Student Government rejects SU proposal

by Michael Onufrak
Senior Copy Editor

In a tension-filled meeting last night the Student Government Board of Commissioners rejected a proposal submitted by Student Union Director Tom Hamel which would have reinstated, in modified form, the Student Union's complimentary ticket policy. The Board voted earlier this semester to abolish the traditional SU policy after having upheld it at two earlier meetings.

Hamel said he decided to give the complimentary ticket policy "one more shot" because he felt that an "implicit contract" had been drawn up between the Union and its workers.

"This isn't any kind of a legal contract, but it is a moral one because Student Union has traditionally compensated its workers with complimentary concert tickets. To cut off this compensation in mid-semester is a slap in the face to the workers," Hamel said.

Besides Hamel, only Bill Vita, student body vice-president, and Shannon Neville, off-campus commissioner, supported the SU proposal. The proposal was defeated by a 6-3 tally.

Student Body President Bill Roche, who voted against the SU, said that he hoped a better compensatory policy could be worked out with the Union and student government.

"I definitely feel Student Union workers should be compensated because of the amount of time and effort they put into their jobs," Roche said.

"I just don't think complimentary tickets is the best way. Right now I'm not sure the SU could afford to take the financial loss giving away all these tickets would incur," Roche said.

"What I would like to see is some type of pay-scale worked out for student government workers as is now in effect at some student-run University organizations. The compensation would only be token, but it would be a lot closer to what student government workers deserve, than what they are getting now," Roche added.

In other business, the Board voted to restrict the number of student government officials who will have authority to sign official contracts on behalf of student government. The Board voted unanimously to restrict contract-signing power to the Student Body President, Judicial Co-ordinator, HPC Chairman, Off-Campus Commissioner, and Student Union Director.

This policy will not affect hall-run events.

The Board of Commissioner's next meeting will be Jan. 24 at 6:30 p.m.

Libya offers 'profuse apologies'

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Libyan government has offered "profuse apologies" for the attack Sunday on the U.S. embassy in Tripoli and has increased the guard there, but the response to a U.S. protest was inadequate, State Department officials said yesterday.

"We will be satisfied only when we have satisfactory assurances for the security both of our embassy and our people in Libya," department spokesman David Passage said.

Fourteen embassy dependents left Libya yesterday some flying to Paris and the others to Rome.

Libya's response came from Ali Turayki, the foreign minister, to William Eagleton, the top U.S. diplomat in Libya.

But the State Department wants Libya's leader, Col. Noammar Khadafy, to acknowledge the attack as a way of reassuring that the Libyan people understand the embassy is not to be a target of violent demonstrations.

Only one policeman was outside the embassy when some 2,000 people, carrying pro-Iranian banners and spurred on by a sound truck, assembled outside the embassy.

Some demonstrators clambered up the wall to the second floor and others set fire to the building. There were no injuries and all 14 American employees inside escaped unharmed.

A U.S. request last week that the guard be increased was ignored, according to State Department officials.

There are 2,500 to 3,000 Americans in Libya, many of them businessmen. The department recommended they come home if their work is not essential, but very few have taken up the suggestion.

The attack in Libya by demonstrators proclaiming solidarity with Iran has prompted the United States to reassess security problems faced by its diplomatic personnel in Islamic countries.

State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Sunday

the reassessment will focus on the situation in Libya.

The attack in Libya followed by six days the U.S. decision to withdraw non-essential diplomatic personnel and dependents from American missions in 11 Moslem countries.

Iranians vote Khomeini leader for life

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The Iranian people, in a vast show of support for the Moslem elder who has made the holding of American hostages part of a holy crusade, voted overwhelmingly yesterday to make Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini their political overlord for life.

The Khomeini regime, meanwhile, stepped up public readiness for an eventual U.S. military attack, expected by many Iranians. It posted more guards at the U.S. Embassy, where 50 Americans entered their 30th day of captivity in the hands of Moslem militants demanding that the United States hand over the deposed Shah of Iran.

For the first time some of the guards were dressed in green army fatigues and boots.

In an unexplained development, an ambulance was seen moving from point to point within the embassy compound. A student spokesman contacted by telephone said the hostages were "all well" but would not say why the ambulance went to the embassy.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, the Security Council was still seeking diplomatic ways out of the month-long U.S. - Iran crisis. Among the alternatives under consideration was launching of an international inquiry into the ex-shah's regime, and sending a Council mediation mission to Iran.

