ND alumnus begins race for Senate

Editor's Note: Mike Kendall, 34, a Notre Dame graduate, discussed his candidacy for the Democratic nomination to the United States Senate with Saint Mary's Executive Editor Mary Agnes Carey yesterday. The Jasper, Ind., Democrat, a former Observer features writer, will face incumbent Senator Richard Lugar if Kendall secures the May primary nomination.

Q&A

Mike Kendall

Q: What have you done since you've left Notre Dame? (Kendall earned three degrees from Notre Dame: a B.A. degree in History in 1970 and graduate degrees in law and modern European history in 1973 and 1974, respectively.)

A: I was in the army in '73 and '74. I went to ROTC (Reserve Officer Training Corps) here, was commissioned and transferred to military intelligence and I worked a year for a Congressman in Washington, D.C., in 1975, Phil Hayes, who was elected in '74, and I managed his congressional campaign. I left Washington and came back to Jasper in '76 and opened my law practice on my own; I kind of wanted to be my own boss. And I started suing people. I do a lot of environmental litigation; a lot of litigation against utilities; and generally a good deal of civil trial work. In '78 I decided to run for State Senate after having sworn off politics. I found a lot of the legal problems I was dealing with were essentially political problems that had spilled over into zoning boards or the Environmental Protection Agency or courtrooms. In the legislature I've been heavily involved in environmental issues, nuclear energy, utility reform, (and) lobby reform. What I've tried to set up in Indiana are life-support centers for pregnant teenagers to give them positive alternatives to abortion: adoption, counseling services, parenting skills.

Q: How do you feel about the Equal Rights Amendment?

A: I support the Equal Rights Amendment. Periodically bills are introduced to rescind our ratification of the Equal Right Amendment and I always fight rescindment. I think once the state's ratified it they ought to let it go and I do support the ERA. I didn't support the extension of time (for ERA's passage) because I think that's a mistake.

Q: Is being a state senator a full-time position?

A: In Indiana it's nominally a part-time job. It really has been a full-time job plus another full-time job: law, for me. The legislature could easily become a full-time body in Indiana. The problem with legislation in Indiana is that it's very heavily dominated by special-interest groups and lobbyists and there's an information gap as a result. If their interests coincide with the public's, usually it's accidental. And, as a result, we're dependent upon them

Haig expresses outrage over Polish situation

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. said yesterday he will express to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko "the outrage of the American people" over the military crackdown in Poland.

The meeting Tuesday between the two ministers will be the first high-level U.S.-Soviet talks since martial law was declared in Poland on Dec. 13.

Haig's plane arrived last night after more than 6,000 peace demonstrators rallied at the United Nations office where the talks will take place. Some shouted, "Soviet peace threatens peace!" and others carried banners condemning "U.S. intervention in Central America."

A tough face-off was expected between Gromyko and Haig, who wants to focus the meeting on Poland and push discussions on the proposed strategic arms reduction talks into the background. Washington has linked the arms talks to Soviet behavior over the Polish situation.

The Soviets want to give top priority to the arms talks and have rejected the U.S. position of linkage to Poland.

An official on Haig's plane said the secretary intends "to lay out directly (to Gromyko) our concerns about the situation in Poland and the impact it is having on the general state of Soviet-American relations."

Haig, the official said, fully expects Gromyko to be inflexible, standing staunchly to the Soviet position that events in Poland are an internal matter to be dealt with solely by the Polish people themselves.

"Since Poland is a longtime affair, business as usual (with the Soviets) is not going to be usual for a long time to come," the official said.

The Americans cut the long-scheduled meeting from two days to one in what observers viewed as a show of displeasure over the alleged Soviet role in Poland martial law crackdown.

Diplomatic observers said Haig would use Soviet interest in the arms limitation talks as a lever to wrest concessions on Poland from the Kremlin.

The State Department has said Haig "full range of issues" in U.S.-Soviet relations.

A Soviet source said that Gromyko was likely to arrive Monday afternoon. That would give Haig a full day for other business, including an expected meeting with Paul Nitze, chief American negotiator in the U.S.-Soviet talks in Geneva on reducing nuclear missiles in Europe.

Kendall criticizes Senate opponent

By MEGAN BOYLE
Staff Reporter

Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, Mike Kendall, addressed a group of Notre Dame students yesterday to generate interest not only in his political campaign, but in the the political process as a whole. "My campaign needs you. You're country needs you," Kendall emphasized. "Those who care about nothing, do nothing. This stands to be the first generation in American history to inherit a lower standard of living than their parents. That is why I am running against Richard Lugar for the U.S. Senate."

Kendall called his opponent Richard Lugar, "a careerist in politics who has been campaigning for the Vice-Presidency since he was elected mayor of Indianapolis." Kendall marked Lugar as a politician who speaks about the needs of the unemployed in Indiana but whose voting record demonstrates an inability to find solutions to state problems outside of the Reagan administration's economic plans. Kendall stated that after David Stockman's controversial "Atlantic Magazine," interview, "the Washington game plan proved to be no more than an attempt to falsify figures to sell a program that changed daily with political pressure." Said Kendall, "That's no game plan."

Kendall, in a move to cut down on wasteful campaign spending, has promised to limit his campaign expenses to $750,000 with any excess funds donated to charity, assuming Lugar will limit his campaign expenditures to $1 million. Presently, Lugar plans to spend as much as five million dollars in 1982 to re-acquire his seat in the United States Senate. Kendall sees such expenditures as "a battle of my ad agency against Lugar's ad agency."

