Hall presidents react to letter

by Jim Ferry
Observer Staff Reporter

Hall presidents contacted this weekend reacted both favorably and with confusion to Butch Ward's letter which was presented to the Hall President's Council Tuesday night.

Ward's letter was written attacking the "easily aroused cynicism" that he felt prevalent on campus. Ward, the President of Alumni Hall and the chairman of the Hall President's Council, went on to state that "We are a student body without a leader".

While he did not mention any specific course of action that would remedy this situation, he said that "We are left with only our hall governments to provide direction, and only in complete support of those governments can we hope to recapture self-respect and a glimpse of what true Christian community at Notre Dame could be".

He ended his letter by asserting that "every hall president would attest to a real concern for this student body" and that "we have nothing more important than you".

Several Hall Presidents were contacted in regards to this letter, and opinions expressed were basically in agreement with each other. Ronald Raja, Hall President of Fisher, felt that Ward was "sincere and honest in the letter", but he himself didn't know if everyone on campus felt that same way. Payja went on to say that the HPC wasn't really a "political body, so it couldn't do much about the situation mentioned".

The President of St. Edward's, Greg Thomas, felt that he couldn't comment on the letter because he had only heard it read to him once at the meeting. He complained, as did several other Presidents, that he was supposed to have received a dittoed copy of the letter, but that it had not arrived yet. He said that he had "a lot of questions about the letter".

Pat McLaughlin, Pangborn H.P., said that he couldn't go into specifics (no copy of the letter), but that he agreed with the whole tone of the letter. McLaughlin thought that "the H.P.C. should become more active in the affairs of the Student Body" and that most of the other H.P.s would agree with him.

HPC chairman seeks re-evaluation

Butch Ward, Chairman of the Hall President's Council, petitions students to work through their Hall Government in the absence of a student body leader.

September is traditionally a month filled with exuberance and enthusiasm when viewed within the entire scope of a school year, but that vigorous spirit depends integrally upon a fleeting force so obviously missing from the Notre Dame campus this fall. That force - direction.

Such an orphaned state has been experienced by many groups in recent years. The Democratic party experienced the confusion that results from a lack of direction following the assassination of Robert Kennedy; the Kent State student body felt that same directionless despair following the murder of their compatriots. But the Democrats could blame their despair on the demented mind of an assassin, and the students at Kent State could hold an excitable police force in contempt for their confusion. Notre Dame students will undoubtedly search for some pitiful soul whom they will choose to martyr as the reason for their despair.

We need look no farther than our own easily aroused cynicism.

The cynic is the person who abandons positive action in favor of a destructive criticism that leaves all previous action fatally deserted, while camouflaging his destruction under a shallow wit. Frustrated by an incredibly "long" period of striving to achieve self-government within the halls without result, we have chosen now to laugh ourselves into this directionless abyss.

It's not funny anymore.

The fact is that we have spent precious few years in our endeavor to achieve recognition from the administration, and now, instead of continuing our efforts to achieve that recognition, we have laughed ourselves out of any chance of attaining that much needed respect.

We are a student body without a leader.

The freshmen have already been advised by our esteemed king to approach some other more interested soul for assistance, for he is too busy. Perhaps the remainder of the student body should realize that we, too, hold the same respected position in our leader's eyes.

We are a student body without a leader; the pitiful fact is that we chose our own fate.

The root of our present state lies in the destructive cynicism that has cultivated in the minds of so many. But where has that cynicism led us? Have we achieved self-government? Are we any more respected by the administration that holds the keys to that attainment of self-government? Not only are we unrecognized, we are heckled.

If we are to achieve that realization of Christian community that must accompany our claims to self-government, we had better begin to take ourselves seriously, for if we do not, none of us can expect anyone else to afford us that same respect. I intend no animosity towards anyone in this epistle, for I wish to gain a real respect for every member of this Notre Dame Community. But I happen to be a person who has accepted a position that becomes progressively difficult as the present wave of cynicism increases. We are left with only our hall governments to provide direction, and only in complete support of those governments can we hope to recapture self-respect and a glimpse of what true Christian community at Notre Dame could be. I speak as a hall president, and I am confident that every hall president would attest to a real concern for this student body. Use us - we have nothing more important than you.

Peace

Geneva -- The Soviet Union has recently begun to supply weapons directly to Al Fatah the parent organization of the Black September terrorist group, according to highly placed leftist sources. Arab and Israeli informants say that Al Fatah provides arms as well as money and manpower for Black September operations and it was after learning that Arab terrorists had been gathering in Southern Lebanon that the Israeli army made forays into Lebanon this weekend.

Washington -- The world bank, the largest single dispenser of aid to poor countries, reported that despite billions of dollars of foreign aid and "impressive" economic growth in poor nations, "it is probably true that the world's burden of poverty is increasing rather than declining.

