Professor proposes mandatory AIDS test for U.S. population

By MARY BERGER
Staff Reporter

A visiting law professor at Notre Dame has proposed mandatory testing of the entire U.S. population to identify the carriers of Acquired Immune Deficiency syndrome or AIDS.

Richard Duncan, a University of Nebraska professor, said such testing would help slow the spread of the disease, which breaks down the body's immune system and often leads to death.

"Currently, there is no public policy attempting to stop the spread of the disease," Duncan said. "Considering effective ways to slow the spread, testing and identification of carriers is the only answer."

Duncan said the test would be confidential and it would be left up to those found to have the virus to "make the appropriate changes in their lifestyles."

Confirmed cases of AIDS victims in the United States, those that are ill with the disease, presently number more than 18,000, according to the federal estimate made by the Center for Disease Control.

Duncan said the number of carriers, "those infected with the AIDS virus but not ill with the disease who can pass it on," could be as high as two million at the present time.

"The real problem is not the 18,000 who have the disease, but the two million carriers who do not know they have the virus, have contact with others, and are spreading the disease," Duncan said.

"If the spread of the disease is not checked soon," Duncan said, "two to ten million new cases will be exposed in the near future."

Duncan's proposal is detailed in his article in the next issue of the "Journal of Contemporary Health Law and Policy." In this article, he calls for mandatory testing of the entire population of the United States to identify carriers of AIDS.

Duncan explained that the disease is not spread through casual contact but through needles and sexual intercourse. Duncan said he hopes that once an individual knows he is infected, he will refrain from infecting others.

"If this step is not effective, then we would need to reevaluate the situation and consider further steps like the laws which prohibit knowingly exposing a person to a

Phillipine investigator says document lacks credibility

WASHINGTON — The chief Philippine investigator of deposed President Ferdinand Marcos' wealth said yesterday he does "not give much credence" to a document indicating contributions of $50,000 each in 1980 to the presidential campaigns of Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Carter.

Jovita Salonga told Congress, "I did not give it (the document) much credence because it does not bear any signature or initial," and three congressmen also said the paper should be viewed with caution because its authenticity has not been established.

Spokesmen for both the Reagan and Carter campaigns said they knew nothing of the purported contributions, and Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who is named in the paper as receiving $10,000, said he was unaware of any such contribution.

Fred Eiland, chief spokesman for the Federal Election Commission, said it is illegal for foreign na-

Compromise on rebel aid possible, says Reagan

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, scrambling for votes to win $100 million in military aid to Nicaraguan rebels, offered Congress yesterday a possible compromise that would limit the assistance to "defensive" weapons, training and logistics for the first 90 days.

With today's showdown House vote expected to be extremely close, the White House gave congressmen a draft executive order that they said Reagan would sign if the $100 million was passed.

The draft order would restrict the first 90 days of aid to the Contra rebels to weapons "for defense against air attacks," training in small-unit warfare and logistical aid. The aid would be stopped if the rebels engaged in human rights violations or drug smuggling.

Under the president's plan, all types of military aid would be permitted after 90 days if the leftist Nicaraguan government does not negotiate seriously with the rebels — a step the government has repeatedly refused to take, charging that the Contras are a creation of the United States.

Congress could block the aid at that point, but that would require majority votes in both the House and Senate. Reagan could then veto such a move and it would require a two-thirds majority in each house to override him.

Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Latin America, said the proposed compromise "doesn't really change anything . . . It's an obvious indication that the administration doesn't have the votes on the merits and they're grasping for ways to get some votes."

But Rep. John McKernan, R-Maine, a swing vote, said that while he was still undecided, the new pro-

Reagan endorses program to attack acid rain

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, who has resisted Canadian pressure to join in combating the sources of acid rain, announced his endorsement yesterday of a $50 billion program to develop methods to attack the causes of the problem.

Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, who came to Washington to win a U.S. commitment to act against acid rain pollution, called Reagan's statement "a significant step . . . in the right direction" and told the president, "We now have an agreed foundation on which to build."

Reagan, commenting for the first time on the recommendations of special envoys he and Mulroney appointed a year ago to study the problem, said, "I fully endorse the report."

His spokesman, Larry Speakes, said the administration "will seek to provide in the future the funding recommended" in the envoys' report that was presented to Reagan and Mulroney in January.

The president for years has insisted the acid rain problem needed further study before a control program could be designed.

The report calls on the United States to embark on a five-year program, with $2.5 billion provided by the government and $2.5 billion by industry, to develop methods of reducing the sulfur and nitrogen oxide emissions from coal-burning plants.

Such plants, particularly in the industrial Midwest and Northeast, are responsible for most of the pollution that scientists say mixes with moisture in the air and returns to earth as acid rain, damaging lakes and streams and killing fish.

Speakes, in describing the U.S. position, left open the possibility that the government would seek greater industrial support than the 50 percent recommended by the envoys, former Reagan Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis and former Ontario Premier William Davis.

At the conclusion of two days of White House talks, the president and prime minister also signed a five-year extension of the North American Aerospace Defense Command (NORAD) agreement.

Critics said extension of the pact, which Reagan and then-Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau last signed in 1981, could lead to Canada being drawn into Reagan's "Star Wars" space defense plan. The Mulroney government has declined to participate in the research program, formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative, but private Canadian concerns are permitted to sign contracts to help develop portions of the system.

Reagan and Mulroney agreed the launching of the long-sought demonstration program to reduce acid-causing emissions is only the beginning of U.S. and Canadian efforts to solve the problems of acid rain.

"Serious scientific and economic problems remain to be solved," Reagan said, "but in the spirit of cooperation and good will which has come to characterize the way Canadians and Americans approach their common problems, I am confident that we have begun a process which will benefit future generations in both our great countries."

Mulroney expressed his gratitude to Reagan for agreeing to endorse the report.

"Debbie Does Dallas" was shown by a student group at the University of Illinois as a protest against the student government's efforts to ban pornographic films from campus. The X-rated film attracted more viewers than all six shows of each of the other three movies ("Footloose," "French Connection" and "Raiders of the Lost Ark") on campus that weekend. — The Observer

Reports of tainted Girl Scout cookies continued to pour into the Indiana State Board of Health, but as of Wednesday, only nine reports had been confirmed as cases of tampering, a board spokesman said. Von Roebuck said the latest case was confirmed by the board and by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration on Monday. Since March 6, Roebuck said, the board has received 33 complaints of cookies tainted with glass, aluminum, sewing needles and pins. Cases of confirmed tampering originated in several cities, including South Bend, although unconfirmed reports have come from many other areas. — AP

A Faith Assembly couple, of Elkhart, Ind., were convicted yesterday of reckless homicide in the death of their infant son. Prosecutors claimed that David and Randa Hoover's 9-day-old son, Bradley, could have been saved had the couple sought medical treatment for him. Medical experts testified during the two-day trial in Elkhart Superior Court that Bradley, who died Aug. 14, suffered from an inflamed abdomen caused by a twisted bowel. The Hoovers testified that they didn't know why their son died but believed God could have cured him. The Hoovers are members of the Faith Assembly, a religious group that shuns medical care in favor of faith-healing. — AP

An experimental drug designed to relieve depression also shows promise of helping fat people lose weight without going on diets, its manufacturer says. The drug, called Prozac, was developed by Eli Lilly and Co. The price of the pharmaceutical firm's stock rose to $67.125 a share yesterday, up $7.875, apparently as a result of news about the drug's potential use in obesity. — AP

The only good news medium is a responsible, responsive one

I wonder if Professor Bob Schmuhl realizes how completely he summarized American journalism for me in one afternoon class last year.

