ment will be held from Sept. 14-17 in LaFortune Student Center, and North and South Dining Halls, according to Chris Setti, political awareness commissioner for student government.

Students will be able to register to vote from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in LaFortune and at lunch and dinner in the dining halls, according to Setti.

Student volunteers will be recruited to register voters during this campaign.

According to Setti, the campaign has a two-fold purpose. The first is to encourage the democratic process.

"It's not a true democracy unless you vote, make a statement. We're providing a service to get people registered to exercise their democracy," Setti said.

Secondly, many people are not familiar with how to register while away from home or how to get and use an absentee ballot, according to Setti. "There will be a convenient polling place on campus for students to use. We want to avoid using absentee ballots because they are a hassle and rarely utilized," he said.

Crash halts aid for Sarajevo

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — An Italian transport plane crashed Thursday while carrying blankets and other emergency goods to besieged Sarajevo, and a U.N. official said there was no sign that the four crew members survived.

U.N. officials suspended humanitarian flights to the city pending an investigation of the crash. But Fernando del Mundo, a U.N. spokesman in Geneva, said there was no indication the plane had been hit by gunfire.

Four U.S. Marine helicopters came under fire as they searched for the wreckage and were forced to leave the scene, U.N. officials said. The helicopters were not hit and there was no indication of who fired at them.

In Washington, a Pentagon spokesman released a statement that said two CH-53 rescue craft reported seeing flashes on the ground coming from the muzzles of small arms. It said two Cobra gunships which were low on fuel had earlier broken off from the search.

All four aircraft, which joined the search at the request of the Italian government, returned unharmed to the amphibious assault ship USS Iwo Jima off the Adriatic coast, according to the statement. The Iwo Jima is monitoring compliance with a U.N. trade embargo against Yugoslavia.

The crash of the Italian plane and apparent loss of its four crewmen dampened spirits raised earlier in the day by the arrival of the top U.N. peacekeeping official to discuss the latest agreement on curbing ethnic fighting around Sarajevo.

The official, Marrack Goulding, U.N. undersecretary-general for peacekeeping, expressed his own discouragement over the halting moves toward a peaceful settlement. He said there were no signs of Serb fighters turning heavy weapons over for U.N. supervision as their leader promised Wednesday.

Serb militias ignored similar agreements in the past.

But Goulding said, "I will go on trying to talk as long as I possibly can. ... You can't expect us to build Rome in a day."

ND student government happy with volunteer turnout

By EMILY HAGE

Student Government is optimistic about achieving its goals for the 1992-1993 school year, its leaders say.

"We're definitely on the up," said Student Body Vice President Molly O'Neil.

So far, the Hurricane Relief Project, headed by Ryan Trzaskowski, University services commissioner, has raised approximately $2500 in affiliation with the Cuban American Union of Student Advocates (CAUSA) project, said Michael Griffin, Student Government chief of staff. The money will go directly to Catholic Charities.

In preparation for the upcoming presidential election, the Student Union Board expects to invite political journalists, commentators, and public officials to speak at Notre Dame, specifically about Catholic life in America today, Griffin said.

Chris Setti, the political awareness commissioner, is heading voter registration on campus from September 14-17. A mock election will be held on November 2, the day before the election to give the campus "a glimpse ahead," said Griffin.

A University-wide committee is now considering changing the meal card plan, and the only question now is which campus groups will be involved, Griffin said, mentioning the bookstore, security, and the dining halls.

Shannon Windsor, executive coordinator of the Special Projects Department, is heading the project in Student Government, and this "major overhaul" is "headed down the path for completion in about a year or so," said Griffin. He added that Student Government is finding "an open ear from the administration."

According to Griffin, a proposal on the "five corners" security issue is being put together with the help of General Council Bill Dailey, and will be taken to area bars.

It suggests that private security guards patrol the area instead of South Bend police because police are known to scare students, especially those under 21 years old.

"If there is no opposition from the bar owners or the administration, we might see a proposal enacted next semester," said Griffin. The primary obstacle at this time is funding, which will most likely come from the students, Griffin said.

Saint Mary's student body president says government may 'rebuild pride' in school

By JILL HOTEK
News Writer

Increasing student involvement will be the focus for Saint Mary's 1992-1993 Board of Governance (B.O.G.) and Student Activities Board (S.A.B.), according to the board's officers.

Tina Carrara, Saint Mary's Student Body President, would like to "rebuild pride in Saint Mary's," she said. "Students need to put their energy into their school."

B.O.G. met Monday for a question and answer session regarding the new hours of Health Services, and the new Card Access System for LeMans Hall. B.O.G. also discussed the possibility of holding the student body elections earlier this year to give the student body elects more time to form their committees and boards. Also, a new recycling program is being formed.

S.A.B. met Tuesday and discussed the Back to School Bash planned for Saturday, September 5, which includes a picnic and disc jockey, scavenger hunt and bonfire.

S.A.B. has also begun plans for an All School Dance. Julie McCormick, Vice President of Student Affairs, hopes this dance can become a tradition at Saint Mary's.

"There are a lot of expectations about this dance, and we are committed to this event and to the students," McCormick said.

McCormick said she hopes "students realize that they are the voice of Saint Mary's." Both McCormick and Carrara said they encourage students to come to them with concerns and suggestions. They have office hours Monday through Friday from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Student Government office on the third floor of Haggard College Center.

B.O.G. meetings are Mondays from 6 to 7 p.m. in the Women's Alliance Center, and S.A.B. meetings are Tuesday afternoons from 12:15 to 1:15 on the third floor of Haggard. Both are open meetings for Saint Mary's students.

ND hurricane aid effort seeking contributions

By JOHN CONNORTON
News Writer

In the wake of Hurricane Andrew, the Cuban American Union of Student Advocates (CAUSA) and the Graduate Theological Union (GTU), in association with the Hall President's Council, is sponsoring Notre Dame Family in Action to aid humanitarian relief efforts in Florida and Louisiana.

Tables, manned by members of the GTU, have been set up in LaFortune, North and South dining halls, and the Center for Social Concerns to handle student contributions. Money will be funneled through Catholic Charities in Florida and Louisiana.

"The tentative plan," said Miguel Diaz, a member of CAUSA, "is to have a someone active in CAUSA deliver the money to Miami personally."

Although areas in Louisiana will receive funds as well, Florida, especially Miami and the surrounding areas, is likely to receive more money. "We don't know the breakdown of funds exactly, but it will probably be somewhere in the area of 60/40 or 70/30," in favor of Florida, added Diaz.

America needs new world paradigm

"I most sincerely wish that some more liberal plan might be laid and executed for the Benefit of the rising Generation, and that our new constitution may be distinguished for Learning and Virtue," wrote Abigail Adams in a letter to her husband, John Adams.

Stephen Zavestoski
Associate News Editor

Imagine how vital correspondence must have been during these formative years. Virtually everyone had the opportunity to influence the shaping of a new country, a new society and a new definition of life.

For instance, a merchant may have written Thomas Jefferson asking that states be sovereign. A farmer may have urged the writers of the Declaration of Independence to include a grievance against the presence of British troops in the colonies.

In the history of the United States, there has never been a more crucial time (crucial in its impact on defining life as we know it today) than just prior to the revolution and the framing of the Constitution—that is, until now.

Unbeknownst to many, not only the United States, but the rest of the world as well has reached a sort of impasse in the course of human history. We have proceeded through the Renaissance, the Enlightenment, the Age of Science and Reason, the Industrial Age, and currently find ourselves in what many are calling the Information Age.

The immensity of the globe has been reduced by fiber optics, fax machines and cellular phones. And what has been our response? We have stumbled in our ability to carry on not only inter-human relationships, but also the equally important human-earth relationship.

The lives defined for us by our ancestors no longer seem to be applicable. We have shed our self identities as handed down to us from our predecessors. Today, just as Abigail Adams urged in the 18th century, we need to lay down a new constitution that will benefit future generations.

We have reached a time when we must redefine our lives by creating a new code of life for the global community that is rapidly taking shape. We must not be shortsighted in our effort to redefine the world, we must not fail to realize the importance of all life on earth and we most certainly must make this new definition one that will embrace frugality in order to relieve us of our obsession with consumption and create a sustainable society.

I imagine that much of the correspondence that goes on today, not unlike that of our forefathers, will be read in 200 years and considered significant in the definition of the world as it will then be known.

Today we will write not about a constitution that will govern a nation, but a cosmology that will be the foundation of the earth and its inhabitants.

