

SLC hears energy commission report

Voluntary conservation is working

by Patrick Hanifin
Staff Reporter

The University Energy Conservation Committee told the SLC yesterday that voluntary conservation would solve the immediate problem but that more drastic action might be needed in the future. In other action yesterday SLC Chairman Dr. Fred Syborg issued a statement that the LaFortune Rathskeller would serve as a party center.

Fr. Flanigan, chairman of the energy committee, reported considerable progress to date in conservation. "Our voluntary program is going well, though it is by no means complete," Flanigan said, "and we have cut energy use 9 per cent from last February." Flanigan stated that committee was aiming at "moral persuasion" to cut waste rather than ordering mandatory cuts.

"So far we have sent letters to the Observer and all department chairmen, reminding everyone of the crisis. Working with the people in charge of the facilities, we have removed lightbulbs from some areas of the library and the ACC," Flanigan stated. He explained that one major problem was that newer buildings are over-illuminated. "That was the design style when they were built and the only way to cut back is to physically remove the light bulbs."

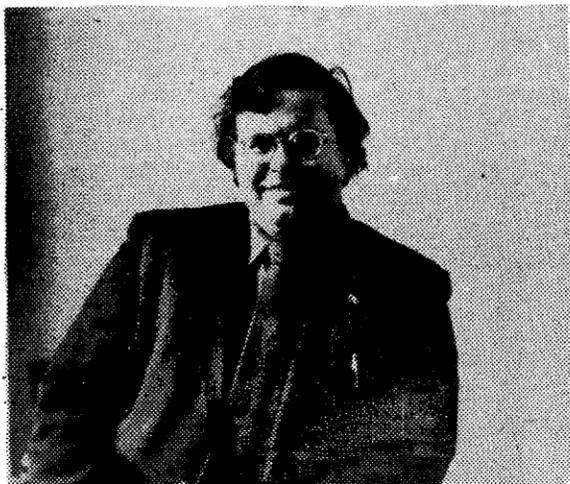

A subcommittee of students is working on plans for conservation in the dorms. The hall governments will be asked to appoint one student in each hall to conduct a survey of energy use in the hall, suggest what can be cut, and help get student support. There are no plans to tax appliances or require mandatory limits on their use. But students will be encouraged to unplug appliances over vacations and to cut down on unnecessary lighting. Halls will also be asked to reduce outside, hallway, and lavatory lights at night.

Chief engineer Gantzer of the generator plant explained the workings of the present system and its problems. "The situation is critical," he said, "and there is no point in kidding ourselves." While the generator is primarily coal-burning, large amounts of gas and oil are also used. "We have only a thirty day supply of gas guaranteed, and our coal supplier is 19,000 tons behind in his deliveries because of a back-up on the railroads."

Gantzer explained that in the last twenty years electrical use has risen from 9,000,000 kilowatt hours per year to 53,000,000. When the plant was constructed in 1948 electrical production was a by-product of the steam used for heating. Now the situation is reversed. "So the main problem is cutting down on electrical use, not heating," Gantzer said.

When questioned about the future he pointed out that the problem would last for several years. "So far we have been able to handle the problem by voluntary cut-backs on wasted energy but it is possible that the crunch could get much worse." Gantzer also stated that it might be difficult to buy energy from utility companies since they are having problems too. Presently the university gets one-third of its power from outside sources at increasing costs.

In other business Chairman Syborg, at the request of the SLC issued a statement about the long-awaited party-center. "The LaFortune Rathskeller will be available for hall parties with the approval of Fr. Schlaver regarding scheduling and procedure. Priority will be given to those nine halls that do not have party facilities of their own," said Syborg.

The SLC action followed successful experimental parties testing the feasibility of the location. The SLC encourages hall officers who do not have proper party facilities to request the use of the Rathskeller. So far a fifty dollar fee has been charged for its use, but, according to Fr. Schlaver this may soon be dropped or changed to a deposit.

The Rules and regulations subcommittee is currently looking for new members for the university judicial and appeals boards. They are also requesting current members to reapply for next year. The judicial board consist of 3 students and 3 faculty and administrators while the appeals board consists of one representative from each group. Members are drawn as needed from the pool of candidates approved by the SLC in May.

The planning and policy committee is working on a system of polling student opinion on parietals and other issues. They are working with the sociology department on this. Fr. Shilts reported that his office is continuing the housing poll of off-campus students by phone. "We were pleased by the results of the Observer poll," he stated, "with 110 out of 400 houses replying and we want to finish the job."

The newly elected student representatives were introduced to the committee, as were the newly elected SBP Pat McLaughlin and SBVP Frank Flanigan. The new representatives will take office in May.

Heath gives resignation as prime minister

Wilson appointed to the post

by Joseph W. Grigg

LONDON (UPI)—Prime Minister Edward Heath resigned Monday after nearly four years at the head of a Conservative party government and Queen Elizabeth named Labor party leader Harold Wilson to succeed him.

Wilson at once called on Britons to rally around his government as "one people" after the bitter election contest. "We've got a job to do," said a serious-faced Wilson, standing on the steps of the prime minister's No. 10 Downing St. office after the queen named him to head a government.

"We can only do that job as one people and I'm going right in to do that job now."

His wife Mary stood beside him. She accompanied her husband to Buckingham Palace, but waited downstairs during his 60-minute audience with the queen.

Wilson planned to forming a minority Labor party government without a coalition or alliance with any other party. Labor party treasurer James Callaghan said Wilson will name his key ministers Tuesday and also see heads of the 10 million-member Trades Union Congress and the Confederation of British Industry which represents about 12,000 industrial firms.

His first priority task, Labor party officials said, was to try to end the crippling national strike by 269,000 coal miners, now in its fourth week.

He will also attempt to get the nation back on a five-day work week, they said. It has been on a limping three-day week since December 31 to save fuel.

The changeover from the Conservatives to Labor ended for the time being at least a political crisis stemming from the failure of any party to win an overall majority in Thursday's general election. It took place smoothly in a little more than an hour at Buckingham Palace.

Heath's hopes of remaining in power were dashed after the Liberal party rejected an offer to join in a Conservative-Liberal coalition government. A short time later, Heath stepped into his car outside his No. 10 Downing St. office and drove through a freezing London night to the palace to hand his resignation to the queen. He spent 42 minutes with her.

Then Wilson, accompanied by his wife Mary, drove to the palace from his home near the House of Commons and accepted the queen's offer of the premiership.

The last constitutional "advice" Heath gave the queen as prime minister was that she should name Wilson his successor.

Wilson, the victor, smiled happily.

Heath, the man who lost the election he had called in hope of winning a sweeping new popular mandate, managed only a wan smile.

The announcement of Heath's resignation was made by his office at the very moment he stepped into his car to drive to the palace.

