Kroc gift to build Hesburgh Center

By MATT GALLAGHER

The Theodore M. Hesburgh Center for International Studies, to be built on Green Field, will open in May 1990, thanks to a gift of $6 million from the widow of McDonald's founder Ray Kroc, said Director of Public Relations Richard Conklin.

According to John Gilligan, director of the Institute for International Peace Studies, Joan Kroc donated the funds necessary for the completion of the project. Gilligan said that the Center would be completed approximately two years after ground is broken at a trustees meeting on May 5, 1988.

Conklin noted in an April 18th press release that the Hesburgh Center would house both the Peace Institute and the Helen Kellogg Institute for International Studies.

According to Conklin, the new Center will be located on Notre Dame Avenue, south of the University Club, on Green

Saint Mary's students, voting for the first time under new election rules written after the contentious student body elections, elected hall officers for 1988-89 in four dormitories.

The winner of the two ticket race in Augusta Hall, president Colleen Doyle, vice president Sue Bertucci, treasurer Mary Carol Buhriend, and secretary Mary DeLany acquired 67 percent of the votes. Fifty-six percent of the hall voted; of these, zero abstained.

Forty-four percent of Holy Cross Hall voted for one of three tickets. The elected officers are: president Janet McNeil; vice president Tina Donahue; treasurer Angie Rice and secretary Marie Flaherty. The ticket carried 59 percent of the vote.

Dukakis seizes NY win

Associated Press

NEW YORK --Michael Dukakis swept to a convincing victory over Jesse Jackson in the New York primary Tuesday night and seized control over the turbulent race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I love New York," the Massachusetts governor crooned in a victory statement prepared for a hotel rally in midtown Manhattan. "Friends, if we can make it here we can make it anywhere."

Sen. Albert Gore finished a weak third and seemed likely to quit the race on Thursday. He congratulated Dukakis and said the Democratic party was "going to be unified" for the fall campaign.

Vice President George Bush won the Republican primary, with no serious opposition in New York or elsewhere. He told reporters he thought Dukakis was a "good bet" to go on and capture the Democratic nomination and said he was eager to join the battle with whatever opponent the Democrats gave him.

With 76 percent of the precincts reporting, the Democratic vote looked this way:

• Dukakis had 671,494 or 53 percent.

• Jackson had 411,230 or 33 percent.

• Gore had 135,454 or 11 percent. "I think we have a nominee," said Lynn Cutler, deputy chair of the Democratic National Committee. She said Dukakis now "has to be very careful not to look as though it's a done deal. . . . There is a tendency in the Democratic Party to slap the hand of the front-runner."

A Gore withdrawal would leave Dukakis the only white candidate left in the race against Jackson -- a match-up that seems virtually certain to deliver a string of primary victories to the Massachusetts governor in the six final weeks of the campaign season. Pen-

Tensions remain in Persian Gulf

Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain --A French warship spotted three mines and Iranian speedboats raided two tankers Tuesday, the day after battles in the southern Persian Gulf in which Iran fired missiles from shore at U.S. Navy vessels.

A marine executive said the gulf appeared "ghostly" from lack of shipping. He and others said commercial vessels were avoiding the waterway, where Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980 and the U.S. Navy sank or damaged six Iranian vessels Monday.

They also said the United States had suspended escorts of Kuwaiti oil tankers temporarily, but Defense Department spokesman Dan Howard denied it. The United States gave American flags and registration to 11 Kuwaiti tankers last year and the Navy escorts them through the gulf.

President Reagan said things were quieter in the gulf Tuesday and "we hope it continues that way."

Iran claimed its speedboats in the southern gulf sank an "American naval logistical ship," killing its crew, an hour after Navy ships destroyed two Iranian oil platforms Monday.

In Brief

Moslem hijackers freed their hostages today from a Kuwaiti jet after saying that Algeria had offered a solution to the 15-day ordeal in which two people were killed and dozens terrorized. Algeria's Interior Minister, Hedi Khediri, said earlier: "A solution settling all the issues of the hijacking has just been reached." An estimated 35 hostages had been on the plane. He refused to give any details of the agreement. Asked by reporters clamoring on the steps of the Algiers airport VIP lounge what would become of the hijackers, he replied only: "That is a question which regards Algeria." -Associated Press

Construction benefits found beyond fences

Notre Dame has been building its rich tradition for 146 years. With a little help, it will continue to do so. But it seems the University of Our Lady has been building up its campus for almost as long.

Construction on campus has reached a surprising rate. It's almost to the point of nuisance. Constricted space in North Dining Hall has forced lines out the doors. North Quad and the areas near Nieuwland Science Hall and new dorms Knott and Siegfried are unsightly. Students must be wary of mud, gravel and rough-hewn, but fortunately temporary, chain-link fence.

As inconvenient and unseemly as it may be, construction is a necessary evil. One day (maybe when we're all alumni) the Notre Dame campus will be the shining example of structural symmetry its architects envisioned. Gradually, we're getting there.

One need only look at some of the existing buildings on campus to see that architectural success can be achieved, without compromising esthetics.

The Dome, of course, is the most distinctive edifice on campus and is known worldwide as a symbol of the University. It may lack a little lustre, but most alumni, students and visitors on campus can't help being moved at the sight of the Golden Dome.

Catastrophe almost cost us that sight. The original Dome on top of the administration was destroyed by fire in 1879. Seven years later, a dedicated construction corps finished the Dome we know today.

Other buildings on campus are impressive, too. Sacred Heart Church was one of the first projects undertaken by Father Edward Sorin when he founded the fledgling campus in 1842. Today Sacred Heart carries the distinction of being the tallest edifice on campus.

Before his retirement in 1987, University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh said one of Notre Dame's best moves was building the library that now bears his name. At 14 stories, the Hesburgh Library is an imposing structure and was the largest college library building when it was dedicated in 1963.

The Hesburgh Library houses more than 1.6 million volumes and a large number of the student body on any given day. It's hard to imagine the campus without it. Yet at one time, students conducted research in the Architecture Building. Where would students be today if new dorms like Knott and Siegfried weren't constructed? In fact, if the University stopped expanding its facilities in 1967, the Mod Quad wouldn't exist today. The campus would have been vastly different.

LaFortune Student Center itself underwent considerable construction in 1986. The renovation took time and, at $6 million, a considerable amount of money. Look at it today --it's a student center Notre Dame can be (and is) proud of.

There is one thing about LaFortune that bothers me, however. The red neon sign on the first floor that says Theodore's drives me (and, I'm told, many others) crazy. Although barely visible during the day, it's obnoxiously bright at night. It glares fuzzily out the window at everyone on the Main Quad. Moreover, it hums constantly. Still, I mean to make light of the situation.

Construction is inconvenient. It is unsightly and it does make walking around campus a real pain, but it yields some terrific results. For now, we just have to put up with it. I'm confident, though, someday we will see the fruits of the current construction labors and, though we complain now, we'll be happy.

HPC hears review of ND task force

By DAN MURPHY
Staff Reporter

"If you wanted to have a beer outside your dorm, sitting around at a barbecue, it should be okay, accepted, as long as you're not causing problems as a result of drinking that beer," said former Student Body President Pat Cooke at the Hall President's Council meeting Tuesday night.

