SLC committee told that sanctions are not solution

By W. Dennis Duggan

The Hall Life Council of the SLC held an open meeting thursday night in the CCE to hear students opinions on sanctions for parietal hours and drinking regulations.

Approximately 100 students attending the meeting heard Tom Reed, an R.A. in Lyons say that it would be impossible for him to continue to be an R.A. with sanctions, as they have been proposed, being imposed from above. He felt that sanctions were not the answer but rather better hall judicial boards.

The vast majority of students who voiced opinions seemed to agree that sanctions imposed by the trustees were not a solution and would not be accepted by the students. Many people agreed that a stronger judicial board was a step in the right direction but the overwhelming feeling was against any type of sanctions.

Mark Sylvester, an R.A. in Flanner, said that you can't deal with complex issues, such as parietals and drinking, with simplified solutions. He felt that you have to remember that you are dealing with people and must treat them as such.

Father Edgar J. Whalen, Grace Hall Rector, raised the question, "What do we do with the individual who does not believe in any morality? There

Cass Rejent

By Ann McCarry and Larry Dailey

The Finance Committee of the Student Senate released late Tuesday afternoon its recommendations for the 1971-72 student budget.

Among those organizations whose requests were denied included the Scholastic, the Finance Forum, and the Kennedy Institute.

However, Student Government Treasurer Cass Rejent commented "considering the entire situation, the final recommendations were the best mix."

The 1971-72 student budget totals $82,000, collected from student activity fees. A debt to the University was paid with $9,000 and $1,000 was reserved for surplus. Since budget requests amounted to over $138,000, the Finance Committee was forced to make severe cuts to meet the actual student budget of $72,000.

Approximately $66,000 was trimmed from the official student requests. The most notable cut was made upon the Kennedy Institute. The Finance Committee recommended that it receive none of its $1,968 request. Rejent explained that "they already have $5,000 available for spending" and were in a much better position than other clubs. The Student Government Treasurer blamed the Finance Forum's failure to receive any allocation on "a very poor presentation, coupled with lack of plans concerning future use of the funds."

The Scholastic was another one of the victims receiving the Committee's "financial ax." Their major request of $2,000, primarily for a course evaluation form, was denied.

The Finance Committee suggested that if the booklet was so important, perhaps they could discontinue the printing of two issues and use that money to provide funds for the form.

A majority of the other requests were reduced by one half to two thirds.

The Student Government received $15,500 of its $16,925 request. The Student Union, Student Life Fund, International Students Organization, Free University and Day Care Center also fared quite well.

Commenting on their success, Rejent said that several organizations showed "definite advantages" to the student body and were well presented.

He stated that the entire committee had an "extremely difficult time, since it is hard to take money from such worthwhile projects. We would have liked to have allocated more, but were forced to pay a debt this year."

Rejent also mentioned several innovative steps being taken this year, in regard to budget requests. Only the total amount of the Student Government's and Student Union's requests were trimmed. Contrary to previous procedure, the Finance Committee did not state what each individual department should be allotted.

"This allows financial decisions to be made by those immediately responsible," Rejent explained.

Washington—Henry A. Kissinger, the presidential advisor on National Security, will go to Communist China for the second time in three months, to make "concrete arrangements" for President Nixon's visit to Peking, the White House announced. Kissinger, who emphasized that the recent unexplained events within China had not changed Nixon's plans, will leave for China later this month.

United Nations, N.Y.—A statement, made by the government of the People's Republic of China on Aug. 20 declaring that it would "have absolutely nothing to do with the United Nations if a two-China or a China-and-Taiwan situation" were created, was read into the record of the General Assembly by Albania as a rebuttal to the United States proposal for a dual China representation.

Washington—The chief negotiations for the United Mine Workers and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association were told by Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson not to use the current freeze on wages and prices as an excuse for failing to reach a contract settlement. The White House was expected to move soon to obtain an injunction ordering striking longshoremen back to work, as the administration sought to end both strikes.

Washington—A New Jersey businessman told the Senate Commerce Committee that he had paid $2,165.25 per month for the past eight years to a Mafia Chieftan to promote sales of a detergent. He told the senators that the deal did not increase sales and the contract was still good for five more years.

