Expert speaks on Gulf crisis

By STEVEN KRAUSS News Writer

Fundamental differences in American and Islamic nations' foreign policy need first to be overcome before a peaceful resolution of the Middle East crisis becomes a possibility, according to Dr. Amjad-Ali, a visiting authority on Islamic-American relations.

Amjad-Ali, director of the Christian Study Center in Rawalpindi, Afganistan, pointed out several factors which could prevent a peaceful resolution in the Persian Gulf crisis

Amjad-Ali spoke of the United States' constant need for a binary opposite, or foreign enemy, to make American foreign policy relevant. With the recent changes in the Soviet Union and the hope of a future Soviet-American alliance, a new binary opposite must be sought, he said.

"Islam is the new enemy," said Amjad-Ali.

This should not come as a big surprise, however, according to Amjad-Ali. Since the Iranian hostage crisis in 1979 - 80, new tensions in the Middle East are constantly created: Ayatollah

Malloy: ND ready to face the future

By NATASHA WILSON News Writer

Notre Dame is well prepared to handle the challenges of the future while remaining faithful to the school's tradition, said University President Edward Malloy in his upbeat annual address to the faculty on Wednesdav afternoon.

The strides Notre Dame made in the areas of academics, finances and physical expansion during the last decade have better equipped the University to deal with the impending opportunities and threats of the 1990s, Malloy said.

In his speech, he recalled the University's achievements of the 1980s, presented his views on several current issues and opportunities at Notre Dame and analyzed the upcoming challenges facing the University.

"Hard work and cooperative interaction is the spirit that has characterized the last decade and this year [at Notre Dame],' Malloy said.

He contrasted that spirit with the atmosphere of retrenchment and financial anxiety that recently has characterized colleges nationwide. Notre Dame has escaped many of the problems faced especially by large ■ Mallioy speaks to faculty senate / page 7 research universities, he said. "Notre Dame is small enough to be manageable and large enough to" have sufficient resources.

Notre Dame has tried to ensure its financial stability through fund raising activities, Malloy said. The University has strengthened its financial position through the incremental growth in its endowment, which now totals $600 million. The current development campaign, which started with a goal of $300 million, will probably have raised $450 million by the time it ends in December, he said.

In response to the threats of an impending economic recession and a war in the Middle East, the University has started strategic planning for the future. The administration recently developed a five year budget building plan that would help the University respond to emergency situations.

For the future, Malloy de scribed bright prospects for Notre Dame. "I look forward to the 1990s with great confidence." He stressed the University's commitment to remain "true to itself" while it adapts to future situations.

FBI agent warns ND students about white-collar crime

"Say no to greed."

That was the message given to Notre Dame students in a lecture by William Clancy, Assistant Special Agent in Charge of the Chicago FBI office.

Clancy, speaking to a packed crowd in Hayes-Healy auditorium Wednesday, said there is a crisis of ethics in American business. This crisis has created an upsurge in white-collar crimes, which Clancy believes will be continue into the near future if the economy goes into a recession.

As a result, Clancy said, ND students will face many temptations to commit white collar crime if they go on to deal with the business world.

In order to persuade students not to engage in criminal activity, Clancy read letter from a banker who was convicted of embezzlement. The banker writes of how the anguish he felt because of his arrest drove government officials conspired him to consider committing suicide. The banker resisted that impulse and accepted a five year prison sentence.

According to Clancy, such harsh sentences are becoming increasingly common due to the increasing realization of the damage white collar crime does to the economy.

To give an example of such damage, he recounted his investigation of a scandal in Detroit in which unscrupulous real-estate brokers, contractors, and to defraud the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) by charging huge sums of money for housing repairs which were never made.

Their actions, according to Clancy, have caused much of Detroit's housing stock to become uninhabitable while leaving HUD without the monetary resources to remedy the situa-

House Democrats rebel against budget package, Medicare an issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal House Democrats rebelled Wednesday against the $500billion deficit-reduction package as President Bush and congressional leaders pushed hard for the plan on the eve of its first vote.

Leading House Democrats and Republicans expressed confidence that both sides would round up a majority of votes by Thursday, when the full House plans to vote on an outline of the package of tax boosts and spending cuts.

"That is my intuition, that when the vote comes there will be a majority of both parties," said House Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash.

But Bush, Foley and House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., worked furiously behind the scenes, meeting privately with rank-and-file members and dispatching top lieutenants to do the same. Democratic leadership aides, speaking privately, offered conflicting assessments of how worried they might be about the prospects.

Democrats and Republicans figured on Wednesday night they were each 40 votes short of what they need and that a considerable number of lawmakers remained uncommitted. A number of liberal Democrats said they would oppose the proposal, complaining ter told him that "most say about its reliance on $60 billion in Medicare cuts over five years and about the $11 billion in tax breaks it contains for small businesses.

Alcohol Policy makes sense (Buurrrp!)

little, if any, recent public complaint over the University's Alcohol Policy, <hic!> and I think I know why: we have finally grown to see the immense wisdom of the Administration in such a policy. Belch.

I like it myself. Really. Could you pass the opener? The Alcohol Policy as it stands is a marvel of logic and good judgment. Want a beer? In publicly bowing to the law, yet privately giving students the option to drink behind closed doors or in closets, the University truly encourages responsible drinking. Quick, pound that beer before we leave.

Don't you think so? Shot? I mean, with the way the University preaches responsible drinking and backs it up, there is no other response possible but respect for the policy and a desire to follow it. There's beer in the fridge.

Especially admirable is the University's absolute and moral stance on the Alcohol Policy. Fill me up? It's good to know that rules don't bend or break for the two great gods: Alumni and Football. See you at the tailgaiter. Can you imagine the scoffing, the disrespect, the questioning of the Alcohol Policy if rampant drinking were permitted during football weekends? Wanna shotgun?

What if thousands of strangers came here every other weekend or so, bringing beer and wine and food, then consumed it in the open, right by the stadium—what a horrible sight that would be, a flagrant disregard of the Administration's rules. I think I'm gonna puke.

And special events like Junior Parents Weekend, too; the University is so unwavering in its policy that even for the numerous and wealthy parents, it upholds its rules. More wine, Dad? It's good to not see rectors get blitzed on champagne, the same ones who would fine you the next weekend if you were just as toasted as they were. Bong it!

So here we are, on a morally sound campus that never would consider breaking its own rules for the sake of satisfying the rich or powerful or potentially generous. Chug this one.

Actually, we're at Notre Dame. How much is a pitcher? If you drink at one place Sat urday afternoon, in the open, at a certain time, then it's okay. How many cases? How ever, if you drink in the same place at a different time, then it's bad. You could get fine, you horrible children!

Is there a reason, anyone, for this? Can any single person give me any single reason for these glaring inconsistencies:

ND prof. describes his culture shock in Africa

By ALICIA REALE News Writer

While in the West African country of Ghana, anthropology professor James Bellis, who is white, was required to transfer his driver's license and had to fill out a form which asked for his skin color.

As an "educated liberal" he was uncertain of how to answer such a question.

Bellis peered over a black man's shoulder and saw that he had put "red" in response to the question. He looked at another black man's form and he had written "yellow." Finally, he looked at a third native's form and saw that he had put 'black.'

Confused, he finally asked the man in charge who replied, "I don't know." He then asked another official. The man asked to see his arm and then replied, "I'd put 'fair'.'

Explaining this incident at a lecture Wednesday, Bellis said, "That category in that culture was not a classification system. It was not a social caste. It was just descriptive, as eye color is here.

The above anecdote was one of several cultural differences experienced by Bellis when he lived in Ghana with his family from 1967 to 1969, working on his dissertation on Ghanian architecture. Bellis is presently associate professor and chairperson of the anthropology department.

In terms of his experiences abroad, Bellis focused on the cultural differences that result in culture shock.

He defined culture shock as 'what happens to the individual's psychology when one confronts a new culture, a new way of life." He shared many humorous anecdotes of the differences he experienced amidst a new culture.

Bellis said that culture is learned behavior. Most things we know are subconscious. By the time Americans go to school at 6 years old, we are fluent in English.

Notions of logic, family, courtship, and love are all subliminal systems, Bellis says. He advises that when one goes abroad, he or she should be aware that "most of that culture you'll never even come face to face with in explicit ways."

"The challenge of living abroad," said Bellis, "is to attempt to control and come to terms with the continuing evolution of your learned way of life." Bellis said culture shock is also experienced when a person returns home. The traveller has experienced a "life changing series of events."

"Cross-cultural living is the most extraordinary and peaked way to face your own life," said Bellis.