Cooke fielded questions addressing the University Task Force report on alcohol and emphasized the importance of an attitude change concerning the use of alcohol.

"It wasn't the goal of this committee to have, next year, nobody on campus drinking, rather four or five years down the road to have everybody in the community drinking responsibly," said Cooke. "So what we're talking about are attitude changes. There isn't a problem with alcohol in and of itself; it's the abuse of alcohol that we're trying to address."

The proposed elimination of evening football games is not geared toward students but toward cutting down on the alcohol consumption of alumni and visiting fans before the games, said Cooke. Fans arrive at the University the same time they would if the games began in the afternoon, he said. This allows them additional time to drink and increases the possibility of car accidents occurring after the game, according to Cooke.

Ann Firth, director of residence life, answered questions dealing with the Task Force report on residentiality. She noted that the three models of co-ed dorms presented in the report were "not blueprints but starting points for discussion, recognizing that none of the models that we suggested were entirely satisfactory."

Carroll Hall president Kevin Corazon questioned whether the proposal of posting a security guard at the front door of male dorms weekend nights showed a lack of trust toward male residents. "They have parietals, do we need another father figure to look after us?" asked Corazon. Firth said the proposal stemmed from concerns about security, protection and easing the burden of the hall staff.

Turning to other business, Chuck Neidhoefer addressed the HPC to explain the Jane M. Beres Memorial Leukemia Fund. Beres, the sister of Olympic speedskater Dan Jansen, died of leukemia hours before Jansen competed.

Notre Dame will present a donation in the name of the student body the night before graduation commencement ceremonies begin, according to Neidhoefer.

Tri-military ceremony today

By ROBYN SIMMONS
News Staff

The reviewing officer for the annual Notre Dame military review takes on a new look as University President Father Edward Malloy reviews the officers for the first time at today's ceremony.

Approximately 750 ROTC cadets and midshipmen from the Army, Air Force Navy and Marine Corps will participate in the 30-minute ceremony at 4:30 p.m. in the south lot of the Joyce ACC.

"The purpose of (the review) is to get all the cadets and midshipmen in the services... together for the University president," said Lt. Col. Douglass Hemphill of Army ROTC, this year's tri-military coordinator.

"(Malloy) is the person being honored and to whom the review is being presented," said Hemphill.

The review involves the march of the cadets and midshipmen past Malloy, which will be led by the Army band from Fort Benjamin Harrison in Indianapolis.

"Part of the ceremony is to award the two outstanding students from each of the battalions," said Hemphill, "Monk does this; he presents the awards which recognize them in front of their peers and these are all awards for leadership and excellence."

"(Malloy's) role is to symbolize the university... to accept the salute from the cadets and midshipmen and to make whatever remarks he feels are appropriate," said Hemphill.

According to Hemphill, the review is open to the public. "It's the only time that all three ROTC units get together in the same place for any kind of function," he said.

The cadets and midshipmen have been practicing for the review for the last three weeks, according to Hemphill. "They have really been training all year in drilling ceremonies," he said, "so this is also a chance for them to show how much they've learned."

"(The review) is a traditional event every spring. It sort of closes out the school year for ROTC," said Hemphill, "It's something that I think everyone takes pride in doing and doing well... It's a chance to show their support for the University."

Education, porn bill passes

Associated Press

WASHINGTON --The House overwhelmingly passed a multibillion-dollar education bill expanding federal programs for elementary and high school students Tuesday, after attaching a ban on pornographic telephone message services.

The Hawkins-Stafford School Improvement Act, which authorizes up to $8.3 billion in spending next year, renews all major elementary and secondary education programs. More than half the money would go to the government's compensatory education program for disadvantaged children.

Also authorized are new programs to prevent dropouts and help high school students with weak skills, and money to greatly expand drug abuse education and magnet school programs.

The bill, a compromise between versions passed earlier by the House and Senate, needed Senate approval before heading to the White House for President Reagan's signature.

An aide said the Senate planned to act Wednesday.

Before the 397-1 House vote, many members called the education measure among the most important they would ever pass because it would put the United States back on the road to international competitiveness.

Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., cast the only dissenting vote.

"Since 1983, we have moved from a nation at risk to a nation in crisis. I think this proposal will turn that trend around," said Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

The far-reaching measure, named for Hawkins and retiring Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., was shadowed for weeks by controversy over the dial-a-porn ban added in the Senate by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

House and Senate negotiators substituted a provision under which the lewd message services would be technologically blocked from telephones unless an adult called the telephone company and requested a subscription.

But in a confusing series of moves Tuesday, the House killed the dial-a-porn compromise and restored the outright ban despite concerns about its constitutionality.

Opponents said it would result in years of litigation during which children could continue to call and hear the pornographic tapes. But others said it would be impossible to block the service from 12 percent of American homes served by older telephone equipment and some said dial-a-porn ought to be off-limits to adults as well as children.

The largest single program in the bill is Chapter 1, which pays for tutoring and other services to disadvantaged children at risk of academic failure. School districts could receive basic grants totaling up to $4.7 billion in fiscal year 1989, a $400 million increase over current spending.

The school improvement act also includes the following major programs, with authorized 1989 funding levels that represent the maximum Congress could appropriate:

Booze use affected by media

By JIM LANG
News Staff

The media and the advertising industry have a tremendous impact on the way in which Americans view alcohol and alcoholism, according to "Under the Influence," a Student Union Board sponsored lecture by Jean Kilbourne Tuesday night.

Kilbourne, an internationally known media critic affiliated with Wellesley College, has been touring the country lecturing on the effects of the media on the public's attitudes towards women and alcohol.

Kilbourne stressed from the start that her lecture was "not a temperance or prohibition lecture," but instead it was simply an examination of the effects of advertising.

The lecture revolved primarily around exposing the myths created by alcohol advertisements and examining the paradoxes between these myths and the real truths about alcohol.

One such myth involved alcohol as a sexual stimulant. Kilbourne said that advertisers most often link alcohol with sex, but in fact there is a 70-to-80 percent rate of impotency and reduced sex drive among alcoholics.

A main point of the lecture was that although the public rarely spends time closely examining alcohol ads, they still affect us greatly. "What we're least conscious of effects us most deeply," she said.

She praised Notre Dame for its recent addition of an Office of Drug and Alcohol Education.

Interested students can pick up a four page handout entitled "Alcohol Awareness Resources," which gives a listing of national awareness resource centers, Wednesday at the Student Union Board.

Robert Kennedy's files made public

Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. -- More than 2,400 photographs from the assassination of Robert Kennedy were unaccountably destroyed nearly 20 years ago, officials said Tuesday as they opened to the public for the first time the long-secret photo files.

There was no explanation in the 50,000 pages of documents why the pictures were burned or why such items as ceiling tiles and door jambs from the scene of Kennedy's death were destroyed in the months following the assassination.

California Secretary of State March Fong Eu released the documents, including interviews with 4,000 witnesses and 2,500 photographs from the Los Angeles Police Department files.

