

The Observer

VOL. XIX, NO. 20

the independent student newspaper serving notre dame and saint mary's

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1984

Examples of the vandalism which occurred some time early Sunday morning. The large photo shows the front of South Dining Hall while the inset is of the door of Alumni Hall. Dillon Hall and the Sorin statue were also sprayed with the black paint. (see story to right)

Vandal's 'art' mars halls and Fr. Sorin

By TERRY BLAND
Staff Reporter

The South Dining Hall, the Sorin Statue and Alumni and Dillon Halls all sustained damage Saturday night when vandals scrawled graffiti across several doors of the halls and the base of the Sorin statue.

Black spray paint was used in writing Pangborn or Rangborn across eight of the wooden entrance doors to the dining hall and across two side doors of Alumni hall. N.H. N.Y. was painted on Dillon Hall and some sidewalks on the South Quad. Hi Mom was scrawled on the base of the Sorin Statue.

Although an exact time has not been determined, an Alumni resident said, "I didn't see anything when I got home about 3:00." Don Dedrick, Director of Maintenance, believed it "happened sometime around 4:00 on Sunday morning."

Removal of the paint will probably not be difficult according to Dedrick. "Normally we would put a detergent on the paint and dissolve it," said Dedrick. "Then we would wash the paint away with high pressure water." Dedrick added the cost of the cleanup would not be great.

It is not known who specifically was involved in the vandalism. Although Notre Dame security is investigating the case, they would not discuss any details regarding it.

Father James Riehle, rector of Pangborn, expressed no knowledge of the incident. "I don't know anything about it," said Riehle. "When I got over to Corby for breakfast they were talking about it, so they know about it."

Although Riehle did not know anything about the vandalism, he "didn't believe anyone at Pangborn did it." "It would be pretty stupid to put your own hall's name on something like that," remarked Riehle.

Father David Tyson, Vice-President of Student Affairs, saw the destruction as "a real tragedy." "It's not just an administration problem," explained Tyson. "It effects all the students." Tyson further commented that he "had not seen vandalism that bad" since he was a freshman here. "It goes beyond a prank," Tyson said.

Jeff Mayer, a freshman at Pangborn, did not know about the graffiti until this morning. "Some friends told me to go down and eat breakfast and take a look at what happened," said Mayer. Mark Brockman, a senior at Pangborn, told The Observer that, "strange stuff like that doesn't usually happen." "It's just ridiculous," Brockman said.

Seven Lyons freshmen hand over Rockne bust at Colorado pep-rally

By BOB VONDERHEIDE
Editor-in-Chief

Shining and unharmed, Knute Rockne returned safely Friday night when seven Lyons freshmen handed over the bust of the famed football coach at the Colorado pep rally.

But Security Director Glenn Terry said no one was apprehended. The freshmen were not questioned.

An unidentified male gave the statue to the freshmen in the parking lot of Stepan Center shortly before the rally, according to Nancy Wehner, one of the freshmen involved. Wehner said the bust was wrapped in a sheet. The man, she said, instructed the freshmen to push through the crowd and give the bust to Head Football Coach Gerry Faust.

When Faust noticed the freshmen carrying the bust, he came over to the edge of the stage and picked up the statue. Wehner said Faust, shouting "Rock is back!", was excited to see the return of Knute Rockne.

Faust set the bust on an empty chair next to former DePaul basketball coach Ray Meyer, who attended the rally. A few minutes later, security officers took the bust from Faust.

Wehner said none of the freshmen involved knows the man who gave them the bust or the people responsible for the bust's disappearance from the Rockne Memorial last May.

Wehner said the arrangements to meet the man at Stepan were set up by another resident of Lyons Hall, who told the freshmen that she knew a "friend of a friend" of the person who took the bust.

"She told us that the people (who took the bust) were getting kind of nervous because of all the publicity," Wehner said. "It sounded fun, and since we were freshmen, we couldn't be suspected."

Security kept the bust during the weekend, but Terry said it will be returned to the managers of the Rockne Memorial.

The decision to make the bust more secure on its pedestal or to increase patrols of the Rockne Memorial will be left up to the managers of the gymnasium, Terry said.

Terry said security had no prior knowledge that the bust would turn up at the pep rally.

The investigation into who took the bust will continue, he said, in case someone comes forward with more information.

The bust disappeared from the Rockne Memorial last May. Photographs of the bust in various locations were twice sent anonymously to The Observer.

The newspaper reported two weeks ago that two Notre Dame alumni had identified three people responsible for the disappearance of the bust. Security said last week that it was unable to obtain concrete information from the newspaper's report.

N. Dining Hall floods

By MIKE ELLIOTT
Staff Reporter

The North Dining Hall was closed for part of Saturday and Sunday due to flooding caused by a burst water main on the building's south side. The sixteen inch pipe on the building's exterior exploded with such force that it blew a hole in the side of the building. About 200,000 gallons of water filled the electrical engineering and power rooms with about three feet of water.

Student workers pitched in to help clean up the mess which spread throughout the basement of the building. Observer photographer Lev Chapelsky, who visited the scene Sunday afternoon when the cleanup was nearly completed said, "They had a lot of canned goods and dry goods down there. The bottom rows will probably have to be thrown out."

South Dining Hall was used to handle the influx of students and visitors. Extra employees and food were transferred to South, and the overload was handled efficiently, as many students did not notice any difference in dining hall lines.

North Dining Hall was re-opened for dinner on Sunday and everything should now be functioning normally. No reports on damage costs have been released.

Differences remain between sexes under the Golden Dome

Editor's Note: This is the first of a five-part series focusing on sex discrimination at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. Tomorrow's story takes a look at discrimination in the Notre Dame's Admissions Office.

By THERESA GUARINO
Assistant News Editor

Since 1972 when women were admitted to Notre Dame, there have been several areas which apparently did not adapt to the change. St. Michael's Laundry is an example of a University service that does not seem to serve men and women equally.

With each tuition bill, men are charged $50 for a line of laundry credit to use during the semester.

This fee covers a once a week laundry service. Anything over that $50 is charged to the student's individual account.

Women, however, do not have a laundry fee included in their bill. Any cleaning they bring to the Laundry is paid for with cash, or charged to an account they may open. Washing machines are provided in each women's dorm for regular use.

Assistant Laundry Director Lupe Garcia said the service they offer to women is usually done on a small scale, and that the laundry would really not be equipped to do women's laundry on a larger scale.

"Because all our laundry is washed together and handled in bulk, men's garments are easier to do," said Garcia. "Ladies garments usually have a lot of fancy, delicate items that could be ruined if handled in bulk."

The Laundry does offer a dry cleaning service that both women and men can use, but students must use their individual accounts or pay cash.

Sex Discrimination

Laundry Director Norman Muller explained why a lack of facilities prohibit the laundry from opening up to women. "We have a problem sometimes handling the laundry of small in stature males because our shirt pressers are so big. With women's clothing, we would need special equipment for blouses and skirts that we don't have."

Muller added, "We would need more personnel, more equipment, and a bigger facility, to do laundry for women on the same basis as the males."

Apparently, however, women do not mind the discrepancy. "When we went co-ed, the decision was made that women want to do their own laundry," said Vice President for Business Affairs Tom Mason. "We decided the laundry service the way it is now wasn't appropriate for what women want laundered."

Two years ago, St. Michael's opened to women on the cash and student account basis. Mason said discussions over the years with women led him to believe they like the system the way it is now.

"We have tried to respond to what needs are. We're open for discussion

— if women want it (the full laundry service), I don't see any reason not to open it," added Mason.

Apparently, however, women do not want any change. Susan Scott, a sophomore in Walsh said she doesn't have any problems with the laundry service now. "I would rather do it myself actually," said Scott. "I haven't heard really good things about the way clothes return from there, and I like being able to do my own wash."

The housekeeping staff gives the same treatment in its maid service, to males and females, according to Assistant Director of Building Services Gregory Miinch.

"We don't give our maids special instructions whether they are working in a men or women's dorm," said Miinch. "The work is not supposed to be any different."

In Brief

A man who fatally shot one neighbor, wounded another and held off police for nine hours from a house was killed yesterday in a fire ignited by a tear gas canister, police said. Police exchanged shots with the gunman, whose name was not immediately released, several times during the night before firing rounds of tear gas into the two-story, wooden house just before dawn, said Suffolk County, New York police Sgt. James Storz. The charred body of the gunman was found in an upstairs bathtub, said Sgt. Warren Grubner. The trouble began Saturday when the man began firing either a long-barreled rifle or shotgun for no apparent reason from his home, police said. — AP

Eighteen people face charges in an alleged scheme in which an Illinois township official traded public assistance funds for sex with women who didn't qualify, authorities say. The 18 were indicted by a grand jury last week on charges including forgery, perjury, fraud and prostitution for involvement with former township supervisor David Lemke, who admitted trading rental aid for sex, said Warren County State's Attorney Warren McNeill. — AP

China, the world's most populous country, had 1.024 billion people by the end of 1983, an increase of 16 million over 1982, the government said during the weekend. Wang Wei, the national family planning commission minister, said in a published report Saturday that population control "is not easy." But he did not say if the latest population figures exceed targets for China's strict birth control program. Wang said the birth rate dropped to 18.6 per thousand in 1983, compared with 36 per thousand in 1949. — AP

Several thousand people were evacuated, while thousands more were left marooned by more flooding in northern Bangladesh during the weekend, according to reports yesterday. The English-language daily Bangladesh Observer said about 7,000 people were evacuated Saturday to shelters in the districts of Jamalpur and Sherpur. Thousands more were reportedly driven from their homes to high ground where they awaited evacuation as Jamuna River floodwaters rose. — AP

Of Interest

International freshmen are invited to get together tonight at 10 in Keenan Hall Conference Room (basement). — The Observer

The Adopt-A-Transfer kickoff party will be tonight at Senior Bar from 8 to 11. All present semester transfers are invited as well as their "dorm adopters." There will be dancing and a large-screen viewing of Monday Night Football, and Senior Class President Dean Christy and Treasurer Rich Irwin, former transfers, will speak informally. No ID's will be required. For more information, call Alison Yurko at 2870. — The Observer

Summer storage pickup deadline is September 28. Pick up will be at Laundry Office door 1. Storage that is not picked up by the deadline will be donated to missions. — The Observer

Weather

Partly sunny, warm and humid today with a slight chance of thunder-showers with high around 80. The chance of rain is 20 percent. Partly cloudy and warm tonight with a 30 percent chance of thundershowers. Low in the middle 60s. Partly cloudy, warm and humid tomorrow with a 50 percent chance of thunderstorms. High in the lower 80s. — AP

The Observer

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays, except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $30 per year ($20 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Today's issue was produced by:
Production Consultant.....Steve
Design Editor.....Troy Illig
Design Assistant.....Kathleen Nicholson,
Andi Schnuck
Layout Staff...Cheryl Pilon, Kelly O'Neil
Typesetters.....Cathann Reynolds
News Editor.....John A. Mennell
Copy Editor.....Jane M. Kravcik
Sports Copy Editor.....Theron Roberts
Viewpoint Layout.....Paul Bruce

Press overkill marks 1984 presidential campaign trail

Sarah Hamilton
News Editor

Inside Monday

The 1984 presidential election is six weeks away, and the issue of Geraldine Ferraro's financial affairs is still making headlines. In a news conference with more than 200 reporters and 36 television cameras Ferraro explained herself with polite, forthright answers. A defeated press cheered her. But the issue will not die.