Double standards at ND infirmary?

by Andy Winiarczyk

There has been much controversy over the fact that though Notre Dame and St. Mary's are merging they cannot share many of the same services.

At times a Notre Dame student is considered a "foreigner" on the Saint Mary's campus and a Saint Mary's resident is not considered a "Notre Dame student." A case in point is the Student Infirmary.

Marcia Moczek stated that she almost became a serious victim of the university's split policy towards the students from St. Mary's.

During the past week, an unfortunate accident occurred to Moczek in the Chemistry lab at Nieuwland Hall. She was attending a 2 P.M. chemistry lab under the direction of Professor Walter Scheidt and in the course of performing the experiment she accidentally jammed a mercury thermometer into the middle finger of her left hand and began to bleed profusely.

Professor Scheidt took her to the ND Infirmary to receive immediate treatment. Marcia claimed "I was initially refused medical attention on the grounds that I was a St. Mary's student and not a Notre Dame Student."

A girl in the guy's infirmary meets a little resistance

She further stated, "I was in a great deal of pain. When they noticed that I was bleeding the Infirmary provided emergency care."

"Temporary emergency aid" consisted of putting water on the wound, dropping a few particles of iodine on it to ease the pain, cleaning it with phisoex, and placed a bandage on it.

Investigation of robbery in Grace still inconclusive

by Jim Gresser

Investigation is still underway into Monday night's $50 armed robbery at Grace Hall, although to date nothing concrete has been established. Arthur Pears, director of campus security, was not available for comment on the subject due to illness. However, Jerry McGlynn, the guard handling the case, did make a statement.

McGlynn noted that, "at this time," they had no definite information as to the description of the robbers or their apprehension. He also stated that the investigation was far from complete and they were doing all they could to solve the case. The description that he did have of the burglars was that they were of "student age but probably not students."

He also stated that the St. Joseph County Police have been involved since last night and that the County Police and Campus Security were conducting the investigation together.

The regular policy, McGlynn explained, was for security to conduct an investigation and call in the County Police whenever necessary.

When asked why the investigator did not arrive at the scene of the crime until twenty-three minutes after it was reported, McGlynn said that it was not his place to comment and he reserved comment for Mr. Pears.

When asked for a statement Fr. Whelan the rector of Grace, said that he "really wouldn't like to make any comment at all."

Mike Mcara, robbery victim, stated that he was satisfied with the investigation and that the police were "doing everything they can possibly do." He pointed out that the robbery took place on the ninth floor and that people were all around, and that the robbers walked right in and right out.

Finance Committee suggests new budget

Another change is the drafting of a "Student Organization Grant Agreement," which is to be completed at the time of the financial grant. This is essentially a contract whereby the head of the student organization promises he will use the funds granted for the duties and obligations stated in his budget request.

"Previously," Rejent commented, "we had no control over what the organization did with the funds after they were granted." He cited lack of responsible control and indiscriminate writing of checks as examples of violations.

"If they don't follow the game plan, why should we give them more money?" the treasurer asked.

The first Senate meeting concerning the recommended student budget will be held at 8 p.m. on Monday Oct. 11 in the LaFortune Student Center Amphitheatre.

All budget recommendations along with related information are being mailed to the senators and the Finance Committee asks that the representatives be prepared for immediate discussion. Rejent also suggests that if any organization would like to discuss changes in their budget requests, he be contacted so that a speaker's schedule may be drafted.

The Finance Committee is composed of nine members. John Barkett, Student Body President, Orlando Rodriguez, Student Body Vice-President, and Cass Rejent, Student Government Treasurer head the list. The other members include Bill McGrath, Student Union Director, and Tim Howald, Associate Director. Student Senators Jim Clark, T. C. Treanor, are also on the committee, along with Fr. Thomas Blantz, Vice President of Student Affairs and Prof. John Houck, a faculty member.

has to be some sanctions and some very serious sanctions to deal with those matters more serious than parietals." He suggested possibly handling people accused of larceny or assault over to state or federal authorities.

It was the general opinion of some students that parietal hours were unenforceable. A student who identified himself as a junior from Badin, suggested that the Trustees should make their own sanctions and then try to enforce them. "They would find it enlightening," he added.

