$50,000 damage

Fire temporarily closes Corby's

By BOB VONDERHEIDE

An early morning fire Sunday at Corby Tavern, Inc., 1026 Corby Ave., caused $50,000 in structural and material damage, according to the South Bend Fire Department.

The tavern should be "fully operational in three to four weeks depending on the weather," Corby's spokesman Harold A. Rowley Jr., said yesterday. He added that final work on the reconstruction contract will be completed today.

The South Bend Fire Department report listed "heavy ceiling damage to the roof and rafters at the rear of the building with water and smoke damage throughout the bar area."

The fire started in the furnace room where stored items such as liquor, plastic cups and supplies apparently spontaneously ignited, according to a Fire Department spokesperson insisting on anonymity.

The spokesperson also said the fire moved up and across the ceiling to the rear of the building but the furnace "did not malfunction and this is definitely not an arson." Rowley also does not suspect arson.

Rowley said the fire department's "outstanding job" saved the building from complete destruction. Three fire trucks answered the 4:32 a.m. call and had the blaze under control within 45 minutes.

If the fire had not been contained,

Rowley speculated, "We would have had to close until the summer." As it stands now, Corby's will open in about a month assuming the winter weather does not slow the clean-up.

Rowley, who serves as the tavern's business secretary, said the building will need an entirely new roof. Furniture and pool tables will also be replaced.

"Anyone who is familiar with Corby's," Rowley said, "would just be shocked to see the damage. There is extensive damage to the roof."

Corby's closed at 3:00 a.m. Sunday and Rowley, who was not in Corby's at the time, said the employees had left by 3:15 a.m. No one was in Corby's during the fire and the fire chief's report indicates that all doors were locked.

Rowley said the employees did turn the furnace's heat down to 55 degrees before leaving, as instructed. "Because of the cold, the furnace had been working hard for two weeks," Rowley said.

Corby's is fully insured and the property is assessed at $100,000. The fire caused $40,000 in damage to the building and ruined $10,000 worth of supplies.

Rowley's wife, Rose Kessen-Rowley, actually owns the property, but she has been out-of-town and was unavailable for comment.

Lone gunman shoots U.S. military attache

PARIS (AP) — Assistant U.S. Military Attache Lt. Charles Robert Ray was assassinated yesterday by a lurking gunman who police said fired a single shot into Ray's forehead and fled as the victim collapsed on a Paris sidewalk.

The U.S. ambassador to France, Evan Griffith Galbraith, said the gunman was "probably a professional and undoubtedly an experienced killer."

Police said Ray was shot about 9 a.m. as he walked alone to his parked car near his apartment in a fashionable district. He wore civilian clothes and carried a small attache case found by his body.

The only witness police found was a woman who saw the shooting from a distance on her way to work. She said she caught a back view of the killer fleeing on foot and described him as short with long hair and casual clothes.

In Washington, President Reagan described the assassination as an act of international terrorism, saying Ray "gave his life in the line of duty as surely as if he had fallen in battle."

"Our hearts go out to his family in their bereavement, and the wanton act of his murderers reinforces our determination to stamp out international terrorism and prevent similar tragedies in the future," Reagan said.

French President Francois Mitterrand and Premier Pierre Mauroy, expressing outrage, promised an intensive search to find the assassin and offered to bolster security for U.S. Embassy staff.

Galbraith said security for U.S. officials in France would be reassessed because of the killing, since Ray "did not seem to be a target and it was not thought he ran any risks."

Security was increased for senior U.S. Embassy staff in Paris after an unsuccessful assault on U.S. Charge d'Affaires Christian Chapman last Nov. 18 by a gunman who escaped. Police said the tactics and description of Ray's assassin were similar and that a 7.65 mm pistol was used in both attacks.

Ray, 43, was survived by his wife Sharon, daughter Julie, 17, and son Mark, 15. He had been stationed in Paris with his family since August 1980. He was schooled in military intelligence, served in Vietnam and

No recorders

Plane search continues futile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Salvage crews hoisted the tail of an Air Florida jetliner from the frigid grime of the Potomac River on yesterday, but the achievement turned sour when the crumpled section failed to yield two flight recorders which could unravel the causes of last week's crash.

Investigators were initially exultant when, after battling the frozen river for five days, divers managed to tie straps under the Boeing 737's tail and lift it from a crane on the bridge overhead. But the objects of the operation — the critical cockpit voice and flight data recorders — weren't inside.

With that, divers took to the water once more, but darkness forced suspension of the effort for another day.

