5-day manhunt ends with arrest of alleged first-degree murderer

Associated Press

FORSYTH, Mo. - Authorities Saturday arrested a reputed member of a neo-Nazi group, ending an intense manhunt that began five days earlier with the slaying of a state trooper at a random traffic stop.

David Tate, 22, linked to the neo-Nazi group called The Order and charged with first-degree murder in the trooper's death, was arrested unarmed and without incident in a city park, said Capt. Lee Thompson of the Missouri Highway Patrol.

Hundreds of police using camouflage, helicopters, dogs and road blocks had searched the rugged Ozark Mountains on both sides of the Arkansas-Missouri border since the trooper was killed and another wounded with a silencer-equipped automatic pistol on Monday.

Tate was spotted at the edge of a city park by a resident, who then told officers manning a nearby roadblock, said Taney County Sheriff Chuck Keithley.

"Tate was ready to give up," Keithley said. "The man was getting hungry, he told us. He's been in the woods for several days without a whole lot to eat."

Authorities found a weapon they think was used in the shootings - an Ingram MAC-10 automatic pistol - about 20 to 30 feet from where Tate was arrested, said Keithley.

Tate's arrest was announced before nearly 100 residents and reporters at the Taney County courthouse. The residents clapped and cheered when the arrest was announced, and again when Taney County Circuit Judge James Justus said that if Tate was convicted, he could face the death penalty.

Forsyth is about 15 miles from Branson, where Trooper Jimmie Linegar was shot dead and Trooper Allen Hines wounded.

Tate was arraigned Saturday night before Taney County Circuit Judge James Clifford Crouch on charges of first-degree murder in the slaying of Linegar and first-degree assault in the shooting of Hines.

He was ordered held without bond on the murder charge, and bond was set at $1 million on the assault charge. A preliminary hearing was set for April 29, and Tate was taken by motorcade to the Greene County Jail in Springfield.

First-degree murder carries a penalty upon conviction of death or life in prison without parole.

SMC professor named to congressional panel

By ELLYN MASTAKO
Staff Reporter

Jerome McElroy, associate professor of business and economics at Saint Mary's, has been appointed to a congressional panel to study "Appropriate technologies to enhance food, fishery, and fiber production in the Caribbean and Pacific Island territories of the United States."

The panel is composed of 24 experts from the United States, the Caribbean, and the Pacific Islands. Their specialties include marine biology, anthropology, political science, and economics.

"Our commission is a highly interdisciplinary because we want to get technologies that are integrated into political, social, and environmental systems," said McElroy.

The panel was chosen by the Office of Technology Assessment, a 12-member bipartisan congressional board which provides congressional committees with objective analyses of the difficult, and often highly technical issues of the late 20th century.

The countries to be studied by the panel are Puerto Rico, the U.S. Virgin Islands, the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands, the Commonwealth of the Northern Marianas, Guam, and American Samoa.

Despite the fact that the federal government is spending $2 billion annually to enhance the self-sufficiency of these islands, the food production of these islands continues to decline.

"It is in the best interests of the United States for our government to help these islands," said McElroy. "Anything that would strengthen these island economies would strengthen our security interests. We have major military installations on Puerto Rico and Guam."

McElroy was chosen for this commission because of his ongoing research on the developmental problems of small Caribbean islands, particularly small-scale agriculture and fisheries.

McElroy has taught in the Virgin Islands for nine years, during which he became familiar with the economic problems of this U.S. territory. He was also coordinator of socio-economic research at the Caribbean Research Institute for five years and was director of policy, planning, and research for the Virgin Islands' government for one year.

The commission will begin its work by reviewing all the literature on the most successful and innovative technologies with regard to small-scale agriculture and fisheries. They then will explore recent technological developments and will make a list of those technologies which are found to be both economically profitable and environmentally adaptable. Finally, the commission will suggest policy options and programs to Congress in order to implement the panel's list of acceptable technologies.

The panel, meeting last March to scope out the project, assembled the 44 youths killed in Philippine fire

Associated Press

MANILA, the Philippines - A rural audience fled in panic from a fire in a movie house complex in the southern Philippines yesterday, and 44 people, most of them teen-agers, were killed in the stampede to get out, police said.

Fifty-three people were injured. "Somebody shouted fire and all of a sudden there was confusion.

People started rushing to the doors," said Jeanette Barja, 13, who was one of 20 people injured seriously enough to be hospitalized. She spoke in a telephone interview from a hospital at Tabaco, 200 miles southeast of Manila.

Hundreds of people ran out, screaming and shoving each other, from a Sunday matinee featuring a favorite movie star.

The theater complex is on the second floor of a three-story building in the center of Tabaco. Barja was among fans, including mothers carrying babies, who packed the Cine Arcade's Cinema I to watch a movie titled 'Star Without a Glow.'

Police said the fire actually was in adjacent Cinema II, which was almost deserted. Two charred bodies were found there, indicating the rest of the deaths occurred as people fled, police said.

Coca-Cola to alter secret formula

Associated Press

ATLANTA - The 99-year-old, top-secret formula used to make Coca-Cola soon will be changed, according to a report published Saturday.

The new formula was developed in a secret project launched in January, The Atlanta Journal and The Atlanta Constitution reported in their combined Saturday edition.

The newspapers, which quoted no sources and said the company would not comment, said a possible reason for the new formula was a drop in Coke's market-leading share last year.

Coca-Cola Co. spokesman Carlton Curtis declined comment except to say there would be a news conference tomorrow at which "the most significant soft drink marketing development in the company's nearly 100-year history will be announced."

The current formula, known as "Merchandise 7X," is frequently described as the best-kept secret in American industry. It was developed by Dr. John Pemberton in 1886.

The New York Times in Saturday editions quoted an analyst who said tomorrow's news conference would be used to introduce a new brand of fruit-based beverages.

