UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME, NOTRE DAME, INDIANA, TUESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1923

PRICE 4 CENTS

MARK E. NOLAN IS JUDGED NOTRE DAME'S BEST ORATOR

Wins Breen Medal Over Three Opponents With "Guardian of the Constitution."

Mark E. Nolan was adjudged the winner of the Breen Medal in the Breen Oratorical Contest, held last night at 8 o'clock in Washington hall. His subject was, "The Guardian of the Constitution."

Nolan is a senior in the class of law and was one of four selected to compete last night in the finals.

It was generally conceded by the judges that Nolan merited the prize through possessing a remarkable substance and originality in his theme.

Others who spoke and their subjects were: Charles A. McAllister, "The Spirit of the Age"; Raymond M. Norris, "The Bulwark of the American Republic," and Paul T. Breen, "The Tyrant Law."

The judges were Reverend William A. Bolger, Reverend Thomas Crumley, and Professor David A. Weir.

Music was provided by the University orchestra.

Mark Nolan has, for the last four years, been well known for his powers of expression.

During the first year that he attended the University of Notre Dame, he gained recognition by winning the Freshman Oratorical Contest. In his third year he took the Junior Contest.

He competed for the Breen Medal in his sophomore year, and again in his junior year. This year he was at last successful, and won the medal.

Mr. Nolan has not only been active along oratorical lines, but has for the last two years been a prominent member of the S. A. C. He was elected a member from the law school, in his junior year, and shortly after was elected secretary of the organization by the Committee. This year he was elected as a member at large, and was chairman of a number of committees, the most prominent of which was the Student Trip Committee. Mr. Nolan also supervised the publication of the Student Directory of 1923-1924.

A. I. E. E. Has Radio Meeting

The Notre Dame branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was given a demonstration in a radio receiving set of long range by Frank Freimann and Earl Ensign of the Lyradion Manufacturing Company, of Mishawaka, at a meeting last night in the Engineers' building.

The speakers discussed and operated their set before an audience of over fifty students. After diagramming the principle of the set they tuned in on several broadcasting stations throughout the country. Vocal and violin selections were heard from South Bend, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Atlanta.

Before the demonstration a short meeting was held and future papers and lectures were discussed. A short talk on the possibilities in radio were also given. Smokes were distributed during the meeting.

Day Dodgers Give Second Smoker

The Day Dodgers held the second smoker of the year Monday evening at 8:00, in St. Joseph's hall.

Ed. Luther, president of the organization, presided at the meeting. The first number on the program was a piano solo by Victor Labetz. Mr. Labetz also accompanied the men who sang or danced.

Hempling's trio sang a number of songs, followed by Ed. Mahan, in a novelty jig dance. Dick Lightfoot gave an impersonation of one scene of the play "Emperor Jones." Jack Wallace gave an imitation of Bert Williams. Ed Luther sang a few popular songs.

Questionnaires were distributed in order to ascertain the entertaining talent and athletic ability of the Day students who were present.

Cards, soliciting subscriptions for the DAILY, were passed out by Blue Circle men, and the men were urged to sign for the paper. John Stanton, business manager of the DAILY, spoke of distribution among the Day-Dogs, and promised more regular delivery.

Mr. Lightfoot urged the men to support the vaudeville, which will be given by the Day men in about two months.

Rev. William Albertson, rector of Badin Hall, talked on the organization of the Day-Dogs.

Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, prefect of discipline, spoke on the success of the Day-Dodgers in this year's athletic activities. The members of the football team, as it was the first year that the Day men had ever gained any recognition on the football field.

"I have nothing but praise and satisfaction for the beginning the

"Life at College," the humorous cartoon book which is being sold under the auspices of the junior class, was ready for distribution early last night.

There are 32 pages of half-tone illustrations, which are accompanied by a profuse amount of modern college expression. Among the many episodes of college life featured in the book are these: "Starting College," "Classes," "Homesickness," "Campus Life," "Following the Team," "Vacation," "Fussing," "The Junior Prom," and "College Life."

The books may be obtained in Room 123 Corby hall.

THE DAILY QUESTIONNAIRE

Question asked: Who is Mr. Grundy?

Where asked: Cafeteria.

Daniel Cunningham, Journalism I, Freshman:

"I believe it is my namesake, Ray Cunningham."

Ray Aley, Commerce III, Badin:

"I think it is written by several fellows and the matter contributed by scouts, but I haven't the least idea who any one of them is."

Ted Huether, Commerce IV, Sorin:

"I absolutely haven't the least idea who Mr. Grundy is but I will say it's a good column."

Virgil Lakstetter, E.E. I, Freshman:

"I think he is the editor-in-chief of the DAILY."

Robert Pierce, Commerce III, Badin:

"Mr. Grundy is most probably Harry McGuire."