Authorities had expected to find the voice and data recorders, each contained in heavy metal boxes, within the recovered section. But when they probed the wreckage, they came up empty. A disappointed Jim Burnett, acting chief of the National Transportation Safety Board, told reporters, "We don't have either one of them," when asked if the recorders were found. He said divers would try anew to find the recorders in the 27-foot-deep water.

Police Inspector James Shugart said it was possible the recorders dropped back into the ice-caked water as the blue, green and white tail section was being hoisted onto the bridge.

The recovered piece — the length of the two rearward windows — included a fairly intact section of cabin. The rear door of the craft was partially open. But the belly of the section was ripped open, and metal, seats and other debris spilled out as it slowly broke the surface under the pull of the crane.

NTSB member Francis McAdams noted the flight recorders could be of critical importance in learning why Flight 90, bound for Tampa, failed to gain altitude, clipped the busy 14th Street bridge and plunged into the river after taking off from National Airport.

McAdams said the voice recorder was just about at the point where the tail section broke off from the fuselage — "where the greatest amount of impact damage was" and he now believes that both devices are "with a bundle of electrical wires" still in the water. Each is about the size of a small briefcase.

In all, 78 people were killed, including four motorists.

Four more bodies were recovered yesterday. Police said two of those bodies were identified as Chalmers McIlwaine, 42, of Washington, and Robert Silbergliede, 35, of Boston.

That brought to 50 the number of bodies recovered from the aircraft, leaving 24 yet to be found. Inspector James P. Shugart of the Washington police force said recovery of the bodies remained the top priority, but NTSB investigators were just as anxious to find the equipment that could yield clues to the cause of the accident.

Meanwhile, the first of five surviving passengers was released from the hospital. Flight attendant Kelly Duncan was quoted by a hospital spokesman as saying, "I don't think I will fly as a career again."

The first lawsuit stemming from the crash was filed late Sunday in U.S. District Court here.

Manic depression

Patients battle highs and lows

By MICHAEL C. BUELOW

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Jennifer is a 35-year-old secretary and mother with the spontaneous, subtle humor of a professional comedian.

Her wide, animated eyes complement her positive, robust voice and the picture she presents for the listener.

Today she feels normal, a mood which may or may not last long.

The full intensity of her nervous energy and euphoric moods is under control, as she reminisces calmly about the past 16 years of her life — dotted with months of hospital stays, psychiatric therapy and the memories of two suicide attempts.

Diagnosed as a paranoid schizophrenic in her 20s, Jennifer was not discovered to be a manic depressive until a few years ago.

Jennifer, like other manics, suffers from a disorder which scientists believe is caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain, according to Dr. James Jefferson, a psychiatrist and director of the Lithium Information Center at the University of Wisconsin Center for Health Sciences.

The center, the only one of its kind in the country, was founded in 1975 and is a computerized library of over 8,300 articles and studies on all aspects of lithium use.

Jennifer, like others, takes lithium, a common form of salt, to control the euphoric highs and tearful lows with which this Jekyll-and-Hyde syndrome jolts its victims.

Jefferson said about 1.15 million Americans suffer from manic depression, but only a third — roughly 300,000 people — have been diagnosed and take lithium.

Manic depression differs greatly from regular depression and schizophrenia, according to Jefferson. While some people just suffer plain depression and schizophrenics possess an emotionally distorted picture of reality most of their lives, manic depressives slip in and out of three stages — manic, depressed and

The worst cold wave of the century shifted its grip to the Northeast yesterday, stranding thousands of city commuters as trains quit running and cars refused to start in temperatures at record lows. Temperatures were on the rise in the Midwest and the Deep South, hard hit last week, but more extreme cold may be on the way. The National Weather Service forecast below-normal temperatures across the eastern two-thirds of the nation over the next 30 days. At least 283 deaths have been attributed to the polar air mass that first pushed into the country on Jan. 9 and dealt cities such as Chicago, Milwaukee and Akron, Ohio, their coldest temperatures since the weather service started keeping track. — AP

Despite the Roman Catholic Church's sharp criticism of martial law, the Polish government said yesterday cooperation was needed from the church to pull Poland out of its crisis. In other developments, the Polish news agency PAP called for an increase in food and other prices to save the economy from total collapse. Officials of both the army and the Communist Party demanded a purge of the "enemies of socialism." Polish primate Archbishop Jozef Glemp issued his third attack on Poland's military rulers Sunday. But yesterday the daily government newspaper Rzeczpospolita spoke of the church's "important social role" in mediating "even the most difficult problems." It appeared the government was taking a conciliatory line toward the church despite repeated denunciations by the church of mass arrests. — AP