Hopefully, what we write will read something like this, "Dear President Clinton, I most sincerely wish that we might create a more liberal cosmology that might be laid and executed for the Benefit of the rising Generation, and that our new cosmology may be distinguished by a reverence for all life on earth."

Mitterrand defends EC treaty

■ PARIS — President Francois Mitterrand, risking his political prestige in a live televised debate, said Thursday that France would suffer damage of historical proportions if it rejects the Maastricht treaty on European union. The 75-year-old president, appearing in his first TV debate since 1988, said defeat of the treaty in a referendum on Sept. 20 "would be a serious blow to French history and to the French." He said it would be "absurd" for voters to be swayed by their personal feelings for him. Polls show voters almost evenly divided over the treaty, which envisages political and economic union for the 12 nations of the European Community. Many European leaders say a "no" vote by the French would doom the accord.

Two armed men surrender to police

■ GREENSBURG, Ind. — A day-long standoff between two armed Greensburg men and about 20 police officers ended Thursday night when the suspects emerged from a wooded area and surrendered, state police said. Ronnie Linger, 19, and Charles Reynolds, 25, were arrested without incident at about 6 p.m. and put in the Decatur County Jail, said Sgt. Phil Mohr, a detective with the Indiana State Police. The standoff began after Linger and Reynolds shot a third man at a home about four miles south of Greensburg in a domestic dispute, Mohr said. The man Linger and Reynolds reportedly shot, Jerry Loonen, took two bullets in the lower half of his body, according to Mohr. He was treated at Methodist Hospital in Indianapolis and released, hospital administrator Jill Beatty said. "There was a woman involved that was a point of contention in this thing," Mohr said.

Woman's missing casket found

■ WHITESTOWN, Ind. — Family members say they'll move a deceased Plainfield woman to another cemetery after employees at Lincoln Memory Gardens found her casket mistakenly buried in another woman's grave. The caskets of Gertrude Snow of Plainfield and Nora Hodges of Indianapolis apparently were switched while awaiting burial in the late 1970s, cemetery officials said. The mixup was noticed Tuesday when relatives were preparing to bury Snow's husband next to her in the southern Boone County cemetery. "We feel terrible. We've been visiting and saying prayers to a piece of granite that we thought Gertie was in," said Bob Burcham, son-in-law of Gertrude and William Snow. "This is an isolated incident," said Tom Meyer, vice president of the cemetery. "It has not happened in the past and certainly will not happen in the future. It was a bad error. That's an understatement, but we did everything we could to correct it."

Beer Company tries to get in Videos

■ WASHINGTON — An internal videotape by Miller Brewing Co. touts the company's success placing its beer in music videos "to penetrate the hard-to-reach young adult market." Getting "the one-and-only Lite beer to star right along side top recording artists like the one-and-only Bruce Springsteen" is extolled as a way to reach "the all-important entry level drinker over and over and over again. And that means MTV can mean Miller Television, providing brand awareness to over 6.5 million adult males every day," says the video. "By placing Miller Brewing Co.'s products in today's music videos, Miller is able to penetrate the hard-to-reach young adult market." Miller officials say the tape was made in the mid-1980s for corporate use only, but a coalition of groups trying to prevent alcoholism, drunken driving and underage drinking says it reveals the company has been "sneaking" beer ads into other formats to encourage young people to drink.

Hurricane victims coaxed to tent cities

HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Building inspectors and social workers went door-to-door Thursday, trying to coax more people out of their hurricane-ravaged and possibly dangerous homes and into military tent cities.

More rain fell on the area smashed by Hurricane Andrew on Aug. 24, making busy roads slippery and weighing down soaked, sagging ceiling materials exposed by the storm. At least four homes collapsed overnight because of the rain, Homestead Police Maj. Chuck Habermehl said.

No new injuries were reported, but relief officials were frustrated that so few people were willing to take advantage of the five military tent cities. Federal officials said they might put in laundries, televisions and videocassette recorders to lure more people into tents — only 150 families were in them Thursday.

Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton joined the long line of politicians visiting southern Florida, flying to the heavily damaged Homestead Air Force Base that President Bush promised to rebuild even though some Democrats in Congress are opposed.

The rain, which forecasters said would pick up again this weekend when another tropical wave strikes the state, dampened some of the earlier optimism about the huge relief and rebuilding effort that has brought nearly 34,000 military personnel to southern Florida.

"Today, I was hoping to see the progress I'm hearing about, but it was hard to see," Linda Shelley, secretary of the Florida Department of Community Affairs, said after a helicopter tour.

Residents she talked to complained of not enough ice, water and toilets and too many mosquitoes. The Air Force helped Dade County with aerial spraying. State officials asked pool companies to volunteer to clean up stagnant swimming pools where mosquitoes have started breeding.

The White House announced that the Small Business Administration had speeded up its handling of loan applications from hurricane victims in Florida and Louisiana, reducing the usual 30-day processing period to seven days.

SBA Administrator Pat Saiki handed out checks totaling $155,580 to the first five hurricane victims approved for loans, all homeowners. The loans are at rates as low as 4 percent and for as long as 30 years.

The state Department of Labor reported Thursday that 60,000 homes had been destroyed in Florida, leaving 250,000 people homeless. It said 86,000 people were thrown out of work by the storm. More than 400,000 people remained without electricity.

Other federal and local agencies have produced widely varying estimates of the number of homes destroyed.

State officials also said 1.9 million meals had been served at 110 sites.

As of Thursday, the hurricane was blamed for 51 deaths in Florida, Louisiana and the Bahamas. Damage in Florida has been estimated at $20 billion.

Five tent cities in Homestead and Florida City with room for 3,800 people were up, but only a few hundred people used them Wednesday night. The Army said seven more could be built, bringing the capacity to 20,000 people.

Flash floods surprise Afghanistan villages

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — A churning wall of water, mud and rock swept through the fertile valleys of the Hindu Kush Mountains, leaving hundreds of people dead or missing, a British-based charity said Thursday.

Rescue workers were just starting to dig bodies out of the 6-foot deposits of mud, the Halo Trust charity said, and estimated the death toll could rise to 3,000.

Flash floods wiped out entire villages in the Salang, Dhorband and Shaltuh valleys, destroying orchards, irrigation canals and up to 1,000 homes, said Guy Willoughby, head of Halo Trust. The organization was clearing mines scattered in the area during the 14-year war between the former Communist government and Muslim rebels that succeeded it.

Willoughby said in a statement that some of the destroyed homes in the narrow valleys — flanked by barren slopes and snow-capped peaks — were built by returning refugees.

The statement said at least 450 people were killed and another 500 were missing in two areas where his organization has been working. It added that many of the victims were trapped in their homes by the mud.

Officials don't know when the 33-foot wall of water swept through the area, about 55 miles northeast of Kabul. The Defense Ministry said it believed the flash flood occurred early Wednesday.

Judge Grant honored by law school

By JOE MONAHAN
News Writer

The Notre Dame Law School honored Judge Robert Grant in a ceremony Thursday, and dedicated the judge's robing chamber of the Barry Moot Courtroom to him.

Grant was recognized for his long and distinguished career as both a judge and a U.S. Congressman.

A 1928 Notre Dame graduate, and 1930 Notre Dame law school graduate, Grant became deputy prosecuting attorney for St. Joseph County. In 1939, he was elected Indiana's 3rd District representative to the U.S. Congress, where he served five terms until 1949. For most of those years Congress was in continual session, as the result of World War II.

Grant returned to law in 1949 and continued practicing in the South Bend area until 1957 when President Eisenhower appointed him to the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Indiana. He is currently a senior judge for the district.

Grant also serves on the Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals to which he was appointed in 1976. This court was commissioned in 1972 to deal with price controls that arose during the oil crisis.

At the ceremony, Grant was also recognized for his commitment to the community, being a past president of the Tri-Valley Council of Boy Scouts of America and an active member of the Shriners, Masons, and the Rotary Club. In summing up his career as a judge, Grant said that it was "an exciting and satisfying 35 years."

Parking spaces relocated for the 1992 football season

Special to The Observer

Between 800 to 1,000 parking spaces have been relocated for the upcoming football season as the result of construction of a new baseball stadium southeast of the Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center, according to Phillip Johnson, assistant director of security.

The baseball stadium is being built in the area known as Blue Field, a grass parking lot east of the Gold Field lot. To make up for the lost space, more parking has been made available in White Field, which is located northeast of campus near Juniper and Douglas Roads.

A special traffic pattern will continue to be used three hours before each game. Most roads near the University will be one-way toward Notre Dame Stadium. Since the south parking lots are expected to fill early due to the loss of parking in Blue Field, fans are encouraged to head straight for White Field. To avoid delays, Johnson suggested travelling to White Field via Cleveland Road to southbound Juniper Road; or, via Ironwood Road to westbound Douglas Road.

