Vows ND-SMC student gov't. merger

Floyd Kezele opens SBP race

by T.C. Treanor
Observer Assistant Editor

Vowing that "if there are to be any substantive changes in the life of the Notre Dame student, the students themselves are going to have to take the initiative," and pledging to "immediately merge the Student Governments of Notre Dame and St. Mary's after the election", SLC Towers representative and Vice-Chairman Floyd Kezele last night became this year's first announced candidate for Notre Dame's student body presidency.

Runs with Jones

Kezele, a 20-year old Junior Government Major from Gallup, New Mexico, will run with Sophomore Milt Jones. Jones, the Student Union's Associate Director, comes from Atlanta.

In a 45-minute press conference, held in the Flanner Hall pit, Kezele charged that "student government is like a morgue," and contended that "especially during the past year, student opinion has only been effective in blocking attempts to repeal rights which have been granted in past years."

Eight point plan

"If there is no pressure, no agitation for movement," Kezele said, "the administration rightly or wrongly views this as an acceptance of the status quo."

Jones followed Kezele's address by outlining an eight-point platform to an audience of about fifty. In addition to the "immediate merger," Jones called for:

---"an exchange program between Notre Dame and schools within the United States as well as with schools in English-speaking nations such as Canada, Australia, and England."

Floyd Kezele urges immediate merger of ND-SMC

Milt Jones is Kezele's running mate

---"open-air movies and open-air concerts in the spring as well as TGIF's (Friday concerts in the student center) and Over-the-Hill dances."

---pass-fail for "required courses exclusive of major courses beginning with sophomore year"

---"expansion of the already existing African Studies Program"

---"the office of financial aid...(to) update scholarships so as to keep pace with cost rises."

---"full time operation of the Student Center" with "24-hour coffee in the basement" and "split shifts so that the Student Union offices will be open 2 hours at night as well as in the afternoon."

---"the pass-fail option for all freshman year courses."

Major stand coming

In a question-and-answer session following his and Jones' announcement, Kezele said that he would issue a "major position paper" on the Student Life Council during his campaign. According to Kezele, he will suggest that the SLC become a "University Forum" which would include the Trustees and be composed of weighted committees designed to deal with issues in student life, academic affairs, finances, and other areas.

He also said that he would press for more money for the Hall Life Committee, which last year distributed $10,000.00 to the halls for their physical improvement.

In SLC since 1970

Kezele became an SLC member in a special election in November of 1970 when Observer editor Glen Corso resigned to take over his newspaper post. He won re-election last year, defeating Joe Schlupp 289-29.

Kezele's campaign will be managed by Carl Ellison, a Junior who currently directs Student Government's Recruitment Aid program.

InPIRG to host Nader Thursday

Ralph Nader, a crusader in the field of consumer protection, will speak in behalf of the Indiana Public Interest Research Group (InPIRG) at a talk in Stephan Center on Thursday, February 17. The lecture will culminate a three day campaign by InPIRG to seek student support for the organization.

The 9:00 p.m. speech will deal with the progress of student activism in fields varying from environmental problems and consumer affairs to occupational safety and minority group rights.

Students will be admitted to the talk for 50 cents and general admission tickets, priced at $1.00, will be available to the public if space permits.

InPIRG, an organization of Indiana students concerned about public policy and corporate power was the inspiration and brain-child of Ralph Nader. The group has been active on the Notre Dame campus since the fall of 1971.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader comes to ND Thursday

InPIRG representatives began circulating petitions yesterday on the NOTRE Dame campus in an effort to gain support for a plan to add a $3 assessment on next semester's tuition bills. Proceeds would be added to InPIRG receipts from other colleges and universities in the state.

This would give the organization an annual sum of $200,000 to $300,000 to cover research expenses and to support a professional staff of physical and social scientists, attorneys, environmentalists, and faculty.

The petition drive at St. Mary's College will begin February 20.

In the event the petition drive succeeds, InPIRG plans to reimburse the accounting departments for the cost of tabulating the added assessment. In addition, means will be provided to refund money to students not wishing to participate in the program.

Other state schools participating in InPIRG are Indiana State, University of Indiana, Purdue, Ball State, and DePaul. Indiana University at South Bend leaders say they will tart the program next year.

Mardi Gras grosses $40,000

by Mike O'Hare

The total revenue taken in by Mardi Gras is about $40,000, according to chairman Greg Stepic.

The $40,000 figure is the gross revenue received during the week long event, and not the profit. From this total the overhead expenses of Mardi Gras must be paid.

Stepic pointed out that a "good chunk" of the $40,000 will go to paying such expenses as the rent for Stepan Center, security, and advertising.

