Ticket prices skyrocket

By KELLEY TUTHILL Staff Reporter

If you want tickets to Saturday's game against Miami, be prepared to spend a lot of money. Regardless of the scalping policy, tickets are being sold above and beyond face value.

According to various buyers and sellers of Miami tickets, the average price for a student ticket is $50 to $100, and the average for GA's is at least $100. Prices of student tickets continue to rise as various classified advertisements ask for the "best offer" for the tickets.

One student seller said she probably could have recieved $75 for a student ticket. "I sold it for $55, and I guess that's a lot, too," she said.

Other student sellers said they had bids of $50 and $60 and that they would wait "as long as possible for the highest price."

One student salesman said $80 was his top bid. With regard to the University's scalping

Warning fails to halt

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia-Communist authorities put more police on the streets and imposed unspecified "urgent measures" in Montenegro's capital Monday, but protests fed by economic crisis and ethnic tension did not stop.

Protest has swept much of southern and eastern Yugoslavia in recent weeks. Police used violent tactics for the first time over the weekend to disperse Montenegrin students and workers demanding the dismissal of local Communist Party leaders.

President Raif Dizdarevic went on national television Sunday night to appeal for calm, warning of unspecified emergency measures.

Unrest continued Monday in Titograd, the capital of Montenegro 280 miles southwest of Belgrade, and the regional party leadership held an emergency meeting, the official news agency Tanjug reported.

Workers and 2,000 students at Niksic, 30 miles north of Titograd, rallied outside a government building and in a steel mill where 2,800 workers were on strike for a second day, Tanjug said.

Police used clubs and tear gas to break up weekend crowds in Titograd and disperse marchers in Niksic who were on their way there.

The Titograd rally was an explosion of anger about hardships resulting from the

'The Big Game' is a sort of homecoming

I'm going to a family reunion this weekend. Compared to most students' plans of tailgaters, parties, and The Big Game (I think we all know which one), a weekend of picnics, grandparents, Great-Aunt Minnie or getting to know my newest first cousin-once-removed-bymarriage hardly sounds too exciting.

Luckily for me, this is a different kind of family reunion. I'll still get to go to the game, the parties and the tailgaters, but I'll also get to see all my brothers and sisters together for the first time since Christmas, 1986.

Yes, this weekend my family is gathering this weekend at our home in South Bend. My sister and her boyfriend are flying in from Denver and my two brothers will drive from Chicago. My other two sisters, my parents, and myself will all be here waiting for them.

For some it will be the first opportunity to meet Karen's boyfriend and some will meet Sheila and Wayne's six-week-old baby for the first time.

Ours being a sort of "foreign study junkie" family has caused much of the apartness. Shortly after the last reunion, my sister took off for London. She returned in June of 1987 and ten weeks later I embarked on a ten-month stay in Austria.

It became slightly unbelievable upon my return, as this same sister departed for London again just ten days after I got back from Innsbruck. I moved into the dorm less than a week after she got back and she stayed at home. Even though "home" is only two miles away, between the two of us we have four majors, three jobs, and no car. It just doesn't lend itself to a lot of sisterly bonding. I do occasionally bump into her in the dining hall or around campus.

Come Friday all that will change. For approximately thirty-six hours, my five siblings, my parents and I will share a city. I can't even say we'll share a home because my family has outgrown our house--no easy task. I'll stay in my dorm here, because somebody else will be sleeping in my bed. My married sister, her husband, and their two daughters will stay in their own house.

Despite the physical proximity, we probably still won't see each other all that much. Oh, we'll have a tailgater and Mom's famous lasagna after the game, maybe brunch on Sunday, but there just still won't be enough time.

Being the youngest of such a crew, I am used to our family being spread apart and seldom seeing one another. My oldest brother made the big move to campus when I was eight. Except for a few summers, our family has never been quite the same. Another sister came to Notre Dame the next year and went to Innsbruck, creating a precedent three of us would follow.

This was also the cause, however, of our first holiday season apart. I remember talking to a rather upset sister as she talked to us from a phone booth in rainy Madrid on Christmas Day, and I thought how I'd never want to be anywhere else but South Bend on December 25. Nine years later, I was on the European end of that transatlantic phone call.

The family division continued as another brother went to Innsbruck, missing my sister's wedding in the interim. My oldest sister returned and graduated, she decided the plains of the Midwest weren't for her and headed for the mountains of Colorado.

It came as rather a shock to me to discover that we have been apart so long, although I have seen them individually since then. The last year we saw one another was the same year I graduated from high school. So much has transpired in my life since then. I don't even look the same.

There's really no way to catch up on nearly two years in less than two days. None of us would give up our experiences abroad or our independent lives, but no one can restore the closeness that letters and phone calls just can't duplicate, especially with writing habits like ours. All we can do is enjoy this weekend and hope we don't have to wait two more years for another.

Fire in Lemans evacuates hall

By LISA MONTPETIT Staff Reporter

Arson is believed to be involved in a fire which occurred at 3:43 a.m. Sunday to a door on the second floor of LeMans Hall, according to Richard Chlebek, director of security at Saint Mary's.

The building was evacuated when smoke from a burning door decoration triggered the alarm, Chlebek said. He added that no injuries were sustained.

No suspects are being held at this time, said Chlebek. He said the situation is under an investigation which "will involve interviewing several students to hopefully identify the responsible party"

The fire caused $150 damage to the door and the carpeting, Chlebek said.