When the press is tired of Ferraro and her husband's tax returns it turns to another exploited issue of the campaign: the separation of church and state. In reporting this issue to the public, the press has blown it out of proportion and distorted it, perhaps beyond repair.

First, the press reported that Ferraro had said the Catholic Church was flexible in its teaching on abortion. Then, the press rebounded with a report that Archbishop of New York John J. O'Connor had said the Democratic vice presidential candidate misunderstood the teaching of the Catholic Church. According to news sources, Ferraro cleared up this altercation with a phone call to the Archbishop. Since then Ferraro's religion has been in the limelight of her campaign. News articles and analyses focusing on the church and state issue rarely fail to drop Ferraro's name and her difficulty to deal with the problem. She is often described as being at odds with the Catholic Church hierarchy; and O'Connor's "blasting" of Ferraro is seldom ignored.

Few people will question that the separation of church and state is an important issue in the upcoming election. There seem to be ideological differences between the two leading candidates on this issue. But it is difficult to pin down either candidate because of cloudy news reports more concerned with incidents of conflict rather than the issue itself.

The legal and moral status of a vice presidential nominee is also significant. What has she done that might disqualify her from the vice presidency? In all the scratching and digging the press has done it has discovered that one of Zaccaro's tenants (his company owns around two dozen buildings) is storing pornographic materials in space in one of the buildings. The Philadelphia Inquirer revealed that Ferraro had received a contribution to one of her campaigns from someone described as an organized crime "figure." According to New York Magazine another organized crime figure might have been a tenant in one of Zaccaro's buildings. Are these grounds for disqualification?

At least as important and potentially more dangerous than either of these election issues, is the issue of the press itself. The press transcends political parties. It provides all classes of society with reports and analyses of current happenings in the world and commentary on these events.

Often the press is referred to as society's watchdog. However, in the past decade or so, it seems the press has broken its leash. Ever since the Pentagon Papers and Watergate the press has been gaining tremendous amounts of power. When 200 reporters along with accounting experts and financial advisors flock to New York to cover a press conference, and nearly 100 journalists descend on South Bend for a speech by the governor of New York one must question whether the press has stepped beyond its bounds.

One explanation for the press's behavior is that the press is not one monstrous entity. It consists of independently-owned newspapers, magazines, television and radio stations, as well as media chains. Each is a source of news, but each is also a business. In order to stay in business each works to deliver a better product to the consumer.

On the positive side this means grabbing the late-breaking story, presenting more in-depth coverage and thoughtful analysis. It means digging for facts in the Woodward-and-Bernstein style. On the uglier side it means checking out every one of Zaccaro's tenants, and day after day filling front pages with stories of rifts between Catholic politicians and the Church.

The business of news is an explanation for press overkill, but it is not an excuse. Obviously the press realizes the power it wields, but it must also realize the responsibility with which it must use that power. Unlike the different branches of government which are kept in check by the other branches and the voting public, the press must restrain itself. It must stick to reporting the issues, not creating them.

Sign up
Today....

AIS

Shipping and Packaging

You wrap or we Wrap

3617 Mishawaka Ave
Mishawaka at Logan

We ship Exclusively
UPS
282-2556

Sacramental Preparation

at the University of Notre Dame

Information Session
Sunday, Sept. 30
Library Lounge

7pm All about Baptism and Full Communion Preparation for unbaptised persons wishing to become a member of the Roman Catholic Church

for baptised persons
wanting Full Communion
in the Catholic Tradition for those desiring to know more about the Roman Catholic faith

8pm All about Confirmation Preparation for baptised Catholics desiring to celebrate the Sacrament of Confirmation

For more information contact: University Ministry Office
Badin Hall
239-5242

Women's caucus gives Mondale endorsement

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Walter Mondale accused President Reagan yesterday of making "a cynical rewrite of history" by invoking the names of past Democratic presidents and the former vice president accepted the first-ever endorsement of the National Women's Political Caucus.

In his weekly paid radio broadcast, Mondale urged Democratic voters to ignore Reagan's appeal to vote Republican on Election Day.

Under a second Reagan term, Mondale said, there would be a "scary, intolerant, dangerous future. If you cross over to the Dallas Republicans, that's what you get. You don't just get the balloons, the pep rallies and the happy talk. You get (the Rev. Jerry) Falwell, Nicaragua and Star Wars, too."

At a news conference with Mondale at her side, Kathy Wilson, a Republican who chairs the women's caucus, said, "When it comes to women, Walter Mondale stands tall. Ronald Reagan develops back problems."

The caucus ended 13 years of neutrality in presidential politics to endorse the first Democratic ticket ever to include a woman, vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro.

The endorsement was announced just after Mondale recalled in his radio address that Reagan replaced a presidential portrait of Democrat Harry Truman with one of Calvin Coolidge in the White House Cabinet Room a few hours after taking office in 1981.

"That's the real Republican Party.

They may learn to quote Truman and Kennedy. But their history is with Coolidge and Nixon. So is their future."

Polls indicate up to 25 percent of registered Democrats say they will vote for Reagan, but Mondale said he believes those defections are temporary and will be recovered by Nov. 6.

Reagan flew to New York to host a reception last night in honor of the United Nations General Assembly, which he will address today. Also at the reception will be Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, scheduled to meet Thursday with Mondale and Friday with Reagan.

In announcing the caucus' endorsement of Mondale, Wilson said the decision was not "an anti-Republican endorsement. It's an anti-Reagan Republican endorsement."

The endorsement, decided at the group's meeting Saturday in Charlotte, N.C., was made because there is such a sharp difference between Reagan and Mondale on the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion, federal support for child care, arms control, Supreme Court appointments and economic equity for women, she said.

At a later news conference, Mondale said the bombing at the U.S. Embassy annex in Beirut on Thursday was "a very severe breach of essential security on the part of this administration." Following similar attacks over the last year, Mondale said recommendations for improving security were either ignored or delayed.

The Observer/Lev Chapelsky

Flanner Hall residents enjoy the beer and the sunny weather at a tailgater in Green Field before Saturday's game. The tailgater was "parent spon-sered," and therefore did not violate the rule about student tailgaters. (see story below)

Student tailgating remains similar to previous years despite restriction

By DOUG HASLER, MIRIAM HILL AND CINDY RAUCKHORST
Staff Reporters

Even with increased security, Saturday's tailgating activities were not noticeably different from last year's.

Glenn Terry, director of Notre Dame security, said patrols were increased to enforce the new directive. No arrests were made for tailgating violations, although one tailgater will be referred to the office for student affairs.

When asked of security arrangements for future home games, Terry replied, "Right now, there are no plans for increased patrols."

It would seem that the lack of arrests came as no surprise to the University. When contacted Friday afternoon, Sister Jean Lenz, assistant vice-president for student affairs, said, "We expect no student or student organization to organize a tailgater."

All Notre Dame Football ticket holders received a notice with their tickets about the University's new alcohol policy. They were warned that alcohol in open containers is "strictly prohibited on the main campus." Those who decided to take part in the tailgating activities at Green Field were cautioned of the liability associated with serving alcohol to minors in the state of Indiana.

Fewer students were present at Green Field due to a lack of student-sponsored tailgaters, and the field was somewhat quieter as a result. Several groups, however, managed to celebrate the first home game in traditional Notre Dame style. Dillon and Keenan halls sponsored tailgaters, attracting hundreds of students to eat and socialize. Other students chose to have private tailgaters with small groups of friends or to attend pre-game parties with parents.

Many commented on the lack of change from last year and the ease with which students could still obtain alcohol at tailgaters. Sophomore Scott Stephen noted, "I wasn't even aware that students would be fined for having alcohol. When so many students are participating, how much control can the University have over the situation?"

Additional feelings were expressed by many alumni. Dave Schmitz, class of 1984, stated, "There doesn't seem to be as much alcohol flowing. I think the University succeeded in cutting alcohol back, but did not eliminate it."

In general, the alumni seemed sympathetic to the University's concern over student consumption of alcohol. Several of the older alumni commented that the rules were much stricter when they attended Notre Dame. However, most alumni did not discourage student participation at alumni-sponsored tailgaters. As in years past, they did not hesitate to offer alcohol to students, regardless of age.

Group therapy offered

By DIANNE MCBRIEN
News Staff

For the student who finds that talking things out with a friend or roommate may not be enough, the Counseling and Psychological Services Center on the third floor of the Student Health Center offers a wide range of group services. Both discussion groups and workshops are available in the group services program.

The weekly 1-1 1/2 hour workshops run for four to five weeks and are centered around themes such as stress management and interpersonal skills.

Discussion groups are scheduled to fit the members' needs. Interested students should seek an interview with a staff member in order to determine if group therapy is right for them.

A group for students who have experienced the loss of a family member or friend is also available.

The group services were developed because of studies and the success of similar programs on other campuses indicated their value. "Research showed us that group therapy in a lot of situations is just as or more helpful than individual treatment," said Luis Valdes, Outreach and Consultation coordinator for Psych Services. "And within the last 15 or 20 years, group therapy has become a popular and effective mode of treatment." Valdes noted that group therapy was especially popular on college campuses, where academic and peer pressure, anxiety, and loneliness are common. Many campuses have a program similar to this.

Group services, which are available free of charge to all Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, are entirely voluntary, Valdes emphasized, "There's no coercion involved...it's totally up to the student." He also stressed that group services, like any other Psych Services treatment, is completely confidential by law.

SEMESTER IN SPAIN

Not just for Spanish majors only, but for everyone: beginners, "in between" students, and advanced. Put some excitement into your college career!!

BEGINNER OR ADVANCED - Cost is about the same as a semester in a U.S. college: $3,380. Price includes jet round trip to Seville from New York, room, board, and tuition complete. Government grants and loans may be applied towards our programs.

Live with a Spanish family, attend classes four hours a day, four days a week, four months. Earn 16 hrs. of credit (equivalent to 4 semesters taught in U.S. colleges over a two year time span). Your Spanish studies will be enhanced by opportunities not available in a U.S. classroom. Standardized tests show our students' language skills superior to students completing two year programs in U.S. Advanced courses also.

Hurry, it takes a lot of time to make all arrangements.

SPRING SEMESTER — Jan. 30 - May 29
FALL SEMESTER — Aug. 29 - Dec. 19
each year.

FULLY ACCREDITED — A Program of Trinity Christian College.