Any hopes for the possibility of the profits of the Richie Havens concert going to Mardi Gras were dashed last night. Mr. John Plouff, managing director of the ACC, said that "although the totals are incomplete, I would almost bet that there will be a loss on the concert."

Greg Stepic confirmed Mr. Plouff's opinion, saying that he heard the concert lost about $5,000.

Stepic stated that at this time he had no idea whether Mardi Gras was a financial success. He did not anticipate a large profit and expressed the hope that perhaps the Student Union would contribute some money.

Winter Festival coming soon

A new campus-wide activity called the Winter Festival is planned for this Saturday, Feb. 19. Organizers say that the activity will be like "a winter Antostol."

Centering around St. Mary's lake and Holy Cross Hall, the winter festival will include: crowning of the campus snow queen, skating and sledding on the lake, a live band, free hot chocolate, and a snow sculpture contest. Activities begin at 2:00 Saturday afternoon and end with the square dance at SMC's Angela Hall at 9:00. The dance is also free.

"We felt that the entire campus needed something to put the life back in," said Tom Valenti, a N.D. sophomore, and one of the organizers of the festival.

Valenti announced these plans late Monday night after a meeting in Holy Cross Hall. The N.D. Fire Department will flood some of St. Mary's lake this week, to improve the skating surface. Aurora, the same band that played at the Mardi Gras, will play on the front steps of Holy Cross Hall.

Plans are being made to offer prizes to the snow queen and the best snow sculptures. The festival is open to all N.D.-S.M.C. students, faculty, and administration.

SBP endorses INPIRG petition

Student Body President John Barkett gave his "very strong personal endorsement" to the petitioning efforts of the Notre Dame chapter of INPIRG yesterday afternoon. The INPIRG group is attempting to solicit the signature of two-thirds of the Notre Dame population on petitions calling for an increase in the student fee of $3.00 per year. The proceeds will go to INPIRG and will be used to coordinate their efforts.

Barkett hoped that all students would give "serious consideration" to the petitioning and he called it a "very worthwhile project". "It opens options for student involvement in public interest work that wouldn't be there otherwise. It opens an outlet for students to get involved, where their voices can be heard and they are given the proper financing."

The whole concept of INPIRG is one that Barkett believes will soon spread to all 50 states. This is largely due to its purpose and that fact that it is totally student run, Barkett feels.

In a letter dated February 14, Barkett passed on to Father Thomas Blantz, his endorsement of the INPIRG idea and the news of the student Senate's unanimous approval of the INPIRG resolution.

The Student Body President expressed his optimism that the petitioning will succeed and the INPIRG group will receive the necessary signatures. "I'll be highly disappointed if the students turn down this opportunity."

Off-campus moves must be OK'd by March 3

In order to facilitate the selection of rooms for the 1972-73 academic year, it is imperative that you notify the University in the manner prescribed below of your desires to live off campus.

Any student now living on campus who would like to live off campus next year must notify his rector by noon of March 3, 1972. The University regulations apply that all single students who will be under twenty-one years of age in September must have parental permission to move off campus. This letter must be sent directly to the Dean of Students' office by March 3, 1972.

The above procedures are for information only and in no way indicate permission to move off campus. This will be announced with a regular bulletin concerning room selection.

It should also be stated that students signing up for campus accommodations are doing so for the entire 1972-73 academic year.

Room picks will be April 10-15. Additional information concerning these dates will be posted after March 3 by the Director of Student Residence.

Washington--A further relaxation in trade policy toward China was announced Monday by the White House. The latest directive placed trade with China under the same restrictions as the Soviet Union and other Soviet Bloc nations. President Nixon also met with French writer Andre Malraux, whose knowledge of China dates to the 1920's.

London--Thousands of British workers were suspended from their jobs as government restrictions on the use of electricity went into effect. As the national coal miners strike went into its 36th day, a court of inquiry charged with proposing a compromise said it would try to produce its report by Friday and political bitterness erupted in the House of Commons.

Washington--Congressional supporters of constitutional amendments against the use of busing to achieve racial integration were told by President Nixon at a White House meeting that he would decide on a course of action to offset recent federal court decisions that require a great deal of busing after he returns from China on March 1.

"ND Magazine" newly started

The University of Notre Dame has combined two of its publications into a new magazine, "Notre Dame Magazine."

The first issue of the new 72-page, bimonthly publication is now in the mail to some 67,000 alumni and friends of the University. Circulation is free. "Notre Dame Magazine" replaces the "Alumnus," formerly sent seven times yearly to 50,000 alumni, and "Insight: Notre Dame," which was mailed quarterly to alumni and friends. The new publication is edited by Timothy J. Hughes, former "Alumnus" editor, and Ronald R. Parent, associate director of information services and former

Barkett telegraphs Whitcomb

SBP John Barkett urges Indiana Governor to support lower legal age.