Kendall cited Lugar's votes against a social security minimum, the Clean Air Act, cutoffs of Libyan oil imports, and special service programs as proof of his insensitivity to the urgency of the nation's economic woes. "I tend to have an apocalyptic view of where the country is now. Our options in energy, the economy and foreign policy are closing. Still, I really believe that government can solve these problems."

Militia museum

By DAVID MINTHORN
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet police are polishing up their image at the country's first museum on law enforcement.

The Central Militia Museum, which opened to the public last November, traces the history of uniformed police from the Bolshevik Revolution to current times.

Crime detection, traffic control, fire fighting and rescue operations are the main duties of today's militia, along with the "rehabilitation" of convicts in the Soviet penal system they operate. "We want to educate the public to respect those who protect their lives. At the same time, anyone who intends to break the law will see that all crimes will be detected," Maj. Gen. Nikolai M. Bulanov, the 66-year-old museum chief said in an interview.

The crime exhibit suggests that Soviet police have their hands full battling law breakers, although crime statistics are not published.

Kendall sees America's lack of a coherent defense policy and energy program as the real issues of the election. He believes coal is the interim energy source that will help the nation, and coal-rich Indiana as well. Kendall condemned his opponent Lugar for his votes to spend 40 billion dollars to replace the B-1 bomber "an aircraft that will be obsolete within three years of its construction." A former intelligence officer in the army, Kendall favors a strong defense for national security, but not by increasing the technological base of the armed forces.

Lugar's defense policy "will bankrupt our economy and military." Kendall favored increased pay and incentives for officer's, and an expanded role for women in the military.

Kendall concluded his discussion by introducing Notre Dame student Kathy Hedinger and Tom Gruscinski and St. Mary's student Mary Patrick who will coordinate Kendall's campaign on campus.

Handguns and knives confiscated in Soviet airport checks, a drug addict's syringe, fake icons, bogus cosmetics and counterfeit blue jean labels are on display.

A few crimes are recounted; the hammer slings of 30 people by a Moscow coachman in the early 1930s and art thefts from the Krem-police activities. Police actions against "counter-revolutionary" gangs in the 1920s, the expansion of police powers in the 1930s and the struggle against German invaders in World War II are major themes.

The police role in the "red terror" after the Bolshevik takeover, Gulag labor camps of the Stalin era, and the current crackdown on political dissidents go unmentioned.

Bulanov said the museum also serves to educate militia recruits.

"They must know what happened in the past in order to avoid old mistakes he declared.

One newspaper clipping hints at the widespread use of convict labor under Stalin, reporting 60,000 prisoners were paroled after helping to build the Baltic sea white sea canal. Federal investigators recovered crucial data and voice recorders yesterday from a partially submerged World Airways DC-10, hoping to learn why the jumbo jet with 208 people aboard slid off an icy runway into Boston Harbor and broke open. The cockpit voice recorder and the flight data recorder, to be sent to a lab for analysis today, might reveal at what point on the 10,081-foot runway the plane landed, what the crew said before landing, and "sounds such as switches being thrown, changes in engine noises and warning horns," said National Transportation Safety Board spokesman Robert Buckhorn. The flight data recorder contains information about the plane's speed, direction, angle of flight, and where it landed, Buckhorn said.

A 20-year-old Notre Dame student was arrested Saturday night for purchasing alcohol. Undercover police staking out Frank's Place Liquors on 327 West Marion made the arrest at 7 p.m. After purchasing two cases of beer (without having to show any identification), the student exited the store and was accosted by two South Bend detectives who demanded to know his age. After providing the police with a driver's license, the student was handcuffed and led to a marked South Bend police car and driven to the local precinct where he was booked with possession of alcoholic beverages. Later, the student was taken to St. Joseph County Jail. After being mugged and repeatedly fingerprinted, the student was released at 8:30 p.m. on $50 cash bond. Frank's Liquors, which only recently received recertification (after having lost its license), will most probably face stern consequences according to reliable sources. The South Bend Police Department and Frank's Place Liquors were unavailable for comment. — Observer

President Reagan has decided to establish a Cabinet council to coordinate legal and law enforcement policies that affect several departments, a White House spokesman said yesterday. Although the decision comes after criticism of the administration for appearing to change signals on the Equal Rights Amendment and on tax exemptions for private schools that racially discriminate, both White House and Justice Department spokesmen said the idea had been under discussion before those issues arose. White House spokesman Mark Weinberg said Reagan had decided to formally announce soon that he will add a legal policy group to the five Cabinet councils that were created last February. Weinberg said he did not know which Cabinet officers would be on the panel or who would chair it, but an administration source who asked not to be named said Attorney General William French Smith was likely to head the group. — AP

Two leading conservative political activists said yesterday that President Reagan has failed to follow through on his 1980 campaign promises, and blamed his advisers for leading him astray. "His rhetoric is hard, his desire is firm, his policies are weak," said Richard A. Viguerie, publisher of the Conservative Digest. Appearing on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley," Viguerie and Howard E. Phillips, director of the Conservative Caucus, said the president should adopt a more hard-line attitude in pushing his programs. "As political friends of the president, we have a responsibility to him to point out that his administration is moving in a significantly different direction than that which he promised us when he campaigned," Viguerie said. "And I think as he's looking back now one year later, he's got to be disappointed," he said. — AP

Reagan offers legal discrimination

If most people were asked, "Why don't schools with racially discriminatory admission policies receive tax breaks?" they would probably answer "because it is the law."

But is it?

This week the Reagan administration has been under fire for reversing the standing practice of the Internal Revenue Service to deny tax exemptions to schools and colleges that discriminate against blacks.

Reagan personally took the responsibility for the action.

In an article which appears on the front page of the January 20 Observer, Reagan stated that he "accepted responsibility for the administrative decision to grant tax-exempt status to private schools which racially discriminate."