Stanley Datin, Commerce I, Day:

"Mr. Grundy, I think, is Bion Vogel, because he is a master of English."

Norbert Clancy, Commerce III, Badin:

"I have never read Conan Doyle but I deduce from 'By-Paths' that the writer is John Showel."

John A. Roth, Commerce I, Day:

"From some of the things Mr. Grundy says, it certainly must be Abner Sommer."

H. J. Cenedella, Litt.B. II, Badin:

"I believe the author of 'By-Paths' is Harry McGuire."

Fred Uhl, Commerce III, Day:

"Mr. Grundy must be John Showel and Ab Sommer working under one name."

Scribblers Book Sold Out First Night

THE SCRIBBLERS' anthology of Notre Dame verse was sold out before half the campus had been canvassed. Freshman hall was not touched; in Badin, Corby, and Sorin halls only a few books were available for distribution.

This edition of "The Scribblers' Book of Notre Dame Verse" was limited to 500 copies. There have been many demands for another and a larger edition, and if these requests are numerous enough THE SCRIBBLERS may get out a second edition.

ADAM WALSH TO LEAD '24 IRISH

Elected at Football Banquet Sunday Night; to Succeed Harvey Brown; Has Played Center Two Years.

Adam Walsh, of Hollywood, California, the man who outplayed Garbisch in the West Point game at Brooklyn, embarrassed the Princeton line beyond description, broke up the intricate attack proffered by the Golden Tornado from Georgia Tech, and fought the game of his life at Nebraska, was elected captain of the Notre Dame football team to succeed Harvey Brown for the season of 1924, at the annual football banquet tendered by the University to the members of the varsity and freshman teams.

For two years Walsh has played the pivot position on the Fighting

Irish team and by his general all-round work on defense and offense, many critics of football in the East and West have declared Walsh to be among the country's leading players.

Having been a leading participant in three major sports in Hollywood high school, where in his last year, he was captain of the football eleven, Walsh has continued

PURPLE LOOP MEN HERE TOMORROW

Northwestern's Early Season Glass Adds Interest to Game; Crowe and Ward May Start.

Notre Dame will meet the Northwestern net team in the last home game before the Christmas vacation, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. gym.

Northwestern, in retaining last year's team practically intact, has been showing exceptional early season form in initial games on their schedule against Millikins, and a professional team of Chicago. This professional outfit includes such well known players as "Chuck" Carney, Don White and other former college players who won distinction in Conference net circles.

Coach Koegan will probably start the same squad against Northwestern that began in the Armour game last Saturday. But Clem Crowe and Charlie Ward may start as a result of the splendid showing in the opening home game, when both players showed promise of great development in the next few weeks.

S. A. C. STORY LATER

The various questions that were discussed at the recent student convocation were amicably settled at a meeting of the Student Activities Committee Sunday morning. A detailed account of this meeting will be published in the next issue of the DAILY.

Bells of Christmastide

*Ring it in and ringing it on,
Bells, bells, chanting the song,
Chanting of happiness swinging along
Bells of Christmastide.*

*Down the streets with its evening throng,
Bells, bells begging your mite
While hearts and purses are none too tight,
Mendicant Christmastide.*

*Strewing their notes over campus paths,
Bells, bells, carolling high
Out of the steeple the slow hours fly,
Hours till Christmastide.*

*Scraping and chaffing through one last class,
Bells, bells, grant them release!
Now! They're off like a phalanx of geese
Off for Christmastide.*

*Luggage and waiting for trains that are late,
Bells, bells, and the moment is here.
Swinging aboard with a bump and a cheer,
Cheers for Christmastide.*

*Home quite too early and pause at the door
Bells, bells! Nobody home?
Lights, noises and here they come!
Kisses at Christmastide.*

*Christmas eve and a midnight mass,
Bells, bells that are sweet and mild,
Sanctus bells of the Savior Child,
Bells of Christmastide.*

SILVER JUBILEE IS CELEBRATED

Fr. Gallagher Honored on Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Entrance to Order.

Another member was added to the ranks of those who have spent a quarter of a century in the work of the Holy Cross order, when the Rev. Joseph Gallagher, C. S. C., superior of the Community house and teacher at the University celebrated his silver jubilee yesterday.

A telegram of congratulation from Pope Pius XI, and many other messages of friendship were received by the celebrant.

Ceremonies were inaugurated by the celebration of high mass by Father Gallagher, assisted by the Reverends John Cavanaugh and Thomas Irving, deacon and sub-deacon respectively. Music and vocal selections were provided by the choir from Moreau Seminary.

Following supper at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Community house, Father Gallagher joined in a discussion with his friends. A benediction service at 8:10 o'clock in the chapel closed the celebration.