New York -- The federal governments $1.3 billion-a-year guaranteed student loan program, the largest single source of financial aid for the nation's college students is in a state described typically as "uncertain," "confused" and sometimes "chaotic." Many of the 1.2 million students who normally would get the guaranteed loans are temporarily without sufficient funds at the return to the campuses this month as a result of misunderstandings of how the newly revised program is supposed to work.

Pre-Law society

The Pre-Law Society will meet with all interested Seniors tonight in the Library Auditorium at 7:30. Any underclassmen considering a career in law should attend the society's second meeting on Friday, September 22 in the Library Auditorium.

Dan Kogovsek, the Society's President, related that the Society's purpose "is to acquaint its members with the legal profession, in order that they might make a more informed decision as to their future in the field of law."

The Pre-Law Society, according to Kogovsek, publishes a monthly newsletter to keep its members informed about relevant information dealing with law schools and the profession in general.

Also, they sponsor symposia in which visiting attorneys and law students discuss law and a career in law.

Kogovsek noted that three speakers have already been retained for meetings this semester. They are Professor John Houck, Dean Thomas Schaffer of the Notre Dame Law School, and Dean Waddick.

The other officers of the Pre-Law Society are Cindy King, Vice President for Publicity; Tom Chansky, Vice President in charge of newsletters; and Dennis Voegl, Secretary-Treasurer.

Welsh

The Notre Dame Students' Committee for the Election of Matt Welsh for Governor held an organizational meeting Thursday night.

At the meeting, emphasis was placed on Welsh's record. Matt Welsh, elected governor in 1960 under the Democratic banner, strengthened the Civil Rights Commission by putting priorities on creating employment, housing, and equal opportunities for minorities in government and private business. It was noted that Indiana gained jobs at almost 11 times the previous rate, Indiana's total labor force increased as the unemployment rate dropped to 3.7 per cent, and highway construction and resurfacing progressed at a record breaking pace.

Welsh's new programs include a realistic review of problems confronting Indiana, involving passage of the 18-year old drinking age, reduction of the penalties concerning private use of marijuana, and an improvement of roads which gave Indiana the seventh worst traffic fatality record in the nation last year.

Anyone interested in helping send Matt Welsh back to the statehouse should contact Ted Smith at 333 Sorin, 283-8575. "This committee work will provide an excellent opportunity for students to join in a closer involvement in state-wide elections, elections which will have a definite bearing on the quality of life experienced by each of us here at Notre Dame," stated Smith.

Volunteers needed

The ND-SMC Council for the Retarded is an active student volunteer organization working with Logan Center, which is located just a few yards south of the campus, to serve the needs of the retarded children and adults in the South Bend Community.

There will be a meeting for both old and new volunteers on Monday, Sept. 18th 7:30 PM in room 118 of Nieuwland Science Hall. For further information or if unable to attend, please contact Jack Greeley (234-2334) OR John Stelma (1786).

Capt. promoted

The promotion of Capt. Franklin C. Ordonio, a member of the Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps at the University of Notre Dame, to the rank of major has been announced by headquarters officials in Washington. The advancement in rank was effective September 1.

A member of the Notre Dame faculty since July, 1970, Ordonio is a 12-year member of the Air Force and is classified as a senior navigator. He was the recipient of the Distinguished Flying Cross for his part in an unarmed reconnaissance mission in Viet Nam in 1967 where he also received five Air Medals and the Air Force Commendation Medal for distinguished service.

Ordonio received a bachelor's degree in English at Rockhurst College, Kansas City, in 1958 and a master's degree at Marquette University, Milwaukee, in 1960. He and his wife are the parents of three children.

Baltic Studies

The Center for Baltic Studies received little response on Activities Night in LaFortune Student Center and Center Director Ray Copulis blamed it on the blackout and the "catacombic location in the Rathskellar."

Copulis claims that many students are interested in the Center, but they couldn't find the Center's booth. He said that students who are still interested can reach him at 8730.

Faculty assesses future of SLC

by Don Ruane

Student Life Council elections for the six student representatives will be held this Wednesday. This is the second part of a three part series presenting the outlook for the 1972-73 SLC from the point of view of student, faculty and administrative representatives who are new members, or are returning as members from last year's council. Today, the faculty outlook.

The SLC has been floundering about like a cramped swimmer since 1968 and this could be the year it goes down for the third time, unless certain rescue apparatus is brought to the scene.

Professor John Borkowski, chairman of psychology dept. may resign SLC seat.

From the comments of four faculty representatives the Observer was able to contact during the weekend, the following conclusions are drawn: 1. The SLC will become an inactive body as far as faculty and administrators are concerned if the student representatives do not work hard.

2. The issues will rise spontaneously without much thought beforehand.

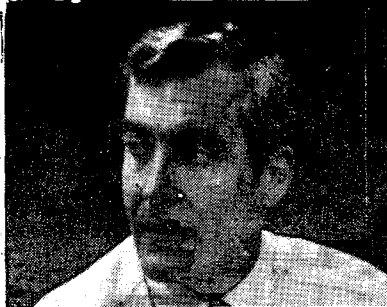

3. Generally, members will be unwilling to spend much time researching the issues.

4. If the council doesn't prove itself by digging into some issues with authority, it will no longer be viable.

Prof. William Chapin, an ex-officio member as vice chairman of the Faculty Senate, places the success of the council upon the students, for whom the council is intended. He described Wednesday's election as very important, adding that "the only issues of importance will be raised by the students."

