Parietals extended at Saint Mary's

By THERESA GUARINO
Saint Mary's Executive Editor

Extensions for the existing parietals system at Saint Mary's were approved by College President John Duggan yesterday, according to Student Body President-elect Anne Marie Kollman. The approval was announced to the outgoing Board of Governance and Programming Board at a joint meeting of the two last night.

Monday through Thursday, parietals will now begin at 4 p.m. and end at 12 a.m. Each Friday, they will be in effect from 4 p.m. to 2 a.m. On Saturday, hours will be from 12 p.m. until 2 a.m., and Sunday, parietals will begin at 12 p.m. and end at 12 a.m.

Hours will vary on football weekends, when parietals will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. The new policy provides for parietals during football games, and during final exams on weekdays.

The new extensions will take effect after Easter break.

The parietals changes were first suggested last fall, when student government surveyed students for their opinions on the existing parietals policy. Survey results showed that a majority of the students were not satisfied with the existing system and would be in favor of a change.

Student Body President LeAnn Franks, Vice President for Academic Affairs Julie Strazzabosco, and Vice President for Student Affairs Kollman together took charge of the student government parietals proposal, working together with Board of Governance members for input.

"We first found out channels we had to go through," said Kollman. "We tried to cover every base in our efforts." Writing up the proposal occurred after interviews with teachers, administrators, and College staff to gather different views on changes, and any problems arising from them. Conflicts such as time changes in locking the dorms were covered in the final proposal, written by Franks, Strazzabosco, and Kollman.

All dorms will now be locked at 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The proposed changes first went to the Student Affairs Committee of the Student Affairs Council, and was approved there. The council, consisting of administrators, faculty, students, and chaired by Duggan, also passed the proposal unanimously. The new policy finally went to Duggan, and was approved by him yesterday, according to Kollman.

"I'm very pleased at how receptive the two committees we had to go through were," said Franks. "This has definitely been the

O'Neill begins final campaign to block MX missile funds

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - House Speaker Thomas O'Neill Jr. yesterday opened the final campaign by opponents of the MX missile to block release of $1.5 billion to build 21 more of the nuclear weapons.

O'Neill pledged an "all-out effort" to change the handful of votes needed to reverse the effect of a slim 219-213 pro-MX victory for President Reagan in the House on Tuesday.

A required second House vote will be taken at noon today on the long-range, intercontinental missiles, which critics say would be destroyed by the first barrage of a Soviet strategic nuclear attack.

Reagan and other supporters say the MX missiles are critical to the success of the Geneva arms control negotiations and are more accurate and powerful than the fleet of Minuteman missiles built in the 1960s.

Under a congressional decision made last fall postponing the MX battle, two votes each were required in both the House and Senate for final approval of authorization and appropriations measures.

The Senate gave its approval in identical 55-45 votes last week, so one more House vote will settle the issue for now, although still another MX fight looms on Capitol Hill this summer.

There were differing assessments among House leaders on chances for a last round defeat for the MX. Majority Leader Jim Wright, D-Texas, said yesterday the earlier House vote ended the fight.

"I don't know any reason to prolong the debate," Wright said. "I don't know any reason to believe that the vote would be substantially different on appropriations than on authorization."

O'Neill acknowledged that "it's not an easy thing to turn once" the House has voted once on an issue. But the speaker said he knows of three Republicans who have said publicly that they would vote for the authorization measure - thus showing congressional resolve for the American negotiators at the Geneva arms control talks - while opposing the spending measure. He declined to identify them.

MX foes also lobbied Democratic House members from southern agricultural states, seeking to convince them that farmers hit hard by a credit crunch would support an anti-MX vote because it helps to ease the economic crisis caused by high interest rates brought on by the federal deficit.

And at the White House yesterday, spokesman Larry Speakes said "the outcome on the MX vote tomorrow is by no means certain."

Grand jury overturns prior ruling; indicts Goetz on attempted murder

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Bernhard Goetz was indicted by a grand jury on four counts of attempted murder yesterday, a month after a first panel charged him only with illegal gun possession for shooting four youths on a subway train.

The indictment in the internationally publicized case was announced by District Attorney Robert Morgenthau one day after Goetz refused to testify before the grand jury in a dispute over how much immunity he should be granted.

The second grand jury also charged Goetz with four counts of fourth-degree assault, one count of first-degree reckless endangerment and one count of second-degree criiminal possession of a weapon.

Attempted murder is a felony with a maximum penalty of up to 25 years in prison. The assault and weapons possession charges carry up to 15 years, and the reckless endangerment charge carries up to seven years in prison.

Goetz faced up to seven years in prison on the felony gun possession indictment issued by the first grand jury.

When Morgenthau announced earlier this month that he would seek an indictment for a second time, Goetz predicted he would be cleared "no matter how many grand juries are called."

"I'm not worried," he said. "I know a jury of my peers will exonerate me again."

The shootings occurred Dec. 22 on a subway on which Goetz, the four youths and about 20 other people were riding.

Goetz shot the youths - two of them in the back - with an illegal .38-caliber handgun.

Goetz said he fired after the youths surrounded him and one of them said, "Give me $5," with his hand thrust menacingly in his pocket. Goetz, who had been robbed before, said he was only defending himself against a certain robbery and beating.

But two of the youths have said that only Canty approached Goetz, and that he merely asked, "Can I have $5?" Canty's lawyer likened it to a pandhandler's request.

Memories of Alumni Van outlast tans and hangovers

"It was fantastic," said Saint Mary's student Laura Farr. "We were so glad to have the long distance phone . . . Everybody I talked to really liked it," she said. "The bars got old really fast."

"It was a good place to meet people from Notre Dame that you didn't go down with," said freshman Mark Erpelding. It was "a good place to have orange juice in the morning," he said.

"It was very nice to have the phone. They (the volunteers at the van) were very friendly and helpful," said Saint Mary's student Kathy Bolotin.

These Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students are describing the Notre Dame Alumni Association van and those who staffed it. It was parked next to Penrod's in Ft. Lauderdale last week. Students did not travel to Ft. Lauderdale to participate in school sponsored functions. Yet, the presence of the van and those who staffed it was an enjoyable, helpful and unexpected part of the trip away from school.

This was the second year the mobile alumni office made the trek to Ft. Lauderdale. The original idea for the van and the events sponsored by the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's alumni associations arose from an incident which occurred in March 1983 at The Button in Ft. Lauderdale. A Notre Dame student participated in a "Wet Willie" contest and was suspended and brought before the dean of students. Following this, there was a call for alternative events during spring break.

Chuck Lennon, executive director of the Notre Dame Alumni Association, said he and Father Beauchamp, currently executive assistant to the president, asked themselves the question, "What can we do to become involved?" Lennon called the Notre Dame Club of Ft. Lauderdale. He met with then Student Body President Brian Callaghan and other students. Saint Mary's Alumni Association also was included in the planning.

The Student Alumni Relations Group also worked on the project. Even the city fathers of Ft. Lauderdale were consulted.

Last year's trip to Ft. Lauderdale by the Alumni Association van was the culmination of this brainstorming by students, alumni, and Ft. Lauderdale officials. Lennon said last year's trip was very successful and led to an expansion of the planned events and services. He said the concept of an "oasis" in Ft. Lauderdale is not stagnant, but rather a "progression of ideas." Suggestions from last year's pilot program were implemented this year, such as free orange juice and newspapers.

