Police apprehend burglars

By John M. Higgins
Staff Reporter

South Bend Police arrested two black males as they tried to enter a student house Friday night after one of the residents telephoned police while listening to the pair attempt to break through the back door.

According to Notre Dame student Jim Reynolds, he was alone in the house at 1133 Corby Street when he heard a knock on the front door at 9:30 p.m. When he didn't answer the door, he heard someone trying to open a window at the side of the house. He then called police.

"We've had some guys checking out the place earlier in the semester," Reynolds said. "I heard them outside and figured they decided to come back. I didn't want them to know I was home."

Unable to open the window, the burglars then tried to kick down the back door, Reynolds said. "I was talking to the (police) dispatcher when I heard the door start to come apart."

According to SBPD Sgt. Paul Jewel, the arresting officers observed the two men trying to break down the door and apprehended them. Jewel did not know if the pair lived in the neighborhood. He said that a third male may have eluded police.

"I was pretty impressed with the police," Reynolds said. "People are always getting on their backs, but they got here about two minutes after I called."

Reynolds said that his was the only student house in the neighborhood. "There were two other houses on the block," he commented, "but after they both got robbed they moved out."

Professor Fenlon dies ; services held today

By Mike O'Brien
Staff Reporter

Funeral services for Paul Fenlon, ND professor emeritus of English, are scheduled for 3:30 p.m. today in Sacred Heart Church. Fenlon died Friday at age 84.

Born in Blairsville, Penn., Fenlon came to the University in 1915. He graduated three years later with a degree in law and went to work for a bank in Chicago before returning to teach in the English department in 1921.

During his tenure at ND, Fenlon served for several years as chairman of the English department and assistant dean of the College of Arts and Letters.

A 59 year resident of Sorin Hall, Fenlon was known as the last of the "bachelor dons": Notre Dame professors who lived right on campus.

Friends called Fenlon a one-man alumni association, citing the thousands of graduates he was in contact with as well as his uncanny ability to remember their individual years of graduation and personal information. One professor recalled that Fenlon was a good friend to the four horsemen of gridiron fame, even though he "didn't know a football from a baseball."

Professor Fenlon is survived by one niece, Mrs. Thomas Casey who is a graduate of Saint Mary's College.

Duggan elaborates on St. Mary's role

Dr. John Duggan has been president of Saint Mary's College since 1975. In an interview last week with Observer staff reporter Mary Agnes Carey, Duggan discussed parietals, in loco parentis, the ND-SMC relationship, and the future of Saint Mary's.

Q: Students see Saint Mary's as behind the times on the issue of male visitation. How do you justify parietals? What is stopping Saint Mary's from changing this policy?

A: Well, we've made a lot of changes in the last few years. When I came to Saint Mary's, the parietals were 10 p.m. on Friday and Saturday night, and 6 p.m. on Sunday, and we extended those hours to midnight about the time I came. It seemed to me, after some study and consideration, that hours similar to Notre Dame's were in the interest of our Saint Mary's students, and we changed our hours to match theirs on the weekend. I'm comfortable with the parietals we have now, and I haven't been persuaded by any arguments that there should be some significant change.

Q: Notre Dame has the policy of visitation until midnight during the weekdays and Saint Mary's does not have that policy. What is stopping Saint Mary's from totally equalizing the visitation policy?

A: I'm not sure that having male visitation in the dormitories on the weekdays is a good idea. I'm not saying the idea should not be considered by students or study groups, or whatever, but I'm convinced that as a women's college, where we talk regularly about the value of women who are learning from and with other women and interacting regularly with them, and being free of the kind of restraints of society that are typically imposed by male dominance, or male presence, that there's anything to be gained by introducing men into the dormitories on weekdays.

I would ask myself, in what sense are we a women's college? If we have some classes with men, if we have men as regular fixtures in the dormitories on a day-in, day-out basis, how then do we say that there are advantages for women to be educated in a women's society? It seems the next step would be to become co-educational.

Q: What would be a cause for a change in rules?

A: I think a well-researched, well-documented proposal that addresses itself to some of the concerns that I've raised (would be a cause for a change in rules).

Q: How do you define the college's role as an institution "in loco parentis"? Doesn't it, by definition, suggest a parent-child relationship, therefore hindering the development of the Saint Mary's student?

A: You'll have to look long and hard to find anything in what the college says in its official publications, or in anything I've ever said, that stipulates an "in loco parentis" policy. My understanding is that we don't have one. If you're talking about the regulations we have, those are promulgated widely and I believe our rules, to the extent that we have them, are for the betterment of the community.