Commenting on the three basic media, Professor Schmuhl explained that radio alerts, television informs, and newspapers explain. By its power of immediacy radio can bring a news item to your attention first. Television, also an immediate news source, can offer more details because of its advanced technology. Newspapers have the space to devote to an issue, personality or event; therefore, they act as educator.

A knowledgeable society needs all three components to maintain and function in a democracy. This may sound arrogant, as the press often does, but it is the plain, undeniable truth: the press is responsible in helping to mold, or at least to influence, society.

The news media does not tell people what to think, but it does tell them what to think about. The media sets people's news agenda. If reporters continually fill the pages with tales of urban blight, national attention will turn to the decay of the city. Consequently, it is the editor's task to decide what is news.

In the determination of news and its presentation, editors and reporters must consider several things. Accuracy has to be a given. Readers and viewers should not be left with questions after reading or watching a news story. If a newspaper is not credible, it has no place on the newsstand.

Decisions editors face everyday involve whether they present what the public wants to know, or what they should know. There has to be a middle ground. Band Aid, We Are the World and Live Aid all were respectable, predominantly altruistic actions to help alleviate the suffering in Africa. They also were star-filled, flashy events that lured the media. But the press had an obligation to dig deeper into the situation. Although it would have been easier merely to interview the celebrities and report the record sales, the news media had to explain how such famine could sweep through Ethiopia and other African nations, leaving human shells and corpses in its wake. That is education. And that is the way to bring about improvement.

The value of the news media is that it is there every day, more regularly than the postman. Consequently, people tend to derive their perceptions of public figures, events and issues from these daily sources of information. The press must accept this responsibility without abusing the power.

Although a newspaper, television or radio station may want to offer all the news that's fit to print, broadcast or telecast, the media must consider the public welfare. What is in the best interest of society? The New York Times uncovered the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba in 1962. When President John F. Kennedy asked the paper not to reveal it for fear the news

Sarah Hamilton

could ruin the invasion, the newspaper obliged him. Ironically, Kennedy admitted after the disastrous results of the invasion that he wished the Times had gone ahead with the story. It may have saved lives and international embarrassment.

Just last summer, the major networks conducted a press conference with the terrorists of the TWA jetliner that was hijacked to Beirut. When the reporters were granting the hijackers the same coverage they give elected officials, they were offering legitimacy to terrorism. By offering the terrorists an avenue of communication, did the press think that it was just working to free human beings? The press must ask itself these questions all the time, and face the reality of the answers.

Radio, television and newspapers — responsible news media — are essential in a free society. This Professor Schmuhl taught me. What he left out, however, is that a fourth component is needed. The public. People must be knowledgeable about and actively concerned that the press lives up to its social duties. The best way to do this is to know how the press works and why it works.

While radio alerts, and television informs and newspapers explain, people must be listening, watching, reading and speaking up. The only good news medium is a responsible and responsive one.

The Observer is continuing to experience typesetting difficulties in the daily operation of the newspaper. The staff apologizes for any delays or production errors. The situation will be amended as soon as possible.

General to lecture on 'Star Wars'

By MARY E. HESS
News Staff

The Strategic Defense Initiative. President Ronald Reagan called it a way "to free the world from the threat of intercontinental nuclear war," while its opponents see it as a very expensive and inevitably fallible program.

One of those closely involved with the program is Brigadier General Robert Rankine Jr., the Air Force's special assistant for the Strategic Defense Initiative (SDI), who will discuss the controversial program tonight at 8 in Washington Hall.

Rankine's speech, sponsored by the Around the Corner Club and Air Force ROTC Detachment 225, will consist of a slide presentation and lecture addressing the basis and progress of SDI, more popularly known as "Star Wars."

"Tonight's forum is an excellent opportunity for students to clear up any clouds on the subject," said Captain Roger Overturf of Notre Dame Air Force ROTC. "It's like I keep telling the cadets: 'You don't want to avoid asking the tough questions.' That's what he's here for."

Overturf said Rankine, the Air Force's senior official involved with SDI, will arrive on campus at 12:30 p.m. to begin a "whirlwind tour" of activities. The brigadier general will speak in the Air Force ROTC Leadership Lab and an Engineering Values Seminar before his presentation to the public. Rankine's itinerary also includes a brief courtesy call with University President Father Theodore Hesburgh, who is widely known for his anti-nuclear stance.

Rankine is a 28-year veteran of the Air Force ROTC program who has been involved with SDI since its conception. In September 1984, Rankine received a letter of appreciation from Reagan, commending the brigadier general's significant contribution to the establishment and implementation of SDI. As special assistant for SDI, Rankine has overall management for all Air Force resources currently used in research efforts. Present research follows many different concepts, involving a wide range of both nuclear and non-nuclear technologies.

The program is designed to answer a number of scientific and engineering questions that must be addressed before Congress and the president can decide whether or not to adopt the advanced defensive system. The decision point is expected to be reached some time in the early 1990s.

venereal disease," Duncan said.

However, another visiting law school professor, Joel Newman, described Duncan's proposal as "an enormous invasion of privacy."

"I am not sure we have reached the point where such a step is necessary," Newman said. "Considering the number of lives which will be saved by such a measure, it is not worth it."

Yet Duncan said it is. "If no one else is exposed, over a quarter million people will die. But if the spread is not halted, millions will die," he said. "We do not want segregation, we want to protect the AIDS victims, but we must protect public health."

Although Newman questioned whether or not the time has come for the action Duncan proposed, Duncan said he feels action at some later point will be too late to be effective.

"In addition to the testing I propose, I feel that no money should be spread and no paths should go unexplored in the search for a vaccine or cure for AIDS," Duncan said.

nationals to contribute, directly or indirectly, to U.S. political campaigns. He said it also is illegal to knowingly accept or solicit donations from foreign nationals. The prohibition does not apply to resident aliens.

The paper listing the purported contributions was among 2,300 pages of documents Marcos took with him to Hawaii last month after his 20-year rule in the Philippines collapsed.

The papers were turned over Tuesday to Salonga, head of the Commission on Good Government, and the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Pacific and Asian Affairs, which is investigating Marcos' U.S. dealings.

Salonga appeared before the panel yesterday and said the papers detail what he called Marcos' "unbelievable plunder" of the Philippine treasury. He has estimated Marcos' worth at $5 billion to $10 billion.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the subcommittee, said the Marcos papers led him to conclude that Marcos' government "existed for the primary purpose of looting and plundering the wealth of the nation."

The documents were not released publicly, although Solarz said, "I want to make as much of this public as soon as possible."

Rep. Robert G. Torricelli, D-N.J., told reporters after the hearing that the campaign contributions were detailed in a document dated 1982 and referring to the 1980 campaign.

Torricelli said the documents indicate a Manila-based company named "Mabuhai" transferred "several hundred thousand dollars" to U.S. campaigns.

University gets $557,916 in grants

Special to The Observer

Notre Dame received $557,916 in grants during February for the support of service programs, instructional programs and research.

