Bend pool on Wednesday and Friday evenings. The squad will practice at the University tank on the other days.

Students Urged to Greater Support of Daily; Swift, Gallagher, and Stanton Talk.

More than 1,330 students attended the convocation in Washington hall yesterday noon. The principal topic of discussion was the DAILY and the support the students are to give it.

"The primary purpose of this meeting is to discuss our daily newspaper; to learn whether or not it is wanted and whether or not it is to exist." So said James Swift, chairman of the Student Activities Committee.

He urged every student to support the DAILY, stating that this was the critical year of its life. Plans to secure 100 per cent support of the paper, on the part of the student body and general campus problems were also taken up.

"Until we have reached the one-third of the student body who have not subscribed," said John Stanton, business manager of the DAILY, "we have failed in our purpose."

Stanton promised prompt delivery of papers, to both downtown and campus subscribers.

Donald Gallagher, president of the Senior class, praised Gus Desch, former Notre Dame athlete, for his part in making the DAILY possible.

"The DAILY," said Gallagher, "is existing on a very weak foundation because of the negligence of the 500 students who have not subscribed. Until it has the support of every student, our daily newspaper cannot hope for success."

In a general discussion as to the merits of the DAILY, the point of censorship by the faculty was brought up. It was stated that no censorship has been made.

Slips were passed out by members of the Blue Circle in an effort to get subscriptions. Everyone present was asked to sign whether or not he was a subscriber.

Following this discussion an open forum on general student problems was held.

Questions concerning a shelter to be erected at the end of the car line, and the running of 11:30 and 11:45 cars were discussed. Petitions to smoke in the law building, to have late lights and music in Brownson and Freshman halls, and for a water fountain in the Engineering building, were presented. No definite action was taken on these at the meeting.

Complaints against the cafeteria service were explained and difficulties with which the management is faced were pointed out. A slight protest against the quality of food in the refectory was made.

An extension of the Christmas vacation, the alleged severity of class cuts in the Law school, and other departments, and better baths on the campus were discussed.

James Swift, who was in charge of the meeting, announced that future convocations were possible, if desired by the students. He pointed out that the matters brought up, although many were important, were for the most part trivial and benefitted only a particular class. He interpreted this tendency favorably, concluding that "there is little at Notre Dame for the students to kick about."

The meeting adjourned at 12 o'clock. No members of the faculty were invited to attend the meeting.

REPORTERS

It is imperative that every man whose name now appears among the list of reporters be present at a meeting which will be held in the DAILY office at 12:30 today. Any man not appearing will be dropped from the staff. Trochalwsky is also to report.

At The Palace

We had made a solemn resolution to be startlingly original in our review of this week's show at the Palace, but something went wrong. We could have either waxed enthusiastic or bitingly sarcastic had the bill been slightly better or a little worse; truth, however, compels us to say the show is fair. But let's get systematic.

"Defying Destiny" is the name of the picture, and the work of Irene Rich and Monte Blue made it a very enjoyable entertainment. When the villain, however, declared on his deathbed that "I crooked Fenton's books," it sounded like something we had heard before.

Hager and Goodman put on a clever skit wherein prohibition took some nasty cracks. Incidentally this team scored the first "Mammy" song of the afternoon's program.

Miss Elizabeth Brice was easily the hit of the show. Possessing great beauty and a splendid voice, she proves herself a real artist of vaudeville.

Benny Barton's Revue is also good. It is featured by pretty girls, clever dancing, and a band with the most ungodly trombone on the stage today. Yes, I know that's a big order, but wait until you hear this trombone.

Strassel's Wonder Seal and Blanche and Jimmie Creighton complete the bill.

At the Blackstone

We saw just enough of "The Leavenworth Case" to be able to recommend it as a very fine picture. After starting with a mysterious midnight murder, the play grows really exciting until you are treated to every thrill in the book. When we had to leave, we were weak with exhaustion and the Lord knows what happened after that. When you have seen the picture drop around to the DAILY office and tell us who did kill old man Leavenworth. E. C.

What They Say

NOTRE DAME HIGH

Undoubtedly Yale and Cornell and Illinois and Michigan were exceptional teams. Notre Dame was another. Had it not been for her defeat by Nebraska it would be difficult to find reason for naming any eleven in the country as superior to the South Bend outfit. And intrinsically this writer does not believe that the country produced in the season of 1923, a more proficient football eleven in all around play. It seems as though the Indians took one trip too many when they went to Lincoln. Pullman car training may be carried too far.

