Humphrey: Nixon a Liar

WILKES BARRE, Pa. (UPI)—Hubert H. Humphrey, barnstorming through vote-rich Pennsylvania, called Richard M. Nixon a liar yesterday and warned the nation it can trust neither the GOP candidate nor George C. Wallace.

In stops in Erie, Wilkes Barre and Scranton, Humphrey flayed Nixon and Wallace—attacking his opponents with equal enthusiasm and vigor—and drew repeated ovations from large and generally friendly crowds.

In bright sunlight at an outdoor rally in Erie, an estimated 10,000 persons turned out to hear Humphrey and a crowd of about 7,000 jammed the city square in the cloudy dusk at Wilkes Barre.

Supreme Court Fights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court opened a new term yesterday with a vigorous give and take argument sparked by Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justice Abe Fortas over one of the court's loudest critics, George C. Wallace.

The nine justices stepped into the 1968 political picture on the first day — traditionally reserved for brief formalities — by hearing Wallace's appeal to have his name on the Ohio ballot for the Nov. 5 election as the presidential candidate of the American Independent Party.

Warren, whose hopes to retire were foiled by the Senate's refusal to confirm Fortas as his successor, smilingly took his customary seat for his 6th term. There were no allusions to the bitter Senate battle over Fortas and the Warren court in recent weeks.

Gallup Holds Hope for HHH

WASHINGTON (UPI) Pollster George Gallup, who incorrectly predicted that Thomas E. Dewey would win the 1948 presidential election, said yesterday it was still possible for Hubert H. Humphrey to "pull a Harry S. Truman" if he could win back dissident Democrats.

Addressing the annual United Press International Editors and Publishers Conference, Gallup said the 1968 campaign bears striking resemblance to the presidential race 20 years ago when Truman, far behind in the polls as the Democratic presidential nominee, forged ahead to beat Republican Dewey.

Reservists' Appeal Falls

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court cleared the way yesterday for the transfer to Vietnam of 256 Army reservists who had protested they were called to active duty illegally.

Justice William O. Douglas had granted stays of the reservists' transfer orders until the full court decided to uphold or cancel the stay. The court on the first day of its new term ruled against Douglas' preliminary action in a one sentence order.

The reservists may still pursue their appeals of lower court decisions to the Supreme Court, but they now are subject to immediate transfer to Vietnam.

U.S. Troops Hunt VC

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. and South Vietnamese troops who lifted the siege of the Thuong Duc Green Beret camp swarmed through jungle valleys and hills near Da Nang Monday in search of North Vietnamese regulars believed regrouping for a new series of attacks. "The enemy's long term goal is to knock out Da Nang," said Col. H.L. Bennington of Alexandria, Va. "He'll return to replace his lost forces and supplies as soon as he gets the chance."

Allied forces under Bennington's command liberated five villages around Thuong Duc from North Vietnamese invaders and at least temporarily shattered the threat to the strategic outpost 25 miles southwest of DaNang, South Vietnam's second largest

Catholic-Police Riot In Thrid Day

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Riot police yesterday fought stone throwing youths in the third straight night of violent protest by minority Catholics against the Protestant city government. Prime Minister Harold Wilson summoned Premier Terence O'Neill to London and ordered an investigation of the crisis.

Police moved a water cannon into position around the predominantly Catholic residential district outside the ancient walls of the city and questioned youths at checkpoints guarding the area. They barricaded Protestant Mayor William Beatty's Guild Hall in downtown Londonderry.

At least 96 persons have been injured since Saturday when police broke up a Catholic parade intended to protest alleged discrimination in the allocation of jobs and housing.

The 1968-69 Student Senate in full blossom of rhetoric.

Petition Sent to Committee

Unable to get a Senator to present its petitions to the Senate, the organizers of the "Rossie Recall" drive themselves presented their forms at a Senate meeting last night. On suggestion of Breen-Phillips Senator Richard Hunter, the Senate immediately set up an eight-man committee to consider validity of the petitions. The Senate then passed a resolution formally endorsing the actions of Student Body President Richard Rossie.