Awards for service programs totaled $36,728, including $19,581 from private benefactors for programs of the Institute for Pastoral and Social Ministry and $17,147 from the Indiana State Board of Health for the arbovirus surveillance laboratory directed by Paul Grimstad, assistant professor of biology.

Awards for instructional programs consisted of a $4,400 grant from the McGee Foundation for the McGee fellowship program in economics.

Research funds totaled $516,788, including:

- $154,462 from the National Institutes of Health for research on the intermediary metabolism of parasitic worms by Howard Saz, professor of biology.
- $117,993 from the Lilly Endowment Inc. for a study of the historical roots of the Roman Catholic parish by Jay Dolan, professor of history and director of the Cushwa Center for the Study of American Catholicism.
- $105,998 from the National Institutes of Health for 1/i-

ATTENTION LAW STUDENTS

First and second year law students have a unique opportunity to apply for the Marine Corps Platoon Leaders Class (PLC) Law Program leading to a commission as an officer of Marines and membership in one of the largest law firms in the country, the Judge Advocate Division.

WHAT A MARINE JUDGE ADVOCATE DOES

The Judge Advocate Division functions much like a large civilian law firm and includes about 400 practicing lawyers. Few civilian practices, however, can offer a young lawyer the diversity of assignments you will receive in the Marine Corps.

As a Judge Advocate, you will have the opportunity to work in a variety of fields, such as international, labor, torts, environment, family, and aviation law.

Your initial work will probably be in litigation, as either a prosecutor or a defense counsel in court-martial and later as a judge in criminal cases of all descriptions.

Some of the Judge Advocate's practice is routine, such as drafting wills and leases. Judge Advocates have also appeared before federal district courts, courts of appeal, the Merit Systems Protection Board, and at Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and Nuclear Regulatory Commission hearings.

Your military experience will be easily transferable to civilian practice.

BENEFITS AVAILABLE

- Law Program Guarantee
- Freedom to withdraw from the program after initial training
- Summer training session with pay includes free travel, books, clothes, room & board
- Longevity accrued while in law school, which means more money in your pocket

U.S. doctors say Nicaraguan rebels deliberately attack health centers

Associated Press

NEW YORK — On the eve of the congressional vote on aid to the Nicaraguan Contras, a group of U.S. doctors is charging that the rebels have deliberately attacked rural health centers and killed and kidnapped health workers in violation of international law.

The doctors, who belong to an organization of health workers opposed to U.S. aid to the rebels, said Contra forces have completely or partially destroyed 61 health facilities and forced the closing of 37 others since 1981. Thirty-eight health workers have been killed and 28 others kidnapped, the doctors said.

Their report, prepared after a visit to Nicaragua by 120 American health workers in November, is being distributed to members of the House of Representatives this week, said one of the report's authors, Dr. David Siegel of the University of California in San Francisco.

Today, the House will decide whether to approve President

Reagan's plan to give $100 million in military and economic aid to the Contras. A compromise appeared possible yesterday when White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the administration might agree to changes that would delay delivery of military and other aid for up to four months to permit time for diplomatic negotiations.

The doctors' report, a follow-up to one released in March 1985, was prepared by Siegel and other members of the San Francisco Bay Area Committee for Health Rights in Central America, a local affiliate of the National Central American Health Rights Network. The members who visited Nicaragua paid their own way, Siegel said.

Siegel said in a telephone interview that he and his associates generally support the Sandinista government of Nicaragua and oppose the Contras.

"As health care professionals, we are particularly disturbed by the pervasive violations of medical neutrality committed by Contra forces," the doctors said in the report, "Health Consequences of War in Nicaragua."

The report cites a section of the Geneva Conventions of 1949 requiring that medical personnel "be granted all available help for the performance of their duties" and that medical units "shall not be the object of the attack."

In Washington, an official in the State Department press office who refused to be identified said the department had not seen the report and had no comment on it.

Bosco Matamoros, spokesman for the Nicaraguan Democratic Force, the largest rebel group, did not return telephone calls to his Washington office seeking comment.

Siegel said the attacks on the health centers could not have been accidental.

Accounts of the destruction of health centers were verified whenever possible by visits to the centers and interviews with sources outside the Nicaraguan government, including the Pan American Health Organization and the International Red Cross, Siegel said.

posals made him more likely to vote for the $100 million.

In a statement accompanying the draft order, Reagan said he favored a negotiated solution with the leftist Nicaraguan government and that "approval of my request for additional assistance . . . does not mean that a military solution is inevitable."

While the House debated, a fresh appeal to avoid the use of force in the Central American region was made in Washington by the eight-nation Contadora group of Latin American countries seeking a peaceful settlement in the area.

Speaking at a meeting of the Political Council of the Organization of American States, Venezuelan Ambassador Edilberto Moreno said it was necessary to reiterate the obligation of all member states of the OAS "to solve their controversies exclusively by peaceful means and to abstain from the use of force directly or indirectly."

Moreno said he was speaking for Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Mexico, Panama, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela.

Chile's new ambassador to the OAS, Javier Illanes, declared his country's "decided support for the Contadora peace efforts."

House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., described the upcoming House decision as a "Tonkin Gulf vote," a reference to the 1964 resolution that enabled then-President Johnson to introduce U.S. troops in Vietnam.

"I see this leading to war," said O'Neill. "I see a quagmire down there."

O'Neill said the Democrats maintained a 10-to-15 vote lead and had seen "no erosion" over the past days despite an intensive personal lobbying campaign by Reagan.

In the House debate, Republicans charged that defeat of Reagan's proposal would amount to abandoning Nicaragua to communism, while Democrats contended that approving the aid would launch the nation on a course toward war.

"The United States is embarked on a lonely crusade of support for the Contras," said Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., House Intelligence Committee chairman.

British playboy prince to marry childhood friend called 'Fergie'

Associated Press

LONDON — The royal family said yesterday that Prince Andrew, whose flings with models and actresses delighted gossip columnists, will marry a childhood friend with red hair and freckles called Fergie.

Buckingham Palace's announcement said Andrew, second son of Queen Elizabeth II and fourth in line to the British throne, is engaged to Sarah Ferguson, daughter Prince Charles' polo manager, Maj. Ronald Ferguson. Both Andrew and Miss Ferguson are 26.

No date or place was set, but Andrew said he hoped the wedding would be in the summer at Westminster Abbey. His parents were married there in 1947, and it is the site of all coronations since the crown was placed on William the Conqueror's head in 1066.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, spiritual head of the state Church of England, were among the first to offer congratulations.

Prince Charles, the 37-year-old heir to the throne, whose marriage to Lady Diana Spencer in 1981 was televised around the world, said he "could not be more delighted" by his brother's choice. "I think she is wonderful," he told reporters.

Soon after their engagement was announced, the couple had their first joint interview with British newspaper and television reporters in the prince's study at the Palace.

Andrew and Sarah kissed for the benefit of the cameras, giggled, teased one another and displayed the engagement ring, a large ruby set in a circle of diamonds.

She replied, when asked what they like about one another, "wit, charm . . . looks." He said, "the same, and the red hair."

After marriage, Sarah will be Her Royal Highness, the Princess Andrew. They probably will become Duke and Duchess of York, the dukedom traditionally reserved by tradition for the monarch's second son.

Andrew, a Royal Navy lieutenant and helicopter pilot, saw action in the 1982 Falkland Islands war with Argentina. Ferguson is a sales executive with a London graphics and printing firm.