However, it is not until the twelfth paragraph (after nine paragraphs about the nation's unemployment problem and the situation in Poland) that the article details Reagan's basis for the decision.

The President claims that he made the move because there was no basis in the law for the IRS ban.

Furthermore, he stated "I am opposed with every fiber of my being to discrimination." In support of this statement Reagan has asked Congress to pass legislation which would formally outlaw tax exemptions for discriminatory schools and colleges.

This leaves me with a few important questions. Is this the true reason for Reagan's decision? What if there are not enough votes in Congress to pass the needed legislation? Will any racially discriminatory schools receive tax-exempt status while the Congress and the courts decide the issue? And finally, How many important principles which most people think are made concrete in law are in actuality legally undefined?

As to the intent behind the Gipper's decision, it can be looked at from two standpoints. First, it can be said that the President is truly opposed to racial discrimination and wants a law which will prevent its occurrence. On the other hand, many will maintain that this is a mere loophole for Reagan to allow for the exemptions and still save political face.

In his article which appears in the January 21 New York Times Anthony Lewis states that "Presidents say a good many foolish things, and I have heard them for 30 years. But I do not think that I have heard anything more preposterous, lame, cynical or outrageous than what Ronald Reagan had to say about 'the law' and racist schools."

Lewis, in the article which is entitled "Shucks, It's Only the Law", disagrees with the claim that the IRS is holding back the status without legal justification. His argument reads:

A three judge Federal Court, in an opinion by a distinguished judge, decides an important question of Federal law. The Supreme Court affirms the decision. Other courts follow it. The Federal Government incorporates it in rules, and three Presidents enforce them over a ten-year-period. Then a new President reverses the rules. He explains to a press conference that he did so because they had "no basis in the law."

From this account one would suspect that Reagan would be likely to pardon the man convicted of the Atlanta child murders and start a petition drive to have Martin Luther King's birthday removed from the calendar.

Just for the sake of fairness and equal time (Many people feel the Observer is out to get Ronald Reagan and slants the news for this purpose) let us presume that Reagan is sincere in his statements and that no actual law exists preventing racial discrimination. If this true then Reagan will not be seen as the black hat villain in one of his western and looks like the Lone Ranger of civil rights.

If indeed, Reagan is sincere in his intentions, we are still not sure that the anti-discrimination legislation will become law. For example, the initial bill may not have enough votes to get through the Congress (Jesse Helm and his colleagues will be a major roadblock) and if the bill is passed and signed by the President, there is no way of knowing how the courts will interpret the new law.

During this time, while our legislators decide the issue, schools and colleges which discriminate against minorities will be receiving tax-exempt status. If Reagan were truly concerned about the minorities of the U.S. he would have chosen a better method of achieving his goal than announcing at a major press conference that the IRS is able to give tax breaks to these schools.

It is also extremely upsetting to think that there never was a law on the books preventing the IRS from giving the tax-exempt status to institutions which discriminate.

I wonder what other issues which are generally accepted as common knowledge fail to be cemented with an actual law.

Democrats vow no easy win for Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) Congress begins its 1982 election-year session with Republicans worrying aloud about the economy and Democrats vowing that President Reagan will not triumph as easily or as often as he did a year ago.

The president will outline his program in a State of the Union Address before a joint session of the House and Senate tomorrow night, both houses returning from a six-week recess.

And Republicans and Democrats alike say Congress will begin with the economy on its mind.

"We have to revive the drums. We're developing constructive alternatives," said a House Democrat. And Senator Peter Dumenil, D-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, said that a bipartisan approach may be needed to resolve the budget problems.

Although the economy will be in the forefront, Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., said he will try to schedule debate early in the session on the "so-called emotional issues" like abortion, busing and prayer in public schools.

"These are national issues and must be debated," said Baker, noting that in 1981 he asked the Senate to postpone work on social matters so the chamber could consider economic issues.

Among Republicans, the euphoria of last year has been replaced by a concern about a combination of recession, rising unemployment and high budget deficits.

"Triple digit deficits in fiscal years 1983 and 1984 are just not acceptable economically," Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, warned.

With the exception of Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., virtually all the Republican hierarchy has urged the president to seek higher taxes to close the deficits.

They also have warned him that seeking deeper cuts in the domestic programs' budgets would be a mistake.

But Reagan reportedly has settled on $31 billion in spending cuts, more than half of that amount to come from what the president proposes. Republicans say it will set the agenda for a year of a new 435-member House and 33 new senators.

Republicans are hoping an economic recovery predicted for spring or summer will improve their 47-member majority in the Senate and close the Democrats' 242-192 edge in the House. A Massachusetts Democrat says the Democrats will pick up at least 2. But even most Democrats concede they are unlikely to win control of the Senate, where only 12 Republican terms expire.

SMC Board discusses upcoming elections

By MARY MCINERNEY
News Staff

The Saint Mary's Board of Governance met last night to discuss the February elections and the development of a Saint Mary's free university.

Elections Commissioner Mary Elizabeth Ott informed the Board of February election plans. Those interested in running for student government offices should attend a mandatory meeting on February 3 at 6:30 in the Student Government office. Platforms are due February 12 at noon to Mary Elizabeth Ott. Campaigning will begin February 14 at 11 p.m. and will end February 17 at 11 p.m.

Student Body President Eileen Murphy addressed the board about the development of a free university at Saint Mary's where faculty members would conduct brief seminars about subjects not typically offered in the curriculum.

Murphy said, "We hope to encourage faculty members in contributing their talents to free university courses. Hopefully, this will bring faculty and students closer together." Any faculty members interested in the free university should contact Eileen Murphy or Emmie Lopez, vice president on academic affairs.