Fans travelling to campus via the Indiana Toll Road are encouraged to use exit 72 on the west side of South Bend or exit 82 at Mishawaka. Those using the Notre Dame exit-exit 77-should proceed north on U.S. 33 to Cleveland Road and then east to southbound Juniper. Signs are posted along these routes directing fans to parking.

Transpo, the South Bend public transportation system, will provide shuttle service between White Field and the stadium before and after each game. A stadium express shuttle is also available from St. Mary's College and from area hotels in South Bend. For more information on shuttle service, call Transpo at 233-2131.

Traffic control for the Notre Dame football season is provided by the Indiana State Police, St. Joseph County Police, South Bend Police, St. Joseph County Civil Defense/Weather Watch and University security.

Student Government leaders are impressed with the unusually high number of volunteers in Student Government this year, especially from the class of 1996, Griffin said. The Student Government cabinet alone is outstanding, approximately 45 members, as opposed to the usual 12 or so, said O'Neill.

"More than in any other year I've been here," said Griffin, a senior, "I've never seen more people involved."

ers were busy over the summer. Besides catching up on their academics in order to have more time to dedicate to Student Government, O'Neill said, they set goals for the school year and coordinated the freshman summer preorientation and transfer student orientation programs.

Most of the funding for these programs came from the Alumni Association, said O'Neill. She said she hopes the orientation programs will become an official Student Government responsibility. Student Government planned activities such as a mixer, campus tours, a trip to the Grotto, and the first mass of the class of 1996.

Student Government has formed a steering committee of 25 to 50 people for the Prejudice Reduction Project, which they hope will become as popular as the Notre Dame Encounters.

Because the day for the homeless was so successful last year, Student Government plans to have a Notre Dame for the Homeless week this year to raise money for the South Bend Center for the Homeless.

"We want to raise money and to raise awareness on campus of homelessness in America," said Griffin.

Kids' behavior linked to mom's cigarettes

CHICAGO (AP) — The more cigarettes a mother smokes, the more behavior problems her children are likely to have, researchers say.

Women who smoke at least a pack a day have children with twice the rate of extreme behavior problems — such as anxiety, disobedience or conflict with others — compared with children of non-smokers, the researchers say.

Refraining from smoking only during pregnancy didn't help, according to the study published in September's Pediatrics journal.

Children of pack-a-day mothers who smoked after the child's birth had problems just as often as children of pack-a-day women who smoked during pregnancy and afterward.

Smoking less than a pack a day also was linked to elevated rates of behavior problems, but the rates were not as high as for heavier smokers, the researchers said. They used data from a Labor Department survey in which mothers of 2,256 youngsters ages 4 to 11 were interviewed.

"We are aware of no other study to date that has investigated the relationship between maternal smoking and behavior problems in children," said the authors, led by Dr. Michael Weitzman, associate chair of pediatrics at the University of Rochester School of Medicine in New York state.

"It does not surprise me at all that this association exists," said Dr. Loraine Stern, an associate clinical professor of pediatrics at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Data from biased observers, such as mothers, have problems, she cautioned Thursday by telephone from Newhall, Calif. But she said the researchers appear to have used as reliable methods as possible, given the limitations of the data.

"There's thousands of toxins in cigarette smoke," any one of which could affect behavior in children, she said.

Surprisingly, Weitzman said, smoke exposure rivaled other major stresses on children — very low birthweight, poverty, chronic illness, parents' divorce — in being linked with elevated rates of serious behavior problems.

"When you add these up, they cluster together and multiply each other," Weitzman said.

For example, a boy born weighing less than 3.3 pounds to a mother who smokes at least a pack a day was eight times more likely to show extreme behavior problems than a normal-weight boy of a non-smoking mother, the study said.

If that high-risk boy also had asthma, his likelihood of having extreme behavior problems was 19 times higher than the normal-risk boy, the study said.

Weitzman's team said maternal smoking during and after pregnancy may alter brain structure or function, with long-term effects on children's behavior.

Smoking also might alter maternal behavior in such a way to elicit problems in children, the researchers said. Or the findings could even mean that mothers who smoke are more intolerant of children's behavior and more likely to report it bothersome, they said.

Weitzman cautioned that the study does not prove maternal smoking causes behavior problems in children, "but it very strongly suggests there is something there."

Man takes hostages in a PA store

SHIPPENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A man with a shotgun took 24 people hostage today during a five-hour standoff inside a Kmart store. About 30 other people escaped out a back door before he surrendered, witnesses said.

Fifteen people were released by mid-afternoon, and the man — who police identified as Larry Eugene Fry, 28, of Carlisle, Pa., — walked out of the store at about 3 p.m. Nine people were still in the store when Fry surrendered, police said.

Eight elderly people, a pregnant woman and a man with heart trouble were among those released earlier. No injuries were reported.

Police contacted Fry by calling the store. State police Sgt. Richard Morris said he made no demands and was "cooperative" during the incident.

State Police Trooper Karen Dutrow said Fry was believed to be upset over a domestic dispute.

Police said Fry could face such charges as kidnapping, reckless endangerment and making terroristic threats.

The gunman entered the store about 9:30 a.m., said Kmart employee Karen Weagley.

Fierce shooting spree in the South Bronx is indication of frightening new 'fact of life'

NEW YORK (AP) — Vivian Andersen sat on her stoop, framed by the pockmarks of bullet holes in the stone doorway. Her face was distorted by pain and she was crying.

"It hurts," said Vivian, fingering the cast on her right foot. It was covered with graffiti-like scrawls of friends who had wished her a speedy recovery.

In another setting, she might have been a 17-year-old college kid recovering from a skiing accident. But this was New York City's blighted South Bronx, a university of hard knocks.

Vivian was among 12 people who survived, somehow, a shooting spree of such ferocity and randomness that even the case-hardened cops of the 41st precinct were amazed.

The attack reflects a relatively new and terrifying fact of life on New York's mean streets: spray shootings, in which bystanders are killed or injured.

Law enforcers say such shootings reflect the increasing availability of illegal automatic weapons and their use by proliferating drug gangs.

"It's a trend," said Assistant Police Chief Thomas Gallagher, the Bronx's top cop. "One thing is that there are a lot of younger people involved, and when you're young you think you're immortal, and you have little regard for people other than yourself."

Slightly more than 4,000 people in the city have been killed and wounded in gunfire this year, compared with about 3,900 for the same period of 1991, police said. Although no breakdown was available, many were bystanders.

About 1 a.m. on Aug. 26, a van pulled up on Longwood Avenue and let out passengers who, without warning, began spraying the pavement with gunfire.

Some 20 people, hanging out on the sidewalk and fire escapes on a hot night, scattered in panic. Twelve were hit, none fatally, as bullets ricocheted off the street and buildings. After a mad minute, the van sped away.

A week later, police reported no new developments. But authorities believe some drug gang was trying to scare off rivals.

Joshua Burrell was at his front door after closing up the grocery store where he works as a clerk when the shooting started. "I was putting the key in the lock and I heard it and I came running," he said.

He found Vivian bleeding from head and foot wounds, and others lying about with a variety of wounds.

"I got all hyped. There must have been 80 shots fired," Burrell said.

Medication marketing case settled

EAST HANOVER, N.J. (AP) — Sandoz Pharmaceuticals Corp. and all 50 states reached a $21 million settlement in an antitrust case involving the schizophrenia medication Clozaril.

The agreement announced today ends a lawsuit brought in December 1990 by attorneys general in New Jersey, New York and 31 other states over the marketing of the Sandoz drug.

Until 1991, the drug was distributed only if patients also purchased an expensive blood-monitoring service from Caremark Inc. of Lincolnshire, Ill., with which Sandoz had an exclusive contract.

Dr. David Winter, Sandoz' vice president of scientific and external affairs, said the monitoring was necessary because of side effects that caused at least 50 deaths in Europe.

But the monitoring arrangement pushed the average cost of treatment to $172 per week, or $9,000 per year, prompting the lawsuits.

"Our lawsuit stopped Sandoz from continuing a rip-off policy that denied millions of Americans the chance for normal lives," Attorney General Robert Abrams of New York said in announcing the agreement.

Donations accumulating for tidal wave survivors

EL TRANSITO, Nicaragua (AP) — Among donations that piled up Thursday were two child-size coffins — an unneeded reminder that the 800 villagers lost almost as many lives in a tidal wave as all of Florida did in Hurricane Andrew.