Saul Bellow will speak at Stepan Center

Saul Bellow, internationally known novelist and professor of English at the University of Chicago, will speak at 8:30 p.m. tonight in Stepan Center at the University of Notre Dame. The talk is sponsored by the Cultural Arts Commission and tickets, priced at 50 cents, will be available at the door.

The winner of the National Book Award in 1954 for his "Adventures of Augie March," Bellow followed this with best-sellers "Herzog," "Mr. Sammler's Planet," and "Henderson, the Rain King." He was the recipient of an Institute of Arts and Letters Award in 1952 and studied under Guggenheim and Ford Foundation fellowships.

Bellow has taught at University of Minnesota, New York University, Princeton and University of Puerto Rico.

"On the behalf of the 6400 members of the student body of the University of Notre Dame," SBP John Barkett yesterday afternoon telegraphed Indiana Governor Edgar Whitcomb urging him to approve the legislation lowering the legal age in Indiana to 18 years old.

In a letter written Monday, Barkett followed up on the telegram to Whitcomb by saying "I certainly hope you sign the legal age bill in the best interests of Indiana and particularly its young adults."

The body of the letter contained Barkett's rationale for his support of the 18-year old legislation. "Twenty-one has always been the traditional age of maturity, but that is no longer true. The voting age is now eighteen and voters' registration drives for 18-21 registration have sprouted up across the country. One may be called into service at age 18! Barkett concluded with, "Surely, I can give other examples of men and women determining the direction of their country and dying for it. But need I?"

The SBP stressed that all students should write or telegraph Governor Whitcomb and urge him to approve the legislation. Telegrams can be sent through Western Union (233-6101) and they can be billed to the student billing number.

The Indiana Public Interest Research Group is looking to tack $3 on to student tuition bills next year to finance their activities. The money will be used to fund a state wide group that will employ professionals to do research and lobby for projects deemed by the organization to be in the public interest.

INPIRG is one of the best organizations to come along in quite a while. It's good because it will have access to a healthy supply of money, and money is the best way to effect change in this country. For too long the vested interests have steered legislation their way because they had enough cash to oil smooth organizations that pushed their point of view on legislations and in some cases bought them.

The same vested interests lobbies have often won over recalcitrant representatives by bombarding them with data supporting their positions. The data has been dug out by well organized and well funded research teams, and used to cheat the public.

There is no effective citizens lobby to counter the employees of the economic royalists. John Gardner, with Common Cause, and Ralph Nader, with his people, have made a start, but it isn't enough. It isn't enough because the number of lobbyists representing the plutocrats from the pharmaceutical industry alone outnumber the people that work for Nader and Gardner. Also, Nader and Garner have directed their efforts on the national level.

We badly need a countervailing power to the corporate lobbyists. They have enormous power and money at their disposal, and they use it, every day, to make sure their clients are being taken care of. Save for the aforementioned overworked organizations, no one is making sure that the common people are being taken care of.

INPIRG's aim is to defend the rights and privileges of the common citizens and make sure that they are not trampled in the rush for corporate gold.

A miserly $3, on a bill that for most will be about $1600, is not too much to ask. It is not too much to ask to finally have the consumer actively represented in the law making councils of this state by a vigorous well armed group

The Observer strongly urges students to sign the petition and allow the optional $3 INPIRG fee to be placed on the tuition bill. For us to do less would be worse than shameful, it would be criminal.

Ash Wednesday

In the ancient cities, at times of drought or blight or pestilence, a band of gaunt, boney, semi-fanatical seers called prophets arose to wag chastising fingers in the face of kings and shamans, herdsman and harlots, and to lament the general condition of sinfulness that brought the tribulations of God upon the moral deserts of the land.

Needed today, Ash Wednesday, 1972: one gaunt, boney prophet to weep over the sins of our modern wasteland...Our Eden gone to seed; our Canaan of uprooted vineyards; our land of milk and honey, turned sour or rancid; our America of the lost dream, a skid row of the spirit.

These images are exaggerations, of course; exaggerations are common when fat cats speak as though they had the moral vision of gaunt, boney prophets. Our country is still America the Beautiful, and we are the Children of the Promise. But may I suggest that it is also America the Shabby...America, the gray of heart...America the immaculate conception of hope where everyone stands around, paring his dirty fingernails...America the dreaming, brooding country, in need of a swift kick in the ass?