Dave Rackiewicz spoke for the petitioners as he faced the Senate in front of Rossie and said, "On behalf of 1600 students I present a petition for the recall of the Student Body President." Stay Senator Mike Kendall, on his feet immediately, read a challenge on behalf of himself and Tom Payne to debate the petitioners, stating in part, "It is, in our judgement, incumbent upon you to defend your charges in public debate. This is an obligation to the students of Notre Dame.... Thus we challenge you to defend in public debate, at time and place of your convenience, the statements you have made." Rackiewicz left without commenting on the challenge as members of the Senate applauded Kendall for more than 20 seconds. The petitioners' representative, later issued a statement saying, "as soon as the petition was presented the committee dissolved and we're all equal. They should have asked to debate one of us separately instead of posting signs challenging us to debate." The challenges were originally posted mentioning names in the petition movement Friday in Lyons Hall and repeated at Monday's Senate meeting.

With Kendall's statement complete, Breen-Phillips' Hunter immediately proposed the committee to consider validity. Under the terms of Hunter's committee, which immediately passed the Senate by consensus, the group will meet and report to the Senate on validity within one week. Student Body President Rossie said the committee would first consider validity but, if the petitions are found valid, consider election procedures. The committee will be chaired by a non-voting non-member of the Senate, Young Republicans President Mike Kelly.

SLC Election Method

Student Body President Richard Rossie declared he would convene the Student Senate every night this week until they had determined a suitable election method for the student members of the Student Life Council. He achieved his goal last night after four hours of discussion and debate by the Senate.

The stipulations on nominating petitions are complicated, but were deemed necessary in order that each candidate represent a large portion of the university, rather than a small power force from one hall. Each candidate for the SLC must attain 250 signatures on his nominating petition. Of these signatures, not more than fifty may be from his own hall and the remainder must be spread over five different halls, with at least 15 signees from each of these halls. Off-campus candidates may not have over 100 signatures from O.C. students; the rest being obtained from on-campus.

Candidates must have been in residency at the university for at least two semesters; thus, eliminating freshmen. Candidates must run as individuals and not on multi-candidate slates.

It was also decided, despite debate from Holy Cross Senator Mike Mead, that Senators, cabinet officials, Student Union Officials, Hall Presidents, and Class Officers would have to relinquish their positions if they were elected to the SLC.

The question of recall of the elected SLC members drew a good deal of debate over the decision of whether or not to include freshmen in the procedures. Stay Senator Mike Kendall and Stanford Senator Tom Thrasher spoke in favor of allowing the freshmen full participation in any elective or recall process. Mike Shaughnessy, Senator from Dillon and also Chairman of the Freshman Action Committee, led the objections to including the freshmen. He said, "The Rossie recall motion shows how easily the freshman can be misled."

Shaughnessy's motion carried and as it stands at present, freshmen will be allowed to vote in the SLC elections this fall and also vote in any re-election resulting from a recall petition. They will not, however, be allowed to sign a recall petition until they have reached second semester status.

Nominations petitions may be picked up at the Amphitheatre of the Student Center on Wednesday night at 7:30. Elections of the SLC members will be on Thursday, October 17.

Not Enough Girls and No Place To Go

It's undoubtedly true that at least one of Notre Dame's major problems is its social atmosphere. That problem has several sides and the blame can be spread around liberally. The students who always gripe but never get out of their seats and make some effort to get girls deserve some. The Administration, with its lackadaisical attitude to the problem, also comes in for some.

Whoever is responsible, and to whatever degree, the astounding thing is the lack of any practical plans presented by anyone to get at the basic reasons for the problem: 1. not enough girls and 2. few good places to spend time with them.

The cluster college concept and co-ex classes are both good ideas that will alleviate the first problem significantly in the long run. But what about now? Why hasn't anybody come up with shortterm solutions to "tide us over" for the time before the basic problem is solved?

In checking around I got some good ideas from a variety of sources. Maybe they've been raised before, but I haven't heard them, and I doubt that many others have either. The first one is the formalizing of a lot more "weekends." They'd be less important than homecoming, but a girl in a Chicago school could come down to ND for more than a party at the Laurel Club. There could be a theme of some sort—like the Grand Prix of the Social Commission, but somewhat smaller. In some way they could resemble the An Tostal weekend sponsored by the Hall Presidents' Council.

Having something definite for girls would be a start. Then they must be provided with cheap or free transportation and rooms. What about giving the old Faculty Lounge to the Social Commission for use as a hotel for incoming girls? It's big enough to hold a good number, and is far enough away from men's dorms to be relatively "safe."