In Ghana there was a limited supply of merchandise in the store, Bellis said. After returning to the United States, he and his wife went shopping because, as Bellis said, "after two years we needed clean underwear." According to Bellis his wife spent a long time in the store. Finally she returned, empty-handed. When he questioned her she explained. "I couldn't make a choice." This is a brief notion of the "adaptive drift in our behavioral pattern. our values." said Bellis.

When Notre Dame students go abroad, some explore the new culture and become highly immersed, Bellis said. Their new experiences can change them. When students return, it is normal to distance themselves from the culture at large and from family that didn't share in the experience.

'You get caught in a standard, classic process. The only people easy to relate to are people going through that same experience," Bellis said.

Arms agreement reached in principle by U.S. and U.S.S.R.

United States and the Soviet Union announced agreement in principle Wednesday on a comprehensive treaty to limit nonnuclear weapons in Europe. If signed, such a treaty would represent the first limits on these arms in Europe since the end of World War II.

The two sides also said they had made "substantial progress'' on a separate agreement to limit long-range nuclear weapons.

The agreement came at the end of more than five hours of talks between Secretary of Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

It sets ceiling on weapons that may be deployed in Europe, but

NEW YORK (AP) — The soldiers that may be put in the field, a topic the negotiators agreed to skip.

Both ministers cautioned that final approval must await consultation with their allies in NATO and the Warsaw Pact.

Shevardnadze said one sticking point remained concerning limits on helicopters, "but that is not very difficult" and could be resolved by NATO and Warsaw Pact negotiators in Vienna, site of talks on the treaty for 19 months.

The last remaining roadblocks cleared in the session at the Soviet Mission to the United Na-State James Baker and Soviet tions were limits on land-based airplanes and verification procedures for guarding against cheating.

on these two points, although Shevardnadze said with a chuckle "of course the Soviet Union made all the concessions.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater reacted to the announcement with one word: "Great," and said there would be no further comment Wednesday.

The accord is the projected centerpiece for a 34-nation summit meeting to be held in Paris Nov. 19-21. Until the two superpowers hear from their allies, Baker reserved judgment on whether that deadline would be met.

The two superpowers agreed in 1989 to limits on their shortrange nuclear weapons in Eu-before that on "Mutual and Balanced Force Reductions" they made no progress on conventional force reductions. The February 1989 nuclear agreement and the unilateral moves by Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev to end the Cold War revived the conventional forces negotiations under the rubric 'Conventional Forces in Europe.

The steady withdrawal of Soviet troops and tanks and U.S. cutbacks already are doing what the treaty seeks to accomplish. But a treaty represents a formal commitment by both sides.

The Versailles Treaty that ended World War I imposed arms limits on Germany. The victorious powers, though sharply cutting their forces, never agreed on similar limits for themselves, and the German dictator Adolf Hitler started renouncing the Versailles arms limits in 1935.

The new treaty on conventional arms would require the Warsaw Pact to withdraw 40.000 tanks, more than 51,000 artillery pieces and more than 40,000 armored personnel carriers from eastern and central Europe - foursevenths to two-thirds of estimated current deployments.

The arms would have to be moved east of the Ural Mountains in the Soviet Union, about 1,200 miles east of the Soviet border with Poland.

The restrictions on the smaller NATO forces would be minimal, requiring only the removal of some 2,000 tanks.

He said that Notre Dame plans to expand the faculty, increase graduate fellowships, offer more financial aid, provide better resources for the library and the computer labs and give additional funds to the University's institutes and centers

Malloy predicted that the faculty would receive more national and international recognition for their publications and research. The salaries of the Notre Dame faculty rank in the top quintile of all research and teaching universities. Aggressive recruiting efforts have increased the size and improved the quality of the faculty, Malloy said.

The president also said that in the future the Notre Dame community will become increasingly sensitive to multicultural concerns. During the last five years the percentage of minority students has grown steadily.

There has also been an increased commitment of resources to financial aid and the preservation of high admission standards, Malloy said. On the graduate level, the construction of new graduate student housing will enhance student life, he said.

Issues such as Notre Dame's Catholic character, the teaching of ethics, gender-related concerns and the needs of student athletes, deserve the attention lence against women, Malloy of the entire Notre Dame community, Malloy said.

On the topic of student athletics, Malloy said "It is possible for us to maintain a high guality competitive athletic program that is consistent with our heritage.

In response to the recent nationwide concern about drug use among athletes, Notre Dame has implemented education programs and tried to create a climate of drug prevention in its athletic programs, he said. For example, the school's athletic department has regular unannounced drug tests of student athletes.

Malloy said Notre Dame can instill ethics in its students by introducing them to a theoretical framework of ethics that they can apply to real life situations.

In light of the Year of Women, Malloy stated that during the last four years the number of females as increased from 32 percent to 37 percent of the undergraduate population.

Since 40 percent of the applicants is female, Malloy said that the University should either adopt gender-blind admissions policy or continue to adjust the ratio to reflect the applicant pool. He is recommending that the Board of Trustees consider that issue.

Ordination of women policy attacked by panel

By PETER AMEND News Writer

A panel of students and professors discussing the ordination of women Wednesday accused the Roman Catholic Church and the University of Notre Dame of not fulfilling the spirit of Jesus' message by denying their female members the opportunity to become ordained priests.

The message of the panel discussion could be summed up in the applause heard over the suggestion by a priest in the audience who wanted to see the discussion of this issue taken straight to the Board of Trustees, which is meeting this week.

Sister Mary Aquin O'Neill, one of the panelists, said, "the theology that prohibits the ordination of women is unthinkable. It can't be defended, appropriated, or passed on without doing violence to the other things we believe.'

At the end of her speech, O'Neill questioned where women fit into the mission of the Church. "We have created a Church in which women have no role specific to us and there is one role that is closed to us: representing Christ at the Eucharist, with all that flows from that role in the current structure."

Another panelist, John Houck, professor of management, said that Notre Dame has been a leader in fighting racial discrimination in universities and should take a stand against this type of discrimination.

After educating himself on the issue, Houck said he had to decide that "either God was mean and God did not love half of his creatures, and therefore they could not hold office in God's church, or try to prove that God was not mean."

Mary Susan Twohy, a Notre Dame senior, spoke about the psychological ramifications of the Church's decision on the ordination issue in the Roman Catholic community. Twohy said that many female members may feel "betrayed and regretful. The Church, which may have once seemed nurturing, now appears deceitfully oppressive.

The last member of the panel to speak was Rachel Tomas, an undergraduate student at Saint Mary's College. Tomas shared her experience of living with a poor Mexican community that hungered for the Word of God, but were deprived of the Eucharist because of the lack of priests. Tomas also said that there were many capable and dedicated women who regularly celebrated every part of the Catholic celebration except for the Eucharist.

O'Neill noted that, although Pope John Paul II has called for a monthlong assembly to revitalize the priesthood in the wake of a "burnout" to vocational life, he is not allowing the issue of the ordination of women to be discussed.

Ad hoc committee seeks means to combat sexism and racism on campus

By DUSTIN KLINGER News Writer

The ad hoc committee for combatting racism and sexism at Notre Dame set goals of educating the campus about acquaintance rape and educating first-year students about racial and gender issues during their first meeting.

During an open forum Wednesday the group of 10 students and nine faculty and staff members also discussed the need for a campus-wide inclusive language policy, discussion about harassment in the classroom and a mentor program for first-year students.

Facilitated by Kathleen Maas Weigert, faculty liaison and academic coordinator at the Center for Social Concerns, and Kate Halischak, executive officer of the Gender Studies Program, the group was originally created as an offshoot of the Friday Forum and began meeting at the end of the 1989-90 school year.

Educating first-year students and acquaintance rape carried over as the two top issues and opened this year's group discussion. Many committee members noted the steps that have already been taken in the area of acquaintance rape education and prevention.

The Gender Studies program has purchased a 20-minute awareness video on the issue that has been shown to first year students in many of the residence halls and is available to any individual or group wishing to view it, said Halischak.

The resident assistant training program, which emphasizes acquaintance rape awareness, prevention and counseling, was also mentioned as a positive step in combating the problem. The need for these kinds of dormitory administered programs to be extended to graduate dormitories was expressed as well.

The Freshman Year of Studies was agreed upon as the primary target for incorporating issues of sexism and racism into the curriculum to ensure early awareness. Some suggested a faculty training pro- that a policy of inclusive langram could be implemented, guage should be adopted by the and that Patricia O'Hara, vice committee and suggested to the president of Student Affairs, administration. When the floor was opened for new discussion, one member asked how a student can respond when a professor repeatedly makes sexist and racist comments within a class. The official policy suggests that students take a complaint directly to the provost. Weigert suggested that filing a complaint with a group of students would be the most effective.