Marie Osmond is the leading candidate to play Britain's Princess Diana in a TV movie planned by ABC. The London Daily Star reported yesterday. The tabloid said the movie will cover Diana's life up to her marriage to Prince Charles, 33-year-old heir to the throne, at St. Paul's Cathedral last July 29. The Star quoted an unidentified spokeswoman for ABC saying: "the story must be handled tastefully. The actress we choose must capture the innocence and charm that has made the princess the darling of the world." — AP

Last night the Student Senate approved Notre Dame Student Body President Don Murday's deadlines for the election of new class officers, student body president, and vice president and student senators. A mandatory meeting for all persons interested in running for class offices will be in the student government offices at 7 p.m., Feb. 11. Elections for class officers will be March 2. An organizational meeting for all persons interested in running for SBP-SBVP will be 7 p.m. Thursday. A meeting for all persons interested in running for the Student Senate will be at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Elections for both will be Feb. 8. Elections will be earlier this year to enable new officers to become more familiar with the duties of their offices. Outlining his plans for this semester, Murday said he wants the Senate to involve itself in academic and social issues by forming study groups that will present ideas to the Board of Trustees in May. — The Observer

Narcotics agents in Union City, Tenn., arrested seven people and confiscated almost $300,000 in marijuana and cash late Sunday and early yesterday after they caught a drug-laden airplane being unloaded at an airport near here, officials said. The plane's pilot managed to fly away in a hail of gunfire when police began to move in at Everett-Stewart Airport, Obion County Sheriff Danny Cunningham said. Two men were arrested at the airport, one was picked up nearby and two others were arrested at Milan, Tenn., about 50 miles away, Cunningham said. A sixth man and a woman were arrested when Metro Narcotics detectives raided two homes in Shelby County shortly after the airport raid, he said. The plane and its pilot were being sought. — AP

Trent Lehman, who played Butch on "Nanny and the Professor" television series in the early 1970s, apparently hanged himself on a schoolyard fence near Arleta, Calif., police said yesterday. The body of Lehman, 20, was found, hanging from a chain link fence at the Vena Avenue Elementary School, by a friend, Joseph Allen, police said. The school is across the street from Allen's home, where Lehman was spending the night. Lehman's death was tentatively listed as a suicide, police Detective Al Ferrand said. Allen told investigators that Lehman "had spoken about taking his life" and was despondent. Lehman played Butch Everett, the mischievous son of Professor Howard Everett, played by Richard Long, on the ABC series in 1971. — AP

A different taste of life

Thinking about summer work while the greater Notre Dame-Saint Mary's community is experiencing the record-breaking temperatures of winter might seem futile, but the Holy Cross Associates and the Summer Service Projects Program offer exciting summer positions in various locales that are proven to be fulfilling and enlightening experiences.

A wide variety of summer experiences are offered to provide various communities with much-needed assistance as well as giving the participant a view of life not strewn with textbooks and final exams.

What makes one dodge the vast pool of summer employment to participate in volunteer work?

I asked Mary Ann Roemer, chief screener and member of the Board of Directors for the Holy Cross Associates Program, why students choose to join.

"The students try to integrate the beliefs of their faith with their career goals," she explained. Roemer said the intent of the program is for the students to serve others and, at the same time, strengthen their faith in Christianity.

The domestic Associates program focuses on four principle American cities: Portland, Oregon; Phoenix, Arizona; Hayward, California; and Colorado Springs, Colorado. Service positions there are as diverse as the cities' locales. A student can find himself teaching in an inter-city school, counseling skid row drunks at an alcoholic treatment center or aiding in community projects in neighborhoods.

What differentiates the Holy Cross Associates program from other programs is that there is no "drive" for recruits. If a student is considering the program, "I probably would not try to sway the student, for it is through a student's willingness to serve that attracts them to the program."

"I point to what the program is. It is a sense of Christian faith acted out in an active way," Roemer stated.

Roemer also expressed the value of the program in relation to future career goals. As John O'Leary, a former Associate in Portland stated: I am even applying some of my engineering as I head up a major renovation of the building. When all that doesn't keep me busy enough, I climb a mountain, ride my bike to San Fran, or have breakfast with Val.

The Summer Service Projects Program also offers students the opportunity to come into direct contact with urban and social problems, according to program coordinator Andrea Shappell.

Students work under the auspices of Notre Dame Alumni clubs serving the poor. Each student has the opportunity to discuss the problems in the areas they reside with the Alumni Clubs. "(The Summer Service Projects) is a challenging way to spend the summer. Students can learn much about the different cultures, something you cannot find in school," Shappell stated.

Students will receive a $1,000 scholarship to aid in the costs of the 1982-83 academic year. Approximately 20 students will be chosen to serve in the eight week program.