Frank Lipo

Copy Chief

Highlights of the week were: the Watts telephone line, where students were encouraged to make free phone calls anywhere in the continental United States; a party which 460 students attended; a boat trip on the intra-coastal waterway; a snorkel trip to Key Largo; a Yankees-Orioles spring training game; and complimentary sandwiches, fruit and soft drinks for the ride home.

Money for the events came from many sources. The Alumni Board of the Notre Dame Alumni Association approved a budget of approximately $5000. The Coca-Cola Company donated $3000 in cash and $1000 worth of Coke. The Student Activities Board bought the baseball tickets. Saint Mary's Alumnae Association bought the orange juice and newspapers. The trips and the party were partially paid for by the students.

Many of the events and services were a result of feedback from last year, said Lennon. Approximately 650 students registered at the van. Ed Leonard, a sophomore, was on duty in the morning, while Notre Dame and Saint Mary's alumni staffed the van in the afternoon and evening. Both Lennon and Kay Cochrane, associate alumnae director at Saint Mary's, made the trip to Ft. Lauderdale.

"Next year the whole spring break timetable is different. Therefore, we're open for suggestions," said Lennon, referring to the future of the Ft. Lauderdale project. "We're there strictly as a service," said Lennon. "I think we belong there . . . if the students (think we) do," said Lennon. Those students who participated in the events and services of the alumni van and the hospitality of those who paid for and staffed it, hopefully will not let that particular memory of Ft. Lauderdale fade as quickly as their tans. The "oasis" it provided was a credit to Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. It is a service which should continue.

Medium-range missile talks begin

Associated Press

GENEVA, Switzerland - U.S. and Soviet negotiators met for two hours yesterday for the first detailed superpower talks on strategic nuclear weapons in 15 months. A bargaining session on medium-range missiles was set for today.

Yesterday's session opened just after the House of Representatives voted $1.5 billion to build 21 more MX nuclear missiles, and as NATO defense ministers announced unanimous approval of U.S. research into space-based missile defenses and support for Washington's position at the Geneva talks.

Soviet chief delegate Victor P. Karpov declined comment on the talks' progress as he left the offices of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, where the meeting was held.

Karpov did not answer a reporter who asked whether the MX missile was discussed in the session. Both sides have agreed to keep details of the talks confidential.

The series of detailed negotiations began Tuesday with a meeting at the Soviet mission by the group on space and defensive weapons, in which the U.S. team is led by chief delegate Max Kampelman.

Negotiators specializing in medium-range rockets were scheduled to open discussions at the Soviet mission today.

A schedule for next week's meetings is expected to be announced after today's session.

Reagan administration officials had said support for the MX and the anti-missile research program, popularly known as "Star Wars," would strengthen the hand of U.S. negotiators in Geneva.

MX missiles are designed with 10 nuclear warheads and can travel distances of more than 8,000 miles.

Kampelman, chief negotiator for the space arms set of talks as well as U.S. team leader, had been recalled from the arms talks to try to sway members of Congress who were reluctant to vote for the MX money.

He returned to Geneva on Monday, two hours before the opening of the first discussions on space and defense weapons.

New department forms as bio, microbio merge

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame will merge its biology and microbiology departments effective next fall.

Unanimously approved by the faculty of both existing departments, the formation of the department of biological sciences is intended to dissolve the boundaries imposed in recent years upon biological subfields such as ecology, physiology and cell biology. Many of the recent rapid gains in these specialized fields have been accomplished by teaching and research efforts that combine information from the various subfields.

"When this merger is finally executed, a new dimension in the rapid growth of the biological sciences at Notre Dame will have been achieved," said Francis Castellino, Kleiderer/Pezold professor of biochemistry and dean of the College of Science.

"A cohesive faculty will be in place, in a single department, where its members can more effectively pursue their interests that encompass the span of biological organization from the molecular to the organismal levels. Excellent programs in teaching and research are a natural consequence of such a restructuring, which effectively blends the talents of so many to a common goal," Castellino said.

Students enrolled in the department of biological sciences will have a greater choice of courses because restrictive inter-departmental requirements will be eliminated.

Morton Fuchs, chairman of the existing departments of biology and of microbiology, said the merger will mean a faculty roster of 28 full-time teaching and research personnel. The merger will eliminate the undergraduate and graduate degree programs in microbiology, Fuchs said, but explained a microbiology concentration that includes existing courses will be available.

The merger gained approval recently from both the University's Academic Council and the College of Science Council.

Seniors attending this weekend's Senior Formal at the Palmer House in Chicago can expect a capacity crowd of 976 students. Because of the amount of participation, tight security is planned to discourage the attendance of those who have not purchased formal bids.

Special meal tickets must be obtained in order to be seated for dinner, according to Steve Smith, one of four committee chairmen. These tickets, along with flowers, may be picked up on Saturday afternoon between one and three, outside the

Students can check in any time Friday or Saturday. John Verfurth, Maureen Karnatz and Caroline George, also committee chairmen, advised "the earlier the better" because of expected long lines between two and seven.

Seniors may attend the cocktail hour before the dinner and dance. The hour begins at 6 p.m. with entertainment provided by a pianist and violinist. Dinner will follow immediately, with champagne served at each table. There will be a cash bar during both the cocktail hour and dinner/dance.

Check-out must be completed by 1 p.m. Sunday. Those who fail to comply will be charged the regular room rate of $145. Students who cannot meet this deadline should contact the manager.

Because of Palmer House deadlines, no refunds or changes will be made. Complete details are available in the booklet distributed by the Senior Formal Committee.

Last year's attendance was 726 students.

Gorbachev plans reply to Reagan

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev plans to reply to President Reagan's summit proposal and their foreign ministers will likely discuss summit arrangements when they meet in mid-May in Austria, European socialist leaders said Tuesday.

"Mr. Gorbachev told us he was going to answer Mr. Reagan's letter, and we hope it (the reply) will be positive," Kalevi Sorsa, the prime minister of Finland, told a news conference.

Walter Hacker of the Austrian Socialist Party, who also attended a Kremlin audience with Gorbachev last Friday, said he believes Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko will "discuss arrangements for a summit" when they meet in Vienna at the 30th anniversary of the treaty marking the emergence of post-World War II Austria.

"We will reply (to Reagan), we are polite people," Hacker quoted Gorbachev as saying.

Chemicals escaping from plants, New Congressional survey shows

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Nearly every chemical company responding in detail to a congressional survey said its plants are leaking "significant levels" of known and suspected cancer-causing substances into the air, a House subcommittee chairman said Tuesday.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., also said the large companies providing data on leaks reported routine releases of 204 chemicals that industry experts consider to be "proven hazards" to human health.

Waxman, speaking at a health subcommittee hearing attended by chemical industry executives, noted that only five of the substances now are regulated by the Environmental Protection Agency.

He said finding this many toxics considered hazardous by the chemical industry is "a serious condemnation of the EPA's abdication of responsibility to protect the public health."

"Many of the routine release rates are extremely high, far greater than we expected even in the unregulated world of air pollution," said Waxman, whose subcommittee got detailed replies from 54 of the 86 firms sent questionnaires in January.