Gaunt, boney prophets cannot speak pleasantly to a land that fights endlessly and interminably in a war that wounds the conscience of the generation that is called to bear arms. On the stairways of tenements in Chicago and New York, children die from overdoses of heroin, because the only escape from a lost childhood is at the end of a hypodermic needle. Old folks die in rooms at the top of the stairs from malnutrition and loneliness and fear, while our President publicly and prayerfully hopes that he will be on God's side, presumably in Peking as in Washington. The Deity, typically, has not been heard from on His choice of sides; but God, as a Republican of the Silent Majority and a kind of cosmic Bebe Rebozo, is the ultimate image of shabbiness in America that could make atheists of us all.

Shabby times do shabby things to the spirit of man.

Shabby spirits sometime need to hear the ancient call of the prophet, bidding them to assume the sackcloth and ashes of penance, and to observe a fast that will cast out the demons of pestilence that sicken the land.

That is why, in the Christian calendar, Ash Wednesday and the Season of Lent are annually observed.

1972 in a year when Ash Wednesday, with or without prophets, seems sorely needed. In the search for America as Paradise Regained, prophets may be expendable and sackcloth and ashes may prove superfluous. What is needed is the soul's personal commitment to justice and truth, love and mercy. Lent, coming at the dark time of year just prior to the birth of life, is an ideal season for renewing commitment.

Souls in need of prophets and-or commitment are authentically invited to a Penitential Service on Ash Wednesday, February 16, at 10:30 in the evening, in the Keenan-Stanford Chapel under the direction of Frs. Don McNeill, Jim Buckley, and Bob Griffin. Sackcloth optional. Ashes free as a service of the management.

The New Season Begins

Shoring Up

T.C. Treanor

ABOUT THE SITUATION

When April first, traditionally Notre Dame's Patriot's Day, finally rolls around, a Magnifico yet to be determined will sit in the chair which all year held the body of John Barkett. In that chair, the New Magnifico will take nourishment, write letters and drink coffee until his eyes grow bleary. It is a highly elevated honor to do such, and this year, as in years past, many hungry aspirants will slobber for the job. It promises to be a highly entertaining show, but the vast majority of the campus will see only the finished product - the highly polished exterior. The real fun is behind the scenes, where hucksterism of all varieties abound.

More than that: behind the scenes is a tableau of pathos, bathos, fears and tears, where candidates and their supporters come to grips with fundamental questions about student government and about themselves.

The business of this column - quaintly entitled "The New Season Begins" - is to reveal precisely what machinations really go on behind the scenes. It is not a particularly glorious picture - never has been - and it is designed to shake the belief that election time is that time when all good men come to the aid of du lac. But it is at the same time a fascinating picture, a trifle gory at times, with its own strange sense of almost poignant tragedy - for the losers, and sometimes for the winners, too.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Gentlemen, my credentials:

I have probably lost more election than any man exant on the Notre Dame campus. Most of the people running for SBP this year will lose. Hence, QED, I am eminently qualified to write about SBP candidates.

I have also been connected with a couple of the glorious ventures myself - usually to the candidate's considerable embarrassment. I've seen what's gone on. Honest to God, it would curl your stomach.

Plus, I know most of the guys who are running. Really. They talk to me and everything.

ABOUT THE ELECTION

The Rt. Hon. Mr. Kezele is the first of at least five candidates who will declare themselves for the presidency. Two others should declare this week. Campaigning starts on the 23rd and the election will be on the 29th. If there's a runoff, as there was last year, it will be held on March the second.

This week, aspirants will be gathering up endorsements and support; they'll be shoring up their organizations. Generally, the candidates are after the endorsements of three large, amorphous bodies. They are:

The Barkett people: It is difficult to tell precisely how popular John Barkett is with the student body. There has been no vociferous attack on Barkett - I hear - except a bitter letter sent by Alumni Senator Glenn Sorge to the Observer - but the feeling that he hasn't pressed hard enough for students is pretty widespread. Even his own Research and Development Commissioner, Ed Ellis, gave him a mild ride over the coals for his work with the SLC during the Parietal Hours Crisis.

Nonetheless, there's no denying that Barkett had a terrific organization backing his SBP bid a year ago, and a word or two at the right moment might spring a large portion of that machine, fairly intact, for one of the candidates.

The Mooney people: Don Mooney almost beat Barkett last year, and, rightly or no, many of the people who have been disillusioned by Barkett have been increasingly sorry that they didn't vote for Mooney. Although Mooney's organization was not nearly as thorough as Barkett's, the effect of a mass of people walking back going back to the hall saying "I told you so and I'm telling you now" could be devastating, particularly in the event of a runoff.

The Hall President's Council: Since it appears as though no Hall President is running for SBP - although at least two will run for VP - a lot of the candidates think that they can corall a lot of the hall president's into their camp. The hall president is usually the hall's most respected figure, and it is interesting to note that in most of the halls Barkett lost in the first round, the president was for Mooney.