The adoption of a mentor program establishing a direct faculty connection for individual students to take their concerns to was discussed as a way to clarify the procedure for reporting offenses. The mentor program established last year by the Office of Minority Student Affairs was suggested as an example to follow.

The committee also agreed guage was illustrated in replacing the word "freshmen" with "first-year students."

In Washington, Bush administration officials told Congress Iraq is likely to remain a longterm threat, and sales of bil-lions of dollars in U.S. weaponry to Saudi Arabia are crucial to a new regional coalition to balance that menace.

Iraq, facing an international force on its border with Saudi Arabia after invading Kuwait, suddenly made peace with Iran last month after eight years of war and two years of deadlocked peace talks.

Saddam wooed Iran to side with him. Tehran joined world demands that Iraq withdraw

Mutiny in Phillipines reaches major city

MANILA, Philippines (AP) ---Mutinous soldiers seized a major southern city before dawn Thursday in a new attempt to overthrow the government of President Corazon Aquino.

Manila radio stations said the mutineers, led by the former chief of Mrs. Aquino's guard force, were also in control of a regional military headquarters in the city of Cagayan de Oro.

The armed forces went on nationwide alert, and Mrs. Aquino huddled with her Cabinet and senior military officers and congressmen at the presidential palace.

'I'm calling once again on the people to rally against these troublemakers," Mrs. Aquino said on the radio. "The constitution will be upheld with force when challenged with force.'

Steps were taken to isolate the rebels who seized the 402nd Brigade army base, located in the city of Butuan, on Mindanao island about 500 miles south of Manila. Flights to Mindanao were canceled and schools on the island were closed.

About 200 troops led by three medium-rank officers seized the brigade at about 1 a.m. Thursday (noon Wednesday EDT), army chief Gen. Renato de Villa said. One report said the base commander had joined the mutiny.

The rebels later gained control of Butuan, a port city of about 200,000 people on Mindanao's north coast. The rebels were under the command of renegade Col. Alexander Noble, former chief of staff of Mrs. Aquino's guard force.

Manila radio station DZXL interviewed Noble at Camp Galon may have joined the Evangelista, regional Philippine rebels.

Constabulary headquarters in Cagayan de Oro, 70 miles west of Butuan.

"This shows that the free Mindanao movement is not just propaganda," Noble told reporters.

A senior legislator, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the mutineers planned to establish a secessionist government on Mindanao, the southernmost Philippines island and the second largest. There had been rumors that a coup attempt was brewing in the region for nearly six months.

Mrs. Aquino has survived six coup attempts since she took office in February 1986. In the most recent attempt, in Decem-ber, rebels seized Manila's financial district in bloody fighting and nearly toppled the government

Also Thursday, a bomb exploded outside a Manila army base three hours after the Mindanao base was taken. There were no injuries.

It was the 35th explosion in the capital since August. Officials see the bombings as the work of military officers hoping to destabilize the country.

De Villa said soldiers from the 53rd Infantry Battalion, one of the units at the 402nd Brigade. organized the takeover. About 3,000 soldiers are based at the brigade.

The brigade's commanding officer, Col. Hercules Galon, apparently escaped the rebel soldiers led by Maj. Adolfo Cer-deno, said a military spokesman, Brig. Gen. Emiliano Templo. But later Templo said

Malloy likes eligibility

of freshman athletes

By KATE MANUEL News Writer

University President Father Edward Malloy spoke in favor of freshman athletic eligibility in his address to a meeting of the Faculty Senate Wednesday.

Drawing on his own college experiences, Malloy spoke in favor of freshman eligibility, saying, "I found freshman ineligibility very frustrating and it didn't help me academically."

Freshman ineligibility does not decrease practice time, but does lead to an increase in redshirting, according to Malloy. He said, "When most schools talk about freshman ineligibility, it is virtually giving allowance to five-year red-shirting."

According to Malloy, ninetyfour percent of freshman athletes entering Notre Dame do graduate in four years, and this progress toward graduation in four years should be the most important factor in determining freshman eligibility.

Malloy also addressed the topics of the Hesburgh Library, the Faculty Senate's Committee on Governance, and tenure policies.

In regard to improving the library's national ranking, Malloy said that accurately targeting a collection budget and enhancing what can be done in personnel are the major factors.

"We have made significant strides in purchasing materials, especially since we don't have a medical school or other professional schools to inflate the totals," he said. "Attracting benefactors has been a plus. Personnel is the most expensive part of our operating budget right now."

Malloy also mentioned that an external review of the library system had just been completed and that the reviewers had questioned the role and function of the branch libraries.

The proposal for a Faculty Senate Committee on University Governance does not represent any significant advance in faculty-administration communication, according to Malloy.

"Many vehicles have been created already," he said, "and many have not been given sufficient weight by the faculty and the administration. One such is the Faculty Board on Athletics. Very seldom does a large institution like this function by ballot or referendum. The proposal, as I understood it, did not seem to represent any significant advance."

Malloy believes tenure decisions should rest with the departments and colleges, not the upper-level administration and he questions whether anything could make the tenure process less painful for those denied it.

"I am not aware that there is any situation where this is done ease and comfort," said Malloy. "And I am not convinced that another level of review would help,"

Malloy's attendance at the Faculty Senate followed his annual faculty address earlier the same day. Paul Conway, associate professor of finance, presided at the meeting and welcomed Malloy.

SMC gets grant from local bank

By CORRINE PAVLIS Saint Mary's Editor

Saint Mary's College has received a $100,000 gift from Society Bank, Indiana for assistance in the renovation of the College's largest classroom building.

The grant will be part of a projected $2 million renovation project proposed for Madeleva Hall. In addition to classrooms, the building houses the majority of faculty and department offices.

The project calls for reconfiguration of office and classroom space and redesign of existing areas to accommodate computer facilities, study areas and student lounges. The heating and cooling systems for the building will also be repaired.

"Society Bank is pleased to assist in the renovation of Madeleva Hall on the Saint Mary's College campus," said Michael Hammes, president of Society Bank.

"The building is a landmark in the community and a lasting memorial to a great educator. Helping preserve and upgrade this campus landmark is a community responsibility we wholeheartedly accept in partnership with Saint Mary's," he added.

"We are grateful to Society Bank for this gift, which is indicative of the increasingly significant role that the local business community pays in support of higher education," said Saint Mary's President William Hickey. "We are pleased to be part of this growing partnership in the promotion of academic excellence."

Madeleva Hall, named in honor of Sister Madeleva Wolff, president of Saint Mary's from 1934 to 1961, was completed in 1966. Included on the lists of departments located in Madeleva are education, history. political science, mathematics, philosophy, psychology, religious studies, business administration, economics, sociology, anthropology, so-cial work, and women's Studies. The day students' lounge and Paula Program are also located in the building. It has not yet been announced when construction is scheduled to begin.

Former head of Peace Corps Ruppe speaks about its future

By PAUL PEARSON Assistant News Editor

When Loret Miller Ruppe took over as director of the Peace Corps in 1981, she was dismayed at the fact that the budget for the Corps was equal to the budget for the Corps in 1967.

She found this troubling, since, she said, many people applaud the Peace Corps as one of the best programs the U.S. is currently sponsoring.

Ruppe, who is now the U.S. ambassador to Norway, spoke at Theodore's Wednesday about her experiences as director of the Peace Corps from 1981 through 1989, the longest tenure in the organization's history. Ruppe's connections to Notre Dame run deep. She received au honorary doctor of laws degree from Notre Dame, and she delivered the commencement address in 1984.

In addition to this, Ruppe's grandfather, Byron Kanaley, was a chairman of ND's Associate Board of Lay Trustees, and her father, Frederick Miller, was captain of the 1928 ND football team.

In her lecture, Ruppe said that she was concerned about the Corps' starting programs in Second World countries, such as Romania and Hungary. Her main worry was the possibility of resources being taken from Third World programs and put into the new Second World programs, resulting in neglect of the Third World programs.

When asked what she felt would be the biggest crisis situation the Corps could face, Ruppe responded, "We always face the crisis of 'When should we pull our volunteers from a country?'" when a military emergency could put volunteers in danger.

Fred Tombar, student body vice president, said he found the lecture very informative. "I didn't know much about the inner workings of the Peace Corps before this lecture. It gave me a new perspective on what they actually do.

Ruppe is currently leading a nationwide Leadership for Peace campaign to increase the size of the Corps to 10,000 by the early 1990s.

Bear market is trouble for mutual funds

NEW YORK (AP) - The millions of Americans who sock away money in mutual funds didn't escape the pain and suffering on Wall Street during the past three months.