The faculty and administration should respond, more than initiate, according to Chapin's view, and they will allow the SLC to become active or inactive depending upon the students.

According to Chapin this is so because the nonstudent members are with the University for a longer period than the students, and consequently, they don't feel the issues as sensitively as the undergraduates.

Spontaneous talk

Prof. John Uhran, another ex-officio member from the Faculty Senate, is entering his first SLC seat with optimism, and without any preconceived notions. He leaves the council's success up to the members and believes it very good that people will be able to sit down and talk.

When asked what they might talk about this year, Uhran had no specific ideas, and described past SLC discussions as "spontaneous."

Other than keeping an open mind about the whole thing, Uhran said he hadn't discussed the SLC with anyone because, "I wasn't actually sure it was going to have any meetings this year," due to the confusion surrounding the aborted spring election of student members.

Uhran is chairman of the Faculty Senate's student affairs committee.

Uhran's contention that issues are spontaneous is supported to some degree by the comments of the other four representatives.

Sophs plan meeting

by Bob Quakenbush
Observer Staff Reporter

An organization meeting for the Class of '75 has been slated for Monday evening at 7 p.m. on the second floor of the LaFortune Student Center.

Cancellation of a Sophomore Parents Weekend schedule for October 28 prompted the sophomore officers to announce the assembly for all interested second year students.

In a joint statement issued to the Observer, Dave Yates, president, Greg Garrison, vice president, Art Gillon, secretary, and Pete Fleming, treasurer, disclosed that many problems which had arisen over the summer have rendered the student-parent activity impossible, at least temporarily. The officers expressed their apologies to any class members and their parents, who may have been inconvenienced by this decision, while pointing out that letters are being prepared to inform the parents of the change.

Declaring "we have learned the hard way that we cannot handle everything ourselves," the sophomore administrators hope to enlist the aid of their classmates on Monday.

Topics planned for the agenda are freshmen elections, fund raising, social activities, Mardi Gras, and a myriad of others.

"We need your help to make this year meaningful and memorable. Please insure success by attending Monday at seven!", the officers concluded.

For any further information, contact Art Gillon at phone number 1026.

"Hey look -- freshman!"

Last chance

The Student Life Council is on its last leg. Students are justifiably reluctant to take the election of new student representatives seriously. In fact, given the current mess in student government, students are justifiably reluctant to take anything the king and his court does seriously.

Still there are two very good reasons that the SLC should resume meeting this year. First, Philip Faccenda, the acting vice president of student affairs, is a very busy man. It is extremely possible that the recommendations of the body will be treated with the respect and concern they have always deserved because the new office of student affairs literally has nowhere else to go for legitimate student opinion. It is impossible to demand constructive student input into university governance if the one council with the most visible opportunity to provide that input renigs.

Secondly, even though most students consider the major hall life questions (i.e. drinking and visitations) settled or at least not worth fighting over any more, student input into two important issues concerning the further conversion of Notre Dame into a fully coeducational institution is now critical. The questions are: When will the university establish its first co-residential dormitory and which hall will be converted next to a female residence.

Refresher course

It's been so long since the SLC did anything of note that many students may have forgotten how the body actually operates. The 24 seats are filled by eight students, faculty members and administrators, respectively. Two seats from each group are ex officio. The elective faculty and administrative seats are filled on two year terms so that three new members of each group are seated each year. All students seats are changed each year--two via the SBP election and the remaining six via the election on Wednesday.

Politically speaking, the vice president of student affairs, the university president and the Board of Trustees all have veto power over any SLC decision.

Recommendations

In spite of the fact that the deck has been stacked against the SLC since its inception, The Observer believes that the council deserves one more chance to prove its worth. Towards that end we will endorse candidates for the Wednesday election. The format for the endorsements will be changed from past years. Three categories will be used: recommended, acceptable and not acceptable.

Candidates will be asked the same set of questions concerning the role of the SLC and their opinions on the issues mentioned above. The reasons for giving any candidate an endorsement will be noted in the context of the answers given to these questions.

In addition, a one-hundred word statement from all candidates will be printed on the facing page.

None of this will do much of anything unless the turnout on Wednesday is good. Otherwise the student body is defaulting by giving the administration permission to calling anything it pleases legitimate student input. It's not worth the risk.

The Editorial Board

Announcement

Candidates for the SLC who wish to be interviewed by the Observer please contact the office by 5:00 this afternoon. Any candidate who wishes to submit a 100 word statement for publication must bring the copy to the editorial board interview. All statements which exceed the limit will be cut at the last permissible sentence.

Blues Razzbury

Ed Ellis

In a letter to Student Life Council members dated April 11, 1972, then chairman Dr. William Eagan stated, "All must be going well at Notre Dame. The Steering Committee has received nothing to place on the agenda since the February 24 meeting."