There are two major uncertainties that the candidates face. One is the vague future of the merger - the two school's and the two student government's. This uncertainty, (hereto fore to be known as the Gaal principal) has left many candidates in the dark about who they should choose as running mates and-or St. Mary's hand-in-hand partners.

The other uncertainty is the amendment Sorin Hall Senator Lefty Ruschman introduced to the Senate last Thursday. It allows students to vote for "none of the above." If "none of the above" collects 51 per cent of the vote or more, they hold another election. If "none of the above" wins again, the Senate meets in special disaster session.

But more on this - and other grim stuff - later.

Letters to the editor

'fridge fees

(The following is an open letter by Ray DeCarlo--ed.)

Dear students,

On January 26, 1972, I submitted a proposal to Brother K. Ryan, Asst. V.P. of Business Affairs. The proposal asked for a reduction of the $30.00 refrigerator fine to a $5.00 permit fee. It is now Feb. 18 and Brother K. Ryan has not extended to me, the simple Christian courtesy of an acknowledgement, either written or verbal.

For four months prior to Jan 27, I talked with Brother about reducing the fine. At each of our six meetings, Brother explained the university's present and future positions. During a phone call he emphatically stated that the fine would not be reduced. Later that same week he asked me to put my requests in writing. I did so in the form of a proposal published in the Observer on Jan. 27, 1972.

Since Brother has failed to respond, and because he threatened to "intercept" this information, I feel obliged to divulge the main points of a new university policy, written by Brother K. Ryan, Fr. Chambers and two other Administrators. The main points are: (1) all refrigerators whose capacity is over 3 cubic feet will be banned; (2) all hot plates, rotisseries, air conditioners and pop corn poppers will be banned; (3) the fine on small refrigerators will be increased to $40.00; and (4) televisions will be fined.

A board of officers approved this plan about a month ago. Brother Ryan said this news will probably be published this summer or late this semester. Fr. Chambers told me that the policy will not be promulgated until he has received feedback from the hall presidents council. He also mentioned that dropping the fine, would mean a large increase in room and board. Let us do some arithmetic: With a $30.00 fine and 1,000 refrigerators on campus, the university collects $30,000. Now there are approximately 5,000 dormitory students. If the fine were dropped, student housing could only justify a $6.00 increase. Since they are running a $250,000 deficit, one can expect a minimum increase of $50.00 per student per year.

Before writing such a plan the administrators conducted an investigation. From my talks with Brother K. Ryan the investigation consisted of (1) the fact that hall wiring and in some cases hall feedlines were overloaded; (2) hall rewiring costs upwards of $50,000 and new feed lines $10,000; (3) high wattage appliances (meaning all refrigerators, T.V.'s, hot plates etc.) were causing the overload; and (4) a study of the Mini-Kool refrigerator by the maintenance department. The maintenance dept. determined how often the refrigerator turned on and off. That was the only test the maintenance dept. made.

I also had the same refrigerator tested by a professional engineer, Associate Prof. A. J. Quigley, at Notre Dame's Electrical Engineering Dept. He concluded that the unit has "...about one-fifth the power consumption of a typical small color T.V." and "Thirty or forty of these in a hall should have little more effect on power failure than a dozen more 100-watt light bulbs." A copy of Prof. Quigley's letter was given to Brother Ryan a month before the board of officers approved his new plan. He ignored this letter. In point he continued to maintain that the Mini-Kool refrigerator (and all other refrigerators) caused power failure and overload.

Let us do some more arithmetic: Assume the campus had 1000 small refrigs. They consume 42 watts of power on the average, causing a total consumption of 42,000 watts. There are about 300 large, old bought-at-the-salvation-army type refrigerators on campus. They average about 250 watts of power, causing 75,000 watts of power consumption. Almost 35,000 more watts of power with three-tenths as many refrigerators. Perhaps this gives the university grounds to ban large boxes. However there is no evidence to support their $30.00 fine let alone an increase to $40.00 on any typical small refrigerator.

I suggest that all concerned students express their opinion to their respective hall presidents and-or Fr. Chambers and Brother K. Ryan.

open letter

(An open letter to Gary Caruso--ed.)

Gary--

So we are involved in "little bureaucratic games," as you say. If anything, centralization is bureaucratic. Keeping the dining tickets in one place is no good, as far as I am concerned.

I believe that the halls ought to handle the tix. They give the possibility--a readily accessible possibility--for the guys in the halls to eat at St. Mary's. This facilitates everyone--or at least most everyone--the chance to share in the co-ex and co-ed programs. As Ed said, creating exposure between the ND-SMC student bodies ought to be the main purpose of the program. I do not feel that you can deny this. Since to me this is the case, I cannot understand how you can think that the Student Union office offers this chance to the on-campus students. It is logical, and somewhat obvious, that the best way to "get to" the men is through the halls. This includes the co-ex dining.