'We feel this is a serious matter," he said. "Fortunately it involved minor damages and no injury or death. Any time you have a fire in a residential building, especially when it is deliberately set, you always have that possibilty of not only loss of property but of life too."

The Notre Dame Fire Department and Saint Mary's Security responded to the call that came over the fire alarm system, Chlebek said.

The section resident assistant said the fire was extinguished with water by a resident before the fire department arrived at the scene. The two occupants of the room were in their beds at the time the incident occurred, she added.

"I am shocked and I am surprised that someone would deliberately go and do someth-ing like that," the resident assistant said.

Another section resident recalled being the first into the hallway after the alarm had sounded. "I left the room and saw the flames coming off of the door," she said. "I started screaming and ran down the hall pounding on the doors."

"It's a senseless prank or a deliberate act," said Chlebek. "We don't know at this time, and that's why the investigation is being conducted."

Chlebek asked if anyone has any information relating to the incident to report it to security. Persons giving information may remain anonymous.

protesters to hold rally AIDS

Associated Press

WASHINGTON- About 300 AIDS protesters rallied outside federal health the headquarters building Monday in a warmup for a more intense demonstration planned today in which they will try to block entrances to the Food and Drug Administration headquarters in nearby Rockville, Md.

Leaders of the demonstrations have said they expect hundreds of arrests in what they bill as a civil disobedience action they hope will be the largest since marches on the Pentagon during the Vietnam War.

Monday's rally was outside the vacant Hubert Humphrey Building, which houses the Health and Human Services Department. Because it was on a federal holiday, the building was deserted and surrounding streets were nearly vacant.

A small contingent of police watched as a series of speakers ridiculed the Reagan administration for what they said was а criminally inadequate response to AIDS and castigated the news media for not paying enough attention to the disease.

Police officers and the res-

The rally was organized as a mock trial with speaker after speaker reading off a list of 'charges" against the administration as a "judge" stood by nodding affirmatively at each count.

"Guilty, guilty, guilty," the crowd chanted as various charges were leveled.

A major focus of the afternoon rally, as well as the demonstration planned Tuesday, is to press for wide access to experimental drugs for people suffering from AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The assailants verbally harassed the students, but got no response, said the students. They then hit Caldwell in the back of the head and then cut him and Schudt in the neck, the victims said.

"We dove into McDonald's and they followed us in and continued to assault us until the manager chased them out,' Caldwell said.

The Notre Dame students praised the quick response of the police and paramedics, who arrived "in two minutes, if that," according to Caldwell.

Police were able to apprehend one of the assailants, but he escaped shortly after being taken into custody, according to the victims.

taurant mananger said this was a unique incident, according to the band members. "They have gang wars often, but usually nothing against uninvolved persons," said Schudt. This was the first time band members were involved in an incident like this, said Luther Snavely, director of University Bands.

"This is really that sort of thing that we hate to get too blown out of proportion . . . We don't want to detract from the great win at Pittsburgh," Snavely said.

"All of us know when you go to a city late at night there's always danger," he said. "It happened so quickly, they had no time to react."

Phil Johnson, assistant director of Notre Dame Security, stressed that band members were $50-100 each.

Jim McEachen, a senior, bought a pair of GA's for $90. "I got lucky," said McEachen. Senior Mike Wade paid $175 for pair of GA's. Molly а McCarthy, a student, said she has found that $50 to $125 per GA and $75 for a student ticket were average.

John Houlihan "just wanted tickets for some buddies." He said he bought GA's at face value and was offered other tickets for $30 to $45. One other student paid face value for GA's, buying them from a friend.

Cunningham said it was possaid that asking prices for GA's through Notre Dame alumni most sought-after tickets.'

and students must be cautious. "We have a concern for personal safety for everyone, no matter where they are. We hope everyone sees the need to exercise prudence in an unfamiliar area.'

Snavely and Johnson also stressed that this was not an incident specific to a large city like Pittsburgh. "This occasionally happens to students coming back to campus, too," said Snavely.

Two Notre Dame Security officers accompanied the band to Pittsburgh but were not present at the incident. "Our responsibility when traveling with the band is to facilitate access, traffic and crowd control and to act as liaison with the campus police there and with other agencies," said Johnson.

Fifty-three clubs had Miami ticket raffles in addition to the 20,000 ticket alumni lottery, said Cunningham. Three hundred tickets are also available to alumni host clubs, he said.

Selling Miami tickets may be profitable, but one seller complained, "I get thirty calls a day. I'm trying to get rid of the tickets. There is obviously a great demand."

Crash hurt, but the rich remain rich

Associated Press

NEW YORK- The stock market crash wiped out some of their wealth, but according to Forbes magazine the 400 richest Americans still had a total worth of about $220 billion, enough to cover the federal budget deficit for a year.

Last year's Oct. 19 financial market debacle reduced the fortunes of many of the ultraaffluent 400 and caused 22 former members to be dropped from the list because their fortunes slipped below Forbes' $225 million cutoff.

Still, the average fortune on this year's edition of the annual list comes to $551 million, up $1 million from last year.

The list appears in the Oct. 24 edition of Forbes and is based on holdings as of Aug. 30. The federal deficit for the fiscal year that just ended was about $150 billion. The total national debt is about $2.5 trillion. Sam Walton, 70, easily held the No. 1 spot for the fourth year in a row, even though his net worth shrank by a whopping $2 billion following the crash. Walton, head of the Arkansas-based Wal-Mart discount store empire, scoffs at his $6.7 billion in riches. He calls it "just paper -- all I own is a pickup truck and a little Wal-Mart stock.'