"The prime minister has sought an audience of the Queen in order to tender the resignation of his government," the announcement said.

The Liberals rejected Heath's plea for a coalition on grounds it was "not in the national interest" after Heath turned down a Liberal proposal for a national unity government that would include Labor.

The meeting between Elizabeth and Heath took place in the so-called 1844 room, a handsomely appointed apartment that was heated by a small fire, underscoring Britain's energy crisis and crippling coal miner's strike.

Heath's resignation came after the Conservatives failed to gain enough seats in parliament in Thursday's general elections to remain in power. The Conservatives won the popular vote, but the Laborites won more seats in the House of Commons, though they also failed to win a majority.

The election had been prompted by Heath's economic policies, rising inflation and a crippling nationwide coalminers strike. British workers were placed on a three-day work week to conserve energy.

Queen Elizabeth earlier in the day had canceled her return to Australia as planned. She flew home from a state visit the day after the elections because the sovereign must be present to accept the resignation of the prime minister.

Heath before entering his limousine for the trip to the palace was greeted by shouts of "Heath out! Heath out!" from a crowd outside 10 Downing St., the official residence of Britain's prime ministers.

Only a few scattered onlookers saw Heath arrive at the palace.

Palace officials said the queen stood waiting to receive Heath. After shaking hands with him, she sat in a high backed, throne-like chair. Smaller chairs were placed there for Heath and court officials.

Wilson met earlier at the House of Commons with his shadow cabinet-most of them the men and women who will be the members of his new government.

Black view of social change is Black Art Festival theme

by John DeCoursey
Staff Reporter

Plans for the Black Arts Festival, which will be held from March 27 to March 31, are almost complete. The festival is being sponsored by a coalition of various groups on campus including the New Frontier Scholastic Society, Ujama, Black Graduate Students Union, Black American Law Students Association (BALSA), and the Minority Social Commission. The plans for the event have been organized by a committee headed by Don Patton.

The theme of the festival is "Black Perspectives in Transition." The festival will stress the tools and ideas of bringing about social change, and black people's perspectives of bringing about change. Also, the change in goals of black society will be emphasized.

The events scheduled for the festival, as of now, are:

Wednesday, March 27: A forum for discussing the theme of the festival will be held in the Amphitheatre of LaFortune at 7:00 P.M.

Thursday, March 28: A speaker, as of yet unannounced, in the Library Auditorium at 8:00 P.M.

Saturday, March 30: The Kuumba Workshop, a professional guild from Chicago. They will perform a ritual which included mime and poetry set to African Jazz Music. The workshop will also have a rap session on the theme of the weekend and will be in the Library Auditorium from 3:00 to 5:00 P.M.

An art display of sketches and oil paintings by Don Turner, an Instructor in Afro-American Studies at Indiana State University, will be shown in the Fiesta Lounge in LaFortune, from 12:00 to 4:30 P.M. Saturday evening, a Jazz concert featuring Gary Bartz of New York, and his group, the NTU Troop, will be held in Stepan Center at 8:30 P.M.

Sunday, March 31: A speaker, as of yet unannounced, will be in the Library Auditorium at 2:00 P.M.

In the evening there will be a production entitled "Journey into Blackness," performed by "Voices Incorporated," a black musical theatrical group from New York City. This production will portray the history of the black man from the beginning of the slave trade until the present, through drama, dance and music. It will be held in O'Laughlin Auditorium at 7:30.

The admission price of the Gary Bartz Concert and the "Voices Incorporated" production will be $2.00 for students. The "Voices Incorporated" production will be $3.00 for general admission, and $1.00 for children under 12. Everything else is free, but organizers say that donations to the Kuumba Workshop will be appreciated.

I've been looking around for a place to play the piano, but so far I haven't had any luck. Do you know where they have any pianos around here?

They have several pianos over in O'Shaughnessy right across from the music office. However, it does cost money. They are rented for $10 a semester and are pro-rated. In other words, it costs $5 for a half-semester.

Every time I go to the A.C.C. I notice a small one-floor brick building across from the Aerospace Building. No one seems to know what it is. Do you know?

We found out that it is a pumping station. Inside there is a deep well which supplies water to the campus. Besides this one, there are two others.

Located in administration building New lost and found office

by Bob Quakenbush
Staff Reporter

Thanks to the cooperative effort of the Dean of Students Office, the Ombudsman, and the B-P Moosehunters, lost items may be located in the newly established Lost and Found Office, in Room 150 of the Administration Building.

"We have established a lost and found office in every building on campus except the residence halls, and we're working on that," reports "Dangerous Dan" Dunchcon, president of the Moosehunters. "Then we have weekly pick-ups to gather all the lost and found items and bring them to our central office in the Administration Building," he continued.

Dunchcon described the basic procedure in a recent interview. It is as follows: when an item is found, it should be turned in to the nearest building's lost and found office, where it will be retained for a week. If at the end of the week it is still unclaimed, it is transferred to the Administration Building's Room 150 (behind the Traffic Violations Bureau). All items are tagged with the following information: date found, and building, room, or general location found. Tentatively, if an item is still unclaimed five weeks after it was found, it will become the property of the Lost and Found Office.

"We are considering having an auction of everything we have left at the end of the year," said Dunchcon.

The system just began three weeks ago, and already the Lost and Found Office has hundreds of articles on its shelves. These range from watches, gloves, hats, and umbrellas to books, notebooks, and sets of keys. Two of the more unusual items are one and a half pairs of skates and a $25 war bond dated March, 1944.

If an item has a name or laundry number inscribed on it every effort is made to inform the owner of its recovery. When there is no identification whatsoever, "we just wait till the owner shows up and describes what he lost, when he lost it, and where he thinks he lost it," said Dunchcon.

The Moosehunters organization comprises about 60 members, approximately 40 of which are volunteering a few hours each week to make the lost and found system a success.

Dunchcon noted, "We usually make our pick-ups with shopping carts, so if you see someone pushing one around campus, you'll know the Lost and Found Office is doing its job."

The office is open Monday through Friday during the hours from 10-12 a.m., 1-5 p.m., and 7-9 p.m.

Bookstore Iron-man B-Ball Tournament scheduled

by Bob Quakenbush
Staff Reporter

Basketball fever is once again taking its fair weather hold upon the campus and the third annual Bookstore Basketball Tourney is on, affectionately known as the Iron Man Tournament. The B. B. T. has been a part of the An Tostal celebration of spring for the past two years. Last year's tourney followers saw a field of over one hundred five-man teams whittled down to one, Tom Clements and Mike Bonifer's 31 Club from Sorin Hall, in Frivolous Friday's title game.

Vince Meconi, a Morrissey Hall junior, will organize the tourney this year and released some of the initial plans last Wednesday night after the regular An Tostal meeting in Fiesta Lounge.