In Brief

Pornographic videos, aphrodisiacs and obscene materials that "poison people's minds" were outlawed in China under new regulations published Saturday. The State Council ban, which appeared in all leading newspapers, follows official complaints that pornography is now readily available in Canton and other Chinese cities. "To protect the mental health of the people and especially youth, safeguard social harmony and ensure smooth progress in socialist modernization, various kinds of salacious material must be strictly banned." Those who attend showings of obscene videos and films will be "criticized and educated," according to the regulations. -AP

An 8-year-old boy in Gulfport, Miss. ran a one-man race of 30.1 miles Saturday to repay a personal debt to the March of Dimes and collected $2,000 in pledges. "My stepdad and I were thinking they had spent $26,000 on me," said Billy Holder. "Why don't I pay them back? It is sort of a thank-you." The March of Dimes had contributed to Billy's medical bills when he required extensive surgery. Billy, who was born with a diaphragmatic hernia and a slight heart defect, completed the run in five hours and 20 minutes. Billy has run in more than 20 races, but this was his first solo attempt. -AP

McDonald's Campus Airlift joins campus delivery menu

Domino's delivers. So does Pizza Hut.

And now, McDonald's does too.

Yes, McDonald's is the newest competitor for your on-campus fast food dollars. A week ago today, Campus Airlift went into full-scale operation, delivering Big Macs and Chicken McNuggets across the Notre Dame campus.

At an isolated school such as Notre Dame where many students feel tied to campus, one would expect that such delivery services would be popular with students bored by Tofu vegetables.

"Experienced" delivery services show this to be true. Wanda Binney, a manager for Domino's pizza said that during the school year, they do 80 percent of their business at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. Pizza Hut ships 20 to 30 pizzas to campus each night, said manager Tom Littleton.

It seems there may be a market for hamburgers as well as pizza.

"Right now, we're getting a good response," said Charles Watson, owner of the Roseland McDonald's store which runs the deliveries. A McDonald's manager said they receive about 40 orders a night. He said deliveries take an average of 40 to 45 minutes, although some take a little longer.

Most items on the regular menu can be delivered, and prices are generally 20 to 30 cents higher than those in the store. According to Watson, this increase covers taxes and delivery costs.

As of now, there is no minimum order for delivery. The service will be in a test phase until the end of the year. "We want to determine what the students want," said Watson.

Students may be anxious to have pizza and hamburger trucks pouring into campus, but Notre Dame doesn't always welcome these delivery services with open arms.

"It took us three years to get it OK'd," said Binney, a manager at Domino's. She said it took Domino's longer to get permission to deliver at Notre Dame than at any school in the country. "Notre Dame is the only school where we have to go through security to get on (campus)," she added.

Littleton, a Pizza Hut manager, said, "Notre Dame is very concerned about who's allowed (on campus) and who's not."

There has been some confusion as to whether McDonald's actually has permission to deliver on campus. Watson, the restaurant's owner, said his service has "the same kind of approval that anybody else does that delivers out there."

Amy Stephan

Watson said he has received clearance from Security and has assured Notre Dame officials that his drivers are fully insured. He said the nickname of his service, Campus Airlift, caused some to believe that someone other than McDonald's was organizing the delivery service. The service is run out of McDonald's of Roseland.

In an interview with an Observer reporter last week, Joni Neal, director of student activities, said that a "unified University policy may have to be set up concerning businesses making deliveries on campus."

It seems logical that the administration would want to establish guidelines concerning who may and who may not deliver on campus. There are some businesses the University certainly would not allow to deliver to the dorms. For example, it is doubtful that any enterprising businessman hoping to deliver alcohol to campus would be encouraged by the administration.

If they decide to establish such a policy, administrators should keep in mind that many students appreciate the convenience of on-campus delivery. Time constraints and lack of transportation cause many students to rely on delivery services as a temporary link to the outside world. A rushed student can pick up a phone and have pizzas, flowers and even balloons brought to his or her dorm door.

Extensive restrictions concerning on-campus deliveries would be pointless. If enough students use a given service to make it profitable, and if the service does not violate University policy (such as alcohol deliveries), that service should be allowed to continue. If no one uses a service, it will die a natural death and restrictions are therefore unnecessary.

Regardless of what policy, if any, the administration enacts, Campus Airlift will probably continue soaring at least until the end of this school year. And that means a Big Mac is just a phone call away.

Thousands march in Philadelphia to commemorate Holocaust dead

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - Children bearing placards with the names of Jewish communities wiped out during World War II led thousands of people in a march yesterday as American survivors of the Holocaust remembered their dead.

The march followed a memorial service that opened the Inaugural Assembly of the American Gathering of Jewish Holocaust Survivors. About 5,000 people who withstood the horrors of Nazi concentration camps and their children were in Philadelphia for the three-day gathering.

The marchers wore blue caps with "remember" written in Hebrew, and youths waved cardboard signs carrying the names of cities such as Rotterdam, Nitra, Braila, Terni and Regensburg.

"They want to show that the youth are trying to understand what was lost," said Kay Ehrenkrantz, 25, a member of Young Judea, a Jewish youth group.

The marchers sang and chanted prayers in Hebrew on the 13-block walk to Independence Mall. There, children handed white carnations to the marchers, who placed them under the Liberty Bell.

Golda Draznin, from Buffalo, N.Y. said her carnation was "to remember my father who got lost in the concentration camp. To pay my respect to him."

"I am going to put my flower on my own grave," said Genia Klapholz, of Philadelphia. "I was in Auschwitz and I was sentenced to death," she said, her eyes red from tears.

After the ceremony, politicians and religious leaders spoke to the gathering.

One spectator, Edzia-Frymet Milich of Beverly Hills, Calif., wore a light blue sweatshirt with big letters that said, "Have you seen my sister Hena Milich?"

Milich said her sister disappeared in 1946 in Poland. She showed the blue 55496 tattooed on her arm in Auschwitz, and said she survived five camps.

A "survivor's village" was set up in the Philadelphia Civic Center, where victims of the Nazi camps could meet, eat kosher food and listen to Yiddish music. Also at the center was a computer containing the names of 55,000 Holocaust survivors living in the United States, to help people find those lost during World War II.

The marchers first gathered at the Monument to the Six Million Jewish Martyrs, a twisted, black stone sculpture that reaches to the sky with limbs protruding and hands with knives ready to strike.

Some 6,000 people packed into one-block area, silent as speakers' voices bounced off walls of nearby office buildings.

As the world commemorates World War II, "we think of our Jewish world that was cut down," said keynote speaker Vladka Meed, who fought in the Jewish underground in Warsaw, Poland.

"As Hitler unleashed his systematic machine of murder," he waited for an outcry from the world, Meed said. But "the world paid attention only to the military battle, not to the war against the Jews."