By Forbes' estimates of worldwide wealth, Walton rates fifth behind Japan's Yoshiaki Tsutsumi, $18.9 billion; Taikichiro Mori, $18 billion; and Haruhiko Yoshimoto, $7.8 billion; and Canada's Kenneth Cole Irving, $8 billion.

The number of American billionaires nearly doubled in 1987, but Forbes' '88 list has only two additional billionaires, bringing the total to 51. Japan has the secondhighest number of identified billionaires with 34.

Runner-up to Walton on the billionaire list is John Werner Kluge, the head of Metromedia Co. with a net worth of $3.2 billion.

Next in line are H. Ross Perot. the founder of Electronic Data Systems who wants to overhaul the nation's postal system, with $3 billion; publishers Samuel and Donald Newhouse, $2.6 billion each; and Pittsburgh industrialist Henry Lea Hillman, $2,5 billion.

Underscoring the adage that the more you have, the more you can lose, billionaires were among those hit hard by the crash. Among the big losers were David Packard, founder of Hewlett-Packard, media magnate Keith Rupert Murdoch and retailer Leslie Wexner.

Bush, Dukakis court Italian- Americans, prepare for debate

Associated Press

George Bush and Michael Dukakis courted the support of Italian-Americans in competing Columbus Day appearances Monday that left plenty of time to polish their lines in private for this week's second and final presidential campaign debate.

It was a day that mixed campaign rhetoric with colorful made-for-television images.

Dukakis proposed a plan to make it easier for first-time home buyers to finance their residences before marching in a Columbus Day parade up

Pope restricts women's potential

This past weekend I read an interesting article in the Chicago Tribune about Pope John Paul II's recently issued apostolic letter entitled "Mulieris Dignatatem," Latin for "On the Dignity of Women." As a woman, I was truly offended by the Pope's views on the role of women in the Catholic Church and on women's vocational responsibilities. While he claims that women and men are equal and should be treated as such, he fails in further comments to follow through on these claims.

Margaret Egan guest column

It seems that the Pope sees women as best realizing their vocational capabilities through motherhood (childbearing), or through what he calls "spiritual motherhood," which refers to those women who remain celibate in order to devote themselves to a religious order. In other words, women are truly useful to the Church only in these two senses. Somehow, this argument is just a bit too close to the outmoded stereotypical attitudes which would keep women "barefoot and pregnant." The Pope also clearly restated his view that women definitely should not be ordained priests. His stance on this issue is based on the assumption that Jesus chose only men as His disciples because He felt that men would simply make better leaders.

Actually, it would seem more reliable to say that Jesus did not choose women because at that time in history women did not have that kind of authority and therefore would have been less likely to influence potential Christians. But times have changed. An argument such as the Pope's is based, fundamentally, on the very premises of the inequality and discrimination which he refers to as a "sin." Accordingly, it appears that Pope John Paul II is contradicting himself; on the one hand, men and women should be treated as equals, and on the other hand, women are unequally refused to serve their faith through the priesthood.

Another disturbing point in the Pope's argument is his view that women are basically distinguished by "feminine" characteristics such as "sensitivity." While some women do possess this characteristic, he here intimates that men do not, or at the very least, that this is an undesirable trait in men. In a certain sense, one would think that a good characteristic for a priest to possess would be sensitivity to others. If women are in such great abundance of this trait, wouldn't it therefore follow that women would make excellent priests? Jesus Christ Himself was known for His sensitivity to others; does this make Him any less than the man who He was?

The Pope also said that, even though women should strive for equality, this 'must not under any circumstances lead to the masculinization of women.' He is now dictating what the actual characteristics of femininity are. Since when does achieving simple equality lead to the masculinity of individuals? He claims that "the personal resources of femininity are certainly no less than the resources of masculinity; they are merely different." If a woman's resources are equal to a man's, she should be given the opportunity to enter into a male-dominated field, i.e., the priesthood. Yes, of course these resources may vary, but the differences could only add a new dimension to what it means to be a priest.

What's more is that the Pope apparently wrote this letter without consultation of other religious leaders. So, this is basically one man's opinion. But he is not just any man--this is our Pope and the leader of the Catholic community around the world. What he has just claimed will be Church teaching for the duration of his time as Pope.

A unique aspect of being a woman is, indeed, her ability to bear children. But this is by no means the sole aspect and by no means the most important one. My argument is simple: Pope John Paul II's view on gender equality is just not in keeping with our times. We, both men and women, at this leading Catholic university should question religious teaching which seems so obviously to contradict itself. The women here make incredible sacrifices to gain an education which, in most respects, will be used outside of the vocation of motherhood. Motherhood is certainly not a prerequisite for personal dignity.

All forms of sexism degrade women

Dear Editor:

'Jerks'' was a really appropriate title for Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay's cartoon of Thursday, Oct. 6. The last frame read, "Fishing is a lot like scoping chicks; except when you scope, you throw back the big ones." Wow, what nerve! Apparently the two authors were busy making themselves feel good by insulting women in this same way last year when a series of articles about insensitivity and eating disorders came out in The Observer.