Registration for the B. B. T. is tentatively scheduled from March 25 through April 2, with April 5 the target date for the tournament's first round. One loss spells elimination and only two teams will reach the finals on April 19 unscathed.

Most of the ground rules will be the same as last year. For example, no more than one varsity or former varsity basketball player will be allowed on a team, 21 baskets wins (unless it's close then you must win by two), and it is not necessary for all five members of a team to be residents of the same hall.

Meconi has appealed for help in running the tournament. Anyone interested in being a referee, scorekeeper, or just plain general assistant is requested to contact him in his room in Morrissey Hall.

Concerted Effort

Last night's benefit concert was a good example of what people can do when they are organized around a cause. The concert grossed in the area of $45,000, 85 per cent of which goes to the benefit. Most of the performers were promised expense money, but many of them have turned it down.

All of the cash will go for a project being initiated by the National Coordinating Committee for Justice Under Law. The project is a job-training program that will serve as an alternative to prison in the Washington D.C. area. In an era that has featured prison riots, prison strikes and recidivist rate (the number of criminals who continue to break the law) that approaches 40 per cent, some alternative must be suggested.

Nonetheless, a real salute of appreciation should go to the organizers and performers in the concert. No one came here to make a buck, everyone doing their job for nothing. Some of the real marvels are the man who produced the who who flew in from the West Coast without pay. His experience is in record producing, having never produced a concert before. A booking agent from Indianapolis worked the state during the performance. And finally, the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, besides playing for gratis, offered to pay the overtime costs to the Convo should the show run over. (After midnight, it costs $500 a half hour to use the Convo for shows and concerts that run overtime.)

All in all, it was a laudable effort and all those people involved with it should be praised.

While on the subject of concerts, it would be a sin to talk of concerts and not speak of Rich Donovan. Though Donovan did not have a large part in landing the concert, he worked strenuously to make this show come off. His work in the past couple years as head of concerts has been excellent. In this show and countless others, Donovan has done a great job.

Hey, Digger!

What's the story, coach? It's realized that you probably have enough headaches today after being upended by the Dayton Flyers last night, but if the letter on the right hand portion of this page is accurate, then there is some explaining to do.

Is it true, as the letter asserts, that four seniors on the team and two non-traveling members will not be allowed to accompany the team to Greensboro should the Irish make it there?

The story as it is heard here is that the university has chartered a smaller plane for the trip to conserve on fuel. Included on the flight list, however, are Digger's secretary and her husband, according to sources around the campus. Coach, are these reports accurate? Will your secretaries fly while your senior members are given expense money and told to find their own way to Greensboro or even to, better yet, watch it on TV?

As the letter says, "Take them all to Greensboro." A body that leaves its "backbone" at home will have a hard time standing tall. Are we to naive when we expect a coach who has brought a team from a 6-20 record to the NCAA's to have the power to see that his senior players can make the trip with the team? Come on, what's the story, coach?

—Jerry Lutkus

NCAA Bound

An open letter to Coach Phelps:

Congratulations to you and the team on a fantastic year. From 6-20 to 25-1 in three years is a great tribute to the basketball program here at Notre Dame.

The team is now headed to the NCAA tourney and we would like to ask a few questions about the trip. To quote you, "I'll never be able to thank our seniors enough." If this is true, then why not show them a real turn of gratitude and take the four of them plus the other two non-travelers to the finals in Greensboro? To quote you again, "They have been the backbone." How can you expect to win the whole thing with your "backbone" sitting in South Bend while secretaries and wives take their seats on the plane to Greensboro? We're sure that they will see as much action as would the prep squad. Money cannot be an excuse. Any University that can send 100 football players to New Orleans can surely afford to send 18 basketball players to Greensboro. Somehow, it seems that you owe a little more to the players, especially the ones who suffered through a 6-20 season, than you owe to secretaries and the wives of "higher-ups".

Take them all to Greensboro, Digger. They all deserve it. And if the Administration says "no", then maybe its time to stand up and expend some of your vociferousness to those in the Golden Dome. Certainly you have had plenty of practice with the referees.

Sincerely,

OC: Not ND

Dear Editor:

The current housing shortage at Notre Dame is giving me great concern. As you may recall we have a son, Gerry, who is a sophomore and as luck would have it he is in danger of being forced off campus.

Frankly, if I ever had an inkling that this would happen to him I would have convinced him to go to any one of a number of other top grade Universities which accepted him. I trust that you are warning the class of '78. One of the strongest features of ND has been its campus life - we had it in the thirties and you have been able to preserve it despite trends to the contrary. Now it is being undermined not by students nor social trends but by the very organization that has worked so hard to develop and preserve it. How can you let this happen? Wouldn't it be better to take drastic measures toward saving the tradition rather than toward destroying it?

We are regular readers of the Observer and, therefore, are somewhat up-to-date on developments. Perhaps we are receiving a slanted view of what is happening. But-slanted or not it appears to me that there are alternatives. When the present Juniors and Sophs signed up at ND they received a moral commitment that they would have the benefit of ND campus life for four years. How can this be ignored?

I know the arguments which have been presented in favor of pushing students off campus. None of them impresses me. The addition of women has been a great improvement to an already successful University. You cannot permit this decision to be about the destruction of an important part of the University life. If error were made in numbers admitted - and there were in '72 - you should find other ways of correcting them.

A simple method would be to cut back admissions in '74. Another alternative would be permissible overcrowding. Also, aren't there some empty rooms at the campus seminaries -- perhaps some rearranging could make a few floors or a building available. Finally, when are the adult leaders of ND and St. Mary's going to act as adults and combine.

This letter may be a little emotional. It is meant to be. Did you ever live in a furnished room? I did not I didn't send my son to Notre Dame with that in mind. Our University has a commitment to her students, her Alumni and hers supporters. We don't expect her to let us down.

Respectfully yours,

Planes and Amtrak booked up

Highway authorities say gas no problem

by Jack D'Aurora
Staff Reporter

Students driving home for spring break shouldn't be overly concerned about the gas shortage, according to various state highway authorities. The situation is as follows:

Illinois - No gas is sold on Sunday. Monday through Saturday, gas stations open at 9:30 and remain open until they sell their daily allotment. If they have not sold their quota by 3:30 they close until 7:30 when they re-open to sell their remaining gas.

Indiana - No problem buying gas during the week. Arco stations are open during the weekend.

Ohio - Gas is being sold 24 hours a day, except from 9:00 pm Saturday till midnight Sunday. Only two Texaco stations are rationing, allotting 10 gallons of gas per customer.

New York - Gas is being rationed on the odd-even license plate system. However, this does not apply to drivers who purchase gas 100 miles from their point of entry on the tollway.