The state's chief archivist said the documents were unlikely to answer the numerous questions surrounding the 1968 assassination because of the destroyed material.

"I've never seen a file quite this large," said archivist John Burns. "This is a very unusual murder file (but) I'm not absolutely satisfied that any questions are answered."

He said the biggest surprise was the amount of evidence destroyed, including the photographs, which were burned three months after the assassination. Their subjects are unknown.

He also said he could not explain why evidence was destroyed, noting police were careful at the outset because they didn't want "another Dallas," where Kennedy's brother, President John Kennedy, was killed.

Burns said he had not had time to examine all the evidence, which he predicted will occupy researchers for years.

The gaps in the material drew immediate criticism.

"Someone should ask the police why they destroyed 2,400 photographs in the most important case they've ever examined. . . . We didn't know about that until today," said Gregory Stone, a political scientist at the University of Wisconsin and a longtime student of the case.

Among the persistent questions raised by conspiracy theorists and scholars are: Was Sirhan Bishara Sirhan the only gunman? Was Kennedy shot from in front or behind? Were there eight shots or more in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel? and How close was the gunman whose bullet entered Kennedy's brain?

The documents released include an admission by police that they destroyed key evidence, including ceiling tiles, a door jamb and thousands of photographs taken in the Ambassador Hotel kitchen where Kennedy was shot on June 5, 1968.

OSHA falsified inspection report

Associated Press

WASHINGTON --Federal safety inspectors told a Senate committee Tuesday they were instructed in September to "generate numbers" through sham inspections emphasizing quantity over improving the quality of the nation's workplaces.

"Because the office was short on numbers for the year, they wanted compliance officers to generate double the number of OSHA 1 (inspection) reports," Dr. John Barry, an industrial hygienist in the agency's Philadelphia regional office, testified Tuesday.

Barry and other field inspectors stationed in Texas described in the second day of hearings by the Senate Labor Committee how the Occupational Safety and Health Administration boosted its inspection totals last year by more than 2,000.

The committee, chaired by Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., has been preparing the hearings for more than a year. None of the seven Republicans on the panel have attended the first two days.

Before the first witness was called Monday, Kennedy vowed to "show that the decision to let workers die . . . has been supervised and carried out by the highest levels of this administration."

Witnesses before the panel Monday estimated that 50,000 to 70,000 Americans die annually from occupational-related diseases that could be prevented.

Kennedy repeated his charges Tuesday, saying that career OSHA employees were instructed by Reagan administration officials "to generate misleading data that give the appearance of zeal as a cover for neglect."

Michelle Vallon, an industrial hygienist in OSHA's Irving, Texas, office, told the committee Tuesday that she produced 25 OSHA inspection reports from a three-day visit to a construction site last September.

Vallon said she believes she was told by supervisors to inspect the site because of a large number of subcontractors on the job and her office was nearing the end of the fiscal year and had not met its quota of inspections.

"They didn't exactly say it, but I drew that conclusion," she said in response to a question from Kennedy. "We were under constant pressure to get numbers."

2 Americans hurt in blast

Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica --A fragmentation grenade blew up outside the American-Costa Rican Cultural Center Tuesday, wounding two Americans and four other people, Costa Rican authorities said.

Red Cross officials identified the Americans as Alice Feister, a professor at the Cultural Center from the Washington, D.C. area, and Shelly Bertain, a student from California.

Feister was seriously wounded, but "she's expected to pull through," said U.S. embassy spokesman Mark Krischick.

Krischick said earlier Tuesday that the explosion was believed caused by a malfunctioning power line transformer.

A preliminary report prepared by the Intelligence and Security Directorate said the explosion was caused by a fragmentation grenade. Three cars were damaged, the report said.

Hernan Garron, the public security minister, told The Associated Press officials had no suspects in the incident. He called the explosion "a terrorist act."

Krischick said Feister suffered a severe artery wound and was operated on immediately at Calderon Guardia Hospital. Feister was reported in fair condition.

Bertain suffered head and knee lacerations but was said to be in good condition. She was expected to return to the United States on Wednesday, a doctor at the hospital said.

Krischick said Tuesday evening that U.S. officials had been unable that the explosion was caused by a grenade. However, he noted Costa Rican officials "were collecting evidence all day."

The spokesman, contacted by telephone, said the explosion occurred shortly after 8 a.m. (6 a.m.) about 50 yards south of the cultural center building in the eastern Los Yoses district. The structure was not damaged, he said.

New York offered Jackson an unusually high percentage of black voters that won't be available to him in these upcoming states.

New York was the biggest single-state primary night so far this year, offering 255 delegates. Victory brought Dukakis' national total to half the 2,082 needed to clinch nomination and his aides expressed confidence that they could rally the hundreds of uncommitted party officials who will attend the convention to his side.

Swain and secretary Lisa Rejent collected 73 percent of the votes. The opposing ticket held 23 percent and four percent abstained. LeMans Hall produced a 27.5 percent voter turn-out.

Regina Hall had the lowest voter turn-out at 18 percent. Running unopposed, president Ann Clark, vice president Maura Clark, treasurer Wendy Dillon and secretary Jeannie Sabin were supported by 77.5 percent of the voters.

Michelle Agostino, elections commissioner, said McCandless Hall did not hold its election because one of the two tickets had been accused of illegal campaign methods.

The ticket received their first violation early in the election process and a second on Monday. Augustino also said the election committee met with the ticket, reviewed the violation charge, and accepted the ticket's appeal.

The McCandless Hall election will be held tomorrow in the dining hall during meal hours.

"We were pleased with the number of tickets involved," Agostino said. "Voter turn-out was a little down, but the new election procedures went very smoothly."

Georgeanna Rosenbush, assistant director of Student Activities, stated that Saint Mary's "is still above the national average" in the area of voter turn-out.

Field. "(Plans) are currently in the design stage," said Gilligan. He said that the center would probably be comprised of a three-building complex.

The first building would house offices for faculty, seminar rooms and public meeting spaces, said Gilligan. The second would contain an auditorium, seminar rooms and dining facilities, to be used by the University community and the general public for events related to the two institutes. The third building will be comprised of 20 apartments for visiting faculty members, said Gilligan.

Conklin noted that currently, visiting faculty are generally housed in University-owned homes in South Bend.

Gilligan said that "(The donation) has been in the works for a while."

Kroc also donated $6 million in 1985 to endow the Peace Institute, said Gilligan. According to Conklin, the Kellogg Institute was endowed in 1979 by a $10 million gift from the John L. and Helen Kellogg Foundation.

Palestine: the facts and the myths

For the last 40 years, the western world has been believing a myth. Because of the current uprisings in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, this same myth has come up time and time again. The myth deals with the Palestinian people and the belief that the Israelis are the cause of their anguish. True, the Arab world would like us to believe that the Palestinians were forced from their land and into their present refugee camps at the hands of the Israelis, but this assumption is logically as well as factually incorrect.