"But it's such a small thing," you might argue. True, but it's a perfect example of the little things around our campus that build up to women feeling ashamed about their bodies and abusing themselves to cope with that shame. I must say that the two dorks in the cartoon look like they can't afford to be that picky, but it's too bad that they, or real guys with their attitudes, will miss out on meeting really beautiful women in life who just may not look like Playboy centerfolds. It's your potential loss, but please realize that you're helping to perpetuate devastating attitudes about women that we're all doing our best to overcome.

Susan Hrach Walsh Hall Oct. 8, 1988

Cartoon exudes chauvinist attitude

Dear Editor:

I found the "Jerks" comic strip in the Thursday, Oct. 6, Observer offensive, yet unfortunately typical of the pervasive mentality at Notre Dame. The strip portrayed one fisherman saying to another, "fishing is a lot like scoping chicks; except when you scope, you throw back the big ones."

While this establishes that the fisherman is indeed a jerk, one wonders whether the cartoonists (Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay) are capable of creating a joke. Reading this sort of sexist tripe is a lot like vomiting, except when you do so, you expel the bile. Valerie Camarigg Off-campus Oct. 7, 1988

Sexism prevails in offensive cartoon

Dear Editor:

Is there sexism on campus? Yes, I believe there is. This week I saw a young male student wearing a T-shirt with the saying, "No chick looks ugly after 2 a.m." What a horrible reduction of the human person to a mere object of sexual pleasure. But there is more. On Oct. 6, The Observer printed a comic strip called "Jerks" by Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay which ended saying, "Fishing is a lot like scoping chicks: except when you scope you throw back the big ones." What incredible insensitivity. This is anything but humorous or responsible editing. Are these not forms of sexism?

This spring, the American Bishops Doonesbury

spoke out against these blatant and subtle forms of sexism in their first draft of Patterns in the Mystery of Redemption: A Pastoral Response to Women's Concerns for Church and Society. In paragraph 41 they wrote, "Acknowledging the subtle presence of sexism and affirming the equality and dignity of women is only a first step. We must and do pledge to reject clearly and consistently human structures and patterns of activity that in any way treat women as a lesser worth than men. When our actions do not conform to our ideals, all suffer.<sup>3</sup>

I ask you to join the bishops in their regret and confess our individual and collective failures to respond to women they Destroying as deserve. stereotypes and honoring women with dignity must begin with recognizing these various forms of sexism. We must all further equality and dignity which women deserve.

After the Fire, St. Ed's Lives On

STEVE MEGARGEE accent writer

Constructed in 1882 to provide housing for children then attending Notre Dame's grammar school, St. Edward's Hall is one of the oldest structures on the Notre Dame campus. Naturally, it is most closely associated with one of Notre Dame's more historical moments --the 1980 fire that closed the dormitory to students for a year.

St. Ed's will be forever associated with that fire, and renovations following the disaster resulted in the formation of a wing to the dormitory building. But programs recently established by this men's dormitory, along with the unique elements of the dorm's population and architecture, have firmly established St. Ed's as much more than "the dorm that survived the fire." St. Ed's houses about 180 residents, making it the second smallest men's dorm (after Carroll). That's just fine with the men of St. Ed's, who cite that fact as one reason for the friendly atmosphere they see in this hall.

"The small size encourages people to get to know everybody in the hall," said Hall President Tim Flood. "People will go around and meet more people, and that makes for a better atmosphere in the hall. It's a closely-knit hall. Most of the hall supports all its events, social and athletic."

Those hall events have significantly increased over the last few years. One new event started this year is the St. Edward's Hall Forum, which features weekly presentations by various faces in the Notre Dame community. Recent speeches have included a Bush-Dukakis debate between former Ohio Governor John Gilligan and law professor Ed Murphy, and University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh speaking about the U.S. presidents he has known. Future speakers include University President Father Edward Mallov and Irish basketball coach Digger Phelps.

"We were interested in raising the academic atmosphere by using social interaction in the dorm," said junior Mark Purcell, who serves as hall academic commissioner with sophomore Mike Kautzky. "We're mixing academic awareness through social events."

Another event to start at St. Ed's recently is the St. Edward's Hall Players program. Since its inception in the 1986-87 school year, the Players have presented two drama productions on campus. The Players debuted with "Love, Sex and the IRS," in 1987, and then performed "The Odd Couple" last winter.

The Players have 60 members, including about 20 St. Ed's residents. They are responsible for everything except the actual playwriting in their productions, which will continue with a yet-to-bedetermined play next semester.

"Father Mario (Pedi) was the rector my freshman year, and we used to do a play every year," said senior Duane DiFranco, the original organizer of the Players. "We wanted to still have plays every year after Fr. Mario left, so we formed the club. It's going very, very well."

Current rector Father Gene Gorski, a former rector at Howard Hall, is in his second year at St. Ed's. He brought many of his former Howard residents with him after that hall was converted to a women's dormitory. Gorski's arrival has produced many new ideas for the Sunday liturgies. Under commissioners Terry Brady and Tom Hassett, the liturgical commission has added unique programs for the Advent and Lenten seasons. Last year, a special Christmas Mass was held that featured the talents of the expanded St. Ed's choir headed by Jayme Stayer.

So even after the fire, the St. Ed's community continues to thrive not just because of the history that comes from a structure listed on the National Register of Historic Places, but also because of the spirit and new ideas being produced every year by the 180 men of St. Ed's Hall.

Appalachian Trip Broadens N.D. Education

KATHY LENNEY accent writer

L iving beneath our Golden Dome among the lush trees and peaceful lakes, it is easy for us to forget that life for others is not as wonderful. As we stress over our midterms and anxiously await the Miami game, it is difficult to understand that in other parts of the country people are fighting day to day to survive.