Though not generally enforced, travellers are not to receive gas unless their gas tank is less than half full. No gas is sold from 9:00 pm Saturday to midnight Sunday in New York.

Whether or not a stranded motorist is to be supplied with enough gas to get off the tollway is up to the individual gas station.

Pennsylvania - Gas is being rationed on the odd-even system, with 10 gallons per customer. No gas is sold between 9:00 pm Saturday and midnight Sunday. Stranded cars will be supplied with two or three gallons of gas.

There is reportedly no price gouging along these tollways, and, according to authorities, there should be enough gas when students return to school March 18.

All of the above states enforce a 55 m.p.h. speed limit and report that traffic varies from a normal to lighter flow.

Students driving the I-75 to Florida should encounter no problems purchasing gas until they hit Florida, where the odd-even distribution system is in effect in various parts of the state.

Speed limits on the I-75 are as follows: Kentucky - 55 m.p.h., Tennessee - voluntary 50 m.p.h., Georgia - no information, and Florida - 55 m.p.h. Traffic is reportedly light on the I-75.

Trains are well booked up. According to Amtrak, there are few openings on trains to New York and Los Angeles. Reservations are still being taken for New Orleans and Texas. Trains to Florida are booked till April, and one train runs to Washington D.C. without reservations.

The only real cutback in flights out of Chicago to major cities are those to New York. United Airlines reports that whereas, formerly, they and two other airlines supplied hourly flights to New York, the three airlines now alternate, supplying only one flight per hour. Outside of one flight to Los Angeles, United has no other cutbacks.

TWA and Eastern report no cutbacks in their schedules. In fact TWA claims they are adding flights.

Apparently, the only major problem confronting students flying home is that of the usual competition for tickets and that of vacations.

Campus briefs...

Ara will be speaker at Rockne Mass

Coach Ara Parseghian of the No. 1 Notre Dame football team will be the speaker at the 42nd annual Knute Rockne Memorial Mass and Breakfast on the campus March 31. The traditional event honors the former Notre Dame football coach who died in a Kansas plane crash on March 31, 1931.

Parseghian joins a long list of former Rockne associates or players who have been speakers at the annual event. He will be introduced by Charles Lennon, president of the Notre Dame Club of St. Joseph Valley sponsors of the memorial program.

A Mass celebrated by Rev. Robert Griffin, C.S.C. in Keenan-Standford Chapel at 8:30 a.m. precedes the breakfast in the North Dining Hall. The placement of wreaths on the graves of Rockne and other Notre Dame coaches in South Bend's Highland Cemetery concludes the ceremony.

Reservations for the breakfast are presently being accepted by the Notre Dame Alumni Office.

D. Rockefeller slated to talk

David Rockefeller, Chairman of the Board of Directors of Chase Manhattan and perhaps America's most influential businessman, will participate in the Executive Lecture Series of the Graduate School of Business at the University of Notre Dame.

Rockefeller will deliver a lecture titled "trade with the East" at 3:00 p.m. on Thursday, March 7 at the Memorial Library Auditorium. It is open to the public.

Chase Manhattan Bank was the first bank to have branches in both Moscow and in Communist China. It is the leader in East-West trade among bankers largely because of the personal leadership of Rockefeller. In the past year he has met with Eastern European leaders, Chou En-Lai, and Alexi Kosygin.

Rockefeller has long been a leader in promoting internationalism. He is currently Chairman of the influential Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) and a Trustee of the Council of the Americas.

Dr. Robert M. Barry, Professor of philosophy at Loyola University, Chicago, will speak on "American Philosophy and the Incarnational Model" at Saint Mary's College Wednesday, March 6, 1974, at 7:30 p.m. in Carroll Hall.

In his lecture, Dr. Barry will attempt to "set a full and proper context for an evaluation of the pervasive and crucial role of religion throughout American culture." He believes that the interpretive model for religion is an "incarnational model rather than a creative, ratiolistic model," and will emphasize the God of the incarnation - Christ found in history - rather than the God of the pre-Christians.

A native of New York, Dr. Barry holds a bachelor's degree from Iona College, New Rochelle, New York, and a masters degree and Ph.D. from Fordham University, New York. He taught at Rider College, Trenton, New Jersey, and chaired the department of sociology at the College of St. Scholastica, Duluth, Minnesota, before joining the faculty at Loyola in 1963.

Wednesday's lecture, part of the continuing American Scene cultural series, is open to the public without charge.

Air society will assist retarded

Air Force ROTC cadets at the University of Notre Dame are being joined by fellow Arnold Air Society members at several midwestern campuses in the support of Little Angels' Home for Mentally Retarded Children in Clyde, Ohio. The Notre Dame headquartered society and Angel Flight members at area schools are co-sponsors of the special service project.

Squadrons at the various school are coming forward with money-making projects to support the home for severely retarded children ranging in age from two years to mid-teens. Groceries and bedding have been delivered to the school and a sum of money is being amassed to purchase a major appliance in the future.

Joining Notre Dame in the project are units at Bowling Green, Butler, University of Detroit, Indiana, Michigan State, Michigan and Purdue. Butler University in Indianapolis is headquarters for the Angel Flight group.

Credit Union plans dinner

Guests at the 32nd annual dinner meeting of Notre Dame's Credit Union on March 14 will hear reports of record earnings and income for 1973. Tickets for the 6 p.m. dinner in the North Dining Hall are available in the Maintenance Building headquarters of the union.

Membership in the credit group has increased 16 per cent to 5,176, according to the annual report. Assets are listed at $5,831,863, an increase of 14 per cent, and loans to members during 1973 totaled $4,597,619, an increase of more than 34 per cent.

Member shares are up 15 per cent to $5,620,362; income is up 36 per cent to $497,097, and earnings are up 38 percent to $349,892.

The annual report will also indicate a 25 per cent increase in dividends declared to $278,755, as well as a 30 per cent in expenses for a total of $147,205.

Officers of the credit union during the record year were James P. Danehy, president; Lawrence F. Stauder and Daniel J. Osberger, vice-presidents; Richard Thompson, secretary, and Mrs. Ruth E. Kelly, treasurer-manager.

ND grad Riehle joins Oregon Shakespeare Co.

Notre Dame graduate Richard Riehle has joined the acting company of the Oregon Shakespearean Festival, in Ashland, Oregon. It will be Riehle's third season with the company.

His roles for the festival Stage II spring theatre season include Tom in The time of Your Life, Senex in A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, and Panthin and Outlaw in Two Gentlemen of Verona. For the summer season he will add Waiting for Godot's Pozzo to his repertory.

This past fall, Riehle worked as an actor-teacher with the Festival's School-Visit Project.