Statistics are not as important or impressive as availability is to me. I think that it is too bad that we all seem to be hung up on them. Think about it Gary, while you are thinking about your own political and bureaucratic games.

Peace--

Congratulations are in order to the Knights of Columbus for having the courage to present candidly the simple realities of the abortion problem. In the face of that grim reality as it is so truthfully portrayed by the K of C, the logomachy in the letter in Tuesday's Observer signed by 23 people (whom I assume are relatively glad that they weren't aborted) is in fact as empty as it appears. It's rather sad to see how some people refuse to acknowledge facts even when they see them. We can only hope that the current fashion of fleeing from objective reality is a passing one. It is fortunate that there are some truths which can't be clouded by specious argument and weak analogy. It is unfortunate, of course, that the particular truth in point is surrounded by such tragedy.

Mooney: More ACC concerts

By Milt Jones
Insight Staff Writer

According to Don Mooney, Chairman of the Student Union Social Commission, the ACC should be made available for concerts more frequently.

Mooney states that the Convo is only available for Student Union concerts seven dates during the year. This according to Mooney, is not fair to the Student Body.

"They only allow us seven dates while they fill their calendar with all types of events that don't interest students," Mooney commented.

In addition to the problem of limited dates for concerts, Mooney also cited a problem with profit splits between the Student Union and the ACC.

The present arrangement is that the Student Union and the ACC split profits evenly until profits for the year reach 9,750 dollars. After this "ceiling" is reached, the Convo receives all profits on Student Union Concerts.

Observer Insight

According to Mooney, Student Union Concerts have made approximately $23,000 thus far. Due to the ceiling however, students will receive $9,750 and the ACC will $13,250. In addition, the Convo will net all profits from the Richie Havens concert and the other two concerts scheduled.

Mooney stated that if the split was 50 per cent of total profits with no ceiling, then the Student Union would be in a position to provide more spring activities for students. He mentioned activities such as "free movies, free concerts, and other activities."

Two-Year pact

John Plouff, Director of the ACC, stated that the ceiling price was agreed on two years ago by the Student Union. He stated that "this year is the first profits have been very high," and that "in the other years there was no complaint about the ceiling." He also said that "the profit sharing idea works both ways, when there is a net loss we absorb half of it." There is no no loss cellar.

Plouff feels that seven dates is enough for student concerts because the Convo also must promote its own events.

"With athletic events tying up most of the weekends, we are limited in the number of activities we can stage," Plouff added.

ACC Interests

"Since we must look out for our own interests as well as those of the students, we feel that seven dates is the maximum number of student concerts we can allow," Plouff stated.

Mooney said that "the profit ceiling should be eliminated for Student Union affairs in the Convo because there is no ceiling on the other events that come in."

Mooney also said that "it would seem that the Convo could maximize profits by allowing more student concerts."

Mooney also said that, "the profits will be high on the Richie Havens concert but the students will not realize any of them. Thus the ceiling really hurts the students."

Black Awareness

Festival and Davis

to happen in April

Assistant Director of Student Union Milt Jones yesterday announced the formulation of a Black Awareness Festival for the "first two or three weeks of April".

The festival will feature Ron Dellums, the congressman from Berkeley.

The Student Union is trying to secure Richard Hatcher, Barry Gordon, and Jesse Jackson to speak for the festival. Also during the festival, the Duke Ellington Band will appear in concert.

Other events scheduled for the Festival include black student poetry, black art exhibitions, and a black film series.

Jones also announced that the Student Union in conjunction with the Afro-American Society is bringing the sister of Angela Davis, Fanya Davis, to campus on February 26.

Irish romp past Bowling Green

by Jim Donaldson
Sports Editor

The way things have gone for the Notre Dame basketball team this season, every victory is a thing to be cherished. Yet, last night's 92-65 win over Bowling Green in the ACC can't mean much to the Irish. They were the better of a pair of mediocre ball clubs.

The only bright spots in the game were Notre Dame's ability to win handily, despite a 34 percent shooting performance, and the hustling defensive play of the Irish.

Notre Dame's aggressive pressing tactics unnerved the young Falcon quintet and resulted in 24 Bowling Green turnovers. The Irish forced the Falcons to hurry their shots on a number of occasions and the visitors were able to connect on only 29 percent of their field goal attempts, offsetting Notre Dame's subpar offensive effort.

