Apple's new computer to be sold at discount at ND within 3 weeks

By MARK WORSCHER
News Editor

The future of Apple Computers Inc. goes on sale today, and Notre Dame faculty, students and staff soon will be able to get a slice of the action at savings that will exceed 50 percent.

Within the next three weeks, a General Microcomputer, Inc., store will open in the basement of the LaFortune Student Center offering the new Apple Macintosh personal computer, billed by designers as one which could make all others technologically obsolete.

The Macintosh system, retailing today for $2,495 at computer stores across the United States, will be offered here for $1,090. Purchases at reduced prices will be limited to one system per full-time student, faculty or staff member.

Ease of use separates the Macintosh from the rest on the market. For instance, the machine comes with no instruction manual. Packed with the system is a software program and an ordinary cassette tape designed to teach the user how to operate the Macintosh in less than two hours.

Executing many commands on the computer involves the use of a "mouse" — a small box connected to the machine by a wire — which controls the movement of a tiny arrow on the screen. Typed commands are a thing of the past with the new system: options, such as a filing or erasing, have been replaced by drawings of folders and trash cans on the screen. To execute, one simply uses the "mouse" to direct the arrow to the correct symbol.

The Macintosh represents Apple's attempt to take a bite out of IBM's hefty 33 percent market share in personal computers. Apple's share has plunged from 47 percent to 28 percent over the past year, and the company plans to spend $15 million on television and magazine advertising during the next three months promoting the new system.

The Observer reported in November that the University was negotiating with Apple to purchase computers at a substantial discount, but this is the first time that details of the plan have been made public.

Under the agreement, Notre Dame has joined the Apple University Consortium and will purchase $2 million of Apple products over the next three years.

Notre Dame is one of 24 universities to join the group, aimed at developing new applications for computers in education. Commitments from the schools total more

Narcotics agents nab $3.8 billion in largest drug bust ever

Associated Press

ATLANTA — Sixty-two people have been indicted in the "largest nationwide narcotics investigation ever," 30 of them accused of smuggling five tons of cocaine worth $3.8 billion into the United States, authorities announced yesterday.

The 62 were named in indictments unsealed yesterday in Atlanta, Los Angeles, Miami and Little Rock, Ark., with some defendants indicted in more than one city.

"We believe ... it is the largest nationwide narcotics investigation ever," FBI agent Jim Nelson said in Los Angeles.

The 30 named in Atlanta were accused of operating what a Justice Department official called "the largest cocaine trafficking ring in the nation's history."

Associate U.S. Attorney General D. Lowell Jensen said the ring smuggled about five tons of cocaine from Colombia into Georgia, Florida, Tennessee and Pennsylvania in 1982 and 1983. Of that, authorities seized 2,700 pounds worth $940 million, he said.

"Measured by the amount of drugs, it is the largest cocaine trafficking ring ever broken up in the history of federal law enforcement," Attorney General William French Smith said.

The Atlanta indictment, returned Thursday, identified Harold J. Rosenthal, 53, of Atlanta as ringleader of the cocaine operation.

He and five others were charged with violating the federal "drug kingpin" statute by engaging in a continuing criminal enterprise.

Rosenthal escaped from a federal prison in Memphis, Tenn., in 1981 and was at large until he was captured in Colombia and deported to the United States in September.

The indictment said he re-entered the United States several times during his two years as a fugitive and tried to arrange the slayings of U.S. and Colombian law enforcement agents after his arrest.

Nelson said in Los Angeles the probe was triggered in 1982 by information from a wiretap in an unrelated case.

Jensen said the probe was begun by the Drug Enforcement Administration and the FBI but was turned over to the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force.

U.S. Attorney George Proctor in Little Rock said the indictment there was the sixth and last, in a series of Arkansas indictments flowing from the probe. He said in earlier cases, 15 defendants are serving 74 years in prison and have been fined $128,000.

The Miami indictment accused Rosenthal and three others of conspiring to free Rosenthal from a federal prison in Miami where he was taken after his recapture in Colombia last fall.

The indictment issued Nov. 14 in Little Rock charged two of the defendants in the Atlanta case along with 11 others, with conspiring to import heroin and marijuana.

Campus Ministry begins program

Special to The Observer

Campus Ministry inaugurates a new "Catholic Faith Program" tonight aimed at helping students respond "to the challenges of living as a Christian in the world."