Initial returns of a two-day referendum that ended yesterday showed Iranians voting 60-to-1 in favor of a new constitution that Khomeini's political critics say will make him a theocratic dictator.

Though final official results will not be announced until later in the week, Iranian voters obviously did what the Islamic leadership had urged in the non-secret, yes-or-no balloting.

Reporters saw bearded, turbaned mullahs - Moslem priests - seated in front of ballot boxes at several polling stations instructing people to "vote yes only."

Then the mullahs, or anyone else, could see whether the voter put the green, for "yes," or red, for "no" slip into the ballot box.

—The Libyan government offered "profuse apologies" for Sunday's mob attack on the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli, Libya, but a State Department spokesman said the Carter administration will be satisfied "only when we have satisfactory assurances for the security both of our embassy and our people in Libya."

Human stampede kills 'Who' fans

CINCINNATI (AP) - Panicked fans stampeded their way into a rock concert by "The Who" last night, and Fire Chief Burt Lukananni said at least 12 people were killed in the crush.

A number of persons were injured and were taken by ambulance to at least four hospitals. The number of injured was not immediately known.

Ray Schwertman, a 49-year-old usher, said the crowd surged into the 17,000-seat Riverfront Coliseum just before the gates were to open at 7 p.m. "First, they threw a bottle through a window in the door. Then they pushed through the hole, making it bigger. Three or four of us tried to hold them back, but it was no use.

"We couldn't hold them back. They carried in one boy and laid him on a table and he died. Others were laying out on the plaza," said Schwertman.

"I've never seen anything like it," Lukananni said. "I can't even tell you what killed them."

Officials listed the dead - most of them said to be of high school or college age - as seven males and four females. Their identities were not released last night.

Dr. Alex Trott, emergency room supervisor at Cincinnati General Hospital, said the victims suffered multiple bruises, and "there was some proof of footprint-like injuries."

The concert, which was sold out, went on as scheduled after the victims were taken away. Many concertgoers were apparently unaware of the deaths and injuries, and they were not mentioned from the stage.

Concertgoer Michael Jordan, 17, said: "I was in the middle. It was crazy. You had to fight to save your life."

And 15-year-old Suzanne Sudrath said: "You could see people getting hurt."

Trouble in Middle East causes silver and gold rush

The hostage situation in Iran and reports of anti-United States violence in the Middle East yesterday pushed silver futures over $20 an ounce and sent gold to within a few dollars of its historic highs. "It seems clear that the increasing uncertainty over the Mideast is causing a rush on gold," said an analyst. "I think this thing is just going to keep expanding until something is done to turn the situation around."

Carter's mom mum on Khomeini; yells for help

CHICAGO (AP) - President Carter's mother is staying mum now on the subject of Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. And at a Polish-American Congress banquet here Sunday, Lillian Carter yelled for help when a reporter asked her if she regretted her remark last week on the religious leader. "No - no - no - Help!" she said, waving her arms and looking around for security agents. At a New Hampshire meeting last week, Mrs. Carter said of Khomeini, "If I had a million dollars to spare, I'd look for someone to kill him."

British Cabinet to appoint a governor for Rhodesia

LONDON (AP) - The Cabinet issued an order-in-council last night authorizing appointment of a governor to rule Zimbabwe Rhodesia with full legislative and executive powers. The action came hours after Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington said Britain would go ahead with plans to establish a new government in that breakaway African colony with or without an agreement from the Patriotic Front guerrilla alliance. Senior diplomats said Lord Loames, a son-in-law of the late Sir Winston Churchill, would be named Zimbabwe Rhodesia governor, but it was unlikely he would be sent there very quickly. The Cabinet action was seen as a move to press guerrilla leaders to accept Britain's proposals and not an effort to set up a new government immediately.

Low-key because of Iran

Carter to announce campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter plans to keep his re-election announcement today a low-key affair because of the Iran crisis, but campaign aides are pushing hard to raise $2.5 million this week in a coast-to-coast series of fundraisers.