Marion Wilen, chairwoman of the Memorial Committee for the Six Million Jewish Martyrs, criticized President Reagan for his scheduled visit to a German military cemetery next month.

"His presence will honor the perpetrators of that genocide," she said, as the audience hissed and booed.

The legendary Sir Winston Churchill will be portrayed in "Churchill: The Early Years," by former Notre Dame student-performer Mark Grimsich on Monday evening at 7:30 in Carroll Hall at Saint Mary's.

His one-man original play, based on Churchill's own writings, is the result of a senior project which he undertook while attending Northwestern University.

Grimsich, a 1980 graduate of Northwestern and now a resident of New York, attended Notre Dame from 1976 to 1978. A member of the Glee Club while at Notre Dame, he also sang with Saint Mary's Madrigal Singers and participated in several theatre productions.

"At the outset of my work I had numerous stereotyped ideas about the man and his character," said Grimsich. "No sooner had I begun reading than I realized that my previous exposure to this historical figure was only the proverbial tip of the iceberg."

"The further I explored, the closer I came to understanding the true essence of the man behind the public figure," he said.

"Churchill," produced by Face to Face Productions of New York City, will be sponsored by Saint Mary's history department. Admission is free and open to the public.

Nicaraguan leader Ortega agrees to cease-fire if U.S. ends rebel aid

Associated Press

BOSTON - Nicaraguan leader Daniel Ortega said in a message Saturday his country would agree to an immediate cease-fire if the United States ends all support for Nicaraguan rebels. The Boston Sunday Globe reported.

The Nicaraguan president presented the message to Senators John Kerry, D-Mass., and Thomas Harkin, D-Iowa, after they completed talks with him in the capital city Managua. Kerry told the newspaper.

Ortega also said he would immediately restore civil liberties in Nicaragua and end press censorship if the United States agreed to resume bilateral negotiations and end its support for the Contras, the senators said.

He also reasserted his country's commitment to Central America as a zone free of nuclear weapons and foreign military bases, including those of the Soviet Union and Cuba.

White House spokesman Bob Sims said late Saturday the administration was not surprised by the Sandinista offer, nor was it inclined to be a go-between for the Nicaraguan factions.

"Basically, what the president had proposed is that the Sandinista government deal with their own people and not deal through the United States," Sims said. "We feel that they should accept the offer already made by the Contras for the cease-fire."

President Reagan said Saturday that Nicaragua's leftist regime "may put forth an 11th-hour so-called peace proposal aimed at blocking aid to the democratic resistance."

The president, in his radio address yesterday, indicated that we would expect some 11th-hour peace proposal from the Sandinistas. I don't know if it's in that category or not, but we certainly would like to know why the Sandinistas couldn't accept the offer made some time ago," Sims said.

Kerry and Harkin called the document Ortega's first offer of a cease-fire.

Kerry said, however, that Ortega's offer of a cease-fire did not appear to come as a result of congressional rejection of aid to the Contras, since that vote concerns a one-time $14 million aid package for this fiscal year. Votes on the aid are scheduled in the House and the Senate this week.

The senators' meetings with Ortega took up 26 hours of their 38-hour visit.

Protestors march on Capitol

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Thousands of protesters marched outside the White House on Saturday to start three days of demonstrations against President Reagan's military buildup and policies on South Africa and Central America.

Protesters massed on the Ellipse, the park outside the White House grounds, then swung up Pennsylvania Avenue toward the Capitol for a rally.

As they passed the White House, the Rev. Jesse Jackson dropped to the pavement and uttered a prayer that referred to Reagan's planned visit next month to a military cemetery in Bitburg, West Germany.

"Touch our president in some special way," the kneeling civil rights leader said. "Some place between Bitburg and Johannesburg, let him choose another way."

The demonstration, marking the 10th anniversary of the end of the Vietnam War, was echoed on the West Coast, where 4,000 protesters marched in downtown Los Angeles and others rallied in Seattle.

"What brings us here is the need to reverse the policies of the Reagan administration - the inhumane treatment of the U.S. public, especially the poor, and of people in Third World countries such as El Salvador," said Joel Koplitz, 25, a protester in Los Angeles.

U.S. park police estimated the size of the crowd in Washington at 26,000. March organizers claimed 100,000.

District of Columbia police Lt. William White said at late afternoon there were no arrests and termed it "a very peaceful demonstration."

About 100 counter-demonstrators assembled for an American Conservative Union rally near the Washington Monument and sang "America the Beautiful."

Busloads of anti-Reagan demonstrators from around the nation waved banners and watched mimes and "street theater" at a "Festival of Resistance" on the Ellipse that opened the "April Actions for Peace, Jobs and Justice."

Eighty groups were listed by protesters as supporting the demonstration, including civil rights, labor, religious, anti-war, environmental, veterans and minority organizations.

The protesters urged a halt to U.S. intervention in Central America. Congress votes this week on $14 million in aid sought by the administration for Contra rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government.

Planned cemetery visit by Reagan upsets Jews

Associated Press

FRANKFURT, West Germany - World Jewish Congress leaders on Saturday assailed President Reagan's decision to visit a German military cemetery and said they would ask Chancellor Helmut Kohl to urge Reagan to cancel the visit.

"We hope to see Kohl on Sunday. We shall appeal to him to urge Reagan to drop the Bitburg visit," said Israel Singer, secretary-general of the World Jewish Congress, speaking Saturday.

A delegation of Congress leaders traveled yesterday to Bergen-Belsen, the site of a Nazi death camp, and expected to meet Kohl before the chancellor spoke at a memorial ceremony there for the victims.

Reagan, trying to appease criticism at home and abroad about the cemetery visit, said he also would visit a former concentration camp during his May 1-6 visit to West Germany. The U.S. and West German governments announced Friday that Kohl and Reagan will visit Bergen-Belsen together on May 5.

At Bitburg, 47 bodies of SS troopers are buried along with nearly 2,000 German soldiers, most of whom were killed in the Battle of the Bulge in December 1944. Thousands of American soldiers also died in that battle.

"We hope to prevail on Kohl and to convince him that he and Reagan are making a mistake by visiting the Bitburg cemetery," Singer told The Associated Press. "The problem has to be solved by Kohl. He could become the hero of the day," he said, and Reagan should "stay at home" until he's reassessed the subject.