I think that we both make and enforce rules in such a way that we encourage self-responsibility and self-development among students. And to describe our rules here, rather than saying that we're in an "in loco parentis" relationship, I would say we're in a contractual relationship where we've said this is the kind of institution we are. We don't hide the rules from anybody before they get here. When you come here, you come here with the understanding that this is the kind of society you're going to live in. Not "in loco parentis," because that tends to signify a kind of pejorative mothering of student involvement — "we know what's best," but rather a community where people care deeply about one another's development, and work toward that. I think it works pretty well.

Q: When the 1972 merger between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's was cancelled, the future of Saint Mary's was questioned. Looking back, what were the good and bad results of that decision?

A: Well, I wasn't here then, so what I know I know secondhand. But I can't think of many negative results that have come from that decision. It forced Saint Mary's to do a campus-wide rethinking of what we stood for and where we were going. That process, as I understand it, galvanized the community into taking some steps that assured a strong future for Saint Mary's. That is to say, the college reaffirmed its commitment to being a Catholic women's liberal arts college.

So it took a serious look at

Lame duck Congress returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is returning to town this week for the first lame-duck session in a presidential election year in 32 years, giving Democrats thrown out of office the chance for a last stand.

But whether they will be able to accomplish anything before being inundated by the tidal wave sweeping Republicans into Congress in early January is questionable.

Congress returns to town on Wednesday in the first such post-election session since 1948, when Democratic President Harry S. Truman, newly elected to a full four-year term, summoned a reluctant "do-nothing" GOP-controlled Congress back to town.

But Congress recessed without acting on any of the legislation Truman requested.

A test of whether the 1980 lame duck Congress will be any more productive may come on the proposed $39 billion tax-cut bill being pushed by congressional Republicans — with the blessings of President-elect Ronald Reagan.

An immediate tax cut also has the support of Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia. But it is opposed by the House Democratic leadership and it appears doubtful it will get the support of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Beyond this potential roadblock was the prospect of a possible veto by President Carter of any Reagan-style tax cut — a veto that probably could be sustained by a Congress that, at least for now, remains in Democratic hands.

Lame-duck Democrats may try to push a number of pet projects, or holdover legislation supported by the Carter administration.

But Republicans have enough parliamentary devices at their disposal — especially in the Senate — to delay action on (continued on page 4)

Better late than never?

ATLANTA, Ga.-- I think I must be in the wrong business. Right now, back at The Observer office, there is a Design Editor panicking. I'm on the road and he is reading my note that says my column will be a little late. But it will be there! Really! I promise! Isn't that what counts?

Not necessarily, so I've been told. Deadlines--especially in a newspaper business--are very important. That's why I must be in the wrong business. I have not made a single deadline in my entire life! My Mom has told me that I was late for my date of birth. From the day I walked into kindergarten late, my Dad has said to me, "There's nothing wrong with being early Margie."

Well, I know I'm not the only one in the world who always arrives late for dates, parties and classes. There is a silent minority of perpetual late-comers that are greatly discriminated against by people who insist on promptness.

We're not the average late-comer, the kind who is late just whenever he feels like it; who over-sleeps just occasionally. No we're always late.

Perpetual late-comers could leave extra-early for where they're supposed to be and something will stop them and make them late. Invariably, inevitably, it never fails. It could be a bus that will be just off time enough to make you a minute or two late. Or it could be a friend who needs a hand 'for just a second' with a paper. It could even be the beauty of a day that you just have to stop and look at for a moment. Anyway, whatever the reason (not 'excuse' as our detractors would say) we will wind up being late. Perpetual late-comers have a philosophy: you can't place time limit on life.

I will grant, some deadlines are necessary, if only to make sure something gets done. Otherwise this column would never get written and newspapers never printed. Nor would classes and football games ever be attended. And no one would have made it to the polls to vote (which might not have been so bad, but that's another column).

But really! Time can be taken too seriously. People can get so caught up with being prompt that they forget what they are doing. A prime example are the profs who get so terribly upset when a student walks into class late. There you are, trying to slip in the door quietly, and inconspicuously slide into the nearest desk. Until you hear this voice booming, "Miss Smith, there is a desk right here in front." And you look up at the teacher who is sneeringly pointing to an empty desk right in front of the lectern. The prof's whole purpose of course is to embarrass you and make you feel guilty.