With this as a footnote, the 1971-72 term of the Student Life Council ended, not with a bang, or with a whimper or even with a good-sized squeak. It just clunked to a close. Nothing very graceful or very poetic about it at all.

And this week the SLC tools up for another grinding, clanking, groaning year. Some old faces, most notably Dr. Eagan's, will be missing. University Vice-President and General Counsel Philip J. Faccenda holds two seats now and will be looking for someplace to put one of them. And it's always good, clean fun to sit around and wonder what Bob Kersten's next grandstand play will be.

All this given its proper weight, we will still probably see the corpse of the SLC by the end of this year. The fatality could come by suicide; it may result from hardening of the arteries. Hopefully it will be the result of some sort of transition from the over-sized, over-politicized, and underworked SLC to some other group that can hold the attention of top administrators at Notre Dame.

It would be nice, though, for the SLC -- or somebody, at least -- to tell the boss-men who shuffle papers under the Golden Lady what students think about certain problems that come up this year. In short, it's quite possible that all will not "be going well at Notre Dame."

First, we have the question of a bar on campus, something that will undoubtedly become a reality as soon as Indiana passes an eighteen-year drinking law. Acting Vice-President Faccenda has spoken to the Hall Presidents about this, and shows an awareness of the problems, as well as the benefits of such an establishment. It would be good, however, for an official, University body to reinforce the feeling of the HPC.

Second, we have the question of the next women's dorm on campus. Students in Farley become noticeably upset when this subject is raised. Last year, even Rev. Thomas Blantz, C.S.C., the man who allegedly made the decision, could never justify to Badin Hall members the selection of their hall. The SLC is empowered in its bylaws to investigate and recommend halls for conversion to female usage.

Third, we have the emotional question of a co-residential hall. This, too, is subject to investigation by the SLC or its successor.

Another seldom-noted process is the Search Committee for a new Vice-President for Student Affairs. With the Graduation of John Barkett, there is no student sitting on the committee. The SLC, or at least the student membership of the SLC, would be in a position to request student participation, especially since the student government appears entirely ignorant of the process.

If the new constitution passes, there will be added responsibility for the students elected Wednesday. They will, in effect, be the student government, especially if Kersten quits, as he has been threatening to do for so long.

And thus there are a few things which require some attention this year. Not many things, of course, except maybe for the pool started by one group of guys to guess the date of the first panty raid on Walsh.

It would, however, be fortuitous were somebody -- anybody -- to tell Mr. Faccenda, Fr. Burtchaell, and the rest of the men in the gold-tipped ivory tower, that all is not well at the Dome. The Acting Vice-President seems to be a man of judgement, a man who will listen to other men of judgement. Let them come forth.

Letter

Editor,

I hesitate to dignify this paper by further appearing in it, but the damage done by it in last Friday's S.L.C. article forces me to speak. The remark in question was offered to a member of the staff who had agreed not to print it and who then proceeded to put it in print. This was an unforgivable breach of promise and resulted in making me appear as if I were boldly being crude in print in order to gain attention--a grievous misrepresentation of such a refined individual as myself.

The fact that no explanation has been given me as to why this happened indicates that it was the result of a conscious attempt to besmirch my flawless character. It once again shows, the Observer

. . . . on the SLC to be lacking in any sense of responsibility, good taste or talent--an image which it can't seem to shed. It is a sad thing to see in a paper which was slowly trying to salvage its credibility after a low point during the campus elections last spring.

Disdainfully

s & c: glad to meetcha

Last Friday night, I met two musicians that utterly astounded me with their expertise, versatility and creativeness, to say nothing of their rapport ability. I can do little but report of my meeting as it happened.

Friday, September 15, 1972, 8:10. Late again! One of these times, I'm gonna learn the inner workings of the St. Mary's bus system well enough to be able to plan things well enough to be able to plan things right. Hope I haven't missed too much...

Wow, security guards at the door, searching blankets. Haven't seen that before. Luckily, they're not slowing the crowd down, and they do seem to be finding goodies under some of the blankets...

Ah, here's a good spot - close, yet not too close. Hmmm. Seals and Crofts are supposed to be a countryfolk group - at least that's what they told me. Wonder what they're like. Am I familiar with them? Afraid not, only by reputation and the song "Year of Sunday". Other than that, this is my first experience, and right now, I'm a bit puzzled. For a "quiet" country-folk group, that's sure a hell of a lot of equipment up there. This could prove interesting...

Well, 8:20 and we're still listening to the canned stuff - so much for the "start on time" syndrome the Social Commission had last year. They advertised Bonnie Koloc as special guest star (at least in the later ads; wonder what happened to the Pure Prairie League?), so I guess that means she'll come on first. Wonder where she is...

Rich Donovan just cleared up up that mystery - she got sick last night. Maybe next year, Bonnie. Instead, we've got a campus guy, Kevin Dockrell. Hey! I've heard of him. Hope he's as good as his reputation...