He has delighted previous Festival audiences with his portrayals of Gremio in The Taming of the Shrew, Agamemnon in Troilus and Cressida, and Pistol in both Henry IV Part 2 and Henry V. Riehle received his BA from Notre Dame and his MFA in theatre from the University of Minnesota. He received a dramatic arts diploma from the Academy of Dramatic Art and studies at the University of Innsbruck. He has been a finalist for the McKnight Fellowship and a finalist for TCG (Theatre Communications Group).

Festival Stage II, the Oregon Shakespearean Festival's spring theatre season, opens March 8th in Ashland. Four plays will run in the repertory in the Festival's indoor theatre: Henrik Ibsen's Hedda Gabler, William Saroyan's The Time of Your Life, Shakespeare's Two Gentlemen of Verona, and the Broadway musical A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

The Oregon Shakespearean Festival maintains year-round operations in the little mountain valley town of Ashland.

SHARE walk-in, phone service now in operation

by Mary Janca
Staff Reporter

Student Help and Resource Endeavor (SHARE), a walk-in and phone service run by ND and SMC volunteers, opened Sunday night in the basement of Holy Cross Hall, St. Mary's.

According to its co-ordinator Patti Kampsen, SHARE's purpose is two-fold. First, it provides information on such questions as crafts, car maintenance and budgeting, as well as some career, medical and drug problems. Also, she said, "If a person has a problem and doesn't want to or doesn't think it big enough to be taken to the counseling center he can take it to SHARE."

Twenty-seven volunteers from ND and SMC comprise the staff, noted Kampsen. All have undergone a training session on relations and personal dynamics, sex, some medical problems, and listened to a lecture on drugs and a talk by a member of Campus Ministry.

The SHARE center is open from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight Sunday through Thursday, and from 12 midnight until 2 a.m. on Fridays and Saturdays.

SHARE is independent of student government and is associated with, but also independent of, the Counseling Center, stated Kampsen.

SHARE originated, she explained, out of a conversation between herself and other students, who then sent out questionnaires "to assess the needs on campus," to a random sample of 25 per cent of each class. Subjects on the questionnaire included quizzing students on general information which the center could provide, and also if students saw the need for such a center. After tabulating the results, Kampsen said, she and a few others decided to open a center.

Cheerleading tryouts to start Wednesday nite

There will be a meeting Wednesday night at 6 p.m. in the La Fortune lobby for all students interested in trying out for the cheerleading squad or for the leprechaun mascot.

All St. Mary's and Notre Dame students are invited to the meeting, which will concern the criteria used for judging candidates, dates of the tryouts, and the judges. There are ten positions, five girls and five guys, open on next year's squad. The leprechaun position is also open. Tryouts are not restricted by class.

The meeting is being held before spring break so candidates can get in shape and work on skills over the vacation.

Fanning ready for NCAA finals

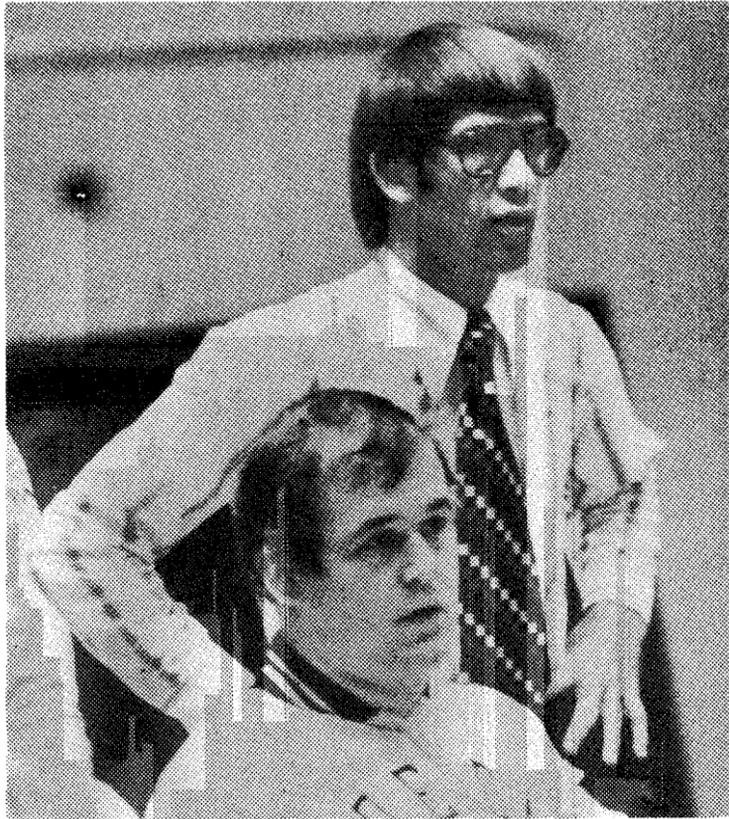

by Hal Munger

Mike Fanning, the big defensive tackle on the national champion Fighting Irish football squad took four steps towards achieving national championship status in a second sport. By extending this year's record to 17-0, last weekend in Cincinnati, the 260-pounder captured first place in the National Eastern Wrestling Regionals and earned himself a spot in the NCAA finals at Iowa State University March 14 through 16.

The road to the regional championship included 10 pins, two shutouts, two forfeits, and three victories by decision for Fanning. It was the second time Mike won the region; he won it as a freshman but almost did not repeat this year.

He was sick in the infirmary with influenza two days last week, and the drain it put on him caused him to be almost pinned by Clarion's 380 pounder. That near-loss followed his one pin of the weekend and it preceded two victories by decision. His most recent conquests put him 42-0-1 in two years of competition.

Six other Irish wrestlers took part in the regionals but none will advance to the nationals. Al Rocek tying him for the all-time Notre Dame career victory record. He won the fiftieth match of his career

It was the last match for the 190 pound senior co-captain as was it the last action for senior 158 pounder Rich Gilloon, the other co-captain. Steve Moylan also wrestled his last match in a Notre Dame uniform at 134 pounds.

John Dowd earned a pin but was beaten in the next match to the man who lost to the eventual champion. Freshman Dan Hefernan was beaten by a single point in his first match. Fritz Bruening was defeated in his first match at 150 pounds and Dave Boyer, who has enjoyed a successful year at 142 was not able to compete because of a leg injury. These last four wrestlers will return to highlight what could be another fine wrestling squad next year.

Rookie coach Fred Pechek has done an outstanding job this year and is already beginning preparations for a beefed-up schedule next season.

For Mike Fanning, though, it's good luck in the nationals!

Hogs capture second straight

When Grace did manage to cut the margin to 3 points at 40-37 late in the game, Holy Cross bagged 3 straight baskets and the game was out of reach for all practical purposes.