The game was a wide open, run-and-shoot affair that saw the Irish toss up 99 shots, sinking only 34, while the Falcons fired 79 times and could make but 23. It just wasn't top flight college ball.

But, although basketball aesthetes may not have been satisfied with Notre Dame's showing, the game still counted as win number six and the second in a row for coach Digger Phelps' squad in a season that has seen 14 Irish defeats. The Falcons record fell to 3-15.

"We did the job with pressure," a smiling Phelps remarked afterwards, "We got the momentum early, something we have not done all season, and kept going when we got cold."

"Defensively, it was one of our better games," Phelps continued. "I think that the press bothered them and we just kept going after them."

The Irish weren't plagued by their usual slow start last night and jumped into a 6-0 lead just 1:09 after the opening tap on baskets by Gary Novak, Willie Townsend and Tom O'Mara.

Bowling Green had trouble bringing the ball up court against the Irish press and, when they did manage to cross the ten-second line, had difficulties getting the ball in the hoop. Dalynn

Badenhop finally put the Falcons on the scoreboard after two and a half minutes of play but two free throws by Don Silinski and a subsequent steal and layup by the "Slink" gave the Irish a 10-2 advantage and sent the Falcons into a huddle at the sidelines to get organized.

Bowling Green's strategy session didn't do the Falcons much good as Notre Dame retained their momentum once play resumed and opened up a 20-5 lead with 12:21 remaining on a pair of baskets by O'Mara and hoops by Silinski, Novak and Willie Townsend.

The Irish finally slowed down a bit midway through the opening session and the Falcons were able to score six straight points and close the gap to 21-13 before Silinski and John Egart hit from the field to give Notre Dame a 12-point bulge with 9:07 left in the half.

After Bob Hotaling canned a shot for the Falcons, the Irish ran off eight straight points in a minute and a half, six of them by Chris "Hawk" Stevens, to boost their lead to 33-17.

The Irish cooled off considerably after that spurt, going scoreless for over four minutes, but Bowling Green was able to pick up only six points in that span.

Stevens dropped one in at 3:11 to break the ice for the Irish, who outscored the Falcons 10-6 the rest of the way and took a 43-27 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

Don "Slink" Silinski lays in two of the 15 points he scored in last night's 92-65 thrashing of Bowling Green at the ACC.

Neither club shot well in the first half, Notre Dame making just 16 of 50 shots for 32 percent while the Falcons hit on only 26 percent, sinking 10 of 38 attempts.

Both teams had 28 rebounds but the Irish had an advantage at the free throw line, making 11 of 12 charity tosses (they canned 24 of 26 overall) to the Falcons' seven of 11, and the Irish forced Bowling Green to make 16 turnovers while committing only seven themselves.

ND wrestlers visit Purdue

Senior captain Ken Ryan will be going after a record mark of 48 career victories, and freshman heavyweight Mike Fanning will be looking for his 20th straight win of the season as the Irish wrestlers take on the Boiler-maker grapplers in West LaFayette tonight.

The Irish have already broken 24 team and individual records this year and their current slate is their best won-lost mark ever.

Cortina wins at MSU Relays

by E. J. Kinkopf

Freshman shot putter Greg Cortina added another first place award to his trophy case, as he paced the Notre Dame track team in the individual competition at the MSU Relays in East Lansing last Saturday.

Cortina topped all the shot putters with a toss of 59'8".

Besides the first place finish by Cortina, the Irish managed three fourth place finishes, fifth and a sixth.

Tom McMannon turned in a fourth place finish in the hurdles, and teamed up with Mike Pat Mullalley, and Jack Gerwe for another fourth in the shuttle hurdle relay.

Fleetfooted griddler Eric Pennick copped a fourth in the 300-yard dash with a clocking of 31.2 seconds.

The Falcons managed to stay with the Irish in the opening minutes of the second half and moved to within 11 points of Notre Dame, 51-40, with 14:09 remaining. But that was as close as Bowling Green was to come. Novak and Egart sank shots to give the Irish a 15-point bulge and the Falcons never even mildly threatened again.

Notre Dame put the game away with an 11-point tear that saw them open up a 77-52 lead with 6:11 to go.

Phelps began to substitute liberally after that surge, clearing his bench in the final minutes.

O'Mara took game scoring honors, netting 21 points, and Novak was right behind him with 20. Silinski, with 15 points, and Stevens, who dropped in 10, were also double figures for Notre Dame.

Brian Scanlan led the Falcons attack with 12 points and Jim Kindle chipped in 10.

The Irish will be in action again on Saturday night, traveling to New York City to take on the nationally-ranked North Carolina Tar Heels in Madison Square Garden.

Frosh drub Chitown club

by Joe Passiatore

The Irish freshmen basketball team engaged in what amounted to a game type scrimmage with the Chicago Hustlers last night and came away with a 113-67 victory that was anything but hard fought.