Well, it doesn't work. All they do interrupt their own lecture and train of thought and the perpetual late-comer will continue to be late. It is not laziness or inconsiderateness. Really.

Margie Brassil

Perpetual late-comers are like people with chronic hiccoughs--they can't help themselves. They try to conform, they do, but it is nearly impossible.

What is Time anyway? We divide it up into little packages and plan our lives to fit within them. It's convenient, that's all. Time packages get things done--but who wants to try and fit one's whole life into one?

If anyone has ever had a schedule where they had to be someplace every hour of the day, they will understand what I mean. From, say, 9 a.m. til 10 p.m., you are running back and forth to be places. You usually find by the end of the day that you never were really at any of those places. In your mind you were thinking ahead to the next place, and how and when you were going to get there.

Keeping strictly to a schedule reduces spontaneity and creativity. You enjoy the present moment less. Life becomes a series of 'what's next?' 'where next?' And you run around like the rabbit in Alice in Wonderland saying "I'm late I'm late for a very important date." You're so busy getting to where you are going, that you miss the road you are on.

But, if you resign yourself to the fact that you'll get there when you can, and do that as soon as possible (Like all perpetual latecomers), then it all gets done and sometimes it's a little better, and sometimes it rambles on, enjoying not ever coming to the end.

Speaking of coming to the end... twelve hours of driving through Tennessee, Kentucky, and Indiana has brought us back to the land of the Golden Dome. I am now past deadline, but happily I have a very understanding Design Editor who is also used to my columns being a little late.

Leaders of Poland's defiant trade union "Solidarity" mapped strategy here yesterday in the last hours before a Supreme Court session that could spark a new wave of strikes in this Soviet-bloc nation. At the same time, the communist government stepped up its warnings of grave social and economic consequences of a strike. And Polish television showed film of joint Polish-Soviet military exercises held in an area that Western observers believe is in the country's north, near the Baltic Sea yesterday marked the third day of a sit-in by teachers, doctors and health care workers at the district government headquarters in Gdansk. The protest began after separate wage and benefit talks with senior government negotiators broke down. Officials of Solidarity barred reporters from the Club of Catholic Intellectuals, site of Solidarity's national presidium meeting, and refused comment when asked if negotiations with the government were under way or planned. "We must tell you that there will be no comment, no statement," said Jan Litynski, a member of the dissident Committee for Social Self-Defense and an associate of the union leadership. The Supreme Court is expected to rule today on Solidarity's petition to delete from the charter a district court-ordered phrase affirming the leading role of the Communist Party. — AP

President-elect

Ronald Reagan should have little trouble getting more defense money from Congress, possibly even the $20 billion one adviser says he could request. Congress is already so defense-minded that it approved $5 billion more for weapons than President Carter asked. And voters elected even more defense supporters to the new Congress convening in January. The Reagan adviser, William Van Cleve, told CBS reporter Ike Pappas on Thursday that a $20 billion increase next year is not inconceivable to correct deficiencies, particularly manpower problems. Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., an occasional critic of defense spending and chairman of the House defense appropriations subcommittee, says Congress might approve that. "I hope not, but they probably would," Addabbo said in an interview. "He'd probably get it, with the mood Congress is in." That would boost to $195 billion the $175 billion working figure Carter set last July for fiscal 1981. The $175 billion figure itself has probably increased since then. And a $20 billion increase would boost the appropriation request to Congress to about $211 billion or more. Appropriations are usually higher because they include program funds for future years. — AP

Campus Democrats rally following Tuesday's defeat

by John M. Higgins
Staff Reporter

Speakers at a campus rally Friday afternoon called on Democrats to maintain social concern and political interest during "this long winter of defeat and discontent" in the wake of the overwhelming conservative victory in Tuesday's election.

Three University faculty members addressed a crowd of 120 who turned out for a public discussion held on the steps of the Administration Building to "constructively focus on the future of the Democratic Party."

The speakers shied away from direct attacks on President-elect Ronald Reagan or the Republican Party and focused more on the renewal of the Democratic Party, cautioning against political apathy.

"It's natural to feel dejected," Government Professor Edward Goerner said, "but this is not the time to become apathetic. In this long winter of defeat and discontent courage is a virtue. Now is time for concern about justice, to talk to the other side, not to despair."

"We can no longer depend on party affiliation for support," Law School Professor Edward Gaffney said. "We need to engage in a critical dialogue to see what can be done to revive those elements of the party that have become disconcerted."