Both said they would continue working.

The engagement was announced in a brief statement handed to reporters outside Buckingham Palace.

It said, "It is with greatest pleasure that the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh announce the betrothal of their beloved son, Prince Andrew, to Miss Sarah Ferguson, daughter of Major Ronald Ferguson and Mrs. Hector Barrantes."

The Duke of Edinburgh is Prince Philip, the queen's husband.

Ferguson's parents were divorced 11 years ago, and her mother, Susan, married Hector Barrantes, an Argentine polo player.

His romantic escapades made newspaper headlines for years and earned him the name "Randy Andy" in the gossip columns. The most notable was a long relationship with American actress Kathleen "Koo" Stark, who appeared in soft-porn films during her early career.

Buckingham Palace announced yesterday the engagement of Prince Andrew, second son of Queen Elizabeth II, to Sarah Ferguson, daughter of Major Ronald Ferguson. The couple, pictured here at Royal Ascot last summer, have been childhood friends since the age of 4 or 5. Story at right.

Amy Carter one of 14 students arrested at IBM protest

Associated Press

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — Fourteen college students, including Brown University freshman Amy Carter, were arrested yesterday in an anti-apartheid protest at a local International Business Machines Corp. office.

Providence police arrested the students approximately 30 minutes after they began a sit-in protesting IBM's dealings in racially segregated South Africa. Specific charges were not immediately available.

The protesters had said they would stay in the building either until they were arrested or until the company stops doing business in South Africa.

"In a non-violent manner, we will remain in this office until IBM withdraws its approximately $100 million worth of support for an apartheid economy," the 18-year-old daughter of former President Carter said in a tape recording released by the activists.

"We are prepared to be arrested for taking this action," Ms. Carter said. "Though illegal, this action is done in solidarity with those who struggle for freedom. . . As such, we believe it is justified."

The demonstrators included 13 Brown undergraduates and one University of Rhode Island student. They are members of Brown Free Southern Africa Coalition.

Earlier this month, four coalition members staged a nine-day, water-only fast at the campus chapel in protest of South Africa's segregation policy and the university's refusal to immediately sell its $35.2 million in South African-tied stock.

Coalition organizers said the group planned the civil disobedience in advance, and on Tuesday went to the IBM office and took a guided tour to check out the layout. The students said they wanted to occupy the office's main computer center on the second floor, but were stopped by security guards in the lobby. Police said they were arrested without incident.

Ms. Carter, the youngest of four Carter children from Plains, Ga., has been a coalition member since coming to Brown in September 1985.

While a participant in anti-apartheid rallies and other campus protests, Ms. Carter has been quiet. She has declined interviews, and yesterday again declined comment before entering IBM's Charles Street offices.

"I really don't want to make a statement on my own," Ms. Carter said. "I'll leave it to the official (coalition) spokesmen."

The blonde-haired, bespectacled freshman, who often was seen on the nightly news during her youth at the White House from 1977 to 1981, was arrested in April 1985 at another anti-apartheid protest at the South African embassy in Washington.

Charges in that case were dropped.

Melissa Montgomery, a Carter family spokeswoman in Atlanta, said neither the former president nor his wife, Rosalynn, would comment on Tuesday's arrest.

Ms. Carter and four other students on the tape recording attacked IBM for doing business in South Africa.

"Business as usual at IBM means apartheid as usual in South Africa," said freshman Jordan Ash, 18, of Long Branch, N.J.

Michael Dutton, a spokesman at IBM's corporate headquarters in Armonk, N.Y., said: "We respect the rights of students to express their views in a peaceful and lawful manner. However, we believe IBM is not an appropriate target."

Dutton said IBM is opposed to South Africa's policy of racial segregation and is working to change the apartheid system.

Annual revenues for IBM South Africa are approximately $250 million, or approximately 0.5 percent of the corporation's worldwide revenues, he said. The Johannesburg-based subsidiary, which involves sales and service but no manufacturing, employs approximately 1,900 workers, Dutton said.

Told that Ms. Carter was among those arrested, the public relations officer said, "Oh gosh."

Robert Reichley, Brown vice president for university relations, had a similar reaction. He declined immediate comment.

The students said they also are protesting the Ivy League school's investment policy. The university voted last month for a limited divestment plan that student activists have labeled unacceptable.

Coalition leaders identified the Brown protesters as: Robert Ayres, 22, a senior from San Mateo, Calif.; Jonathan Walsh, 21, a senior from West Newton, Mass.; Margaret Cummings, 21, a junior from Washington; Lauren Christman, 21, a junior from Concord, Mass.; Rebecca Smith, 20, a junior from Rockville, Md.; Greg Gruszynski, 21, a senior from Mill Valley, Calif.; Nerissa Wu, 18, a freshman from Holmdel, N.J.; Eric White, 22, a senior from Bloomington, Ind.; Paige Cox, 18, a freshman from Waterford, Va.; Scott Krigsman, 22, a senior from Tacoma, Wash.; Jack Defandorf, 21, a senior from Lynnfield, Mass.; Ash and Ms. Carter.

The URI student was identified as James Monti, 21, a senior from West Warwick.

Style evolves from rock

If you look closely at the cover of Elvis Costello's classic debut LP My Aim Is True, you'll notice "ELVIS IS KING ELVIS IS KING" all over the background. It was a punk move intended to shake up the disco ducks of the late 70s a little bit.

If you look closely at the cover of King of America, you'll notice that Elvis probably had a complexion problem as a teenager. You'll also notice that he is pictured as the King of America. This album is, in fact, brimming with references to America.

The album is dominated by a country feel - a musical genre pioneered here in the good ol' U.S.

A. He sings about having the "Eisenhower Blues." In "Glitter Gulch" he sings about a gameshow where the contestants must humiliate themselves for money. I can't think of anything more American than a game show.

In "American Without Tears" Elvis seems to lament his own Americanization as he sings about an expatriate who realizes that he has without his knowledge olst touch with his original home.

Elvis, too, appears to have lost touch with his original home - rock and roll. The only song that could really be called rock and roll is the non-LP B-side "Brand New Hairdo."

Also, Elvis completed this album practically unaided by his faithful sidekicks, the Attractions. He chose instead to use a lot of proven sessionmen, including the legendary James Burton, who worked with the first Elvis. With Burton's help, Elvis includes a great deal of retro-rockability tunes, which smooth the transition away from rock and roll that he appears to be making.

Also smoothing this transition are the folk songs that are included.

"Indoor Fireworks" (which was written by Elvis for Nick Lowe's last album) and "Little Palaces" both showcase Elvis' rasp over producer T-Bone Burnett's masterful sparse acoustic arrangement.

This album's major disappointment comes with Elvis' cover of the Animals' "Don't Let Me Be Misunderstood." The lyrics fit Elvis Costello's pose to a tee, but the execution queers the whole thing. His voice sounds like he has been sucking straight carbon monoxide for three or four hours before recording the track. Maybe he had a cold and had to sing it through a wall of phlegm and mucous. Whatever it is, it doesn't sound good. The young Elvis would have sped it up and screamed it at the top of this throat. This, unfortunately, is not the young Elvis.

King of America is a good album but only a passable Elvis Costello album. We've come to expect more from Elvis. Of course, a mediocre Elvis Costello album is always better than a great Journey album.