The Center for Social Concerns conducts a seminar over fall break that strives to help less fortunate people living in the Appalachian dents this fall, over twice the number of students who attended last semester. Dr. Michael Affleck, the coordinator of this seminar, believes that the increase is due to an awakening of the spirit and consciousness of the university.

"I hope that the reason why I the seminar is doing so well of is because students have a to deepening desire to care for a others," said Affleck.

Sophomore Karen McIntire applied for the Appalachian Seminar, hoping to help less fortunate people. "At Notre Dame we have four years not only to educate ourselves, but to give of ourselves. There are so many people who need help in the world. I don't think that one week out of my life is too much time to give," she said.

After experiencing this seminar, students will have a better understanding of the Appalachian people. "From their experiences in this seminar, I hope that students will learn about these people who suffer such great injustices. They will see first-hand who these people are and why their lives are so difficult." said Affleck. Sophomore Kim Hamlin hopes that her experiences over fall break will give her a better understanding of the problems people face in Appalachia. "You can read about poverty in a book, but to experience it is something else. The Appalachian Seminar is a good opportunity for kids to get out of their suburban world and experience the lifestyle of people with serious problems," said Hamlin.

During the seminar, students will study the economic, social and political forces which have brought about the oppressive conditions in Appalachia. Students earn one theology credit for their week of social service. A final paper is required of all students who participate.

According to Affleck, the purpose of the final paper is to give students the opportunity to reflect on their experiences in Appalachia. "The CSC hopes that the experiences students have will influence them in some meaningful way. Writing a final paper will help students to integrate the lessons they've learned into their lives," he said. Approximately $100 should be enough pay for the registration fee, gas, and food for the week. This seminar is offered both fall and spring semesters. For more information, contact Dr. Michael Affleck at the CSC, 239-7943.

Mountains. Students in the seminar participate in a variety of activities, from spending time with the mountain people to visiting centers for elderly people and abused children. Physical work can entail such jobs as home repair, gardening and farm maintenance.

The program has a record high enrollment of 102 stu-

Farley eyeing championship

By ARTHUR GOLLWITZER Sports Writer

Farley continued on the road to the women's Interhall football championship Sunday afternoon with a tough 12-0 win over Lyons.

Farley's quarterback, Colleen McGillis, had a hand in both touchdowns. The first was on a 10-yard pass, and the second a quarterback keeper. The game's key defensive play was provided by Kim Kozlowski, who, with Lyons on the Farley five-yard line, surged through the line of scrimmage and intercepted a pitch.

"It was a very competitive game," said Farley captain Karen Lynch. "We worked well together as an entire unit. We really came together.'

The win improved Farley's record to 6-0, leaving it as the only undefeated team in the league.

Lewis 16, Howard 8: Lewis advanced its record to 5-1, good defense looked good, but our for second in the standings, by defeating Howard, which won its opener but has dropped three straight, fell to 1-3.

Christine Wallmeyer started the scoring for Lewis with a center sneak for a touchdown, which was capped off by a twopoint conversion by Sue Lippa. The winning touchdown was on a run by Valarie LaManna.

The game was a very even contest until the end, when Lewis added the margin of victory.

PW 13, Knott 0: PW pushed its record to 3-1 with a win over Knott.

Quarterback Jill Bodensteiner rushed for the opening touchdown, and Heidi Hansen added the second. The PW defense also played well, as shown by an impressive fourth-down stand on its own 15-yard line.

"Both the offense and special teams could use a little work," captain Tanya Pieters said.

Siegfried 8, Badin 0: In a de-Siegfried fensive battle, prevailed to raise its record to 3-1.

Throughout the game, Badin (0-6) showed signs that it might earn its first victory, but mistakes proved to be its downfall. Every drive was limited by penalties. With two minutes left in the game, an interception was turned into the winning touchdown.

Breen-Philips 7, Walsh 6: This game featured Sunday's longest run from scrimmage. A 70-yard dash by Kristy Alkidas was enough for BP (2-2) to win its second straight game, keeping slim playoff hopes alive.

BP's win would not ave been possible without some great defensive play. Linebacker Allison Devers came up with two key plays to stop a Walsh drive.

Wheaton hands Belles first defeat

By MARY KATE COYLE Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's tennis team traveled to Wheaton last weekend College and lost for the first time this season, 6-3. The Belles went into the match with a 17-0 record after defeating Saint Francis on Thursday, 6-3.

"We were at a disadvantage going into the match, without our number one singles player, Jennifer Block, who is out because of illness," said coach Deb Laverie. "This moved everyone up a flight.'

Ellen, both won in straight sets at No. 3 and No. 4 singles. This put the Belles at 4-2 going into the doubles competition.

The Mayer sisters, Sarah and

The Belles fought it out in doubles, but only the No. 2 team of Charlene Szajko and Sarah Mayer won.

"I was disappointed because our goal was to be undefeated,' said Laverie. "I do think it may be a blessing in disguise, for it may bring about the good motivation we will need to have going into state."

The Belles have shown that they are team that has the skill and competitiveness needed to be a winning team. The real test will come when the Belles go to Anderson to compete in the state competition this weekend.

"If we all give 100 percent we can do it," Sarah Mayer said. "If some only give 99 percent, we won't be able to win it. I think it's important that we all go in there with positive attitudes."