"Three-fourths of the country did not vote for Reagan Tuesday," English Professor Eileen Bendy said. "I find hope in that. This year's election was not a product of political apathy, but of antipathy. Most people didn't vote for any candidate, but against the one they disliked the most or they didn't vote at all."

"This isn't a 'hate Reagan' rally," organizer Rachel Patterson said. "We're here to take a realistic look at what can be done in the future to prevent this kind of conservative movement from overwhelming us again."

Goerner called for discontented Democrats to talk with party leaders on the grassroots level to find out what can be done. "Now is the time to go back to the party organization and say, 'Hey, I'm interested in active leadership, what can I do?'"

The dedication of the crowd attending the rally to the Democratic Party was somewhat questionable. An informal survey of 14 people who attended the rally turned up no one who had actively participated in the recent election campaign on behalf of any Democratic candidate despite the bitter struggle of two Democratic Congressional leaders to remain in office House Majority Whip John Brademas and three-term Senator Birch Bayh, that occurred in this district. Both were defeated by young, "New Right" candidates.

"I didn't really see a race I wanted to get involved in," one student said, also citing his residency outside of Indiana as a major factor.

The main problem with the Democratic Party today is a lack of organization of its supporters", Gaffney said. He quoted satirist Will Rogers, saying "I belong to no organized political party, I'm a Democrat."

Snite opens to public

By David Sarphie
Staff Reporter

A large, enthusiastic crowd greeted the new addition to the Notre Dame campus yesterday, as the Snite Museum of Art was publicly opened for the first time. To the delight of museum director Dr. Dean Porter, both university students and members of the South Bend community were among the first to enter the modern structure.

"The crowd was lined up all the way to Dorr Road before we opened," Porter remarked. "That was the goal we had worked for all along."

The public dedication was preceded by several days of activities, including a dedication Mass and a panel discussion by leading national art critics.

"The art experts seemed very impressed with the pieces we have," Porter noted. "They compared the Snite Museum with the fine university galleries at Yale and Harvard."

The collection of alumni and faculty art pieces drew considerable attention from the first day's visitors.

"We have almost one hundred alumni included in this unusual exhibit," Porter pointed out. "I think there are some very fine works here."

Porter was especially pleased at the number of visitors from the South Bend community: "Many have wondered if it's possible to do something positive in the South Bend area. I think we've proven we can."

Porter emphasized the goals for which the Snite staff must now strive. "We've reached a kind of plateau," he said. "We have a good building and good people. Now it's our job to acquire more masterpieces." From the reaction of the crowds, it appears they have an excellent start.

SMC publishes newsletter

By Eileen Murphy

The Saint Mary's campus will enjoy the first appearance of a social justice newsletter this week, courtesy of the SMC student government.

"The Liberator", said Joan McCarthy, student vice president for academic affairs, "represents an effort to increase community awareness on justice issues that warrant reflection and action." A lunch-time discussion tomorrow will follow the distribution of each newsletter during which students will have the chance to speak with contributing authors.

"Student government intends to use as many facets of the community for 'The Liberator' as possible," said McCarthy.

The first issue, which focuses on the United States criminal justice system, has input not only from SMC students, but also from members of the Justice Education Committee, South Bend's Justice and Peace

Center, and various academic departments as well as inmates presently serving sentence in Indiana prisons.

"In the future, we hope to continue tapping all relevant community organizations and interested individuals," McCarthy added.

"The Liberator" will be distributed today in the dining hall and the LeMans lobby. The follow-up luncheon dialogue will take place in the Rotary Room tomorrow from 12:15 to 1:15 p.m. any given bill for the rest of the year.

And the Congress that returns in early January will be a far different body, with Republicans holding 53-47 command of the Senate and Democrats clinging to a relatively narrow 243-192 margin of control in the House.

The difficulty of getting anything controversial passed in the lame-duck session has prompted a number of congressional leaders, including House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, to suggest that the session may be a short one — involved mainly with bills needed to keep the government functioning.

Congress this year still must pass 10 appropriations bills essential to allow government agencies to meet payrolls and pay their bills for fiscal 1981, which began last Oct. 1.

And Congress has yet to agree on an overall budget for the federal government.

expanding such programs as business and nursing, which have been very successful. In one case, they added an addition to the curriculum. In another case we returned to an area in which Saint Mary's had done very well once before. It also brought the alumnae, because they were very interested in these deliberations, very much into the circle of people concerned about Saint Mary's, so much so that programs involving alumnae and financial support of the college began to develop. The whole fund raising program as we know it today began to take root. The corporate pride in being a separate, discernible, different institution from (Notre Dame), and in particular the emphasis on an education for women, became a very strong force.