"The president has shown great misunderstanding of the issue. He needs a lesson on what happened in Nazi Germany," Singer added.

He said his delegation would propose to Kohl that Reagan visit instead the grave of former West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer, a staunch anti-Nazi leader throughout World War II who served as chancellor from 1949 through 1962.

"We have the greatest respect for Adenauer and that would be real act of reconciliation," Singer said.

Kohl said earlier he understood Jewish concern over the cemetery visit.

Reagan escapes the blame for his many errors

Ronald Reagan is one of the more unique presidents in American history. His unusual wit combined with his uncanny ability to overcome adversity has made him one of the most popular and skillful presidents to date.

Simply by laughing and joking about the many blunders he has committed, Reagan can on social programs, Reagan blurted out that he had never cut Social Security, when in fact, it was one of the first programs to receive cuts during his first term in office.

But even though this was clearly more than just forgetting the facts, the President managed to get out of the situation without suffering any consequences. The President has repeatedly managed to avoid any trouble from such false statements as these.

But perhaps the best example of a serious, but now forgotten blunder, was when, not knowing he was on the air, the president casually said that we were going to bomb Russia.

A statement like this can have tremendous political ramifications and is not something to be taken lightly. Yet he simply brushed it off by joking about it and complaining that the press picked on him too much. This tactic struck a note in the public's heart and the incident was forgotten.

Reagan's political charisma has also allowed him to implement contradictory foreign and domestic policies without having them really challenged by anyone.

In the foreign realm, Reagan advocates aid to help the contras, a political party in Nicaragua which uses guerilla tactics in an attempt to overthrow the legitimately established government of Nicaragua. Reagan's reasoning is that the present government of Nicaragua is not democratic enough and that it doesn't adhere to many democratic principles.

Yet Reagan supports the government of the Philippines, which is a blatant dictatorship void of many democratic principles which we hold to be self-evident. For instance, the Philippine government does not allow free elections or freedom of the press which are two very basic democratic principles in the minds of most Americans.

Domestically, Reagan's contradictory policies can be observed right now during the budget talks. Reagan has said that federal spending must be sharply cut, and that everyone must lend a helping hand. Yet in his first proposed budget, he made a major cut in almost every area except defense, which took a very measly one.

Reagan is also an expert at shifting the blame in order to make someone else look like the bad guy. For instance, he has constantly said that he will never raise taxes to balance the budget. Yet Reagan knows as well as anyone that that is what will eventually have to happen to help balance the budget.

By saying he will never raise taxes, Reagan has put Congress in a position where they have to do it, and therefore they will look like the bad guys. This type of skillful campaigning has let him escape embarrassment and blame many a time when it has finally seemed that he made a lasting mistake.

This inconsistency has enabled Reagan to run roughshod over our political system. He simply advocates or implements any policy he wishes and when it happens to be one that the public does not agree with, he always manages to shift the blame and avoids accountability for his decisions.

This ability has given Reagan a tremendous advantage over the American public. By not being accountable, he can implement whatever policies he fancies, even if they are not supported by the people. He has already begun by proposing many undeserved cuts in social programs, continued high military spending for MX missiles and "Star Wars," and even renewed aid to the contras.

The American people and Congress must be on their toes at all times. We all must make sure that our president does not implement policies that we do agree with, like cuts in education and social programs. Congress has the ability to check the president, but that won't matter if we do not play our part and write our congressmen expressing our viewpoint.

If we all do a little something, maybe we can keep Reagan from making a shambles of our country and economy in his last term. If we continue to let him push us around, the consequences to our society and future administrations could be devastating.

make the public forgive and forget faster than you can say "Gipper." In addition, Reagan is a master at shifting the blame to help him escape out of many a political jam.

These qualities have helped Reagan rise to almost unprecedented popularity no matter what he says or does. And it is with this political charisma that the President has been able to get away with many a blunder no other politician would be allowed to live with, and implement contradictory foreign and domestic policies.

President Reagan has probably committed more blunders than the last ten presidents combined. Yet Reagan seems to escape every mishap without any visible scars. The public invariably forgets whatever blunder was committed, no matter how serious.

A classic example of a forgotten blunder is when while attempting to defend his record

Casey owes Pettifer an apology for his remarks

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to apologize to Ann Pettifer on behalf of Daniel Casey if he is not willing to do so.

That he disagrees with the way Pettifer perceives things is fine - and The Observer is an appropriate forum in which to present that disagreement. When one resorts to personal attacks in order to defend a stance, however, then one has gone too far.

Casey's letter does not in any way attempt to juggle the complexities of the role of women in the Church, an issue with which Pettifer is frequently concerned, and instead turns to sarcasm and distortion in a "grandstanding" fashion in order to express his intense dislike for her views.

Daniel Casey is a good writer, but why not argue with Pettifer, instead of attacking her? If you are Catholic and do have a personal interest in the things she discusses, please contribute to the community dialogue by explaining, not preying. Maybe then we can all enjoy our lunches a bit more.

Pettifer may be right to question the Church

Dear Editor:

The least Daniel Casey can do for Ann Pettifer is publish an apology and a retraction to his pointless editorial of April 16.

I wonder how the Caseys of the world can really doubt Pettifer's words. What evidence do they have? And why respond with such absurd chauvinistic slander?

Perhaps they fear that Pettifer just may be right. Has our loving Holy Father, John Paul II, opened his arms to the women of the Church? Unfortunately, no. Even the Vatican II Council fell pitifully short of treating women with even a shred of decency. Surprised? It seems the superiors of the world's larger female religious orders were not even invited to participate in the deliberations of the council. Also, at the council's official liturgies, these women had to remain on the outskirts of the congregation, which was quite a distance in a 2,000-plus congregation.

These women were then forbidden to receive the Eucharist. If they attempted to do so, they were forcefully turned back in the aisles. This is extremely interesting behavior coming from a council that would write, "For it is through the liturgy, especially the divine Eucharistic Sacrifice, the 'work of our redemption is exercised'" (Sacrosanctum Concilium).

Given incidences like this, one can at least understand the mentality of such a narrow-minded Church hierarchy when it attempts to confront problems such as birth control.