The scholarships will also come from the James Andrews Scholarship Fund. This year the Fund will sponsor two work sites, up from the partial assistance the Fund sponsored last year.

Andrews graduated from Notre Dame and was active in justice issues. He went on to co-found the University Press-Syndicate, the suppliers of Doonesbury and other columns.

Students in the program found themselves serving the educational, recreational and role modeling needs of their communities. Roles as teachers, and camp instructors, and volunteer service organizations allowed students to reach out and live a lifestyle not seen from a dorm room.

Barbara Frey, a 1978 graduate, writes of her experience as a Holy Cross Associate:

There is a framed photograph of my Holy Cross Associate community on the dresser. People ask me, "Is that your family?," and I respond, "Sort of." I keep the picture there so that when making life decisions I can look into the faces of my former housemates and know that I am not alone. Each of us searches for a way to live out our commitment to social justice. It is a lifelong search, and without a "family" of support we'd never make it. I am now a third year law student. My classmates are not very interested in social justice. My own attitudes have become more pragmatic and my golden ideals a little tarnished from the wear. I continue to see things that make me angry: my clients in prison who get five years for forging checks while doctors stealing Medicare money get probation; Ronald Reagan using money which once bought food stamps to build nuclear warheads; the Catholic Church still treating women as inferior. I intend to continue working to change these things, to reverse the injustice in any way I can. I need only look at the faces in the photograph to know that I am not alone.

Applications for the Holy Cross Associates Domestic Program can be picked up from Mary Ann Roemer at the Volunteer Services Office, 1.5 LaFortune. Deadline for the program is Feb. 12. Applications for the Summer Service Projects can be picked up at the Volunteer Services Office or from Andrea Shappell at the Center for Experimental Learning, 1110 Memorial Library.

Library construction continues

By TIM PETERS
News Staff

Construction of the Cushwa-Leighton Library at Saint Mary's continues on schedule, according to SMC Public Relations Director Ann Reed. Exterior work is nearly complete on the $7 million library, due to open for student use next fall.

"The severe weather has not affected construction," Reed said.

"Most of the work now is inside — walls, lighting, and such."

The library will be named in honor of Margaret Hall Cushwa, a 1930 alumna of Saint Mary's, and Mary Lou Morris Leighton, a local benefactor. Cushwa is a past president of the Alumnae Association and a past member of the College's Board of Lay Trustees and Board of Regents. She was also a delegate to the first White House Conference on Aging.

Leighton currently serves on the College's Board of Regents and is chairman of its development committee. She is active in the South Bend Community and serves as chairman of the Friends of the Snite Museum of Art at Notre Dame.

The new library, which will accommodate about 250,000 volumes, is scheduled for completion this spring. Dedication of the building is tentatively set for early next fall.

Suits possible

Supreme Court sides with Moonies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court indicated yesterday day it will let Unification Church members use an 1871 law aimed at protecting freed slaves from the Ku Klux Klan to sue people who try to "deprogram" them.

The court, without comment, cleared the way for one member of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's controversial church to sue 11 people for $51 million under the law.

In other matters yesterday, the justices took these actions:

Left intact the criminal conviction of former Illinois Attorney General William Scott for understating his taxable federal income in 1972. Scott now must begin a one-year-and-one-day prison sentence.

Rejected an attempt by the Oglala tribe of Sioux Indians to regain possession of South Dakota's Black Hills. The tribe says it is not bound by a 1980 Supreme Court decision that awarded the Sioux Nation of Indians — including the Oglala — $105 million for the land taken as revenge for Custer's last stand.

In the "deprogramming" case, Thomas Joseph Ward filed suit in 1979, charging that 33 people — including his parents and other relatives — conspired to make him renounce his beliefs.

Ward's suit says he was kidnapped in 1978 while on his way home from a Thanksgiving visit at his sister's home in Virginia Beach, Va., and was held captive for 35 days before escaping.

Ward says he was subjected to arduous "deprogramming" sessions in which he was threatened with physical violence and death.

His suit, filed in Norfolk, Va., said the defendants conspired to violate his religious freedom and his right to travel, in violation of the 1871 law, often called the Ku Klux Klan Act.

Two of the defendants, Robert and Eugenia Mandelkorn, challenged Ward's use of that law. They said the law protects people only against conspiracies to violate the rights of racial minorities.

Last Aug. 10, the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the law can protect members of religious groups, too.

Nuclear disarmament debated

A forum on nuclear disarmament will be presented Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Social Concerns Alcove on the first floor of the LaFortune Student Center.

Bernard Norling, professor of History, and Denis Goulet, William and Dorothy O'Neill Professor of Education for Justice, will lead a panel discussion with the audience.