Carter plans to make the announcement sometime during the day, probably at the White House. He will then attend a fundraising dinner tonight at a Washington hotel. He already has recorded a five minute television announcement to be broadcast at 8:55 p.m. EST Tuesday on the CBS network. The campaign paid for the air time.

Campaign aides say they have organized nearly 2,800 "grassroots" receptions around the country to coincide with the announcement. The parties, mostly in private homes, are intended to raise money, distribute campaign material and get volunteer workers moving.

Also keyed to the announcement are large fundraising dinners during the week in Washington and 11 other cities.

Carter originally had planned to make a six-state campaign awing starting tomorrow, including appearances at fundraising dinners in New York, Chicago, Atlanta and Austin, Texas. But he cancelled those travel plans because of the Iran crisis.

The fundraising efforts themselves, however, are going ahead full steam even without Carter's personal presence.

Committee discusses rape

by Rosemary Mills
Editor-in-Chief

A committee on rape awareness last night discussed expanding the Rape Awareness program presented to the Notre Dame women resident assistants two weeks ago. Susan Tamborini, director of Holy Cross Hall (SMC), commented that she was pleased with the program but it only concerned the women. "I think the whole campus needs to be aware of it - male as well as female," she said.

Katie Kearney, director of Student Legal Aid and assistant rector of Farley Hall, related that a representative from student government had approached her. According to Kearney, student government wishes to expand the program with a 20 minute to half-hour presentation on rape, possibly in each section of the ND dormitories.

Another option discussed included using the Hall Presidents Council as a core group to bring programs into the halls. Sr. John Miriam Jones, associate provost, noted that "the sensitivity of the person who relates the information is essential."

James Roemer, dean of students, added that he would like to consult such people as Pat Crosson, director of Psychological Services and Fr. Greg Green, assistant vice-president for Student Affairs. After a discussion of these and other options, a subcommittee was appointed to present specific ideas on the make-up of a program and who should relate the information. The group will include Green, Crosson, HPC chairperson Ellen Dorney, and Bill Roche, student body president.

Roche asked about the inclusion of a rape awareness program in the RA training. Roemer said he would relay the question to Green, who is in charge of all RA's. Kearney then noted that while present RA's need to be informed about rape, the program will be presented after the appointment of RA's for 1980-81 and that both groups can benefit from the presentation.

Jones then asked if a regular system could be instituted which would alert the six women rectors when a rape or assault occurred. Roemer suggested that Rex Rakow, assistant director of ND security, take this responsibility. Rakow will be working the 4 p.m. to midnight shift.

Glenn Terry, director of ND security, reported that security personnel could voluntarily attend a Sex-Offense-Staff (S-O-S) presentation on rape. Missy Hennenberer, an ND senior who works with S-O-S protested, "I think it is important that all Security people be made sensitive about rape." Terry agreed, but stated that there were problems with scheduling and that Security personnel would attend the presentations on their own time, for which they would be paid overtime. Roemer then suggested that a record be kept of all security employees who attend the program and that all others be encouraged to attend future training sessions.

The Iranian Crisis:

The Chase Manhattan Bank and Notre Dame

Peter Walshe

Recent events in Iran - seizure of the U.S. Embassy and the holding of hostages - have shaken this country and the international community. Such actions represent a brutal assault on the delicate machinery of international diplomacy and must be vehemently condemned. While media commentaries have focused on this point and the demand to extradite the Shah, I would like to explore some of the explosive issues which gave rise to this crisis and which are not getting the attention they deserve.

We should not allow our justifiable outrage at this Iranian assault or normal diplomatic procedures to block out the voice of legitimate third world anger. This anger has all too often supported unsavory local elites in an effort to ensure an hospitable climate for exploitative transnational corporations. There have also been many instances of western banking interests willingly accepting the loot of dictators. While the present crisis displays features which are the outcome of Iran's particular history and religious tradition, it also reveals problems which are endemic to U.S. foreign policy throughout the third world.

One side-effect of the media's coverage of this parlous affair has been the exposure afforded Iranian spokesmen. They have been given a chance to place Iran's considerable grievances before the world community. It has become clear that they want an international investigation of the Shah's activities and the return of the plunder which the Shah, his family and leaders of the former regime have taken out of Iran. Reports in New York Times indicate that as much as $17 to $20 billion may have been removed from the country. We must acknowledge the anger behind these demands and face our complicity in Iranian affairs during the past three decades.