The board will also form a Tenure Re-evaluation Committee to educate students about the tenure process. Murphy said, "This Board would compare the Saint Mary's tenure process to those at Notre Dame and IUSB (Indiana University at South Bend)."

Other issues discussed were the Hospis Charity plans, the upcoming newsletter, and a committee that will be observing student government structure.

Student poll

SMC offers service to Hospice

By KANDY POWELL
News Staff

Last November, St. Mary's student government conducted a poll to determine what the school charity would be for the 1981-82 school year. Hospice of St. Joseph County was the overwhelming choice.

Anne Hulme, development commissioner of St. Mary's student government was enthusiastic about the strong response received from the poll. She was encouraged because not only did the students choose Hospice, but the faculty and staff's choice also coincided with the students.

Collections for Hospice will be held Monday through Thursday of this week. Students are encouraged to give what they can, be it volunteer services or money. This donation may be made at the Hospice information booth, which will be open 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The booth will be located in the LeMans lobby January 25 through January 28. Donations may also be made to hall section leaders. All section leaders are asked to work at collecting money from their sections.

On Tuesday, January 26, at 7:30 p.m. in Stapleton Lounge, LeMans Hall there will be a presentation featuring the hospice director and Betsy Boyle. This is an excellent time to learn more about hospice and to ask any questions you might have. Betsy Boyle, last semester's student intern will tell about her experiences with hospice. A reception will follow the presentation.

Hospice of St. Joseph County is a special program of home health care which provides physical, psychological, social and spiritual support for terminally ill persons and their families. Hospice, through its team members — a nurse, social worker, pastoral counselor and volunteers — focuses on the period of time remaining, attempting to make it as meaningful as possible for the patient and their families. The area program is specifically limited to St. Joseph County residents and admission is made without regard to age, disability, race, creed, or ability to pay.

Hospice depends heavily on private donations. They receive no state aid. Many of St. Mary's faculty members, administration, and students are involved with hospice. Hospice has aided several families within the St. Mary's community. Any donations are an excellent reflection of concern for the South Bend area.

Q: What's frustrated you the most about politics?

A: I guess I'm an impatient young man and what frustrates me the most is the inability to bring about change more rapidly in regard to a lot of our institutions and a lot of our problems. I think that politicians themselves have brought that about. I think that's why fifty percent of the voters in this country don't vote: because they feel the elections don't make any difference. You can't tell the difference between "A" and "B" because they wage advertising wars instead of issue-oriented campaigns.

Q: When did you get involved in politics?

A: I guess I really got involved in politics when I was here at Notre Dame. In 1968 I started organizing students for (Robert) Kennedy and in that era college students had a great deal of impact on politics. And I was in student government here. That was the one election I lost. I ran for Student Body President in 1969 and I was very much an advocate for coeducation. That probably cost me the election. The student body then was very much opposed to it. I was probably five years ahead of my time.

Q: This year is the 10th year anniversary of women at Notre Dame. So you agree that it's a good change?

A: I think it's the best single change I can find on campus. The greatest joy I can have will be if Kelly (his 8-year-old daughter) decides to come back here. I know that I was probably the first guy to run on campus advocating coeducation. It was a very, very stifling atmosphere, very repressed atmosphere, both sexually and socially. And it resulted in a tremendous lag in the maturation of the men here. It (an all-male Notre Dame) really slowed it down.

Q: Do you think Saint Mary's ought to go co-ed?

A: If they want to, yes. I think a learning atmosphere that involves as many different aspects of life as possible and men dealing with women is one of the most fundamental aspects of life.

There's even a shot of Soviet and American military policemen guarding the gate at the 1945 Yalta Conference in the Crimea attended by Stalin, British Prime Minister Winston Churchill and U.S. President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"Despite different ideologies, the alliance was a big factor in the victory. We can be proud of this," says a Soviet newspaper clipping.

Some 200,000 selected Soviets visited the exhibit before it was opened to the public. Now, guided tours must be booked in advance. The Associated Press waited more than a month for permission to visit.

A few topics are taboo. Bulanov declined to provide figures on the membership of the Soviet police forces or to give statistics on the Soviet crime rate.

"We have less violent crime in the Soviet Union than in the West because we don't permit violence on television and in films," Bulanov asserted.

He said violence and sex crimes in the Soviet Union have been traced to foreign films and pornographic magazines smuggled into the country.

"Once there was a French film shown about a gangster who used a stocking mask when committing robberies," the general said. "Suddenly, in three different towns, Soviet boys started to commit robberies wearing stocking masks."

Despite the risks of their job, Bulanov said policemen are paid about the same as average Soviet workers, 172 rubles ($246) a month. They enter the force between ages 20 and 30 after completing two years of military service.

"All the credit should go to John (Deasey)," offered Chapman afterwards. "He made the play with that pass and I just took it in."

It was a great finish to a game that started out terribly. Bowling Green jumped all over the Irish in the first seven minutes, and racked up three goals in that time period. The Irish, however, retaliated in a spectacular flurry that saw Poulin, Rex Bellomy, Schmidt, and Deasey score within the next six minutes.

League leading scorer Brian Hills recorded his 23rd goal of the season at the 19:23 mark to leave the teams back where they had started for the second period of play.

Kirt Bjork's rebound goal answered an earlier tally by McPhee, and a minute and a half later, John Higgins took a nice pass from Chapman and gave the Irish the lead.

The third period featured a last minute goal for each team, as Poulin tipped in a Joe Bowie shot with just :58 seconds left in the game to give Notre Dame an 8-7 lead. However, Bowling Green came up with a great effort with their goalie pulled and scored just 20 seconds later to send the game into the extra session.