Just as the Church refuses to deal with women, it refuses to deal with birth control.

Pretending to know the issue a priori, the Pope issues a naive "No," pretending the problem will vanish.

Perhaps, after all, teenagers and young adults really will learn to ignore their sexual desires.

What happens unfortunately, as Pettifer wrote, is that "... pregnant adolescent girls, residually affected by teachings on chastity, believe that sex without birth control reduces its sinfulness."

One would be tremendously understating the problem to say the Church handled this problem without tact. The Church has yet to handle the problem of birth control.

As long as the Church is cursed with popes convinced a priori they are infallible on all issues yet to arise, the popes of the Church will continue to err.

As long as the Church is cursed with pontiffs in the spirit of men like Gregory XVI (1831-1846, famous for his condemnation of the invention of the steam engine), who condemn instead of confront the issues of the world today, it will never really understand why women like Pettifer can so accurately find the Church's faults.

And it is hoped that people like Pettifer will still be around pointing out faults so accurate and obvious.

Rock 'n' roll is alive and (mostly) well

Irish, English artists shine, American singer bores

Legend returns to rock with soul

Keith Harrison Jr.

Record review

A little more than a year ago, Warner Bros. Records chose not to extend the contract of rock legend Van Morrison, a move as unimaginable as the Cincinnati Reds dropping Pete Rose. But now Morrison is back, with a new record company and a powerful new record titled A Sense of Wonder.

For those who don't know, Van Morrison is the voice behind the 1966 rock classic "Gloria," which he sang as the leader of the Irish rhythm and blues band Them. After leaving Them, Morrison's early solo work continued in the same raucous vein, although a soul influence soon appeared and led to such hits as "Brown Eyed Girl."

In recent years, however, Morrison's records have been more subdued, as he deepened the soulfulness of his work and even delved into jazz fusion. The mellow Van Morrison never sold very well, however, which led to the abrupt contract termination at Warner Bros.

But Polygram Records gave Morrison another chance, and he has responded with a record which successfully blends the rough-edged r&b of his early years with his more serene recent work.

The R&B Morrison opens the album, starting with the single "Tore Down A La Rimbau." Trumpets and gospel backup vocalists punctuate each line of the chorus, and Morrison's singing is reminiscent of his most soulful work. Not only is it a great song, but it's even getting airplay in South Bend.

His recent problems with record companies and album sales obviously led Morrison to cover Mose Allison's "If You Only Knew." The music is bluesy, and the words follow suit:

If you only knew what could happen to a man for telling the truth.

If you only knew all the scruples that go down in gin and vermouth. I wouldn't want to steer you wrong but if you want to sing your own song

You're gonna have to lose a few if you only knew.

There are a few flaws on A Sense of Wonder. In a few spots, for instance, the mysticism borders on silliness.

Also, Morrison includes the instrumental, "Boffyflow and Spike," which is the weak point of the album. Morrison's voice is almost always the highlight of his albums, so why include any instrumentals in the first place?

But these are minor flaws. Songs like the beautifully hypnotic "Ancient of Days" are much more representative of A Sense of Wonder. Morrison has been making brilliant albums like this for twenty years. It's about time someone started listening.

Record review

Tears for Fears' new album, Songs from the Big Chair, shows a new musical and spiritual direction for this English quartet. Their brilliant first album, The Hurting, was a melancholy reflection on the sorrow and pain so prevalent in human lives. Songs from the Big Chair again touches on pain and suffering, but also focuses on the strength to overcome and rise above the complacency so prevalent in the world.

While all the songs on the album are well-crafted, and a few simply stunning, the album's greatest strength lies in the breadth and depth of the songs. Unlike those of many other groups, these are pop songs with a message.

"Shout," the album's first single, has an uplifting synthesizer melody and inspiring lyrics which encourage people to hold on to their beliefs and values and to break free of categories and labels that others assign them. "Everybody Wants to Rule the World" is the current single, getting airplay on Top 40 radio and MTV, and the best song on the album. With a warm and cheery feeling, it celebrates freedom and pleasure, and urges everyone to make the most of their lives, for "nothing ever lasts forever" in a world with the "lack of vision" of nuclear weapons.

Another gem on the album is a song buried at the end of side two. "Listen," a slow, sparse piece, beautifully uses Oriental influences in evoking strong visions of peace and contentment.

Other songs of note are "Mother's Talk," a funky song whose chanted lyrics inspire the listener to overcome the problems in life which one's mother tried to "protect" one from, and "The Working Hour"; powered by a distinctive saxophone and piano melody, it makes a forceful statement in challenging people to question and constructively change the conditions people live under, for "...we are paid by those who learn by our mistakes."

Songs from the Big Chair indicates that Tears for Fears are moving away from dwelling on sorrow and pain, and are instead focusing on the strength to overcome them. This change of direction is what gives Songs from the Big Chair its vitality. There is more to Tears for Fears than what can be heard on the radio or seen on MTV.

This leftover rock not fit for dogs

Record review

It is fitting that the copyright of Martin Briley's new album, Dangerous Moments, is owned by Miserable Melodies.

The album is filled with them.

The sticker on the jacket that lists "sure" hits warns us that the album contains "Dangerous Moments." The only danger involved is in dying of boredom while listening to this album.

The first side is one monotonous and laborious love song which is broken up only by five different titles; things fare no better on the flip-side. The title cut, "Dangerous Moments," has the power and thrust of a spent rocket booster drifting through space, a feeling that dominates the album.

Most of the songs share the same beat, and demonstrate just how little variety one man's voice can have. Briley's nasal vocals can only be described as unattractive and dull; the only way to vary the sound is to change the speed on the turntable. None of the songs could be described as up-beat or down-beat; they are all middle-of-the-road and insipid. The point here is that the songs aren't even horrible or offensive (a la Spinal Tap); they are as bland as lukewarm water.

The one song that stands out because of its humorous content is

"School for Dogs." The chorus tells the tale:

*You may be man's best friend
But if you're bad I'm gonna send you
To the school for dogs*

The song is the story of a pet whose loyalty Briley questions. It is noticeably different from the start, as the back-up vocals are done by a contingent of the Mormon Tabernacle Canine Choir.