In 1953 the C.I.A. put the Shah on his throne, so thwarting an Iranian political movement which sought to exercise full control over the country's resources. In the years that followed, U.S. foreign policy continued to back the regime to the hilt and western corporate interests flourished. No sooner had the Shah been installed, when David Rockefeller and the Chase Manhattan Bank moved into the country in a massive way. Other corporations did likewise and U.S. support for the Shah's anti-communist dictatorship appeared to provide a safe arena in which these business interests could operate. This syndrome has not been peculiar to Iran, even if the brutality of the Shah's regime and the vast sums of money drained out of the country made it a notorious case. Iranian anger and Iranian anti-Americanism should be heeded. It is too easy, too self-serving to feel aggrieved and to dismiss Ayatollah Khomeini as a 'mad mullah'; he is not.

The involvement of the Chase Manhattan in Iran is only slowly being made apparent. It is a disturbing fact of political life in the U.S. that citizens are, by and large, unacquainted with the role such transnational corporations play in the moulding of our foreign policy. There are other examples of what this has meant. In addition to moving into Iran after the C.I.A. had installed the Shah, Chase Manhattan put together a consortium of banks to bolster the South African economy during a period of capital flight from that country following the Sharpsville massacre of 1960. At that point the South African government crushed all organized African resistance to apartheid, whereupon the Chase and other leading U.S. corporations flooded into the highly profitable apartheid system. We saw a comparable scenario in Chile. The C.I.A. and U.S. corporations played a major role in the destruction of the constitutionally elected socialist government headed by Salvador Allende. The U.S. then found itself acutely embarrassed by the brutalities of the Chilean junta it helped to create. In 1977 this dictatorship appears to have ordered the murder of Orland Letelier who had served as Foreign Minister during the Allende years; Letelier and U.S. citizen Ronnie Moffit died when Letelier's car exploded in Washington D.C. The U.S. tried to extradite the accused murderers, but the junta refused to cooperate. "While the Carter Administration was calling the former head of the Chilean secret police, Gen. Manuel Contreras Sepulveda, a 'terrorist' and was summoning Ambassador George W. Landau home for a critical review of relations with the military regime, Chase Manhattan Bank was preparing to move into the new offices of its first branch in Chile". (The New York Times, Thursday, October 4, 1979.)

This involvement of Chase Manhattan in the political economy of repressive regimes raises a moral dilemma very close to home. Fr. Hesburgh sits on the Board of Chase Manhattan. He may not do so in his formal capacity as President of Notre Dame, but his presence is inescapably associated with our university. We may be sure that Fr. Hesburgh accepted the invitation to sit on the Board from the highest motives, the best of intentions, but in light of the Banks dubious record can he in good conscience remain on the Board? I submit that David Rockefeller is using Fr. Hesburgh's good name, and his reputation as a morally committed citizen-servant of the U.S., to provide some degree of respectability for the Chase Manhattan enterprise. Notre Dame tries to function as a Christian university, so it is not absurdly idealistic to suggest that it should maintain a critical distance from ruling elites and their institutions.

For several years now Notre Dame has been encouraging the study of justice issues. It does not make sense for the University to promote these efforts if at the same time it maintains a close link with an institution like the Chase Manhattan with its ethically shoddy history of political and economic opportunism. Trying to have it both ways, all the time, will lead inexorably to cynicism.

The Iranian crisis contains many lessons for us all; it could inaugurate a period when, in the spirit of Matthew 7:5-6, we might begin to examine our own sinful history, particularly the scope we have given transnationals to pillage the third world and to shamefully manipulate politics. These issues will remain with us long after the current crisis has eased and, one hopes, the hostages have been released.

Dr. Peter Walshe is Professor of Government and International Studies; he was the recipient of Notre Dame's 1979 Grenville Clark Award for his contributions to the cause of peace of human rights.

The problem is real

Dear Editor:

A security problem has unquestionably arisen at the University of Notre Dame du Lac. The problem exists in many forms: burglary, rape, assault and attempted murder. If the truth finally be known, these deprivations of personal liberties are committed primarily within a one mile radius from the central campus. This area is callously referred to as "zone 10" or Off-Campus. It must also be considered an integral segment of the University community. However, the University stands idle because of jurisdictional and territorial differences with the South Bend Police Department. Consequently, this futile dispute has prevented the University from offering any real and effective security to its Off-Campus residents.