More than 160 students have signed up for six sessions which will be held on consecutive Tuesday nights in three locations on campus.

North Quad students will meet in Stanford-Keenan chapel; South Quad in Lyons Hall chapel; and East Quad in Pasquerilla West chapel.

The program is designed after extensive discussions and surveys from students and hall-staff members.

Father David Schlaver, director of Campus Ministry, said, "We hear students asking for more guidance in their Christian lives, for more understanding of the Gospel, and for assistance in forming consciences and responding to the challenges of living as a Christian in the world."

The program is based around the theme "What should Catholics know about?" and six topics have been selected to elaborate on that theme.

Resource people will be on hand to lead discussions on each topic. "Their relationships with God" (Brother Tom Maddix); "Celebrating the Sacraments" (Dr. Loretta Jancoski); "Scripture and Tradition" (Father Dan Jenky, pastor of Sacred Heart Church); "Formation of Conscience" (Sister Carol Descoteaux); "Living a Moral Life" (Father Ed Malloy); and "Their Relationship with the Church" (Father Michael Rosswurm).

The sessions will last about 90 minutes with some large and small group discussion and a period of information input from the leader based on a series of questions already submitted by those signed up to take part.

A number of persons from each hall were invited by rectors to take part in this "pilot" program. In future semesters, Campus Ministry will continue to sponsor and expand the program, based on the experience of these first six sessions, Schlaver said.

Have you completed the 1984-85 Financial Aid Form yet?

It's not too late, but the deadline is fast approaching.

March 1 is financial aid D-day. Your Financial Aid Form, the only form that Notre Dame students need to file to be eligible for aid, must be in the hands of the national College Scholarship Service by that date.

The Financial Aid office suggests mailing the form before the middle of February.

And now is as good a time as any. Indiana Governor Robert D. Orr has proclaimed this week "Financial Aid Awareness Week" in the state.

In Brief

Men's use of women's laundry facilities began this week on an experimental basis. In a deal worked out by Student Government, male students may wash their dirty laundry in four women's dorms on certain nights from 7 to 11. P.W. is open Mondays; P.E., Tuesdays; Breen-Phillips, Wednesdays; and Farley, Thursdays. The plan will be evaluated in about four weeks. — The Observer

The Supreme Court, in its latest venture into the legal quagmire of capital punishment, made it easier yesterday for states to send convicted murderers to their deaths. The justices ruled, 7-2, that death sentences may be meted out even when state courts do not try to determine whether others convicted of similar crimes were treated more leniently. In the opinion, Justice Byron R. White wrote the Constitution's bar against cruel and unusual punishment require no "comparative proportionality review" that a lower court demanded for every death penalty case. The decision reinstated the death sentence of California murderer Robert Alton Harris for the 1978 slayings of two teen-agers in San Diego. The 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals had thrown it out, saying a proportionality review was needed to ensure Harris was not being punished arbitrarily. The Supreme Court reversed that ruling. It may be months before the ultimate effect of yesterday's decision on the nearly 1,300 men and women on death rows nationwide is assessed. — AP

Amid election year jitters over the swelling federal deficit and military involvement in Lebanon and Central America, Congress on yesterday convened a short 1984 session likely to be even shorter on legislative achievement. "I don't look for a raft of legislation out there," said Democratic House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. as the House officially ended a seven-week recess. In the Senate, the second session of the 98th Congress opened sluggishly; it took more than two hours to locate enough senators to call the chamber to order officially. Majority Leader Howard Baker Jr. said in a presidential election year, the congressional session is cramped by party conventions and campaigns for House and Senate. Baker himself is leaving the Senate to prepare for a possible campaign for president in 1988. In the Democratic-controlled House, the session opened on a bitter partisan note as conservative Republicans unsuccessfully sought quick votes on legislation covering voluntary school prayer, abortion, a balanced budget amendment and Reagan's veto power on spending bills. — AP

Two special-effects experts testified yesterday the mortar used to blow up a lean-to on the "Twilight Zone" movie set was not of the type that would normally explode upward, hurling debris that disabled a helicopter. The witnesses said the type of mortar used was instead designed to hurl most of its discharge horizontally. Prosecutors say mortar explosions hurled debris up into the air, disabling the helicopter which crashed atop actor Vic Morrow and two children killing them during filming of a Vietnam war scene. "This is the most significant part of the entire testimony yet," said Arnold Klein, lawyer for special-effects coordinator Paul Stewart, who was among five moviemakers charged with involuntary manslaughter in the deaths of Morrow, Renee Chen, 6, and Myca Le, 7. — AP