Father Gallagher was ordained on December 17, 1898, in Baltimore, by Cardinal Gibbons. He was then sent to Notre Dame and later attended the institution maintained by the Holy Cross order in Washington, D. C. His first appointment was to St. Joseph's College, Cincinnati, Ohio, but after a short residence there he returned to St. Joseph's hall, now known as Badin hall. Later he was made assistant rector of Holy Cross Seminary, a position which he held until 1906. He was then given the position of president of Columbia University at Portland, Oregon.

On his return in 1915 to Notre Dame, he became chaplain at St. Mary's College. He assumed the post of superior of the Community house in 1920.

K. of C. Committee to Study Plans

Members of the Building Fund committee, who are working for the success of the K. of C. Social Center building, will be active during the coming holidays, according to plans arranged by that group. A study of plans of various social centers maintained by the Knights of Columbus will be made by every individual and the desirable features of each will be embodied in the design for the proposed K. of C. Social Center for the University.

The committee is composed of George Bischoff, Chairman; Ray Cunningham, secretary; Henry Barnhart, Harry A. McGuire, John Hurley, John James, Mark Nolan, Tom Lieb, Albert Sommer, Jim Egan, Thomas Hodgson and Robert Curry.

Following the Christmas holidays the committee will meet to discuss plans. After an examination the group will decide upon a drawing which will embody the most important points. The plans will then be given to an architect for consideration.

Girls Offer Help to Puzzled Shoppers

Your problem is solved! You want to get something for her for Christmas that will be pleasing and at the same time original. But you don't know what to get.

The Catholic Girls club and the Knights of Columbus are giving a bazaar over at Niles tonight and tomorrow night—and in the afternoons for that matter. The place is on the corner of Third and Main streets where the Notre Dame "limited" stops.

The young ladies will be more than pleased to assist you in buying that undetermined present. There will be entertainment, eats, and a big dance Wednesday night.

PIPE AND BOWL CLUB MEN MEET

Rev. Thomas Irving and Dr. John M. Cooney are Guests of Honor at Club's First Meeting.

With Reverend Thomas Irving, C. S. C., vice-president of the University, and Dr. John M. Cooney, dean of Journalism, as guests of honor, the first regular meeting of the newly organized supper club, Pipe and Bowl, was held Saturday night in the College Inn, Hotel La-Salle. John Brennan, chairman of the club, presided as toastmaster, and short addresses by Father Irving and Dr. Cooney stressed the importance of such an organization at the University and emphasized the part the club should play in strengthening the spirit of good-fellowship among the students.

The club is the first of its kind to be established at Notre Dame and is modeled somewhat after similar clubs at other universities. The membership will be restricted to forty men and will be composed from the four classes. Meetings in the form of a supper will be held every other Saturday night during the scholastic year and will be addressed by speakers prominent in various walks of life.

THE TURNOVER

Thoughts—"things" we usually say—will come to mind. Some knock for admittance timidly, as though fearful of a rebuff. Others simply rush in, like book agents or tax collectors, and refuse to be denied a hearing. Anyhow, why deny them? A live mind finds interest in most things, and is able to create an interest in all the rest. And interest is the gateway to learning. Wisdom waits on it. Joy comes of it. Get interested.

Usually minds select things. But occasionally the process is reversed and things select minds. And apparently they have preferences. Sometimes they seem to show favoritism. Some minds have more company than others, and company of a better class. Other minds seem to be lonely and alone. ("Empty" would be not quite accurate, for even a mind can be full of emptiness.) It may be because the former, like their owners, are better entertainers,—more genial, sociable, sweet-tempered; and the latter like,—well, a spare bed or a morgue. But we shall not attempt to say. Enough to note the fact. It is interesting; and it has its lesson.

One can turn over a stone, or a board embedded in the mud. It requires little effort, but it may reveal unexpected treasures. Diamonds are found in mud,—of the blue clay variety. Pearls are found in oysters. One may find only a worm. But even a worm has its value; it also has a message for him who is able to read it.

One can also, in a sense, turn over a thought in his mind. For thoughts have more than one side. And the brightest side isn't always seen first. The lower side usually sparkles best when brought to the light. Like Roman houses, all their beauty is on the inside, but, unlike them, the entrance to the interior is not visible to all who pass them by. It must be sought for. The heart of a thought is never pinned to its sleeve.

You may be proud of the thoughts that visit you. They may do you honor. If so, very likely, the rest of us, did we but know it, would flock to your fireside, if you have one, and seek an introduction to your guests. Of course if you have merely a local radiator and limited apartments, you might prefer to give the introduction in writing. It would be next best. Only don't be selfish. If you are, you will soon become a bore to your visitors, and they will seek other haunts.

We are making a venture. Maybe you will like it, maybe you won't. In either case, we shall neither be surprised nor disappointed. We won't be surprised if you do, because we start out by giving you credit for delighting in ideas. We won't be surprised if you don't, for it wouldn't be strange if you did not enjoy our particular brand. Others have found fault with them. We are used to it. In fact, we feel it stimulating. We certainly won't be disappointed at all, for we have everything to gain and nothing to lose.