The University prides itself as being a leader in the crusade for human rights. Its concern has extended into areas as far away as Asia, Africa, Europe and South America. Yet, Notre Dame students living in South Bend, Indiana are continually subjected to an alarming rate of serious crimes. It is time for the University to realize that these malicious crimes are committed in its own backyard. These crimes have occurred and will occur all year if no decisive and effective action is taken. If no action is taken then more students shall be shot, assaulted, robbed and raped. Classes in self-defense and rape-prevention are completely useless when a gun is placed to one's head.

Those in positions of authority with the power to initiate change should do so. The University has a moral obligation to provide its students with adequate security. Differences with the South Bend Police Department should be resolved. Funds should be allocated for increased patrols using either the Notre Dame security force or some private security firm.

A solution is necessary. If it is a matter of funds then the University should have no problem, especially when one considers the gravity of the situation at hand and the financial solvency of the institution.

The problem is real. The problem is now. The solution is at hand. One can only pray to God that some action is taken before a student is killed. I can only pray that this letter does not become another echo in the call for student security.

Two die in Puerto Rican attack

TOA BAJA, Puerto Rico (AP) - Unidentified gunmen ambushed a busload of U.S. Navy personnel yesterday morning in a barrage of pistol and shotgun fire, killing two servicemen and wounding 10 other persons, authorities reported.

The wounded included three women. One of the women and two or three of the men were hospitalized in serious condition.

No one claimed immediate responsibility for the attack, the first fatal assault against the U.S. military in Puerto Rico in almost a decade. Violence by underground pro-independence groups generally has been limited to attacks on property.

Rear Adm. Arthur K. Knoizen, senior U.S. naval officer in the Caribbean, called it a "heinous crime we cannot tolerate."

The Navy said names of the victims were being withheld until next-of-kin could be notified. But local authorities said the two dead men were the bus driver and a radar technician.

The yellow bus was taking 18 Navy communications technicians - all enlisted personnel - from the Sabana Seca Navy base in this town 10 miles west of San Juan to work at a transmitting tower about a mile away, across non-Navy land.

At a spot where a narrow two-lane asphalt highway passes a factory and a driveway, police said, a van blocked the path of the bus and terrorists opened fire, apparently with a shotgun and pistols.

One survivor, who did not give his name, said the driver was killed instantly by a shot under the right eye, and a passenger took the wheel and drove the bus back to Sabana Seca. Survivors told police the terrorists' van sped away after the attack.

The windshield and front side windows of the bus were riddled with bullet holes - police counted 41 - and shards of glass lay in a pool of blood beneath the first passenger seat to the left of the aisle.

The critically wounded were taken to the Veterans Administration hospital in San Juan, and those in serious condition were hospitalized at the Roosevelt Roads Navy Base.

personnel, and played the way we expected them to play." Orlando Woolridge and Rich Branning were the other Notre Dame players scoring in double figures, with 15 and 10 points, respectively.

Despite the win, Phelps saw one area for improvement. "I'm still concerned about our offensive rebounding," he said. "But I think if we concentrate more on the boards we will improve as the season progresses."

George Rogers, 81; Purdue quarterback Mark Herrman, 54; Florida State nose guard Ron Simmons, 41, and Alabama quarterback Steadman Shealy, 32.

Although the Downtown Athletic Club of New York awards the trophy annually to "the outstanding college football player in the United States," all but three of the 44 previous winners were offensive backs, including flanker Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska in 1972.

Heisman were two-way ends, Larry Kelley of Yale in 1936 and Leon Hart of Notre Dame in 1949. Ohio State running back Archie Griffin, who captured the Heisman in 1974-75, is the only two-time winner.

In a telephone hookup from Los Angeles, White said he was "surprised because I really felt Billy (Sims) showed a strong comeback, especially the game he had against Nebraska." Sims rushed for 247 yards against Nebraska on Nov. 24.

Jackson paces ND in victory

by Mark Perry
Sports Editor

Strong inside play by Tracy Jackson in the first half and a potent fast break helped Notre Dame hold off a strong Iowa State team 87-77, in basketball action at the ACC last night.