Q: What is your vision for the future of Saint Mary's?

A: I want Saint Mary's to produce women who are educated in the Christian tradition, with deep spiritual, humane values, who will leave here with a strong commitment to social justice and a strong commitment to making their corner of the world better than it was before they got there. It's not enough for us to develop minds, and writing styles, and speaking styles, abilities to solve problems, and think creatively, unless the person who benefits from that kind of education is committed beyond their own personal welfare. That's summed up for me in the Jesuit motto, "Ad Majorem, Dei Gloriam," which means, "For the Greater Glory of God." And that's the kind of student we like to turn out. I think we do a pretty good job of it.

SECOND FLOOR LaFORTUNE

Harriers split at BGSU

by Matt Huffman
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame cross country team split in a double duel this past weekend in Bowling Green, Ohio.

The Irish were defeated by the host Falcons 36-21. In the tally from the same race Notre dame nipped Northern Illinois 31-27.

Greg Domete finished at 24:29 to capture the individual first place. Chris Koehler of Bowling Green came in second. Chuck Aragon placed third and paced the Irish with a time of 24:40.

The other finishers for the Irish were Ralph Caron (7), John Filosa (11), and John Riely (13).

"We could have run better than we did," commented head coach Joe Piane. "But overall I was satisfied with our performance. I thought John Riely ran his best race of the year. Ralph Caron also ran well.

"We have run B.G. twice this year. I think the way we ran tonight showed that we have had some improvement this year."

Piane's squad will travel to Champaign, Ill. Saturday for the NCAA District IV championships. The race will be 10,000 meters. Nine days later the NCAA championships are scheduled to take place in Wichita, Kan.

plunge from a yard out on the first play of the second quarter. Grace came back and drove to the Cavanaugh 10, but quarterback John Kenney and fullback Dave Rathgeber muffed a handoff on 3rd and three and lost the scoring threat.

The second half belonged to Grace. Safety Sly Johnson intercepted Cavanaugh's Bill Fitz at the Grace 35 and returned the ball 22 yards. From the Cavanaugh 37, a personal foul and a Kenney pass to split end Rick Thomas moved Grace 26 yards. An interference penalty moved Grace to Cavanaugh's one and tailback Wil Bostick dove in from there. Ray Jacobi's extra point veered wide.

Grace's Jeff Cook picked off another Fitz pass with three minutes to play and returned the ball to Cavanaugh's 49. Kenney then connected with speedy Matthew Ralph on the left sideline for a 39-yard gain. Cavanaugh's defense stiffened, though, and Jacobi's 26-yard field goal try with 1:10 left sailed wide left forcing the overtime.

Each team got four downs to score from the ten yard line. Cavanaugh tried first and couldn't move the ball. Bostick gained three for Grace on its first try. Kenney then fired to Thomas on a slant-in for a touchdown and the victory.

"The pass has worked for us all year," said Kenney. "Today I got great protection because the linemen sustained their blocks and we mixed in the running game real well, too."

0:56 and 15:47.

McNamara's streak was stopped just 30 seconds into the second period when Steve Ulseth connected on a power-play goal to make it 2-1. Bjork responded at 5:07 with a 45-foot blast past Gopher goalie Paul Butters for a 3-1 Irish lead.

Bryan Erickson pulled Minnesota to within one at 7:50 with a power-play goal and Jeff Teal tied the score, 3-3, at 17:07 when he deflected a slapshot over McNamara.

Then the Broten brothers, Neal and Aaron, appeared to put the game away for the Gophers. Aaron connected on a wrist shot just 15 seconds into the final period and Neal scored the Gophers' third power-play goal at 3:27 for a 5-3 Minnesota lead.

But 59 seconds later, freshman center Adam Parsons set up Bjork perfectly for his second score and the Irish returned to within one goal. Notre Dame evened it with a rarity — a power-play goal — by junior Dave Poulin at 6:25 and the Irish were back in the game.

"It was great to see us skate that much harder when we were down," said Smith. "It would have been very easy to quit — but our players are not quitters."

Bjork, again receiving help from Parsons, scored the game-winner at 12:31 when he entered the Gopher zone leading a 3-on-1. He cut over to the inside edge of the left faceoff circle and rifled a wrist shot past Butters' far side.

The Irish ended the game by killing a Minnesota power play. McNamara totaled 46 stops and now has 89 saves in two WCHA contests. Butters finished with 23 for Minnesota.