So as things come, we shall turn them over in our mind. We shall sample them, as it were, and then, with a recommendation, send them on to you. If you like them, keep them. If you do not, just pitch them into the basket. No return postage is guaranteed.

Chicago Club Dance Tickets Are Limited

According to the latest report of the Ticket committee there will be a capacity crowd at the Chicago club Christmas Formal, to be given at the Blackstone hotel in Chicago, January 2, 1924.

Owing to the number of students who are planning to attend the dance on their way back to school, and to the number of tickets that must be sent to Chicago to take care of the alumni there, the number of tickets on the campus is very limited. It is urged that those men who desire tickets, see any of the men who make up the following committees:

Music—J. Ryan, chairman; Ray Barten, John Bower, John Bulger, and Harold Cooke.

Floor—W. Metzger, chairman; George Reuss, Art Koelle, and Art Bidwell.

Tickets—M. Gibbons, chairman; Frank Cullen, Frances McCurrie, George Daily, and Bob Carey.

Favors—E. Schwartz, chairman; Rex O'Malley, Bill Rigney, Ed. Kaveny, and Tom Nash.

Reception—W. Ryan, chairman; Joe Adler, Ed Byrnes, Bob Curry, and John Moran.

There will be a meeting of all Christmas dance committees at 6:30 tonight in the library.

Fox Is Appointed on Ball Committee

By appointment of President Don Gallagher, Jerome Fox, of Chilton, Wisconsin, a Science man, is now a member of the Music committee of the Senior Ball and will also assume the secretarial work of the Ball committee, taking the place of Lawrence O'Leary, who was forced to give up the secretaryship because of the pressure of other duties.

The publicity work of the ball has been completed, according to

Leo Cavanaugh, chairman of the Arrangements committee, and official notification will be given the local paper in the home-town of every Senior Ball committeeman, regarding his appointment.

The ball questionnaire has been compiled and distributed to the seniors. The returns have been satisfactory thus far. It is very important that these be filled out and returned, so that a proper estimate can be placed on the number who are eligible and will attend the ball.

There will be a meeting of the Advisory Board of the Ball committee, Wednesday at 12:30, in Room 110, Corby hall.

The Murmurings of An Editorial Writer Who Has Just Discovered Santa Claus

At Christmas time I'm up a tree in more ways than a man should be. I trim the thing with great delight and put on every toy and light, and never once did I yet drop, the star which goes away up top. This part I do not mind a bit; I like the fun of trimming it. It's not this way I'm up a tree—it's buying things from "he" and "thee." There's Joe and Bill and Pat,—and well, each one has something great to sell. There's Pink who sells a cartoon sketch—"finance the Prom, you wealthy wretch." Doc shows a view of the greatest team and this needs bust my budget scheme; without my door Owen stops, to cover my chairs with pillow tops. A calendar hangs upon the wall; Gene says it beautiful—but that ain't all. A book of verse all red and black contributes to the general sack; the SCRIBBLERS say its worth a dollar, and I like the cover too much to holler. And as I pack my clothes and things, and hock my watch and pins and rings, I rave and storm about such buying and wonder how I'll keep from dying. But as I ride the homeward freight, it somehow seems to me just great to sit upon my pillow top and read the verse the SCRIBBLERS pop, and then smile and chuckle and chortle with glee—It there a Santa Claus? Sure, it's me.

THE JUGGLER'S CHRISTMAS JEER

"The Juggler believes that he has too long condoned the day-to-day mouthings of his contemporary's official clown"
 The Juggler has spoken. The Juggler, sole administrator of Notre Dame wit—The Juggler, arbiter of all our disputes, judge of all our actions, vilifier of those who prefer truth to cleverness—The Juggler, which sets such a high standard for its columns that back in 1921 it was quoted in Judge—this same Juggler has pronounced the final decision upon the DAILY and upon one of its columns.

This column does not need the approval of Notre Dame's sophisticates. It is unfortunate for the sophisticates that, having got their mouths into the pie of Notre Dame humor, they feed on the crust alone. Such feeding, intellectuals, is more apt to widen your cute ears than bulge your bright foreheads. Nor should you become green with envy if someone finds a raisin in the pie of humor and fails to offer the morsel to your crusty lips.

It happens that the DAILY is beginning a new column in today's issue. "By-Paths" has been running two columns until the new column got under way. "By-Paths" will now resume its former space of one column, conceding its place upon the editorial page to the newcomer. Let the intellectuals of The Juggler sneer knowingly—sneering is about the best thing they do. And it is common knowledge that a lunatic is allowed to believe himself Napoleon as long as he stays in his padded cell.