Sweeney's 16, Mitchell's 13 and Bruno's 10 points accounted for the bulk of the Hog scoring while Frank and Rich Allocco netted 12 apiece for Grace.

Both captains agreed that the deciding factor in the game was rebounding. Kulic noted that "In the first game, we controlled the boards and won, this time they just took it to us. We didn't get more than 1 shot at a time in the second half." Sweeney added that "John Cornelius did a super job rebounding. In one stretch during the last quarter he snagged 6 rebounds in a row."

"Bill Mitchell also did an unbelievable job filling in for Baronowski. But without a doubt we owe the win to our fans.

Yelling, screaming, they were like a sixth man, especially in the final period."

The IH Basketball Championship ended with the Hog fans shouting "We're number 1" and no one can disagree.

For late April An Tostal plans formed

by Bob Quakenbush
Staff Reporter

Maybe it's not entirely factual, but Ron Paja's claim that "the only reason for second semester is An Tostal" certainly reflects the exuberance the members of the An Tostal committee feel about April's three day festival. And why not?

The Beach Boys, a carousel, the Bookstore Basketball Tourney, the Original An Tostal Amateur Hour, the Trivia Bowl, relay races and the always popular tug-of-war are just a few of the dozens of highlights, contests, and entertainments which will enliven the third weekend of April at Notre Dame.

Wally Gasior, An Tostal chairman, announced the Beach Boys' signing to the committee last week, an announcement which came as a big boost for the group still in search of a site for the traditional Irish Wake.

Rich Donovan, concert coordinator for the Student Union, explained, "There was an open date on the ACC schedule on April 20, so because of An Tostal being the same weekend we decided to go for the Beach Boys." The Beach Boys will appear in concert on "Sunny Saturday" at 7:30 p.m. as part of the An Tostal celebration.

Concerning the Irish Wake,

Gasior announced that the party's customary site, the South Bend Armory, will almost definitely be unavailable on April 20. Preliminary plans had called for direct bus transportation from the ACC after the concert to the Wake. But for now, that plan, too, must be shelved.

"I'd like to emphasize that we are continuing the search for a new site," said Gasior, "but we'll take any suggestions directed to us."

Gasior also reported that he and Tom Eichler, another member of the committee, plan to discuss the use of Stepan Center for the event with Dean Macheca on Friday.

Macheca has informed Gasior that the University has free access to a carousel, a genuine 1913 merry-go-round. If a way can be found to transport the carousel to campus, the committee hopes to make use of it onn Sunny Saturday.

Discussion during Wednesday nights' meeting centered on new events for An Tostal. The most promising was "name That Tune!" Other suggestions were wrist wrestling matches, balloon shaving, and dozens of variations of games utilizing ping pong balls and- or blindfolds.

As promised, Walter Gasior revealed the tentative organizational chart for the 1974 An Tostal Committee. Gasior is chairman, Ron Paja is his assistant, and the organizers of the respective days of activity are as follows:

Geentle Thursday: Kathy Keyes, Patty Lurel, Bob Quakenbush, Tom Prter, and Kathy Strong; Frivolous Friday: Fred Baranowski, Mary Jane Bolinske, Marty Kabbes, Kevin McGuire; a n d

Sunny Saturday: Tom Eichler, Julie Griffen, Pat McLaughlin, Bob Murphy.

Separate directores for some of the more involved events were also appointed, Lou Myers and Rory Moran will mastermind the Second Annual Notre Dame Decathlon. Vince Meconi will be responsible for the popular Bookstore Basketball Tourney (alias the "Iron Man" Tournament), while Bolinske will handle the girls' roundball tournament.

Art Ferranti and Butch Ward from the Observer, will prepare the An Tostal booklet.

Having decided (unofficially) to generate a rumor each week to heighten the enthusiasm and anticipation for An Tostal, the committee released the following:

"It is rumored that Evel Knievel himself is considering an attempt to leap the mudpit, water barrels, North Quad, An Tostal truck and An Tostal chairman himself form a standing start at the bottom of a fifty foot ramp---on a TRICYCLE!"

Karate team chops up tourney

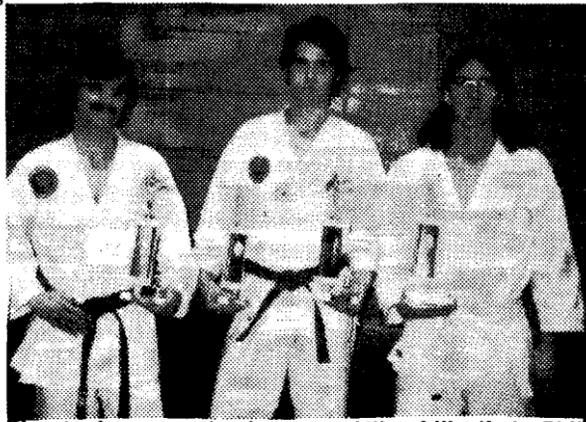

The Tae Kwon Do Chung Do Kwon (Karate) team competed in its first 1974 tournament last weekend. Under the direction and coaching of Raymond L. Sell, third degree black belt, Notre Dame brought home two first place and two second place finishes in the Michigan state tournament.

The tournament was divided into two types of competition-forms (kata) and sparring. In the sparring competition, Michael Lillenthal took home a second place trophy after a closely fought 3-2 decision in the finals of the brown belt division. Later in the tournament, Phil Hawley fought his way to a first place in sparring.

In the forms competition, Phil Hawley and Bill Dwyer brought back first and second place positions, respectively. Frank Calindrino placed fourth in the forms

Two teams are presently being formed to represent Notre Dame in the national intercollegiate karate tournament. This will be held in Ann Arbor Michigan on March 30th, on the Michigan State University campus.

Karate tournament winners: Mike Lillenthal, Phil Hawley, and Bill Dwyer.

SMC security plots road light system

by Mary Janca
Staff Reporter

A planned lighting system along St. Mary's Road is among several St. Mary's Security projects.

According to SMC Security Director Anthony Kovatch, the lights will be installed "as soon as we can raise the money and as soon as they can be put up."

Security has also begun to crack-down on traffic violations. Speeding has been particularly stressed, noted Kovatch, following several auto accidents involving pedestrians this past year.

In addition, security is tightening up its policy on parking in front of the dorms. The penalty currently is a $5 fine, and there is a possibility that violators' cars will be towed, noted Kovatch.

The taxi service, which security initiated at the beginning of this semester, has been successful so far, he commented. The service enables girls stranded at ND after the last shuttle leaves to call SMC security for a ride back to St. Mary's.

Kovatch also warned against hitchhiking or bike-riding along the road.

Flyers fly higher, bomb ND 97-82

by Vic Dorr
Sports Editor

DAYTON, O.—He stood at the freethrow line with 3:53 left in the game, looking not at all like an All-American Backcourt Candidate.