"A game like this can really mean a lot," said Smith. "It can turn things around for a team. The players had a lot to think about: everyone in Minneapolis was talking about the Gophers being No. 1 and it is always tough playing in the Williams Arena."

Notre Dame goalie Dave Laurion also was outstanding Friday despite the 4-2 loss. He totaled 34 saves, 17 in the last period when the Gophers threatened to blow the game open.

Humphreys had given the Irish a 1-0 lead at 1:18 of the first period, but that was to be the only advantage of the night. Bart Larson and Neal Broten scored at 4:03 and 13:39 for a 2-1 Minnesota lead after the first period.

BE ON THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS AT 22.

Think of a ship as a corporation, and it's not farfetched at all. A destroyer may have fifteen officers, other ships even fewer. Even the most junior officer gets to share in running the show.

You become part of the management team when you get your commission as an ensign after just 16 weeks of leadership training at Officer Candidate School.

Choose to be a Navy officer and you are responsible for people and equipment almost immediately.

Many officers go on for further advanced schooling. The Navy has literally dozens of fields for its officers — everything from nuclear propulsion to systems analysis, oceanography to inventory management. In graduate school, this training would cost you thousands, but in the Navy, we pay you.

Ask your Navy representative about officer opportunities, or mail this coupon for more information. Or call toll-free 800-841-8000 (in GA call toll-free 800-342-5855). There's no obligation, and you'll learn about an excellent way to start a career in management. As a college graduate you can get management experience in any industry. But you'll get it sooner — and more of it — in the Navy.

Army ticket refunds for Notre Dame or St. Mary's students who ordered an individual game ticket for the October 18 game and did not pick up that ticket are available in the form of cash refund during the hours of 9-5 p.m. Monday through Friday at the Gate 10 Box Office Window. Students may pick up their refund during the month of November. The last day refunds will be issued will be Wednesday, November 26 (the day before Thanksgiving break). Presentation of your student ID cards is required to obtain the cash refund.

Lacrosse players that still have equipment should bring it to Rich O'Leary's office on Wednesday from 2-4 p.m.

Women interested in playing lacrosse should contact Nuala Byrne at 232-3656. Play is open to both Notre Dame and St. Mary's women and no previous experience is necessary.

The interhall six-mile run will be held on Saturday, November 15 at 10 a.m. The course will be entirely on the Notre Dame campus utilizing the golf course, lake trails and campus roads. Notre Dame undergraduates, graduates, faculty and staff may enter. Separate divisions for men and women in each category (undergraduate, graduate, faculty, and staff) will be set up. If you wish to run, you must come to the interhall office (C-2) in the ACC to complete insurance and entry forms before Wednesday, November 12.

Dr. Tom Kelly and the interhall office are looking for students to referee the upcoming interhall basketball season. This is a paid position and interested students are asked to call 6100 as soon as possible. Officiating clinics will begin shortly.

Student basketball tickets may be picked up at the second floor ticket window of the ACC from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. according to the following schedule: Seniors, today; Juniors and graduate students, tomorrow; Sophomores, Wednesday, Nov. 12; and Freshmen, Thursday, Nov. 13. From Friday, Nov. 14, until Wednesday, Nov. 19, students who are not able to pick up tickets on scheduled days may get their tickets. Any tickets unclaimed by Nov. 19 will be forfeited by the student and a refund rendered. There will be a limit of four ID's per pick up. Because of a high demand for tickets this year some juniors have been lotteried into the bleacher section. A list of juniors with bleacher seats was published in the Friday, Nov. 7, Observer. Any student interested in purchasing tickets for the Nov. 20 game with the Polish National Team may do so at the Gate 10 box office today through Nov. 14. On Nov. 17 unpurchased student tickets for that game will go on sale to the general public.

Anyway, first, thanks to Sue Kelleher, John McGrath, Steve Swank and P.C. Byrnes for their many contributions and boundless help. Their efforts were mooseterpieces. Many regards to Finns and the rest for the use of your humble abode - hope the girls are out of the attic. (And that some others stay in the closet.) Beth, Ann, Patty and Mary, your gift will be worn faithfully and lustfully - by someone. Carol, Lynn and Janna - Maxi is the new Monday mascot. Thanks to everyone else for gifts. About the punch what can be said about a concoction of three rums, vodka, champagne, and J.B. knows what else. Has John cor's rump cooled off yet? Any bruises Rachel? Rust how does an old man like you keep it up? Anything in the punch Ortmann? I'm sorry your mission of salvation failed Rich. Maura have you topped on any windows lately? Beware of Eileen's hot fingers! Murphy, Jeanne, too bad you were saddled with a pair of "poops". Dave, your gift shall stay close to me. Leslie, Patty, Buzz, and Mary, your gift was delicious-or so was told by those who indulged in it. To everyone else, thanks for making an experience that I shall always remember. I love you all, take care, and g'd ready for next year. Ryan cat: Thanks for the "cultural awakening" Saturday night - a regular "freshman orientation" to The Observer! Now maybe I can start my own rumors...