It is now the job of the Hall Life Council to come up with some kind of guidelines and to report to the SLC. Specifically the recommendations will come from Professor Peter W. Thornton, Father Thomas E. Chambers, Father James F. Flanagan, Professor Robert G. Goodfellow, Buzz Imhoff, and SBVP Orlando Rodriguez, who comprise this sub-committee.

O's win AL title; Bucs lead, 2-1

by Joseph Durso
(c) 1971 New York Times News Service

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 5—The Baltimore Orioles won their third straight American League pennant today when they defeated the Oakland Athletics, 5-3, for a three-game sweep of the East-West playoff.

It was also the third straight year that the Orioles had swept a western champion in the playoff, giving them nine victories without a defeat in pennant competition.

The wonder team of baseball got there today behind the seven-hit pitching of Jim Palmer, who also won their pennant clinchers the last two years. But he was supported in riotous style by a lineup that delivered 12 hits, got nine walks, left 13 men on base and produced at least one hit in every inning except one against five Oakland pitchers.

Not only that, but half the Baltimore lineup got on base three or more times, with Brooks Robinson leading the charge with a two-run single in the fifth inning that put them ahead to stay. In reply, the Athletics hit three home runs—one by Sal Bando and two by Reggie Jackson—but the reply was no answer to all that Oriole wealth.

The Orioles now have won four pennants in six seasons; they are the first triple winner since the Yankees won five pennants from 1960 through 1964; they are the third club in baseball annals to win 100 games three straight years, and they are the first team in half a century to do it with four 20 game pitchers.

The first three Baltimore batters promptly reached base on Diego Segui, the 33-year-old Cuban forkball pitcher who was pressed into service because of Chuck Dobson's sore elbow. Don Buford walked, Paul Blair singled to left and Boog Powell walked, loading the bases with nobody out. Segui struck out both Frank and Brooks Robinson, though Buford scored meanwhile on a 365-foot fly to center by Elrod Hendricks.

Then, with two outs in the home half of the third, Jackson poked an opposite-field home run for a 1-1 tie.

In the fifth the Orioles struck with some strategic help from the Athletics. Buford singled, Powell walked and, with two down and runners on second and third, they decided to walk Hendricks and pitch to Brooks Robinson.

Robinson lined the next pitch into left-center for two runs and a 3-1 lead.

In the sixth Bando made it a 3-2 game by pulling a home run just over the left-field fence. But in the seventh, with Roland Fingers pitching, Powell walked for the third time and Frank Robinson lined a double to left field while Powell slid home ahead of a sloppy relay.

Now Oakland switched to the left-handed Darold Knowles. Right-handed Andy Etchebarren, pinch-hit a fly to left, but before he did, Knowles threw a wild pitch past the plate while Robinson scored and it was 5-2.

A double by Brooks Robinson and two more walks loaded the bases, but Palmer bounced into a double play to end the inning and then survived Jackson's second home run in the eighth. He struck out the side in the ninth, and the Orioles were home.

Murtaugh, acting as calmly as if he were rocking lazily in one of his various rocking chairs, told Bob Johnson to warm up, and Johnson, a self-proclaimed pitching "dud" this season, proceeded to pitch his best game of the year as the Pirates defeated San Francisco, 2-1, on home runs by Bob Robertson and Richie Hebner.

Hebner's homer, one of only four hits off Juan Marichal, snapped a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning and catapulted the Pirates into a 2-1 lead in the best-of-five series that will determine the Baltimore Orioles' opponent in the World Series starting Saturday.

The Pirates get a chance to become that opponent today when Steve Blass pitches against Gaylord Perry, the gritty right-hander who beat them in the playoff opener.

Marichal, who won 18 games this season, couldn't have been much better, but his teammates failed to come through with just one key hit in any of three innings in which they had Johnson in danger.

They put the first two batters on in the second inning, but Johnson struck out Dick Dietz on a 3-2 pitch (after being 3-0), got Alan Gallagher to ground into a force play and struck out Chris Speier.