Frontier Days, the Del Lords' first album, was a collection of gritty but heartfelt rock and roll vignettes. A punchy, straightforward guitar-and-drums sound combined with stories of working women, mercenary soldiers, and struggling lovers to make it one of my favorite albums of 1985. Listening to Frontier Days was kind of like listening to the Romantics sing John Steinbeck.

The second Del Lords' album is Johnny Comes Marching Home and it finds the band either holding steadily or faltering. The music is the greatest strength here. Scott Kempner, guitarist and lead vocalist was once a member of the Dictators and their politico-thrash influence shows in the spare arrangements and rough vocals. Add these assets to the big guitar sound and drummer Frank Funaro's teeth rattling whumps and the sound is sure to please.

The best songs here employ this sound to the utmost. "Heaven" is a rollicking anthem with a singalong chorus of:

"I believe that there is a heaven before I'm dead!"

"Love Lies Dying" has great harmony that accents the air of resingled sadness. "No Waitress No More" kicks in with a rockabilly flourish and leaves the band breathless with its pace. For tight, spare bar-band music the Del Lords have few equals and the tunes on the new album are up to the standards set by Frontier Days.

Lyrics, however, are a different matter. While the first record had simple lyrics they managed to stay unpretentious by virtue of the stories they told. The new lyrics can't boast of the same quality. Plot lines and poignant phrases take a back door to patriotic posturing and cliches. Lines like: "Hey hey baby how ya doin'?" and "1000 miles away, getting further everyday, from this phone by the highway" are a tiresome use of stoneage lyrical subjects. The extremely simplistic stabs at social relevance make for some embarrassing lyrical moments.

Overall Johnny Comes Marching Home is another good effort by the Del Lords. The music is some of the best of its kind and the band's heart is in the right place. The lyrics are pretty bad but more experience will probably help. Buy the Del Lords for the great music. Then turn it up so loud that you can't hear the lyrics.

Classic harmonies and driving music

Every two years, the Electric Light Orchestra (better known as ELO) returns from out of the blue with a new album. Each of these efforts is designed to offer both hit pop singles and, for the more devout fan, rich, full-bodied music of the type for which the band is noted.

ELO has been in existence for 13 years and after many personnel changes, the newest album, Balance of Power, includes only founders Jeff Lynne (writer, producer, guitars, keyboards) and Bev Bevan (drums) and veteran keyboardist Richard Tandy.

Balance of Power is an interesting album from a few viewpoints. The band's sound is trimmed down from the days of A New World Record and the double set Out of the Blue. These earlier endeavors featured many backing string parts which gave an orchestral feel to the music. Balance of Power lacks these components and follows a more essential trend toward using only guitars, keyboards, and drums.

This trend in ELO's music has been building during the band's last two efforts, Time and Secret Messages. This record also contains an abundance of sequenced programming. Tandy is a wiz in this area and captivatingly enhances many of the album's 10 songs.

As expected, the second side contains the first single, Calling America which is quickly rising up the charts. It is a light bouncy tune which ticks in the mind from first hearing and also features Lynne's creative lyrics:
*Talk is cheap on satellite,
but all I get is static.
Information I'm still here, redial on automatic.*

Unfortunately, the song employs the same simplistic chord progression used in ELO's last two top ten singles (Hold on Tight and Rock 'n Roll is King) and it is sad to see that Lynne must rely on banal means to create hits.

The first side of the record is awash with captivating melodies. The quirky Heaven Only Knows opens the side with full harmonies and a colorful chorus. The second tune is So Serious; an energetic tune which betrays any solemnity the lyrics might convey and ends up being just a lot of fun.

Following these two songs is the expansive and haunting, "Getting to the Point." This is in all probability the best song on the album and features classic ELO harmonies coupled with a driving musical progression which harkens back to music from Out of the Blue, when the band had yet to completely slip into the pop mainstream.

Another fine song on side one, "Is It Alright" closes the side with a great chorus although the verses are somewhat weak.

The second side is somewhat impotent in comparison to the first. Although it has "Calling America" and the equally jumpy but shallow, "Send It," the side suffers from three poor songs. In each of these there are spots of promise, however they are overshadowed by plodding dry lyrics and melodies. "Send It" ends the side with intricate echoing harmonies and a rollicking runaway train-type thym.

All in all, Balance of Power shows some promise though it may only find true appeal with staunch ELO fans. It does have a number of songs which could garner wide appeal, however, many of them will most likely never encounter airplay. In any case, by ELO standards, Balance of Power is a good - but not great - album.

Track to compete in Ariz. meet

By ED JORDANICH
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's 1986 outdoor track season begins this weekend in Tucson, Ariz., at the Willie Williams Invitational. This will be the first of two meets over spring break, as the Irish will return home to host their own invitational the following Saturday, March 29.

Saturday will mark the first visit to the Tucson event for coach Joe Piane's team. Entering his 11th season as the Irish head coach, Piane's high hopes for this season's squad are fueled by anticipation of a quick start.

"The Willie Williams will be a great track meet," said Piane. "Arizona, BYU, Illinois and Northwestern will be our competition, and they all have excellent times for better seedings in later meets, and our people in the field events will finally get outside to show their stuff.

"For example, if Jim Tyler runs the 1,500 in 3:44-3:45 he would qualify for the ICAA's. It will be a non-scoring meet so our individuals won't have the pressure of team points. It will good preparation for the big stuff in April."

Notre Dame's all-American two-mile indoor relay team will get an immediate test on the outdoor surface from Northwestern and its young runners, but it will not be the only one challenged.

"Arizona has a great group of middle distance runners," said

Piane, "and finished either second or third in the NCAA cross-country championships. Illinois finished second in the Big Ten last year, so we know they will be tough, and BYU has a traditionally strong team."

The opponents coming to South Bend for the Notre Dame Invitational on March 29 do not have the high-calibre name teams but have some excellent talent nonetheless according to Piane.

"Western Michigan has a strong group of runners and Southwestern Michigan is a steeplechase factory," Piane says. "Valpo will be here as well. Because we're only taking 16 kids to the Willie Williams, our invitational should be the experience the bulk of our kids need as we start our outdoor season."

NFLPA announces drug policy

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The National Football League Players Association unveiled a new "get tough" drug abuse prevention program yesterday that calls for random testing of first-time offenders and permanent suspension for three-time violators.

"This is the first time the players have voted on a get-tough policy for repeated drug users in the NFL," NFLPA executive Director Gene Upshaw said, "The penalties need to be tough. That's the way you control the drug problem in the NFL."

But NFL commissioner Pete

rozelle released a statement in New York saying, "I do not feel that the preposals which were announced today will solve the problem."

And a spokesman for the NFL management Council, the owners' bargaining unit, said from it its New York office that there is "nothing in this so-called 'prevention program' that we don't already have. It's disappointing to us that we've been talking to them (the union) regularly, trying to reach some sort of mutual agreement, and they're going off unilaterally."

"Under the program announced by Upshaw, players who test positive in the preseason urinalysis would be treated by an independent medical facility and be required to submit to random testing for the remainder of the season and the off-season.

According to the proposed plan, approved unanimously by the executive directors of the NFLPA on Saturday, second-time drug offenders must forfeit a paycheck for one game.