Selecting football teams in groups without respect to sections no one probably would object to some such classifications as follows:

First group—Yale, Cornell, California, Illinois, Michigan, Notre Dame and Syracuse.

Second group—Dartmouth, Washington and Jefferson, Princeton, Harvard, Army, Navy, Marquette, West Virginia, Penn State, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Maryland, Vanderbilt, Lafayette, Colgate and Pennsylvania.

Third group—Florida, Williams and Pittsburgh.—Lawrence Perry in South Bend Tribune.

NEBRASKA HERE

Nebraska is to play Notre Dame

at the home of the "Irish" team next year. Although Nebraska supporters would like to see the Catholic team come here again next year, it is obviously only fair that the Huskers journey to the home of the Indiana eleven, since the last two contests between these teams have been played at the home of the Cornhuskers. Then too, we imagine that Irish fans would like to get a first-hand view of the team that has taken the measure of the pride and joy of their life for the past two years—Daily Nebraskan.

NOTRE DAME TO THE FORE

Notre Dame with victories over four inter-sectional foes, namely: Princeton, Army, Carnegie Tech and Georgia Tech, boasts the best individual record; Yale, which defeated three Southern teams, is next in order.

A sectional table of the 47 contests follows:

Section.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	P.C. for agst.	Pts.	Pts.
East	24	11	2	.681	844	308
Southwest	4	2	0	.667	91	34
Mid. West	11	10	2	.524	224	350
South	6	21	0	.222	183	614
Far West	0	1	0	.000	7	13

"twenty-four" and "A Senior" took a mean advantage of their "Seniority rights" to dominate and revile you. Now had these two clowns been endowed with as much wisdom and tact as they were with foolishness, they would have answered your question instead of making you a target for their juvenile witicism.

Before I answer your question, Jack, I want to tip you off on the muddle into which you inquire. The truth is—you touched a sore spot and the dogs snapped at you. True you should not have disturbed the animals, but at that lap dogs should have better manners.

The seniors do not carry canes because the seniors do not want to carry canes. Yes, I anticipate your question. Senior canes were voted in because of an unfortunate incident that occurred at one of the class meetings. The majority of the men who voted for canes, did so, not because they wanted to carry canes, but because of the false impression that was prevalent that the lawyers did not want the seniors to carry canes.

So please, Jack, be content to allow the cane question to drift un-

BADIN TIES SOPHS IN GRID BATTLE

Both Teams Resort to Open Game; Finch Is Outstanding Star; Large Crowd Attends.

The semi-final game of the Inter-hall league between the teams of Badin and Sophomore halls resulted in a scoreless tie on Cartier field yesterday afternoon.

With the interhall title at stake, both teams played the hardest kind of football, neither side being able to cross the other's goal line, and the final whistle found the two teams playing for the breaks in the semi-darkness.

Considering that the Badin hall eleven was off form, not having played together for several weeks and that the aggregation from Sophomore hall was playing under a similar condition, the absence of team work was partly the reason why neither team was able to score, although both elevens threatened twice. When the opportunities to score came for both Badin and Sophomore, the offense found their opponents playing desperately to stem the other's attack. The largest crowd that has ever attended an interhall game this season was present.

Seniors Sell Many N. D. Pillow Tops

The Senior concessions committee reports a very large sale of the Notre Dame pillow tops. Over three hundred orders have been received to date and many more are expected. Some of the men who were the first to order have already received their pillows, and the manufacturers are sending more this week.

Place your order with any member of the committee or with Walt Moran at Corby hall.

NOTRE DAME BAND PLAYS FOR RADIO

Radio Concert Given in Pittsburg Is Lauded; Father Walsh Heard Concert Over Radio.

"Station W. C. A. E., Pittsburg, Pa. Notre Dame band broadcasting."

Those were the words that rang into the ears of many radio fans, the evening of the Carnegie Tech game.

When the band played radio fans knew that Notre Dame not only had a football team, but also a band of which she could well be proud.

Mr. P. M. Land, radio manager of the Pittsburg Press, heard the band and realizing its merit immediately, invited the players to broadcast from the powerful station of the Press.

That the concert given by the band was appreciated is shown from cards that have been received here at the University. One of these, written from Manchester, Ind., reads: "Want to compliment you on your fine concert." Another from Bangor, Me., reads: "We enjoyed the concert rendered by the Notre Dame University Band." Father Walsh also heard the concert and immediately telegraphed his congratulations.