Criminals on trial have been known to accuse someone else of their own crimes. Poor Juggler! Its once-bright reputation having grown shadier and shadier, it resorts to a blah-blah attack which it hopes will shield its own defects.

True, "By-Paths" cannot be the result of long thought and careful selection. But while it is faulty in some respects, its faults loom like monstrous virtues when compared with The Juggler. At least Mr. Grundy is not sacrificing the confidence and good-will of the student body in order to fill his pockets with gold. He would rather be confidential than commercial, peppy rather than penurious. At least Mr. Grundy is not exploiting Notre Dame's humor as a commercial proposition. At least Mr. Grundy does not shield his favors from all but the clique of a certain city. And last, but not least, Mr. Grundy rose to be Mr. Grundy because he worked himself up as an editor. Mr. Grundy is not an advertising man who became editor-in-chief of his column because he was the most successful miser on an avaricious business staff. Mr. Grundy knows the difference between an adverb and a pronoun; and, editor-in-chief of his column, he does not squeeze the title and the gold to his breast and then hire a managing editor to be the true editor-in-chief.

We apologize to our readers. This space was reserved for a few words of good cheer, but instead the jolly Christmas spirit of The Juggler prodded from our lips some hard truth.

FATHER JOSEPH GALLAGHER, C. S. C.

The modest—almost secret—tribute paid by his Community to Father Joseph Gallagher, C.S.C., yesterday suggested much to the discerning observer. It marked the close of twenty-five years of earnest, effective, kindly work in the priesthood—as rector of old St. Joseph's Hall, as a teacher at Notre Dame, as a trainer of priests, resident of Columbia, Oregon, as a Sisters' chaplain and, now, as Superior of the Community House, Notre Dame. Varied enough was the labor and always singularly blest with success. But what was most observed in the Jubilee festivities was the universal love he has inspired among his life-long associates. As a Superior of the Seminary in the "old days" he had much to do with the formation of the men who are now conducting the destinies of the University. Much of their most valuable training they received from him. That in itself would be a great life-work—to be the maker of the makers of Notre Dame.

"The man who advertises that he is a Notre Dame man, by wearing monograms on his sheepskin," says the S. A. C. chairman, "is not a Notre Dame man."

Read the advertisements in THE DAILY before you do your Christmas shopping; then patronize the merchants who patronize THE DAILY.

Men may come and men may go; but the Notre Dame pools will be about forever.

CAMPUS BY-PATHS

I got three letters yesterday. I was so surprised that I almost marked them "Not at this address." One was an invitation saying "Dilly, Dilly, come out and be killed"; one was from Andy Sleigh requesting me to inform a curious world that he will say it with dynamite.

The third was from my grandfather, Noah Grundy, who lives at Pine Centre, Missouri. He says, "My dear Grandson,

You have been remiss in your duty, Ebenezer. You have told the boys how many more days there are until the holidays, but you haven't wished them a merry Christmas. I am ashamed to think that Hosea Grundy's boy would be so forgetful. Attend to this at once. Remember me to Jake Purcell.

I will meet you at the station with the family surrey, but if you forget to wish everybody a merry Christmas you needn't expect to have a warm welcome.

Your loving Grandpa Grundy.

I do. I wish everybody a merry Christmas—a merry Christmas to all those whose names have appeared in the column, to all those whose names have not appeared, to all those whose names are going to appear, and to all those who were angry when they made the column as well as those who pretended to be mad.

Merry Christmas to the faculty. Too bad they don't know who I am. I ought to rate a drag on that kindly sentiment.

It is funny how little there is to write today. Everyone is on good behavior. Is it possible that it is because Santa Claus is coming next week? Unless things take a turn for the worse, I am going to have a terrible time.

Funny how ambitious that Dome staff gets sometimes. Saturday, the spick and span condition of their office did them credit. Red Kane proved to be an expert with the broom; Pete, the best lineman at Notre Dame, lent a helping hand; John Bartley's efforts were noble, and the editor-in-chief was so busy that he reminded the scout of a juggler with thirteen plates in the air at one time.

When the feverish activity was over, Bartley retired to his room to recuperate, but returned in time to be asked if he kept horses in Corby.

At College Inn Saturday night the scout called the roll and the following responded: Tom Walsh, two DeGurses, Bill Furey, Harold O'Brien, Charlie Butterworth, and Jack Adams.

Jim Hayes, smooth and pleasant of manner, urbane and suave, was there.

I hereby declare that Jack Scallan, Walt Moran and Paul Craden are deserving of censure. At the 8:30 mass on Sunday they took up the collection and missed the middle aisle entirely. It won't do at all.

It won't do at all. Jim Swift is rather disgusted. He had his usual $5 ready and he couldn't put it in the plate. I was there but they got the aisle that I was sitting in.