Billy Lerman

Let's start at the beginning. The Arab inhabitants of Israel not only left of their own free will, but they were also urged to do so by the Arab governments. If you don't believe my word, than how about the Arabs? According to a research report by the Arab-sponsored Institute for Palestine Studies in Beirut, "The majority of the Arab refugees in 1948 were not expelled, and 68 percent left without seeing an Israeli soldier." Also included in that same report is an announcement by the Arab National Committee of Haifa which states, "The removal of the Arab inhabitants was voluntary and was carried out at our request."

Considering this last bit of information, let us now take into account the opposite end of the refugee spectrum. Since 1948 the number of Jews in the Arab world has declined from more than 850,000 to fewer than 29,000. The reason that the number of Jews decreased is that they were in many cases formally expelled and in other cases murdered in Nazi-style attacks. Since 1948 Israel has settled not only the Jewish refugees from the Arab world, but also the survivors of the Holocaust and other European Jews as well. This brings to mind an amazing discrepancy. How can a tiny country such as Israel settle nearly 1,200,000 refugees while the oil-rich Arab world comprised of over 20 countries cannot settle 700,000 of their own brethren?

In reference to this discrepancy, Khaled Al-Azm, who served as the Prime Minister of Syria after the 1948 war, stated in his memoirs in 1972, "Since 1948 we demanded the return of the refugees (the Palestinians)... while it is we who made them leave (the Arab world)... We have rendered them dispossessed... We have accustomed them to begging... We have participated in lowering their moral and social level... Then we exploited them in executing crimes of murder, arson, and throwing bombs upon men, women, and children -- all this in the service of political purposes." It is that same set of political purposes that causes the Palestinian problem to exist today.

In conclusion, let us address the fraudulent claim that the land belongs to the Palestinians. In the first place, innumerable historic records dated before the advent of the Muslim religion detail the Jewish presence in the area. In the second place, the Arabs who chose to remain in Israel after the 1948 war celebrate full autonomy. Thus by willfully leaving Israel during the war they have forfeited any claims to the land.

The Palestinians in the occupied territories are there because of their political value in tallying world opinion against Israel. It's not a matter of which country has control of the territories. In fact, the standard of living in the territories has vastly improved under Israeli rule. The facts clearly point out that the solution rests in the irresponsible hands of the Arab world. So next time you read about the Palestinian refugees, recall the facts, not the myth.

Movie unjustly condemned

Dear Editor:

Upon reading William A. Murray's letter in Friday's Observer regarding the showing of "The Life of Brian" on campus, one's first reaction, the question that comes immediately to mind, is "Has he seen the movie?" Considering what he says about it, he either has not viewed it or he didn't pay very close attention when he did view it.

First of all, the movie makes absolutely clear that the character of Brian is not intended to be the historical Jesus. Jesus is presented in two scenes (the Nativity and the Sermon on the Mount) as a completely separate and independent character, acting completely in accordance with what the Bible and sacred tradition say about Him. Therefore, when Mr. Murray criticizes "The Life of Brian" for presenting "Christ's life, crucifixion and resurrection as butts of jokes," he is making a statement which is inconsistent with reality.

Of course, there are obvious parallels between the life and death of Brian and the life and death of Christ (the resurrection is not referred to to all). But to anyone who has seen, and understood, the movie, it is equally obvious that these parallels are used not to mock Jesus (or the character of Jesus would have been utilized), but to mock certain aspects of religion which need to be mocked: namely fanaticism, sectarianism, and humanity's tendency to place emphasis on the wrong things. Brian is a victim of his times. What he tries to say and do are right, but he is surrounded by lunatics. He lives in an insane period of history, not unlike our own, and is treated accordingly.

"The Life of Brian" is a bawdy movie, and the Pythons are by no means devout Christians. But Christians who are deeply offended by this movie either have missed the true point, or its criticisms apply to them. If the latter case is true, then it is these "Christians," and not the Pythons, who should be ashamed. We have become like the Pharisees if we are so self-righteous we can't laugh at our own faults.

As far as the movie's being condemned by the Catholic Church, such censorship belongs buried in the Church's past, along with crusades and inquisitions, and not in the post-Vatican II era. It certainly has no place at a university, Catholic or otherwise. The purpose of a university is free and open intellectual exchange, and if such exchange is not appropriate at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, as Mr. Murray would have us believe, then we are not really centers of higher learning in the full sense of the term.

Likewise, if Mr. Murray and others who share his sentiments don't approve of what Monty Python stands for, no one is forcing them to attend the movies or Graham Chapman's lecture on April 24.

As for us, we intend to enjoy the lecture as we have enjoyed the movies: as devout Catholics with clear consciences, firm belief in the Church and its values, and the ability to laugh at ourselves.

Business School thanked

Dear Editor:

As part of the Business School Case Competition team from the University of Western Ontario in London, Ontario,

I recently had the pleasure of competing in the "1988 Notre Dame Invitational Case Competition." We would like to extend our thanks and congratulations to the faculty and students at the College of Business who worked so hard to organize the competition.

Besides running the competition in a totally professional manner, the Notre Dame people extended such kind hospitality that we will always have fond memories of our visit. On behalf of the team members, Rob Olsen, Stefan Winsiowski and myself, thank you.

Mark Laughlin, this year's Niland Award recipient, shares the occasion with his Little Brother, Glen.

Big Brother receives award

accent writer

Two hours per week for over several years is quite a commitment. Nevertheless, the 60 plus members of Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's often extend themselves far beyond this minimum time requirement in fostering relationships with "littles."

This year, one student in particular has exemplified this commitment. On Monday afternoon Big Brothers/Big Sisters of St. Joseph County presented senior Mark Laughlin with the Patrick J. Niland Memorial Service Award.

Niland, who graduated from Notre Dame in 1982, demonstrated great devotion to the program. Upon his sudden death in 1985, as the result of a car accident, his family and friends established the award to recognize other students for exceptional service as Big Brothers and Big Sisters.

Criteria for the award include length of service, consistency, continuity (maintaining contact over summer months and vacations), creativity in meeting a child's particular difficulties, the quality or closeness of the relationship, and the time, caring and self-sacrifice involved.

Laughlin and his little brother Glen were matched halfway through Laughlin's sophomore year when Glen was 10 years old. When first paired, given their respective backgrounds, Laughlin commented, "We were pretty different."

To ease into the relationship, the two initially went swimming and played basketball or other sports in which a lot of talking was not necessary. Now, however, the two even study together. Laughlin has also taken Glen on a Chicago trip and to his home in Omaha, Neb., for two Easter breaks.

The studying has paid off and Glen has made significant academic improvement. After failing sixth grade, he has received 90 percent or above in all areas on his past report card. Said Laughlin, "Some of it's due to me, but a lot of it's due to him. He's grown up. I was the impetus--the first one to get him concerned about grades--but the rest was him."

Patricia Wagner, Executive Director for Big Brothers/Big Sisters of St. Joseph County, said of Mark, "He's really a special person. His relationship is one that he's put a lot of time and effort into."

Commenting on Glen, she said, "I am amazed at his confidence and poise. The caseworker said he has developed immensely. He used to be more of a shy young man and wasn't involved in as many things."

Wagner stated that, although the two did the "typical match activities" for the first year, Mark's special qualities were really drawn upon for the second year.