For full information — send coupon to:

SEMESTER IN SPAIN

2442 E. Collier S.E., F-5
Grand Rapids, Michigan 49506
(A Program of Trinity Christian College)

Experience Latin America

with

HOLY Cross Associates Chile program

devoted to

Christian exploration

Communal lifestyle

Simple living

Service to others

For information contact:
Mary Ann Foemer
Center for Social Concern
239-7949

John Fitzpatrick
Associates Office
239-5521

New parking regulations are announced by these signs in the stadium parking lot. Due to the opening of Decio Faculty Office Building and the construction behind the ACC, faculty and staff are using the lots previously used by students. (see story below)

Parking lot complaints caused by Decio, pool

By BARBARA STEVENS
News Staff

The opening of Decio Faculty Hall and the construction of the swimming pool at the rear of the ACC have necessitated a reshuffling of parking spaces.

The stadium lots are more crowded this year because many faculty members who formerly parked in the faculty lots close to their offices in the library now park at the stadium in order to be closer to their new offices in Decio, and because construction of the pool has consumed staff parking behind the ACC.

To compensate for the increased number of people parking at the stadium, the entire north half of the stadium parking lot has been designated faculty/staff parking. In addition, the number of spots in faculty and staff lots A-1 and B-1 (now jointly known as AB-1) have been increased by removing the obstacles to snow removal such as curbing and trees. Lot AB-1 has also been restriped.

Some members of the faculty have complained that some days there are no spaces available in lot AB-1, but according to Glenn Terry, security director, there is always plenty of room in the back of AB-1 (the old B-1 lot).

To make up for the loss of student parking at the stadium parking lot, students were given over 150 spaces in a lot marked D-1, between the University Club and Old Juniper Road. Signs noting the changes were posted September 10, but many people have continued to park in the wrong place, and security has been issuing tickets.

"The changes in parking allotment probably will be permanent," said Terry. "The pool takes up a lot of space, and Decio takes up a lot of space. I don't foresee any changes."

Reagan entertains Soviet minister

Associated Press

NEW YORK — President Reagan entertained Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and other United Nations members yesterday and declared his intention to seek a "realistic, constructive" relationship with the Soviet Union to try to reduce nuclear weapons.

Armed with what aides described as a new flexibility toward America's superpower rival, Reagan used the reception to personally size up Gromyko, a durable member of the Kremlin leadership before their formal talks at the White House on Friday.

In addition to Gromyko, whom Reagan had never met before, about 200 other U.N. diplomats were invited to the reception at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

"The United States wants nothing less than a realistic, constructive, long-term relationship with the Soviet Union, a relationship which would permit each of us to reduce, not increase, the number of our weapons — especially those nuclear weapons which threaten all humanity," Reagan said in remarks prepared for delivery.

He said the U.N. members should pledge "in the names of our peoples and for the good of all human kind that we will continue to seek the kind of open and frank discussion which will help us to create a safer world."

"We should never fear to attempt to change that which the pessimists call impossible," said Reagan. "Let us be optimistic about the potential for peace, and let us never, never be afraid to speak with one another."

Semester around the world offered at SMC

By THERESA GUARINO
Assistant News Editor

The newest Saint Mary's abroad program, Semester Around the World, is currently accepting applications for the fall semester of 1985.

Semester Around the World, which features study and travel in India, the Far East, and Europe, opened last year to Notre Dame students. Only 20 students are chosen for each semester.

The program is based in Madras, India, according to its originator, Cyriac Pullapilly, associate professor of history at Saint Mary's. Students study on the campuses of Stella Maris and Loyola Colleges, private Catholic schools affiliated with the University of Madras. They can receive 16 academic credits while studying philosophy, religion, history, literature, sociology, government and economics.

Students in Madras live in houses with kitchens and housekeeping staffs. During travel periods, "the group stays in fine hotels with both Indian and western cooking available," said Pullapilly.

On the way to Madras, students visit Tokyo, Hong Kong, China, Bangkok, and Nepal. Travel breaks during the semester are spent in southern India. At the end of the semester, the group travels to Bombay, Aurangabad, Jaipur, and Delhi. From there, students can choose to fly to Moscow or western Europe before returning to the U.S.

Cost for the program is one semester's tuition, room and board at Saint Mary's, plus approximately $2500. This sum can be increased or reduced depending on changes in air fare, and hotel rates. The fee covers tuition, room and board at Madras, air travel, all hotel and meal expenses, and transfers.

Semester Around the World is open to undergraduate students of any major, who have maintained a B average. An information session and slide show will be this Wednesday, Sept. 26 in room 348 Madeleva. Applications will be available there.

IS ALCOHOL A PROBLEM IN YOUR FAMILY? ALATEEN

For Young People Affected by Someone Else's Drinking

CALL 239-5085

IN ALATEEN YOU CAN:

- Meet others who share your problems
- Learn about alcoholism as an illness
- Share your experience
- Build your self-confidence

Published by
AL ANON FAMILY GROUP HEADQUARTERS
P.O. Box 182 Madison Square Station
New York, N.Y. 10158-0182

You Can be a Navy Pilot

The Navy will train you!

Must be a qualified college graduate or be within 18 months of graduation, under age 29 (30 for veterans)

There are other Navy career opportunities available in:

- Systems Inventory Management
- Acquisition Contracting
- Computer Systems
- Financial Management
- Nuclear Engineering
- Flight Surgeon

Starting salary $17,500 plus medical benefits, travel, and rapid advancement.

FOR MORE INFORMATION OR APPOINTMENT CALL:

Navy Officer Programs at

1-800-382-9782

Navy representative on campus Oct. 10 & 11
at the Placement Office

FINE ART MAJORS ARE DRAWN TO DOMINO'S PIZZA.

277-2151

$1.00
Off

$1.00 off any pizza.
One coupon per pizza.

Fast, Free Delivery™

Plaza 23 Center
1835 South Bend Ave.
South Bend
Phone: 277-2151

Expires in one week.
JTC NA 119 2650
© 1984 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

Rocco's Hair Styling

531 N. Michigan St.,

Phone 233-4957

NEED AN IDEA FOR A FUND RAISER??

I have a great item for the Fall/Winter seasons.
Very useful, and a terrific self-seller.

High Commission Wages.
Call Deal Enterprises
234-3459

(Please don't hesitate to leave a message with my answering machine.)

Thank-You,
Mr. D. Logan

Survivor of Beirut bombing says he would return despite terrorism

Associated Press

LANDSTUHL, West Germany — A U.S. Army sergeant wounded in the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut said yesterday he would go back even though "it's hard to combat terrorism like that."

His comments were echoed by embassy civilian employees being treated at a hospital in Israel.

Staff Sgt. Terry Terrell, 32, of Salem, Ind., suffered head and chest injuries in the suicide truck bombing attack Thursday on the U.S. Embassy annex in east Beirut. At least nine people were killed, including two American servicemen. Terrell was one of 20 Americans among the 72 injured.

Terrell spoke to a dozen reporters at the U.S. Army hospital in Landstuhl, where he was flown for treatment Saturday with eight other wounded. Asked by reporters about embassy security, Terrell said, "If there was enough protection I wouldn't be sitting here."

He added, "They were doing all they could ... there's just not enough you can do about something like that. Even if you put a 10-foot wall around there all they've got to do is fly a chopper in there and blow you up. It's hard to combat terrorism like that."

Terrell said he would go back to Beirut if asked. "I have no heartburn about going back," he said. "That's the life of a soldier."

In Israel, British-born Michael Milroy, a manager in the embassy's general services office, said, "I would go back immediately. I think there is a job still to be done and the United States should not leave Lebanon yet."

Milroy, one of four wounded who was flown to Israel in two U.S. Navy helicopters yesterday, spoke from his hospital bed at the Tel Hashomer Sheba medical center on the outskirts of Tel Aviv. His chest, arms and face were badly cut and burned.

Milroy said he was on the second floor of the embassy when the bomb went off.

"Then I woke up on a hospital bed," he said. "I think the Americans did the most they could to protect the embassy. But it is almost impossible to stop a suicide operation."

Philippines-born Robert Lora, another embassy civilian employee being treated in Israel for wounds, said he believed "the security was as good as it could have been. Some things were incomplete, but that was not significant."

An April 1983 bombing of the U.S. Embassy killed 17 and an October 1983 attack on U.S. Marine headquarters in Beirut killed 241. A pro-Iranian, fundamentalist Shiite Moslem sect that calls itself Jihad Islami — Islamic Holy War — claimed responsibility for all three attacks.

The Observer/Lev Chapelsky

Is a Wet Campus Happy?

A dining hall employee helps clean up North Dining Hall after a water main broke and flooded the basement of the building with three feet of water. The flood forced the closing of the dining hall for part of Saturday and Sunday. (see story on page 1)

West Germany's finance minister doubts talks will help Third World

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — West Germany's finance minister warned poor countries yesterday not to get their hopes up that special talks next spring on the world economic situation will shape a solution to their $900 billion debt problem.

"We don't want to arouse spectacular, exaggerated expectations," said Gerhard Stoltenberg, one of officials from 22 countries who late Saturday adopted the U.S. proposal for the global discussions at a meeting of the International Monetary Fund.

"This is not the big conference on debt," Stoltenberg told reporters, apparently referring to pleas by indebted Latin American countries for a high-level conference on the monetary crisis.

Meanwhile, President Reagan met yesterday in New York with Raul Alfonsín, president of the newly democratic government in Argentina.

That South American nation is burdened with foreign loans of some $47 billion and for months has been trying to work out a rescue package with the International Monetary Fund.

In return for the help, the fund requires strict measures to try to restore these nations' economies to health. Alfonsín has been strongly resisting some of these steps.

Finance ministers from around the world gathered here for today's opening of the 39th annual meetings of the 147-member IMF and its sister agency, the World Bank.

About two dozen ministers took part in weekend policy meetings that discussed the outlook for the global economy and the continuing problems of the Third World.

In general, most said they were heartened by the pickup in the world economy, led by the unexpectedly strong upturn in the United States.

Ghulam Ishaq Khan, finance minister of Pakistan, said economic growth is also beginning to be felt in the Third World.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan was presenting to that group his proposal for global talks next spring. He offered the plan, and it was unanimously accepted, at Saturday's meeting of the IMF's policymaking body.

United Mine Workers review offer

Associated Press

CHARLESTON, W.Va. — United Mine Workers local officers will get their first look at the union's proposed contract with the soft coal industry at meetings around the coalfields today.

The union has mailed summaries of the contract to members, but most local officials and the rank-and-file have yet to review the full contract.

"Most of the ones I've talked to say it looks OK, at least from reading the summary," said Clifford Martin, a

UMW field representative in Logan. "They're not looking at wages so much as keeping their jobs."

District 17, the union's largest district, has scheduled its meeting today at 10 a.m. at the Madison Civic Center.

After they review the agreement, the officers will explain the contract to the rank-and-file at local meetings tomorrow. Members then will have 48 hours to review the contract before the ratification vote, tentatively scheduled Thursday.

The 40-month contract calls for a 10.25 percent pay hike over the life of the agreement, meaning a top-scale miner would be making $15.57 an hour by the time the contract expires. It also provides protection for miners' jobs when companies sublease with non-union companies.

The new contract also increases the number of paid inspections by union safety committees from four times to six times a year.

"I've had a lot of miners stop by and talk about it," Martin said. "And they seem to be satisfied, at least with what they've seen."