The whole album is an ambitious effort. Briley seems either scared to experiment and explore with different sounds - or he is just unimaginative. It is generally shallow, uninspiring and comparable to listening to the Emergency Broadcast System Test; it's definitely not worth the price of an album today, and is probably not worth the vinyl it was pressed on.

Murcer ends pro career

Associated Press

MIAMI — Bobby Murcer, who ended his major league career with the New York Yankees nearly two years ago, decided yesterday that his fling as a designated hitter in the Florida State League had gone far enough.

"I had fun," said the 38-year-old former outfielder after his three-game stint with the Fort Lauderdale Yankees in the Triple A league. He had one hit in 12 at-bats.

Murcer's main purpose was to supervise the rehabilitation of Yankees base stealing whiz Rickey Henderson, who has been playing for Fort Lauderdale as he recovered from a badly sprained left ankle suffered in an spring training exhibition game.

Both Henderson and Murcer will fly to New York today.

"I'm ready to play," said Henderson, who was acquired from the Oakland A's in the offseason. He walked three times and stole two bases yesterday.

Langer edges Wadkins in Heritage

Associated Press

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. — Masters champion Bernhard Langer of West Germany beat hopeful Bobby Wadkins on the first playoff hole and scored his second consecutive victory yesterday, this one in the prestigious Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

Langer, who last week became the first German to win any of golf's major titles, needed only a two-putt par on the first extra hole to turn back Wadkins, who was seeking his first American victory in an 11-year career that has been played in the shadow of his brother, Lanny.

Langer and Wadkins each finished the regulation 72 holes over the picturesque Harbour Town Golf Links in 273, 11 shots under par on one of the most demanding courses the pros encounter all year.

Langer played the final 18 holes in 70 and Wadkins got around without a bogey and posted a 68.

That sent them back to the 16th, a dogleg par-4, with the title and a $72,000 first prize at stake.

Both drove the fairway. Wadkins, however, put his second shot into the right bunker. Langer reached the front of the green.

Wadkins blew his bunker shot some 12 feet short of the cup. Langer, using his cross-handed putting style, left a birdie putt on the lip of the cup, and tapped in for par. Wadkins missed on the right and Langer was a winner again, the first man since Gary Player in 1978 to follow the Masters with a victory the next week.

"I know he must have had a little letdown after winning last week. To come here, and play extremely well, like he did, my hat's off to him," Wadkins said.

The victory in the $400,000 event also allowed Langer to join Mark O'Meara, Curtis Strange, Calvin Peete and Lanny Wadkins as this season's two-time champions.

Hal Sutton and Tim Norris tied for third at 274, one shot out of the playoff. Each shot 67 over the final 18 holes, played in warm, sunny weather with just a hint of breeze stirring the Spanish moss dripping from the oak and cypress lining the fairways.

Sutton's share of the purse pushed him over the $1 million mark in career earnings.

Mike Smith was next at 67-275 and Larry Nelson at 70-276.

The group at 277 included Danny Edwards, Larry Mize, Jim Thorpe and Dan Pohl. Thorpe and Pohl had 70s, Mize a scrambling 72.

A controversial charging call may have been the factor that creamed The Creamers. It was Revenge Factor that emerged with the 21-19 win after a charging call late in the game turned much of the crowd in favor of Revenge Factor. But it was the Factor's players on the court who overcame an 18-13 deficit with an 8-1 scoring streak to end the game. Paul Schoener led the way with 8-of-23 shooting for the winners, while Bentley Edmunds hit 8-of-15 for the defeated.

Arsenal Gunners were shot down yesterday on Bookstore 9 at 2:15 by Four People and a Short Fat Guy. Gerry Bradley hit 6-of-16 for the Gunners, but it was Steve Skolozinski's 7-of-18 and John Rischard's 7-of-25 that won the game, 21-19.

Five Horsemen of the Apocalypse rode their way to victory over Toe Jamb, Queef Juice and Three Other Tasty Treats on Stepan 1 at 3:00. Mark Kennedy rode highest in the saddle for the Apocalypse, hitting 9-of-18 in the 21-19 victory. Sam Dowell led the Treats with 7-of-23.

With a scoring attack more balanced than the team's name suggests, The Fastest White Guy on Campus and Four Orange Pylons ran over Ragin' Ray's CPA's, 21-18, on Stepan 2 at 3:45. John Murphy was the most productive Pylon, with 6-of-9, while Carey Purcell led the accountants with 10-of-20.

Demented Doormats were not walked on or driven over by Four Rink Rats and a Zamboni Driver on Stepan 3 at 5:15. The Mats pulled out a 21-18 victory on the strength of Rick Wirth's 9-of-18 shooting. Hamil Cupero was the leader of the pack, with 6-of-14 for the Rats.

Four Delinquents and Our Lawyer were sorry to find themselves surrounded by Mixed Company on Stepan 3 at 4:30. Randy Golob led Mixed Company to the 21-18 victory with his 9-of-20 effort. Greg Wittrock was the "worst" of the Delinquents, with 6-of-14.

Ghostbuster Bill Murray could sympathize with Sven and the Flacid Four, as they got slimed on Lyons 11 at 5:15. Slime needed only 43 shots in the 21-18 victory, as Mike Allen went 7-of-9, Paul Brennan hit 5-of-11 and Tom Hartzell was 5-of-13. Frank Loughlin hit 9-of-31 for the slimed ones.

One can only hope that the players for Prepare to Meet Your Maker followed their own advice yesterday on Stepan 5 at 3:45, when they were buried by Flankin' Idiots, 21-18. Pete White (5-of-9) and Francis Sverdrup (5-of-15) led Meet Your Maker, but Idiots Dave Palmer (8-of-20) and Larry Lemanski (7-of-17) sent their opponents to Heaven (or wherever).

Of course, not all of the third-round games were that close, and not all of the seeded teams had a lot of difficulty winning. Favored Rousseau's Noble Savages finished off Badfinger... The Finale, 21-5, at 2:15 on Stepan 4. Brian Behmer led the savages with 7-of-10 shooting, while teammate Tom Arndorfer was a perfect 5-of-5. Mike Dipaolo (3-of-14) had the baddest finger for the 5-of-32 losers. The Savages hit 21-of-31 as a team.