Jackson scored 11 of his game-high 20 points in the opening half, including seven of nine on free throws generated by his aggressive penetration towards the basket. The Irish built up a 43-36 intermission lead that was never challenged in the second half.

Kelly Tripucka added 17 points for Notre Dame, and the two forwards combined for 12 points in the first seven minutes to build up a 20-10 lead.

Iowa State rallied to within four at 31-27, but a 12-6 outburst, led by six points from Jackson, put the Irish out of reach.

"Tracy had a lot of confidence going tonight," said Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps. "He really needed a game like this. He did a good job of hitting the boards, hustled throughout the game and shot very well.

"We played well because we did an excellent job of forcing them into our transition game," Phelps added. "We have to get our press going, especially with (Bill) Hanzlik out. We gave up some easy points, but you can gamble with the lead."

While Jackson, Tripucka, and the rest of the starters forged out the Irish lead, Phelps got some more excellent play from his younger players that enabled Notre Dame to keep it.

"John Paxson and Tim Andree gave us a big lift in the second half," Phelps commented. "They played well and gave the starters the rest they needed, and kept up the momentum and the lead."

Andree scored 10 points in 13 minutes and was very strong under the boards for the Irish, while Paxson quarterbacked the offense and scored six points.

"Tim has had two good ball games thus far," Phelps observed. "He has given us 13 minutes of solid play in both games, and really goes to the basket strong. Both Paxson and Andree have been playing well in pressure situations."

Iowa State coach Lynn Nance felt that lapses by his squad were the big reason behind the Irish victory.

"You have to play with high intensity the whole game if you want to be a good team," Nance noted. "We had two stretches of about four or five minutes where we lost it, and that's where we got burned."

"I felt Notre Dame played very well for this time of year," he added. "They are deserving of their ranking, have excellent

Over weekend

ND takes relays, dual meet

by Michael Ortman
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame swimming team started its season with a bang last weekend, finishing first in the 16th annual Notre Dame Invitational Relays on Friday night, and then downing long-time rival Western Ontario in the season's first dual meet on Saturday, 61-52.

In Friday's invitational, the Irish grabbed a quick 14 points, finishing first in the 200-yard freestyle relay. Trailing Wisconsin-Stevens Point by a half second with just 50-yards remaining, Notre Dame's Thom Krutsch lunged into the water for the final leg.

"Swimming a 50 free is one thing," said Krutsch, "but when your opponent jumps in that much ahead of you, it really puts the pressure on. I'm just glad we won."

That thrilling win set the tone for what was soon to become a blowout. The Irish went on to take the next four swimming relays and post an insurmountable 70-42 lead midway through the meet.

When the water had settled, the Irish had accumulated 98 points, a whopping 22 ahead of runner-up Stevens Point and 33 ahead of third place finishers Toledo and John Carroll who tied with 65 points. Wisconsin-Milwaukee and Chicago finished fifth and sixth with 37 and 22 points respectively.

The Irish launched their big start on Saturday afternoon with a convincing win over Western Ontario. The much-improved Mustangs, who finished last season with a lackluster 2-8 mark, are already 2-1 this year.

Junior captain and two-time most valuable swimmer John Komora was supposed to miss the first three dual meets because of broken ribs and a punctured lung suffered four weeks ago in interhall football. But what he was supposed to do and what he did were two different things.

"John came to practice on Tuesday, and told me he wanted to be timed in the 100 free," said Irish coach Dennis Stark flashing a smile that stretched from ear to ear. "The doctor told him to try what he could and stop if it hurt him. I warned him to push off easy and then get going. We timed him at :51, just two seconds off his best time all last year."

Komora responded to his unexpected good health by swimming on one first and one second place relay team on Friday night and then winning the 50-yard freestyle and finishing second in the 100 free on Saturday. His time of :22.6 was the same as Krutsch's but Komora was granted the judge's decision.

Both meets were over in surprisingly short order, due in large part to the remarkably efficient job of an entirely new group of judges and timers.