Some one stuffed the ballot box in our touch football contest and no results can be given out until after Christmas. Suffice it to say that Ed Luther and Jerry Holland are now running neck and neck. I stayed up until 2:30 last night and got the vote figured out to the fifth decimal and then collapsed. From now on, all computations will be made by members of the accounting class.

Before I forget it—Vernon Rickard has been accused of writing this column because he has been getting so much publicity. He is not guilty.

Did you ever hear Rick sing "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes"? It is a foolish sentiment, but he sings it well.

And last week at Mishawaka. My dear, you should have seen him! I don't wonder that he gets letters in plaid envelopes.

His room after mail time looks like a branch post office.

Has anyone seen Walter Stapleton lately? Stapleton of the Stapleton, Glynn, McKenna, Kerwin Co.? The activities of Walter should be a fertile field and his roommate should be a good source of information. But his roommate is incorruptible. Jack Roach should be able to divulge a good deal because he used to live with him, but he is incorruptible, too.

Their activities remind me of the old song "Where Did Robinson Crusoe Go With His Man Friday on Saturday Night?"

Rube Momsen is looking forward to an unusually large and interesting Christmas mail. Rube has two songs in his repertory, "How Can I Bear to Leave Thee," and "Linger A While."

I just got a telegram from Grandpa Grundy. It cost him $6.40 to send it.

"Ebenezer Grundy, Notre Dame, Indiana, Come home at once. Your cousin, Araminta, just arrived. Shadrach is coming from Peters' Corners. We can't find the key to the (deleted). Don't wish anybody a merry Christmas unless we can find it or unless you have it with you. Noah Grundy."

I have the key.

Merry Christmas.

HOLIDAY CLUB ACTIVITIES

Sectional clubs of Notre Dame are planning entertainments over the holidays. The clubs have made elaborate plans for the success of their affairs and anticipate a successful holiday season.

The Metropolitan Club

The Metropolitan club will hold an informal dance at the Astor hotel on December 27. Cohen's Collegiate orchestra, one of the best known bands in New York, has been engaged to play at the affair.

The Chicago Club

On January 2, the Chicago club will hold a formal dance at the Blackstone hotel. Benson's orchestra has been engaged.

The Kentucky Club

A formal dance will be held by the Kentucky club at the Brown hotel in Louisville, on January 2. Gorman's orchestra will furnish the music.

The Cleveland Club

The Cleveland club is giving two dances during the vacation. One will be a formal dinner dance at the University club on January 2. This will be for Notre Dame men and a few of their friends. The other dance will be held in Wade Park Manor and will be informal.

The Grand Rapids Club

The Annual Christmas dance of the Grand Rapids club will be held in the Hotel Pentland on December 27.

The Toledo Club

The dance of the Toledo club will be held at the Woman's Club building on January 2. The dance is formal and is the first of four to be given during the year.

The Pacific Coast Club

The Pacific Coast club will give a formal "Pow Pow" at the College Inn, South Bend, on December 27.

The Rochester Club

Football will be the feature of the dance to be held by the Rochester club on December 28. The affair will be informal.

Fort Wayne Club

A banquet for members of the Fort Wayne club and the alumni of that city will be held on the evening of December 27, at the Anthony hotel, Fort Wayne. Several prominent speakers have been secured.

LaSalle County Club

Bob Bradley's orchestra of Chicago will play for the LaSalle County club's informal dance, which will be held at the Knights of Columbus club in Ottawa, Ill., December 25.

Day Dodgers Smoker

The speaker of the evening, Rev. T. P. Irving, vice-president of the University, spoke on the organization of the Day-Dogs.

The program was completed with a vocal solo by Pete La Cava, entitled, "Indiana Moon." Cider, smokes, and doughnuts were served.

Walsh Hall Honors

Grid Men at Smoker

Honoring Captain Harvey Brown and the members of the football team, Walsh hall held its first smoker of the year Monday night in the Knights of Columbus council chambers. The smoker was fitting tribute to the varsity from the men of Walsh.

Bob Curry, chairman of the entertainment committee of the hall, presided, and after a brief introduction, Father Haggerty, rector of the hall, welcomed the members of the team to Walsh. Captain Brown, Bob Reagan, Adam Walsh, and Chuck Collins responded, and were followed in short talks by Captain Stanhope, of the Walsh football team, Tom Lieb, Gov Walsh, and Frank Milbauer. Fathers O'Hara and Kelley, of Walsh, and Father Catapange, of Sorin, addressed the meeting in short talks, following which Reverend Matthew Walsh, C. S. C., president of the University, gave the main address of the evening.

There was no lack of entertainment, Frank McDermott entertaining with his dancing act, Arthur Bidwell hailing the crowd from the platform in front of the side show, and Joe Murray and his orchestra playing at their best. Songs by Vernon Rickard, Thomas O'Connor and George Kock, with Joe Cassanta at the piano, scored heavily. Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee, ice cream and cake, and smokes completed the evening.