Tequila White Lightning lost the services of Tod Tamberg to illness, but the team was up against Five Guys Worse Than Tim Kempton at 2:15 on Lyons 12. Lightning struck more than once on the fans of Notre Dame's redhead center, as TWL hit 21-of-34 en route to a 21-8 victory.

Armed and Dangerous III had the arms to make bacon out of Pigsters on Stepan 5 at 4:30. Dave Taiclet's 6-of-14 led A and D's balanced 21-of-42 attack, while the porkers also had a balanced "attack" four players with one point and one with two points, as the team went 6-of-25.

Boxer owes much to family

Ed Kelly works hard for his goals

By ED DOMANSKY
Sports Writer

Most everyone would probably agree that hard work pays off. Notre Dame junior Ed Kelly certainly would.

Kelly, a 5-4, 139-pound Grace Hall resident recently captured the National Collegiate Boxing Association title in the 139-pound class by defeating Rodney Smith from Westpointe. The championship competition held at Westchester University in Westchester, Pa. April 12-13 proved to Kelly that without a doubt, nothing is out of reach if you want it badly enough.

"I worked harder for this than anything in my life," said the spunky Worcester, Mass. native. "To win this championship made it clear in my eyes that there is no substitute for hard work. It proved what I have always thought: hard work is the key to success, and I'll never forget that."

After watching his future championship bout opponent score a knockout victory in his opening fight, Kelly quickly learned that winning the title would not be an easy task.

"I realized that he was stronger than I was, so I would have to try to outthink him," said the mechanical engineering major. "He was five inches taller, but I found out that his pattern was very predictable. He relied a lot on flurries of hooks and seldom did anything different. I tried to use a lot of side-to-side movements and counter-punching to combat his strength. By staying low, I also made it hard for him to connect like he wanted to."

Kelly survived two second-round knockdowns en route to the 3-2 decision that earned him his title. Kelly maintains that moving, staying loose and being quick were his three keys to winning.

After winning three fights to take the championship in the 145-pound class at the Bengal Bouts, Kelly worked to secure funds in order to take part in the Midwest Regional competition in Charleston, S.C., March 15-16. There, he defeated fighters from Xavier and the Air Force Academy to earn the right to represent the Midwest at the national championship.

After training since September, Kelly's hard work has enabled him to raise his collegiate boxing record to 11-0; but through all of his success he finds it very important to thank all the other people that helped to make everything possible.

"I owe a lot to my coach Sean McCormick and his family, the guys at the Michiana Boxing School, my friends here at school," adds Kelly, "and most of all my family. They supported me in every way imaginable. There are also numerous others who I can't even begin to mention, but without their help and support, my effort would never have been possible."

Westhoeven defends six-mile title

By JOHN MENNELL
Sports Writer

It was a better day to watch someone run six miles than to do it yourself.

That didn't stop Jeff Westhoven from defending his men's undergraduate title in Saturday's Irish Spring Runs. Westhoven finished second overall to Paul Matousak in the six-mile race in 85-degree weather. Matousak, also winner of the men's graduate division, completed the course in 32:08. Westhoven finished in 32:25, seconds ahead of third place finisher John Raven.

Colleen Donnelly won the undergraduate women's division with a time of 44:07. Mary Ambrose, who finished 50th out of the 139 racers in the six-mile, won the women's graduate division.

Guy Locksmith found the key to victory over the 57 other runners in the three-mile race on Saturday. His time of 16:25 earned him a the undergraduate division title. Two other undergraduates filled out the top three positions overall. David Hipp finished second and Peter Simms third.

for the back-up spot. And Von Wyl and Chura both showed their capabilities on Saturday - Von Wyl booting a 52-yarder, and Chura narrowly missing from the same distance.

Von Wyl also made a strong claim for the starting punter position as he nailed a 60-yard kick. Both he and sophomore Dan Sorenson impressed observers with their 40-yards-per-kick averages.

For Faust, these positive results from the special teams were an especially welcome sight considering that even the long-snapper and holder positions are being manned by new personnel.

"We were very pleased with the kicking game," said Faust. "That was one big thing today. We wanted to see the punters, kickers, and snappers under pressure."

"We've got new snappers (sophomore Tom Freeman and walk-on John Grieb), new holders, and new kickers. Von Wyl, Sorenson, and Chura all did a very good job."

Perhaps the most encouraging aspect of the scrimmage was the fact that there was only one injury: a mild knee injury to split end Pat Cusack which will keep the junior out of action for the remainder of the spring. Offensive guard Tim Scannell and linebacker Tony Furlan also were pulled from the scrimmage early, although this was merely a precautionary move by a concerned Faust, who did not want to risk another injury to either of those two recuperating players.

Next Saturday's Blue-Gold/Steak and Beans scrimmage, meanwhile, will be the culmination of all the hard work of the spring season. Although many of the projected starters for the fall will not be in uniform, Faust promises another hard-hitting scrimmage.

"It will be a heck of a scrimmage," says Faust. "The players have a lot of pride on the line."

A well-played Blue-Gold game next Saturday would be a real feast for any Irish football fan.

Tofu Vegetables I stirs excitement in 21-19 win over favored Shysters

By PHIL WOLF
Assistant Sports Editor

It was a busy weekend for Bookstore Basketball XIV.

The second round was completed on Friday and Saturday, as 90 teams battled on the asphalt courts, and yesterday, the entire third round was played, trimming the field to 64 teams, who will compete every day this week until just one remains at the end of the largest of AnTostal's annual events.

It was awfully hot for basketball yesterday, but the competition was fierce, and the crowds lazing in the sun seemed to enjoy it.

"It was a beautiful day for Bookstore Basketball," tournament commissioner Jeff Blumb said last night. Unless, of course, your favorite team was one of the 109 teams to bow out of the competition in the past three days.

If your favorite team is Hey, Shi-Happens, you better adopt the attitude suggested by the team's name because Dribbling Dyxz II caused a little shi- to happen yesterday on Stepan 6 at 1:30. Kevin Barry hit 7-of-18 to lead the Dyxz over Shi-Happens, 22-20, despite Mike Blocker's 8-of-17 effort for the losers.

In another overtime game, DSB's Half Again Their Original Size was victorious over Green Wienies on Lyons 12 at 4:30. The Wienies probably wish DSB's Mark Roesler really was only half his original size, as he hit 10-of-32 to lead his team to the 22-20 victory. Bob Comfort was the King Wienie, hitting 11-of-26 in the losing effort.