The two professors will present opposing views on the production and actual use of nuclear weapons before taking questions from members of the audience.

The forum is sponsored by the Community for International Lay Apostolate (CILA).

normal — which can be triggered by any event at any time, he said.

The manic stage, characterized by decreased sleep, euphoria, ramblings of grandiose plans, excessive drinking, spending and an extraordinary sense of benevolence and religious enlightenment, can last three to six months, according to Jefferson.

He said the risk of accidental death during this period increases because victims lose inhibitions and become self-destructive.

"They may quit their jobs, leave their families, or give away all of their belongings," Jefferson said. "They feel they no longer need them because they're invincible or because God is protecting them."

Jennifer said her mania was marked by avid party planning, strong religious feelings and bouts of impulsive spending.

Jefferson said the depression stage, which lasts six to nine months, is marked by feelings of rejection and lack of energy, coupled with an increased risk of suicide.

"If untreated, or assuming they don't kill themselves first, the victims will come out of each stage and slip into the next," Jefferson said.

He said such mood swings may be recognizable to friends and family of the victim but mistaken for other maladies, such as schizophrenia or alcoholism.

Recent medical evidence shows the disorder may be genetically transmitted, and that persons with family histories of manic depression are more likely to suffer from it than those who do not.

In Madison, patients are able to get the treatment, support and counseling they need from professionals and other manics through the Lithium Connection, a voluntary self-help group at University Hospital and Clinics.

The Connection, founded in 1978, has nearly 100 members, and is one of only about a half-dozen like it in the country that provides counseling and support for manics who use lithium.

Jefferson said counseling is an important follow-up to lithium treatment — determined through blood tests and mood observations — because users must decide whether the drug and its side effects improve or worsen their quality of life.

Some of the less common and more serious effects include hair loss, kidney damage, diarrhea, memory loss, coma and death, which can result from an overdose of the drug, Jefferson said.

Jefferson, who has published several papers and a book on manic depression and treatment, said an overwhelming majority of patients in nationwide studies chose to continue using the drug.

Police said the gunman walked up to Ray as he was going to his car from his apartment on the Boulevard Emile Augier, in the capital's posh 16th district, and shot him once at close range. Police Commissioner Marcel Leclerk said Ray died instantly on the sidewalk.

Hours after Ray was shot, French authorities provided tight security for U.S. Treasury Secretary Donald T. Regan, who flew to New York after attending a meeting of Western finance ministers.

The beat performance in the Notre Dame mile relay squad was turned in by Steve Dziabis, who ran a 50.2-second anchor quarter and also doubled in the 600. "Steve is running better than any other of the quarter-milers," said Kelly, who also commended Dziabis' 600 effort. "He ran a tough, gummy race. I told him to go out with the leaders and hold them off as long as he could. He beat them to the start and held them off on three consecutive straightaways and then fell back because of the energy he expended in holding the lead."

The mile relay time of 3:24.2 on the slow boards means that the school record of 3:16.5 set in 1968 is in jeopardy. "I'd be surprised if we didn't break the school record this year," said Kelly.

The two-mile relay team also ran well. Freshman Jim Tyler, senior tri-captain Rick Rogers, junior Jim Moyer and senior Tim Macauley each took home trophies for their third-place 7:54.7 finish. "The two-mile relay ran well, as usual. They're all just very good runners," said Dziabis.

Senior John McCloughan got off to a great start in the 50-yard hurdles. In the lane next to him was former world record holder and Olympic gold medal winner Rod Milburn. Also in McCloughan's heat was Rodney Wilson, who was the NCAA champion two years ago.

"I got out with the guy (Milburn) and after the first hurdle he wasn't ahead of me," said McCloughan. "Then I fell apart." McCloughan hit the second hurdle but still finished the race strong, one stride behind Wilson. Milburn won the heat. "I was impressed with John's performance yesterday," said Kelly. "The thing is that he learned that he can run with some of the best hurdlers in the country. Yesterday confirmed my belief that he is running better." Caron seemed to sum up the team's attitude about its rather auspicious start, "From this meet everyone gained confidence. We realized that we're talented and we're going to be a team to deal with. We won't be taken for granted anymore. We can't be."

cisco, or will he repeat his dismal showing in the Davidson game?

• And finally, how long can the Irish last with only seven healthy scholarship players? The thin bench should get a stern test tonight.

Meanwhile, Villanova, barring a late-season collapse, most assuredly is tourney-bound. The Wildcats lead the Big East with a 6-0 record, and await what should be two classic confrontations with Pat Ewing and Georgetown in the next month.