The quake-spawned wave that smashed into Nicaragua's southwest coast Tuesday night devastated this little fishing town.

By Thursday morning, 14 bodies had been recovered in El Transito and 10 children remained missing and feared dead, according to federal health officials here.

Capt. Guillermo Guevara, chief of the Civil Defense Department, told ambassadors in Managua on Thursday that 116 people were confirmed dead in this Central American nation, 350 were injured and about 700 houses destroyed. He said earlier that 150 people were missing.

On Thursday, waves broke upon the beach with a calm, stately rhythm.

Francisco and Rosibel Avita walked barefoot along the surf, poking delicately at mounds of sand, searching for a daughter stolen by the sea.

Much of the village nestled in a gentle bay 35 miles west of Managua is now a gruesome scatter of shattered roofing, broken concrete, splintered wood.

Dozens of people spent the night in the pews of a Catholic Church on the hill above the town, sleeping amid bales of clothing and boxes of food donated by Nicaraguans and foreign agencies.

Health Ministry nurses stacked medicine atop the altar. Volunteers outside sorted beans from rice, canned juice from canned tuna. Some ladled out bowls of hot milk from a cauldron heated over a wood fire.

ANC won't talk until prisoners are freed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The African National Congress today ruled out resuming talks with the government until violence is checked and all political prisoners are freed.

Until these demands are met it would be pointless to resume constitutional negotiations, the black group told a news conference following a three-day meeting of its National Executive Committee.

This means a continuation of the country's political stalemate, now in its third month, and comes in the face of international appeals for an end to the standoff.

British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd led a European Community delegation this week that held talks with black and white leaders in hopes of finding ways to bring them back together.

Constitutional Affairs Minister

Roelf Meyer today said the government offered reasonable solutions to try to satisfy the ANC. The black group dismissed them.

"We simply cannot accept vague assurances that steps are to be taken to curb the violence," the ANC said in a statement. "We have learned the hard way that such assurances from the de Klerk regime mean very little."

The ANC accused President de Klerk's government of "delay and doublespeak" in responding to demands issued in June, when it halted political negotiations to protest violence in black townships.

The demands included the immediate release of 400 prisoners the ANC considers political detainees, election of a multiracial transitional government and "practical steps" to end township violence.

U.S.-Taiwan jet sales upset China

BEIJING (AP) — China threatened today to withdraw from international arms control talks because of President Bush's decision to sell 150 fighter jets worth $6 billion to Taiwan.

China summoned U.S. Ambassador Stapleton Roy to the Foreign Ministry and lodged a strong protest, the state-run Xinhua news agency reported.

It quoted Vice Foreign Minister Liu Huaqiu as telling Roy that if the United States proceeded with the sale of the F-16s, "China would find it difficult to stay in the meeting of the five on arms control issues."

The United States, Britain, France, China and Russia — the major international arms suppliers — began talks last year on measures to reduce weapons sales, particularly to Third World countries in unstable regions.

A withdrawal by China could derail U.S. efforts to prevent sales of Chinese missiles to Syria or other nations in the Middle East.

In Washington, the White House declined to respond to China's objections.

Bush announced the sale Wednesday in Fort Worth, Texas, home to several thousand General Dynamics Corp. workers whose jobs could be saved by the deal. The deal would end a decade-old ban on the sale of F-16s to Taiwan, the stronghold of the Nationalist government driven from China's mainland in 1949.

The dispute sparked by Bush's announcement is one of the most serious since China's Communist regime and the United States normalized relations in 1979.

Bush rejects debate proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush's re-election campaign on Thursday rejected a bipartisan panel's recommendation for three presidential debates and one vice presidential debate. The format had already been accepted by Democrat Bill Clinton.

"We're not sure that's the best way to serve the public. We really have not come to an absolute position on what we think is the best way to do it yet," said Robert Teeter, chairman of the Bush-Quayle re-election committee.

"We will not accept the commission's proposal as it's outlined now."

Asked whether the Bush team was unhappy about the number of proposed debates or the format, Teeter said: "Both."

Teeter said he wasn't ruling out debates, and assumed that they would take place, but that Bush wasn't ready to commit himself.

Clinton, touring hurricane-damaged areas in Florida, declined to immediately comment, saying he wanted to wait until Friday.

"I don't think I want to talk about it when I'm in Florida," Clinton said.

The Commission on Presidential Debates, headed by former chairmen of both major parties, already had announced dates and sites for the three proposed presidential debates.

The first was proposed for Michigan State University in East Lansing, Mich., on Sept. 22. The second was to be Oct. 4 in California at the University of San Diego and the third, Oct. 15 in Virginia at the University of Richmond.

The commission had recommended a single vice-presidential debate for Sept. 29 in Louisville, Ky.

The commission — co-chaired by former Democratic party chairman Paul Kirk and former GOP chairman Frank Fahrenkopf — sponsored the two 1988 presidential debates between then Vice President Bush and Democrat Michael Dukakis.

Teeter, in a session with a group of reporters, said: "Our position is that, at some appropriate point, we'll sit down with the Clinton people and talk about debates."

George Stephanopoulos, Clinton's communications director, responded to the development by saying: "We don't need a debate about debates. We need a debate about the future of the country."

On whether the Clinton campaign would negotiate directly with the Bush camp on terms, Stephanopoulos said: "I don't think so. If they have a proposal, send it."

"We'll be in East Lansing," on Sept. 22 for the first debate, whether Bush is there or not, the Clinton spokesman said.

Under the commission's plan, each 90-minute debate would be moderated by a single person rather than a panel, a departure from the 1988 debates.

On whether Bush definitely would not meet Clinton in Michigan on September 22, Teeter said, "I wouldn't say it's out the window. But we haven't come to that point."

Environmental groups: Gore improves ticket

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic presidential ticket of Bill Clinton and Al Gore won support Thursday from two national environmental groups, the League of Conservation Voters and the Sierra Club.

The two non-partisan groups accused President Bush of reneging on his pledge to be the environmental president and breaking specific promises he made during his 1988 campaign.

Clinton has had a mixed environmental record as governor of Arkansas. But the groups said his choice of Tennessee Sen. Gore for a running mate proved his commitment to their cause.

"Gore has not only supported environmental legislation, he has written most of it," League president Bruce Babbitt said of the Tennessee senator. He said Gore's presence on the Democratic ticket makes it the clear choice for environmentalists.

The Sierra Club said Thursday it would formally endorse Clinton and Gore in news conferences around the country on Friday. It was only the second presidential endorsement since the club was founded 100 years ago; the first was in 1984, when the group endorsed Walter Mondale over Ronald Reagan.

Sierra Club president H. Anthony Ruckel, in remarks prepared for delivery Friday in Little Rock, Ark., called Bush "an environmental disaster."

He said Bush had promised to protect wetlands, fight the greenhouse effect, pass a national recycling plan, support a strong Clean Air Act and be "a Teddy Roosevelt environmentalist."

"He has broken every single promise," Ruckel said. "How can we possibly trust him?"

The league, in a similar vein, said Bush's 1988 pledge to be the environmental president "seems to have followed the path of 'read my lips, no new taxes.'"

In a rating of the two tickets, the league group praised Clinton for environmental moves during the last few years, for commitments he has made to fight pollution and promote conservation if elected president, and for choosing Gore.

Clinton gets endorsement of prominent labor union

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Clinton, once scorned by some unions as a right-to-work governor from a low-wage state, declared himself a protector of American workers Thursday as he picked up the endorsement of the AFL-CIO.

"I know we have not always agreed and will never always agree on everything," Clinton told leaders of the 14 million-strong labor federation. "But we share a common commitment to the working men and women and their children and the forgotten middle class."

"We're going to make Bush and Quayle remember those folks on Nov. 3," the Democratic presidential nominee told an AFL-CIO general board meeting.

Many union leaders had been leery of the Arkansas governor because he comes from a right-to-work state and has a spotty record on various labor goals. He didn't win the AFL-CIO's backing in the primaries until it was clear he had the nomination locked up.

But labor could be a substantial help to Clinton now with contributions to the Democratic Party as phone banks and mailings to get out the vote.

Clinton's reception here was matched in Pittsburgh where running-mate Al Gore told a Steelworkers convention that Bush has made excuses instead of halting job losses.

"They're pointing fingers with one hand and handing out pink slips with the other hand," Gore told 2,500 boisterous delegates.

The Steelworkers banged tables for several minutes after the Tennessee senator's speech, chanting, "Four more months."