"Almost every chemical plant that provided information on its leak rates is releasing significant levels of compounds proven or suspected of being hazardous to public health," a summary of the responses said.

"How much of which poisons are coming from companies ... which did not respond to our information request is not yet known," the summary added.

FBI investigates bank's collapse

Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio - The FBI, in its investigation of the collapse of Home State Savings Bank of Cincinnati, has subpoenaed Ohio Department of Commerce records, a state official said Tuesday.

Ohio Savings and Loans Superintendent Robert McAlister said the subpoena had been served to the department when he took over his new post March 22, and the FBI is asking that the records be delivered no later than April 4.

The records being sought were not specified, but McAlister said: "I understand they (the FBI) are investigating everything."

McAlister said he is devoting most of his time to "trying to protect the depositors" of the S&Ls ordered closed temporarily by Gov. Richard Celeste following Home State's demise.

Home State, based in Cincinnati, closed March 9 after massive withdrawals by depositors alarmed by the court-ordered closing of a Florida securities dealer. A week after Home State's closing, Celeste declared a banking emergency, closing Ohio's 69 other thrift institutions whose deposits were privately insured.

Three more institutions opened Tuesday under emergency legislation enacted March 20. The law allows the institutions to do so upon obtaining federal insurance or demonstrating that they are eligible for it, McAlister said.

In all, 23 have been authorized to conduct full-scale business. The others formerly insured by the privately owned Ohio Deposit Guarantee Fund have been allowed to open to allow customers withdrawals of up to $750 a month.

While some institutions have reported heavier-than-normal transactions, the increased demand has been attributed to customers' needs for cash - not panic about the safety of their deposits.

Hijacker forces flight to Turkey; surrenders German plane to police

Associated Press

ISTANBUL, Turkey - A lone hijacker who forced a West German Lufthansa jetliner to land at Istanbul's Yesilkoy Airport yesterday rendered to Turkish authorities, the semi-official Anatolia news agency reported.

The air pirate commandeered the Boeing 727 on a Munich-Athens flight and forced it to land in Istanbul, but then freed the 142 passengers aboard, the Turkish state radio reported earlier.

An airport official said six of the nine crew members had also been freed. The official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said the hijacker had held the pilot, copilot and flight engineer as hostages.

The official said teams of Turkish sharpshooters had surrounded the plane. The hijacker was believed to be a Libyan and a Libyan consul in Istanbul was called to the airport to talk to him, the airport official said.

Officials at Lufthansa's offices in Frankfurt, West Germany, said in an announcement that the hijacker had demanded to be flown to Libya. Air traffic controllers at Nicosia, Cyprus, said he was armed with a knife.

Pentagon denies blame in army major's death

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The U.S. army major shot by a Soviet sentry in East Germany was taking photographs of military equipment in an area that earlier was off-limits to American observers, senior State Department and Pentagon officials said yesterday.

However, the officials said, the Soviets removed the restriction on Feb. 20, apparently after completing military maneuvers there, notified the U.S. liaison mission and did not deter other American observers present a week to 10 days later.

Challenging a Soviet account, the two officials reiterated there was no justification for the slaying of the unarmed officer, Arthur D. Nicholson Jr.

"We feel that the use of deadly force, as the Soviet sentry did in the case of this tragic event, is totally out of keeping with the rules," a State Department official said.

At the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes said the Reagan administration is considering diplomatic steps against the Soviets.

The Soviets called the shooting "regrettable" but said Nicholson had been spotted by a sentry taking photographs through the window of a storage building on a restricted Soviet military installation.

According to the Soviets, the U.S. major had been spying, which the press agency said was a violation of the 1947 agreements under which the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France maintain military liaison missions in their respective zones of Germany.

The U.S. officials rejected the account by the Soviet press agency Tass as "designed to justify the killing of Maj. Nicholson." They insisted he was not in an area designated by the Soviets as restricted or engaged in espionage. In fact, one of them said, the Soviets notified the U.S. mission in writing that the area was no longer out of bounds.

"He had the right of access, of free transit," the Pentagon official said of Nicholson. At most, he said, the Soviets could have detained Nicholson - as Soviet observers were held in West Germany only a few days earlier.

The briefing was held on condition the U.S. officials would not be identified by name or title. Copies of the instructions for U.S. army personnel in West Germany were distributed to reporters.

"Detention may be effected by any member of the U.S. forces," the instructions say.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas - A 14-year-old boy who said he was being harassed by other students pulled a gun on the playground Tuesday and shot one of his classmates to "get them off my back," authorities said.

The youth then turned a .22-caliber pistol over to J.D. Brown, assistant principal of Page Middle School, and surrendered, police said.

"That's the only way I could get them off my back, Mr. Brown," the administrator quoted the boy as saying.

Jose Luis Herrera, 16, was in stable condition at Santa Rosa Hospital condition with a single gunshot wound to the chest, said spokesman Donald Lee.

The youth, whose name was not released, was taken to the Bexar County Detention Center where authorities said he would be held overnight for a hearing Wednesday with a juvenile judge.

The playground shooting occurred at approximately 7:45 a.m., before classes began, Brown said.

BEIRUT, Lebanon - British metallurgist Geoffrey Nash, kidnapped in west Beirut nearly two weeks ago, was released unharmed early yesterday near his home in the capital's mostly Moslem western sector.

Nash's daughter, Nadia, said her 60-year-old father appeared at their home shortly after midnight and said he had been released from a car nearby after "hours of driving" during which he was blindfolded.

She quoted Nash as saying he was questioned during his captivity, but that he had not been harmed. She said her father, who suffers from a heart condition, was given the medicine he needed while he was held.

Nash was the first of nine Westerners to be abducted or disappear in Lebanon in the previous two weeks. Most of the victims were seized at gunpoint in west Beirut.

The radical Jihad Islami organization, believed composed of fundamentalist Shiite Moslems with ties to Iran, claimed responsibility for abducting Nash as he was leaving his home.

The day after Nash was kidnapped, British businessman Brian Levick, 59, was seized, and one day after Levick's abduction, Terry A. Anderson, 37, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped.

Missile explosion rocks Baghdad; Iran claims responsibility in attack

Associated Press

BAGHDAD, Iraq - Western Baghdad was shaken by a huge explosion yesterday that Iran said was caused by one of its missiles. Witnesses said the blast occurred beside two schools and a bus station, and may have caused hundreds of casualties.

The explosion came shortly after Iran said it had fired a ground-to-ground missile at the Iraqi capital. Iraq struck back with an air raid on Tehran that the Iranians said killed at least 10 people and wounded 50.

Iraqi officials said nothing about the cause of the Baghdad explosion or the number of casualties.

A witness said the victims of the explosion were students, pedestrians and people driving in cars. About 50 cars and buses were wrecked in the blast, according to the witnesses, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Military police and secret service agents sealed the capital's western sector, over which a huge cloud of white smoke billowed, and barred reporters.

Iran has claimed to have fired six ground-to-ground missiles into Baghdad since March 14, during an escalation of the 4-year-old war between the Persian Gulf neighbors. Iraq said two of the explosions were caused by saboteurs' bombs, but has made no comment on the other three.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said yesterday's missile attack was retaliation for an overnight Iraqi air raid on Tehran that killed nine people and wounded 14. The report was monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus.