If a player is tested positive for drug use the third time, he would be suspended from the league by could appeal for reinstatement after one year before a joint committee made up of union, management and medical members.

Holtz's ND debut to be televised as ABC announces TV schedule

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Lou Holtz's first game as coach of the Notre Dame football team will be nationally televised by ABC, the network announced yesterday. The Sept. 13 home game against Michigan will be televised at 3 p.m. EDT (2 p.m. EST).

Defending national champion Oklahoma will open its 1986 season on Sept. 6 against Rose Bowl king UCLA as part of a day-night college football double-header, ABC also announced.

The UCLA-Oklahoma contest in Norman, Okla., originally was scheduled for Sept. 13. Instead, it will be played a week earlier, with ABC-TV's national telecast begining at 3 p.m. EDT, and the kickoff at 3:30.

Oklahoma, 11-1, captured the 1985 national championship by defeating Penn State 25-10 in the Orange Bowl. UCLA, 9-2-1, finished seventh in the Associated Press rankings following a 45-28 rout of Iowa in the Rose Bowl.

On the night of Sept. 6, ABC will televise Florida State at Nebraska at 8 p.m. EDT. Both teams were 9-3 a year ago, with Florida State finishing 15th after defeating Oklahoma State 34-23 in the Gator Bowl and Nebraska winding up No. 11 after losing to Michigan 27-23 in the SunKist Fiesta Bowl.

In order to switch the Florida State-Nebraska game from Sept. 13 to Sept. 6, the University of Toledo agreed to move its game with Florida State from Sept. 6 to Aug. 30.

The Michigan-Notre Dame game on Sept. 13 will air at 3 p.m. EDT, with the kickoff at 3:30. Michigan, 10-1-1, finished second nationally last year. Notre Dame was 5-6 and Coach Gerry Faust's contract was not renewed.

ABC, currently in the second of a two-year contract with the College Football Association, said it will televise a game every Saturday from Sept. 6 through Dec. 6.

Most games will be announced 12 days in advance, although there are a number of exceptions when the network can withhold its announcement until the Sunday or Monday before a game.

Georgia Tech's John Salley tries to get around Villanova's Mark Plansky in a second-round game of the NCAA Tournament. Details of this weekend's regional action appear below.

NCAA sweet 16 to get underway; four from ACC and SEC still alive

Associated Press

ATLANTA - Georgia Tech is the odd team out - but the sixth-ranked Yellow Jackets will feel right at home tonight in the Southeast Regional semifinals of the NCAA basketball championships.

Georgia Tech, 27-6, will play Louisiana State, 24-11, in the second semifinal at the Omni in Atlanta, after third-ranked Kentucky, 31-3, meets Alabama, 24-8.

LSU, Kentucky and Alabama are from the Southeastern Conference. Georgia Tech left the SEC 22 years ago and now belongs to the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Also tonight in the West Regional semis at Houston, Auburn, 21-10 (afourth SEC team), plays Nevada-Las Vegas, 33-4, and North Carolina, 28-5, faces Louisville, 28-7.

Tomorrow night, in the East Regional semifinals at the Meadowlands in East Rutherford, N.J., Cleveland State, 29-3, plays Navy, 29-4, and top-ranked Duke, 34-2, opposed DePaul, 18-12, while in the Midwest Regional semifinals at Kansas City, Mo., North Carolina State, 20-12, plays Iowa State, 22-10, and Kansas, 33-3, plays Michigan State, 23-7. Like Georgia Tech, Duke, North Carolina and North Carolina State are in the ACC.

The Omni isn't Georgia Tech's home court - the Yellow Jackets normally play on campus at the 8,000-seat Alexander Memorial Coliseum elsewhere in Atlanta - but Coach Bobby Cremins says his team still has the home-court edge.

"We won't have to travel and we should have good fan support," Cremins said.

Tech has third-team All-American Mark Price - and Cremins no doubt wishes he also had LSU sophomore John Williams. Price leads Tech in scoring with a 17.3 average and Williams is averaging 18.3 points and 8.6 rebounds.

Cremins calls the 6-foot-8, 237-pound Williams "a young Magic Johnson. He is a superstar. He can do anything - rebound, assist, score. He is truly, truly an incredible basketball player. You're not going to be able to stop him. The only thing you can hope to do is control him."

The Yellow Jackets are big favorites to turn back LSU. Kentucky is only a slim favorite over Alabama, despite the fact the Wildcats have beaten the Crimson Tide three times this season and have won 75 of the 100 games between the two schools.

North Carolina was No. 1 in the nation most of the season, before guard Steve Hale went down with a collapsed lung and took the Tar Heels with him. Now that he's healthy again, so is North Carolina, a slender favorite against Louisville.

Choosing a long distance company is a lot like choosing a roommate.

It's better to know what they're like before you move in.

Living with someone for the first time can be an "educational" experience.

And living with a long distance company isn't any different. Because some companies may not give you all the services you're used to getting from AT&T.

For instance, with some companies you have to spend a certain amount before you qualify for their special volume discounts. With some others, voice quality may vary.

But when you choose AT&T, there won't be any surprises when you move in. You'll get the same high-quality, trouble-free service you're used to.

With calls that sound as close as next door. And discounts off our Day Rate on your state-to-state calls.

With savings of over 50% during weekends until 5pm Sundays, or nights from 11pm to 8am, Sunday through Friday. And 40% discounts evenings between 5pm and 11pm, Sunday through Friday.

With AT&T, you'll continue to get services like immediate credit for wrong numbers and collect calling. And long distance operators to help you anytime there's a problem on the line.

So when you're asked to choose a long distance company, choose AT&T. Because whether you're into Mozart or metal, quality is the one thing everyone can agree on. Call 1 800 222-0300 for more information or to choose AT&T.

Saint Mary's softball season starts with trip to Florida

By KELLY PORTOLESE
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

When a softball team loses seven starters from a 23-9 team, it's a pretty good bet that the following season will be a rebuilding one.

Not so, for the Florida-bound Saint Mary's softball team. With eight returnees and as many rookies, Head Coach Scott Beisel is looking forward to mixing the old with the new and thinks he will come up with just the right combination for a successful year.

"We're still experimenting," said Beisel. "The team may not realize its potential yet because of all the combinations we've been trying out. If we go with our strongest group right away, we won't know what the others can do."

Beisel, in his seventh season with the Belles, sees many players' ability to adapt to several positions as a definite plus.

"We add strength to our ball club with our versatility," said Beisel. "a lot of people can play at two or three spots. If injuries become a problem we won't be at such a loss."

Assistant coach Sue Becker has also been please with the team's progress thus far.

"They are very coachable," said Becker. "Even when we've wanted to make the slightest adjustments they've been very cooperative and enthusiastic."

One player who has got a position pretty well locked up is pitching ace Cathy Logsdon. The senior finished last season with a sparkling 17-3 record and credits Beisel with giving the team a positive outlook for the upcoming season.

"Some coaches would have been worried, but he took it as a challenge and saw a lot of potential," said the Sewickey, Pa., native.

Logsdon should have a solid pitching staff to back her up this season, according to Beisel.

"We will be stronger this year than last," predicted Beisel. "We should have more consistency and control."

Katy Boldt, in her fifth year because of a year abroad, has made great improvements with her speed and control on the mound.

Sophomore Betty Mihalik, who saw a lot of pitching action last season will also put in some time at second base and in the outfield.