The Belles travel to Manchester College today to complete the regular season.

touchdown to cap Pangborn's scoring.

Sorin 6, St. Edward's 0: Mike Cowden ran in from the three yard line during the second half to lead Sorin to victory over an injury-laden St. Ed's squad.

"We lost a few guys during the game and our quarterback has been out since the first game," said Steve Schmidt, St. Ed's captain. "We've been offensively struggling all season.'

Sorin remains unbeaten at 2-0-1 and St. Ed's falls to 1-3.

Eagles win NFC East battle

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA- Randall Cunningham threw for 369 yards and three touchdowns as the Philadelphia Eagles beat the New York Giants 24-13 in the NFL monday night, and barged into the thick of the NFC East Division race.

Cunningham completed 31 of 41 passes as the Eagles, 3-3, moved into a tie with the Giants and the Washington Redskins, one game behind the surprising Phoenix Cardinals.

The Eagles snapped a sixgame losing streak against the Giants in their first Monday night appearance in seven years.

The Eagles defense was led by end Reggie White's 2½ sacks and constant harrying of Giants quarterback Phil Simms by tackle Jerome Brown and end Clyde Simmons.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead 8:32 into the game on a 47-yard field goal by Raul Allegre. The drive to a first down at the Philadelphia 32 was triggered by a pair of 16-yard completions from Simms to tight end Mark Bavaro.

The Eagles went ahead 7-3 with 9:28 left in the second period on a 12-play, 80-yard drive, capped by Cunningham's 4yard pass to Jimmie Giles. Cunningham completed eight passes in the drive, including "Attribute it (the team's success in 1987) to very good leadership from our seniors, Dan Garrett and Rick Mulvey," said 14th-year Irish coach Joe Piane. "Garrett is the best captain I've every had. He's not only a great leader by example but he knows what to say to the runners after a meet. He's really an excellent leader."

Rick Mulvey was more of a silent leader, but his dedication to the sport and attendance of practices without fail served to inspire the rest of the team. Two: Dedication.

In the District IV meet at the end of the 1986 season, the Irish were embarrassed with a 15thplace finish out of 26 teams. That was the end of their season. It was a low point for the Irish and they needed to get back on track.

NFL may extend trade deadline

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA- The time frame to consummate the controversial trade with the Indianapolis Colts for offensive guard Ron Solt might be extended beyond the NFL's Tuesday trading deadline, the Eagles announced.

The Eagles acquired Solt from the Colts last week for a 1989 first-round draft pick and other, undisclosed draft choices.

But Solt refused to report to Philadelphia without a $400,000 bonus to bring his new five-year, $2.6 million contract to his original demand with Indianapolis, $3 million.

"The window of time allowed for Solt to report to the Eagles could be extended beyond tomorrow's trading deadline per agreement between the two clubs," Eagles President Harry Gamble said Monday night.

Gamble also denied the Eagles were considering trading Solt to another NFL team, as rumored.

The Eagles contend that if Solt fails to report and take a physical, they are entitled to the return of the draft picks. The Colts have said the deal stands, whether or not Solt reports.

Solt is on the Eagles' roster, although he is not being paid. He was deactivated for the Monday night game against the New York Giants.

Four: Surprise.

Especially due to their terrible performance the previous year, no one expected the Irish to challenge the top schools.

"Last year we'd go to a meet and no one knew who we were. No one expected us to do well, so there was no pressure on us," said senior Ron Markezich.

Five: Confidence.

According to Garrett, this is the most important reason for the Irish success in 1987. Garrett himself had enough confidence to finish sixth in the NCAA meet and achieve All American honors.

The team got its momentum rolling in the previous track season when the Irish top three runners, Garrett, Markezich and O'Connor, all broke the the Notre Dame record for the 5000 meters. This incredible accomplishment served to inspire the team and give it con-

ND impressive at powerful regatta The Rowing Club competed in the Head of the Rocks

The Rowing Club competed in the Head of the Rocks Regatta last weekend in Rockford, Illinois.

Out of the 17 teams that participated, Notre Dame placed very well in nearly all the categories where the Irish were represented. Some of the big-name schools that participated were Wisconsin, Cincinatti, Iowa, Northwestern, and Chicago. Along with the universities, Notre Dame also competed against the highly touted Milwakee Rowing Club.

In the men's divisions, the Irish were very consistent by taking fourth in both the open four and open eight person boats, and a sixth place in the lightweight fourperson boat.

The women faired a little better in the regatta. They grabbed an impressive second-place finish in the lightweight four person boat along with two fourth-place finishes in the heavyweight four-person boat and the open eight-person boat.

The high point of the regatta was in the mixed eight person boats. Notre Dame rowed to a second and fourthplace finish in this highly competitive race.

The Sailing Club participated in a regatta at Purdue University last weekend. They performed outstanding on a day that was not very pleasant for sailing.

Overall, Notre Dame tied for second place with Purdue. Ohio State won the 13-team regatta by destoying all other competitors.

The duo of Paige Cooper and Juli Peleva won the "A" Division, while Watts Hudgens and Theresa Herman were runner-up in the "B" Division.

Next weekend the Sailing Club is scheduled to compete in a regatta at Ohio State University, but might not attend because of some trivial football game.

SMC volleyball squad falls in straight games

The Saint Mary's volleyball team didn't put up much of a fight Saturday as Tri-State University ran away with the match in three straight games.