According to the London-based Jane's Defense Weekly, the missiles being fired are Soviet-made SS-1 Scud B missiles, which were introduced about 20 years ago and have a maximum range of about 160 miles. It quoted Western intelligence sources as noting that Tehran announced the missile attacks three to seven minutes before the explosions happened, indicating the blasts were not due to sabotage.

Iraq said that, after the Baghdad explosion, it sent warplanes to attack Hamadan, 240 miles southwest of Tehran.

The official Iraqi news agency quoted an unidentified military spokesman as saying the raid on "selected targets" in Hamadan brought to six the number of cities attacked by Iraqi jet fighters since dawn.

Earlier, the Iraqi military command said Tehran and four other Iranian cities were "dealt devastating blows."

Both sides have stepped up attacks on residential areas in recent weeks. Iraq has said it is accelerating raids on cities to force Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's regime to end the war.

Iran has made statements recently that, despite their bellicose language, also indicate a willingness for peace.

In a statement monitored yesterday in London, the military command said that if Iraq stopped attacking civilian targets, "commercial shipping and using chemical weapons, Iran's Islamic combatants would immediately end their retaliation in kind."

But the statement added: "should these wicked acts continue, the response will be even tougher and this time it would be rockets that would pound Baghdad to a pulp."

Clinic attacks denounced by attorneys

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - An organization of state attorneys general urged the Justice Department Tuesday to investigate abortion clinic violence, saying such incidents "interfere with the exercise of constitutional rights."

At a policymaking meeting, the National Association of Attorneys General passed a resolution saying "there has been illegal harassment and intimidation of people who work in or visit abortion clinics."

It called for "a swift and forceful response by all levels of law enforcement" and said the Justice Department should "investigate and prosecute" people engaged in such activities.

Francis Bellotti, Massachusetts attorney general and association president, said leaving abortion clinic violence probes to the Treasury Department's Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms is unsatisfactory.

He said no one opposed the resolution.

Nobody wants to ride with a backseat driver

When was the last time your parents rode in a car with you and tried to tell you how to drive? Did you ever stop to think that your parents were only trying to promote safety?

Heidi Cerneka

in the driver's seat

Yet, it is irritating when you are driving along smoothly and all of a sudden, your passengers grab for the dashboard and shout "slow down" or "watch out for that car in the left lane." Remember, your parents are used to being authority figures and they are only trying to help you. But did you really need to be reminded to slow down? So maybe you were speeding, but you chose to speed and you accept you accepted the risk of getting a ticket. Still, your parents had no right or real need to question your driving ability. Nobody likes a backseat driver.

If you increase the scale of this illustration, is not the United States playing backseat driver to Nicaragua? If we do not like others directing us when we drive, then can we not conclude that others do not like it when we direct them? The United States is used to intervening in a paternalistic manner when we believe "father knows best." Sometimes, father is better off keeping his mouth shut. There comes a time when we are old enough to stand on our own. Dad may make a few suggestions, but only suggestions. We can decide. Maybe before the revolution, Nicaragua needed help against the totalitarian Somoza regime. However, since the Sandinistas are taken over, they have begun vast social improvements. In 1979, over one-third of the country was enrolled in some kind of formal education. According to a January 1985 bulletin by the Women's International League of Peace and Freedom, the Sandinistas, by 1979, had multiplied expenditures for health care by six. They had formed unions and enforced workers' rights. In 1981, Nicaragua created 82,000 new jobs. It seems Nicaragua can drive by itself very well.

On January 20, 1981, Reagan said in a press conference, "When covert action is required to preserve national security, we will act." So, it is alright for the United States to sneak in, oppose Nicaragua's government, and try to tell it what to do. What if you were driving with your family, including small children, and Mr. T and Arnold Schwarzenegger got in your car and tried to tell you how to drive. If your family was at stake, would you not do almost anything to protect them even against such formidable opponents? All the Nicaraguans are trying to do is preserve the advances they have already made and reach for more. They do believe in a Marxist philosophy for their country, but if this feeds children and improves literacy and health, is it wrong? In March 1985, a commentary in The South Bend Tribune said forty percent of the Nicaraguan national budget must now go for fighting against the United States supported contras. The more Nicaragua must spend on this, the less money is available for helping the country get back on its feet. Nicaragua must be given a chance to drive its own car with no one trying to direct from the backseat.

After the American Revolution, the United States took a long time to get on its feet. Close to 140 years passed before women and blacks had the right to vote. If we earned our liberty and struggled that long to straighten our wheels, should not Nicaragua get that same chance? Nobody likes a backseat driver, even if he is trying to help. So my advice is: United States, get out of the car.

Christians must help all who are in need of aid

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my dismay over Frederick Everett's disapproval of the Counseline tapes on homosexuality. I have not listened to the alleged "poisonous" tapes but would like to argue they are not as evil as he professes.

As an alternative form of psychological services offered to students, the rendering of these services does not necessarily represent a supportive stance regarding the issues of concern to the student. One would not necessarily assume moral support of alcohol drinking with development of an alcoholic anonymous group, but rather see the service developed in the interests of psychological support for people with a drinking problem. One should not equate extension of psychological supportive services with moral support of the client's actions.

To Everett, whether you approve of it or not, ten percent of the university population is gay.

The Counseline tapes are one minute attempt of the counseling center aimed at promotion of healthy psychological adjustment for this battered group. Effective "counseling" necessitates non-judgmental acceptance of one's total being. Accepting and condoning behavior(s) are not synonymous ideas. As concerned Catholics, do we deny this troubled minority group's existence and cheat them of any form of professional emotional support because of the judgments we make about their behavior? Or do we recognize their presence and extend, as Christians, unconditional supports, aware and open to their emotional needs rather than be judgmental about why they need it?

Could it be Reagan's selections are not bad?

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to that highly educational article by John Neblo which appeared in The Observer on March 26. The article, entitled "No President Can Rival Reagan's Appointments," caused great alarm among my fellow students and me.

For the past four years, I have had a sneaky suspicion that Reagan appointees were human. However, I was appalled by the events which were chronicled in such accurate detail by Neblo. The deterioration of our government's leadership has gone too far.

Some particularly threatening news is that Clarence Pendleton's opinions regarding racial quotas, and the like, "insulted the civil rights movement." Can you imagine that? A government leader expressing an opinion that angers civil rights leaders. How can we let this happen?

We learned of more bad news when Neblo informed us William Bennett had "angered students and their parents" with his comments on student loans. My gosh - it is bad enough that he angered me, but my parents - that is just un-American. If the government does not give me another student loan, I might have to get a job and work my way through school. That is just not fair. I think they should raise everyone's taxes and give me a bigger student loan or else I might have to go to a state university.

Then there is Labor Secretary Donovan who is going to trial to defend himself "against charges of fraud and larceny." Why wait to see if he is guilty? I think we should accept the judgment of Democratic District Attorney Mario Merola of New York City and condemn him now. Besides, can you imagine someone in the construction business in New Jersey coming into contact with members of organized crime? How can that possibly happen? It is a good thing he quit, anyway, because he angered the labor unions.

However, there is good news. "The greatest step toward the preservation of world peace" has been the resignation of Alexander Haig as Secretary of State. As Neblo says, "Haig terrified the nation." He sure had me terrified. I read where Haig was one of the few members of the Reagan administration who sought moderation in the hard-line attitude toward the Soviet Union. That did not fool me, though, because I knew he used to be an army general, and we all know how they are!