Albert Fishlow, professor of economics at the University of California, Berkeley, will give a lecture "The U.S. and Latin America: Political Default and Economic Crisis" today at 8 p.m. in Room 122 of Hayes-Healy. Fishlow, who was deputy assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs in 1975-76, has been a consultant to the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank. The lecture is sponsored by the Helen Kellogg Institute. — The Observer

Those interested in signing up for classes may do so at the following times: Jane Fonda Workout, 7 p.m. Mondays or 7 p.m. Thursdays; Ballet, 6 p.m. Wednesdays; and Jazz, 6 p.m. Sundays. Those interested in performing may join the dance company at 7 p.m. on Wednesdays or Sundays. All signups, classes, and rehearsals will be held in the Holy Cross Hall party room on the Notre Dame campus. Classes began yesterday. A flat fee of ten dollars will be charged for any or all classes. — The Observer

The Social Concerns Festival tonight will give students a chance to learn about social concerns groups at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, from 7-10 p.m. in the Center for Social Concerns. Presentations on many local and campus groups including Circle K and Big Brothers/Big Sisters will be given. — The Observer

Murdoch's Sun-Times another Chicago disaster

Monday, January 9, 1984 is a day that the City of Chicago may soon want to forget.

That day could rank near the top of the list of Chicago disasters — up there with the day Mrs. Leary's cow kicked over the lantern to start a fire, the day Al Capone's buddies shot up the town, and the day a DC-10 lost an engine over O'Hare.

January 9 is the day on which Rupert Murdoch's syndicate took control of the Sun-Times.

Now while the sale of a newspaper may not sound like a disaster, the Murdoch takeover signals the end of an era in the Second City — an era in which newspapers were owned by idiosyncratic publishers who lived in the community and had political as well as financial interests.

Now that the Marshall Field family (former owners of the Sun-Times) has withdrawn from the newspaper business, Chicago's two newspapers will become much like the newspapers in other American cities, where newspapers are owned and operated by large corporations and represent diversified interests.

"The great old newspaper war is over," rival Chicago Tribune Editor James Squier declared. "This town was full of tough guys, and everybody who could afford a newspaper had one. . . . Now the Fields, the most consistent and successful competitor, finally waved the white flag and gave up. We'll be much more like other cities now. There won't be two big guys pushing each other around."

It's not often that a rival mourns the withdrawal of his competitor, so Squier's comments are significant. The newspaper business is especially prone to such feelings, considering that 20 media companies now account for half the daily newspaper circulation in America.

The effects of this disaster will not be fully felt until Murdoch makes his mark on the style and quality of the Sun-Times. Murdoch claims he intends to challenge the Chicago Tribune head on.

If you've seen a copy of the New York Post or the Boston Herald-American, you know why many Chicagoans are worried. These are the most famous of Murdoch's papers. They feature front-page headlines that can be read a block away and circulation-increasing gimmicks such as contests and games. Such sleazy attempts at improving circulation can quickly damage

David Dziedzic
Editor-in-Chief

Inside Tuesday

the reputation of a fine newspaper such as the Sun-Times.

"If Murdoch doesn't take that paper into the gutter, I'll gladly sit on the corner of State and Madison streets and eat my hat," said former Chicago Daily News Editor Roy Fisher, now head of the University of Missouri Journalism School's Washington bureau.

Fisher's comments represent the attitude of many of Chicago's media watchers, including renowned columnist Mike Royko. Until Jan. 11, Royko was a Sun-Times columnist. His columns and those of Irv Kupcinet were largely responsible for the Sun-Times recent resurgence.

But on Dec. 20, Royko took a leave of absence in protest of the impending sale. Referring to Murdoch as "the alien," he told the people of Chicago he would have to seriously consider whether he could work for Murdoch. He even appeared on "The Phil Donahue Show" in an attempt to influence local businessmen to outbid Murdoch. The effort failed, and shortly after the paper officially changed hands, Royko left the Sun-Times and began writing for the Tribune.

The road now seems paved for the Sun-Times to become another cheap tabloid. Most of the paper's top personnel have either quit or been fired, including successful Publisher James Hoge. Murdoch has installed personnel from the Post and the Herald to run the Sun-Times.