Doesn't waste any time, does he - right into Elton John's "Country Comfort". Doesn't sound bad at all, either. Too bad the crowd doesn't feel like listening to him...

He's into another song now; but I can't believe how everybody's making so much noise. I wonder how he can put up with it.

More goodies: "After the Goldrush", "Gypsy Man", (one of the better ones), "Keeping You on My Mind," and finally, "Magic Spell," with Rich Donovan on drums.

General conclusion: not bad for a campus artist, especially considering the treatment he got from the crowd. A fairly professional performance, particularly since he only had about 4-5 hours to get ready...

Ah, intermission time - that totally worthless yet necessary time to do nothing but wait...

Some movement on stage now - wait a minute - could be - but not yet: just an announcement. ...a fiddle and a saxophone borrowed from ND? More mysteries about S&C...

Don't know what they opened with, but I sure did like it. They seem to harmonize quite well, if a bit quietly; that bass almost threatened to drown them out. A curious group: an acoustic guitar in the hands of Jim Seals, a man whose looks seem to claim that he couldn't get away with playing anything else; a bass under the fingers of Bobby Lichtig, a curly-headed freak with almost ghostly movements; and of all things, a mandolin of Dash Crofts', sweetly singing as he smiles and laughs. Kinda like a mixture of Cat Stevens, Simon and Garfunkel and Rod Stewart's backup band (not Faces, the other one). Most curious.

Dash seems to be the lucky one to do all the talking - he tells us that they're gonna do stuff from their new album, Summer Breeze. That figures: why else go on tour?

Leading off is one called "Funny Little Man", a funny little tune whose melodic line reminds me of "Taste of Honey" and whose overall tone brings back memories of early Jethro Tull...

What's that? Somebody over there on the left is making some kind of noise. Nice guys! Sure wish there was some way to keep the total asses out of happenings like this...

A few more gentle songs, and suddenly, the stage explodes with music and movement! The crowd is delighted: it's square dance time! Wild dances all around me, clapping, singing, footstomping an incredible frenzy and it doesn't seem like its gonna stop oh wow there they go into another song boy he can play that fiddle and yet another song and everything's bust loose and another I can't tell the difference between them and I don't think the crowd cares...

Whew! That's the first group I've seen in awhile to get the crowd going so early in the show. It's gonna take something really good to follow that...

They seem to manage, though, by toning it down with "Year of Sunday", a deceptively simple song, vaguely sounding of Cat Stevens, but with Yesian changes of motives.

A quickie next, followed by a few country-oriented numbers, that I can't really get into - they don't seem as imaginative as the others.

What's this? A surprise: everybody changes instruments: Bobby's bass for a flute, Jim's guitar for a tenor sax, and Dash's mandolin for electric piano. A jazz number, "The Gate," that's definitely got to be the highlight of the show, has me enthralled. I must say, this alone raises my respect for the group. Rarely is such versatility seen in popular groups: country, rock, jazz, folk, all skillfully done. What more can be said?

"The Gate" is followed by a strangely attractive tune with a vague latin beat. It's nice - something I could get really into late at night...

And the finale, "Bonaparte's Retreat," again a song I find not as interesting, again because of the country tone, but well done.

But not quite the end. This crowd for sure won't let them go this easily, and they don't. The encore song - well, there's nothing I could really say about it - I just enjoyed more hoedown music to leave the show with, and that was it.

Don't think I'll go to their rap session in Flanner; that'll be too crowded. Besides, I've met them once tonight, and for me that once was enough - I'll have enough to remember the way it is.

Sure hope the Student Union can do this again...

I make no pretense to like everything Seals and Crofts played. There were many things I didn't. I do look forward to meeting them again, though.

Little Big Screen

This weekly column is aimed at two types of students (and some faculty); those who avidly watch television and movies, and those who watch occasionally for escape, a change of pace, or whatever. In the few column inches allotted me I shall attempt to assess the coming weeks programs and movies in an effort to at least let the viewer know what he is in for. The emphasis will primarily be on movies both on T.V. and on the screen in South Bend. But I cannot help throw in some trivia every so often.

Fortunately the T.V. season this year gives me a great deal to review. Movies like "Z," "Laurence of Arabia," and "Patton" (I am interested in seeing how the ABC censors handle that one) are slated on one network alone. I will not be able to review the made-for-T.V. flicks for obvious reasons nor the ABC Sunday night movie scheduled is made known.

Now, on to the reviews. With a fantastic opening the networks have last week thrown a few blockbusters at the viewer such as Around the World in Eighty Days "In the Heat of the Night" and "Goldfinger." A sleeper "The Anderson Tapes," managed to find its way on the NBC schedule last Monday and probably took high ratings since the ABC movie "The Odd Couple" was pre-empted due to the closing ceremonies of the Olympics.