To Georgia Tech

Irish suffer 3-3 'loss'

by Craig Chval
Sports Writer

ATLANTA — Only a school with a 1-7 record could consider a 3-3 tie the biggest win of its season. But that certainly was the case Saturday as Georgia Tech stunned top-ranked Notre Dame on Grant Field.

The deadlock no doubt will be accompanied by an eviction notice, throwing Notre Dame (7-0-1) out of the high-rent district it occupied for but a week.

Immediately, cries that the Irish had been caught looking ahead to Alabama surfaced. But to a man, the Irish denied the charges.

"I'd like to give the Georgia Tech team credit for a great effort," said Notre Dame head coach Dan Devine. "To dwell on our turnovers and mistakes would detract from their effort."

"By the same token, don't think that they gave any more effort than our players. We were outexecuted and outcoached."

Indeed, to say that Notre Dame had its mind in Birmingham would be grossly misleading. The Irish played with emotion, but just couldn't put it together.

The explanations, however, didn't come so easily.

The shock of the game was reflected on the players' faces in the lockerroom. While Tech fans noisily celebrated their victory outside, the Irish sat motionless, staring blankly at the walls. Even Devine was stunned, referring to Notre Dame's "loss" on more than one occasion during his post-game press conference.

A gutty defense gave Notre Dame more than enough chances to turn defeat into victory.

The Irish limited Tech to just eight first downs and 140 yards of total offense. But five turnovers cost Notre Dame its number-one ranking.

The miscues also may have cost freshman quarterback Blair Kiel his starting job. He was replaced by senior Mike Courey after throwing his second interception of the game on Notre Dame's first possession of the third quarter.

Devine explained that he made the move to Courey in attempt to counter the Tech 5-2 defense, which usually had seven men on the line of scrimmage.

Courey rushed five times for 28 yards, including a nifty 20-yard pickup against the grain. He also completed four of eight passes for 45 yards. But once again, turnovers stifled the Notre Dame attack.

"I honestly don't know who will start for us next week," Devine said after the game. "We'll have to look at the films and see what kinds of things Alabama's defense does."

Saturday's game also marked the return of sophomore tailback Phil Carter, who missed four games with a severely bruised thigh suffered against Michigan State.

Devine waited until the third quarter to use Carter, and he admitted he was hoping that he would give the club an emotional lift. But Carter managed only 16 yards in seven tries and coughed the ball up twice.

Notre Dame's bruising ground attack, which entered the game ranked ninth nationally in rushing offense with 286 yards per game, was limited to 138 yards on 43 carries.

The Irish passing game just couldn't shoulder the burden. Notre Dame was an amazing 1-for-14 in third down conversions.

Offensive tackle Phil Pozderac was at a loss to explain Notre Dame's sudden inability to move the ball.

"In the third quarter we came out and moved the ball pretty well, but mistakes hurt us," he said. "Usually, the kind of defense they played creates a lot of movement and every once in a while you can get the big-gainer. But it just didn't happen. They didn't throw any surprises at us. We were prepared — we just didn't execute."

The Irish had one final chance to win when they smothered Tech tailback Ronnie Cone on fourth-and-one at the Yellow Jackets' 48 with 1:21 to play. Kiel, back in the game to run the shotgun, threw to Pete Holohan for six yards on second-and-ten, but was sacked for 16 yards on the following play.

Rather than risk turning the ball over to Tech on his own 42, Devine elected to punt.

"We felt that they would throw the ball to try to win, and that we had a chance to get the ball back," said Devine, while adding that the Irish had all three timeouts remaining.

Freshman quarterback Ken Whisenhunt, playing in his first game ever in place of injured starter Mike Kelley, threw incomplete on first down, and was sacked by Pat Kramer on second. But Notre Dame was penalized for offsides on third down, enabling Tech to run out the clock.

After all, they already had their win.