Newcomers Tammy Shelor and Mary Malina are also working hard at picking up the fundamentals on the mound and should make solid contributions.

Rounding out the battery should be junior Janine Adamo, who had never caught a game before arriving at Saint Mary's and yet managed to earn all-district honors the past two years while batting above .500 through most of the season.

Freshman Jeannette O'Neill, who is doubling on the track team, is also looking strong at the catching position.

Last year's first baseman, Barb Theiss, graduated with a .987 fielding percentage and will definitely be a tough act to follow. Lorri White and Julie McNish will most likely fill the void while contributing in the outfield as well.

Junior Kris Pantelleria, who played second last year, is also working at the shortstop position, while classmate Marge Reynolds and freshman Laura Danch are practicing at third. Sophomore Diane Schroeder, who saw limited action last year, has improved a great deal and should also put in some time at second base. Sharon Hegg is also a junior but in her first year with the team because of her sophomore year abroad and other commitments freshman year.

"She has improved a great deal since the beginning of tryouts," said Beisel. "She will be a definite utility-type player for us in the outfield and infield."

In the outfield, Beisel also will look forward to freshmen Ann Cuti and Trish Tierney for their speed and accurate throwing ability.

Because of the recent unspringlike weather the Belles have only been able to get in one hitting practice outdoors, and a game scheduled with Notre Dame was rained out yesterday. As a result, Beisel doesn't have much of an early indication of his team's offensive capabilities.

But the South Bend weather will no longer plague the Belles this month because tomorrow they will head south with a final destination of Florida to play the University of Tampa at Kissimmee, Fla., and Bethune Cookman College at Daytona.

Before the team gets out of Indiana, however, it has a date with IUPUI, the district's number one team the past few years.

According to Beisel it will be a "real test," especially since IUPUI will just be returning from its spring trip and have 14 games behind it.

But it won't be all work and no play. Once they reach Florida, a trip to the beach and Disney World is also planned.

On the way home the Belles will stop in Louisville, Ky., where they will take on Indiana University and Bellarmine College of Louisville.

"The trip will get us together as a team," said Boldt. "It will help us get to know each other both on and off the field."

When the Belles return they will head right into NAIA play. And if their level of play matches their enthusiasm, another successful year is in store for the Saint Mary's softball program.

Celtics down Pacers

Associated Press

BOSTON — Robert Parish scored a season-high 28 points and grabbed 17 rebounds as the Boston Celtics set a franchise record of 22 consecutive home victories by crushing the Indiana Pacers 127-108 in an NBA game last night.

The Celtics surpassed the mark set in 1980-81. It was broken by the Pacers on March 13, 1981.

Larry Bird got the first two baskets of the game on layups and Boston never trailed as it rolled to its sixth straight triumph and boosted its home record to 31-1.

DeCicco said he couldn't single out any one fencer as the hero of yesterday's title-winning effort.

"There were just too many heroes to point at one," said DeCicco, who completed his 25th year as head coach of the Irish. "We proved that overall team effort is what it takes to win."

The women's NCAA championship takes place today in Princeton, and DeCicco says he hopes that yesterday's men's performance will spark the women's squad.

"I'm hoping that the women catch this winning fever," commented DeCicco. "I expect them to finish in the top six but just where in the top six, I don't know. They're a longshot to win it all, but no more of a longshot that these guys."

Tennis travels to Texas

Coach Fallon starts 30th year

By RICK RIETBROCK
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's tennis team will embark on an eight-match road trip to Texas over spring break, with Head Coach Tom Fallon once again leading the charges. Fallon, in his 30th season as men's tennis coach owns a career record of 467-180.

This record is particularly impressive given that the tennis team is allotted only two scholarships, which keeps some of the top players with pro aspirations from coming to Notre Dame. Fallon says that may change, however, with the construction of a new indoor tennis facility that is scheduled for completion in the fall.

"With the new facility, we will be able to offer year-round tennis and, therefore, we will be able to attract better athletes," Fallon says. "It's hard to attract players from warm-weather states when our only indoor courts are being shared with so many other organizations."

The new facility will aid a program that has already enjoyed tremendous success under Fallon. His teams have enjoyed eight 20-win seasons and have had only one losing campaign. It will also be a symbol of the amount of change that Fallon has seen during his tenure.

"When I got the tennis coaching job, I was also the wrestling coach," he recalls. "The end of the wrestling season and the beginning of the tennis season overlapped so I had both teams work out together."

"Our tennis teams were known for being in great physical shape in those days," he notes.

"For tennis practice, I had to stretch elastic to make lines for the court in the old Fieldhouse, and we had to schedule practice around the basketball team as well as the other sports practicing there," he says. "It was quite a zoo."

But Fallon and his troops managed to have consistently successful seasons. In fact, Notre Dame is the only school from the Midwest to have won at least a share of the national championship twice. Fallon's championship squad of 1959 was particularly rewarding

Memorial. Fallon says he has been fortunate to coach for 30 years, but it is obvious that Notre Dame is far more fortunate to have the benefit of his services.

Even though the upcoming road trip does not feature any powerhouses, Fallon sees the teams that the Irish were able to schedule as quite formidable in their own right.

"We would like to play the toughest teams like Texas and Trinity College, but the big teams usually schedule only teams that will help them earn a bid to the NCAA tournament," he says. "They don't want to get upset. Nevertheless, we have a good schedule of teams from the second echelon with Texas-San Antonio, Pan American University, Rice, Southwest Texas University and Baylor being the toughest."

Other teams the Irish, featuring four freshmen, will face on the road trip are St. Mary's University, St. Edward's University and Texas Lutheran.

Tom Fallon

to the 1942 Notre Dame graduate.

"We won the championship with serious students on the team," he says. "The members of that team are doctors, teachers, psychologists and judges today. That was before the lure of money and professional opportunities controlled the sport."

Just as he enjoys the success that the 1959 championship team has attained, Fallon also looks forward to the reunions that the tennis team holds every two years "to talk with his former players, and to see what successful people they have become."

Fallon currently holds the rank of associate professor and is director of activities at the Rockne

Skins' Gibbs cuts Riggins

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Washington Redskins head coach Joe Gibbs said yesterday that after reviewing game films from last season he has put running back John Riggins on waivers and suggested he retire.

Gibbs said that he gave Riggins two options - either announce his retirement or check around the league for a team that might be interested in him.

"Whether I'm right or wrong, I'm convinced that it is time for him to retire," said Gibbs.

However, he said that if the 36-year old Riggins found a team to play for, the Redskins would not ask for compensation from that team.

"John's meant an awful lot to the Redskins. He's been a tremendous part of our success and I think the world of him," said Gibbs.

"We never wanted any compensation for John. I just wanted to do this the right way."

Sophomore guard Mary Gavin has run the show all year at the point and should have her hands full defensively trying to stop the USIS press. The Irish bench should also come into play, as the long trip and the tight schedule of games might take their toll in the form of weary legs.
The championship game is slated for Saturday, meaning the two competitors will be playing three games in three days. DiStanislaio is not worried about that possibility, emphasizing that her squad is prepared to do what has to be done.
"We've played three games in three days earlier this year in the Miami Tournament," she says, "and we're definitely ready to do it again. The key now is to stay sharp, to keep playing consistently and to review the things that need reviewing."
"We're going to have to play. that's all there is to it."
Other teams in the tournament, on the other side of the bracket, include second-ranked Duke, West Texas State, Tennessee Tech, and Northwestern. (la.)