Notre Dame's newly-formed women's swimming team competed for the first time this year on Saturday, also against Western Ontario. With their events intermingled with the men's, the Irish women, currently seeking varsity status, were easily outdistanced by the experienced Mustangs, 86-44. The Fitzsimmons sisters, Josie and Terry, led Notre Dame with two second and two first place finishes respectively.

The Irish hope to continue their winning ways on Friday when they host Bowling Green at 7:00 p.m. The Falcons clobbered the Irish last season, 79-34.

White nabs Heisman Trophy, outpolls Sooner tailback Sims

NEW YORK (AP) - Tailback Charles White of Southern California, the second leading rusher in college football history, won the 1979 Heisman Trophy yesterday easily outdistancing last year's winner, Billy Sims of Oklahoma.

White received 453 first-place votes, 144 seconds and 48 thirds for a total of 1,695 points. Sims was a distant second with 773 points, including 82 first-place ballots, 180 seconds and 167 thirds.

Brigham Young quarterback Mark Wilson was third with 589 points. Wilson received 72 firsts, 124 seconds and 125 thirds.

White, who finished fourth in the Heisman balloting a year ago, carried each of the six geographical regions this time - the Northeast, Mid-Atlantic, South, Midwest, Southwest and Far West. Sims was runner-up in each district except the Far West, where he finished third behind Wilson.

White, a 6-foot, 185 pound senior from San Fernando, Calif., led the nation in rushing this season with 1,803 yards in 10 games. Sims was fourth with 1,506 yards, but 529 came in his last two games, after balloting had begun.

The only other players to receive more than 100 votes were Ohio State quarterback Art Schlichter with 251 and Notre Dame running back Vagas Ferguson with 162. Schlichter received 19 first, 54 seconds and 36 thirds, while

It was a tournament of firsts for Notre Dame wrestling tri-captain Dave DiSabato and a tournament of split seconds for the rest of the Irish squad as they finished seventh in the 14th annual Rochester Invitational Tournament this weekend.

DiSabato outclassed the field at 134 pounds to clinch his second R.I.T. title. The Columbus, Ohio, native outscored his four foes 58-16 in the two-day tourney, his closest match being an 8-2 affair in the semifinals.

More importantly, those four wins upped DiSabato's career victory mark to 79, tying him with past great Pat McKillen for first on the all-time Irish wrestling win list. The talented senior is almost assured of reaching the 80 mark this weekend.

"What can you really say about Dave?" wondered Ray Sepeta, now in his third year as Irish wrestling coach. "His years of hard work and dedication are really obvious. Dave hasn't even reached his peak and he's leaving everyone in his wake."

But for the rest of the Irish, seconds seemed to make the difference.

"Time played a big part in the tournament," recalls Sepeta. "Several of our wrestlers, including Curt Rood and Al Mattaliano, could have won matches had there been a few extra seconds in the period. They had just started moves which, if completed, could have been match-winners but the time ran out."

"In the same respect, some of our other wrestlers lost matches with just a few seconds left, so time was definitely a big factor."

But time was not a deterrent to sophomore John Iglar. Combining basic units of strength and finesse, the Cincinnati, Ohio, product won three of his five matches to capture fourth place at 177 pounds. After losing his first match 13-4, Iglar posted 6-2, 7-0, 7-4 wins before dropping the consolation final face-off.

Junior Al Mattaliano also won three of five to garner sixth place laurels at 158.

"I've got to give all our wrestlers credit," remarked Sepeta. "They showed a marked improvement since the Michigan State tournament, particularly the freshmen."

Four Irish wrestlers posted two wins apiece: freshmen Paul DeBaggis and Rich Turgeon, sophomore Curt Rood and senior tri-captain Chris Favo.

Now that those early season tournaments are behind them, the Irish wrestlers have to get down to business as they embark on their grueling dual meet slate.

With hopes of bettering last year's 8-12 dual meet mark, the Irish head east this weekend for a showdown with Navy and Yale in New Haven, Conn., on Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m.

"Navy probably will be the stronger of the two teams," explained Sepeta. "They have been ranked before, and they have a highly-disciplined, well-trained program."

"But Yale has been known to rise to the occasion and has beaten Navy a few times, so it should be a tough triangular meet. We'll have as much competition as we want, if not more so."

Yet, hopes are running high. "The team is really excited about this week's meet, and I hope that they'll wrestle as keyed up as they feel."