This may be Villanova's best team since the 1971 NCAA finalists, but the squad has made it anything but easy on its coach. Massimino, a born worrier, has had to suffer through narrow defeats to St. John's (in the ECAC Holiday Tournament) and Philadelphia Big Five rival Temple. Even Villanova's victories have been by a razor's edge — the 'Cats have won their last four Big East games by margins of two, one, two and one point, respectively.

But the 12th-ranked Wildcats are prohibitive favorites tonight against the Irish, who are in the middle of a seven-game homestand that lasts until February 2.

"These guys will be gunning for us, there's no doubt about that," Phelps says. "We've done a job on them the last few years. Rollie is a hell of a coach, and he's done another great job with this team. They deserve to be among the top fifteen teams in the country.

"But we've done a lot of things well in the last two games, and it's just a matter of time before we get things together and back on the right track."

Whether Phelps has anything up his sleeve for Villanova remains to be seen. But one thing's for certain — we should know by tonight whether Notre Dame indeed has improved, as Digger claims, or whether the Irish truly are a 3-9 team.

Hello Maggie! Big Brother is keeping his eye on you

It's such a clever innocence. With which you do your sorcery. As if some how the years stood by. And let that young girl go by free. I thought I was a child. Until you turned and smiled. I thought I knew where I was going. Until I heard your laughter flowing. And can upon the wisdom in your eyes. I've spent my whole life running 'round. And chasing songs from town to town. Thinking I'd be free So long as I never let love slow me down. Until you turned and smiled. By now I should have long since gone. By now I should have long since gone. But here I stand still looking on. As if I didn't know which way to run.

It's such a clever innocence. With which you show myself to me. As if you know how it feels To never be who you wanted to be. I thought I was a child. Until you turned and smiled. I thought that I was free. But I'm just one more prisoner in time. Alone within the boundaries of my mind. It's true still after a year.

Irish swim teams fall to Cleveland St.

For a time Sunday, it seemed that the Notre Dame swim team would pull off a sizeable upset. Going into the final relay event, the Irish looked like winners against the powerful team.

"Cleveland State has the third-fastest pool in the world," said Mike Shepardson. "They are a strong team that has already qualified for the nationals in several events."

The Irish swam well as a team, but fell just short of the upset, as Cleveland State pulled away to a 12-second win in the 400-yard Freestyle relay, and a 63-50 overall win.

Though the visitors won eight of the thirteen events, Notre Dame hung tough, piling up points for second and third-place finishes. Sophomore Al Harding paced the Irish, winning the 500-yard Freestyle, placing second in the 200-yard Freestyle, and anchoring the 400-yard medley relay.

That relay was the first event of the match, and was an indication of things to come. Glenn Battle, John Willamowski, Shepardson and Harding edged out Cleveland State by almost three full seconds.

Cleveland State came back to win the next three straight events, but the tone was set for the Irish, who never lost confidence. That confidence got a big boost when Don Casey and Dan Flynn finished first and second, respectively. That sweep allowed Notre Dame to climb back into contention, where they stayed until the finish.

The women, meanwhile, did not fare as well.

Cleveland State swam to wins in 11 of the 13 swimming events, and overwhelmed the Irish, 88-50. Notre Dame's two-time All-American, Jeanine Blatt, continued her winning ways, taking first in the 500-yard Freestyle. Blatt was out-touched in the 200-yard Freestyle, however, losing by just .6 seconds.

The other winner for the Irish was Teri Schindler, who easily outdistanced her nearest competitor to win the 100-yard Breaststroke event.

Both the men and the women will return to action this Saturday at Illinois State.

Back in the swing of things

With the resumption of the second semester, Non-Varsity Athletic events also get back into full swing. Many games have already been played. Results, schedules and standings will regularly appear in Sportsboard with highlights in this section.

In addition to the standard leagues and clubs offered through non-varsity, the NVA office will be sponsoring tournaments and alternate events to round out your academic schedule. These are the activities and their respective deadlines for the month of January:

Cross Country Ski Rentals — Each weekend for the remainder of the winter the NVA office will issue cross country skis and boots. For a fee of $12 students may check out the gear from 4 to 5 p.m. on Friday afternoon and return it between 4 and 5 p.m. Sunday afternoon. The equipment will be issued from the room opposite the golf shop in the Rockne Memorial.

Acrobic exercise classes will begin this week. For more information call the NVA office at 239-6100 or drop by C-2 ACC.

Entries for the men's and women's volleyball tourney should be submitted by tomorrow, Jan. 20. Each team in the elimination tourney must have at least seven players, all from the same hall. Rosters should be handed in at the NVA office (C-2 ACC).