In addition to taking a toll on the blue chips of the Dow Jones industrial average, the quarter that ended Sunday belted funds across the board. The Persian Gulf and the weakening economy were to blame.

'There were very few places to hide in the third quarter,' said Michael Lipper, whose company, Lipper Analytical Securities Corp., released its quarterly performance report on nearly 1,800 mutual funds Wednesday.

Lipper groups the funds into 27 categories based on the type of investments they make, such as growth stocks or corporate bonds. Two-thirds of these groups performed as poorly as they did in past recessions.

And the worst may be yet to come.

'If we look at our measures of prior down markets compared with the present, there may be more to go," Lipper said in an interview.

Mutual funds are a popular way for individuals to invest in the stock, bond and money markets. By pooling the money of many investors, mutual funds can buy a wider variety of securities than could a single investor, limiting the risk should any of the investments go bad.

Lipper's figures were for funds that invest in stocks and taxable bonds. They did not include money market mutual funds, a popular investment alternative to savings accounts, or funds that invest in tax-exempt government bonds

Among the funds in the ranking, those that invest in stocks fared the worst during the third quarter, declining an average of 15.5 percent. That compares with a gain of 5.9 percent in the second quarter.

By comparison, the 30-stock Dow Jones average had a negative return of about 14 percent during the quarter, assuming gave the new top spot to Wilmdividends were reinvested, while Standard & Poor's 500 stock index, another popular gauge of the stock market, lost 13.7 percent, Lipper said.

A decline in stock funds also was not surprising given the unusually strong performance of these funds in the 1980s, Lipper said. The top-ranked fund in the 10 years ended Sept. 30, Fidelity Investment's Magellan fund, grew 622.7 percent, which he called "unsustainably high.

The Iraqi standoff also took a toll on many bond funds during the quarter, since bond prices are extremely sensitive to the inflation caused by higher oil prices. Funds that invest in long-term, taxable bonds declined 0.8 percent on average during the quarter, compared with a gain of 3.2 percent in the second quarter.

The only groups of funds that grew were so-called world income funds, which invest primarily in corporate bonds worldwide, and gold funds.

King of the fast food towns dethroned, falls to 50th spot

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP) -Owensboro has been dethroned as America's No. 1 fast-food city, but Mayor David Adkisson wasn't unhappy when the latest rankings were released by Restaurant Business magazine.

'That was sort of a dubious designation anyhow, so I'm not greatly disappointed," Adkisson said. "I won't go out and burn my chamber of commerce magazine over it.'

The magazine, published in

New York, dropped Owensboro

from first to 50th place and 'I don't think that (top ranking) was any honor," said Ken Bosley, who represents the restaurant industry on the Owensboro-Daviess County Tourist Commission. "It's not something to be ashamed of, but it's nothing to be proud of either.'

Two years ago, Restaurant Business listed Owensboro fourth in per capita fast-food sales with an average of $401 being spent for every man, woman and child in Daviess burgers for consumption on-County.

Last year, the city reached the top with an average of $460 per person. The latest figures, which the magazine published in its Sept. 20 issue, show Owensboro's per capita sales at $338

Restaurant Business defines fast-foot establishments as those with "limited menus. Included in this group are establishments that prepare refreshment items such as pizza, barbecued chicken and hampremise or for carry-out."

Bosley said local restaurants didn't care for the No. 1 designation because they were afraid it would attract more attention from the chains.

'You can overbuild," he said. "You can divide the pie too much and hurt your service. Now maybe the chains will look somewhere else.'

The magazine's Restaurant Growth Index suggests that Owensboro may have too many eating places.

A rating of 100 means supply equals demand. A rating below 100 means the market is saturated. Owensboro's rating is 76.

"I would think the market is saturated. As far as local people eating out, anyway," Bosley said. "Maybe when we can get more people coming to town, the demand will increase and we'll need more.'

Restaurant Business also has a rating to determine if more people in a community eat out than at home.

price of heat The wholes: ing oil soared from about 56 cents a gallon before Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait to \$1.03 a gallon last Friday, although the price dropped a bit this week. Retailers have absorbed some of the increase, but consumers still face heating bills that are likely to be $5\overline{0}$ percent higher than last year. Clair Jarvis of the American Association of Retired Persons said elderly people on fixed incomes may be among the hardest hit and be forced to spend their food and medicine money on fuel. "In the long run they will suffer physically," said Jarvis, a retired minister from West Virginia. But oil distributors say they also are victims of the oil market. Vera Haskins, vice president of Mauger & Co. Inc., a Philadelphia area distributor, more than enough supply of said her company so far has the price increase on to customers. Nevertheless, the price has jumped 40 percent since July to \$1.28 a gallon.

Soaring heating prices also batter low income households at a time when the federal government and many states are cutting public assistance programs aimed at helping the poor pay for heat.

Federal energy subsidies for low-income families have been alved since 1985 to $1 lion for this fiscal year enough to cover only one in every four people eligible because they are below or near the poverty level. "We think the states should be picking up more" of the money, said Janet Fox, director of the office in the Department of Health and Human Services that administers the fund.

Sharply higher prices could make the average season heating bill of $800, common in much of the Northeast, closer to $1,200 this winter, government and energy experts predicted.

And federal budget negotiators are adding to the cost spiral. The new deficit-reduction plan being considered by Congress adds a 2-cent a gallon energy tax on all refined petroleum products, except for heating oil, beginning in January. The jump comes as high gasoline prices and a proposed tax on gasoline impose sharply higher transportation costs on most households.

Federal officials told heating industry representatives and state energy officials this week that, barring a further flare up in the Persian Gulf, there will be heating oil and natural gas this passed only three-fourths of

Meanwhile, the Bush administration wants to phase out another federal program that helps low-income people make their homes more energy-efficient. The program provided $217 million this year, but the administration wants to cut that to $30 million for this winter, maintaining states already have money available for such programs.

But many state officials said their energy conservation funds are shrinking.

Rape victim expresses her pain

Dear Editor:

My name is Dreama Whitaker, and I am a rape survivor. When I was twelve, a man came to me, destroying childhood faith and illusion as I watched in helpless horror. At fourteen, I was comfortable in my fear and he came again, wearing a different face, but his blackened eyes burned with the same hatred. I was seventeen and he followed in darkness to extinguish the remaining light.

Now I must speak. My past, my pain, has purpose if I am able to gather the shattered fragments and find buried among the memories truth unshaken. May I hold triumphant truth high, and reveal hope in the light for all to see? Rape is more than a brutal crime against women; in our society, this is easily dismissed and forgotten: Rape is a violent attack on the human soul. One act performed in hatred seeks to destroy the spirit by ravishing the flesh. Will we stand idle and allow the soul to be sacrificed at the hands of men?

I cannot name the hatred hidden behind the eyes, the evil nurtured within the heart. Perhaps it lies within each of us, struggling, attempting to surface. Yet I must believe that the human soul will ever triumph over darkness. The flickering green flame must not die.

As a society, as individuals, we must strive to end the abuse of women, to conquer the darkness which attempts, shadowed in human form, to extinguish the spirit. We are the quiet hope and the help. Can you stand in silence?

ROTC presence contradicts values of Christians in ND community

Dear Editor:

I, and several other members of the Notre Dame community, challenge the presence of ROTC at our University. We are students and faculty who believe in the tradition of non-violence taught by Jesus Christ and held by the Catholic Church since its origin. Because of our beliefs, we find Notre Dame's commitment to the military through ROTC inconsistent with its professedly Christian character.

There are two important parts of our position that I wish to emphasize and call to the attention of the Notre Dame community at large.

The first is that we have no desire to judge, criticize or in any way alienate the students enrolled in Notre Dame's ROTC program. Although we do not necessarily agree with them, we profoundly respect the numerous reasons, particularly the financial reasons, that motivate students to join ROTC. Our dissent is not directed at these students, but at the institution. The accord point is that we

The second point is that we are not naive idealists. We understand fully that the immediate removal of ROTC from Notre Dame is a practical impossibility. Our disagreement with the present situation, though, has led us to formulate an agenda which a majority of the students at Notre Dame, including many who do not share our beliefs, could respect and support. It is an agenda which we believe is practical and deserving of serious consideration. We urge the students, faculty and administration of Notre Dame to reflect upon this agenda and work for its implementation.

Our agenda consists of two goals:

1. The establishment of a professional University staff position as part of Campus Ministry for the counseling of students who become conscientious objectors. The services of this counselor on conscientious objection would be available to all students including, but not limited to, those in ROTC. The counselor would have a distinct office and office hours, a phone number listed in the campus directory, and would be well publicized. There is presently no one hired by Campus Ministry specifically for this purpose.