"There are two things that really caught their attention. They changed the language on subleasing, and that gives us good protection. They like that real good. And they like those extra safety inspections."

Frank Thurman, who ran the UMW's political arm under former President Sam Church, said he wished the union leadership had sent the complete contract proposal to the rank-and-file sooner instead of issuing the summary.

The Notre Dame L-5 Society presents

'A Case for Space'

Monday Sept. 24 7PM

LaFortune Little Theatre

SAVE $$$

2.5 cubic Dormitory Refrig.
$45⁰⁰ for School Year
Limited Quantities

BURNS RENT-ALLS INC.
332 W. Mishawaka Ave.
Mishawaka

259 - 2833

SENIORS!

Those registered for Senior Informal should pick up all tickets and info.

Mon. 9/24 6-8

Tues. 9/25 6-8

LaFortune Lobby

THIS OLDE HOUSE PIZZERIA & PUB

This Monday and
Wednesday we will deliver a Medium 16"
pizza with 1 topping for $6⁹⁵

Each additional item is $1⁰⁰

277-4519

CALL BEFORE 11:30 p.m. FOR DELIVERY
EXPIRES 9/26/84

TYPING

- ★ Term Papers
- ★ Resumes
- ★ Letters
- ★ Manuscripts
- ★ Word Processing

Call Chris At: 234-8997

Contempt for vandals

The spray paint vandals that scarred the South Quad early yesterday morning marked more than a few doorways or the base of the Sorin statue. The criminals have spit with contempt upon the community in which we live.

This is not the work of merry pranksters, but rather some group who holds a deep grudge against Notre Dame. While it would be unjustified at this time to point fingers at anybody, it is necessary to express the disgust we all must have felt when we saw the buildings, home for many of us, defaced with black spray paint.

Whether the vandalism was the work of members of Pangborn Hall, as the paint on the doors of Alumni Hall indicates, or some visitors in for the football weekend or whoever did it, this action should never have happened, and could have been prevented - but that is up to the security department. What we all have to deal with now is that somebody who would corrupt the beautiful residential South Quad probably would not think twice about walking into an unlocked dorm room to see what is lying around, or endangering Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students as they walk around the campuses late at night.

Vandalism isn't supposed to happen here. And even though we have seen spray painted walls before, we haven't seen them at Notre Dame or Saint Mary's. There are injustices in our world - some far worse than this - but because this one happened to us, it hurts.

If we can find out who did this foul deed, then they should be criminally prosecuted. But even if we never find out, the shudder we all experienced when we first saw the defacement will remind us that real life is sometimes chilling.

— The Observer

ALCOHOL POLICY? WHAT'S THAT?

Hunger and inequality hurt North and South

This year marks the tenth anniversary of the World Food Conference held in Rome in 1974. A major reason for holding that conference was to respond to famine and drought conditions (particularly in Africa) which seemed completely out of control. It is difficult to assess the success or failure of international efforts in this area because the issues surrounding hunger and starvation are so complex and the problems seem so distant from our own lives.

Bill Jordan

guest column

On the one hand, certain areas of the world have seen some huge advances in the fight to feed themselves. India, for example, was considered the most hopeless spot in the world twenty years ago. The problems of drought, underdevelopment and overpopulation seemed insurmountable, but food production has lately been on the rise in India. Poverty and underdevelopment are still acute problems there, but the example of India's increasing agriculture production shows us that international attention and aid on food issues is vitally important and can be successful. There is reason for optimism.

On the other hand, it is obvious that the world hunger situation on a whole has deteriorated in the last ten years rather than moved forward. Progress is eclipsed by uncontrolled population increases which are doubling populations in the Third World every twenty years while our own population level is remaining the same.

I guess the question I would like to ask is, "What exactly will motivate us to do something about these problems which seem so distant to us?" I believe Americans have a great quality they can be proud of; when they put their minds to doing something they can do it. At the same time we are pragmatic so I would like to make an argument that appeals to our sense of pragmatism.

One of the most interesting conclusions last semester's nuclear dilemma class came to in our final discussion concerned what our most prevalent fears were in the area of nuclear arms. There was an overriding consensus that our nation is not threatened as much by the Soviet Union as it is by Third World nations whose moralities justify terrorism. How would we respond to a terrorist attack with nuclear weapons? Even if a group, such as the Islamic Holy War organization (who took credit for the latest U.S. embassy bombing in Beirut), took credit for a nuclear terrorist attack, how could we retaliate? By nuking the whole city of Beirut (or nation of Lebanon for that matter)? It seems clear that the Soviet Union has respected the hard line foreign policy approach of our present administration, but I would argue that our policies in the Third World have nurtured more violent mentalities as we have been increasing the gap between rich and poor in our world.

Vietnam might serve as a good example to learn by; we could not win that war because we could not find or understand the enemy. Students did not begin to protest the injustice of that situation until their friends started coming home in wooden boxes. That distant issue of Vietnam was brought home and concretely affected peoples' families before a stop to the war was demanded. Let us not wait any longer in dealing with the enemies to our survival; namely poverty, hunger and starvation. Terrorist attacks are difficult to stop and knowledge of nuclear devices is proliferating beyond our control.

In closing, I would like to quote a Brazilian terrorist named Ladislav Dowbor, who was interviewed by a French journalist Sanche de Gramont. Dowbor, a well educated man brought up under Catholic tutelage, morally justifies his use of violent terrorism: "My father invited me to a good restaurant and I refused. As a catholic, when you see children dying of hunger, either you refuse a meal that could feed five children, or you abandon your Christianity... There was sufficient misery in Recife for morality not to exist... I had believed so strongly in the christian values I had practiced that I now had to replace them with something else equally valid."

My argument is that hunger and the widening inequality between North and South need to be dealt with...for our own best interest.

Bill Jordan is a senior government major and a member of the Notre Dame World Hunger Coalition.

Without the right to life no one can be free

Governor Cuomo courageously and eloquently gave his justification for his view that while he is personally opposed to abortion, he does not support legislation against abortion and indeed that he supports government funding of abortion. Both Cuomo and Father Hesburgh expressed their interest and eagerness to have an open discussion on this matter and to hear other points of view. Here I would like

Janet E. Smith

guest column

to explain why Cuomo's argument does not convince me, for I, too, am personally opposed to abortion but I think legislation is necessary and government funding is immoral. Cuomo's argumentation presents more difficulties than I am able to address here: due to space limitations I shall address only a few of the points which he made.

Let me make short work of Cuomo's constant equation of birth control and abortion: he repeatedly stated that Catholics are not seeking laws or constitutional amendments against birth control; thus they should not be seeking the same for abortion. The difficulty with this argument may best be exposed by noting that Catholics (and others) think gluttony, pride, sloth, lust, drinking too much, etc. to be sins, but that we are not seeking laws against them. We do seek laws against such sins as rape, and slavery, and genocide; the magnitude and nature of the sin determine whether we seek public sanction against it. Since Cuomo agrees that abortion is killing, he should recognize the faultiness of his equation.

Cuomo was courageous to take up the point of the parallel case of slavery. The argument made against him is that most of us recoil from the phrase "I am personally opposed to slavery, but I would not impose my views on others". Those making this argument had hoped that Cuomo, too, would recoil from it and see that, thus, his view on abortion is untenable.

Cuomo does not recoil from this statement and in fact attempts to turn the analogy to his benefit: he suggests that some good men at the time thought it imprudent to seek legislation against slavery then and that the situation with abortion is similar now. He rightly informs us that even Lincoln was willing to tolerate slavery in some states and to work in a gradual way to have it outlawed in other states. Lincoln held this position, made this prudential judgment, because of the division and bloodshed which would most likely result were the laws to be changed suddenly. So too, Cuomo thinks abortion wrong, and presumably would like to see it outlawed (though he never said this explicitly); he simply thinks that it is impractical, unrealistic, and divisive to push for legislation now.

Let us examine the parallel as made by

Cuomo. Although Lincoln may have been justified, I have wondered how Lincoln would explain his action to slaves. Let us imagine Lincoln addressing a group of slaves and justifying his position: "Slaves, I agree that your fundamental right to freedom is violated by the practice of slavery but I think that it would be wrong to disturb the public peace in order that you might enjoy those rights. You see, some people think that black people do not deserve the same rights as all of us; I would like some time to convince them that you do. Let us work at this gradually, and perhaps in a few generations we may succeed in convincing those who have voting rights to grant your emancipation. Presently I must simply uphold the law of the land which allows slavery." And if Lincoln reasoned like Cuomo he might add: "And furthermore, I believe that the poor and disadvantaged should not be deprived of the privilege of the rich so I am proposing the government funds be used to provide slaves for the poor. I am sure you will understand my position."

If it were possible for Gov. Cuomo to address the unborn, what would he say? "Hello, little ones! You, too, may play football some day at Notre Dame, if your mother does not have an abortion. I would like to help you because I believe that you are human beings and that abortion is killing. I believe that you have a right to life but I feel it would be wrong to impose my views on those who do not agree with me. In fact, I will help your mother pay to have you killed because I know she would do it anyway and I would not like her to fall short on money for the rent. So, be patient, little ones; perhaps after several more millions of you are killed, we might be able to persuade the American public that you have the right to life and they will stop the killing."

Perhaps Lincoln was right, perhaps blacks and their supporters should have been more patient, perhaps it is right to allow the violation of the fundamental rights of some in order to protect the peace of all. Certainly he gave witness to his opposition to slavery by frequently denouncing slavery. Cuomo would convince us better of his "personal opposition" to abortion if he would speak out against it and try to get others to share his opposition.

But is abortion a parallel case to slavery? Not quite, for here the fundamental right being violated is even more fundamental; it is not freedom but the right to life: without life, one cannot be free. And would a law against abortion be divisive in the same way that a law against slavery would have been? Would there be any bloodshed? Would there be bloodshed to match the bloodshed which we now have with over one million and a half abortions a year?

This is the first in a two-part series by Janet E. Smith, founder and faculty advisor for the ND-SMC Right to Life Group, and chairman of the board for the Women's Care Center-Pregnancy Help Center.

Sir Obnoxious returns

by Marc Ramirez
features columnist

Stop. Stop whatever you are doing and listen up. I don't care if you are eating lunch, brushing your teeth, or giving birth to a baby. Stop right now, because it's true, and there's nothing you can do about it.

Sir Obnoxious is back.

Sir Obnoxious realizes, of course, that at the culmination of last year's battle against Miss Manners (from which, Sir Obnoxious hastens to add, he emerged victorious), he vowed never to return to this desolate campus where rudeness and crudeness reigned free. There was nothing more to be done here, or so Sir Obnoxious thought as both Administration and students pecked back and forth at each other with complete tactlessness. And Sir Obnoxious was proud.

But while lounging in his six-bedroom house in Beverly Hills, Sir Obnoxious became restless, and frequent visits from Ozzy Osbourne were becoming too much of a good thing. And then the sad truth dawned upon Sir Obnoxious that even one year away from this place would clear the way for a tactful, polite, goody-two-shoes freshman class.

So now Sir Obnoxious addresses the freshmen who continue to excuse themselves after burping, those who still keep their elbows off the table, and those who don't watch Monty Python.