And now it appears that Chicagoans, who only six years ago had three top-rate dailies at their disposal, will soon be limited to one respectable newspaper.

And Chicago may never be the same.

Chicago disasters...

Student Senate chooses committee to study proposed alcohol policies

By CAROL CAMP
Senior Staff Reporter

Student Body President Brian Callaghan announced the formation of a committee responsible for devising a Student Senate alcohol policy at a Senate meeting last night.

The Senate committee, which will meet Sunday evening, hopes to create a policy representing a consensus of opinions voiced in meetings with various dorms, the Hall Presidents Council, and administrators, rectors, and students.

By creating the committee, Callaghan emphasized "the need to let students know what the committee (on Alcohol Awareness) is thinking." In addition, he stated the importance of publicizing committee's findings so students can understand the effects which any changes in the University's present policy will have upon them.

In other business, Senators Rob Bertino and Dave McAvoy announced the acquisition of forty additional parking spaces in the D-6 parking lot. Seniors living in Morrissey, Pangborn, Howard, and Fisher halls will have the opportunity to gain a space by participating in a lottery which will be publicized through the collaborative efforts of Student Government and The Observer.

Senators also passed a resolution calling for renovation of classrooms in the Administration Building, Hurley Business Administration Building, and Cushing Hall. The proposal was approved in response to Executive Coordinator John Gallagher's report which cited the need for such renovation.

Student Government will donate one hundred dollars to the Financial Aid Office in order to establish a scholarship in memory of freshman Ken Furuhashi, who died suddenly during Christmas break. The Freshman Year of Studies office is also setting up a fund in Furuhashi's name.

Stating that evaluations will be beneficial "to you, us, and the next people," Student Body Vice President Peggy Prevost announced that all cabinet and Senate members will participate in an in-depth evaluation process. In addition to critiquing their own work, members will also be asked to consider the necessity of their offices as well.

Announcements were as follows:

An informational meeting for anyone interested in going on either Student Union trip to Aspen or Fort Lauderdale during spring break, held will be held this Thursday evening at 6 p.m. in LaFortune.

A Senior Valentine Cocktail Party will be held February 9 in the Monogram Room of the ACC. Also, the Senior Ski trip is scheduled for February 17.

Planned class activities include: tubing on Friday, Feb. 3, a ski trip in March, and a trip to Chicago during Easter break.

Finally, the one-month laundry experiment in women's dorms begins this week. From 7-11 p.m., men can do their laundry in Pasquerilla West (Mondays), Pasquerilla East (Tuesdays), Breen-Phillips (Wednesdays), and Farley (Thursdays).

than $60 million, most going toward the Macintosh.

The College of Arts and Letters is developing plans to use the new computers in three instructional laboratories and is designing its own software programs to aid in teaching. The Colleges of Engineering and of Science are also developing other applications for the Macintosh.

Richard Spencer, assistant provost for computing, said Notre Dame will meet twice a year with the other 23 members of the consortium to discuss new developments in software.

Notre Dame's membership in the group is also part of a long-range plan to establish an on-campus computer network using the Apple systems, the new touch-tone phones and the University's new IBM 3033 mainframe computer.

Sometimes censored press tells better story

I came home the other night to watch the nightly news. I saw Secretary of State George Shultz condemn the grounding of a U.S. helicopter in Honduras and the killing of the pilot by saying, "It is unacceptable to fire from Contras in Honduras are not receiving both CIA money and advice in their war against Nicaragua, then what Shultz said should strike you as preposterous.

Daily, the Contras launch strikes from Honduras into Nicaragua. The Contras have blown up oil depots within Nicaragua and have even managed to bomb the airport and Managua. They are, in effect, conducting a guerrilla war against the Sandinista regime — a war launched at the behest of the United States and financed by it. Just to complicate matters, witnesses reported that the downed helicopter not only strayed over Nicaraguan territory, but its American markings were obscured by mud. The Nicaraguans may not have known they were shooting at an American helicopter.

The issue at the moment is not the advisability of this dirty little war, which is both acknowledged and unacknowledged by our own government — its tendency to talk to us the way the Soviet leaders talk to their own people. In the persons of both Shultz and Speakes, for instance, you have two important government officials telling you something that you know is either not true or downright absurd.