Earlier this season, in tournament play, the Belles defeated the Tri-State team, which is one of the best in the district. Revenge was on their mind as they shut out the Belles in the first game 15-0.

game two but the Belles just couldn't hold on as Tri-State prevailed 15-9. Game three didn't prove to be any better for the Belles as they suffered a 15-5 loss.

"Defense was our biggest problem," commented sophomore Melissa Phillips. "After the first game we just couldn't pull ourselves together. Our confidence was low and everyone was frustrated."

The Belles will have a chance to rectify themselves as they take on Bethel College Thursday at home.

After a win on the road in Pittsburgh, Notre Dame climbed to No. 4 in the Associated Press college football poll. Miami, UCLA and Southern Cal remained in the top three spots.

The Irish replaced Auburn, which fell eight spots to 12th after a 7-6 loss to LSU.

Indiana's Hoosiers, ranked in The Associated Press college football poll for the first time this season, welcome the national exposure but can't forget the years of struggle it took to get it, Coach Bill Mallory said Monday.

Indiana, improving each year since Mallory's winless rookie season in 1984, earned the No. 18 ranking on Monday after an impressive 41-7 victory over Ohio State.

"The way I look at it, it's good exposure. It's important, but the big thing is we have our minds on the job each week, and the poll will take care of itself," said Mallory, whose Hoosiers are 4-0-1 for all games and 2-0 and tied with No. 15 Michigan and unranked Illinois for first place in the Big Ten Conference.

The only blemish on Indiana's record was a 28-28 tie with Missouri.

"It's good, but it boils down to what we do on Saturday, and that's where our focus of attention is," Mallory said of the national ranking. tom, when Mallory succeeded Sam Wyche and became the third Indiana coach in three seasons. Mallory inherited a five-game losing streak and lost all 11 games in 1984 before the turn-around began. The Hoosiers were 4-7 in 1985, 6-6 in 1986 and 8-4 last year.

"You never forget where you've come from and how you got where you are. You have to remind the younger players, too, who haven't gone through the things these other players have to be aware of what's gone into putting this program where it is today," Mallory said.

"Never allow that attitude of complacency to sit in. That'll cut your throat quicker than anything."

Since the start of the 1987 season, Indiana's 12-4-1 record is the best among all Big Ten teams, and the Hoosiers are no longer sneaking up on their opponents, Mallory said.

"I know the teams we play aren't surprised any more. They're all cranking up for us on the field. As we go along, people will begin to realize this."

UCLA remained No. 2 for the fifth week in a row by beating Oregon State 38-21. The Bruins received one first-place vote and 1,051 points.

Southern Cal, which had the remaining three first-place votes and 1,012 points, was third for the third straight week following a 42-14 victory over Oregon. The loss dropped the Ducks out of the Top 20 from the No. 18 spot.

Notre Dame, a 30-20 winner over Pitt, took over the fourth spot with 932 points. Florida State defeated Georgia Southern 28-10, its fifth straight victory since being routed by Miami, and climbed from sixth place to fifth with 817 points.

blockers and more importantly, those waiting at the 10 foot line where her kills landed.

Senior outside hitter Kim Thompson added to the offensive onslaught with 23 kills and also played well off the net contributing 19 digs for the Wildcats.

But even with strong performances from many Kentucky players, the Irish held onto the momentum gained from four week.

"We've got good momentum right now," said Lambert. "I know they can win. Now they have to know because feeling like they can win is knowing how."

Johnson worried about impressive Irish speed

By STEVE MEGARGEE Assistant Sports Editor

Under normal circumstances, a football game between Notre Dame and Miami could be stereotyped as a matchup of the size of the Irish versus the speed of the Hurricanes

If that's the case, then Miami coach Jimmy Johnson believes this game is a definite exception to that rule.

"When you compare Notre Dame's times to Miami's man per man, you'll find them faster at Notre Dame than at Miami, and that's probably a shock to many people," said Johnson in a teleconference Monday.

That certainly would shock anyone who saw Miami dominate Notre Dame 24-0 last season at Miami's Orange When Hurricane Bowl. receivers Michael Irvin and Warren Williams weren't busy running past the Irish secondary to turn short passes into long gains, the Miami backs were outrushing Notre Dame 204-82.

But Johnson points to the Notre Dame press guide as all the evidence he needs to argue that things are different this time around.

"Year in and year out anyone who knows about football knows Notre Dame is as talented a team as there is in the country," said Johnson. "The difference this year is they have great speed. Tony

Jimmy Johnson

Brooks and Mark Green run 4.4 (40-yard dash), Tony Rice a 4.48, they have wide receivers with great speed and their cornerbacks and free safety run under 4.4

'We only have one player with times like that, and that's (sophomore receiver) Randal Hill," Johnson continued. "We don't have that kind of speed. When you take the top skill players for Notre Dame, I don't know if any school in the country has a faster group, this is according to the times in the press guide.'

Miami already has faced two of the nation's top rushing attacks in Florida State and Michigan. The Hurricanes held FSU to 42 rushing yards en route to a 31-0 victory, but Michigan rushed for 167 yards in losing 31-30.

"It (Notre Dame) is a different style of offense, similar to Michigan's in that they have power attack." the said Johnson, "but there's an added dimension is they're so effective running the option. Notre Dame runs the option as well as anyone. They have the same power attack as Michigan, who gave us all kinds of trouble."

Miami is averaging just over 100 rushing yards allowed per game, while the Irish are running for more than 300 yards per game.