In his remarks, Gore also castigated Bush for "stunning and dangerous mistakes" on foreign policy. He said "no one should deny the president did well" in the Persian Gulf War but blamed the president for earlier approving high-tech sales to Iraq and providing Saddam Hussein with loan guarantees and intelligence reports.

Later, Gore campaigned against Republican economic policies in Maine and attended two private fund-raisers in Kennebunkport, where President Bush has a family home.

In Washington, AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland promised Clinton an "ironclad commitment to work for you in every state of the union."

Thunderous applause erupted as the International Brotherhood of Teamsters — which has backed Republican presidential candidates for 20 years — endorsed Clinton.

Fitzwater jokes about the press

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House went to unusual lengths Thursday to press its argument that the news media slants its campaign coverage in favor of Bill Clinton.

At the outset of his daily briefing for the White House press corps, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater held up for TV cameras two poster boards.

One said "The Incredible Shrinking Story."

The other showed, side by side, three New York Times stories on Bush-Clinton poll results. The first story, published Aug. 25 and showing Clinton with a 15 percentage point lead, was 25 paragraphs long. The second, on Aug. 31 and showing a 10-point Clinton lead, was five paragraphs.

And the third, published Thursday, showed the lead down to 5 points. It was one paragraph long.

Asked to respond to Fitzwater's display, Times spokeswoman Nancy Nielsen said the longest of the three stories cited by Fitzwater was based on a New York Times-CBS poll, while the two others were based on polls by other organizations.

Big, Bad Bryant

Young fulfills dream of playing in Chicago

By JENNY MARTEN
Associate Sports Editor

Graduation, Championships, Excellence and Improvement.

These are the goals inscribed on the wall in the Notre Dame football auditorium. These are the words that are supposed to remind the Irish football players what they should aspire to be. These are also the goals of junior defensive tackle Bryant Young.

"He's a guy that you picture when you talk about Notre Dame football," said Irish defensive line coach Mike Trgovac. "He's a nice young man, and outstanding football player and he works hard in the classroom."

A second-year starter, the Chicago Heights, Ill. native has attracted the attention of collegiate sportswriters who have slated Young for possible post-season honors. His quickness and strength have given him an edge over opposing players and earned him a starting position as a sophomore.

Trgovac feels that Young is well suited for his position on the defense.

"He has natural talent with a great work ethic. He's strong, quick and physical and just has a natural sense about the position," said Trgovac. "He has all the attributes that it takes to be a great defense lineman."

Those attributes have garnered Young the preseason accolades, but the junior remains unaffected.

"It is an honor for them to rank me as a preseason All-American candidate, but I need to block it out of my mind and just to perform to the best of what I can do. I have to work as a team and not as an individual," said Young.

He gave Irish fans a glimpse of what he was capable of last year despite an ankle injury. Young notched 11 tackles against Michigan and seven against Stanford. During an outstanding effort in the Purdue game, Young claimed nine tackles including two sacks as well as two fumble recoveries and a forced fumble.

Injury struck midway through the season when he cracked a bone in his left ankle in the Air Force game. The fracture kept him out of two games, but also did more serious damage.

"After the injury, I was not the same. I didn't have a lot of confidence in myself because of the ankle and I was hesitant to do some things in games," said Young.

After a solid set of spring and fall practices, Young is back at 100 percent and eager to start the new season. His coaches also feel that he is ready.

"I expect great things out of him this

The Observer/Jake Peters

Bryant Young should do plenty of celebrating in 1992 if he lives up to preseason expectations.

year. I'm looking for him to have a great year and I'm sure that he expects it too," said Trgovac.

"Bryant Young is one of the best football players in the country," said Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz. "He is among the best defensive linemen that I have been associated with."

With the defense temporarily without captain Demetrius DuBose and shorthanded due to injuries, someone has to step forward as lead the team. Some say Young might be that person. Young wants to lead the defense by example.

"I have to try to eliminate missed assignments and be a total player on the pass and on the run," said Young. "Before a game, I have to go over the defensive game plan and get it into my head that this is what I have to do."

The season opener this weekend provides Young, a Chicagoland prep standout to play close to home. In his days at Bloom Township High School, Young played both offense and defense as a tight end and as a defensive end. His achievements as a tight end were substantial enough to catch the eye of the Tennessee which recruited Young for that position, but he favored the aggressiveness of defensive play.

"On offense if you are too aggressive you can make mental errors. You have to be calm, but on defense you can go all out," said Young.

Young will be going all out against Northwestern with many of his friends and family members watching. The game at Soldier Field affords Young a rare opportunity to realize a dream.

"I have always visualized playing in Soldier Field in front of a large crowd," said Young. "I'm excited to be playing there. It's rare that you get to play where you live in front of a big hometown crowd."

The Chicago crowd will see an aggressive football player during the game, but not when time is expired. Young acknowledges that he has contrasting images on and off the field.

"On the field, I play hard and give it up on every play, but off the field I'm totally opposite. I'm kind of quiet and shy," said Young.

The Observer/John Bingham

Bryant Young falls on a fumble during last spring's Blue-Gold Game. Young, a junior, will anchor a shaky Irish defensive line this season.

Barnett looks to build another champion

By MIKE SCRUDATO
Sports Editor

There are a lot of obstacles facing first-year Northwestern coach Gary Barnett, but he has seen them all before. Barnett has already been a part of a program that rose from the ranks of conference also-rans to the national championship.

When he joined the Colorado coaching staff as running backs coach in 1984, the Buffaloes finished 1-10 and in seventh place in the Big Eight. Just six years later, they defeated Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl to capture the national title.

Barnett will now try to duplicate this feat as a head coach, but doing so will not be an easy process, and he recognizes that.

"When you take over a program that knows nothing but losing, the first thing you have to establish a good work ethic and instill confidence in your players," Barnett explained.

"From there you have to go out and get the players."

This is an area which Barnett was heralded for in his tenure at Colorado, and one which he intends to continue to excel in at Northwestern. He plans to go "all-out to recruit the Chicago area."

This could be tough because Northwestern has to compete against perennial Big Ten powers Illinois and Michigan, as well as, Notre Dame for Chicago's best. However, Barnett feels that his program has a lot to offer, both on and off the field.

"While recruiting, I'm telling them they are going to be the part of a new beginning, and they are going to be the ones that start to build something," the former Colorado offensive coordinator said. "Also, at Northwestern, they are going to get the best degree in Division I football."

It was Barnett's enthusiasm and recruiting ability that interested Bruce Corrie, Northwestern's Director of Athletics and Recreation, when he was looking for a new coach.

"We feel he understands what it takes to move our program in a positive winning direction," Corrie said. Getting the Wildcats going in that direction might not be as difficult as it would have been in the past. Barnett feels that recent NCAA legislation, including the reduction of scholarships per school, puts Northwestern in a better position.

"The NCAA is moving in the direction of Northwestern and similar schools (that) have long and outstanding academic traditions," Barnett stated. "There is more parity in college football today."

Despite Barnett's optimism, this could still be a long year for the Wildcats, who return ten starters from last season's 3-8 squad. In addition to its always-rugged Big Ten schedule, they travel to Boston College next Saturday and to Stanford in week three, following tomorrow's season opener against the Irish.

Even if Northwestern is crushed by Notre Dame, as most expect, its coach will not lose faith. Barnett realizes tomorrow's contest at Soldier Field is just the beginning of a long rebuilding process that will take time.

"You've got to keep things in perspective. (Notre Dame) is only one game, one brick in the foundation," Barnett explained.

"There are so many things that lead up to the game that I see it as the culmination of a week of work. It's a barometer for the program. After it, we'll know where we are and what will still have to do."

This will not be the first time Barnett has faced Notre Dame as a coach. While at Colorado, the Buffaloes met the Irish three times. In 1984, Barnett's first year in Boulder, the Gerry Faust-coached Irish beat Colorado 55-14. The teams faced each other again in both the 1990 and 1991 Orange Bowls. Notre Dame crushed the top-ranked Buffaloes, 21-6, in the first meeting, but Colorado prevailed in the rematch, 10-9.

Though Northwestern will feature a Colorado-type offensive attack, Barnett is not concerned with the fact that the Buffaloes averaged only eight points per game in the Orange Bowls.

"In those games, you had two great defenses on the field, and ultimately that is where the games were won," Barnett noted.

"I'm concerned with the future, not the past."

Overmatched 'Cats advantage is surprise

By RICH KURZ
Associate Sports Editor

Once upon a time, back in the Gerry Faust years when the present schedule was completed, Saturday's Northwestern-Notre Dame matchup might have seemed like a good idea.