"While Mark was in London for a semester, they kept in contact by writing. When he came back, Glen's needs were different. Mark decided to see him twice a week, rather than once. Now Glen is on the Honor Roll and his mother says his improvement has been 99 percent because of Mark's encouragement."

At Monday's presentation, Wagner relayed a few of Glen's comments. Said Laughlin, "I remember he said that we're 'sort of best friends.'"

Laughlin knows that after graduation the two will "definitely keep in touch." However, due to post-graduation plans, he does not foresee that he will have the time to devote to involvement in a Big Brothers program elsewhere.

Commented Laughlin, "There are a lot of great Big Brothers and Sisters. Everyone is really deserving--anyone who can devote that kind of time deserves an award."

Reflecting on why he was chosen, Laughlin pointed to the concentration on academics but also remarked, "I don't really know for sure, but I know we've had a lot of fun together." Said Wagner, "Mark represents the high-quality, high-caliber students we have volunteering from Notre Dame and St. Mary's." It seems the Niland Memorial Service Award could not have a more appropriate recipient.

"Your mother wears army boots!"

I don't want anyone to get the wrong idea.

We all get a lot from our mothers. I inherited my mom's thin, white, hairless forearms.

And it's not that I don't appreciate all that mothers do, either. Far from it. Motherhood is probably the toughest job in the world, sort of a combination of shoveling dung and being President. I realize that it is a seriously tough gig.

Kevin Walsh

guest column

Fortunately, the accident of my birth forever excludes me from that occupation. I will never bear children and no matter what else ever happens to me, I can be thankful for that.

As if mothers didn't already have enough things to worry about, there's the little matter of Mother Jokes. I'm not talking about vaudeville jokes about mothers-in-law and I'm not talking about some watered-down "Cosby Show" sitcom schtick.

I'm talking about jokes about your mother.

These are the peculiar genre of comedy jokes usually practiced by playground last-ditch losers in grade school in an all-out effort to save face of some kind. There is not another single put-down (except maybe another Mother Joke) that can stop an argument as well as "Yeah, so's your mother." Keep this in mind.

I think a brief history of the Mother Joke is in order here. The very first Mother Joke was told at Freud's famous lectures, when he was expounding on his newly discovered "Oedipal Complex." Freud was going on at length about how every man secretly longs for his mother, when from the back of the auditorium someone was heard to shout, "Yeah, that's what your mother says!" Freud was briefly flustered, but retorted quickly and brilliantly with the now-famous burst of witty rhetoric, "I know you are, but what am I?"

World War II began, not when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, but rather when the Japanese Emperor shouted, "Please remind your mother that she left her shoes in the palace last night!" at Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Which brings us, of course, to the present day. My senior year in high school, I had the distinct privilege of attending an all-male school in New Jersey, that Wordsworthian paradise whose actual state slogan is "Your Mother!" It was there that I first encountered the full, polished, unfettered fury of the Mother Joke. These guys had refined it to an art. Their scatological poetry pulled in everything, from the classic, haiku simplicity of "Yo Mama" to the more Miltonian epics which included casts as diverse as "all the gophers in hell" and "The United States Marine Corps." Some of the inventive, cross-mutations of swear words that these guys came up with would have outright killed or at least blinded the younger members of the Brady Bunch, especially mentioned in connection with their mothers.

The funniest thing that happened all year was on the day when all the mothers came to visit. I stood by and watched as everybody quietly introduced their mothers to everybody else. I watched while kids who had professed intimate relations with each other's mothers were introduced and forced to make small talk. I remember our football team's quarterback's mother had unknowingly endured a few especially creative adventures; in real life, she was a delicate, upright woman without even a trace of hair on her back. I guess the other guys really had shaved it.

Mother Jokes are in danger of extinction, though. Norman Bates kind of screwed up the whole thing for everybody. That "Psycho" thing was probably the Mother Joke taken to its perverted extension.

So, don't forget that Mother's Day is on May 8 this year. And on that special day, don't forget to call Mom... if you can pull her off the rugby field long enough.

Aloha!

With authentic food and dancing, Jeff Yee, Gianna Ho, Andrew Kim and Kevin Young (officers of the club) invite everyone to sprinkle themselves with a little Hawaiian culture.

Come as you are, and indulge in the kalua pig, lau laus, chicken long rice, lomilomi salmon and other native dishes. The pitter-patter of drums and soft melodies of guitars will soothe your soul, making these last stressful weeks of school seem islands away.

Wrestling, track sign recruits

Special to The Observer

Five top-flight high school wrestlers have signed national letters of intent to enroll in the University of Notre Dame this fall.

Tim Anderson, a first-team All-American candidate from West Des Moines, Iowa, heads the list. Considered to be the top high school wrestler in Iowa this year, Anderson picked up his second consecutive state championship at Dowling High School in the 126-pound division. His 140-17-2 career record is the winningest mark in Iowa high school wrestling history. Anderson placed first in the national junior (18 and under) championships last year in his weight class.

Anderson will be joined at Notre Dame by a high school teammate, 177-190 pounder Curt Engler. Engler, a native of Peru, Iowa, compiled a 95-8-1 career record and captured the Iowa state crown last season in his weight division. He also finished sixth at the 1987 junior national competition.

Heavyweight Chuck Weaver will provide instant help for the Irish in that division. Another first-team All-America candidate, Weaver won the Oklahoma state title as both a junior and senior at Midwest City High School. He rolled up an impressive 130-5-1 record in high school, including a 78-match winning streak.

Mike Sheehy will wrestle at 118 for the Irish after winning the Illinois state title in that division last year. A three-time state finalist, Sheehy compiled a 146-7 record at St. Edward's High School in Elgin, Ill.

Marcus Gowens, a 126-pounder from Del City High School in Del City, Okla., rounds out the quintet. Gowens placed in the always-tough Oklahoma state high school tournament four times while going 95-12 during his career. He placed fifth in his division at last year's junior national championships.

A pair of middle-distance runners, Shawn Schneider and Brian Peppard, have signed national letters of intent to enroll in the University of Notre Dame next fall and run both cross country and track.

Schneider has had a standout prep career at Archbishop Ryan High School in Philadelphia, Pa. He won the Catholic League cross country championships this year, his first ever as a member of the harrier squad.

Cahill, Peltier receive honors

CeCe Cahill, a standout freshman on Notre Dame's women's tennis team has been selected by the Volvo Midwest Region Award Committee as the Midwest Rookie of the Year. Cahill, a native of Hinsdale, Ill., is included in a select group of eight regional rookies of the year, as selected by Volvo, that will be considered for national rookie of the year honors.

Cahill, currently 37-5 at number one for the Irish, is ranked 52nd among all Division I players in this week's VolvoITCA rankings. Regionally, Cahill is ranked third behind Indiana's Rika Minoki (29-17) and Kelly Mulvihill (34-10).

On May 6, the top four players in each region will be selected to compete in this year's NCAA championships.