Senior forward Kelly Tripucka was hospitalized yesterday after sustaining a facial blow in practice. Although the extent of the injury was unknown last night, he is expected to return to practice by the end of the week. (photo by Doug Christian)

Notre Dame splits with Gophers

by Brian Beglane
Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS — The only time the Notre Dame hockey team did not skate even with Minnesota this weekend was when the two teams were not even — that is, when the Gophers had the power play.

When it was six-on-six, however, the No. 1 ranked Gophers found an equal match in the fast-skating, forechecking Irish. And although much of the sellout crowd of 7,750 here at the Williams Arena still may have felt the Gophers were No. 1 after Notre Dame's dramatic 6-5 victory Saturday, the Irish left the clear impression that they are a force to be reckoned with this year in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association.

"They are the best team we have played so far," said Minnesota coach Brad Buetow, whose team also has faced North Dakota and Michigan Tech.

Good enough, in fact, to come away from the Twin Cities with a split of the WCHA series. Sophomore center Kirt Bjork turned in the best performance of his career Saturday with his first hat trick to lead the Irish back from a two-goal, third-period deficit and hand Minnesota its first loss of the year.

The Gophers skated to a 4-2 triumph in the series opener Friday and remain atop the WCHA with a 5-1 record (6-1 overall). Notre Dame is now 2-2 in the league and 4-4 overall heading into this weekend's series at second-place Wisconsin.

"It was a very gratifying weekend," said Irish coach Lefty Smith. "We certainly showed we can get up and go when we have to. We skated even with them and we showed a lot of character by coming from behind the way we did Saturday."

The Irish appeared to fold early in the third period after the stellar goaltending of sophomore Bob McNamara helped them enter the final stanza tied 3-3. McNamara totaled 38 saves in the first 40 minutes and did not receive consistent support from his teammates on the blue line all night.

Twenty-two of his saves came in the first period when he blanked the Gophers and Kevin Humphreys and Jeff Logan gave the Irish a 2-0 lead on goals at

St. Ed's, Grace advance to finals

An interhall football first will occur next Sunday afternoon (2:15 p.m. on Cartier Field) as two teams living under the same roof will vie for the men's title now vacated by 1979 champ Morrissey.

Displaced St. Ed's, with 1/3 of its population residing temporarily in Grace Hall, with an unblemished 5-0 record will meet Grace, also 5-0, in next Sunday's finale.

Both squads, relying on the same ingredients — strong defense and an effective pass attack, advanced through the semifinal round, St. Ed's defeating wildcard entry Off-Campus 8-0 and Grace edging Cavanaugh 12-6 in overtime, with plenty of difficulty yesterday afternoon on Cartier.

In the opener, St. Ed's capitalized on four Off-Campus turnovers and ran its unscored upon streak to five games. After a scoreless first half — both teams missing field goal attempts, St. Ed's came out throwing in the third quarter.

Quarterback Dave Kaple, working from the shotgun, hit tight end John Paraskos for 12 yards over the middle on the first play from scrimmage. From his own 47, the senior signal-caller found Paraskos all alone at the Off-Campus 20. Paraskos slipped one tackle and raced into the end zone for the 53-yard scoring play. Halfback Glenn Gurtcheff then took an option toss around right end for the two-point conversion and an 8-0 lead.

Off-Campus right back, driving to the St. Ed's 12 with strong rushing from Pete Raphael and Glenn Vaccaro, but on 3rd and six quarterback Matt Huffman fumbled on a quarterback sneak and turned the ball over.

The defense held and Off-Campus put together a 15-play drive from their own 19. However, on 4th and two at the St. Ed's 12 with 1:18 to play, Raphael fumbled and time ran out for Off-Campus.

"They (Off-Campus) didn't blitz like they did the first time we played them," said Kaple. "And we were able to move the ball a lot better. We also had some of our injured players back, like Glenn (Gurtcheff), and that helped."

Grace nearly dug an early hole against Cavanaugh, as two fumbles cost one touchdown and gave away another in the first half. The first turnover led to a 10-play, 37-yard drive by Cavanaugh that resulted in a Mike Chandler touchdown

Players of the Game by The Observer

Defensive Player of the Game — Stacy Torann, a freshman corner back that intercepted an errant Tech pass and returned it 10 yards.
Honorable Mention — Bob Crable, Scott Zettek and Pat Kramer.

Offensive Player of the Game — Pete Holohan, the Irish flanker who caught 5 passes for a total of 63 yards. Holohan also completed a 31-yard pass to Tim Tripp; however, the play was recalled on a clipping penalty.