For Shultz, though, this is par for the course. He was the first to pop onto the tube after the downing of the Korean airliner — and the first to say things that turned out not to be true. He characterized the downing as something akin to premeditated murder and left us all with a picture of a homicidal Soviet government — one that knew it was dealing with a civilian liner and one that ordered the trigger pulled from Moscow.

It turned out later that this was not quite the case. It turned out that there had been a U.S. spy plane in the vicinity, that the Soviets might have confused the two planes, that the Soviet pilot might not have recognized the Korean plane as a civilian aircraft (Shultz said he did) and that the order to shoot probably was not given in Moscow, but at regional headquarters. Just recently, for instance, the Soviet armed forces published a critique of the way it handled the Korean airliner incident, indicating not the homicidal intent that Shultz alleged, but something different — a mistake.

Similarly on Grenada, the administration was quick to issue statements that turned out not to be true. These statements concerned the jeopardy American medical students were in, the number of Cubans on the island and the sorts of Cubans they were — construction workers or soldiers.

In contrast, from yet another island, Fidel Castro of all people was issuing statements that conformed to the facts. It was he who announced the correct number of Cubans. It was he who gave their right occupations. It was he who provided a more accurate account of events leading up to the American invasion.

Mistakes are inevitable, especially in confusing circumstances. Shultz and the administration can be excused for some statements simply because all the facts were not in. But even taking that into account, you still have to conclude that they are not above winging it on the facts or striking a ludicrous posture.

In discussing the helicopter incident on television the other night, the Marxist leader of an authoritarian state came off better than two officials of our own democracy. He used a clever media device. He made sense.

one country to another country and end up killing some people." Larry Speakes at the White House called the action "reckless and unprovoked." Then, Daniel Ortega, the Nicaraguan chief of state, characterized the flight as anything but "innocent." I believed the Nicaraguan.

Shultz, who will apparently say anything to prove he is not an academic sissy, is fast babbling away his credibility. When it comes to shooting from one country to the next, the United States has been doing that for quite a while. Unless you are the only person in the world who believes that the anti-Sandinista

ALL YOU NEED TO DEAL WITH THE NEW PHONE SYSTEM

Ordeal of a second semester senior

Sitting in an office in Downtown Dallas, surrounded by lawyers, bankers and other professionals, I came to the unlikely realization that my time at Notre Dame was drawing to a close and that soon I would be moving on. Flushed by a wave of panic and anxiety, it suddenly struck me — I am a "Second-semester Senior."

Robert Lloyd Snyder Then midweek

Where do we go from here?
Hey, Notre Dame didn't prepare me to deal with this, hey, wait!

Many of my friends are now looking at the future with uncertain and cautiously expectant eyes; a lot of them have no idea where they will be in a year.

We take solace in knowing that most other Notre Dame graduates have eventually settled into comfortable positions in society. Notre Dame is supposed to make most of us "successful" after all. That is why we have been shelling out our seven grand every August.

But none of us — whether we are going on to law, medical or graduate school, entering the seminary, taking a job with a Big Eight accounting firm, or getting married — really know what the future holds for us.

This uncertainty and apprehension over future events makes us retreat into nostalgia and thoughts of past, and seemingly better, times. We seek solace in the wonderful and outrageous events of our youth to combat the difficulties of everyday life.

Nostalgia often romanticizes and idealizes past times, and each of us will slowly become aware of this trend as life "back at Notre Dame" looks better and better with each passing year.

I will look back at Notre Dame with a particular fondness I would have thought inconceivable as a freshman. In the past few years I formed friendships which will last the rest of my life. The best people I have ever known I met here.

I regret many things. I regret not having become closer to some persons I may have alienated. I still kick myself for mishandling some relationships. I regret not having become more involved in social and extracurricular activities earlier than I did, because these are the intangibles which have made the difference for me at Notre Dame.

I will regret abandoning my endowed chairs at Lee's and Nickie's, and will relinquish "my" booth at Albert's with similar dismay. I regret not having scheduled more overloaded semesters than I have, and am sorry that there are some professors I never experienced from whom I could have learned a great deal.

But I have enjoyed seeing myself grow, and have enjoyed seeing similar changes in my friends. That is what I will remember first and foremost when I recall my days at Notre Dame. That is what I will tell my friends and children about Notre Dame, and that is what I will carry with me for the rest of my life.