Irish trackmen excel

Aragon defeats stellar field

By EARL RIX
Sports Writer

It was a curious mixture of the old and the new for the Irish at the Goodwill Games in the Rosemont Horizon on Sunday.

Chuck Aragon, Notre Dame's three-time All-American and first-ever sub-four minute miler, still wore his Notre Dame uniform as he bested star-studded field in the mile run. Aragon is currently a first-year medical student at the University of New Mexico.

Aragon's winning attitude seemed to rub off on some of his former teammates who turned in good performances of their own against some of the best track athletes in the country at this prestigious meet.

"Chuck was strong and confident and he wasn't about to give up. I think that's now the attitude of the team. Chuck represents the epitome of what we're trying for. After a lot of work, good things will happen," said sophomore Ralph Caron who ran a fine 9:12 in the two mile.

Indeed Aragon didn't give up. Sitting in second place for the first half of the race, Aragon took the lead with a little more than five laps to go on the 11 lap-per-mile banked hardwood surface. To the delight of the crowd he held off a charge by Steve Lacy over the last two laps. Chuck finished the race in 4:04.2 over the 160-yard board track, which is about the slowest surface races are held on.

Olympian Steve Lacy, whose personal best in the mile is 3:52, finished a full second behind Aragon. Jim Spivey, who holds a personal best of 3:54 finished third with a time of 4:06.7. Ross Donahue, a 3:56 miler, finished fourth. Sidney Maree, who holds the American record at 3:48, finished fifth and was never a factor in the race. Craig Masback, a 3:52 miler, rounded out the field.

"I've seen Chuck race a few times," said Irish head Coach Joe Piane, "and this is the most intelligent race I've ever seen him run. It was probably the most exciting race of the day and the crowd reaction was superb."

The meet also marked senior Bill Ribera's return to competition after an almost two-year layoff caused by a ripped achilles tendon. He underwent surgery last spring. Despite the forced layoff and no experience whatever on the "boards," Ribera held his own with a 51.2-second clocking in his quarter-mile segment of the mile relay.

"Billy is as good a competitor as we have on our team," said sprint Coach Ed Kelly. "It's really good to see him do well."

Freshman Mitch VanEyken ran a fine 51.1 quarter in his first collegiate competition as he led off the mile relay. "He pleasantly surprised me," said Kelly. "He ran a very competitive opening leg."

Senior tri-captain Jacques Eady ran a 51.1 second leg in the relay.

Seeking revenge

Pinone, Villanova invade ACC

By CHRIS NEEDLES
Sports Writer

In this "season of revenge" against Notre Dame, Villanova may have the best reason of anybody to gain vengeance.

Sure, Virginia and Kentucky, among others, have had scores to settle with the now-floundering Irish this year. But consider the Wildcats' situation.

Rollie Massimino's teams have dropped seven of their last eight games against Notre Dame, including a 94-65 pasting at the Palestra last season. Worse yet, Villanova, in its last two visits to the ACC, has lost by identical scores of 70-69. In their last visit in 1980, the 'Cats clawed back from an 18-point deficit to take the lead in the final minute, only to have Tracy Jackson swish a 35-foot prayer at the buzzer to hand them still another defeat.

The emotional Massimino cried openly after that one. But shed no tears for Villanova this season. The 'Cats enter tonight's game at the ACC (8:05 tipoff) with a 12-2 record, ranked 12th in the nation and they feature one of the better balanced teams around.

There's the dominant center, All-America candidate John Pinone, who leads Villanova in scoring, averaging just over 20 points per game. The 6-8, 228-pound junior from Wethersfield, Conn., generally is regarded as one of the best big men in the East, if not the entire country.

"John has become one of the most outstanding players in America," says Massimino. "His confidence as a passer and ball handler gives us the ability to use him in all situations."

There's the finesse forward, freshman sensation Ed Pinckney. The 6-9, 195-pounder from the Bronx, a consensus high school All-American, has burst onto the collegiate scene and currently ranks second in the nation in field goal percentage, hitting nearly 75 percent of his shots.

"Ed's not only an outstanding player," Massimino says, "but he has also fit into our philosophy immediately. He's an excellent talent at both ends of the floor."

There's the power forward, 6-7 senior Aaron Howard, a three-year letterman from Linden, N.J. Although he is not a prolific scorer (averaging eight points a game lifetime), Howard can hit the clutch shot when called upon, as witnessed by his heroics against Syracuse earlier this year.

In the January 9 game at the Palestra, Howard hit a baseline jumper at the buzzer to send the game into overtime, where the 'Cats pulled out an 84-83 Big East victory.