Irish men's fencing team captures NCAA crown

Four named All-Americans as DeCicco snares 3rd title

Special to The Observer

After Wayne State nosed out the Notre Dame men's fencing team by a single point in last year's NCAA championship, the Irish made it their goal this year to get back to the finals and win it all.

Yesterday in Princeton, N.J., the Irish did just that, beating Columbia, 151-141, to win the 1986 NCAA fencing championship. Defending champion Wayne State finished sixth with 83 points.

For Head Coach Mike DeCicco, what happened yesterday still hasn't struck home.

"Right now, it hasn't sunk in yet," DeCicco said when reached last night. "We talked about it before, but we didn't expect this. It was great competition, and anyone could have taken it."

"The sabre was the best I've seen in 10 years. When we lost John Edwards and Columbia had all six, we knew it would be a struggle. But I talked to the kids and they fought all day long for what they got. I'm just so proud."

The title was Notre Dame's third under DeCicco, whose 1977 and 1978 squads were repeat winners. In addition, the national championship was the first in any sport for Notre Dame since the 1978 title.

The foil championship was won by Adam Felman of Penn State (which finished third with 124 points.) Notre Dame's Yehuda Kovacs and Charles Higgs-Coulthard finished second and third respectively. Both were named to the first-team All-America squad by virtue of their finishes.

Notre Dame's Mike Gostigan finished third in the epee division behind Columbia's Steve Trevor and Penn's Chris O'Loughlin. Gostigan also was named a first-team All-American.

Mike Lofton of NYU (which finished fifth behind Penn) won his third-straight sabre title. Notre

NWIT begins; Notre Dame set to face USIU

By MARTY STRASEN
Sports Writer

It's not that Notre Dame women's basketball coach Mary DiStanislao does not like being ranked No. 1 in the Women's National Invitational Tournament. She just doesn't take much stock in rankings.

As the Irish prepare for the tournament, which begins tonight in Amarillo Texas, Di Stanislao realizes that rankings don't mean a thing in post-season play.

"I don't even think about being ranked No. 1," she says. "It's very flattering but you still have to go out and put the ball on the floor. As everyone saw from what happened to the men in the NAAs, a high-ranking and 25 cents only get you a cup of coffee. We can't afford to look past anyone."

Notre Dame's road to the WNIT title begins tonight against a quick team from the U.S. International, which is ranked eighth in the eight-team tournament. But once again, rankings can be deceiving.

USIU won the West Coast Athletic Conference with a 23-7 overall record and an 11-1 conference mark, averaging over 84 points per game with a devastating running attack.

"U.S. International is a running team much like Detroit," says DiStanislao. "They're second in the nation in point production and they've also got an extremely quick and talented player named Toya DeCree. We expect a lot of running."

DeCree, a 6-1 senior, averaged over 21 ppg. and added nine rebounds per contest. Freshman guard Sonya Carter chipped in over 16 ppg. during the season while sophomores Fiona Murray, 6-4, and Amanda Spry, 6-2, each averaged double figures.

And USIU was running up the scoreboard all season long, Notre Dame stressed defense, finishing second in the nation in field goal percentage defense as they held opponents to under 38 percent. Limiting the opposition to an average of 59 points put the Irish ninth in scoring defense.

Whether or not Notre Dame gets past its opponent from San Diego Calif., tonight, either Fresno State (21-6) or Idaho (23-5) will be next in a game tomorrow. DiStanislao would like tomorrow's contest to be a winners-bracket matchup rather than a consolation game, but sees the road to a tournament victory as a potentially rocky one.

"All of these teams are talented," she explains. "The thing that's different now, as compared to the regular season, is that they are all either conference winners or second-place finishers. Every one of these teams is coming off a good season and has been playing well down the stretch."

But the Irish have also played well in the latter half of the season, winning the North Star Conference title and heading into the NWIT sporting a nine-game winning streak. Their 21-7 record is the best in the team's six-year history as a Division I competitor.

In addition, 6-1 senior Trena Keys has established herself as the top scorer in Notre Dame history, and 6-2 sophomore Sandy Bothan has been on fire in the last part of the season.

Bothan has set an Irish record by scoring in double figures in 18 straight games and has averaged 15 points and eight rebounds over that stretch. She is currently ranked sixth in the nation in field-goal

ND baseball team goes to Calif.

By TERRY LYNCH
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame baseball team will be packing its bags for California today as it takes a six-game winning streak into the prestigious California-Riverside Baseball Invitational for seven games during spring break.

It won't be sunshine and palm trees for the Irish, however, because the competition they will face over the next week will be some of the toughest in the country. Brigham Young and Tulane headline the invitational that will also pit the Irish against Cornell, Oregon State, Washington, Wisconsin and host Cal-Riverside.

"I'll be happy to come back with a .500 record in California," said Irish head coach Larry Gallo. "Of course, we're going to go in there trying to win them all, but with teams like Brigham Young, Tulane and Oregon State, it'll be tough. And we'll probably get to see everybody's number one (starting pitcher)."

Both Brigham Young and Tulane appeared in the Baseball America Top 25 and the ESPN Collegiate Baseball poll. Tulane started this week 18th in Baseball America and 25th in the ESPN poll with a record of 16-4. Brigham Young, at 8-5-1, is ranked 22nd by Baseball America and 20th by ESPN.

Gallo is pleased that his Irish, at 6-2, were fortunate enough to be able to play all eight games on the schedule before spring break.

"We've never had a team here, at least since I've been around, that has played eight games by March 17," he said after Monday's doubleheader sweep of St. Joseph's.

Gallo may be also just as fortunate to have a seven-day hiatus to heal his injury-plagued team. Steve Skupien (flu), Mike Rogers (pulled hamstring), and Ken Soos (bad ankle) all played with injuries in Monday's doubleheader.

The outlook on Tom Shields does not look promising. Shields, the senior shortstop and co-captain of the team, is still recuperating from some off-season surgery on his knee.

"The problem with Tom is that he's had the kind of surgery that I think makes you feel better than you actually are," said Gallo.

Shields is not likely to play on the trip.

Rich Vanthournout leads the team in hitting with a .414 average, runs RBIs (13), hits (12) and three stolen bases. But on the defensive end, Vanthournout accounts for four of the five Irish errors so far on the team. Tim Hutson follows closely in the RBI category with 12, a good deal of those coming in from his team-leading three home runs.

As a team, the Irish are batting at a .317 clip, 22 points higher than their opponents. They have scored 70 runs in eight games while stealing 10 bases in 11 attempts.

On the pitching end, the Irish staff has a 5.68 ERA, but only Kevin Chenail (9.24 ERA) has pitched more than 10 innings. Irish opponents, as a testament to the devastating hitting so far, have compiled a less-than-impressive 10.02 ERA.

Coach Gallo's yardstick for measuring the quality of the Irish team will come in the form of the California-Riverside Invitational and afterwards should be able to see if his prediction of the Irish as "a sleeping giant" will come true.

After the tournament, the Irish play host to Chicago State on April 1 and then travel to Valparaiso on the second and a doubleheader at Bethel on the third. The next Irish home baseball game after the break will be four games against Wisconsin on April 5-6.