We still have to do something about David Stockman, the director of the Office of Management and Budget. He is up on Capitol Hill taking money away from all these programs that benefit our population. When the senate budget committee does not want to eliminate that much money he "behaves like a spoiled child." Doesn't he realize that these honorable congressmen each have their constituencies' private interests to protect? I think he should resign, too. Besides, I hear he works on those budgets for 11 hours a day, six days a week. I can imagine how much overtime pay he receives from the government.

I say we make some new rules. From now on, the Civil Rights Commission has to agree with civil rights leaders on every point, education secretaries can no longer say things that anger students and their parents, the labor secretary has to be nice to labor unions, the secretary of state has to hire an advertising firm to convince the well-informed general public that he does not wish to blow up the world, and the budget director cannot complain when congressmen behave like congressmen.

ND is pro-choice when it comes to nuclear war

Dear Editor:

The talk Monday night by famous ecologist George Woodwell was appropriately titled "Nuclear War: Twilight of the Species?" That is because it is precisely the prolonged darkness and bitter cold following a nuclear war that could bring humanity to the brink of extinction. But the poor attendance at the talk made it clear that it should have been retitled for the Notre Dame audience. It should have been called "Nuclear War: Abortion of the Species?" That is another accurate way of putting it, and one to which the Notre Dame community might respond.

We are naturally suspicious of "pro-choice" advocates who refuse to look at pictures or descriptions of what abortion is. We realize that people who refuse to look at the consequences of what they might want to do are already guilty of accepting them. But when we choose nuclear war, without looking at all its consequences, we are considering aborting not just individuals but the whole human race.

The big match: wrestling MS

features staff writer

You've read about it, you've heard about it... at last, you can see it.

This Sunday at 1 p.m., Wrestle Mania comes to Stepan Center live, direct from Madison Square Garden via closed circuit television.

Billed as the "closed circuit TV sports-entertainment spectacular of all time," Wrestle Mania is the World Wrestling Federation's answer to the Super Bowl, the Stanley Cup, Wimbledon ala McEnroe and the RollerDerby Championships. In fact, there's a little bit of each in Wrestle Mania.

The upcoming event is special to Notre Dame because proceeds from Stepan Center ticket sales will be donated to the ND Millions Against MS fundraiser.

But what exactly is Wrestle Mania?

If you head over to Stepan this weekend, you'll find it's more than just an afternoon of professional wrestlers pitted against each other in classic confrontations between the good guys and the bad guys. It's a pot pourri of tag team matches, body slamming, world titles, celebrities, egos, insults, athletics and entertainment.

The entire afternoon is a series of grudge matches to settle quarrels between opponents. The quarrels began when Captain Lou Albano publicly insulted rock celebrity and former wrestler, Cyndi Lauper. After these two were reconciled, (and began working together to raise money for the fight against MS), insult and injury wars began between other wrestlers involved in the conflict. Wrestle Mania was devised to finish the quarrels once and for all.

The main event of the afternoon will be a tag team match with Hulk Hogan and Mr. T of "The A-Team" challenging Rowdy Roddy Piper and Paul "Mr. Wonderful" Orndorff. The guest referee will be Muhammed Ali, the guest time keeper, Liberace, and the guest announcer will be Billy Martin.

For those who are unfamiliar with professional wrestling, the tag team event is much like a relay race. One person from the team wrestles the opponent and the other team member waits, patiently or otherwise, in his or her respective corner until the teammate tags his or her hand. Then, the teammates switch positions.

Both boys and girls participate in professional wrestling. In fact, another important match in the

Wrestle Mania afternoon will pit Wendi Richter, managed by Cyndi Lauper, against Lelani Kai, protege of The Fabulous Moolah, in a contest for the World Wrestling Federation's Women's Crown.

Another "biggie" for the afternoon will be the $15,000 Body Slam contest between Andre the Giant and Big John Studd. Body Slamming is the practice of one person, usually a gentleman weighing over 300 pounds, running into another portly person, holding him over his head, and slamming him down on the mat.

Is there any redeeming athletic value to this type of competition?

"You got to be a skilled wrestler to throw 300 pounds around in the ring," says Ted Mandell. The Flanner Hall junior is single-handedly responsible for bringing this closed circuit event to Notre Dame and for arranging to have proceeds donated to ND Millions Against MS.

"It's like a big soap opera," he continued. "I'm not saying it's all true. It's entertainment. But, it's got to hurt."

Mandell, a longtime professional wrestling fan, called World Wrestling Federation (WWF) headquarters in Greenwich, Connecticut and arranged to have Notre Dame included as a market in the nationwide broadcast of Wrestle Mania.

Although the WWF is paying for all the publicity for the event, Mandell paid for ticket printing costs out of his own pocket. He hopes to be refunded from the proceeds that will go to MS.

Tickets are on sale for $8 and $10 each. Twenty-five percent of the gross will be donated to MS. The remaining money will go to the promoters.

"To break even, we need to sell about 300 tickets," Mandell said. "If we sellout (3000), we could make over $6000 for MS."

By Monday of this week, over 1000 tickets had been sold.

To encourage the students to attend the event, Mandell plans to visit dorms and show videotapes of the wrestlers in action. He thinks that it is important for people to see the wrestlers and not just hear about them.

"Some of these people are so ridiculously obnoxious, it's unbelievable," Mandell said. "It's really funny just watching it. It's hilarious. It's like a real live cartoon, you can do anything you want."

Asked why he had become so involved in this effort, Mandell said it was not only because he liked professional wrestling.

"I guess it's for a good cause, too. Entertainment money should go for a good cause," Mandell said. "You can raise money from an ice cream social," he continued, "but the big money is in entertainment. I hope that this is for the MS drive, that people aren't giving money for the MTV concert. You should always give. To me it makes sense, to others it might not."

Czechoslovakia presents its finest

Special to The Observer

Czechoslovakia title: Czech Chamber Soloists to Perform at Saint Mary's

Czechoslovakia has been called "The Conservatory of Europe" and with good reason: more musical ensembles of highest quality have come out of Czechoslovakia than almost any other country. The Czech Chamber Soloists, an orchestra known in its own country and throughout the world as the epitome of the finest ensemble playing, will perform at 8 p.m., Friday, March 29, in O'Laughlin Auditorium at Saint Mary's College.

Founded in 1963, the group is comprised of leading players of the Brno State Philharmonic Orchestra. Their first North American tour, in 1977, was highly acclaimed by critics. The New York Times acclaims The Czech Chamber Soloists to be "vivid proof of the high level of Czech musical culture," and The Washington Post reports, "The ensemble performed with such dedication that a receptive audience awarded them with unceasing applause."

The Czech Chamber Soloists' wide repertoire ranges from the Baroque through the Classical and Romantic periods to the Contemporary. In addition to the usual compliment of strings, the Orchestra features a harpsichord and solo flutist in its current tour of North America.

Miroslav Matyas, artistic director of the Czech chamber Soloists, studied violin and conducting at the Brno Conservatory and graduated from the Janacek Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts under Dr. Alexander Plocek. He was made leader of the Brno Symphony Orchestra in 1951 and during the 1961-62 season, conducted the Tokyo Symphony Orchestra. Matyas is currently assistant conductor of the Brno State Philharmonic Orchestra.