Notre Dame, wasn't at the same level currently expected of it, and Northwestern felt it was a club on the way up. But a few years later, the contest looks like the biggest mismatch the Irish have played since Southern Methodist, fresh off of its NCAA death penalty, came into Notre Stadium.

Notre Dame is again challenging for the top spot in college football, and the Wildcats are still perennial doormats in the Big Ten, although things might be looking up for NU.

Northwestern is coming off a three-win season, highlighted by 17-11 victory over in-state rival Illinois. And the 'Cats have a new head coach in Gary Barnett, who comes to Evanston from the University of Colorado where he was the offensive coordinator.

The one great advantage Barnett has going into the season opener is that no one knows just what to expect from the Wildcat offense. Reports out of Northwestern indicate that new offensive coordinator Greg Meyer has installed a Miami/Washington style passing game, but with Barnett's wishbone experience in the Big Eight, Irish coaches have to prepare for many different looks.

"As a head coach and former offensive coordinator, it's hard to stay out of the offense. We've worked in the Colorado offensive system as camp has gone on," Barnett said.

The Wildcats quarterback, third-year starter Len Williams, completed 61 percent of his passes last season, throwing ten touchdowns and only six interceptions. As a former fullback, Williams has to be regarded as a threat to run the ball.

"He's a fine, shifty runner," Irish coach Lou Holtz said of Williams. "He has a quick release and a strong arm. He could be very dangerous."

It's a good thing he can run, because the inexperienced Northwestern offensive line may be in for a long day. Two linemen, Pat Norton and Matt O'Dwyer, have starting experience, but both are coming off of injuries. Even more striking is that the Wildcats' projected starter at center, Robert Johnson, is an untested sophomore. The 'Cats could be in trouble in the middle.

The leading rusher from last season, Dennis Lundy, who gained 568 yards on 142 carries, is featured in a one-back, two-tight end set.

Northwestern's other skill positions are equally bare. They will start two new wide receivers, one of whom, Patrick Wright, stands only 5-4, 159 lbs. The Irish secondary is the most experienced part of the defense, and Wildcat receivers will have a tough time getting the ball if the Notre Dame pass rush can dominate the young offensive line of the Wildcats.

The only question mark on defense for the Irish is at linebacker, where junior Pete Bercich is filling in while All-American Demetrius DuBose serves his NCAA-mandated two-game suspension for taking an illegal loan. If anything, this match-up will give Bercich a chance to get some game ex-

Vandalism of sculptures disappoints students

Dear Editor:

As a member of the intimate Liberal Arts community of Saint Mary's College I expect to be challenged intellectually and emotionally by my peers and professors on campus.

So far in my career here I have been quite satisfied and excited by the communication between students. I have found it to be a mature, respectful community.

Recently I have had to rethink my position. The reason for these thoughts is due to the vandalism incurred upon the sculptures by Chicago artist, Marcia Kaplan, placed on our school grounds.

I am now ashamed to admit to being part of an assembly that can only show its disapproval through vandalism.

I urge you to find an intelligent form of opposition if your views are dissimilar from the populous. Attend the lecture where Marcia will discuss her point of view on September 4 at 2 p.m. in Moreau Hall.

Write to schoolchildren in Chicago

Dear Editor:

I have just one question to ask you: Could you spare fifteen minutes (or less) per week to improve a child's life in the inner city of Chicago?

If so, please read on. If you do not have fifteen minutes a week in which to write a letter and improve the life and academic skills of some beautiful needful children, you may have your priorities out of order.

My name is Sean Scanlon (ND Class of 1991) and I am a teacher in the Chicago Archdiocese at Our Lady of the Westside School. We always hear quite a bit about the trauma and disarray of the inner city schools and the children in them and usually we respond by turning the channel. However, here is your chance to help and it might take you all of one hour each month.

I would like you to write letters to my kids and the other children in our school. This communication with caring people so far out of their realm who are able to show some loving concern for them as important children, could possibly provide the spark that so many be lacking and is extinguished so easily by the stifling inner city.

I would ask anyone who is interested to please write a note off to me today or tomorrow (or at least by Sept. 25th). Please write to: Write To Them, c/o Sean Scanlon, 3900 W. Lexington, Chicago, IL, 60624.

Please include your name, address, major, interests, the grade level of the child you would like (K-8) and also include a short statement (a paragraph, maybe) on what interests you in this program.

I will explain more about what would be appropriate contents of letters, who you will be matched with at what grade level, and other helpful advice for the special needs of our children.

I, along with many children, await your response. We can take as many students as can write to us, so please do today!

Notre Dame

By JEANNE BLASI
 Accent Writer

Chicago will be a city under siege this weekend, as Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students travel to Soldier Field in droves for the Irish's season-opener. With the following guide to the most popular food and entertainment establishments in and around the city, how could anyone pass up a roadtrip to the Notre Dame v. Northwestern game?

LINCOLN PARK—"Yuppie-ville"

Home of the Lincoln Park Zoo and several thousand ND alumni, this area is definitely a place to visit. At night, Lincoln Park transforms into a college town with hundreds of popular night spots.

Food:

•Gold Coast Dogs

2100 N. CLARK—418 N. State—325 S. Franklin

A great cheap place to eat featuring Chicago-style hot dogs. This fast food chain also has excellent char-broiled cheddar dogs, chili dogs, cheddar fries, and burgers. Open late for late night munchies or pre-game warmup.

•Ranalli's

1925 N. Lincoln

This pizza haven has a great outdoor patio to eat on. Great thin crust pizza and more than 100 imported beers. Decorated as a sports bar, it claims to be the favorite pizza of several celebrities. However, watch the food and beverage tab, it accumulates quickly.

•Bacino's

2204 N. Lincoln Avenue

This pizzeria serves great stuffed Chicago-style pizza that puts Edwardo's to shame. Conveniently located on one of Lincoln Park's most notorious bar strips, it is a great place to begin your evening.

•Potbelly's

2264 N. Lincoln

Located across the street from several of Lincoln Park's finest bars, these sandwiches rival Macri's in taste. If you're sick of pizza, or just want a sandwich to bring to the game, Potbelly's is the place to get one.

•Ann Sather's

929 W. Belmont

Cheap Breakfast and the best cinamon rolls on earth. Located between Wrigleyville and Lincoln Park.

Bars:

•Bamboo Bernie's

2247 N. Lincoln

One almost expects Jimmy Buffett to appear at this tropical haven. Sporting an indoor sand volleyball court and exotic drinks, this bar is definitely a hit. It is famous for "The Shark bite": a blue liquid hawaiian drink served in a fishbowl with a plastic souvenier shark. Extremely crowed on weekends, it's better if you go later in the evening. Open until 4 a.m. No cover.

•The Big Nasty

2242 N. Lincoln

A dive, but sports a second floor dance floor and upside-down Margarita chair. Expect to get doused in silly string and do plenty of jello shots on the first floor. (This bar is not known for stringent carding, though a '21' ID is required.)

•John Barleycorn

658 W. Belden (the corner of Lincoln and Belden)

Decorated like a classy English pub, this bar has a choice selection of imported beers, ales and cider (alcoholic apple juice) on tap. Conducive to intelligent conversation and with a great darts room, it serves good appetizers and food—try the cottage fries and a Snakebite.

•Deja Vu

2624 N. Lincoln

The host of Saturday night turtle races. A great bar to go to after hours—in fact, many gather here after their favorite taverns close. George Wendt appeared here one night last month. Open until 5 a.m.

•Jerry's

2274 N. Lincoln

Jerry's is an indoor-outdoor bar, weather permitting. It often has drink specials, and usually has no cover charge. Located across the street from Bamboo Bernie's, Jerry's is a great place to go to while waiting for the crowd's to thin out.

•Kelsey's

2275 N. Lincoln

This bar is similar to Jerry's in atmosphere, crowds, and beverages. Located across the street from Jerry's.

•Gamekeeper's

Tavern and Grill

1971 N.

Lincoln

A newfound hot-spot, it always has a line outside of the door. There is usually a cover charge as a result of the live music. If you do not like packed bars, don't go here.

•Red Lion Pub

2446 N.

Lincoln

Another English-style pub featuring imported beer, ciders, and ales on tap. This pub has good appetizers and dessert specials and great place to go and converse with friends.

•Otis'

2150 N. Halsted

A fun bar, located on another of Lincoln's popular night streets. One feels right at home in the company of hundreds of alumni Domers. featuring live entertainment, it is definitely a place to hang out.

•Glascot's Groggery

2158 N. Halsted

Similar to Otis' and located down the street, Glascot's has its own charm.