The efforts of the committee, Bob Curry, Paul Martin, Mike Murray, and George Ward, are largely responsible for the success of the smoker.

Editor NOTRE DAME DAILY:
Sunday night The Scribblers presented its first great effort—a book of Notre Dame verse.

The club members canvassed the campus, selling the book for one dollar. Monday noon they sold out! It was a fine tribute to a fine book. Certainly they appreciated it. Their efforts have not gone unrewarded—they have been spurred to greater achievement.

Monday night the finals of the Breen Oratorical Contest were held in Washington Hall. Four excellent speakers, who had worked untiringly for weeks in arranging their speech, in rehearsals and preliminaries, gave splendid talks. Their subjects were well-chosen and they handled them in masterly fashion. But to their embarrassment, only 64 persons came to the contest, five of them being monogram men. It indeed must be disheartening to work on something for so long and then find such an unresponsive student body.

The contest was free. The Scribblers' book cost a dollar. That may be the reason for the comparative differences of enthusiasm.

This showing was a poor tribute to a fine contest. I wonder if those men appreciated it. Have their efforts been rewarded—have they been spurred to greater achievement?

Rockne Is Interviewed by Daily Man; He Advances Some Real Dope on Season

"All-American teams are nothing but guess-work and the tendency in picking them seems to be to single out the most spectacular of all of the season's players and give them the envied positions on the picked teams."

That is Knute Rockne's opinion on the all-something or other teams that are being picked at this time of the year. "Notre Dame had many players that would be just as competent as those picked to carry the honor of the title of All-American," asserts the coach. "But to pick one of the Irish players and single him out as better than the rest would be impossible, due to the fact that every man on the team plays only as well as the rest of the men."

Mallory, in his opinion, was the outstanding player of the East for the past season, due to the fact that he did most of the tackling and provided all of the interference for the Yale team. The West had no outstanding player this year. He continued: "Grange was picked for his ability to carry the ball and that was all. He was nothing but a ball carrier and his work on the defense was nothing extra. All-American teams are not representative, due to the fact that the men who are picked would not, in all probability, be able to play the game that they are capable of if were not for their teammates with whom they had been trained. A team that material way this year except for has been playing together all season could no doubt beat a team of picked men. Team work is the greatest essential in playing football as it is played today.

"Football has not changed in any the fact that more teams have come around to the Notre Dame style of play. By that I mean that the play has been more open and the forward pass has been used to greater advantage than ever before.

"Our chances for next year are fairly good and we should have as good a team for 1924 as we had this season. We are losing some good men, but with the material that we have back and the group of promising freshmen that were developed on the first year squad, our team will be in all ways representative of the teams that Notre Dame has turned out in the past. We have lost fewer men this year than in the years past and the very fact that we have experienced men back insures us a good team."

Rockne's optimistic attitude in regard to next year's team will make the student body look forward to the 1924 season with keen anticipation, for whatever "Rock" says is good enough to rely upon as fact.

Christmas Recalls Great Bell's History

As another season of cheer draws near, to the accompaniment of ringing bells, it is fitting that we spend a few moments in a review of the history of our own—the Notre-Dame bell.

And may we introduce our subject with the following paragraph, taken from an early issue of "The Scholastic Year": "This fine bell with his rich volume of sound has a national reputation, being the largest in the United States and one of the largest in the world."

In 1866 the bell which now hangs in Sacred Heart Church was cast in Le Mons, France, by the famous Mons. Bollee. For that day and age it was an extraordinary piece of work, weighing over eight tons, 7 feet in height and 22 feet in circumference. It excited interest and comment in all Europe.

When it arrived in the United States, the bell and Notre Dame were given national publicity. In fact, it was through the bell that Notre Dame first gained country-wide prominence.

For eight years after the bell's arrival at Notre Dame it hung in a temporary tower swinging on great oak timbers. At that time it formed a topic of general interest to the community. Its size, its tone and its cost, $7,889, were topics discussed as eagerly by each student as the football record is today.

In 1875 the bell was moved to the place it now occupies. Since that time the bell has been clearly heard 27 miles to the west and 24 miles to the east.

Frank Thomas and Rodge Kiley Here

We have in our midst today two famous alumni of Notre Dame, Frank "Rat" Thomas and Roger "Rodge" Kiley, who have returned to the University for a short visit before returning to their schools to take up basketball.

Frank Thomas is the assistant coach at the University of Georgia, where he had a very successful season, his team winning five games, losing two and tying one. The gridders at Loyola College in Chicago realize the fact that they have a coach extraordinary in "Rodge" Kiley. He was given a gold watch by his men at the end of this season. Kiley, who is under a three-year contract, will return to Chicago in a few days. Loyola has great prospects for next year, as all of the first team men of this year will report for spring practice. Kiley's team won seven games and lost two last fall. On Thanksgiving Day it defeated St. Ambrose, a team coached by "Fod" Cotton, a former star tackle at Notre Dame, by the score of 6 to 0.