Wise up, you little rugrats. Get a clue.

And listen to the wisdom of Sir Obnoxious, while turning a deaf ear to the preachings of that clueless bimbo Miss Manners.

And now to the topic at hand.

Sir Obnoxious wishes to address himself today to the events which you call "pep rallies." Pep rallies are Sir Obnoxious' type of thing: a large gathering of boisterous people given to screaming and shouting. In other words, they are inherently obnoxious. Sir Obnoxious himself has attended a few such events and loved them. If ever any occasion gave opportunity to cry havoc and let loose the mutts of obnoxiousness, it is the so-called pep rally.

Among the spectacles Sir Obnoxious has admired about these events have been flying rolls of toilet paper, hot and sweaty armpits, lots of good places for a "stick-up," and multitudes of broken promises. Last Friday, as a matter of fact, 60 minutes of good football were promised in return for 60 minutes of crowd support. Sir Obnoxious saw a small chance for fun. He promised, and left the game at halftime.

However, Sir Obnoxious by no means believes that pep rallies have reached their full potential as opportunities for the unleashing of rude and uncivil behavior. No, not by any means. On the contrary, Sir Obnoxious believes that there is always room for improvement, as it were.

And so Sir Obnoxious proposes the following: a pep rally sponsored by one entity, i.e. a dorm or campus club, which, while including all of the aforementioned discourtesies, would also be used as a method of lashing out at another entity, i.e. another dorm or campus club.

Sound good? Imagine the possibilities.

Just imagine a dorm holding its own pep rally, complete with music, loudspeakers and loud speakers, making lots and lots of noise on the quad as it posed under the guise of a spirited endorsement for the football team. Yes, be sure to include many cheers and rah-rah sorts of speeches, and also throw in some prominently located banners and signs. But then toss in the meaty stuff. What Sir Obnoxious means is that, as long as you've got the privilege of amplified communication, and as long as you've got lots of people listening to your every howl, why not take the ball and run with it?

Yes, now you've got it. Do you hate the members of the Karate Club? Call them names over the microphone. Do you despise the workers in the dining hall? Make very obvious references to them on your banners. Do you enjoy poking fun at alumni? Incorporate the appropriate sentiments into your cheers. Get the whole crowd into it. If you've got the voice, use it. Sir Obnoxious always does.

Pep rallies of this sort would be the lowest form of unsubtle tactlessness imaginable when utilized to their proper potential. Sir Obnoxious proposes such rallies to anyone and everyone who wishes to make Sir Obnoxious proud through manifestation of utter discourtesy and the exhibition of absolutely no class at all.

Your Majesty Sir Obnoxious:

Ahem. You'll like this. I know you hate it when people read over your shoulder, and so I took the liberty of doing just that. Yeah, I did it, and now I got something to say. You ain't so special. No, and you know why? Because we thought of it first. That's right, we had a pep rally just like the one you just wrote about, uh huh, we did it first. What do you think about that?

A Dillon Animal

O Annoying Reader:

Sir Obnoxious apologizes for the oversight, and wants you to know that he is doubly proud of you. It took an enormous amount of skill to read over Sir Obnoxious' cold shoulder without having your nose turned inside out, and is glad to know that someone on this campus was baseless enough to be thinking ahead of Sir Obnoxious himself. Congratulations on a job well done.

Feeling much too correct? Address all inquiries on the back of an old homework assignment in green or red ink to Sir Obnoxious, in care of this newspaper. Maybe he'll respond and maybe he won't. So there. Nyaah.

Meet the Bollweevil family

by Sam Moore
features staff writer

Many people consider Flanner Hall, judging by its modern architecture, a symbol of the isolation of the modern age. They imagine Flanner as a cold, impersonal dorm where you're lucky if someone speaks to you. I decided to live at Flanner after a weekend stay during my senior year in high school.

I reported to my room on the 7th floor on the Friday of freshman orientation. I met my roommate, and the other four freshmen that shared our six-man suite. Over the next few days we ventured out and met the other freshmen in the section. Once we had had a chance to adjust to classes, we attended our first section meeting at which the seniors were friendly, if not understandably distant. This calm, predictable, routine beginning in Flanner was no indication of what was to come.

As I didn't take Chemistry 115, I was sleeping soundly on Emil Eve, when suddenly, there was the distinct odor of baby powder in the room. The upperclassmen were using a blow-dryer to blow the powder into our room. My roommate awoke, and tried to turn on the lights. When they didn't turn on, we realized our assailants had planned this attack carefully. An attempt to open the door would have also been in vain, it had been pennied shut. Perhaps that was for the best. I later found out that beyond that door were 15 upperclassmen armed with shaving cream and ready to fire on sight of a freshman. Thus without too much difficulty, I had survived "Freshman Orientation" and earned the disinction of being a Bollweevil.

The origin of the Bollweevils was during the 1979-80 school year, when Paul Derenzi, '82, decided to kick off a section meeting with what came to be known as the joke: "What eats cotton and rides a motorcycle? -- Evil Bollweevil." And thus, the birth of the Bollweevils. A member of this new breed would be a daring, intelligent, trustworthy, athletic man, a noble example of the Notre Dame male.

As the semester passed, the other freshmen and I progressed in our Bollweevil education. We became familiar with the Bollweevil joke, we awaited the Bollweevil Bowl (played against our rival section, 7A) with ferocious determination, most importantly, we began to enjoy a sense of unity, a bond that lasted through both the good times and the bad. This new unity meant that each Bollweevil got praise for doing well at something, consolation if a misfortune or tragedy struck, or abuse if one dressed "weird". And back in the old days, when section parties were tolerated, we hosted bashes. There we would drink, dance, embarrass ourselves at times and, after the bash, we would mello out and reminisce about our favorite moments of the party.

One of the highlights of the Bollweevil year was, and is, our raucous Christmas party. It's a semi-formal affair that features the legendary "Christmas play." This play features upperclassmen as they hilariously roast their fellow Bollweevils through theatre. Our guests, who come by invitation only, enjoy the revelry and a great time is had by all.

Life is change, and change hit the Bollweevils as hard as it does anyone. One Bollweevil graduated and a few others left the section for elsewhere. Nevertheless, sophomore year arrived, we changed locales and we had a new freshman group to train in Bollweevilism. This time, we were the ones wreaking havoc during "freshman orientation". Again, the same comradery developed, which in a year of transition and indecision, was a relieving constant. The freshmen brought a welcome diversity to the section, this balanced well with the tradition provided by the elders, especially Head Bollweevil Mark Primich, '84.

A Bollweevil section meeting rivals "The David Letterman Show" for fun and entertainment. Usually held in the Red Room, named so because of the room's bright red carpet, the meeting opens with, of course, the section joke. Then, we proceed to such important issues as electing a new section leader. After the meeting ends, we might enjoy the cultured pleasures of an activity such as the section pile-on.

Now it is my junior year. There are many differences between last year and this year. I propose that we measure years in terms of Before Policy (B.P.), and After Policy (A.P.). In this year I A.P., the cocky sophomores of 1982-83 are now seniors and preparing for upcoming LSAT's, this year's sophomores have built a lounge to rival the Red Room, and this year's "freshman orientation" was too tame. But the Bollweevils carry on and will, indeed, must survive. A student's lifestyle should entail a minimum of loneliness. The Bollweevils are a family. Nothing more need describe us.

Not just a student center

by Anne Garibaldi
features staff writer

Old buildings have their secrets, their own special ivy-covered pasts. Notre Dame has its share of such structures, each with its own story. One building with a unique history is Lafortune Student Center.

Lafortune was once Notre Dame's science building, known as Science Hall. It was constructed in 1883, at a time when the University was defining new directions. The decision to build Science Hall was made under the influence of Father John A. Zahm, Holy Cross Provincial. Because science was becoming increasingly important in the world, Father Zahm felt it should play a larger role in the University curriculum.

With the construction of Science Hall, science became the first academic discipline at Notre Dame to have its own research and instruction facilities. The Hall housed classrooms and laboratories for physics, chemistry, botany, physiology, zoology, geology, mineralogy, mechanical engineering, and photography. In addition, the center of the building, now the lobby of Lafortune, was a museum containing various scientific specimens, including rare zoological and geological specimens.

Many important experiments were carried out at Science Hall. Father Zahm's brother, Albert, was very interested in the mechanics of flight. He spent many hours at Science Hall developing models of gliders. To test his theories he suspended his models on a fifty foot cable from the ceiling of the museum. His assistant would test fly the models around the museum. During one flight, the assistant had to put out his feet to prevent himself from crashing into the wall. The next morning, Brother Benedict, the Science Hall curator, found the footprints high up on the wall. Brother Benedict decided that only the devil could walk along the wall. He immediately sprinkled the entire building with holy water to expurgate the "evil spirit."

Albert Zahm's aerodynamic exploits were not confined to the interior of Science Hall. He launched the first man-carrying glider from the building's roof. The knowledge gained from his experiments contributed a great deal to the aeronautical science which later made the Wright Brothers' flight possible.

The roof of Science Hall was also the site of another technological "first." In 1895 Dr. Jerome J. Green became the first American to send a wireless message. The message was sent from the roof of Science Hall to Hoynes Hall at Saint Mary's College.

Many students and future scientific pioneers, including Julius Nieuwland, the discoverer of synthetic rubber, were trained at Science Hall. Even as Science Hall played an important role at Notre Dame, eventually there became a need for greater scientific facilities than the Hall could provide. In 1953 the Hall began a new chapter in its history when it was converted, with the assistance of an unrestricted gift from Joseph A. Lafortune, into the present Lafortune Student Center.

The Observer/Paul Kramer

Sports Briefs

Monday, September 24, 1984 — page 8

Observer Sports Briefs are accepted Monday through Friday until 4 p.m. at The Observer office on the third floor of LaFortune. Briefs must be written clearly. — The Observer

The Off-Campus hockey team will be meeting from 12-1 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the ACC. Team members should bring their skates. — The Observer

Ohio State beats Iowa in Big Ten football play

Associated Press

Tailback Keith Byars of Ohio State had wondered for the past 12 months what it might have been had he been able to play the entire game against Iowa last year.

Byars found out Saturday much to the dismay of the Iowa Hawkeyes who fell before the fifth-ranked Buckeyes 45-26 in a Big Ten opener.

The 6-2, 233-pound junior rushed 23 times for 120 yards and touchdowns of 50 and 7 yards. He caught 5 passes for 55 yards, including one for 14 yards and a touchdown from Mike Tomczak. And he completed a 35-yard pass for a touchdown.

Last year at Iowa City, Byars rushed for 98 yards in the first half but missed the second half because of an injury as Iowa won 20-14.

"I felt some redemption in this game," said Byars, who has expressed the wish of winning the Heisman trophy twice. "I was wondering a whole year if I had played the whole game if the outcome might have been different."

Defending champion Illinois, 16th-ranked Michigan, Purdue and Northwestern also posted Big Ten triumphs Saturday.