If something like this is worked out, girls would start coming more often because they would know that something was happening and that arrangements were easily available.

As far as the problem of providing nice places to spend time, there are several answers. Professor Houck's idea for a "downtown" in the fieldhouse area is an example. As previously mentioned the old Faculty Lounge could be made available for something. The Student Center right now is not at all a student center? It's no more than a very spacious morgue. Why not use parts of it to provide something-less-than-mammoth mixers? Why not redecorate it and provide smaller areas for entertaining girls? For that matter, why not let girls decorate it—they know what they want.

None of these ideas is really that new or great, but if you complain and then don't offer anything yourselves, you're just a typical griper: all talk and no brains. How many people have done any thinking at all on diversified, concrete proposals for changing the place? The only idea heard with any consistency is the demand for beer on campus, which the Administration can't very well OK in the face of state law.

Students can get burned up on all sorts of issues and principles, they can recall, they can just sit and complain. But if they really want to participate, let them remember that they can already—but the Social Commission and the offices aren't exactly chock full of your ideas for improving ND's social atmosphere. How about some imaginative, practical proposals?

Free U. Doubles

There will be 35 courses offered in this fall's Free University, nearly doubling the total available last fall.

Some of the courses are Student Power with Richard Rossie as instructor, Black Culture taught by Don Wycliff, Yoga with Dr. Digiovanni teaching and Feminine Sexuality taught by Mrs. Dorothy Ranaghan.

Other courses in the Free U. include Wine Tasting, Black Satire, Prayer, North Indian Music, Introduction to Opera and many others.

Students may register at 4 pm today in the Library Lobby. For further information call Rick Libowitz at 283-3203 or Maryanne Wolf at 284-4053

Counseling Moves

The student Counseling Center has recently been re-located in room 315 of the Administration Building. Heading the service again this year are Associate Professor Sheridan McCabe and Rev. Joseph Simons CSC.

Two new members have also been added to the staff this year: Rev. Daniel Boland CSC and Assistant Professor Thomas Whitman of the psychology dept. Both Boland and Whitman have accredited Ph'ds in psychology.

The center will be open for counseling from 8:00-5:00 Mon. through Fri.

Will whoever took a sculpture from the Sorrowful Mystery Coffeehouse at Saint Mary's please return it.

Two kinds of men make good CPAs.

1. Guys who like to have a boss.
2. Guys who like to be the boss.

If he wants to, a CPA can join almost any kind of business. Or a large accounting firm. Then he'll have a boss.

Or he can start his own practice and work for himself. Then he'll be the boss.

Or he can form a partnership with other CPAs. That way he'll be one of the bosses.

You can select courses that will help you earn your CPA certification soon after college graduation. Or you can do graduate work. Ask your faculty advisor about it.

You may wonder if you have the right temperament. Being able to work with all kinds of people helps. So does an ability to analyze and solve diverse problems. (A CPA's work these days is seldom routine.) And you should be the kind of person in whom people can put their trust and confidence.

Study on Student Relations

The Notre Dame Student Government Academic Commission, under the leadership of John Hickey, has established a curriculum study to evaluate the place of the University in society and the role of the student in relation to that University.

The study, suggested by Father Hesburgh last April, will concern itself solely with the student viewpoint of the University's function, Hickey said. "We have been operating under the same curriculum for the past 16 years. It is certainly time for a re-evaluation—not only of the courses that we take, but of the departments and the colleges that these courses come under."

Hickey said that the study has been organized and run entirely by students from the Academic Commission. These students form the nucleus of a 400-man organization, co-ordinated by Larry Landry, which will work in conjunction with the Social Science Training laboratory in formulating the questionnaires to be distributed to the student body. The budget for the proposed study is estimated at somewhere close to $12,000. This money, which included an initial publishing cost of $4,000, will come from Student Government.

The Curriculum study group is under the jurisdiction of the Academic Commission, which also sponsors the Free University and The Student Course and Teacher Evaluation. It is composed of an Academic Council which oversees the work of the Student College Councils and the departmental committees. Students at the head of each of these interdepartmental groups are responsible for the evaluation of courses and teachers to be included in a preliminary report, to be submitted at the end of December.