The performance at Saint

Mary's includes "Concerto Grosso in F Major, Opus 6 No. 2" by George Frideric Handel; "Adagio for Strings," by Samuel Barber; "Concerto for Flute and Strings, in G Major," by Frantisek Benda; "Concerto in A Minor for Two Violins, Opus 3 No. 8" by

Antonio Vivaldi; E. Zamecnik's "Elegy for Violin and Strings" and Leos Janacek's "Suite for Strings."

The performance is part of Saint Mary's Performing Arts Series. Tickets are $4.50, $5.50 and $6.50, with a $1 discount to students and senior citizens. Saint Mary's students are admitted free. Tickets may be reserved by calling Saint Mary's College Ticket Office at 284-4626.

Icy excitement

Margaret McCabe
assistant features writer

Another weekend approaches. There may not be any basketball games scheduled, but there's plenty of action to be found on the courts of the ACC. The hoops have been temporarily replaced by ice, the costumes are not your basic blue and gold but pink, orange, fluorescent green . . . and lots of smurfy blue.

The Ice Capades, the traveling extravaganza on ice, is reknowned for its bright lights, flashy get-ups, a la-Rockettes routines and of course, Smurfs. Last night's performance was no exception. There was an abundance of the above - but a few surprises helped make the show anything but predictable.

From the show's opening international themes, including a Hungarian dance number and a couple dancing to a romantic rendition of "Spanish Eyes," to "For Your Ice

Only," a skit featuring not James Bond, but Barbie Smith as "Jane Blonde", the show's aims were unmistakably clear: variety and flare . . . blinding flare.

It seems the Ice Capades' weaknesses may arise from what most would expect to be its strengths. The show is a feast for the eyes but, after all, gluttony is a sin. There were moments when there seemed to be too many people on the ice, too many props and far too much glitter and fluorescents for the retinas to handle.

Simplicity is beauty as the old saying goes. This is probably why my favorite parts of the show were the soloists, like world-class champion Charlie Tickner or Canadian champion Kay Thomson, as well as the couples. These acts present figure skating in its most polished, graceful and professional form as the skaters to glide across the ice.

The Smurfs cannot go unmentioned. A good chunk of the show is actually an exciting episode in the continuing saga of life in Smurfville. Smurfs may not be on the top of your favorite people . . . or whatever list, but you won't mind watching the reactions of the more avid Smurf fans. The small faces all lit up and concerned for the welfare of a Smurf in despair might just melt the ice, not to mention your heart.

If Ice Capades is on your agenda for the weekend, I don't want to spoil all of the surprises. So I'll just warn you - be prepared for a colorful, fast-moving two hours featuring, among other things, fireworks, new cars and butterflies . . . big butterflies.

Even if the ice spectacular is not on the agenda, your curiosity should be peaked by now and I encourage you to experience Ice Capades first hand. Without a doubt, it'll brighten up your weekend and chase away the March blues for at least a year.

Rice's three doubles pace Red Sox past Chisox, 8-7, in exhibition play

Associated Press

Jim Rice showed his midseason Fenway Park-form by belting three doubles to highlight a 15-hit attack that carried the Boston Red Sox over the Chicago White Sox 8-7 in exhibition baseball yesterday.

Rice doubled down the right-field line in the first inning, hit a 400-foot drive to the wall in left-center in the second and belted a 420-foot double to center in the fourth. The Red Sox slugger drove in two runs and scored three before leaving after four innings.

In other games, Eric Show pitched six shutout innings and allowed three hits as the San Diego Padres halted the Seattle Mariners 7-1.

Darryl Motley and Jim Sundberg drove in fourth-inning runs off Atlanta starter Len Barker to help the Kansas City Royals beat the Braves 6-2.

Bob Knepper pitched six strong innings and singled home a run as the Houston Astros tripped the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1. Knepper gave up three hits. Fernando Valenzuela started for the Dodgers and retired the first 12 Houston batters before the Astros scored twice in the fifth to saddle the left-hander with his fourth loss of the spring.

Toronto's Lou Thornton homered on Ted Power's first pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning to give the Blue Jays a 3-2 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

Rookie Herm Winningham and Mike Ramsey contributed three hits apiece to a 15-hit attack that carried the Montreal Expos past the Texas Rangers, 9-3.

Jim Gantner's bases-loaded single in the 10th inning drove in the winning run that gave the Milwaukee Brewers their sixth straight victory, a 7-6 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Geoff Zahn, Donnie Moore and Curt Kaufman blanked Oakland on seven hits as the California Angels stopped the A's 6-0.

Tim Corcoran delivered a pair of RBI singles as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1.

Jody Davis drove in three runs with two hits and Leon Durham went 3-for-3 as the Chicago Cubs romped over the San Francisco Giants 10-2.

In night games, Jason Thompson and Doug Frobel homered to help the Pittsburgh Pirates break an eight-game losing streak with a 6-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Mike Boddicker and Ken Dixon combined on a three-hitter as the Baltimore Orioles edged the New York Yankees 2-1.

Frank Viola pitched seven scoreless innings and Greg Gagne and Gary Gaetti hit home runs to give the Minnesota Twins a 4-0 victory over the New York Mets.

The Yankees got some medical news yesterday, with shortstop Andre Robertson undergoing arthroscopic surgery on his left knee that should put him out of action for three weeks, and outfielder Dave Winfield being discharged from the hospital after being treated for an infected elbow.

Tulane stars nabbed for point-shaving

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS - David Dominique and Bobby Thompson, Tulane basketball players accused of shaving points in a gambling case, surrendered yesterday for fingerprinting and booking.

John Williams, Tulane's star center, was arrested Tuesday night, as was Gary Kranz of New York, a Tulane student accused of the gambling law violations and cocaine dealing.

Cocaine was the apparent motivating factor, not money, said District Attorney Harry Connick, who added that it is possible other players are involved.

He will take the case before a grand jury Thursday. All four were released without bail.

At the grand jury hearing, two Tulane basketball players who will be granted immunity from prosecution will testify about the three teammates accused of shaving points, according to a New Orleans newspaper.

The Times-Picayune, The States-Item said in its Thursday editions that the two players gave statements implicating themselves and their teammates. The newspaper, which did not identify the two players, did not identify its source, except to say that it was a source close to the investigation.

U.S. attorney John Volz said his office has been involved in the case for several weeks. He said he has asked the FBI to investigate possible federal violations.

He gave no details about possible links to federal gambling raids in Memphis, Tenn., during the weekend.

Dominique shook his head "no" when asked if he'd done anything wrong, but would not comment beyond that. Thompson paid no attention to the questions.

They were instructed not to talk by their attorney, Russell Schonekas, who and also declined comment.

Williams, after his arrest on Tuesday, denied any wrongdoing.

Williams, Dominique and Thompson were booked on charges of violating Louisiana's sports gambling laws. Kranz, of New York, 21, was booked on the gambling violations plus possession and distribution of cocaine, Connick said Tuesday.

"I'm very confused. I want to see what evidence they have," Tulane Coach Ned Fowler, said Tuesday night.

Kranz answered his telephone yesterday, but hung up after a terse statement.

"I'm sorry, right now it's a big farce, and I have no comment - nothing," he said.