Chapman's heroics ended one of the best games seen at the ACC in a long time, and it substantiated the view by many league officials that the Irish are a team to be reckoned with as the playoffs approach. The team displayed a great winning attitude throughout the series, and they may very well have reason to do so in upcoming weeks if their improved play continues.

Joe Montana leads 49ers to victory in SUPER BOWL XVI

Former Irish Star

Montana leads 49ers to victory

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Joe Montana's flamboyant quarterbacking earned him the Most Valuable Player award in Super Bowl XVI, but if he had his way, the honor would have gone to the San Francisco 49ers' defense.

Montana engineered two long touchdown drives in the first half after San Francisco's rookie-packed secondary erected an end zone wall. And that defense turned back Cincinnati again when it most mattered in the second half, giving the 49ers a 26-21 victory over the Bengals.

First, the defense repelled the Bengals three consecutive times from 1 yard out in an epic goal-line stand in the third quarter, then cornerback Eric Wright, who had forced a first-half fumble, intercepted a pass by Bengals' quarterback Ken Anderson in the game's closing minutes to set up Ray Wersching record-tying fourth field goal. That was the one that effectively killed the Bengals' hopes of continuing the American Conference's domination of the National Football League championship game.

Montana, who completed 14 of 22 passes for 157 yards, passing for one score and running for another, declined to take credit for the victory. "The key was the defense in the second half. The defense came up with the big plays.

"The team that gets here had to have everything going their way," he added, summarizing not only the remarkable season in which the 49ers posted a 13-3 record, the best in the NFL, but this game itself.

The Bengals agreed the turnovers and the goal-line stand killed them.

"You can't play a Super Bowl game and turn the ball over three times and think you're going to win," said Anderson, who valiantly rallied the Bengals from a 20-0 halftime deficit, the biggest in Super Bowl history.

After the game, while Montana was talking with teammates and writers, Walsh was on the telephone, accepting congratulations from President Reagan.

"I want to congratulate you and your entire team," said Reagan. "And tell Joe Montana I think maybe he did win one for the Gipper."

It was actor Ronald Reagan who played George Gipp, the former Notre Dame star, in the old movie, "The Knute Rockne Story."

"I think Joe was thinking of the Gipper when he won that one," said 49er Head coach Bill Walsh, who recently met the president. "When I got to shake your hand, I was hoping to receive a call from you in about two weeks. And I'll tell Joe about the Gipper."

San Francisco celebrates first Super win

By FRANCES d'EMILIO
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Church bells chimed, fire sirens screamed, car horns honked and thousands of victory-starved San Francisco 49er fans danced in the streets, swigged champagne and shouted "We're No. 1" as their team beat the Cincinnati Bengals 26-21 Sunday in Super Bowl XVI.

People bounded down Union Street dancing, embracing and kissing strangers. People popped through their car sunroofs to shout and wave, and the streets were flooded with red and gold, the 49ers' colors.

"We got it all together," yelled a man with dyed-red hair, a red scarf and red T-shirt.

It was the first championship in the 49ers' lackluster 36-year history and the first major league world championship of any kind for ecstatic San Franciscans.

People popped in and out of neighborhood bars. Traffic jammed and buses on Union Street were frozen in place by the seething horde of fans, many of whom clambered atop the vehicles to dance and holler.

Nearby, a middle-aged man climbed four stories up a painter's scaffold to win a kiss from a woman who was leaning from her window shouting, "Victory! Victory!" as the crowd below cheered.

Happy fans hurled footballs across the intersection of Columbus and Broadway, one of the city's busiest corners, as a massive traffic jam formed.

The celebrations actually started long before the game ended. Dozens of restaurants and bars offered patrons a chance to wash their 49-cent hot dogs down with 49-cent beers.

And at one massage parlor in suburban Berkeley, televisions were turned on so that customer would be able to follow the game during rubdowns.

Dziabis sets record in loss to Hawkeyes

Several outstanding individual performances were turned in by Notre Dame trackmen in a losing effort at Iowa on Saturday. The Hawkeyes won the meet 69-62.

In his first college meet, freshman Phil Gilmore took third in the 60 with a time of 6.4 seconds. John McCloughan placed third in the 60 high hurdles with a time of 7.4 seconds. Freshman Mitch Van Eyken took second in the 300 with a time of 31.6 seconds.

Steve Dziabis won both the 440 and the 600 with times of 48.7 and 1:10.7 respectively. "Dziabis' double was phenomenal," said Irish Head coach Joe Piane. "The 48.7 second quarter-mile set a Field House record. Bill Ribera also ran well, placing third in the 440, and ran a superb leg in the mile relay." Jan Kania ran a 1:13.0 and took third place in the 600.

Jim Moyer also won two races, the 880 and the 1000 in times of 1:54.0 and 2:13.0. "Jim ran very, very well," said Piane. "He clearly won both races."

Freshman Tim Cannon won the mile with a time of 4:10. "I'm not surprised," said Piane. "He's talented, he's a great competitor, and we're just seeing the beginning of his potential."

Ralph Caron won the two-mile event with a personal-best time of 8:55. "Ralph led from the gun, he ran exactly as we had planned," said Piane. Andy Dillon also ran a personal best and finished third with a time of 9:04.

The mile-relay team of Jacques Eady, Ron Hyde, Bill Ribera, and Mitch Van Eyken won with a time of 3:20.

"Robby Finnegan put the shot 48-6 in his first college meet. That's very competitive," said Piane. The freshman footballer placed third in the meet.