Notre Dame sophomore

rightfielder Dan Peltier has been named the Midwestern Collegiate Conference's spring athlete of the week for the period ending April 18. Peltier was 14 for 29 (.483) in six games last week. The Clifton Park, N.Y. native, went 12 for 20 as the Irish won three of four from Detroit to clinch a spot in the MCC playoffs, including a triple, home run and 11 RBI. He needs just one more double this year to break the single-season mark of 15.

in their past two outings. J.C. Trebus provides the inside scoring while Bill Zadell can put the ball in the hole from the inside or outside.

The 9th seed is Who's Next, who's next for Tofu. Swingman Joel Rump is the scorer for this team which features four returnees from last year's team which reached the final eight. Steve Nicgorski fills the fifth spot and the lane. The tenth seed is Pop A Shot At Senior Bar. This is a revised version of last year's final eight team

New Order, with returning guards Joe Hills and Ralph Ferrara sticking it from the outside as Chris Jenks and Ray Blajda return underneath along with new team member Steve Bynum.

The 11th seed is Put It In The Hole Again, Chief. Dan Niedermeyer's quickness and scoring have led this team to date, while John Sheehan can also put it in the hole again and again, chief. The 12th seed in the Sweet 16 is Minahoonies. Self-proclaimed by Pete Graham as "definitely not a crowd favorite," Minahoonies throws around the beef underneath, while Steve Antonelli is one of the best guards left in the tournament.

At the 13th seed is Corporate Raiders. Michael Smith paces the Raiders' scoring while Pat Walsh runs the show at point guard for a repeat sweet 16 team. The 14th seed is A Bad Dude, A Cool Buzz and a Tasty Wave. Chris Carlson plays the point and can fill up the hoop, as can forward Mike Shimota. Not a big team, A Bad Dude... plays pesky defense which helps their transition game.

The 15th seed is Kinkoids, last year's 4 Fags And A Zahmbie. Mike Nee and Paul Gruber post up opponents underneath while Dan Michelini adds scoring punch for Lou's 2 QBs'... opponent today. And the final seed, No. 16, is Swaggart, Bakker and 3 Other.... Upset winners over Top Gun yesterday, Swaggart and company boast a balanced scoring attack and scappy play.

There you have it. 16 teams. Today, Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Probably cold weather. Probably an upset or two or more. Only one team will go undefeated... that's the only thing you can bet on. Besides that, anything goes. Because it's Bookstore.

AL roundup

Orioles tie AL loss record

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE--Baltimore tied a major league record with its 13th straight loss from the start of the season Tuesday night as Paul Molitor hit a three-run homer to help the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Orioles 9-5.

The Orioles equaled the losing streaks of the Washington Senators in 1904 and the Detroit Tigers in 1920. Baltimore will go for the record Wednesday night in Milwaukee.

The franchise record for consecutive losses is 14. Once in Baltimore in 1954, and twice when the team was based in St. Louis.

Baltimore, struggling to score runs and with a .186 team batting average entering the game, took a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but then collapsed in the field en route to its seventh straight loss under Manager Frank Robinson. Robinson took over for Cal Ripken Sr., who was fired last week.

White Sox 7, Mariners 2

SEATTLE--Carlton Fisk hit two home runs and the Chicago White Sox beat the Seattle Mariners 7-2 Tuesday night, extending their winning streak to five games.

Starting in the fifth inning with the score tied 2-2, Kenny Williams, Ivan Calderon, Fisk and Harold Baines hit solo home runs in consecutive innings off starter Mark Langston, 0-2.

Fisk homered in the seventh and eighth.

Jerry Reus, 1-1, held the Mariners to four hits in five innings for the victory.

Yankees 7, Twins 6

MINNEAPOLIS--Rickey Henderson, Bobby Meacham and Mike Pagliarulo drove in two runs each in a six-run second inning that carried the New York Yankees past the staggering Minnesota Twins 7-6 Tuesday night.

Athletics 8, Angels 3

OAKLAND, Calif.--Oakland's Dave Stewart survived three balks and seven California hits in seven innings to beat the Angels 8-3 Tuesday night.

Reliever Rick Honeycutt got the first out in the eighth, and Dennis Eckersley finished up for his sixth save in six save opportunities.

Red Sox 7, Tigers 3

DETROIT--Roger Clemens struck out 11 in eight innings as the Boston Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers and Jack Morris 7-3 Tuesday night.

Clemens, 3-0, allowed seven hits en route to his first career victory at Tiger Stadium. Clemens struck out at least 10 for the third time in four starts and leads the American League with 44 strikeouts.

Blue Jays 12, Royals 3

TORONTO--Jesse Barfield hit a grand slam to cap a seven-run third inning and Jim Clancy tied a club record with 12 strikeouts, leading the Toronto Blue Jays over the Kansas City Royals 12-3 Tuesday night.

Clancy, 1-2, tied the mark established by Pete Vuckovich versus Baltimore on July 26, 1977. Clancy pitched seven innings and allowed six hits. John Cerutti and Duane Ward finished.

Rangers 3, Indians 0

CLEVELAND--Jose Guzman pitched six shutout innings and Larry Parrish drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single Tuesday night as the Texas Rangers beat Cleveland 3-0.

The loss was only the second in the last 13 games for the Indians, who at 11-3 are off to their best start since 1966.

Guzman, 2-1, struck out three and walked one and allowed only four singles in six innings.

'Running joke' makes playoffs

Owners' moves turn Cavs around

Associated Press

RICHFIELD, Ohio--In just two years, the management of the Cavaliers has turned Cleveland's second-longest-running sports joke into a young squad bound for the NBA playoffs.

After two close games with the Cavaliers in December, one of them won by Cleveland, Los Angeles Laker Earvin "Magic" Johnson described the Cavaliers as the National Basketball Association team of the 1990s.

But the Cavaliers, who clinched only their fifth playoff berth in 18 years, and just their second in 10 years Monday night with a 112-107 victory over the Indiana Pacers, are surprising many people by making in impact now. The team has a 40-40 record, 30-10 at home.

"People were saying we were too young, a good team for the future. We want to be a good team now," said second-year guard Mark Price.

Cleveland is assured of at least the No. 7 playoff spot in the Eastern Conference and could go as high as fifth.

"I think we're a little ahead of the timetable most people had for this team," said Coach Lennie Wilkens. "I'm very proud of our players, what they've done."

The rebuilding of the Cavaliers started in the summer of 1986, when John "Hot Rod" Williams was acquitted in the Tulane point-shaving case. Later in the week, on the morning of the NBA draft, the Cavaliers dealt Roy Hinson for the right to draft center Brad Daugherty, an All-American at North Carolina. In the next couple of hours, the team would also pick up Ron Harper of Miami of Ohio and Price of Georgia Tech.

But there was more. Even when the Cavaliers appeared to be making nice, even progress this year--playing .500 ball--general Manager Wayne Embry and his staff were not satisfied. They went on a limb by making a trade this winter to the Phoenix Suns for Larry Nance and Mike Sanders.

It took the team some time to adjust to the trade, but few are doubting that it has paid off. The Cavaliers have won nine of their past 11 contests, including games against Eastern Conference powers the Atlanta Hawks and the Boston Celtics.

"We've definitely moved one level higher," Wilkens said.

The Cavaliers, who have two more regular season games, will enter the playoffs with Daugherty, Williams, Price and Harper only in their second NBA seasons.