•The Store

2002 N. Halsted

A large bar composed of two rooms. It's most popular to go to with a group of people and is open until 4 a.m.

•McGee's

950 W. Webster

Another popular Domer and Chicago ND alumni hangout. You can expect to run into someone you know at this popular spot.

•Irish Eyes

2519 N. Lincoln Avenue

•Irish Times

2750 N. Halsted (just South of Diversey)

EAST SIDE

For these purposes, the East side consists of Michigan Pier and the Magnificent Mile. One of Chicago's most popular areas, it is home to hundreds of fast-food stores and restaurants. The best pizza in Chicago is found in this area. Don't miss the new six floor store on Michigan Avenue.

Food:

•Pizzeria Uno's

29 East Ohio

AND

•Pizzeria Due's

619 N. Wabash

Fabulous Chicago-style pizza. Though it is a chain, other cities, Chicago's restaurant has no competitors. These pizzerias serve the finest deep dish pizza in the country. Expect to go early or wait a long time for an outdoor waiting beer area.

•Gino's East

160 E. Superior

Though you can write on the walls all you want, it is only a close second to Uno's and Due's, though you would argue it to be number one. Expect to wait a long time outside with no refreshments.

•Ed Debevic's

640 N. Wells

A 1950s style diner, featuring meat sandwiches, hot dogs and apple pie. The food is good, but the wait is usually long. Waiters and waitresses are highly entertaining with their rude antics. staff caps the night off with a staff dance on the counters.

•Rock and Roll McDonalds

65 W. Ontario

Unlike any McDonald's you've ever seen, the 1950s decor and indoor cash station is a bonus. The food is the same, but the atmosphere is great and it's open and busy 24 hours a day. And it is, as always, open 24 hours.

•Hard Rock Cafe

63 W. Ontario

If you've seen one, you've seen them all.

expensive Italian restaurant.

Italy as you can get. Entrees run from $9 to $11 for a frequent this place when in town. You'll recognize Scoozi by the big red tomato outside.

Unfortunately they take no

•Tucci Benucci
900 N. Michigan

A cheaper, less crowded version of Scoozi, located on the upper floor of the Bloomingdales mall. The food is excellent and the atmosphere is quieter.

Bars:
•Dick's Last Resort

435 E. Illinois (North Pier)

Ironically located underneath the infamous Baja Beach Club, this bar is definitely on top. Dick's decor is reminiscent of a German pub with its long wooden tables and random assortment of mismatched
chairs. This bar features live jazz and blues, paper hats, and great drink specials (you can keep the souvenir

•Baja Beach Club
401 E. Illinois (North Pier)

If you like a crowded bar and dance floor, and lots of cheese and sleaze, this club is the place for you.
Featuring a kaliedoscope, in which drunken fools are haphazardly spun up, down, and all around into oblivion, and string bikini clad women soliciting beer from their bathtubs, the Baja is a well-known name.

•Excalibur
632 N. Dearborn

Excalibur is another name most have heard. This bar draws a large assortment of tourists, complete with cameras, from ages 18-55. One redeeming quality of this bar is its large game room located in the basement, and the pool hall on the first floor, which usually features a live band. After paying a $5 to $10 cover charge, one may proceed to the second floor, which boasts a three-story dance palace.
Women, be sure to come with an escort to this dance room. Unfortunately, the music is overpowering and is all played at the same tempo. This bar does is not an accurate sampling of Chicago nightlife.

RUSH AND DIVISION

This is one of Chicago's most popular areas.
Unfortunately it is also more expensive, touristy, and dangerous. Keep your wallet in check because one of Chicago's most dangerous housing projects is only a few blocks away. But, never fear, because police, equipped with paddy wagons are always on the street—and they mean business. Hot heads should choose another area to party in.

Bars:
•Alumni Club
15 W. Division

The first floor is a sports bar and grill while the second floor, with a large dance floor, requires a cover charge. This bar even has an official Notre Dame 1972 Championship banner. The appetizers and food are good, but not cheap.

•Mother's
26 W. Division

This bar is absolutely nothing like the bar depicted in the movie "About Last Night." It is located in the basement and is more of a club than anything else, with its huge dance floor and loud dance music.