He stood maybe 5'11", and weighed maybe 160 pounds, and as he stood there, eyeing the basket, his spindly arms and boney, knobby knees effectively camouflaged a devastating offensive basketball player.

"He" was Donald Smith, the University of Dayton diminutive senior guard, and "He" was the dynamo who scored 32 points last night, while leading the upstart Flyers to a solidly stunning 97-82 upset of Notre Dame's second ranked Fighting Irish.

He stood at the freethrow line with 3:53 left in the game, and dropped in the first and then the second of two one-and-one free throws. That gave the Flyers a 10 point lead, 84-74, and then Smith, on Dayton's next trip down the floor, pitched in a long distance jump shot to put the Flyers up by 12, 86-74, and to put the game in Dayton's back pocket.

The Flyers, from that point on, were content to slow the game down. And when official time expired some three minutes later, the local, rabid, Dayton arena crowd of 13,000 plus mobbed Smith, coach Don Donoher and anyone else who happened to be near a red on white Flyer uniform.

For Smith, it was more than a rewarding team upset. It was also a stellar individual effort which overshadowed last year's subpar showing in South Bend.

"Last year," said the cool, collected Dayton guard, "I really shouldn't have played at all. My wrist was messed up, and besides, they were playing with a two-three zone which forced me to shoot from further outside than I would have liked."

"Tonight, though, they played a man and I just keyed to that all the way. I love to see a man to man. That's my game."

Notre Dame's man to man defense was Smith's "game" but the slick, sprightly senior did not carry the Flyer effort by himself. There was also freshman Johnny Davis, a backcourt ace who scored 18 points and who teamed with Smith to befuddle Notre Dame's press.

And there was a trio of big men: Mike Sylvester (who finished with 14 points), John Von Lehman (8), and Allen Elijah (8). Between them, those three big men pulled down 20 rebounds, and effectively neutralized ND's usually strong inside game.

Notre Dame's base line trio of John Shumate (29 points), Gary Novak (9), and Adrian Dantley (11) performed well under pressure against the inspired Flyers, but nothing Notre Dame could do last night was enough to offset the Dayton onslaught.

"I'm very happy for them," aid Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps in the somber silent Irish locker room. "I think they played very well, and I think they've got a very good team. They shot well tonight, and they have a really good back court. Smith has to be one of the finest guards in the country."

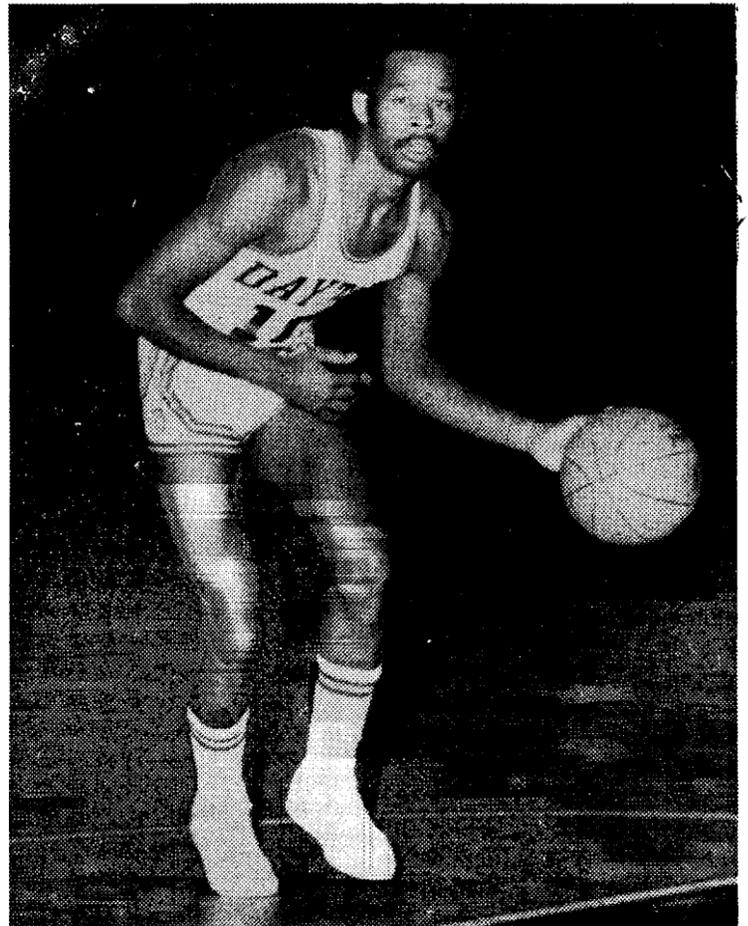

"It's obvious that we did not shoot well. We didn't play well offensively or defensively, and they did. They beat us."

The Irish shot well enough during the ball game—they hit on 41 per cent of their attempts from the field—but during a frenzied final eight minutes, the Notre Dame attack was unable to keep pace with the hot shooting Flyers. The Irish were outscored 10-6 during the final two minutes of play but by that time the issue was no longer in doubt.

Smith clicked on a pair of freethrows with 29 seconds remaining to boost Dayton into its largest lead of the night, 17 points, 95-78, but the Irish trailed by nearly that many at one point in the first half.

Dayton's torrid attack shook Notre Dame out of its defensive composure early in the contest and the Irish never recovered. The Flyers led by 15, 38-23, with 5:31 left in the half, and even though Notre Dame closed the gap to 6, at 44-38 with 6 seconds showing before an intermission, the Flyers lost neither their drive nor their poise.

Both teams are now bound for appearances in the NCAA tournament. Dayton is headed for an appearance in the Western Regional bracket, and the Irish are slated for a Saturday date against Austin Peay in Terre Haute, Ind.

Don Smith did most of the damage last night and his Flyer teammates took care of the rest as Dayton shocked the second-ranked Irish 97-82.

"We played 26 games this season," offered Phelps afterwards, "and we knew all along that anything could happen. It did tonight. But I hope Dayton gets past the first round and I hope they make it into the Regionals. As far as we're concerned, we'll find out Saturday how tonight's loss has affected us. I'm sure we learned a lot tonight. You always learn when you lose."

But despite the heartbreaking lesson taught to the Irish by Don Smith and his Dayton teammates, the Irish season is hardly ending on a "down" note, for Notre Dame won 24 of their 26 regular season games in '73-'74 and the two losses suffered en route can only have better prepared them for what lies ahead in the NCAA playoffs.

Icers in playoffs; face Tech tonight

by John Fineran

Houghton, Mich. — Notre Dame's hockey team arrived at this capital of snow Sunday afternoon, happy to still be in the national title picture, but aware that their eighth-place finish pitted them against the MacNaughton Cup champs, first-place Michigan Tech.