This week's movies are not as great as last week but a few deserve mention. For action-western fans and those without any exams on Friday, Channel 22 has The Professionals scheduled at 8:00 on Thursday. Basically, Burt Lancaster, Robert Ryan, and Claudia Cardinale wipe out villain Jack Palance (a great bad-guy ever since "Shane" (with bullets, bow and arrows, and dynamite. Lee Marvin got his basic training for "The Dirty Dozen" in this one.

"The House of Usher" (Tues., Chan. 22, 10:30) although loosely based on Poe's classic tale still manages to catch the mood and come off halfway decently. Usher? Vincent Price, of course. "The Woman Hunter" is one of the new CBS Tuesday flicks and hence is unreliable. It looks promising though since it features Robert Vaughn, Stuart William, and Barbara Eden. And for those who do absolutely nothing but watch TV (even I pity them) there's ABC's Tuesday movie of the week "No place to Run" which has already had good reviews from the Bible of television, T.V. Guide. And for those without a date, catch Steve McQueen and Faye Dunaway in "The Thomas Crown Affair" Saturday on 22 at 8:00. It will pass the time.

Now for the baddies. Skip the Doris Day schmaltz on 16 tonight, "With Six you got an Eggroll". Besides, the Redskins play the Vikings at Minnesota on the ABC Monday Night Football season opener. Also skip Wednesday's "Haunts of the Very Rich" as it looks like another ghost story of no distinguishable merit, and the trashy and badly acted "Valley of the Dolls" on 22 Friday at 8:00. Besides, you should be getting warmed up for the Northwestern game anyhow.

Next week I am going to try and predict the shows that will not make it this year. For those who are wondering where "Columbo" disappeared to, he is on Sundays (his first last night). For those who still miss the Man from UNCLE, Robert Vaughn is back with a new half hour show at 9:30 on 22 Sunday nights. I do not know a thing about it except that it is one of those syndicated British shows and is called "The Protectors." Other trivial tidbits include Roger Moore's being named the future James Bond in the movie series replacing Sean Connery as 007. Moore, for the uneducated reading this article, played Simon Templar on "The Saint" for many years and Lord Brett Sinclair on the short lived (and rightfully so) "Persuaders" with Tony Curtis.

One final and sad note. William Boyd who rode his horse Topper as Hopalong Cassidy for 106 films from 1935 to 1953 died at the age of 77 last Wednesday. According to the Chicago Tribune, he refused to have any pictures taken of him in his last years since he had changed so much and did not "want to tamper" with our memories. The legacy of Hopalong Cassidy though will always be remembered by the kids who watched him.

Faculty comment on SLC future

second year as a member, said Sunday that if the SLC is going to remain, it will have to prove itself this year "by digging into some significant issues..." He added that committee work will have to be improved. "It was pretty deficient last year."

According to Weber, members were coming to the meetings without sufficient knowledge of the agenda items, thus becoming trapped in "parliamentary wrangling."

Chapin, reflecting on past SLC meetings, found the discussions "skillfully bogged down," and Prof. John Borkowski, also an SLC sophomore, believes that many members are not willing to devote time for research, including himself.

Borkowski recently became acting chairman of the psychology department and may resign his seat because of his time limitations.

Revision Needed

Reorganization or redefinition of the SLC was on the mind of all but Ubran to some degree.

Weber and Chapin would like to experiment with a smaller body. While Weber did not suggest any particular size, Chapin felt that only two or three representatives from each faction might be better.

Chapin, a student solon as an undergraduate, has adopted "a wait and see" outlook saying he "has never been very strong towards bodies that just exist per se."

He cites two reasons that could account for the SLC's existence. First, it could be just a place for groups to have a voice and speak to each other, or secondly, it could be someplace to discuss important issues and where there is "enough position and authority to do something about them."

Weber seems to agree with the last point. He said one "very noticeable" problem last year was that members felt that "important issues were being decided elsewhere," and that the SLC was not participating on a significant level.

"The SLC has to prove its viability or go out of business," Weber concludes.

Borkowski states that his "general optimism to the body to justify its self it in doubt," and that its composition and general purpose are the factors behind past SLC failures, and not a communications problem.

Other related areas the SLC might explore, according to Borkowski, include the relationship of the Vice President for Student Affairs office to the council; and, on the urging of student members, just who, what, or where is the power.

"The SLC may well have outlived its usefulness," Borkowski concludes, "or may not have even been an appropriate thing in the first place."

ND "dress rehearsal" pleases Ara

by Vic Dorr

Notre Dame's Fighting Irish will open their 1972 season next Saturday against the Northwestern Wildcats, and the two teams spent the last weekend before their annual meeting in different—but at the same time similar—ways.

Northwestern, of course, was opening their schedule with a 7-0 loss to the Michigan Wolverines. The Irish were running through the last Saturday scrimmage before their game preparation week and Coach Ara Parseghian took advantage of the scrimmage by turning it into a full dress rehearsal for the season opener.

"We gave our preparation a jump," he said. "We ran the number ones against anticipated Northwestern formations and plays and also against Northwestern defenses. Then we ran the number twos against the same unit."