Notre Dame picked up second and third places in the high jump when Paul Doyle jumped 22-6 and Greg Bell jumped 22-4. The Irish also picked up a second and a third place in the pole vault when Paul Doyle vaulted 14-0 and Steve Chronert vaulted 13-6.

"We didn't get any breaks," said Piane. "I am extremely disappointed. We should have beaten them. That means that we'll have to work that much harder for this Friday." The Irish play host to Loyola, Valparaiso, Bradley, and Illinois-Chicago Circle this Friday at the ACC.

Owens, a 6-0 junior college transfer from New York City, who pumps in just over 16 points a game and shoots 52 percent from the floor and 89 percent from the foul line. Owens also leads his team in assists with five per contest. He teams up in the backcourt with 6-5 junior Brian Kellerman (12 ppg., 51 percent shooter).

The front line reads 6-6 all across the board. Forwards Gordon Herbert, a senior, and Phil Hopson, a junior, surround center Kelvin Smith, also a junior. Herbert, another junior college transfer (one of four on the Idaho squad) from Vancouver, is among the nation's leaders in field goal percentage (63 percent) and averages about 15 ppg. He also paces the Vandals' rebounding attack with six rpg.

Hopson, who hails from Portland, Ore., scores at an 11 per game clip and shoots 58 percent. Smith, a junior college product from Pasco, Wash., averages 10 points a game.

"Idaho's a very good team," Phelps says. "They play with a lot of enthusiasm and they play a 'matchup zone' very well.

"For them to beat Oregon State by 20, we have to be concerned." That victory, which came on December 28 (88-68), is Idaho's only win all season against proven national competition and came in the Far West Classic. The Vandals captured that tournament with surprising ease, and it was then that they began receiving the attention of the nation's basketball fans.

Idaho also has posted victories over Washington State, Washington, Oregon and Iowa State — all with familiar names but none of which are national powerhouses. All of the Vandals' other victories have come against weak western opponents, many of them against Big Sky Conference competition.

Idaho captured the conference title in 1981 with an impressive 23-4 record, but fell in the first round of the NCAA Tournament to Pittsburgh, 70-69.

So that is why tonight's game is so crucial to both teams. For Coach Don Monson's Vandals, it may be their chance to achieve the national recognition they feel they deserve.

Ditto for the Irish, who still harbor thoughts of making the 32-team NIT field. "I feel we can go 11-3 in our final 14 games," Phelps says. "I can't tell you which three we'll lose — just give me the 11 wins, you can have the three losses."

Win number one of this span came Saturday night, a 55-51 victory over a 10-5 Maryland team. The Irish have played well now in their last four outings, prompting one optimistic writer to ask Phelps on Saturday night whether he feels his team could possibly make the NCAA Tournament.

"Well, only if there's a miracle," said Phelps. "But you know how this place and miracles seem to go together.

"But that's not our top priority now. Our goal is just to go out and improve ourselves every night. And I think we're doing a pretty good job of that."

IRISH ITEMS: Tonight's game marks the halfway mark of Notre Dame's current homestand, of which the Irish have won two out of three. Maine visits the ACC on Wednesday, with Marquette next on Saturday. The Irish now stand at 4-10, and will be looking for their first two game winning streak of the season with a win tonight.

ference in the game."

Driesell was also very critical of his team's play. "We didn't deserve to win," he said. "We played without intensity and aggressiveness. I'm very disappointed with our kids."

Driesell wasn't pleased with Branch's play. "I'm never pleased with anyone's performance when we lose," he said. "We really don't want to go to one man in the clutch like we went to Adrian tonight. That's something he must learn. He takes it upon himself and it hurts everyone else."

Phelps wasn't so hard on the Terapins. "Maryland is playing well," he said. "They have a chance at a very successful season. They can get an NCAA tournament bid by doing well in the ACC tournament."

The Notre Dame lockerroom was a very happy place after the game. "It feels great to finally win a close one," said Andree. "We knew we could take this one. We just went out and did the job."

IRISH ITEMS — Rowan's 14 points was a career high. The Irish continued their good shooting pace, hitting 54 percent from the field.

40 turnovers

Butler whips Saint Mary's 95-46

By SARA ZAPPIA
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's basketball team suffered a 95-46 thrashing Saturday night in Angela Athletic Facility, at the hands of a very impressive Butler team. A definite height advantage and an effective fast break were the key to Butler's success.

The Belles got off to a slow start and could not seem to shake a swarming Butler defense that continued to plug the inside throughout the game. Forced to take outside shots, SMC was left with little or no rebounding power underneath. Because of the loss of Missy Van Ort for academic reasons and Trish Nolan with an injury, the Belles were out-rebounded 17-5 on the offensive boards.

Another deciding factor in the game was the number of turnovers. Butler gave up the ball only 11 times, while SMC turned it over 40 times. Because Butler had few turnovers, they were able to build a 26-9 lead midway through the first half. They continued to roll and extended their lead at halftime to 47-21.

Continued defensive success as well as excellent shooting allowed Butler to add to their lead in the second half.

Even though handily defeated, coach Jerry Dallasio looked at the game in a positive sense. "Sure we need some work, but I was impressed with the attitude of the team," added Dallasio, "We hustled until the end."

In regards to the division II Butler team, Dallasio had nothing but praise, "Butler is a very talented team. They are the kind of team that does most everything well. They played Notre Dame earlier this season and won by nine. Any team that beats Notre Dame has got to be good."

Gretchen Meyer led the Belles with 15 points. She was followed by Anne Armstrong and Teresa McGinnis who chipped in 10 and eight points respectively.

The Belles, now five and five, will play their next game Wednesday night at home against the University of Chicago. This will be the first meeting between the two schools.

around from last year's contest at Crisler Arena in Michigan, where DiStanislao's first Notre Dame club fell 96-65.