Rockne Issues Call for Track Candidates

Coach Rockne issues an urgent call for track candidates for the coming season. During the past year Notre Dame has lost many of her valuable track men, and it will be necessary for every man who has track ability to answer this call, if Notre Dame is to keep track on the same level with its other major sports.

Diligent and strenuous training is essential, and for this reason, only those men who are willing to work arduously and regularly need become candidates.

Rockne urges that all of the present track men keep in training as much as possible during the holidays, so that they will be in condition to start heavy work as soon as they return.

With the last touches given the 1923 football season by the appearance of the mythical honor team, consideration reverts from the exploits of the varsity teams to the brilliant work performed in the interhall football ranks during the season just closed.

The past season has been acclaimed the most successful season ever recorded in hall athletics. Perhaps the outstanding feature that made Interhall so successful was the supervision under which the games were conducted. To Martin "Bruff" Cleary goes the credit for the success enjoyed by the Interhall league this fall.

Through the work of Cleary, the games were all supervised and refereed strictly in accordance with rules, and the results obtained from his work were the better for his having directed them.

In accordance with past customs of choosing a representative All-Interhall team at the close of the season as a reward for the men who have participated with credit in the games in the league, the DAILY this year publishes the selection of an All-Hall team. The

Captain-Elect Is Interviewed; Would Rather Work Math Than Talk Football

When Adam Walsh was elected 1924 football captain, he became more modest and unassuming than ever. He simply gave his teammates what he had to say to Notre Dame, that he would do his best to guide its team through an undefeated season. And that, from Adam Walsh, bespeaks volumes.

Adam preferred not to talk of the schedule next year, some calculus problems demanded attention. For Walsh is a mechanical engineer of the class of 1925, and reticent about expressing an opinion.

He was one of the greatest athletes that ever left Hollywood (California) high school, winning monograms in football, basketball, and baseball. Coming to Notre Dame, he first won recognition in his freshman year in football. Last spring he won his monogram in track, for the hurdles.

It is needless to comment upon the gridiron aggressiveness, the consistent playing, and the "football sense" of Adam Walsh. These were the qualities fittingly recognized in his selection as football leader. Being "up and at 'em" every minute he is in the game makes for the sort of stuff expected in a Notre Dame captain.

The likeable personality of Walsh has made him as popular with the whole student body as it did with his closer associates, his teammates. Notre Dame has confidence in her big center and finds her new football captain most satisfactory. Notre Dame's wonder team of next year will be guided by capable hands—and a blonde head.

If you "wonder what a newly elected football captain thinks about" try the personal acquaintance method; the DAILY could not elaborate upon his modest "I have nothing to say." And it refuses to fake a "sand lot" football story. "Congratulations, Adam!"

men were awarded their positions in accordance with the number of votes they were given.

Although there were no unanimous selections, the cases of many players paralleled the situation in the varsity football ranks, in which great difficulty presented itself in selecting the men best fitted for the positions. Particularly was this true in the backfield where Mouch of Badin, Reidy of Brownson, and Nyikos of the Dodgers constituted a near deadlock, the trio having been the best backfield performers in the Interhall league.

The line is composed of a pair of fast ends whose defensive and offensive work has been a revelation all fall. The tackles are filled with two men, one of the heavy, rugged type and the other of the fast, agile brand; both men displaying ultra-aggressiveness. Similar remarks can be applied to the guard positions, which are filled by two of the most capable men in the Interhall ranks. Stanhope at center, who has also played three years of hall football, acquired his position by virtue of his all-around value to his team. His work in the pivot position was the mainstay of the Walsh team and his only competitor was Haecker of Badin, who was awarded the guard because of his brilliant playing qualities in every game.

used his athletic performances since coming to Notre Dame; he has won a monogram in track as well as football, and according to all indications will be in line for a monogram at the end of the basket ball season.

Walsh's participation in athletics during his freshman year at the University, which included football, basket ball, track and baseball, stamped him as Notre Dame's all-around athlete, and considering his 190 pounds of brawn, his speed and agility, was a revelation to the student body.

Adam Walsh was elected captain from a group of 17 monogram football men who were eligible for the office, and with the nucleus of the wonder freshman team of 1921 to work with next year, Walsh's only comment after his election was that he would do his best to help the team to complete an undefeated season.

Visit the Lytton College Shop When You Pass Through Chicago

IN a comparatively short time, the Lytton College Shop has convinced College Men of its ability to lead in individuality and economy.

Burchfield has met the majority of you. He is holding open house during Christmas vacation in the shop. Old friends and new will be most welcome. Make it your down town headquarters.