"What it means is that we made it, baby," Harper said. "We're over that first mountain. When I came here, everybody said it would be four years before we can really compete. We're way ahead of schedule and now we're going for it all--a winning record for the year and a big push in the playoffs."

Wad's Last Shot; and Lou's 2 QB's and 2 Blind Guys silenced Pump up the Volume 21-15 behind Tony Rice's 8-for-13 shooting.

Adworks' All-Stars remained the team to beat in many people's eyes after fending off a pesky Ferrence and 4 Other Guys Who Can Turn Their Necks 21-14. Few teams can match up inside with Adworks' Gary Voce and Matt Dingens, or in the backcourt with Kevin Keyes (six-for-nine) and Ricky Watters. Voce summed up his team's chances to go all the way.

"I've got to think we've got a big advantage on the boards," said the 6-9 Voce, who had six points and seven rebounds yesterday. "But I think it might come down to our guards. Kevin's had a couple of off games, but he played well today and I think he's on stride."

Jim Ferrence had seven points for his team.

Tofu's Last Gig made its long-awaited entrance to the Sweet 16 an impressive one by derailing Orange Blossom Special 21-11 behind J.C. Trybus' eight points. Tofu shows some of the best team cohesiveness of any of the remaining squads, and forward Bill Zadell wonders just how far they can go.

"After we got in front (11-4) in the first half," said Zadell, who had four points, "we talked about not playing against ourselves in the second. We're doing the things we want to do: passing well, shooting pretty decent. If we keep it up we can play with just about anybody. But who knows. We're just glad Check the Ice is out of it."

In other games, Tom Veltz's 8-for-13 shooting led 5 Slamma Jamma over Uncle Fester and the Chiefs 21-16; Put It In the Hole Again, Chief grounded Butch and the Boxcars 21-18, as Danny Niedermeyer hit on 8-for-11; A Bad Dude, A Cool Buzz shook Debi Gibson, You're Ours 21-12; and Chips Bar spoiled SOMFAW'S Return 21-13 behind Derrick Johnson's five-for-six effort.

Corporate Raiders proved last year was no fluke by returning to the final 16, this year without Cedric Figaro. Michael Smith, 10-for-18 on the day, likes his team's chances as it comes down to crunch time.

"We run the break pretty well," said Smith, whose squad won 21-10 yesterday over Return of the Fugitive Guys. "Pat Walsh works really hard, and when we work the break the way we want, we're usually OK. It'll be tough to board with the taller guys from now on, but we should be able to out-quick most teams."

In the rest of yesterday's action, Who's Next... disposed of Whubus and his 4 Friends 21-13; Kinkoids blasted The Explosive Packages and Boomer 21-13 behind Dan Michelini's seven points; and Hahn's Funeral Home abandoned SOS 21-16.

The Sweet 16 melts down to the Elite Eight today as seeds are announced. See the bracket on page for team matchups.

Phillies top Mets for fourth time

Associated Press

NEW YORK--Mike Schmidt and Lance Parrish each hit two run-scoring singles, Von Hayes doubled twice and drove in two runs and Don Carman pitched a seven-hitter Tuesday night as the Philadelphia Phillies routed the New York Mets 10-2.

Schmidt, who entered the game batting just .191, went 3-for-4 in a 14-hit attack. He started a four-run fourth inning with an RBI single and his run-scoring hit in the fifth made it 6-1 and chased Bob Ojeda, 2-1.

Ojeda had pitched 15 consecutive scoreless innings before the Phillies put together five singles in the fourth. Ojeda, angry with home plate umpire Bob Davidson for two balk calls, threw his glove into the first-base stands as he exited into the Mets' dugout after being knocked out of the game.

Carman improved his record to 2-1.

Reds 8, Giants 0

CINCINNATI--Dennis Rasmussen pitched a four-hitter and Nick Esasky drove in four runs with a single and a homer Tuesday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Rasmussen, 1-1, struck out four in his second career shutout.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 0

PITTSBURGH--Brian Fisher won his seventh straight decision by pitching a seven-hit shutout and Barry Bonds doubled, singled and drove in a run as the streaking Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0 Tuesday night.

Expos 9, Cubs 1

CHICAGO--Dennis Martinez pitched a six-hitter and Tim Wallach homered as Montreal beat the Chicago Cubs 9-1 Tuesday for the Expos' fourth straight victory.

Martinez, 2-2, struck out five and walked none en route to his first complete game.

Braves 5, Astros 4

HOUSTON--Ted Simmons' three-run eighth-inning home run powered the Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

Simmons' game-winning hit came after Gary Roenicke reached on an error by shortstop Rafael Ramirez and Dale Murphy singled.

Padres-Dodgers, rain

LOS ANGELES--Tuesday night's game between Los Angeles and San Diego was postponed by rain, marking only the 13th time that a game at Dodger Stadium has been rained out since the Dodgers began playing there in 1962.

Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela and San Diego's Jimmy Jones, the scheduled pitchers for Tuesday night, have been rescheduled to start Wednesday night.

Juan Samuel and the Philadelphia Phillies appear to have the Mets' number this season. The Phillies dumped the Mets 10-2 Tuesday, their fourth win in five tries this season against New York.

WMU hammers Irish 28-10

Associated Press

KALAMAZOO, Mich.--Dale Hongisto and Bob Reimink each drove in six runs as Western Michigan bombed Notre Dame 28-10 in college baseball Tuesday.

Hongisto hit for the cycle in going 5-for-7 at the plate, while Reimink went 4-for-6, including a two-run homer.

John Hemingway also went 4-for-5 with two RBI.

The Broncos scored eight runs each in the second and sixth innings.

Western Michigan established team records for hits (27, breaking the mark of 25 set against Toledo on May 7, 1955) and runs scored (eclipsing the record of 26 set twice).

J.D. DeMare, 2-0, earned the victory despite allowing four runs, three of them earned, in 2 2/3 innings of relief.

Irish starter Mike Passilla,

2-4, pitched one inning, allowing seven runs.

Western Michigan is 17-11, while Notre Dame is 23-17.

Notre Dame has allowed a total of 72 runs in its last five games.

Purdue 18, Butler 0

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.--Purdue's Mike Galle hit a grand slam and Mike Drum threw a two-hitter to shut out Butler 18-0 in college baseball Tuesday.

Drum improved his record 3-2. Butler's Scott Johnson collected both of the hits off him. Bob Kent, 1-6, took the loss for Butler, 7-17.

The 16-23 Boilermakers' Jeff Kapp went 3-for-3 with three RBI.

Top Guns upset in Bookstore

TWL gets top seed in Sweet 16

By PETE SKIKO
Assistant Sports Writer

It was a day for the favorites Tuesday as Bookstore Basketball XVII rambled through to the round of 16 with nearly all the top seeds going virtually unscathed.

The lone casualty was a Tom Sluby-less Top Guns squad, which was shot down by Jimmy Swaggart, Jim Bakker, and 3 Other Guys Caught for Lane Violations. Mike Caballero, Kevin Whelan and Ed Cosgrove each had five points for the winners.