"We went on what we knew about Northwestern from last year, of course. It may have been of value, or it may have been of no value at all," commented Ara

ND's number one offensive and defensive units scored a 34-0 win during the mock-up game, and Parseghian, while uncertain about the results of the scrimmage session, did draw encouragement from his team's performance.

"The first half pleased me," he said. "We showed improvement and consistency."

The scrimmage began with Tom Clements at the helm the number one offense, and the six-foot sophomore put his team on the scoreboard almost immediately with a 45-yard scoring toss to split end Willie Townsend. Clements hit two of six passes during the af-

Musuraca and McGraw back

Irish linebackers Jim Musuraca and Pat McGraw, suspended last week for a training rules violation, will be back in action today, according to coach Ara Parseghian.

After Saturday's scrimmage Parseghian said that the pair, both seniors, were "reinstated on strict probation with penalties assessed and were back on the squad "as of now."

Musuraca was a regular on the 1971 team logging 247 minutes of playing time, while McGraw saw only limited action last season. This year prior to their suspensions, both had been running with the first team.

ternoon (good for 56 yards), but several of his throws were dropped.

Notre Dame's ground game, though, had few such problems. Following freshmen Bob Zanol's 56-yard punt return, Clements took over at the 41-yard line to the defensive team and produced a touchdown two plays later. The Irish QB gained 16 yards on a keeper, and then sophomore Eric Penick blew around right end for 25 yards and the score.

An interception by defensive back Tim Rudnick gave Clements good field position for his third drive. Starting from its own 43- and sticking mainly to its ground game—the Irish offense scored in eight plays.

Penick opened the drive with a 20-yard scamper, and fullback Andy Huff ran for 14 and then picked up 11 more on a pass from Clements. Penick got the touchdown from five yards out.

Another interception—this time by linebacker Tim Sullivan—set up the fourth score by the number one offense. Sullivan intercepted on the 34, and then Penick and fullback John Cieszkowski moved the ball in for the tally. "Cisco," who splits time with Huff, gained 10 of the final 14 yards—and the touchdown—on three runs.

Eric Penick

Junior Cliff Brown, who has been competing with Clements for the number one quarterback job, took over after Cieszkowski's score, and he led the final two drives of the half.

Brown engineered a touchdown during his first possession.

Moving from his own 48, he kept the offense on the ground and covered the final yards himself with a pair of runs.

Parseghian still declined to name either Clements or Brown as his starting quarterback. "I'll announce that later," he said—though he did not indicate exactly when.

The second half of the scrimmage, which saw a departure from the dress rehearsal format, also saw the number two and number three offensive units do their only scoring of the afternoon.

Bill Etter's three-yard run put the second offense on the scoreboard, and sophomore Frank Allocco did the same for the number threes when he pitched a 39-yard touchdown to senior receiver Tom Wright. Allocco's performance—which came against the number one defense—drew praise from Parseghian:

"Frank did a fine job and has been coming along nicely," "He's been improving daily."

Defensive end George Hayduk, a member of the first-line defense, rounded out the afternoon's scoring when he scooped up a fumble and rambled into the end-zone from 30-yards out.

The Irish squad will move into its normal game preparation week this afternoon.

Jim Donaldson★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★

The Irish Eye

★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★★ Wildcats aren't vicious

The newspaper accounts of Michigan's 7-0 victory over Northwestern Saturday described the Big Ten opener for both clubs as a defensive battle. Which just goes to show you that you can't believe everything you read in the newspapers.

Virtually all of the excitement in Michigan Stadium took place in the U. of M. student section where the undergrads, bored by the display of offensive ineptitude on the field, amused themselves by "passing up" numerous quantities of girls, boys and wine bottles.

There was a great deal more passing in the stands than there was on the gridiron, where the Wildcats and Wolverines fought as two such beasts should, on the ground. In a throw back, or, more properly, runback, to football of 1950s vintage, the two teams combined to throw just 20 passes in the game.

Michigan's soph quarterback Dennis Franklin, the first black quarterback ever to start for the Wolverines, threw nine times, completing four passes for 60 yards, including the game's only touchdown. Northwestern's Todd Somers, who ran the 'Cats offense in the first half, and Mitch Anderson, who directed the attack in the final two quarters, attempted 11 passes, connecting on six for the grand total of 49 yards. Two of Somers' aeriels were intercepted, with one of the thefts setting up Michigan's touchdown.

With both teams running almost all of the time, the game was played in only two hours and five minutes. A good thing, because, despite the close score, most of the 71,757 in attendance were beginning to doze in the warm afternoon sun.

What excitement there was came late in the second quarter when linebacker Craig Mutch of Michigan picked off a Somers pass near midfield and returned it to the 'Cat 31. Five plays later, Franklin passed 21 yards to wide receiver Bo Rather for a touchdown.

Notre Dame will open its 1972 season ne weekendnd against Northwestern at Dyche Stadium in Evanston, Ill., and, while the Wildcats don't figure to be a pushover, it would be an upset if they could defeat the Irish, especially in view of their performance Saturday.