The questionnaire, Hickey said, will be based on the concept of motivation in basic statistical data. Hickey was unable to give any information on the specific questions included; but he did say that they would all be related to each other. He said that they would deal primarily with the value of the present departmental structure of the University, grades, labs, and would pay special attention to the value of philosophy and theology in the curriculum.

Hickey said that the immediate goal of the committee is to educate the student body to the process of the study. To accomplish this, teams of speakers, consisting a cabinet member and a member of the academic commission will be dispatched to all the dorms on campus. There they will explain the functions and goals of the study and solicit student reaction to the proposal. "Our biggest problem at this time is a lack of communication with the student body. We have to establish a dialogue with the students and the faculty in order for this to be a success." With a December deadline this kind of communication is imperative.

The Commission hopes that results of the study will be used in the formulation of new Academic policies on the campus. "After this study has been submitted to the University, we would hope that our voice would be listened to" Hickey said. "At least we will find out exactly where we stand in relation to the University."

YAF Retains Name

Notre Dame's recently reorganized chapter of the Young Americans for Freedom held its second meeting of the year last night for the purposes of ratifying the local organization's constitution and platform presentation. However, the meeting immediately bogged down on the first article, after a presentation of the entire constitution by the constitutional committee.

The article, as first presented, proposed that the organization be known as the Moderate Student Party or MSP. This proposal brought mixed reaction from the floor. Several students favored the proposed name and a complete disassociation from national YAF. One member then suggested establishment of two separate organizations, one being a chapter of the nationally affiliated YAF and the other being a student party. After a lively half-hour discussion, the Americans for Freedom of the University of Notre Dame was tentatively accepted, mainly because of its well-known national identity, and the proposed name's similarity to an already existing campus political party.

Banks Gets Close

DETROIT (UPI) — The ball player having the most fun at this World Series isn't even in it.

He's wearing an amazed look about the whole thing because this is as close as he's ever been to a World Series during his 15 major league seasons; wearing press credentials on his left lapel because he's doing daily telephone interviews for a Chicago radio station, and a perpetual smile on his face because 37-year-old Ernie Banks loves the whole world and doesn't care who knows it.

"I never had so much fun in my life," he said Thursday waiting in the recesses of Busch Memorial Stadium along with more than 100 others from the various news media for the game between the Tigers and Cardinals to finish so he could go do his work.

"What do you think of that Mickey Stanley at shortstop?" someone asked the Cubs' ex-shortstop about Detroit's converted center fielder.

"Magnificent," said Ernie Banks. "That double play he made on Shannon was tremendous. It was a big play, too. If he doesn't make it, that could've been trouble for Detroit. Big trouble."

Willie Horton, pitcher Mickey Lolich and Norm Cash all hit home runs for the Tigers in Thursday's second game at St. Louis but Ernie Banks didn't get overly excited about the blows.

He has seen a home run before. He has hit a few himself. Four hundred and seventy four to be exact. What he did get excited about was the way Mickey Stanley, ordinarily a center fielder, played a new position, shortstop, which is Ernie Banks' old position. He broke in at shortstop for the Cubs and played there eight years. He has been playing first base for them the last seven.

"When you move away from your old position you kinda watch the guy playing your old position," said Banks. "I talked to Pee Wee Reese about that the other day and he said the same thing. I still consider shortstop my position. I know I'm playing first base now but that first position is the one you always associate yourself with. That's why I'm so interested in Mickey Stanley. Isn't he something?"

Ernie Banks, who never pushes himself, in baseball or out, was standing in the back of this huge room as he spoke so he couldn't readily see the ballgame on the TV set in the front part of the room.

The game between the Tigers and Cardinals now was in the ninth inning and announcer Curt Gowdy mentioned the fact this was Al Kaline's first World Series in 16 years.

Then he talked about some of the great players who has never played in a World Series. Men like Ted Lyons, Luke Appling, Harry Heilmann, and so on until he got down to some of the current ones like Larry Jackson, Rocky Colavito and Ernie Banks.

"Did you hear your name mentioned on TV, Ernie?" one of the newsmen asked him.

"I thought I did," he said, "but I didn't hear why they mentioned it."

"They were talking about the players who have been around awhile and have never been in a World Series."

"Oh, I see," said Banks. "It's okay, though. I'm gonna be in one next year."

"You really think the Cubs are gonna win?"

"Sure I do."

"What if they don't?"

"Well, then I hope to get into a World Series with them maybe as a coach," said Ernie Banks with that big happy smile of his.