Other than that upset, the pretenders have been weeded out as the Sweet 16 prepares to commence (seeds are listed on page 13).

"I'm kind of surprised that 15 of the top 16 have made it this far," said Tournament Commissioner Mike Manning. "Considering all the freshman talent that we couldn't account or going into the tourney, I think the fact that there was only one upset was an upset in itself. It'll be interesting to see how our seeds work out from here on in."

In what Manning called an unavoidable situation, one team, Ministers Of Pain, was forced to play twice as a result of a forfeit by Four Brothers and a Sweet J. Four Brothers had played with Todd Lyght, who had already played on another squad, against Debi Thomas, Dan Jensen, ... in the round of 64. After Four Brothers had played, the violation was discovered, and in keeping with tournament rules, Four Brothers was disqualified and Debi Thomas, ... got a shot at Ministers of Pain.

The Ministers won that 4:45 contest 21-18, but were then forced to play again at 6:15 against Minahoonies in the round of 32. Minahoonies, behind Pete Graham's six points, made short work of The Ministers, 21-9.

In other action, Al Martin shot 7-for-12 as I'll Play, No I Won't demolished Yo...What Up? 21-14; Sean Cullinan and Chris Nanni combined to shoot 18-for-26 as Tequila White Lightning showed its vintage late round form in a 21-15 win over Swaggart, Reagan and Three Other Guys; Pop a Shot at Senior Bar's Ralph Ferrara scored ten points in his team's 21-16 victory over Johnny

Blowouts the rule at Angela

By JANE SHEA
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

The Women's Bookstore Basketball Tournament field was narrowed down to 32 teams as play continued yesterday at Saint Mary's Angela Courts.

This is Why We Chose to Run Track ran over Miners 21-5. Composed of five girls who run for the Notre Dame women's cross country team, Run Track made quick work of the Miners. 'Sure-Shooter' Kristen Carty led Run Track with nine points.

"Our enthusiasm, quickness, endurance and team play all helped in our win over the Miners," said Carty.

The Miners could not stop the fast breaks and rebounding ability of Run Track. The Miners were able to get the ball down the court, but could not get it in the basket and did not score once after the halftime break.

In the first shutout of the Women's Basketball Tournament, Jeromone and the Bouncers blasted pass Wonder Woman, Isis and Charlie Angels 21-0.

Scrimmages highlight returners, inconsistent kickers

By PETE GEGEN
Sports Writer

Never before had special teams received so much press as last season, when Tim Brown returned his way to the Heisman Trophy.

Brown may be gone, but the glamour still lingers.

The highlight of Friday's scrimmage was an 86-yard kickoff return for a touchdown by Mark Green, Brown's heir apparent at both the flanker and kickoff return positions. With the experienced blocking of Anthony Johnson, Braxton Banks and Joe Jarosz forming the wedge, Green found his way through a mixture of scholarship and walk-on players.

Of course it may be too much to start comparing Green to Brown, and in fact the punt-return assignment will not go to the same player who returns kicks, as it did last season. Ricky Watters has been tabbed the number-one punt returner, returning one punt 26 yards in Tuesday's scrimmage.

"Last year we wanted Tim to touch the ball as often as possible," said assistant coach George Stewart. "Now we don't want to wear down one back with both assignments. By having two different returners, it's sort of like spreading the wealth."

Backing up Watters will be Todd Lyght.

"Todd made it known to us that he would like a shot at returning punts," said assistant coach Barry Alvarez. "We put him back there, and so far he's done a good job."

While the return teams have impressed this spring, the kicking teams have been less than spectacular.

"If we had to pick a starting punter today, I don't know who it would be," says assistant coach Vinny Cerrato. "None of the punters have been consistent."

Pete Hartweger, Jim Sexton and Sean Connor all have had their share of good punts and shanks in the scrimmages Tuesday and last Friday. While

A courtside guide to the Sweet 16

You can't hide from it any longer.

It's been going on for nearly a month now, beginning with 666 teams. That means over 3300 players ranging from students to hall staff members, dining hall workers, law students, varsity coaches and even a University President. And now its coming to a close with 16 teams still in the running to walk off with all the marbles on Sunday.

At Stepan, Lyons and the Bookstore, the crowds have been growing bigger and bigger each day as the field narrows. And they'll only continue to grow as the week goes on. The only question remaining besides "Who'll win it all?" is "Where is the sun?" Aren't we in April? Isn't this An Tostal week? Somebody better tell that to local weatherman Dick Addis, who may just be cursing the tournament since he isn't part of a team's name (as in the 1986 classic Wave Your...).

On a campus where pickup basketball is as popular as any course taught by a professor whose first name is A-B, the time has come for the cream of the crop to display their talents in front of these large partisan crowds. Here's a brief rundown of the 16 teams for whom the dream is still alive.

The top seed of the Sweet 16 is Tequila White Lightning, the perennial Sweet 16 team. They've reached this point of the tournament for six straight years, including last year's Final Four appearance (Tequila lost to eventual champion 'Da Brothers of Manhood in the semifinals last year, 21-19). The Lou and Chris Nanni duo in the backcourt makes opposing guards shudder with their quick makes and smooth passing, while Sean Cullinan is tough at the forward spot.

The No. 2 seed is Lou's 2 QBs and 2 Blind Guys. No tricks in this name. At last year's Blue-Gold Game, Lou Holtz asked visiting senior Kent Graham and ineligible freshman Tony Rice if they would play on his Bookstore team in 1988, and a possible championship team was born. Add the strong inside play and mobility of George Baldus, and the scoring punch of Jeff Peters, and you've got the second seed.

I'll Play, No I Won't holds down the No. 3 seed. Floor general Al Martin runs the show for this team, which includes former Leone's Stallions (two-time Bookstore bridesmaids) Martin, John Mundo and Bill Sullivan. John Kennedy joins Sullivan to provide scoring punch from the forward slots, while recently-acquired Paul Pasin fills up the center of the lane.

The No. 4 seed is Hahn's Funeral Home, led by a guy who has done it all in Bookstore, Bubba Cunningham. A member of two championship teams (the last time on Lee's BBQ in 1986) and a former Mr. Bookstore, Cunningham's quickness leads to steals and pretty feeds to his teammates, including high-scoring Tom Antonini.

The No. 5 seed is Chip's Bar. While Andy Heck gives Chip's scoring and a lot of space inside, freshman Derrick Johnson has been on a scoring tear (11 points yesterday).

The sixth seed is Adwork's All-Stars. Adwork's is led on the inside by Gary Voce and last year's Mr. Bookstore John 'Booger' Buscher, if Buscher returns from an ankle injury sustained Monday. On the perimeter, Ricky Watters and Kevin Keyes have the moves and scoring touch to fill up the hoop.

The No. 7 seed is 5 Slamma Jamma. Ray Flannery, Chris Perozek and John Wassil return from last year's Final Four team 4 Slamma Jamma, and are joined by freshman Tom Veltz and Innsbruck-returnee Terry Maag to compose this year's challengers for the title.

The 8th seed is Tofu's Last Gig. Tofu plays very well together when they're on, and they have been