The Hustlers were a team comprised of schoolteachers, some of whom had previously played college basketball. The team participates in three different Chicago leagues and came into last night's contest with a 38-10 record. In an earlier encounter with DePaul's freshmen (recent victors over the Irish frosh), the Hustlers lost by only two points.

Last night, however, the team was without three of their better players and, as a result, the game quickly evolved into a one-sided affair for the Irish.

In the early going it appeared that the contest might be fairly close as Notre Dame held only a 16-13 lead at 13:36 of the first half. At this point, the Irish implemented a full court press, much to the chagrin of the Hustlers. The press brought about a plethora of Hustler errors and Notre Dame lay-ups. The score continued to mount against Chicago until, with 2:20 left in the half, Notre Dame led 51-21.

The Irish did not employ the press in the second half in an effort to hold down the score. It made little difference, however, as the Hustlers, who had only six players present for the game, looked tired throughout the second half.

Gary Brokaw turned loose an occasional drive for the basket, Pete Crotty hit 7 of 8 shots from in close, Dwight Clay banged away from the outside, and it was never a question of who would win, only by how much. Clay had 18 points, Crotty totaled 17, Brokaw 16 and Bedford Bruno scored 13. None of the four played more than twenty-five minutes in the game.

Coach McLaughlin began substituting midway through the second half, but there was no let up in sight for the Hustlers. Frank Allocco came in and personally rolled up the score with a run and gun exhibition that could have gotten him reported to the humane society. He scored 19 points, mostly on jumpers from the foul line, and made several nice passes. Gary Beaverson was unstoppable for a stretch late in the game and scored seven straight points for Notre Dame. Beaverson's streak was comprised mainly of tip-ins and he eventually went on to score 10 points.

For the game, Notre Dame shot 55 percent, a percentage that would have given tougher opponents problems. The Hustlers, meanwhile, were successful on only 36 percent of their field attempts.

The victory boosted the Leprechauns record to 10-5.

Burgundy Singers reviewed

The Burgundy Street Singers are a bright, handsome and thoroughly "now" musical group with a style and verve as effervescent as their name.

They're seven in number -- five guys and two gals -- with a fresh sound and a fresh look that in the space of just two years has boosted them to major appearances on top television shows and made them favorites in popular clubs throughout the country.

Observer Review

The group first came to national prominence in 1969 when they appeared as regulars on the "Jimmie Rodgers Show" which was the hit of the summer season for CBS-TV. Since that time they have appeared on such programs as the Carol Burnett Show, Johnny Carson Show, Barbara McNair Hour and most recently, as semi-regulars on NBC-TV's new "Red Skelton Show".

One of the most popular contemporary groups on the club circuit, the Burgundys have played Caesars Palace in Las Vegas with headliners Anthony Newley and Jimmie Rodgers, have topped shows at Harrah's Club in Reno and Lake Tahoe, the Nugget in Sparks, Nevada, the Persian Room of the Plaza Hotel in New York City, the Playboy Plaza Hotel in Miami Beach where they were held over indefinitely for a period of three months, at the Exposition in Ottawa, Canada, and last summer played nearly every major State Fair in the nation. Additionally, for the past two years, the group has been signed by the Anheuser-Busch Corporation for television commercials and personal appearances on behalf of the company's Budweiser beer.

The group was formed three years ago on the Kansas State University campus by two members of the glee club. The youngsters were searching for "something extra" in their college life. That something was the formation of a singing group.

A fan who had followed the group from concert to concert noticed that the two girls always wore the same burgundy colored outfits. He suggested turning that to their advantage by calling themselves something with burgundy in the title. After discarding Burgundy Hill, they decided upon Burgundy Street Singers.

The group had started off with singers, guitars and a bass. When the two more were added, they added more instruments. To the sound of guitars and bass were added the sounds of horns, piano, and drums. Little by little, by trial and error, they found what they were looking for -- a different and distinctive sound.

When the group finally began to make a little money from the numerous concerts they were giving, they still did not "declare" a profit. Every cent that was earned was put back into furthering the success of the group, with everyone an equal partner.

Then late in 1967, one of the group saw an article in the school paper inviting any interested musical organization to compete in the National Intercollegiate Jazz Festival. The first step would be the Regional contest in Salt Lake City, followed, hopefully, by the Finals in St. Louis.

The fresh, exciting talent of the Burgundy Street Singers was "soundly" recognized as they won in both Salt Lake City and St. Louis!

Talent -- like the bubbles in their namesake -- always reaches the top and, as the song says, it's "Up, Up And Away" for the Burgundy Street Singers.