2. If a student in ROTC decides to leave the program, that student should not have to leave Notre Dame for financial reasons. There should be scholarship money available for such students. Notre Dame has already demonstrated its commitment to the military. By providing such a scholarship program, Notre Dame would be demonstrating an equal commitment to its ROTC students who decide that military service is not right for them.

We recognize that a call for the removal of ROTC at this time would fall upon deaf ears. If implemented, though, the goals we propose would make Notre Dame an environment far more amenable to those who find the military inconsistent with their beliefs and values.

Feast of Saint Francis directs campus concerns toward peace

Dear Editor:

GARRY TRUDEAU

In honor of the Feast of St. Francis of Assisi, Campus Ministry, the Center for Social Concerns, Pax Christi, Women United for Justice and Peace, the Overseas Development Network, Saint Mary's Campus Ministry and student government are sponsoring a prayer vigil for peace tonight at 7:30 at the Peace Memorial. With heightened tensions in the Middle East, our prayers for peace are needed now more than organizations extend welcome

CRISTINA ORTIZ GRETCHEN REIBOLD accent writers

"¡Hola! ?Qué tal?" is a common phrase among many Hispanics around campus. It is an expression of sincerity. Translated in English, it means, "Hello, how are you?"

Whether you have ties with Mexico, Central America, South America, Puerto Rico, Cuba, Dominican Republic, Spain, or any other Hispanic area, you will never feel left out (unless you decide to seclude yourself from others). This hospitality extends to other cultures as well.

"The Hispanic American Organization (HAO) welcomes everyone to learn more about the Hispanic culture and its customs," says Jorge Vera, the president of the Club. The club consists of students from a wide array of Hispanic backgrounds, including students of non-Hispanic backgrounds who enjoy discovering more about Hispanic traditions.

The club focuses on three main aspects: culture, society, and service. Each year HAO members organize a number of cultural activities to promote awareness on campus. The Posadas is one such event which commemorates the pilgrimage Mary and Joseph took to Bethlehem. Another cultural event honors the Virgin of Guadalupe (December 12), the patron saint of many Spanish speaking countries.

The Annual Hispanic Semiformal and the Big Brother/Big Sister program round off the social activities of the HAO.

Cultural music played at the semi-formal will include the polka, corrida, cumbia, salsa, and merengue.

The Big Brother/Big Sister program stepped off its first year with a cook-out at Carroll Hall.

Generally, Hispanic cultures are renowned for their strong faith and unity. Members of the HAO share these virtues with others through various service projects. Each Sunday several HAO members attend a Spanish mass at St. Stephen's Catholic Church in South Bend. Following the mass these students stay to assist teachers with the children's catechism program.

Service efforts are also shared at El Campito day care center in South Bend. Students are involved in coordinating activities for the young ones.

In addition to HAO, ND/SMC Hispanic students may participate in the League for United Latin American Citizens (LULAC), a national organization with a branch founded at ND last spring. Although this club is politically oriented, it also sponsors a variety show called "Latin Expressions" at the end of the year.

Finally, Ballet Folklorico de

Azul y Oro is a dance group consisting of ten members. Each year this group performs various dances from different regions of Mexico. Performances for the Multicultural Week, International Students' Organization and the South Bend community are among the occassions.

If you are interested in any of these clubs, you may contact the following club presidents: HAO, Jorge Vera at 283-1494; LULAC, Manuel Espino at 289-0383; and Ballet Folklorico de Azul y Oro, Rachel Reyna at 283-4912.

NOTE: Tonight there is an HAO meeting open to everyone at 7 p.m. in the T.V. room of Farley Hall. In addition, Ballet Folklorico de Azul y Oro will open its season this Friday with a performance at the Field House Mall at 4:30.

Above: Jose' Martinez, Jesus Ramos, dancers in the Ballet Folklorico and Estevan Herrera, secretary of the HAO share ideas in a social atmosphere.

Right: Susie Ramirez, a Puerto Rican student and Rachel Reyna, president of the Ballet, make plans for the upcoming Ballet Folklorico in Siegfried Hall.

'Ferris Bueller' leaves audience unconscious

To set himself apart from his movie foil, the television Ferris Bueller (Charlie Schlatter) severed the head of a cardboard representation of the Ferris Bueller of movie fame (Matthew Broderick). What he failed to realize is that many viewers probably found the cardboard more interesting than television reality.

Ferris Bueller has returned, and his television program is called, surprisingly enough, "Ferris Bueller." The television program keeps the same main characters as the movie and basically just continues the theme that was started with Ferris' day of missed class.

Ferris is still the king of his home and school. Mr. and Mrs. Bueller see their son as perfect while his sister sees him as the weasel he really is. Obviously her parents view her as a problem child lacking all the social graces of their brilliant son.

Ferris still is loved by all his classmates in high school, and he is still despised by his principal Mr. Rooney (Richard Riehle). Ferris has basically replaced the need to see administration, counselors, or anyone with a title. Sick of cafeteria food? Talk to Ferris. Not happy with your schedule? Talk to Ferris. Get the picture?

Unfortunately viewers should change their picture or turn the television off completely. This program is definitely not the place to search for great lines. When asked what he has in common with the gorgeous girl from the season premiere, Ferris responds, "a weird name." This joke was even less humorous on the small screen.

Although this television series is not worthy of comparison between its movie version, the new Mr. Rooney is not funny even in his own right. This character proved to be one of the key elements in a classic film, and the humorous relationship between Ferris and his principal is necessary for the success of the television program also. Unfortunately the conflict in this relationship seems forced, trite, and lacks humor.

Ferris Bueller tells his audience that "there exists only two states of consciousness: sub and un." Guess in which state his audience found itself?

In the second game, Murphy is undecided whether sophomore Pat Leahy (8-1, 3.14 ERA) or freshman Tom Price would get the call.

For both games, a circling bus will transport fans to Coveleski, located in downtown South Bend. A bus will leave from the main circle tonight Chris Wimmer and catcher starting at 6 p.m. and tomorrow from Gate 10 of the JACC at 7:30 p.m.

Here's a look at the probable starters for Thursday's game:

backup catcher for senior captain Ed Lund last year. Krall hit .304 last year with one home run and six RBI in 46 at bats. If not Krall, last year's second baseman Cory Mee will be behind the plate.

First Base: This year's cap-tain Joe Binkiewicz will return for his third year at first. Binkiewicz hit .322 with four home runs and 29 RBI last season, and also compiled a 4-4 record on the mound.

Wichita State baseball coach Gene Stephenson may as well have given the Shockers its team name.

Stephenson resurrected a program that had been dormant for seven years when he came over to Wichita State in 1977. Thirteen years later, Stephenson is 726 wins and two NCAA championships richer, catapulting Wichita State into collegiate baseball national prominence.

Quite a shocker.

Stephenson's 726-235-3 record, a .755 winning percentage, is third-best among active NCAA Division I coaches. He has coached the Shockers to 50 or more wins nine times in his 13-year tenure. His teams have amassed 60 wins four times, and three times (1982, 1985 and 1989) his team has been the winningest in the nation.

For his superb effort in coaching the Shockers to the national championship two years ago, Stephenson was named 1989 National Coach

Gene Stephenson of the Year. He also received that honor in 1982. The Shockers under Stephenson also have won the Missouri Valley Conference five times in the last six years, and Stephenson has been named MVC Coach of the Year seven times since 1980.

Third Base: Craig Counsell (.265, 4 HR, 34 RBI) has improved his fielding and will probably be a mainstay at third.

Shortstop: Senior Mike Coss started 57 of 58 games last season, chalking up a .290 bat-ting average with two home runs and 33 RBI. He also led the team in sacrifices with 14. Left Field: Frank, Jacobs, previously a moonlighter for the football team, has decided that baseball is where his future lies, and with good reason. Jacobs hit .277 last year, but led the team in home runs (11), RBI (49) and walks (40). His raw power impressed scouts enough that the Houston Astros drafted him in the 15th round last summer.

Center Field: Junior Dan Bautch puts his wheels to use. Bautch led the team with 29 stolen bases last season, scoring 35 runs on 35 hits.

Right Field: Sophomore Eric Danapilis set the Midwestern Collegiate Conference ablaze, leading Notre Dame in hits (60), batting average (.429), slugging pct. (671) and on-base pct. (.509). His 60 hits were eight better than anyone else on the team, and he missed 18 games with a back injury.

Designated Hitter: Pitcher Pat Leahy is a multi-talented player. The 6-7 sophomore went 1 for 3 last season, but Murphy has been impressed by Leahy's hitting prowess. Edwin Hartwell and Adam Maisano will get considerable time at DH as well.