In this respect, I welcome the change which will soon come for all seniors, and I, for one, am ready to leave. These changes, while often tumultuous and havoc-causing, are the critical stages of our lives from which we can profit and grow if we can harness the opportunities open to us.

Many of the soon-to-be graduates will reappear with alarming frequency on campus next year, waxing longingly about the "good old days" and complaining about life down at Arthur Andersen.

I don't feel that I'll need to return to campus to relive this time of freedom and carefree academia. I hope I will only have to pick up the phone.

And so, I trust I will not be returning to Notre Dame, South Bend, its winters and bars, or its rivers and monuments for a long, long time.

Life goes on. I hope.

The AP poll is out

By DAVE KAPLAN
Associated Press

Like the previous week, No. 1-ranked North Carolina collected every first-place vote in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll. But this also was a week of fallout, as five "new" teams entered the Top 20 thanks to several surprises in conference play.

A nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and broadcaster retained the Tar Heels and DePaul, both 14-0, and Kentucky as the nation's 1-2-3 teams.

In beating Atlantic Coast Conference rivals Duke and Virginia, the Tar Heels received a perfect 1,260 points. DePaul collected 1,130 points and Kentucky, which lost to Florida but beat seventh-ranked Houston, amassed 1,053.

The points system is based on 20 points for each first place vote, 19 for second, etc.

Five familiar names re-emerged in this week's poll as Oregon State, St. John's, Boston College, Fresno State and Purdue all dropped out.

After a rocky start this season, Louisville has begun to pick up steam and emerges at No. 14. On Sunday, the Cardinals, now 11-4, streaked by UCLA, which in turn dropped six notches to No. 15.

Also re-entering is Arkansas, which comes in behind the Bruins at No. 16. The other newcomers are Georgia, Virginia and Syracuse, placing at Nos. 18, 19, 20, respectively.

For the Orangemen, who slipped by Boston College in Big East play on a last second desperation shot 75-73, it's the first time they've been ranked this season.

Back in the Top 10, Georgetown, Maryland and Nevada-Las Vegas all advanced two places to rank at Nos. 4, 5 and 6, respectively.

Victorious weekend

Irish fencers keep rambling on

By MIKE CHMIEL
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame fencing teams rambled through tough men's and women's competition from the Big Ten and the Midwest in Evanston this weekend. The men were 4-0, and the women finished 3-1 in matches which proved Notre Dame's depth and ability.

The men's squad, which is beginning to "gell" according to Head Coach Mike DeCicco, soundly defeated all four of their opponents. The scores were 26-1 over Chicago, 25-2 over Michigan, 23-4 over Northwestern, and 21-6 over Minnesota.

In the sabre, the Irish were at their best with efforts led by a 7-0 performance from junior captain Mike Janis. Sophomores John Edwards, 7-0, and Tony Conesoli, 8-0, also looked good.

"The depth we have in sabre is really paying off," said DeCicco. "We fenced without Don Johnson, and John Edwards fenced at less than 100 percent with a sprained ankle. Yet, the squad really responded."

Also responding well has been the Irish foil squad paced by freshman Charles Higgs-Coulthard who has posted 15 straight wins (17-1 on the season).

"Higgs-Coulthard has really surprised me," DeCicco said. "He's gaining the valuable bout experience that our lineup will need in March."

Impressive for the foilers has been sophomore Mike Van der Velden. He was undefeated over the weekend, and he stands with a 13-1 season record.

The young epee squad has come around surprising many people. To date, they boast two undefeated fencers in captain Andy Quaroni, 13-0, and freshman John Haugh, 8-0.

The Notre Dame women fencers have also been impressive of late as they downed Illinois, 7-2; Minnesota, 10-6; and Northwestern, 9-7. The only match they lost was an extremely close one to Wisconsin, 66-52, which was decided on total touches.

Top fencers among the ladies were freshman Pia Albertson, 10-1 (14-1 on the season) and senior co-captain Mary Shilts, 9-5 (2-2).

"I thought the women fenced exceptionally well in Evanston," explained DeCicco. "Pia Albertson has been fencing up a storm. We need Mary Shilts to pick up some slack."

"Our priority is to qualify for the nationals. I think that we can surprise some people."

The Irish will look to improve their records as they travel to Columbus, Ohio on Saturday where they will face Bowling Green, Miami (Ohio), North Carolina, and North Carolina State.

diver. "His loss will hurt," said Flynn, "but Rich looks better at every meet. I think we can adjust and I'm optimistic about the rest of the season."