"Our players know that there's no love lost between their coach and myself," said DiStanislao. "There's a lot of animosity between the two schools. But it wasn't really a question of getting up to play Michigan. I think our kids understand that they're Notre Dame, they're the team that was being called inept in the papers last year. They knew that this was a Big Ten team — a legitimate test for them. And they're getting into meeting the challenge right now."

IRISH ITEMS — Because of bad weather, St. Ambrose College was unable to make it to South Bend for a scheduled showing Saturday afternoon in the ACC. The game will not be made up... Yesterday's win was the first in four tries for the Irish against the Wolves. It also raised Notre Dame's home record to 5-

1... Bates, who has scored 38 points in her last two games, has moved into the lead in the Irish scoring race. She is averaging just under 13 points per outing... Schueth continues to lead the Irish in rebounding. The Indianapolis native has collected 129 caroms, an average of just over nine per game... Martha McLean, a player under Sharon Petro during the 1978-79 season, is now a Wolverine assistant under Soluk.

Beats Maryland

Ron Rowan scores 14 points

By DAVE DZIEDZIC
Sports Writer

"We've finally tasted the other side of the mountain," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps following his team's 55-51 victory over Maryland Saturday night. "We had been to the top of the mountain a few times during the past couple of weeks, but tonight we made it over."

Phelps was referring to the fact that the Irish had come close to upsetting both San Francisco and Villanova. "I told the players before the game that we've been playing well in the past week," Phelps said, "and the thing we needed to work on was people becoming clutch performers in clutch situations. We got some of that tonight, and it made the difference."

Freshman guard Ron Rowan was especially good in the clutch. He connected on five out of six from the field and four out of seven from the free throw line to lead the Irish with 14 points. Rowan's two free throws with eight seconds remaining iced the game for the Irish.

"Ron kept his composure tonight. He's had two good Saturdays in a row," Phelps said. "Let's hope he has a third next Saturday against Marquette."

"I knew I could make the free throws," Rowan said after the game. "I was a little nervous down the stretch, but I'm happy that Coach Phelps showed confidence in me."

For a while it appeared that Notre Dame wouldn't have to worry about the last two minutes of the game. The Irish, who led at halftime, 23-21, broke out to an early 37-25 lead in the second half. Several minutes later, the Irish held a 42-30 lead. But Maryland freshman Adrian Branch and senior Charles Pittman led the Terrapins back into the contest with two baskets each.

But the Irish were able to hold off the Terrapin surge, thanks to excellent defense and fine free-throw shooting.

Phelps was glad to see the Irish being able to rely on people besides leading scorer John Paxson in the stretch. "Last season we had Tripucka, Jackson, Paxson and Woolridge to go to in the clutch," he said. "But so far this season, Paxson has been forced to shoot in the clutch. Tonight, other people contributed down the stretch as well."

Besides Rowan, junior forward Bill Varner was a key performer. Varner scored 11 points on five-of-seven from the field. Varner made a key basket off of a dribble-drive with 40 seconds remaining. "Bill made an excellent play," Phelps said. "Any time you feel you can score, you have to do it."

Notre Dame was able to stifle Maryland with a tight 2-1-2 zone defense throughout the contest. "Our zone worked very well," commented Phelps. "As long as we held the lead, we had no reason to come out of the zone."

The Irish zone especially frustrated Branch. Even though Branch was the game's high scorer with 16 points, he was never able to get on track and penetrate the zone. Branch might also have been bothered by the Notre Dame students, who heckled the highly-touted freshman by yelling every time he touched the ball.

"We kept the zone tight," said Phelps. "In the second half, they worked hard to get inside on us in order to open up their outside game. But we kept the pressure on them."

Irish center Tim Andree knows how tough it was under the basket in the second half. "They tried to work it in to (Charles) Pittman (Maryland's 6-8 senior center)," said Andree. "He's very strong and tough. I just tried to take away what I could and not foul him."

Maryland Coach Charles 'Lefty' Driesell had nothing but praise for the Irish. "I thought Notre Dame played with more poise and confidence than we did," he said. "They hit the free throws when they needed them. That was the difference."

Irish icers split series with Bowling Green

By MICHAEL OLENIK
Sports Writer

Living up to expectations, the Notre Dame-Bowling Green hockey series turned out to be one of fast paced action and high intensity. Although the two respective coaches would have preferred a less wide open style of hockey, the enthusiastic crowds that packed the arena could ask for little more.

It was, to say the least, a fan's series. Unfortunately, what would have been the end of a perfect weekend for Irish partisans turned into a tough overtime loss on Saturday afternoon when Bowling Green salvaged a series split by nipping the Irish 8-7 after Lefty Smith's team took a 9-8 OT win on Friday.

Both games saw end to end action from start to finish, and throughout the series the ebb and flow of emotions was difficult to gauge. In both games, the Irish found themselves with a three goal deficit — once early and once late. But due to some inspired play and even more inspired crowd support, the Irish fought back on both occasions in impressive fashion.

"Both clubs showed great dedication and determination to play the way they did out there, and you can be sure that I am very proud of the team," related Smith. "Bowling Green is one of the best teams we've seen, so we have no reason to be ashamed of our effort."

The effort that he spoke of was typified by Notre Dame's remarkable comeback in Saturday's contest. After trading first period goals, the Falcons opened up a 6-4 lead after the second stanza and added an insurance marker just 1:35 into the final period.

With the pressure obviously on the Irish offense, series standouts Dave Poulin and his teammates responded. At 2:33, Poulin picked up his second goal of the afternoon by wristing in a shot off of a Bill Rothstein blast to give the Irish their first powerplay goal of the game.