Illinois, 2-0 in the conference and 2-1 overall, slugged Michigan State 40-7. Michigan took advantage of Wisconsin mistakes for a 20-14 triumph. Purdue slugged Minnesota 34-10, and Northwestern rallied for a 40-37 decision over Indiana.

Michigan State Coach George Perles might have led to his team's downfall at Champaign. Perles recently said Illinois Coach Mike White should have been fired following NCAA investigations that landed the Illini on probation.

White underplayed any revenge motive and attributed much of the victory to an aroused defense that blanked the Spartans in the second half while Illinois was scoring 30 points.

Wisconsin turned the ball over to Michigan five times on fumbles, but Wolverine Coach Bo Schembechler said: "We were not lucky. We hit pretty hard. I didn't see anybody feeling sorry for me when I turned it over to Washington five times."

"That was a gutsy victory for us," said Schembechler, who lauded the play of Jamie Morris. Morris rushed for 138 yards and caught four passes for 45 yards.

"It's frustrating," Wisconsin Coach Dave McClain said. "You can't have five fumbles and one interception against Michigan."

Ray Wallace, a defensive back who was switched to tailback, rushed for 158 yards and three touchdowns to lead Purdue past Minnesota.

Payton passes Harris

Seahawks hand Chicago first loss

Associated Press

The Seattle Seahawks knocked the Chicago Bears from the undefeated ranks yesterday, while San Francisco and Miami kept their unbeaten streaks alive in National Football League play.

While suffering a 38-9 loss, Chicago's Walter Payton moved past Seattle's Franco Harris as the No. 2 rusher in NFL history behind Jimmy Brown.

Payton rushed for 116 yards on 24 carries, giving him 12,091 yards to Brown's 12,312. Harris was held to 23 yards in 14 carries, putting his yardage at 12,032.

Quarterback Dave Krieg, bouncing back from a poor first half, scored from three yards out and combined with Eric Lane on a 55-yard score against Chicago. The Seattle defense accounted for its three other touchdowns — Keith Simpson and Terry Jackson running back interceptions and Joe Nash recovering a fumble in the end zone.

Both teams are 3-1.

In other games, San Francisco defeated Philadelphia 21-9, Miami belted Indianapolis 44-7, the Los Angeles Rams topped Cincinnati 24-14, Dallas beat Green Bay 20-6, Denver dumped Kansas City 21-0, the New York Giants nipped Tampa Bay 17-14, Atlanta crushed Houston 42-10, Minnesota edged Detroit 29-28, the New York Jets got by Buffalo 28-26, Cleveland upset Pittsburgh 20-10, New Orleans downed St. Louis 34-24 and Washington beat New England 26-10.

San Diego, 2-1, plays the Los Angeles Raiders, 3-0, tomorrow night.

San Francisco's Matt Cavanaugh, replacing the injured Joe Montana at quarterback, completed 17 of 34 passes for 252 yards, including three touchdowns, and no interceptions. His touchdown passes went 35 yards to Roger Craig, two yards to Freddie Solomon, and 51 yards to Dwight Clark. The 49ers, 4-0, led only 14-9 after three quarters before Cavanaugh connected with Clark, sending the Eagles to their third loss in four games.

Dan Marino connected with Mark Duper on 80- and five-yard scoring plays and Pete Johnson, recently acquired from San Diego, scored from one-yard out to give the Dolphins a 4-0 record and drop Indianapolis to 1-3.

Marino completed 14 of 29 passes for 257 yards and now has 12 touchdowns passes for the season.

Jeff Kemp, making his debut as Rams' quarterback in place of injured Vince Ferragamo, combined with Ron Brown on a 52-yard touchdown to give the Rams a 14-7 lead in the third quarter and Mike Lansford added 29-yard field goal for a 17-7 advantage. The Bengals, 0-4, bounced back to make it 17-14 on Ken Anderson's 10-yard touchdown toss to Cris Collinsworth, but the Rams, 2-2, clinched it on Mike Guman's 43-yard return of an on-side kick.

Kemp, a fourth-year pro, completed 13 of 23 for 205 yards without an interception. The Rams' Eric Dickerson rushed for 89 yards but lost three fumbles before leaving with an injured wrist.

Dallas needed a big boost from its defense to down Green Bay. Safety Michael Downs registered two sacks and blocked an extra point and cornerback Everson Walls intercepted two passes.

Tony Dorsett and Timmy Newsome scored on short runs and Rafael Septien booted two field goals for the Cowboys, 3-1. Green Bay is 1-3.

Denver, 3-1, got 139 yards rushing, including a six-yard touchdown from Sam Winder and Mike Harden ran back an interception 45 yards for a touchdown against Kansas City, 2-

2. Rick Parros scored the Broncos' other touchdown.

Phil Simms' second touchdown pass of the game, a 21-yarder to Zeke Mowatt, earned the Giants, 3-1, their victory over Tampa Bay, 1-3. Simms earlier combined with Bobby Johnson on a 21-yarder. Lawrence Taylor had four of the Giants' five sacks.

Steve Bartkowski threw three touchdown passes and Gerald Riggs scored twice on short plunges as Atlanta extended Houston's league-record road losing streak to 20 games. Art Cox combined with Bartkowski on scoring plays of 23 and 16 yards and Billy "White Shoes" Johnson on a 25-yarder.

Atlanta evened its record at 2-2, while the Oilers fell to 0-4.

Jan Stenerud kicked five field goals — 35, 32, 37, 34 and 19 yards as Minnesota recovered three second-half Detroit fumbles. The Lions got four touchdown passes from Gary Danielson. The Vikings are 2-2, the Lions 1-3.

Stenerud's 34-yarder with 2:07 remaining proved to be the difference.

Pat Ryan combined with Wesley Walker on three scoring passes to lead the Jets, 3-1, past the Bills, 0-4. Three field goals by Joe Daniello pulled Buffalo to within two points in the third quarter, but Ryan's fourth-quarter 35-yarder to Walker stood up for the winning margin as the Bills scored later on a 31-yard pass play from Joe Ferguson to Julius Dawkins.

Cleveland, 1-3, broke into the victory column by overcoming a 7-0 halftime deficit to Washington. Paul McDonald had 15 completions in 28 tries for 293 yards, including touchdowns to Boyce Green and Duriel Harris. Pittsburgh fell to 2-2 as Steeler quarterback David Woodley hit on only nine of 25 passes for 163 yards.

Classifieds

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center, accepts classified advertising from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Observer Saint Mary's office, located on the third floor of Haggard College Center, accepts classifieds from 12:30 p.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or by mail. Charge is 10 cents per five characters per day.

NOTICES

Are you in need of FINANCIAL AID? Leadership Training! Challenge! Adventure! SCHOLARSHIPS! See LTC Bob Skinner or CPT Anne Rieman in the ROTC Building. (239-6264)

Are you in need of FINANCIAL AID? Leadership Training! Challenge! Adventure! SCHOLARSHIPS! See LTC Bob Skinner or CPT Anne Rieman in the ROTC Building. (239-6264)

EXPERT TYPING 277-8534 after 5:30

TYPING AVAILABLE. 287-4082.

BOOKS BOUGHT, SOLD AND TRADED!! Present this ad and receive an extra 10% off store books. PANDORA'S BOOKS 937 South Bend Ave. 233-2342

EXPERT TYPING DONE IN MY HOME. CALL MRS. COKER 233-7009.

0

Paveat emptor THERE IS ONLY ONE TOMINO!

LOST/FOUND

LOST: KEYS, Coat of Arms key ring; Room 259; Mark x1154

FOUND: Tortoise shell glasses in pink Pearle Vision Center case. Found at Madeleva shuttle stop. Sept. 20. Call 284-5136.

LOST: Wooden Chain near the handicapped parking space in front of the Law School. If found please call John Mauel at 288-8057 or bring it to the Law School.

LOST: KEYS ON "ND" RING AT GATE 10 ACC OR FITZ. 2ND FLOOR. CALL TIM x2543.

FOUND: pendant with diamond call Steve at 2647-need description

WANTED

SOPHOMORES! Interested in becoming an Army Officer? Interested in Scholarships? See LTC Bob Skinner or CPT Anne Rieman in the ROTC Building. (239-6264)

I need a ride to East Lansing Friday, Sept. 28 as early as possible. Returning Sunday Sept. 30 whenever. Call me at 283-1810. PLEASE!

FOR SALE

student car for sale $200-50 Dan at 272-6457

TONIMO, the diary of a search that lasted three years.

ICE HOCKEY EQUIPMENT (COMPLETE SET-SKATES) PHONE STEVE 2742

DESPERATELY need ride to MIZZOU; if you can help, call Kim 4174

TICKETS

I NEED 2 MIAMI TIX. CALL DAVE D. AT 1801.

Need One Penn State Student Ticket. Call Cheryl x4392 (SMC)

Need Miami tickets. Will trade South Carolina. Call John at the cave, 3467.

MIAMI TIX- I NEED THREE STUD OR GA. DESPERATE- MONEY IS NO OBJECT!! DAVE x4057

NEED 2 OR 4 MIAMI GA'S, PLEASE CALL TIMO AT 287-8264

Need 2 GA Air Force TIX. Call Martha at 284-5120

I need 7 Miami Tickets. If you can help, please call Liza 5463 (SMC).

Notre Dame Alum will pay $100 for 6 AIR FORCE GA's. Please call 277-8653.

FACT: The Air Force game is coming up soon.

FACT: Two people I know are coming up soon.

FACT: They don't have tickets, but want to see the game.

FACT: I need two tickets.

FACT: My name is MATT. I carry a badge.

CONCLUSION: If you don't call 2577 soon and sell me two GA's to the Air Force game, I'm going to do something terrible to your dog.

MY GRANDPARENTS WILL COME VISIT ME IF I CAN GET THEM 2 PENN STATE GA TIX. PLEASE HELP! $$$ Colleen 3735

PLEASE HELP MY IRISH CATHOLIC GRANDMOTHER has vowed to see an ND game before she dies so I need a S.C. G.A. for OCT 20 call Cindy 2933

MIAMI TICKETS NEEDED 2 Miami GA's needed. Call Mike at 1740.

NEED 2 MIAMI GA'S CALL PETER -4606

PERSONALS

The poets and the pipers
Have got their motives;
You've got yours, no doubt,
And so the game continues;
That's what it's all about.

— Triumph

!!!! I NEED MIAMI TICKETS !!!!! ANNE 2822

Marc Ramirez -- Madder Than Mad In '84

OAR HOUSE: COLD BEER & LIQUOR, CARRY OUT TO 3 A.M. U.S. 31 N., ONE BLOCK SOUTH OF HOLIDAY INN.

Look out world here she comes. Tracy Bolger is 21.

I'LL DIE 4 YOU

I'LL DIE 4 YOU

I'LL DIE 4 YOU

Would you die for me?

SENIORS

If you want to go to NEW ORLEANS for the Senior Class Trip, BUT HAVE NOT Paid your Deposit. Well, PLEASE! Call Bill at 288-4637 if you want the Deposit!!!