To keep in shape over the Christmas break, the team travelled to San Juan, Puerto Rico for training. According to Stark, the trip provided a means for getting in shape and good training. "Hopefully it will help in the long run and helped solidify the team," said Stark.

Flynn explained the trip helped to create a favorable outlook among team members and gave the team the opportunity to scout some of the other teams who were also in training. "The training was intense, but it really brought the team together," he said.

Tim Kempton reaches to tip in two of his 11 points in the Irish victory over Rice. Notre Dame beat the Owls 50-35. Tom Sluby was the high scorer with 21 points. For more on the game see Theron Roberts story on the right.

Notre Dame devours Rice in an unimpressive victory

By Theron Roberts
Sports Writer

The Irish men's basketball team looked to be uninspired as it used an offensive spurt to begin the game, and then coasted to a 50-35 win over the Rice Owls.

The Notre Dame offense was functioning much like the game clock — sometimes on and other times off.

The highlight of the game may well have occurred at the 9:13 mark in the first half, when the game clock malfunctioned and took nearly five minutes to fix.

After hitting their first five shots of the game, the Irish went cold — converting on only 4-16 from the field for the rest of the half.

Rice hung tough throughout the first half, pulling within one point at 19-18 with 6:04 left in the first stanza. The Owls then committed three turnovers, failing to grab the lead each time they had an opportunity.

The Irish, meanwhile, managed to tally only eight points in the last 12 minutes before intermission.

Rice slowed down the tempo of the game beginning in the second half, but the deliberate tactics did not work for the Owls. Notre Dame scored the first seven points of the second half, although it could manage only three for fifteen shooting during that stretch.

Tom Sluby continued to play well for Coach Digger Phelps, by starting an Irish rally with 6:48 left in the game. Sluby canned his first of five baskets in the next five Irish possessions.

"That time down the floor we had to score," Sluby said. "We were looking to get the ball inside, but as soon as I got the ball, I decided that I was going to take the shot."

Sluby's field goal barrage left the score at 44-34, and the Owls could get no closer than 11 points the rest of the way.

Sluby led all scorers with 21 points.

One element of the Notre Dame offense that was noticeably absent was the scoring contribution from players off the bench.

Joe Howard made two free throws with 41 seconds remaining to register the only points by a non-starter.

The Irish reserves shot an uncharacteristic 0-12 from the field.

Tim Kempton added 11 points for the Irish, while Ken Barlow and Jim Dolan chipped in eight and six points, respectively.

Tony Barnett was high-point man for the Owls with 12.

The 35 points scored by Rice was the lowest total scored by a team at the ACC, breaking Lafayette's mark of 39 set just last week.

Phelps was unimpressed with his team's performance.

"I thought we jumped out well, but then we went flat," Phelps said. "We missed some easy shots and had too many turnovers."

This Irish team was different from the one that rolled over Villanova.

"We never got into our transition game," explained Sluby. "That's where we get the best shots — when we get the ball moving around."

Notre Dame is back in action tomorrow night, playing host to the Wildcats of Davidson College.

Five members out

Track must clear new hurdles

When Notre Dame track coach Joe Piane looked ahead to the 1984 indoor track season, he saw no barriers to the best Notre Dame track season ever.

However, he received some bad news during the semester break. Five key performers had failed to clear a major hurdle — their grades — and were placed on academic probation for the season.

Still, the outlook for this team is not all that bad. Most of last year's squad which won the Midwestern City Conference title returns and an impressive group of newcomers also will provide some punch. If Piane's strong group of middle-distance runners can perform up to expectations, the 1984 track team should show a good deal of improvement over last year's squad.

"The thing that's unfortunate is that we would have had the best team in Notre Dame history if we hadn't lost those guys to grades," says Piane who is now in his ninth year as the Irish coach. "The other guys are going to have to pick up the slack."

The people that are going to be counted on to pick up most of the slack are the middle-distance and distance runners. Always the strength of the team, the middle-distance races seem to be the foundation on which the team is being built. During the last few years, Piane has recruited a number of outstanding high school middle-distance runners.

Senior Jim Moyar and juniors Jim Tyler and Tim Cannon will be three of the runners to watch as they attempt to become the second Notre Dame miler to break four minutes (Chuck Aragon did it in 1981). Moyar, who was injured most of last year, has run a 4:03 1600 meters outdoors. His specialty, however, seems to be the 1000-meter run. He is a past NCAA qualifier and has started off his season with a victory in a dual meet with Iowa this past weekend.