Five minutes later, Poulin struck again by deflecting a John Schmidt shot past Falcon goalie Mike David for another powerplay score.

Schmidt brought the now believing crowd to its feet at 16:34 when he fired a high wrist shot into the cage for the tying score — another powerplay goal.

However, Peter Wilson, who gave the Irish trouble throughout the series, gave the Falcons the win in overtime when he snuck a pretty feed from George McPhee underneath Dave Laurion just :39 into overtime.

Friday's show was more to the taste of the home supporters, as the Irish skated off ice with an overtime win that featured a beautiful pass play for the final goal.

With just under four minutes gone in the extra period, John Deasey banged a perfect pass off the sideboards to fellow freshman Brent Chapman. Chapman gathered in the pass at the Falcon blueline and broke in on goal unattended. After a quick deke, Chapman sent the crowd into delirium by sliding the puck under the stick of David into the cage.

Netters won't face unbeaten Vandals

By CHRIS NEEDLES
Sports Writer

Unfortunately, Irish fans will have to put those "17 and 1" cheers on hold for a while.

That's because previously undefeated Idaho, Notre Dame's opponent tonight at the ACC, lost for the first time this season on Saturday night, 53-51, at Montana. As a result, the Vandals enter tonight's game (8:05, MetroSports TV) with "only" a 16-1 record, instead of 17-0.

But that setback should not detract from tonight's matchup, which is Notre Dame's seventh of the season against a Top Ten team. By virtue of Saturday's defeat, Idaho should fall from its No. 7 ranking that it occupied last week; at the same time, though, it should give the Vandals an added incentive to prove themselves to the nation, especially since the game is being televised nationally.

Ironically, according to Irish coach Digger Phelps, tonight's game might afford the opportunity for his team to gain national headlines, too.

"It'll be a chance for us to gain some real recognition," says Phelps, "especially if we upset them tonight."

Phelps has termed this upcoming week "National Potato Week," with consecutive games against Idaho tonight and Maine on Wednesday.

But, by tournament time come March, the state of Idaho might be known more for its studs than its spuds. The Vandals feature a well-balanced attack, with all five starters averaging in double figures.

Irish win seventh straight game

By MARK HANNUKSELA
Sports Writer

It would appear at this point that no record is safe with Mary DiStanislao's women's basketball team.

In the third game of the season, DiStanislao's club set five team records in a 92-29 win over Saint Mary's.

Yesterday at the ACC, Notre Dame turned in another record-setting performance in downing Michigan 71-48.

Freshman Carrie Bates scored a career-high 23 points in leading the Irish to their first-ever win over the Wolverines.

Three other players scored in double figures for Notre Dame, which also won for the first time ever against a Big Ten opponent. Junior center Shari Matvey, on 7-of-11 shooting, scored 15 points, while freshmen Ruth Kaiser and Mary Beth Schueth each added 10.

Schueth paced Notre Dame in rebounding with 12. Bates and Kaiser each had nine.

Senior Diane Dietz, the leading scorer for Coach Gloria Soluk's club, was held to just 10 points, 12 below her average.

Peg Harte's 12 points paced Michigan, which was playing its third game in as many days. Harte's season average is 20.9 ppg.

"We played well — we needed to," Bates said after the contest. "We haven't played that many big team's, and Michigan is a team that people are going to recognize."

"I was happy with my performance," she added, "but they weren't a very good defensive team. It would have been good experience to play against Donovan (Michigan's 6-5 center) a little longer, to practice fronting her, something I've had trouble with, but she didn't play that long (only 13 minutes)."

Yesterday's win was Notre Dame's seventh straight, tying a mark set in 1978-79. It also was the 11th win in 14 games for DiStanislao's club, which was 6-8 at the same point last year.

The loss was Michigan's second straight (they lost at Kentucky Saturday), and their sixth in 16 games.

For the game, the Irish shot .564 from the floor, which breaks the single game mark of .543 set against host Alaska-Anchorage last season in the Northern Lights Tournament.

"You can never find fault with a 56 percent shooting effort," said DiStanislao. "We got 59 points out of our forwards (Bates, Kaiser, Matvey and Schueth), which is just super. They (Michigan) just killed themselves — we got so many easy baskets."

Easily half of Notre Dame's 31 field goals came from within five feet of the basket. Kaiser, Matvey and Bates all scored twice from inside as the Irish scored 22 of the game's first 28 points. Susan Neville drilled a 10-foot jumper from the left baseline to give Notre Dame its biggest lead of the first half at 35-14 with 3:41 left in the period.

"We knew right off the bat that we had to control the tempo of the game," said DiStanislao, who has now evened her career coaching record at Notre Dame at 21-21. "Michigan has been averaging over 70 points per game — they like to run and gun, and they take a lot of shots. I'd say 20-4 (the score at the midway point of the first half) is controlling the tempo."

With about three minutes remaining in the first half, Michigan began to press the Irish. The Wolves also came out pressing after the intermission. But DiStanislao's club handled the pressure well. The Irish committed only two turnovers against the full-court pressure.

"Presses haven't been a real big problem for us," DiStanislao said. "It's the unadulterated turning the ball over — throwing the ball away, travelling — that's where we've had trouble."

Notre Dame finished the game with 26 turnovers.

Notre Dame's biggest lead of the contest came late in the second half, when freshman guard Laura Dougherty converted both ends of a one and one to give the Irish a 71-44 lead with two minutes remaining.

Dietz and Cheryl Sobkow then closed out the scoring for Michigan.

The final 23-point margin of victory represents a 54-point turn-