There's the playmaking guard, Stewart Granger, one of the best in the country at his position. Granger, who was born in Canada and grew up in Brooklyn, played basketball on the international level this past summer — for the Canadian World University team.

Ironically, Granger was the hero in the Canadian upset of the U.S. team, which included Villanova teammate Pinone. The 6-3 Granger, a junior, scored 23 points in engineering the upset of the eventual-gold-medal-winning Americans.

There's the shooting guard. Massimino has a couple of sharpshooters to choose from. 6-4 sophomore "Happy" Dobbs fills the starting role, with relief help from freshman Gary McLain.

Finally, there's the bench, where Massimino can go three- or four-deep with confidence. In addition to McLain, Rollie can choose from junior Mike Mulquin, senior John Sices, and Dwayne McClain, still another talented freshman.

So, what does Digger Phelps have in store for Villanova?

"We're going to do just what we've done all season... go out and give it our best shot," says Phelps. "Villanova has a top-quality team, just look at the polls. We've got our work cut out for us, there's no question of that."

"Pinone is one of the top big men in the East, along with Sampson and Ewing, and Granger is a tough player as well. We've got to play with intensity underneath, and try to neutralize those two guys. We can do that."

"John Paxson has shown throughout his career that he can play defense against the best guards in the country, and he'll have to prove that again with Granger. We've had some success keeping people like Wallace Bryant from getting involved in the offense, and we think we can do the same with Pinone, but it'll be tough."

The Irish (3-9) have pieced together two decent efforts in a row, and at least, by virtue of Saturday's 59-45 victory over Davidson, have shown that they are capable of winning a ballgame.

But there still are questions to be answered: •Can Ron Rowan repeat his fine performance from Saturday against Villanova tonight and for the rest of the season?

•Will John Paxson break out of his shooting slump?

•Will Tim Andree rise to the occasion tonight against Pinone, as he did against Wallace Bryant in San Fran-

Knight responds to charges

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bobby Knight, Indiana's basketball coach, sent an assistant to Columbus yesterday with videotape to support his claim that Ohio State freshman Troy Taylor committed a flagrant foul against the Hoosiers' Jim Thomas.

John Smith, an Indiana coaching assistant, showed the tape from Indianapolis station WTTV to representatives of the Columbus Dispatch and Columbus station WCMH-TV.

Knight was upset over a flagrant foul called on Taylor when the Ohio State guard tried to block a layup by Thomas with 11 seconds remaining in the Hoosiers' 66-61 Big Ten victory Saturday over the Buckeyes.

At first, Knight declined to comment. But he reversed his decision when Taylor said the Indiana coach "started screaming at me and called me everything in the book."

Bob Hunter of The Dispatch wrote in Monday's editions that the videotape showed Taylor's foul to be flagrant. But he said it did not support or refute Knight's statements that he didn't say anything to Taylor after the incident.

"I didn't say anything for several seconds," Knight said via telephone Monday. "Then the kid (Taylor) came up to me. He was standing behind a player or two and he said, 'I'm sorry, I'm sorry.'"

"I then said something like, 'There's no excuse for something like that, get him the hell out of here,' and then went to the officials.

"That's the only comment I made and I didn't even say it directly to the kid. I asked my players to hear it, and they said they didn't hear me, say anything to any effect other than what I've just said. They were adamant about that."

Knight, however, says his incident with Taylor was not the reason for sending the videotape to Columbus.

"What's central to this thing is the foul, and I've sent the tape of that to the conference office. It's a conference matter," the Indiana coach said.

Hunter wrote that the videotape clearly showed Taylor shoving Thomas with his left hand, grabbing Thomas' wrist with his right hand and kicking the Indiana guard's leg out from under him.

Knight said he could not imagine what was going through the Ohio State player's mind.

"First of all, the game was over; secondly, he has no chance to stop the shot and then we have the kind of foul that it was. The basket was already made so how necessary was it for him (Taylor) to kick his legs out from under him (Thomas)?" Knight asked.

Knight said he read comments made by Taylor in Sunday's newspapers.

"Let's analyze the statement he made on the foul," said the Indiana coach. "He said he hit his wrist, but he fell on his own. Is that true? The first contact is a push on the back. And how about the leg whip? How can you believe what he said about me? To start with, he gave a couple of erroneous descriptions of what happened."

While Knight denied he swore at Taylor, he did not deny he directed an expletive toward Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller or that he slammed Ohio State's coaching staff on his Sunday television show.

"I said I didn't see any concern at all from the Ohio State staff — and I didn't say team, I said staff — for Thomas," Knight said. "But I said I've come to expect that from that operation."

Miller has refused to comment on the incident, saying it's not a matter for publication.