Johnson cited Rice's emergence as a primary weapon in the Irish attack, but he had praise for all of Notre Dame's skill players.

"Tony Rice gives us concern," said Johnson. "He's playing much more aggressively this year and has extremely improved on the op-

LA, Gibson down Mets

Associated Press

NEW YORK- Rookie Tim Belcher won his second game of the playoffs and Kirk Gibson hit his second straight gamewinning homer as Los Angeles beat the New York Mets 7-4 in Game 5 on Monday to move within one game of their first National League pennant since

The teams now fly to Los Angeles, where the Dodgers can wrap up the best-of-seven series Tuesday when former Met Tim Leary opposes David Cone, the losing pitcher in Game 2.

During the regular season, the Mets won 10 of 11 games from the Dodgers and won 56 games at home, including their last 11 at Shea Stadium. But the Dodgers came into New York to win two of three and take a 3-2 lead.

The Dodgers won Game 4 in 12 innings on Gibson's homer shortly before 1 a.m. EDT. a little less than 12 hours later, the two teams were back on the field for the fifth game with the

Alumni alone at top with perfect record

By DAVE McMAHON Sports Writer

After a day when terrible weather marred the playing field, Alumni remained the only unbeaten, untied team in Interhall football by posting a 12-0 victory over Holy Cross.

Pete Partin caught an 87yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Neirs in the first half to put Alumni on the board. In the second half, Neirs was once again in on the action as he scored from the threeyard line.

Alumni improves to 3-0, while Holy Cross drops to 1-2.

Dillon 3, Grace 0: Dillon kept its lead in the Parseghian division as Cole Schneider booted a 29-yard field goal in the fourth quarter, despite less than helpful weather conditions.

"We thought it would be a tough game with the conditions, but we expected the final outcome," commented Dillon captain Paul Drey.

Dillon goes to 3-1 and Grace falls to 1-3.

Morrissey 6, Keenan 0: Morrissey picked up its first win of the season as Dave Fisher hit Dave Shaw with a 10-yard touchdown pass for the lone score of the defensive battle. "With the exception of a few penalties, everything went real well," said Morrissey captain Greg Golonka.

Morrissey is now 1-2-1 and Keenan slips to 2-2.

Off-Campus 12, Flanner 0: Dan Deibel scored on a 40-yard run and Brendon Max threw a 50-yard touchdown pass to Rick Beneau to wrap up the win over previously undefeated Flanner

"We did a good job of shutting down their offense," commented Off-Campus captain Pete Walsh. Off-Campus evens its record at 2-2 and Flanner slides to 2-1-1.

Stanford 7, Zahm 0: Stanford bounced back from last week's defeat to overcome winless Zahm.

was that even after letting season totals for kills and them off the hook at times, we blocks up to 187 and 87.

Shea, Waller's partner in crime, registered 16 kills and helped break the Wildcats backs by adding five total blocks as well as six digs. Senior Zanette Bennett contributed to the upset as well, adding 11 kills at the net and a team-high 15 digs to help the Irish. Junior Kathy Cunningham came off the bench to turn in a strong match defensively for the Irish tallying 12 digs to help set up the team's offense. Notre Dame needed all the defense it could get against Kentucky as the Wildcats' super seniors sent a barrage of spikes slamming into the Irish frontcourt and backcourt. Senior middle blocker Lisa Bokovoy tallied an incredible 32 kills for the match on a .439 hitting percentage, making life miserable for the Irish middle

With the men's cross country team coming off of a spectacular seventh-place finish in the NCAA last year, it is time to look at the runners a little closer. This is especially true since they surprised a lot of people by finishing so strongly.

Just a year before, in 1986, the Irish had one of their worst years to date. Finishing 1-3 and failing to qualify to the NCAAs in the District IV meet was not even the worst part of it.

These guys made one of the biggest turnarounds a team can make from 1986 to 1987. What were the factors that explain such a dramatic comeback, especially considering they returned virtually the same team? Here are five partial explanations.

One: Leadership.

There were two seniors in the group last year that helped pick up the team and turn it around after the dismal 1986

Streaks are made to be broken -- as long as they are not vour own.

The Notre Dame women's vollevball team made this its motto last Saturday night as it upset tenth-ranked Kentucky on the road in Memorial Arena.

The Irish defeated the Wildcats in four games, 15-13, 12-15, 15-9 and 16-14, to end their 23-match home winning streak and keep a five-match one of their own alive.

Kentucky had not lost a match at home since October of 1986, but Notre Dame, led by an impressive performance by senior Whitney Shewman, used superior ball control to deny the Wildcats their 24th victory.

"It was a very significant win to beat the tenth-ranked team in the nation," said Irish head coach Art Lambert. "We passed well and we had better ball control. But I think the key idn't throw in the towel.

The Irish did not succumb to the Wildcat attack in part because of a brilliant match from Shewman at outside hitter.

Shewman had 17 kills for .317 hitting percentage and added 14 digs to complete a wellrounded performance offensively and defensively.

"Whitney really played great," said Lambert. "I was really pleased with her performance. It had to be one of the best matches she's played at Notre Dame."

Fellow seniors Mary Kay Waller and Maureen Shea also turned in outstanding performances at the net to keep the Wildcats on their heels.

Waller continued her strong play at middle blocker as she tallied a team-high 19 kills for a .325 hitting percentage and added nine blocks. The performance brings her team-high