Williams, 23; Thompson, 21, and Dominique, 19, were accused of controlling the outcome of home games against Southern Mississippi and Memphis State in February. Point shaving means a player agrees to keep his team's score lower than gamblers predict - either winning by a lower margin or losing by a greater margin than the established "line" on the game.

Tulane was a ten-and-a-half-point favorite over Southern Mississippi and won 64-63 on Feb. 2.

Colts deal QB Herrmann to San Diego

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - The Indianapolis Colts yesterday traded quarterback Mark Herrmann to the San Diego Chargers for a future National Football League draft choice.

"I'm excited. It's a good opportunity with a great organization and a great offense and quarterback. I'm looking forward to working with Dan Fouts," said Herrmann, whose new contract with the Chargers is for two years without an option.

"I'm thrilled to be going to San Diego. I would think their system could benefit me more than some other people," Herrmann said of the Chargers, who have been looking for a backup to Fouts.

"They throw a lot of underneath (short) stuff and timing routes. Throwing the ball downfield like they did here last year is not my cup of tea, and the Chargers have one of the best receiving groups in the NFL.

"It's always exciting with something new on the horizon," said Herrmann, 26, who has been hampered by injuries for much of his four-year career in the NFL. The draft choice from the Chargers was not disclosed, except that it would not be for 1985, the Colts said.

Herrmann, who played at Carmel High School north of Indianapolis and then at nearby Purdue University, where he set many NCAA passing records, received a hero's welcome when he returned to his hometown with the Colts last spring. But he missed the first seven games of the 1984 season after injuring his thumb in pre-season practice.

He later played in three games, starting twice, and completed 29 of 56 passes for 352 yards and one touchdown. He was intercepted six times.

"I felt if I stayed here, my chances would be as good as anybody's. But now I have to move on and keep preparing myself," Herrmann said. "There were a lot of expectations (coming to Indianapolis), and I wish I could have done better, but now I'm going to be able to go out and start fresh."

The departure of Herrmann leaves Mike Pagel and Art Schlichter as the quarterbacks for new Colts' Coach Rod Dowhower. Pagel started the first seven games and nine of the 16 games last season, while Schlichter started the final five games in his first season back after a year's suspension for gambling.

The Colts, then in Baltimore, acquired Herrmann from Denver in a trade for quarterback John Elway. Herrmann was originally picked on the fourth round by the Broncos in the 1981 college draft.

He did not see any action his rookie season and played only two games with Denver in 1982. He also played in two games with the Colts in 1983 after suffering a broken collarbone.

Herrmann, who was in San Diego last week to showcase his skills for the Chargers, was re-signed by the Colts as a free agent on Tuesday and then traded yesterday.

Dowhower, starting his first season with the Colts, said the trade "could work out well for both Mark and the Colts. We will have to locate a quarterback or a couple of quarterbacks for training camp to provide competition (for Pagel and Schlichter)."

Whether the trade would affect the Colts' draft, Dowhower said, "It depends on where a given player comes up. I don't see taking a quarterback high in the draft, because we're committed to certain weaknesses we have to fill - receivers, offensive line and cornerback."

Blab, Alford pace Hoosiers

Indiana, UCLA reach NIT final

Associated Press

NEW YORK - The Indiana Hoosiers held off Tennessee's "Comeback Kids" last night, showing some grit of their own in the semifinals of the 48th National Invitation Tournament.

"We have a tendency to let off with the lead - that happened tonight, but we were lucky enough to turn it back on," said Indiana center Uwe Blab, whose 24 points helped the Hoosiers post a 74-67 victory over Tennessee.

Indiana earned a berth in tomorrow night's championship game at Madison Square Garden against UCLA, which beat Louisville last night.

Tennessee, which was making a habit of thrilling comeback victories in the NIT tournament, seemed about to do the same against Indiana by rallying from a 13-point deficit early in the second half to take the lead midway through the period.

But Indiana held off that furious charge with some clutch play by Blab and U.S. Olympic team guard Steve Alford, who scored 23 points.

"Alford and Blab are the offense," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "If they're off, we're in trouble."

Knight also said this was perhaps one of the least-talented teams he's had at Indiana.

"We're not a good team, but opponents will come at us as if we were in the top echelon," Knight said. "We can blow leads - tonight we did."

Tennessee Coach Don DeVoe, who had seen his team wipe out a five-point deficit against Southwestern Louisiana in the last 19 seconds of an earlier NIT game, was happy with just about everything, except the last five minutes of the game.

"We just didn't play great basketball in those last five minutes," DeVoe said. "But I'm proud of the team, especially the comeback."

The 7-foot-2 Blab, who finished with 24 points, scored 14 in the first half as Indiana took a 40-30 lead at intermission. But the Hoosiers had to hold on as Tennessee rallied behind Tony White.

White scored 14 of his 22 points in the second half to bring the Southeastern Conference team back. The Volunteers finally took the lead at 57-56 with 9:54 remaining with a 9-0 streak keyed by their sharp-shooting guard.

There were four lead changes and two ties before the Hoosiers went ahead for good at 66-64 on a basket by reserve Dan Dakich with 4:49 left.

White made a foul shot with 2:36 remaining to bring Tennessee within a point before Blab converted two free throws with 1:52 left to give Indiana a 68-65 cushion. The Indiana center then blocked a shot by Michael Brooks with 28 seconds left with Indiana holding a 68-67 lead.

Bruins win

NEW YORK - Brad Wright scored 23 points and keyed an 11-2 game-breaking burst in the final five minutes to lead UCLA to a 75-66 victory over Louisville in the semifinals of the 48th National Invitation Tournament last night.

The Bruins earned a berth in tomorrow night's championship game at Madison Square Garden against Indiana, which earlier in the night defeated Tennessee 74-67 as Uwe Blab scored 24 points and Steve Alford added 23.

UCLA led 36-33 at intermission and six times held nine-point leads before Louisville pulled even behind a run led by Billy Thompson, who scored 16 points. Thompson scored four straight points as the Cardinals made it 56-56 with 5:30 left in the game.

Then, in the last five minutes, Wright took charge, scoring six points during the decisive streak to propel UCLA to a 67-58 margin with 1:06 remaining.

The first half was closely played, with UCLA holding the biggest lead of the half at five points.

Nigel Miguel scored 20 points, including seven foul shots in the final minute, for UCLA, 20-12. The Bruins, of the Pacific-10 Conference, have won 11 of their last 12 games.

ND lacrosse team takes conference opener, 9-2

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

After opening its season over break against some strong Eastern competition, the Notre Dame lacrosse team was ready to play a weaker Midwestern opponent. Yesterday on Cartier Field, the Irish got their wish as they easily handled Lake Forest College, 9-2, to begin their defense of the Midwest Lacrosse Association championship.

Notre Dame moved to 1-0 in the MLA (2-3 overall) on the strength of a strong first quarter in which it moved out to a quick 5-0 lead. The Foresters, who fell behind by as much as 7-0 in the second quarter, never were able to erase that five-goal burst despite some poor play by the Irish in the second half.

"We started out well, but we really let up," said Irish coach Rich O'Leary. "We were making fundamental mistakes. Our catching and passing really fell apart after the first quarter. I'm not sure why, but if we do it again a tougher opponent, we'll lose."