In the sixth, they scored their only run on Ken Henderson's single and a throwing error by Hebner but couldn't do anything else with runners at first and second and only one out.

Then in the eighth, Johnson's last inning (he left for a pinch hitter and Dave Giusti finished up), Willie Mays got San Francisco's fifth hit with one out, stole second before Bonds walked with two out and then remained there as Dietz forced Bonds.

Minutes later, Hebner, to the accompaniment of lusty boos from many in the crowd of 38,322 because of his costly error, came to bat with two out and dove a 1-2 screwball from Marichal toward the right field wall. The ball sailed about 365 feet and eluded the glove of the leaping Bonds by inches for the third baseman's first home run in seven weeks.

In the second inning, Robertson, who before Sunday hadn't homered in six weeks, connected for his third homer in his last three times at bat and his fourth in his last five.

Irish slip in polls

Despite its 3-0 record, Notre Dame continued to drop in both the Associated Press and United Press International football polls this week.

The Irish, fourth in both polls a week ago, defeated Michigan State, 14-2, last Saturday but slipped to fifth in the UPI and seventh in the AP rankings.

The Nebraska Cornhuskers remained atop both polls this week after upping their record to 4-0 with a 42-6 drubbing of Utah State Saturday.

The AP's top ten consisted of Nebraska, Michigan, Texas, Auburn, Colorado, Alabama, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Penn State and Georgia. The UPI listed their top ten as Nebraska, Michigan, Texas, Alabama, Notre Dame, Auburn, Oklahoma and Colorado (tie for seventh), Washington and Georgia.

The Hall Presidents' Council elects a new chairman and discusses dinner exchange and social activities on campus

Motto elected HPC head

by Bill Sohn

Ed Motto of Sorin Hall was elected chairman of the Hall Presidents Council Tuesday night on the first ballot held in the chapel of St. Edward's Hall.

A junior pre-med major, Motto said he hopes to continue the effectiveness reached by the HPC under outgoing Chairman Buz Imhof.

Calling the body the closest organization to the student body, Motto added that it has a good chance to transform student opinion to the Board of Trustees.

In other business the hall presidents discussed the lack of women participating in the coed dinner program with the program director, Gary Caruso. The topic was shelved eventually by the council.

The council spent 45 minutes discussing the length of the chairman's term and qualifications for the post. The matter was settled when someone suggested it remain the same and presidents unanimously agreed.

Financial problems surrounding a HPC sponsored concert on An Toastal weekend, mixers on non-football weekends, maid service and dining hall arrangements also were discussed, but no conclusions were reached.

It was announced that the HPC will make a retreat Oct. 17 and 18 at the Wauwasee Seminary in central Indiana.

ND Infirmary & girls

Miss Moczek said "I was instructed to go back to class and told to 'Keep your hand up in the air...' so that the wound would not start bleeding again."

After class she went to the St. Mary's Health Service, which by this time, was closed. When the Infirmary opened up they advised her to go to St. Joseph's Hospital in South Bend.

There she was completely treated for the skin that was burned on her left hand for the bleeding. She was told that if she had suffered any mercury poisoning it would have been extremely serious since the Notre Dame Infirmary had not taken care of it.

Miss Moczek said, "I told the Infirmary I was injured with a mercury thermometer."

Sister M. Celeste, Infirmary administrator, confirmed that Miss Moczek said that she had cut herself with a mercury thermometer.

However, Sr. Celeste stated, "The injury was not serious at all. We did not consider it an emergency."

Several boys were treated before her because we didn't consider the matter grave. There was a delay in the records room because of the fact that she was from St. Mary's. We have told the girls time after time that they are supposed to go to their own health service," Sr. Celeste added.

Calls to both of the student health services confirmed the fact that they will treat only emergency cases of the other institution."

InPIRG office sets new hours

Alumni votes

Last Friday, Alumni Hall residents voted down a referendum, 147 to 85, which would have given the hall complete self-government. The referendum was first suggested Wednesday after a proposal to declare twenty-four hour parietal hours in the hall ran aground because of a conflict in the hall constitution. The referendum stated, "the extent of the enforcement shall be left to the Hall Judicial Board with strict adherence given to the University Judicial Code and student rigpts."