HETEROSEXUAL HUMAN(S) WANTED. SHARE EXPENSES ON LUXURY 2 BDRM APT. CALL !!! 256-6676 (Except during: Fri. Night, or Sat. & Sun. Afternoon)

The biggest supporter of our dear President, R. Reagan, is 19 today. Call her at 2612 to find out how she really feels about her idol.

CATHIE, SKIP AND MARK - best of luck on Tuesday with Genetics...you deserve it!! KNOCK EM DEAD!

WISHING LISA & JOAN THE HAPPIEST OF BIRTHDAYS!! CON AMOR DE MATT

Open your eyes

And see the world that stands before you now

Open your eyes

And see the world that stands in front of you

-Asia

OSH!! Excuse me? All Chieftains want to wish you a Happy Birthday! Have a great PARDOOSKI, ACE! Join us for SUDS and SUDS! Love, Betty Crocker and Julia Child P.S. Meet Chat at CORBY'S!

DESPERATELY NEED RIDE TO MIZZOU: Call Kim 4174

don PEPPI pilger bob kEMPer have a HEPPY day!

First there was a car, then there was a microscope, now it is an R.A....CONIMO STRIKES AGAIN!

SOPHOMORES

Make your contribution to the Class of '87!! Submit a design idea for the official class t-shirt to Chris Britt, rm. 161 Dillon. The design should be in one color and include a back and front

But I won't let others live in hell As we divide against each other And fight amongst ourselves... A new heart is what I need Oh God, make it bleed... Is there nothing left? --"Like A Song" J2

DILLON is a joke. Enough said.

Dillon is the only Animal House with all sheep.

RICH LOVES ROSE and SCOTT LOVES SUE but RUDY and VI...THEY LOVE WHO? jamonit

To the person who stole my "Investments" book out of my backpack which I had placed in a podium in a Hayes-Healey classroom so a THIEF like YOU would not STEAL it, I hope you and all your family choke to death on your Thanksgiving dinner! (Inside MY book, on the first page, it says who I am and where I live. Now, why don't you just tell me who you are and where you live?).

IRISH GARDENS
IRISH GARDENS
ORDER CORSAGES AND WRAPPED FLOWERS IN ADVANCE
IRISH GARDENS
IRISH GARDENS

hey Pat,
Where have you been holing up, scruff? Wanted to wish you good luck in person, but I haven't been able to find you. How about celebrating afterward? (will I have to call you Doc then?!) Good luck!!!
Thumper
p.s. don't look so surprised!

SENIORS STILL UNDECIDED ABOUT THE SENIOR TRIP? WOULD $25 OFF THE PRICE HELP? TAKE OVER MY $100 DEPOSIT FOR $25! CALL KATHY - 2661.

DON'T LET GRAVITY GET YOU DOWN! Join the L-S Society. We are dedicated to the development of the final frontier, SPACE. Come see a slide show, A Case For Space, which tells how it can be done. It will be shown at 7pm Monday, Sept. 24 in the LaFortune Little Theatre by G.E. Canough. Admission FREE. See you there.

HAVE YOU HUGGED YOUR CERENKOV COUNTER TODAY?

TO THE PUREST VISIONARY IN ROCK HISTORY, YOU'VE SHOWN US THAT IT AIN'T NO SIN TO BE GLAD YOU'RE ALIVE AND YOU'VE GIVEN US A RARE GLIMPSE AT EXCELLENCE UNPARALLELED. YOUR STRENGTH IS DEVASTATING IN THE FACE OF ALL THESE ODDS... HAPPY 8-DAY BOSSMAN

RICK. WHAT'S YOUR PROB PROB PROBLEMAGE?

Paul: "We want each other oh so much Why must we play this game?" Why deny it? You proved you can't resist

MY LOVE-Thanks for the four days here - I had a great time. JENNIFER

ALANON/ALATEEN is alcohol a problem in your family? Are you affected by someone else's drinking? Maybe we can help Call 239 5085

Help! I am in need of a ride to or near Minn. on the weekend of Sept. 28 will share expenses. Call 284-5524

IT'S YOUR DAY BIRTHDAY QUEENS LISA & JOAN LOVE KATHLEEN

Riders needed to IU Bloomington 9/28-9/30. Call Kathleen SMC5162.

ATTN: SMC JUNIORS THOSE INTERESTED IN BEING CHAIRPERSON FOR GRADUATION OR SENIOR TRIP CO-CHAIRPERSON, PICK UP AN APPLICATION AT HCC DESK. PLEASE TURN IN APPLICATIONS BY SEPT. 27TH. QUESTIONS CALL JANET SMC-5341

AP is a dirty word.

I'm dizzy in the head;
I'm feeling bad;
The things you say
Have got me real mad;
I'm getting funny dreams again and again;
I know what it means, but
I can't explain;
I think it's love;
I said to you that I feel blue;
But I can't explain;
Yeah, hear what I say, girl.
— The Who

Evil lurks where you least expect it.

The Observer/Tom Bradley

Lester Flemons looks for an opening in the line, following a block by Tom Monoban. Flemons and Monoban were two of the many Irish reserves who saw action in the lopsided victory over Colorado.

Soccer

continued from page 12

three Irish defenders and landed at the feet of an unmarked Illini midfielder. Irish keeper Mark Steranka was beaten cleanly to the left corner.

Notre Dame coach Dennis Grace was clearly frustrated by the Illinois goal.

"Every time we go up by two," said Grace, "we lay back, make mistakes, and then they score. It drives me nuts. I told the boys I'd rather just win 1-0."

The second half wasn't much smoother than the first. The Irish missed several chances early, including a missed penalty kick by Szanto, and the Illini only attacked on Irish defensive errors.

Despite the ragged play, the only goal of the half was sharply executed. Richard Herdegen, Irish center forward, knifed through on a set play to nail a Steve Lowney corner kick into the back of the net. Herdegen once again displayed his superior ability to head the ball, a skill that has accounted for many of the goals in his career.

Grace admitted that he substituted more often than usual because the game with Indiana was only a day away.

"I didn't want to have my starters in there for 90 percent of the game, playing at 100 percent, with a team as awesome as Indiana only two days away," said the Irish coach.

The fact that many younger players saw action may account for some of the shaky play, as they have to learn to adapt their own styles to those of their teammates.

Coach runs onto field, tackles opposing player

Associated Press

STORRS, Conn. — It apparently was more than Darrell Coulter could bear.

After two lopsided losses in previous weeks and down by a 35-7 score to host Connecticut, the former star quarterback and now assistant coach for Morgan State bolted onto the field Saturday and tackled a Connecticut runner headed for a touchdown.

"I guess it was just something that built up inside him," Morgan State head Coach Jim Phillips said after apologizing to Connecticut Coach Tom Jackson in the locker room.

The runner, tailback Greg Morrison, was awarded a 71-yard touchdown.

"I asked him (Coulter) about it and he had tears in his eyes," Phillips said. "It was something he did instinctively. If he could run it back in his mind, he would erase it."

Coulter wouldn't comment after the game.

The incident came late in the game, the first meeting between the two schools.

The long distance winners.

Longest Walking-On-Hands

In 1900, Johann Hurlinger of Austria walked on his hands from Vienna to Paris in 55 daily 10-hour stints, covering a distance of 871 miles.

AT&T long distance wins hands down when it comes to immediate credit for incomplete calls and wrong numbers.

Longest Bicycle Race

The longest one-day "massed start" race is the 551-620 km (342-385 miles) Bordeaux-Paris event. In 1981, Herman van Springel averaged 47.86 km/hr (29.32 mph) covering 584.5 km (362.4 miles) in 13 hr. 35 min. 18 sec.

AT&T long distance lets the good times roll for you, too —with discounts of up to 60% every day.

From the Guinness Book of World Records © 1983 by Sterling Publishing Company, Inc., New York, NY

Nobody can match AT&T for savings and service:

- 40% discounts evenings, 60% discounts nights and weekends.
- Immediate credit for incomplete calls and wrong numbers.
- Calls from anywhere to anywhere, anytime.
- 24-hour operator assistance.
- Quality that sounds as close as next door.

It's a winning combination. Why settle for less?

Visit the display in The Hammes Notre Dame Book Store.

The more you hear the better we sound.™

For details on exciting new plans—ideal for off campus students—visit the display in the campus bookstore

SOME COURSES IMPROVE SCORES — WE IMPROVE STUDENTS, TOO!

BUILD YOUR SKILLS TO BOOST YOUR SCORE!

PREPARE FOR:

LSAT

- * test-tape library
- * reinforcement test
- * homestudy packet

CLASSES STARTING IN OCTOBER

1717 E. South Bend Ave. 272-4135

PLANTS...PLANTS...PLANTS...PLANTS...PLANTS

FOR YOUR PLANT NEEDS

IRISH GARDENS
Mon - Sat 12:30 - 5:30

DIAL 283-4242

PLANTS...PLANTS...PLANTS...PLANTS...PLANTS

A DRAMATIC NEW CONCEPT IN SUN TANNING!

Preserve your tan with our NEW tanning bed

TAN-HAWAIIAN
sun tanning salon

277-7026

J.M.S. PLAZA

4609 Grape Road

Mishawaka

Individual dressing rooms and booths for complete privacy

Bloom County

Berke Breathed

Tank McNamara

Jeff Millar & Bill Hinds

Psycho Chicken

Suarez

The Far Side

Gary Larson

Campus

- 12 p.m. — Lecture, Congressman Henry Hyde (R. Illinois), Response to Gov. Cuomo on the Subject of Religion and Politics, Law School Lounge, Sponsored by Thomas J. White Center on Law and Government.
- 12 - 1 p.m. — Organizational Meeting, O-C Hockey, ACC Ice Rink.
- 3:30 - 4:30 p.m. — Computer Minicourse, JCL, Third Session, CCMB, Available to the Public, Free.
- 3:30 - 4:30 p.m. — Computer Minicourse, Macintosh, First Session, Room 104 CCMB, Call Betty (239-5604) to Register, Free.
- 4:30 p.m. — Biology Seminar, "Malaria in India: Epidemiology and Prospects of its Control," Dr. V. P. Sharma, Malaria Research Centre, Delhi, India, Room 278 Galvin Life Sciences Center, Sponsored by Dept. of Biology.
- 6:30 p.m. — Monday Night Film Series I, "Welfare," Annenberg Auditorium.
- 7 p.m. — Notre Dame L-5 Society Meeting, Slide Show Presentation on Space Colonization, Little Theatre, LaFortune, Open to Public, Free.
- 8 p.m. — Adopt-A-Transfer Kickoff Party, Senior Alumni Club, No ID's Required.
- 8 p.m. — Meeting, World Hunger Coalition, Meeting & Film, Room 124 Center for Social Concerns.
- 9:30 p.m. — Monday Night Film Series II, "Philadelphia Story," Annenberg Auditorium.