On Stepan 4 at 1:30, the Homeboys could not withstand the Big Black Mac Attack. Mike McGuire led the Attack with 10-of-19 shooting in the 22-20 win. Tim Reilly tried to fend off the Attack with 9-of-19, but the Boys had to head home with the loss.

It may not be a favorite in the dining halls, but Tofu Vegetables I is establishing a devoted following on the courts. Last week, the Veggies downed former varsity player Barry Spencer's team, and yesterday the Alumni freshmen downed a seeded team in this year's tournament.

Shysters, an Elite Eight team in Bookstore XIII, was the victim of the stir-fried freshmen. An even scoring attack for Tofu was the key to the win. Bill Zadell led the way with 7-of-24 and Matt Hanley was 5-of-24. Carl Livingston hit 6-of-16 for Shysters, and teammate Tom Lange was 6-of-24.

Another favored team had difficulty yesterday, but Red Barons pulled out a 21-19 victory over Los Malandros on Stepan 4 at 6:00. Despite the trouble the team had with Los Malandros' zone defense, the Barons hit 21-of-54, led by Bubba Cunningham's 8-of-17 and former varsity player Casey Newell's 5-of-10. Mark Trautmann pitched in 9-of-17 for the losers.

Irish take second place at intercollegiate meet

By MIKE SZYMANSKI
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's track team emerged from a dogfight at the Indiana Intercollegiate last Saturday with second place (136 1/2), defeating Indiana (136) but losing to Purdue (149).

"We went there anticipating that Indiana, the Big Ten indoor champion, was the team to beat, but Purdue was a surprise, as they ran extremely well," said coach Joe Piane.

Bill Courtney (9:11) and Rick Mulvey (9:20) placed first and second in the steeplechase. Robert Nobles finished a half-second behind the winner in the 800-meter with a time of 1:51.67.

The mile relay of Dan Shannon, Van Percy, Nobles, and John McNelis won in 3:11, as McNelis contributed a 48.6 split. Percy placed in the 100 and 200, and Shannon placed in the 200 and 400.

James Patterson was a double winner in the triple jump (49-7) and in the long jump with a school record of 25-5 1/4. Joel Autry and Gary LeKander took third and fourth place in the triple jump. Brian Driscoll threw 190 in the javelin to place second, and Tom Mick added a fourth-place finish in the hammer throw.

"As a team, we did fairly well, but if we had competed better in a few events we would have won the meet," said Piane. "The scoring was evenly distributed."

The Irish will run at the prestigious Drake Relays this weekend. They will enter a two-mile relay, a four-mile relay, and either a mile relay or a sprint medley depending on the availability of injured sprinter Mitch Van Eyken.

No steak for Saturday scrimmage; will be incentive in Blue-Gold game

By MARTY BURNS
Sports Writer

There was neither steak nor beans at Saturday afternoon's football scrimmage - just a few leftovers.

With more than 20 players out because of injuries, head coach Gerry Faust decided to take the leftover players and hold a normal practice session instead of the previously scheduled "steak and beans" scrimmage.

The "steak and beans" game - where the winners feast on tenderloins while the losers eat franks and beans - instead will be held next Saturday as part of the traditional Blue-Gold game. Faust will hope not only to see some new faces off the injured list next week, but he will hope also for a more complete effort than he got on Saturday from his squad. Although Faust was impressed overall with the scrimmage, he still noted that both the offense and the defense played well in streaks, but not throughout all of the entire hour-and-a-half session.

"We were pretty pleased," said Faust. "I thought that they hit pretty good, and it impressed me the way the offense moved the ball. The first 12 plays, (the offense) didn't do anything, but then over the rest of the way they moved it pretty well.

"The defense played very well. They were intense, although at the end they let the offense move the ball too easily."

Of course, Faust was not expecting to see too much from this scrimmage, not with all the injuries and with the incentive of steak and beans having been taken away. To further reduce Faust's optimism were the 80-degree temperature and the fact that only one of the regular offensive linemen (strong guard John Askin) played more than a few minutes.

"We've had one bad scrimmage out of the four every year," noted Faust. "I felt today we wouldn't hit as well. But they did hit pretty well, and we got to look at a few different things. This year, we really haven't had a bad scrimmage yet."

The scrimmage started out the way Faust thought it might with the offense unable to make a first down until the 13th play. At this point, however, things began clicking behind the running of tailback Alonzo Jefferson (13 carries - 78 yards, 3 touchdowns) and behind the leadership of the three freshmen quarterbacks, Tom Byrne, Terry Andrysiak, and Pat Pesavento. Although the three attempted few passes (they combined for seven completions in 27 attempts), they moved their offensive units effectively when called upon to do so.

The highlight of the practice, though, occurred in the place-kicking department. While last year's place kicker John Carney is sitting out the spring season with an injury, sophomore Pat Chura and junior Hal Von Wyl are competing

SMC nabs fifth at NAIA Tourney

By ANDREA LaFRENIERE
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's track team captured fifth place at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 21 Tournament Saturday. Eight schools competed in the tournament, which took place at Manchester College in North Manchester, Ind.

"We were very pleased with our efforts," said Coach Jean Kerich. "I think we did extremely well."

Several Belles placed individually at the tournament, including sophomore Megan McMonigle, who received second place in the javelin event.

Sophomore Trish McPartlin took fourth place in the high jump and finished fifth in the triple jump.

Mariclaire Driscoll, a sophomore, captured fourth place in the 10,000-meter race, and freshman Cathy Kennedy came in fourth in the 1500-meter race. Kennedy finished fifth in the 800-meter race as well.

Three of the Belles' relay teams placed in the tournament.

Freshmen Diane Cancro, Julie Novak, Tina Reid, and Kennedy ran the 800-meter relay and came in fourth place.

The Belles' 100-meter relay team, consisting of sophomore Cris Cox, McMonigle, Cancro, and Novak received fourth place for its efforts.

Cox, Novak, McMonigle, and Kennedy ran the 400-meter relay and came in fifth place for the Belles.

The team will play host to St. Joseph, Rensselaer, and Franklin Colleges today at 3:30 p.m. The javelin event will take place at Saint Mary's, while the rest of the events will be held at Clay High School in South Bend.