With Michigan's secondary at less than full strength because of injuries, Northwestern, boasting two fine pass catchers in tight end Steve Craig and wide receiver Jim Lash, figured to throw much more often than they did.

Before the game, Wildcat coach Alex Agase said, "In order to make your offense go, you need both running and passing. We won't come out firing because we've got to establish our running game. We'll have to probe to find out what will work."

Not much did work although it should be noted that Northwestern was not often blessed with good field position from which to operate.

The Wildcats were able to gain just 129 yards in 41 rushing attempts. Soph fullback Jim Trimble, frequently the only setback in the 'Cats offensive formation, did most of the ball-carrying, picking up 103 yards in 20 rushes.

Northwestern gained almost all its rushing yardage up the middle as the Wolverines kept fleet halfback Johnny Cooks bottled up inside.

When the 'Cats did try to pass, they threw short, chiefly to their backs and Craig. Lash did catch a couple of passes but both were for short yardage.

"We weren't consistent with our throwing," Agase said afterwards. "It was passing that got us in trouble in the first place."

Defensively, Northwestern turned in a solid effort, yielding 259 yards, which prompted Agase to comment, "Our defense did an admirable job for being so new."

But Michigan doesn't have bruising power backs like Notre Dame's John Cieszkowski or Andy Huff, nor do they have outside threats like Eric Penick or Greg Hill. Both Tom Clements and Cliff Brown, one of whom will start for the Irish next Saturday against Northwestern, appear to be better passers than the Wolverines Franklin, and figure to be more effective with the likes of Mike Creaney and Willie Townsend to throw to.

In short, Notre Dame will present a much greater offensive threat to the 'Cats than Michigan. Defensively, if the Irish can shut down Northwestern's not overpowering ground game, the 'Cats will have real trouble getting on the scoreboard.

It would seem that Northwestern's second game will be much more exciting than its season opener. At least for Notre Dame fans.

AFROTC handling directory help

by Tom Bornholdt
Observer Staff Reporter

Students belonging to the Arnold Air Society and Angel Flight have been manning the directory assistance phones for the university since September 4 and will continue to do so until the new directories are distributed around October 8.

A student wishing to contact any person living on the Notre Dame or Saint Mary's campuses can reach directory assistance by dialing 3222. Off-campus phone numbers are not available.

Dave Baird, a member of Arnold Air, heads this project. He gets computer print outs from Father Shilts, Asst. Vice President for Student Activities. These printouts list both grad and undergrad students in alphabetical order with their room number and hall.

He also gets lists of the hall rooms with the phone numbers. He then gets volunteers from the Arnold Air society and Angel Flight to sit at the desks for hour shifts. There are 2 phones at the ROTC building, when the first one is busy, calls are automatically diverted to the second.

When a request for a phone number comes in, the student operator looks up the campus address from the computer sheets and then finds the number of the listed room. If callers already know the hall and room of the person they wish to call, they can get their phone numbers more promptly.

Arnold Air has 32 members working the phones plus nine angels. This has meant that each person has had to put in about 4 hours per week. None of the students nor Arnold Air Society itself has been paid for this service by the university.

Directory Assistance is run every day from 10 am to 10 pm. Starting this week, there will be only 1 student manning the phones during slack hours.

The Arnold Air Society is an organization of cadets in AFROTC who voluntarily perform extracurricular services for the Air Force, their university and local community. Angel Flight is an organization of women who work with Arnold Air.

NEA backs McGovern

Presidential candidate George McGovern was endorsed by the National Educational Association.

The Executive Committee of the nation's largest individual-member association of college students, the Student National Education Association, today endorsed Sen. George McGovern for the presidency, noting that his record "shows his commitment to our country's youths and their concerns." This was the first time the organization, which this year is composed largely of new voters, has backed a presidential candidate.

Thomas D. Creighton, president of the 80,000-member organization, announced the endorsement of the McGovern-Shriver ticket by the Student NEA's 12 member Executive Committee at a new conference in the Statler-Hilton Hotel. At the same time, the 22-year-old youth leader from Lincoln, Nebr., declared that "we are appalled at the record of Richard Nixon during his first 40 months in the White House."

The leader of the Student NEA, which is affiliated with the 1.2 million member National Education Association, lauded McGovern for having "often stood alone in his battles to represent our viewpoints."

Mrs. Henry welcomed

Mrs. Henry, wife of SMC's new president

Mrs. Edward L. Henry, wife of Saint Mary's College new President, was officially welcomed to the campus Saturday with a champagne reception in Stapleton Hall Lounge given by administration, faculty, faculty wives, and staff.

Joining Mrs. Henry in the receiving line were Sr. M. Catherine Francis Ford, CSC, chairman of the Board of Regents; Sr. M. Sr. Alma Peter, coordinator of off-campus programs, was also to be included in the receiving line but left for Europe last week. Miss Jean Seymour, student body president, was out of town and unable to attend.

Mrs. Henry holds an MA in education and taught at St. John's University, where her husband was also a faculty