Red Sox capture the AL East

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Red Sox won the American League East championship for the third time in five years Wednesday night, defeating the Chicago White Sox 3-1 on the final night of the regular season behind the pitching of Mike Boddicker and Jeff Reardon.

With ace Roger Clemens sent ahead to Toronto to rest for a possible divisional playoff on Thursday, the Red Sox made it academic. Boston's victory eliminated the Blue Jays, who lost to Baltimore 3-2 five minutes later and finished two games out.

Boddicker (17-8) scattered five hits in seven innings and Reardon gave up two hits in two innings for his 21st save. Boddicker shut the White Sox out on three singles for six innings, then was bailed out by left fielder Mike Greenwell's

Chicago loaded the bases with one out on a single by Frank Thomas and a pair of walks. Boddicker retired Scott Fletcher on a pop-up but Ozzie Guillen singled to left. Thomas scored but Greenwell easily threw out Dan Pasqua at the plate.

The White Sox did not go quietly in the ninth. Sammy Sosa singled with two out in and Reardon hit Fletcher with a pitch. Guillen pulled a drive down the right-field line and Tom Brunansky made a sliding catch in the corner to end the game and the race.

'I know the way Ozzie likes to hit and thought he might try to turn on the pitch," Brunansky said. "It hit me right in the pocket. When I had the ball and hit the ground, I locked in on it. When you leave your feet, you never know. If you hit the Purdue. Brooks gained 58 yards on 11 carries in the starting role, while Watters picked up 42 yards on six carries. Watters also caught two passes in the game, but lost a total of 11 yards in the process.

"I feel very comfortable with the young men," said Holtz. 'We are concerned about winning. Who plays most is dependent upon what happens in practice and what happens in the games. Who starts is really irrelevant.'

Loser Alex Fernandez (5-5) pitched a six-hitter but Boston combined three of them and a throwing error by the rookie right-hander for all their runs in the second inning.

Greenwell started the inning with a double and scored on a single by Dwight Evans. Evans took second on the throw to the plate and scored on a triple by Brunansky.

One out later, Brunansky was trapped in a rundown as Fernandez pitched out and Luis Rivera was unable to bunt on a suicide squeeze attempt. In the rundown, Fernandez threw wildly and Brunansky scored.

"I never saw ["Big Boo"] be-fore in my life," he said. "My parents don't even have any idea who it is.

The last thing the Notre Dame women's swimming team expects to do is win Friday night's meet against Stanford. "Winning the meet is nowhere on our list of realis-tic priorities," Irish coach Tim Welsh says. "We are swimming this weekend because we love the game. Stanford is swimming this weekend because they love the game. The fact that they are faster than us actually excites us."

Welsh's attitude is probably a good one. The Irish really don't stand much of a chance against the Cardinal, who will feature world record holder Janet Evans and Summer Sanders, ranked third in the world in the 200-meter butterfly. The meet, which will be held at the Rolfs Aquatic Center at 4 p.m. Friday, will most likely be dominated by the visiting team.

Welsh welcomes the challenge. He says that the meet will be good for his program and help establish Notre Dame's image as a national contender.

'We hope Stanford will set a lot of pool records this weekend," Weish says. "Pool records define a level of excellence for a program and we want that defined at the highest level. We want the Stanford swimming team to write their name all over our record book, and we want them to do it when they're swimming right next to us. We also want to get excited by how close we are to them."

Leading the way for the Irish will be sophomore Tanya Williams, who qualified for the NCAA tournament in the 200-yard and 400-yard individual medley 1990. After one year at Notre Dame Williams holds six school records. Welsh will not say which events Williams would participate in against Stanford.

"The rules of a dual meet don't require you to announce that. We will run a general format race, though,

Irish women swimmers

face an Olympian task and the fastest people will swim in the fastest events." Welsh savs.

Other Irish swimmers to watch are sophomore Chrisy Van Patten and Katey Andrew in the sprint free events.

The weekend will be an interesting learning experience for the swimmers from both schools. The members of the visiting team will actually stay with their Irish hosts. Welsh says that this will give his squad some insight on what it is like to live as a champion.

"This will help build our program because it will allow us to race, train and live with arguably the best team in the United States. The experience of living together for the weekend will help us see what it's like to be that caliber of a team," Welsh says.

The coaches just might learn a thing or two from the Stanford squad as well.

"We will have our eyes open," Welsh says. "The truly great swimmers teach the coaches, although not vocally, of course. Coaches learn by watching. Coaches with good eyes can learn a lot at a meet like this."

The Irish swim coach will also learn a bit about his own team. There will ! a lot of situations for Welsh to evaluate against Stanford.

'We have never competed this early in the season. Since we're just coming back from the summer, we want to check and see where everybody stands at this point. The second thing is that for those who haven't done a lot of racing, we want to see how they will perform. We want to see how people maintain control of technique and how they compete in a meet," Welsh says.

With a superb Stanford squad coming in, the Irish will just enjoy the meet and not worry about winning.

Irish, Cardinal to meet in pool

By COQUESE WASHINGTON Sports Writer

Notre Dame Men's Swim Coach Tim Welsh views his team's involvement in the Weekend of Champions as excellent study for the Irish swimmers. The Irish and Cardinal squads will eat, live, and train together, as well as compete for superiority in the Rolfs Aquatic Center on Saturday.

Continuing the tradition of academic excellence, the Notre Dame swimmers will have a short lesson on what it takes to become, and remain, a collegiate powerhouse in the pool.

"We want to redefine normality for the Rolfs pool," said Coach Welsh. "Bringing in Stanford this early in the season will help us do that."

Indeed, it should. Stanford finished last season with an outstanding third-place finish at the NCAA Championships, and this year's squad is backed by Jeff Rouse, a world record holder and NCAA champion in the breaststroke. The Stanford team also features the likes of distance freestyler Alec Kostich, a competitor in this summer's goodwill Games, and sprinter Erik Maurer.

The Irish boast strong swimmers, in their own right. Senior captain Brian Rini, last year's MVP and university record holder in the 500- and 1000-yd freestyle, will lead a squad that features ten freshman.

Senior Jim Byrne and sophomore John Godfrey bolster the Irish backstroke events, and Colin Cooley, another university record holder, heads the Irish breaststroke events. All in all, the squad returns 13 letterwinners.

'This is a great a chance to see how much we have im-proved since last year," said Coach Welsh. "We also want to see each of our freshman race and try to find out which events suit them best. It's a good opportunity for our captains to show their leadership in a meet, and generally an advantageous opportunity for our program."

face Stanford at Ecks Irish women

By ROLANDO DE AGUIAR Sports Writer

With a vast amount of talent. but with only six monogramwimmers on the roster, the ND women's tennis team is lacking only experience.

The team will gain that experience very quickly when they take on the five-time defending NCAA champion, top-ranked Stanford, at the Eck Tennis Pavilion Friday afternoon.

The Notre Dame team counts three freshmen among its top five players, while only one senior, Kim Pacella, is on the team's roster. Junior Tracy Barton led the team to a 17-8 record last year, qualifying it for the NCAA tournament. Barton, Pacella, sophomore Melissa Harris, and junior Christy Doran return, and will see action against Stanford.

For the Stanford match, the three freshmen follow Barton at the second, third, and fourth spots. Christy Faustmann, from Aiken, S.C., Terri Vitale, out of Bradenton, Fla., and Lisa Tholen, of Wichita, Kan., have played really well," he said. "I knew they'd come in and play at the top.

Jay impressed Louderback throughout the preseason. "All three freshmen have

Indeed, the freshmen must play at the top against Stanford, as the Cardinal has four of the top 11 players in the country. Faustmann will face Sandra Birch, who is ranked second nationally, while Vitale's opponent will be Teri Whitlinger, herself the seventhranked player in the nation. Stanford's fourth seed, freshman Laxmi Pouri, is ranked 11th in collegiate tennis, and will meet Tholen.

Barton, also ranked among the Top 40 nationally, will take on Debbie Graham, the #1 collegiate player in America. To say that the Irish have their work cut out for them is an understatement.

"We really want to enjoy our-selves," said Louderback. "It's good for us. We've got nothing to lose.'

The team's season has just begun, and will not really be underway until February. The meeting with Stanford is only the second contest of the fall season.

At the LSU Lady Tiger Invitational, the Irish earned a 13-12 record in singles competition, highlighted by perfect records by Doran and Tholen, and a 6-5 record in doubles, including a 3-0 mark for Tholen and Vitale.

Louderback has visions of an NCAA tournament invitation in 1991. The fall matches will, he hopes, lead the squad to this goal. "We're playing as much as we can this fall," he said. 'Hopefully, these matches will give us a shot at staying in the Top 25."