TV Tonight

- | | | |
|------------|----|---|
| 6:00 p.m. | 16 | NewsCenter 16 |
| | 22 | 22 Eyewitness News |
| 6:30 p.m. | 16 | M*A*S*H |
| | 22 | Family Feud |
| 7:00 p.m. | 16 | TV Bloopers & Practical Jokes |
| | 22 | Movie - Mistral's Daughter |
| | 28 | Call To Glory |
| 8:00 p.m. | 16 | Movie |
| | 28 | Football - San Diego vs. L.A. Raiders |
| | 34 | Evening at Pops |
| 9:00 p.m. | 34 | Great Performances - LaClemenza di Tito |
| 10:00 p.m. | 16 | NewsCenter 16 |
| | 22 | 22 Eyewitness News |
| 10:30 p.m. | 16 | Tonight Show |
| | 22 | Simon & Simon/McMillan |
| 11:00 p.m. | 28 | NewsWatch 28 |
| 11:30 p.m. | 16 | Late Night With David Letterman |
| | 28 | ABC News Nightline |
| | 34 | Movie - Now Voyager |
| 12:00 a.m. | 28 | Love Connection |
| 12:30 a.m. | 16 | All In The Family |
| 1:00 a.m. | 22 | Nightwatch |

The Daily Crossword

- | | | |
|---------------------------|-------------------------|------------------------|
| ACROSS | | |
| 1 Boxing punches | 28 Imbed | 52 Netherlands |
| 5 Orchestra section | 32 Filmdom's Sommer | 55 Spinner of yarns |
| 10 — de foie gras | 33 Transaction initials | 57 Heb. month |
| 14 Skip | 34 Cleopatra's suitor | 58 Dies — |
| 15 Noontime activity | 35 Payable | 59 Minimal |
| 16 Epochal | 36 Painter Henri | 60 Bristle |
| 17 Pundit | 38 Rowing item | 61 — for (summon) |
| 18 Emcees | 39 Skillful | 62 Irregularly |
| 20 Consign | 41 Ridge or leaf | 63 Weight system |
| 22 Mollify | 42 Palindromic name | |
| 23 " — Misbehavin' " | 43 Shellac | DOWN |
| 24 Papal headdress | 44 Croissant | 1 Iturbide |
| 25 Platigorsky instrument | 45 Years | 2 " — for All Seasons" |
| 27 Brut relative | 46 Hawaiian feasts | 3 Gascons |
| | 48 Asset | 4 Aseptic |
| | 49 Funny | |

- | | |
|--------------------------|-------------------------|
| 31 Beginners | 47 Anoint old style |
| 33 Cheshire — | 48 Ottoman government |
| 34 " — not what your..." | 49 Monkshood |
| 36 Manhattan's buyer | 50 Horse |
| 37 — Salvador | 51 — Bator |
| 40 — Sesame for one | 52 Dame Myra |
| 42 Eye expert | 53 Defense pact acronym |
| 44 Revelle man | 54 Wagon |
| 45 Evening | 56 Thai language |

Friday's Solution

© 1984 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All Rights Reserved 9/24/84

S.A.B. Record Store

servicing your music needs:

- tapes
- albums
- tickets

in LaFortune Student Center
Open: 10:00-4:00, Monday- Friday

this week :

DIRTY HARRY WEEK :

at the Engineering Auditorium

- | | |
|---------------------------|---------------------------|
| Tuesday- Dirty Harry | 7:00, 9:00, 11:00, $1.00 |
| Wednesday- The Enforcer | 7:00, 9:00, 11:00 $1.00 |
| Thursday- Magnum Force | 7:00, 9:15, 11:30 $1.00 |
| Fri & Sat - Sudden Impact | 7:00, 9:15, 11:30 $1.00 |

Notre Dame demolishes outmanned Colorado, 55-14

By ED DOMANSKY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame football team rolled over the Buffaloes of Colorado much like The Wave, in its initial appearance, rolled around Notre Dame Stadium.

The Irish were in need of only a win Saturday, but got much more than that, as they routed Colorado 55-14 and raised their record to 2-1.

Head coach Gerry Faust emptied the bench on the Buffaloes, who didn't score until late in the third quarter. Nearly everyone who suited up got a chance to play, as 82 of the 87 players who dressed saw action for the Irish.

Faust said his team is playing better, which may have been the understatement of the day.

"The offensive line did a pretty good job," said Faust. "Pretty good" meant giving quarterback Steve Beuerlein time to complete his first nine passes. Beuerlein played just slightly more than one quarter and left after connecting on 10 of 11 tosses for 122 yards and one touchdown.

"Everything clicked today," said Beuerlein. "You don't get days like that very often."

In fact, his throwing proficiency was better than any before in Notre Dame history. He set a new record for completion percentage (.909), breaking Rick Slager's 1976 mark of .857 (12 of 14) set against Northwestern. His nine straight completions fell just one short of tying Joe Montana and Angelo Bertelli's record of 10 consecutive completions set in 1978 and 1942, respectively.

In the rushing department, the Irish backs turned in a solid performance, picking up 212 yards.

Certainly the offense looked good, but the defense also looked extremely sharp. It held the Buffaloes to just 22 total yards in the first half. For the game, Notre Dame surrendered 235 net yards, only 71 of which came on the ground.

"We were emotionally ready," said Colorado head coach Bill McCartney. "We just were no match for them."

McCartney also made it clear that the loss of tight end Ed Reinhardt, who is in a coma in a Oregon hospital after suffering a head injury last week, had no effect on his team's play.

"Today's game had nothing to do with Ed Reinhardt's injury from an emotional standpoint," he said.

"When things got out of hand our morale went down. Defense is largely morale and when things went bad early, it really took the wind out of our sails."

Good field position also greatly aided Notre Dame throughout the game. Six of nine scoring drives started inside the Colorado 40-yard line.

Kickoff returns of 41 and 80 yards by Alonzo Jefferson and Hiawatha Francisco, respectively, showed that even the specialty teams play a valuable role.

"It used to be that teams used to be scared to come into Notre Dame Stadium and play," said tailback Allen Pinkett, "and we want to get that back."

Notre Dame started its scare tactics early by scoring less than four minutes into the game after recovering a Colorado fumble on the Buffalo's second play from scrimmage.

Pinkett's one-yard plunge five plays later and John Carney's point after put the Irish on top 7-0.

Less than three minutes later, after a short Colorado punt and a good mix of plays, Pinkett barreled four yards over two tacklers around the left side for his second touchdown of the game.

On its third possession, Notre Dame scored again when Beuerlein hit Milt Jackson in the endzone from nine yards away. The 73-yard drive was to be the longest for the Irish against Colorado, as Notre Dame benefitted from great field position all afternoon.

After a two-yard Jefferson run put Notre Dame up 28-0, Wally Kleine sacked Colorado quarterback Steve Vogel on the first play after the kickoff forcing a fumble. Greg Dingens recovered the loose ball at the Colorado 23-yard line to set up a 40-yard Carney field goal.

With Craig Keenan in at quarterback for Colorado, the Buffaloes turned the ball over again. This time Mike Haywood intercepted a Keenan aerial at the Colorado 40-yard line. Eight plays later fullback Mark Brooks pounded his way nine yards up the middle and the Irish held a convincing 38-0 halftime lead.

"I really thought we would be able to throw the ball," said Keenan. "Overall, Notre Dame's defense is very tough. They are all tall up front and they just keep coming at you."

The Notre Dame offense capitalized on six of its eight first-half possessions en route to setting a new record for points scored by a Faust team in one half.

As the second half got under way, it took the Irish just less than four minutes to add two more scores to their total.

Francisco's 80-yard return of the kickoff set up Pinkett's 13-yard burst for his third touchdown of the game. This time Hal Von Wyl added the point after.

After the Notre Dame defense pinned the Buffaloes deep in their own end, the Irish took over at the Colorado 34-yard line following a punt. Six plays later, Jefferson bolted five yards through the right side into the endzone for his second touchdown. Pat Chura's conversion increased the Irish lead to 52-0.

Colorado finally managed to light up its side of the scoreboard with less than four minutes to play in the third quarter. Fullback Anthony Weatherspoon finished off an 82-yard Buffalo charge as he bulled his way six yards into the endzone.

The Irish countered with a 21-yard Chura field goal on the first play of the fourth quarter. Lester Flemons rushed for 35 yards on seven carries and Tom Monahan dashed twice for 17 yards to set up the three pointer. That closed out the Notre Dame scoring for the day.

Colorado added its final points of the game with just over one minute remaining when the Buffaloes third quarterback of the game, Derek Marshall, hit tight end Troy Wolf on the goal line. Dave De Line added the extra point which brought the score to its final 55-14 margin.

see GAME, page 10

Alonzo Jefferson dives over from the three-yard line — highest output of the season. Ed Domansky reviews the rout of Colorado. Jefferson rushed for 43 yards, his

Illinois is victim

Soccer team wins in sloppy game

By MICHAEL FLANNERY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame soccer team raised its record to 6-0-1 Friday night with a 3-1 victory over Illinois. In an otherwise lackluster performance, the Irish converted three flashes of brilliance into three goals. Unfortunately, a defensive lapse late in the first half cost the team a shutout.

Dave Miles scored first for the Irish with a crisp header of Tom Daley's indirect kick. The score came at 37:37 of the first half.

Just seven minutes later, sweeper Dom Driano found Pat Szanto streaking in from his wing position for a breakaway. Szanto unselfishly fed freshman John Fossella for an easy goal.

The defensive breakdown occurred with just six minutes left in the first half. An Illini throw-in beat

see SOCCER, page 9

The Notre Dame soccer team lost to two-time defending national champion Indiana at Bloomington last night, 5-1. The Irish loss was their first of the season.

The Irish took the lead in the first half after Richard Herdegen scored the first goal of the game. IU tied the score at halftime at 1-1. Indiana remained unbeaten, while Notre Dame's record dropped to 6-1-1.

A full description of the game will appear in tomorrow's paper.

Irish find consistency for first time in season

By JOE BRUNETTI
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame football team has been a team of questioned identity. Before Saturday's win over Colorado Notre Dame's play had been inconsistent to say the least, but after trouncing the Buffaloes, the Irish finally showed that they can play four quarters of good football.

True, Colorado isn't a Top 20 team, but the Buffs aren't patsies like their 0-3 record indicates. Entering the game Colorado had a total offense average of 373 yards per game compared to Notre Dame's 299.5. Before Saturday's game Colorado had lost their first two games by a total of 10 points.

Saturday Notre Dame was a fine-tuned machine that played two halves of consistent, hard-nosed football. The 55-14 score suggests that the game was a rout, but the stats indicate the type of football Notre Dame is capable of playing. An efficient offense, a tough defense and errorless execution, true Irish-style football. That's what the Irish are capable of and they proved it against the Buffaloes.

Notre Dame's defense shut down a high-powered Buffalo offense that averaged 373 yards per game. At the intermission Colorado had minus 22 yards rushing and only 22 yards total offense.

The Irish secondary neutralized a Colorado air attack that averaged 313 yards a game. The big improvement in the secondary was partly due to the ability of the defensive backs to disguise their coverages

see IMPROVED, page 10

Hiawatha Francisco has his eye on this pass intended for Loy Alexander of Colorado in the fourth quarter. Francisco made the interception, and the Irish played a sticky defense, allowing the Buffaloes only 235 total yards. Joe Brunetti details the Irish improvement in his story at right.