It won't be an easy thing for Notre Dame to go to Boston next weekend. First, the Irish icers must beat the Huskies here in a two-game, total-goals series, and then, in all probability, Notre Dame will have to beat Minnesota in the same setup at the Twin Cities.

The Irish were greeted with some rather unexpected weather when they landed at the Houghton Hancock Airstrip. The temperature was in the 30's and the snow was melting. Both of these facts are strange occurrences to the Copper Country folk.

"We have had a mild winter," Sports Information Director Dennis Hanks said. "We've only had 180 inches of snow."

Still, the Irish must weather these formidable Huskies, who finished 25-7-2 during the season. Coach John MacInnes, now in his 18th season as Tech mentor, has had a success story few other coaches could match. He is one of five coaches to have gained over 350 wins and his teams have won five WCHA titles and two NCAA championships.

The Huskies, however, are well-aware of the Irish talent on ice. In fact, Notre Dame has enjoyed its best success this season against Tech. The Irish opened the season with a win and tie here, and then split the series at home during January. If either series was a playoff one, the Irish icers would have been on their way to Minneapolis. Unfortunately for Notre Dame, neither series was. And just as unfortunate, the Huskies have just as much talent as Notre Dame.

Tech's defense has also been strong this season, helping goaltenders Rick Quance and Jim Warden fashion three shutouts. The blueline corps is led by Jim Nahrgang, one of the outstanding defensemen in the country. Nahrgang has scored seven goals and 26 points and also leads the team in penalties with 36 for 83 minutes.

Paul Jensen, Bob Lorimer and Bruce Abbey also add to this defense with their steady play. Jensen, in fact, is one of two Huskie freshmen Jensens (Steve, a left wing, no relation) in contention for the league's outstanding frosh award, won by Zuke last season.

In goal, Quance has seen the bulk of the action, showing a 3.37 goals-against and two shutouts in 24 games. Warden has a 3.10 goals-against in 10.3 games and is coming off a broken finger suffered the week prior to the January - meetings with the Irish.

The Irish, meanwhile, have a new scoring leader in left wing Eddie Bumbacco. Bumbacco, a consensus All-America choice last season, has shrugged off season-long doldrums in the last two weekends to score seven goals, including a hat trick in Friday night's 4-3 loss to Wisconsin. Eddie now has 101 career goals and is one of ten players in college hockey history to have both 100 goals and 100 assists.

Bumbacco will be matched with Brian Walsh and tri-captain Ian Williams, and Pat Conroy will center Larry Israelson and former team-leading scorer Ray Delorenzi. The third line for the Irish will have freshman Clark Hamilton at center between Ric Schafer on the right and either Jim Augustine or Pat Novitski on the left.

The defensive pairings will remain the same as they were for the Badgers. Steve Curry, who is now the holder of the school's defenseman (continued on page 6)

Holy Cross IH champions

by Sam Yannucci

Fighting when you're down and keeping your poise when you're up is the mark of a champion. In this year's IH cage finals between Holy Cross and Grace V, Holy Cross was able to do just that and for the second straight year notched the Interhall Basketball crown.

The best two of three series, though, was not settled easily. The full three games were needed to determine the champ and the matchups, although tension-filled, were still characterized by aggressive, top-flight basketball.

This type of roundball play was expected from the onset however as both teams were composed of several players not unfamiliar with Coach Phelps' varsity program as well as plenty of other players that any Rock or ACC frequent would easily recognize.

As is the case with virtually all teams that reach a championship game, they had to be doing something right throughout the season and consequently shy away from making any substantial changes. Such was the attitude with this series. Holy Cross's strategy was to simply "Play ball" while captain Leo Kulic of Grace was more definitive. "We're going to play team ball, run, and try to pressure Holy Cross into mistakes." In the first game, that's exactly what happened.

Grace 55 Holy Cross 52

Utilizing the pin point shooting of Frank Allocco, and an air tight defense which only yielded long jump shots, Grace stormed to an 11-8 first quarter and 26-18 half time advantage.

The third quarter was a complete turnabout as Holy Cross looked like a "Hog of a different color." Bedford Bruno put a clamp around Allocco, limiting the Grace star to a mere 2 points, while his teammates were busily chipping away at the lead.

After cutting the deficit to two points, 34-32, HC guard Fred Baronowski picked up a loose ball and raced down court for an apparent bunny. But he tripped, screamed, and unfortunately had to be taken to the hospital with torn ligaments in his left knee.

Thereafter, Holy Cross could not sustain the momentum that they had had. A much needed basket by Allocco and clutch free throws by Allocco, Tom Lang, and Drew Mahalic iced the game for Grace.

"We had tremendous individual performances tonight," commented Grace captain Kulic, "but without a doubt the difference in the game was our ability to rebound." One of the outstanding individual performances Kulic alluded to was Frank Allocco's 24 points (16 in the first half). He was backed by his brother Rich who netted 10 points. Holy Cross captain John Sweeney led the Hogs with 17 points while John Cornelius (14 points) and Bedford Bruno (13 points) added scoring support.

This was a do or die game for Holy Cross. "We opened with a box and 1 to try to contain Allocco," said HC captain Sweeney, "but he just stood at half court. Their big guys got some easy buckets underneath, so we were forced out of it. Buff Bruno did an excellent job on Allocco, though."

As it turned out, Bruno didn't have to worry about Allocco for long. The game was extremely tense and emotions and tempers were flaring. Midway through the second stanza, Allocco was ejected from the game, and HC coasted to 27-19 half time lead.

But again the third quarter was like night and day. "Without our two top scorers (Rich Allocco had earlier sprained an ankle and couldn't play)," stated Kulic, "we had to rely on a power game and some desire." With Tom Lang and Drew Mahalic scoring well underneath, Grace found itself back in the ball, trailing by only 3 points.

Yet despite their spirited play, Grace didn't quite have the guns to sink HC and their three big scorers, Bruno (16 points), Sweeney (12 points) and freshman Bill Mitchell (11 points). Grace's Lang, though, did manage to take game honors with 17 points while holding one of HC's top scorers, John Cornelius, to 2 points.

People sometimes say that a loss inspires a team. For the first half of this game, that adage seemed to have some truth. Grace, playing once again with the Allocco brothers in the lineup, came out hustling and firing. They were up 13-8 at the end of the first stanza and 21-17 at the break.

But, just as in the previous two tilts the third quarter turned out to be the most crucial one. Bruno hit a lay up, Sweeney hit two more bunnies, Mitchell canned a turnaround, Cornelius scored from the corner, and suddenly Holy Cross led 27-21.

"That flurry was the turning point of the ball game," Sweeney said, "It really fired us up." From then on it was the poise of the Hogs that dictated the outcome of the game. (continued on page 6)