Despite the less-than-impressive showing, though, the Irish never were seriously threatened. Lake Forest was supposed to challenge Notre Dame after playing very well during its trip to the East, but the threat never materialized as the Irish took advantage of many Forester mistakes in the early going.

As has been the case in the first four games this season, attackmen Bob Trocchi and Joe Franklin were responsible for most of the Notre Dame scoring. With Trocchi scoring four goals and Franklin adding another, the Irish were able to score seven unanswered goals in a 19-minute span of the first half, putting their visitors in a hole from which they never could climb.

It was Trocchi's goal 3:35 into the game that got the Irish rolling. The senior co-captain dodged a Lake Forest defender and bounced a shot into the net with a Forester player in the penalty box. Four minutes later, midfielder Mark Steranka got past his defender and fired the ball under the Lake Forest goalie's stick.

With the Foresters having problems passing the ball, Notre Dame continued to dominate the action. John Wilson, Franklin and Trocchi scored to blow open the game, and Trocchi added two more goals early in the second quarter to give the Irish a 7-0 halftime lead.

"Up until then, we were taking advantage of Lake Forest's mistakes and weren't making very many ourselves," said O'Leary, who watched his team struggle with the Foresters after halftime. "They kept making mistakes in the second half, but we couldn't take advantage of them because we were making a lot of mistakes, too."

Fortunately for the Irish, their defense did a good job of keeping Lake Forest from scoring in both the first and second halves. Matt Talso of the Foresters did score twice in the third quarter - once on a fast break and once on a power play - to cut the lead to 7-2, but that was as close as they could get against Irish goalie Rob Simpson who stopped nine shots before being relieved by Matt McQuillan, who picked up three saves of his own.

Notre Dame needed all the defense that it could get because the offense disappeared in the middle of the second quarter. After Trocchi's fourth goal 7:47 before halftime, the Irish could manage only two goals the rest of the way, one of them scored by a Lake Forest defender who deflected a Trocchi pass into his own net.

The lack of offense is obviously a major concern of O'Leary's. In five games, the Irish have scored just 31 goals - 20 of them by Franklin and Trocchi. Unless they can increase their offensive production, especially from the midfielders and the backup lines of attack, it will be very hard for them to repeat as MLA champions.

"Our biggest problem on offense is the lack of teamwork," explained O'Leary. "We're not looking for the guy with an open shot because there's too many people trying to go one-on-one. Hopefully, we can get things straightened out."

"You take wins whenever you can get them, but we still haven't put together four good quarters. Lake Forest isn't an Ohio Wesleyan (one of Notre Dame's biggest MLA challengers), so we're going to have to do better."

It is a good sign that the team can beat some MLA opponents easily without playing well,

Notre Dame defenseman Wally Stack (4) tries to keep a Lake Forest player away from the goal as Irish midfielder Bob Carillo (10) looks to help out on the defense. The Irish beat the Foresters, 9-2, yesterday afternoon at Cartier Field in their conference opener. Mike Sullivan has details at left.

Men's tennis team impressive on West Coast during break

While many Notre Dame students headed to Florida last week for Spring Break, the Notre Dame men's tennis team headed west to sunny California. The Irish compiled a 5-2 record on their western swing to raise their overall record to 9-3. Along the way the team finished fourth in the Claremont College Tournament.

The first stop for the Irish was Cal State-Los Angeles on March 16. This was the first meeting of the two schools and the Irish emerged victorious by an 8-1 score. Junior captain Joe Nelligan led the way with 4-6, 6-0, 6-2 win over Clay Redwood. In the closest match of the day, Cal State-LA's Bruce Ward outlasted Tom Grier 7-6, 6-7, 7-5.

Irish eyes were smiling on St. Patrick's Day, as Notre Dame registered a 7-2 win over Pierce College. After dropping the first set, senior Mike Gibbons breezed to a 6-7, 6-1, 6-3 victory.

On March 18, the Irish were to face the tough Trojans of USC, but fate in the form of rain interceded to wash out the match. The Irish posted their third straight win on the trip on their next stop, at Loyola Marymount, with a 7-2 decision.

On their fourth stop, the Irish hit their peak, blanking Whittier 9-0. The doubles pairs of Gibbons-Dan Walsh, Nelligan-Paul Daggs, and Dave Obert-Grier were too much for the competition as each team posted 6-0, 6-0 wins.

First-singles player Mike Gibbons helped the Irish to a 5-2 record on their recent West Coast swing with his impressive play. The senior posted a 7-0 record on the trip, to raise his season total to 11-1. Dennis Corrigan reviews the recent Irish road trip in his story above.

Rugby is alive and well at ND

A little-known sport called rugby is alive at Notre Dame. Since early March, a group of about 70 players have been practicing three times a week in preparation for the club's upcoming spring season, which begins Saturday against a Chicago-based men's club called the West Side Condors.

Most people, including many of the sports-minded students on the Notre Dame campus, know very little about rugby or how it is played. What makes the sport so appealing to so many students?

"Rugby seems to be the perfect sport for many who play, combining the aspects of football and soccer," says Steve Schneider, president of the rugby club. "This is especially true at Notre Dame, where we draw from such a large pool of excellent athletes who may have played one or both sports in high school."

"With our intercollegiate fall and spring schedules, rugby is particularly appealing to those players who are looking for more competition than interhall athletics can provide. Yet, as serious as we are about playing well against our opponents, the club's structure is informal and fraternal, and the demands and the commitments made by the varsity athletes are not present at our level. That may be the best reason for students to join the club, and it certainly helps in keeping their interest afterwards."

Although American football developed from the game of rugby, a first-time viewer may have difficulty understanding the sport as it is being played.

"After being introduced to the fundamentals of the sport, you begin to see how much rugby and football are similar," explains Clarke Keough, a club member who played high school football. "Rugby does not have football's forward pass or player equipment, but the game has more kicking and lateral movement. Also, rugby is a quicker game and the transition from defense to offense is more fluid."

With a successful fall record of six wins and one loss, this year's club has continued the winning tradition associated with Notre Dame rugby. However, the club's off-the-field activities have changed drastically in the last few years. The club is currently on probation and has had to give-up participation in rugby's "third half", the traditional post-game party hosted by the home team.

"The club has been under suspension at various times for nearly half of my four years here," says Schneider. "We would like to show the administration that we can stay out of trouble. The athletic department, especially (Athletic Director Gene) Corrigan, (Assistant Director of Club Sports Richard) O'Leary, and (Assistant Director of Non-Varsity Athletics Dr. Thomas) Kelly have been very supportive. And our new moderator, Col. John Stephens, has been a tremendous influence for us as a team."

"We miss many social aspects of the game which we used to enjoy," adds Keough. "But we are willing to give them up if it means we can continue as a club. More than anything else, we want to play rugby for Notre Dame."

The club travels to Ball State next weekend, then it plays home matches the following four Saturdays. Notre Dame will play three matches against each opponent's three teams of players.

"It should be an exciting season," says Schneider. "Each game should provide the excitement of pro wrestling and the grace of synchronized swimming."

If you're going to the Senior Formal this weekend, you can catch the Irish in action Saturday afternoon at Miller Meadows Field. Or you can see the team play at the Stepan Fields in two weeks. Come out and watch if you know someone playing, or if you just want to see what rugby is all about.