NVA IH Cross Country results - Grace won for the second week in a row and Bill Borgos of Keenan won the individual competition for the second straight seek. Borgos's winning time was 13:32.

Today is the last day for sign-ups for the NVA horseback-riding trip on Sunday, Oct. 7th. Call 239-6100 for more details or register at NVA in the JACC.

DiLucia leads ND vs.Stanford

By DAVE MCMAHON Sports Writer

The Stanford men's tennis team, hoping to continue its dominance on the national level, enters the Weekend of Champions with one of the most talented teams ever assembled.

With four players in the preseason Top 50, the Irish will have their hands full with the Cardinal when action gets underway Friday at the Eck Tennis Pavilion. The number one, two, and three singles matches begin at 6 p.m.

Notre Dame All-American David DiLucia, 7-0 after being ranked 10th in the preseason Volvo Tennis Poll, will probably face Stanford sophomore Jonathan Stark, ranked as the top collegiate player in the nation by the same poll, although the final Cardinal line-ups will not be announced until Friday.

DiLucia, looking to become the first two-time All-American in Irish tennis history, is coming off a year in which he posted a dual-match record of 22-3 (.880).

'You can't place a value on what David means to Notre Dame tennis and what his presence will mean five years from now," says head coach Bob Bayliss.

At number-two singles for the Irish is sophomore Chuck Coleman, coming off a strong 33-13 performance last year.

The fourth year coach is pleased with his team's preparation for the match with a team of Stanford's caliber. Although playing such a dominant team may seem overwhelming to some, big matches are nothing new to the young Irish squad, which faced top ten teams Georgia and Texas Christian last year. After a year of collegiate tennis, sophomore Mark Schmidt, playing at number three singles, is ready to go right after his opponent.

"We're used to playing great teams, and with the home court advantage, the crowd should help us out considerably," said the Atlanta native. "It builds a lot of confidence when we're out there and hear the crowd get behind us."

After a 31-12 mark last year, Schmidt feels more comfortable with a year of experience behind him.

"I'll definitely be more relaxed than I was last year when we played TCU and Georgia," said Schmidt. "When you're inexperienced, you come into a big match like this too psyched up. Now that I've had a few big matches, I think I've found the perfect balance."

Ron Rosas, a sophomore from El Paso, Texas, was 33-12 last year and won his last 14 matches. While Rosas is anxious to play what he says is by far the biggest match of his young career, he thinks the Irish will do well.

"It'll be really tough to get up for mentally, but of our team is familiar with them from junior tennis, so we know what to expect," said Rosas.

The home court advantage could be a deciding factor in some of the matches, according to Rosas.

"When you get on any kind of roll, the crowd really helps you keep the momentum. It's easy for the opposing team to get frustrated when we've got the crowd behind us.'

With a respectable showing against the three-time defending national champions, the Irish may gain enough momentum to propel them to the top of the pack in college tennis.

Bengals to keep pants on, says Coach Wyche

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) - Sam Wyche, saying he was trying to comply with a league directive when he barred a woman from the Cincinnati Bengals' locker room, will keep his players in uniform for 20 minutes after this week's game to adhere to league policy.

While reiterating his belief that players shouldn't be interviewed in the nude by women, Wyche said Wednesday he would go out of his way to ensure that female reporters will have equal access to his players.

The Bengals coach has been threatened with a steep fine by commissioner Paul Tagliabue for banning Denise Tom of USA Today from the locker room after Monday night's 31-16 loss in Seattle. But Wyche said Wednesday he has yet to hear from the commissioner and Tagliabue's office said it was unlikely there would be a ruling until later this week.

Wyche, speaking by conference call from Renton, Wash., where the Bengals are training, said that, in fact, it was a directive from Tagliabue following incidents of alleged sexual harassment of Boston Herald reporter Lisa Olson by several New England Patriots that led to Monday's incident.

'We got a letter from the commissioner in light of what happened in New England that said everyone had to have equal access," Wyche said. "After we got this letter, I went to our players and said 'what do you want to do?' "

He said he offered them four ideas — to put up a partition beyond which no reporter could go; to keep them in uniform; to keep them on the field for interviews; or keep women outside but make any player the reporter wanted available. He said in view of the configuration of the locker room at the Kingdome, putting up a partition seemed impractical. Wyche added that they chose the alternative of talking to women outside the locker room.

"I handled it personally," he said of the dealings with Tom. "She said she wanted Boomer Esiason and she got him with a personal escort from the head coach. I don't think anyone else has gotten that.

''I didn't even think it was an incident until I started getting calls after the game." For this week's game with the keep our players dressed for 20 minutes and then we'll ask evervone to leave. Then, once they get dressed, we'll let people back in if they want anything else.

Los Angeles Rams, Wyche said: "We'll resort to Plan B. We'll

Fielder makes history by banging home runs 50, 51

NEW YORK (AP) — Cecil Fielder became the first American Leaguer to hit 50 home runs since Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle did it 29 years ago, connecting Wednesday night in the fourth inning and later adding No. 51 in the final game of the season.

"It was a lot of pressure," Fielder said. "I wouldn't wish that on anyone in baseball. The Detroit first baseman is the 11th player to hit 50 homers and the first since George Foster of the Cincinnati Reds in 1977. The feat has been accomplished 18 times.

Fielder, who walked and lined out in his first two at-bats, sent a 2-1 pitch from New York Yankees rookie Steve Adkins into the first row of the upperdeck in left field in the fourth. He took four steps out of the batter's box, watched to see if the ball would hook foul, and when it didn't, he began jumping up and down and pumping both fists in the air. "It was a relief," he said. "I got so excited, I jumped for joy."

The two-run homer put Detroit ahead 6-0. After striking out, increasing his major league-leading total to 182, Fielder hit a three-run homer in the eighth off Alan Mills into the lower deck in left.

Fielder led the majors in homers and with 132 RBIs this season. He had gone 2-for-21 since his last home run; his longest drought of the year without a homer was 45 atbats.

Fielder went 0-for-4 in each of the first two games of the season-ending series at Yankee Stadium. He struck out five times, popped out twice and grounded to the mound.

Of the last five players to hit 50 home runs, four were later named Most Valuable Player. The only one who missed out was Mantle, who hit 54 homers to Maris' record 61 in 1961 in the home run race between Yankee teammates.

For the second straight game, Tigers manager Sparky Anderson moved Fielder from the third spot in the lineup to second, hoping to get him an extra at-bat. Fielder drew a walk in a four-run first, capped by Gary Ward's grand slam, and lined out to left in the second.

The historic homer was the third given up by Adkins in 24 innings.

Fielder, 27, finished far ahead in the race for the home-run title. Ryne Sandberg of the Chicago Cubs is second in the majors with 40 and Mark McGwire of Oakland was second in the AL with 39.

Last year, Fielder hit 38 home runs for Hanshin in Japan's Central League. He spent his first four years in the majors with Toronto, but was unable to break into the starting lineup and went overseas.

The Tigers signed Fielder last December as a free agent, giving him a two-year, $3 million contract. At the time, many criticized the move, saying the Tigers had spent too much on an unproven player.

"The Detroit Tigers took a chance," Fielder said. "They believed and a lot of other peo ple didn't believe. Things were said that weren't nice about Cecil Fielder, even before spring training."

Belles tie when Champs the dark comes continued from page 20 By TASHA TIGHT Sports Writer Even though both teams have

The Saint Mary's soccer team (7-1-1) tied St. Joseph College 0-0 yesterday at Saint Mary's Field in a hardfought match against the tough Division II squad.

The Belles made an impressive showing yesterday dominating both on offense and defense. Unfortunately the Belles were unable to score before play was suspended due to darkness after ten minutes of the tiebreaker period.

Saint Mary's contained the aggressive St. Joseph team throughout the very physical match. The Belles had many scoring opportunities but they couldn't get on the scoreboard.

"The team showed lots of composure," said head coach Tom Van Meter. "We played extremely well overall considering the wet and windy conditions."

Saint Mary's, which lost to St. Joseph last year, pulled together on defense and offense.

"The defensive attitude of the team was great," Van Meter said.

The Belles face Hope College Friday afternoon at home. This game, along with the next two home games, is critical for the Belles.

'The next three teams are all common opponents of the seventh ranked team in the nation, Kalamazoo College,"said Coach Tom Van Meter. "The next three games will be good measur-ing sticks for Saint Mary's."

recently appeared more adept at losing, go with the Bucs.

While the Reds surely deserve their NL West crown, holding the lead from day one to day 162, any team that would let a Hershiser-less, bullpen-less Dodger squad chase them has got to be worried.