Tyler gives the Irish an excellent one-two punch in the 1000. Last year, he had an outstanding year, qualifying for the NCAA's in the 1000 by tying the school record of 2:09. His 4:02 time in an outdoors 1600-meter race also makes him a major threat in the mile. He finished third in the Iowa meet, but is expected to improve his time (2:15.4) considerably as the season progresses.

Cannon paced a Notre Dame sweep of the mile in Iowa. He finished ahead of seniors Ed Juba and co-captain Andy Dillon, two of a large pack of runners who add depth and versatility to the middle-distance squad.

Sophomore John McNelis and freshman Jeff Van Wie, the nation's top-ranked high school 800-meter runner, are the runners on whom Piane is counting to place in the 800. They finished second and third, respectively, in Iowa, but were far off their personal records. Meanwhile, junior Dan Shannon is the main Irish threat at 600 yards.

As far as the distance races are concerned, Piane is counting on a group of seniors to build up team points. Ralph Caron, Dillon, Juba, and Mark Wozniak are expected to place highly, while freshman cross-country star Mike Collins is also expected to help out.

Notre Dame's depth at these distances will be very important for the team score, because the Irish are not as deep in the sprints and field events. If they can build up enough points in their strong events, the Irish should be able to overcome their other weaknesses.

It is difficult to call the sprint and field squads "weak" but the academic losses took their toll. Piane must now rely a great deal on football players to score in the sprints and hurdles. Junior wide receiver Van Percy, who is a co-captain, must make up for the loss of graduated all-American Steve Dziabis. Percy led the Irish last year in the 200 outdoors and the 300 indoors.

He will get help from junior Mitch Van Eyken and fellow football players Allen Pinkett and Alvin Miller. Juniors Phil Gilmore and Shannon should also perform well.

Meanwhile, Miller will also be counted on to do well in the hurdles. If the Iowa meet is any indication, he should have no problem pulling double-duty. He was barely nudged out of first in the 60-yard dash and finished just behind Iowa's Ronnie McCoy, a highly-rated hurdler, in the 60-yard hurdles.

Junior jumper James Patterson will be the key for the Irish in the field events. Patterson was the leading long jumper and triple jumper on the team last year, placing third in the long jump in the prestigious IC4A championships. This year, he will also perform as the high jumper. In the Iowa meet, he placed third in the high jump at 6-6, set a personal record of 48-1 in the triple jump, and set a school record of 24-8 in the long jump.

Obviously, Patterson is an extremely talented athlete, but he will also need some help from some other people. Senior John Langdon and freshman Pat Hirl will serve as the pole vaulters, while freshman Joel Autry and senior Greg Bell will help out on the horizontal jumps. Freshman Chuck Lanza rounds out the squad as a shot putter.

"With the loss of some guys to grades, I expect that the guys who are still around will be more aggressive," says Piane. "That may mean that they will have to double, even triple, in meets."

Notre Dame did not win in Iowa as it fell to the Hawkeyes, 68-63. However, there is a lot of racing to come and many of the individual performances should improve markedly.

The Irish will look for some immediate improvement this upcoming weekend when it plays host to five other teams on Friday at 6:30.

If Friday's victory is any indication for the rest of the season, Big Brother shouldn't give the Notre Dame men's swim team too much trouble this year. In its first dual meet of the new year, the Irish defeated a tough squad from Ferris State College 58-55 Friday afternoon in the Rockne Memorial Pool.

Although the meet was not decided until the closing races, the Irish clinched both first and second place in three important events. Junior Tim Bohdan and freshman Steve Coffey claimed the top two spots in the 1,000 yard freestyle race, while senior co-captains Dan Flynn and Brian Casey won first and second place in the 200 yard butterfly race.

Later in the meet, junior Paul Benz and sophomore John Coffey earned first and second place spots in the 200 yard backstroke event. "It was an exciting meet and those sweeps really helped us," said Notre Dame head coach, Dennis Stark.

While the team performed well in most races on Friday, a large gap has been left by the absence of junior Mike Kennedy. Kennedy, the top diver for the Irish, will not return to the University this semester so he can take care of his mother who is ill.

In Kennedy's absence, junior Rich Yohon will become the team's only