Now the game was over and Ernie Banks queued up with all the others outside the Detroit clubhouse waiting for word that the press could go inside.

When the word came, Banks moved inside along with the rest but didn't press around Mickey Lolich, Norm Cash or Mickey Stanley as the majority of the others did.

"I'm waiting until I can go over and tell Mickey Stanley what a fine game he played," said Banks, taking in all the excitement of the dressing room. "I'm really enjoying this. It's the closest I've ever come."

Ernie Banks was having himself a ball.

His attitude ought to be made mandatory for everybody. Not his attitude about baseball; his attitude about life.

Ruggers Attempt Comeback

The rugby club resumed practice yesterday after suffering perhaps the worst weekend in its history Saturday and Sunday in Iowa.

Saturday at Iowa City, the University of Iowa "A" team blanked the Irish "B" squad 6-0. It was the first loss ever for the Irish Bees after 42 straight successes. In Saturday's prelim, Iowa "B" whipped Notre Dame "C" 11-0.

Sunday in Davenport, Palmer Chiropractic College, sporting six All-Americans stopped Notre Dame's "A" unit 14-6. The Irish held the home club to a 6-6 deadlock in the first half. But after intermission, Irishmen Clint Sullivan was ejected for fighting and Paul Hennessy was injured.

One of Saturday's biggest individual battles will occur in the line where ND sophomore left guard Larry Dinardo (6-1, 243) must contend with a Northwestern All America candidate, right defensive tackle Jack Rudnay (6-3, 240).

Tigers' Hopes Alive

DETROIT (UPI)—Classy Al Kaline, after 16 years waiting to play in his first World Series, kept the Detroit Tigers alive Monday when he slapped a two-run, bases-loaded single in the seventh inning to beat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-3 and send the Series back to St. Louis.

It was an almost storybook setting when Kaline stepped to the plate with one out and the Tigers trailing 3-2 with the crowd of 53,634 at Tiger Stadium exploding in noise after reliever Joe Hoerner walked Mickey Stanley on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases.

Kaline didn't disappoint the Tiger fans who've disappointed the Tiger fans who've waited 23 years for a World Series as he poked Hoerner's second pitch to center field for a two run single that started a three-run rally and narrowed the Cards' lead to 3-2 in this Series.

The teams will now have Tuesday off and the Series will return to St. Louis for the sixth game Wednesday in Busch Stadium with Ray Washburn pitching against either Earl Wilson or Joe Sparma of the Tigers. The seventh game, if necessary, will be played Thursday.

The Tigers, who looked stumbling and inept when they were humbled by the Cards before their home fans Saturday and Sunday, finally made the big plays in this game and then came up with a patented late-inning rally that was their trademark in the American League this season. The Tigers won 40 games this year after being tied or behind in the seventh.

The key thing the Tigers did was keep Lou Brock from running them crazy after the first inning. Brock did get three hits but Bill Freehan threw him out attempting to steal second in the third and Willie Horton threw him out at the plate when he tried to score from second in the fifth on Julian Javier's single to left.

Brock probably could have scored if he'd tried to slide but he came in standing up and failed to touch the plate when he bounced off Freehan, who took Horton's one bounce throw from the left.

Brock provided a dramatic finale to this game when he Kaline's hit gave the triumph to Mickey Lolich, who blanked the Cards over the final eight innings for his second Series victory after being bombed for three runs in the first inning.

Sports Briefs

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—The Northwestern Wildcats got both good and bad news in Monday's medical report.

Place kicker Dick Emmerich was released from the hospital where he had undergone observation for a head injury he suffered in Saturday's game against top ranked Purdue. Also returning will be defensive end Ed Tacquette to play in Saturday's game against Notre Dame.

But first string halfback Ken Luxton will remain sidelined with a bruised kidney.

Going into next Sunday's final 18 holes, the Notre Dame Open Golf Tournament is strictly a two-man affair. First round leader Bill Cvengros added a 72-76-148 to his opening 69 for a four-over-par total of 217.

Running second is Bob Wilson, whose 73-77-150 left him 3 strokes back at 220. A pair of sophomores, Bob Battaglia and Dennis Conroy, trail the leader at 226. Despite the excellent condition of the course, Sunday's cold and soggy weather contribution to high third round scores.