And it's evident that they are. After cruising through the spring and early summer, Cincinnati manager Lou Piniella suddenly looked around, realized his team was on top of the heap and gulped.

The team gulped with him. An 11 game lead July 23 fell to 3 1/2 numerous times in the year's closing heats, when really good teams usually find extraordinary ways to pull out wins. The Reds just got worse.

The Pirates, on the other hand, had to fight off a strong surge by the New York Mets, but went on an 11-game winning tear to clinch the title. Even though they split their games with the Reds this year. Pittsburgh swept their Western Division counterparts in August just as the Mets challenge became apparent. This would be the Pirates' year if Oakland wasn't so good.

In addition, while Pittsburgh has two explosive MVP candidates in Barry Bonds and Bobby Bonilla, Cincinnati will struggle to produce anything resembling an offense unless the ailing Bill Doran (hospitalized), Chris Sabo (strong start, quick stop) and Eric Davis (sore shoulder, grumpy ego) recover in a hurry. But pitching, as usual, will ultimately decide who wins the National League. Here, soonto-be Cy Young Award winner Doug Drabek, Zane Smith (1.30 ERA since being acquired Aug. 8), and rookie Randy Tomlin will outperform the collapsible Cincinnati corps that is depending too heavily on its relievers while praying Danny Jackson and Tom Browning can recover from injuries and fill the void created by All-Starstruck Jack Armstrong.

So the Bucs will down the Reds in six and the A's will sweep a baffled BoSox club. How then, exactly, will Oakland dominate the NL pennant winner?

Look at the list of league leaders. Rickey Henderson, Mark McGwire, NL batting champ Willie McGee and That Other Guy Who Makes Too Much Money place at or near the top in categories such as hits, home runs, RBIs and stolen bases. You don't need much more than that.

Of course, the A's have more. Their incredible pitching staff of three Cy Young candidates -eventual winner Bob Welch, Dave Stewart and Dennis Eckersley - has demonstrated how easy it can be to send frustrated batters back to the dugout.

Meanwhile, this Oakland team knows all too well how to lose ('88) and win ('89) World Series and they show no inclination of returning to their disastrous form of two years ago Manager Tony LaRussa is confident and he should be; this team is the only one of the four on any kind of victory mission.

The A's will win it in five.

There must be some way to avoid doing the same thing for the next forty years.

James Joseph of Auburn is tackled by Tennessee defenders in last Saturday's game which ended in a controversial tie.

Holtz would go for the victory

Auburn head coach Pat Dye heard the critics even before he sent kicker Jim Von Wyl onto the field.

Sports

With his Tigers trailing Tennessee 26-25 and only 1:56 remaining in Saturday's Southeastern Conference matchup, Dye chose to go for the extra point instead of the two-point conversion and preserve Auburn's undefeated record and national championship hopes.

Cries of "Tie" Dye immediately followed, but the Tiger coach stood by his decision, pointing out that a tie keeps Auburn in contention for both the SEC title and the national championship.

Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz was asked recently how he would respond in a similar situation.

"I guess you'd say my philosophy is to go for the win," said Holtz, "but there are a couple things that determine it. One, do we have a good two-point play? If we had to go for two three different times and used up every two-point play we had, chances of us making the two-point conversion would not be very good and we would probably kick it."

Holtz faced such a decision against Penn State in 1987 when the Irish scored with 31 seconds remaining to draw to within one point at 21-20. Quarterback Tony Rice kept the ball on the two-point conversion attempt but was dropped behind the line of scrimmage.

Thursday, October 4, 1990

As it turned out, Holtz didn't have much choice in the matter. Notre Dame entered the game with an 8-1 record and anything short of a win would have eliminated the Irish from national championship contention.

'The situation then was that the only chance we had for the national championship at that time was to win," said Holtz. "A tie would have eliminated us as well. We weren't involved in a conference race. If a tie can still keep you in the national championship race and you don't feel you have a good chance to make the two-point conversion, then you probably ought to kick it.

"Pat Dye chose to go for the tie in his first conference game. That's his decision."

Irish baseball will kickoff Weekend of Champions

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO Assistant Sports Editor

When 1989 NCAA Baseball Champion Wichita State takes to the field at Stanley Coveleski Stadium tonight at 7 p.m., Irish Head Coach Pat Murphy can take all the credit.

Sure, it's the Weekend of Champions, and much planning and effort was spent in Notre Dame's attracting such a prominent baseball program. But Pat Murphy isn't just responsible for convincing Wichita State coach Gene Stephenson to come here. He's responsible for the entire fall sport concept.

"When we first played (in the fall), it was just to get Notre Dame football and baseball on the same billing," said Murphy, referring to the "Battle Before the War" two years ago, in which the Notre Dame and Miami baseball teams played a two-game series during the Irish-Miami football weekend.

"The same type of talent attracts people to the games, and it's an obvious lead-in to the football games. We do whatever we can do to help the total picture of athletics here at Notre Dame, but these type of weekends are all predicated on the schedule of the football team.'

In recognition of the football team's tremendous influence, we pause one moment in thanks to the football team.

O.K., now to baseball: Tonight's game between the Irish and the Shockers is the first-ever between the two teams. Wichita State, in 14 years under Stephenson, has never played a four-year college in the fall season before. The Shockers usually play junior colleges during their fall-season tuneup.

Wichita State

Last vear. Wichita State had a young pitching squad but still managed a 45-19 record and an appearance in the NCAA tournament. This year, the Shockers return their entire starting rotation, five regulars in the lineup and nine other letterwinners.

The team's youth last year caused the squad to hit for its under lowest average Stephenson (.298) and the second-lowest number of home runs (43). ln tonight's game,

Stephenson has indicated that he will start sophomore Kennie Steenstra (9-2, 2.47 ERA last year, second-team freshman All America). When the two teams square off for another meeting tomorrow night at 8:30 p.m. junior Darrin Paxton (12-4, 3.49 ERA) will get the call.

The Shockers send a strong contingent of sophomores to the plate tonight as well. Infielder Scott McCloughan, outfielder Carl Hall, infielder

Simien is up to the challenge

By DAVID DIETEMAN Sports Writer

Who is the best linebacker in college football?

he is really starting to come along now. He has rehabilitated that [injury] pretty well. Hopefully he'll be able to be out on the field a lot more than what he has been in the past because his performances cer-tainly justify him getting more playing time.' A stern and independent spirit, the 6-3, 221-pound Simien possesses what some refer to as the linebacker mentality. "The player that I like best to watch is Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants," said Simien. "Derrick Thomas is fun to watch, too. In high school, I played defensive tackle for three years, but I like outside linebacker better. What I like most about it is the guarterback sacks." While a player at Junipero Serra High School, he racked up 239 career tackles, as well excellent football game last as 40 sacks over his junior and Saturday," said Holtz. "He was senior years. As a result of his as 40 sacks over his junior and in on 11 plays, had two sacks high school efforts, Simien was and a quarterback hurry. He a SuperPrep All-American, one outrageous prediction, but sometimes you just can't argue with the facts. It's boring, too; repeats usually are. Unfortunately none of this year's underdogs could muster the strength to overtake any of the division leaders and battle for what could have been wide open playoff berths.

The most exciting, or comical, as I prefer to call it, part of this season's Assistant Sports Editor finale surrounds (surprise, surprise) the Boston Red Sox and their infamous ability to nauseate the masochistic fans who loyally ride the team's annual rollercoaster into oblivion. Statisticians have recently determined that Boston's quality of play in a game is inversely proportional to the importance of its outcome.

Of course, the Sox winning the AL East delays the inevitable. Meanwhile, those fans born after 1918 will try to replace visions of grounders rolling past haggard infielders with delusions of Roger Clemens pitching eight straight perfect games and winning it all for his team. Trust me, my roommate is from Massachusetts and I've seen it happen.

So who will Oakland beat for the World Championship? Both the Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates have spent the last few weeks plodding towards the finish line with one eye glancing fearfully behind them.

sophomore outside Α linebacker from Los Angeles, his nickname is "Reckless," and he strives to live up to it. Last year, Simien saw action in 12 games, missing only the matchup with Michigan State. During his playing stint, he made 69 appearances on special teams, and added 11 more special teams appearances against Colorado in the Orange Bowl.

Over the whole of 1989, he recorded nine tackles (two solo, seven assisted) and was also awarded a Notre Dame monogram. Last week against Purdue, he twice sacked Boilermaker guarterback Eric Hunter tin the fourth quarter for a net loss of 13 yards.

Yet while his efforts may be the apertif of some college football gourmets, he has not gone unnocticed by the discerning palate of Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz.