•Shennanigans
22 W. Division

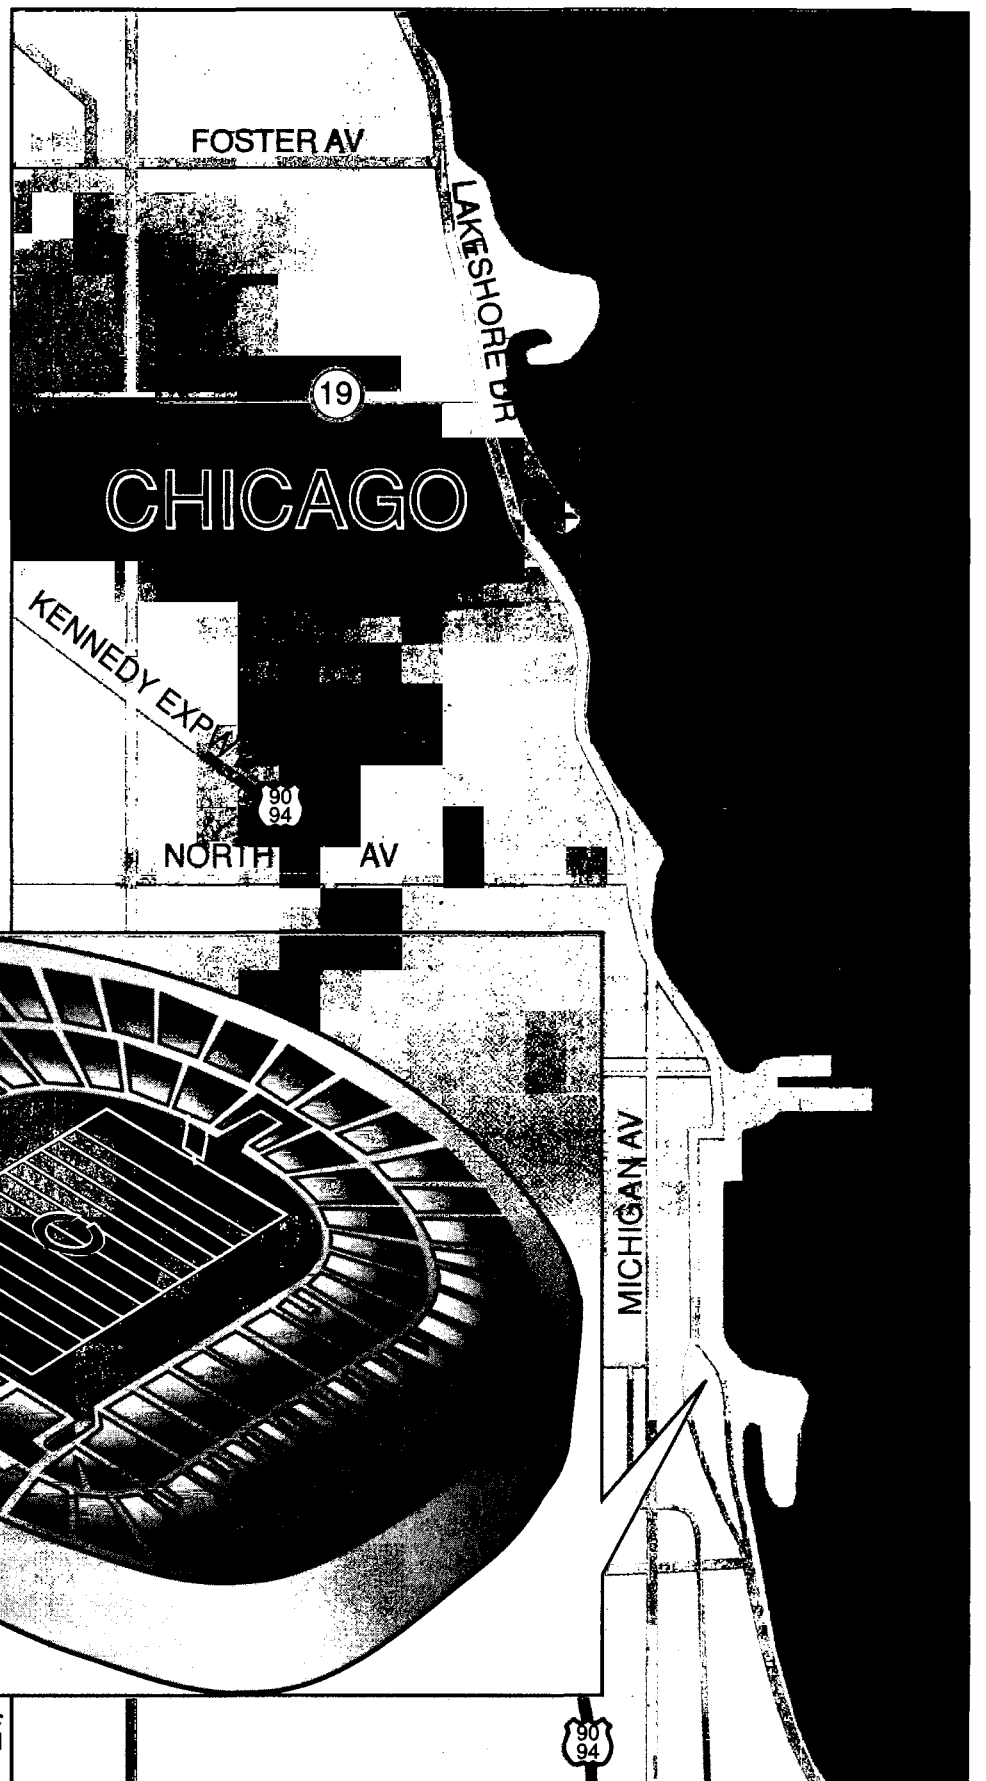

A typical Rush Street bar, complete with tourists. It would be fun to hang out in with a large group of people. No cover charge.

•The Hangge Uppe
14 W. Elm

Located around the block from the Alumni Club, this bar has two floors and a dance floor. But, be prepared to slow dance often, this dee-jay prefers slow to fast music.

•Kronie's

Located two blocks south of division, Kronie's is a classier version of Bridget's or the Commons. Any Domer would feel at home at this bar. One asset is the strange upside-down margarita area located at the bar. Newly expanded, Kronie's is a great place to 'hang out,' but be sure to sample the other nearby bars in this area to get a true taste of Chicago night life.

Comedy:

•Second City Mainstage or Ect. (be sure to specify)
616 N. Wells (312) 337-3992

This infamous comedy club was the starting place for many famous actors such as John Belushi, George Wendt, and the list goes on. Featuring two shows, one at 7:30 p.m., and one at 11p.m, however, reservations are necessary, so call ahead and reserve. Tickets run from $10 to $12.

WRIGLEYVILLE

This area is the home of Wrigley Field, which it derived its name from.

•Slugger's World Class and Co.

A huge sports bar with lots of TVs. Cubs' fans frequent this bar. Located a block from Wrigley field.

Looking for the Messiah in an election year

President Bush, says New York magazine, spent the summer hunting down metaphors that can describe his quest for re-election.

Reaching back into history for archetypes of the beleaguered hero, he delivered this gem to an audience of lawyers in Colorado Springs: "Remember the old story of the fierce gladiator? He'd killed every lion that they could throw up against him...So one day, the centurions went to Carthage, and found the meanest lion in the world.

They'd buried the gladiator in the arena there in Rome...so just his head was sticking out...The lion was released, charged him, making a deadly pass at the gladiator's head. And as he did, the gladiator reached up and took a very ferocious bite in a very sensitive place in the lion's anatomy. And the lion howled in pain and ran for the exit...And the lead centurion ran out, attacked the gladiator, screaming, "Fight fair, damn it! Fight fair!"

Allegedly, Swinburne's bride told her spouse on their wedding night, "You've got to do more than bite, Algie dear" Biting, in her mind, does not consummate a marriage; neither does it, in my mind, create the image of the President, the soon-to-be lame duck, as "the Come Back Kid."

Bush keeps comparing himself to Harry Truman who won the 1948 election, though he was behind in the polls, by "giving 'em hell" on his whistle-stop tours. Unlike Bush, Harry was feisty, and those who badmouthed him never called him a wimp.

Father Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

The nation gave Bush his chance to kick ass during the Persian Gulf War, and now we need a kinder, gentler president to turn on some of those thousand points of light he promised us.

To tell the truth, I wish we could find the Messiah, and elect him president; or maybe we could elect a righteous Jew, credible as a man of sorrows, acquainted with grief.

Do I mean this literally, or am I using a metaphor? For what I have in mind, I doubt that a Gentile Christian would fit the bill. Dan Quayle is a Gentile Christian presently barnstorming the bible belt, where the born-again stay drunk on cheap grace. (I grew up attending the same kinds of church that Dan Quayle, so he says, attended every Sunday.)

There's much more to the Gospel than the battle cry, "Jesus saves," heard at revivals. Churches that apply all their zeal to saving souls from the everlasting bonfire and the never-dying worm, tend to suffer from tunnel vision; in doing so, they short-change the glory of God. The Jews have a faith as old as Genesis that has survived every trial it has faced.

The rabbinical tradition is rich and wise with insights from a religion that has a mission to be sensitive to sorrowing innocence, God's passion for justice, and the cries of the poor. Candidates in need of balms from Gilead that can help heal the wounds of their countrymen might be wise to listen more to the people of the Holocaust than to Jerry Falwell and Pat Robertson.

The Christian churches are quick to take advantage of an election, lining up candidates that they can use as "gophers," expected to cater to a denomination's priorities. The tail seems to be wagging the dog in every direction when religion turns a human tragedy like abortions into a litmus test separating the sheep from the goats.

For nearly forty years, I've been a priest - traditional, conservative and orthodox across the board - though when it comes to optional things, I'm too old to lie to myself.

Operation Rescue, it seems to me, does so much more harm than it does good. It is a betrayal of Pro-life. Why should any Catholic couple feel that it is the love of Christ which inspires them to shove a crucifix into the face of a woman on her way to an abortion, to stop her short as though she were a vampire?

Yet I don't care in the least for abortions, and I pity the poor woman who chooses destruction for her unborn child. But I don't pity the stormtroopers who picket abortion clinics, using their bodies as barriers. Maybe I should, since I suspect that many of them provoke confrontations as a way of battling the demons robbing them of peace.

God help the candidate that says abortion should be a woman's choice, and God help the candidate who hesitates to say abortion isn't murder. Compassion could rip the soul out of a candidate forced to decide between what seems to him a rock and a hard place, when in his conscience, he's not at home or at peace with either.

I don't support "Catholics for a Free Choice", but the ad they run in the newspapers almost persuades me. NOBODY WANTS TO HAVE AN ABORTION, they claim, with each word lined up singly, to run down the page. Between each line is a line of text that says: "Picture a world where mothers have easy access to childcare they can afford. Where children can count on a good education no matter what school district they live in. Where people have healthcare whether or not they have a job. Where safe birth control is available to everyone who needs it. In this world, abortion is not illegal. It's unheard of. Isn't that the best choice of all?"

A candidate should be able to campaign on his promise to work for the world we are promised in the American Dream. Why are abortions needed? According to the advocates of Pro-choice, they are needed because babies are having babies. Because mothers in slum neighborhoods are afraid to bring children into a world that will destroy them at a young age. Because a fatherless child has three strikes against him.

No candidate could claim he has the credentials of a miracle-worker, able to make the streets safe for the widow and her orphans, and for the hard-luck kid, born to lose. But at this point of time, the abortion mills will continue to be a part of the American way until the Messiah comes to put them out of business. Doesn't every young hopeful entering politics have ambitions of becoming the Messiah?

Bush, identifying himself with the ferocious gladiator, didn't tell us the rest of the story. According to myth, the lion you've been kind to will return the favor, if given the chance; and so, when the wounded lion eventually caught up with the gladiator, he figured that turnabout is fair play. Biting the gladiator in sensitive place of his anatomy, the lion watched the fierceness draining out of him until he was as meek as Gus, the theater cat down at the Wimpole. Seeing him grow timid like the cat whom the theater mice mocked, the centurions started calling him Wimpole, or sometimes the Wimp. Hearing them, the gladiator would beg them to play fair with an old gladiator who had a battle scar, and could prove it.

I wonder if Mr. President, using metaphors, understands how far they can be pushed?

A lot has changed for the Notre Dame offense since the Sugar Bowl.

Lou Holtz isn't in direct control of the offense this year. His son Skip is the unit's new coordinator.

Gone are stars like Mirko Jurkovic, Tony Smith, Derek Brown and Gene McGuire. Several young players will try to fill their enormous shoes this season.

In the Irish backfield, Jerome Bettis is back in all of his brutal glory, but any tailback equal to Tony Brooks and Rodney Culver has yet to prove his worth.

But throughout changes and questions, quarterback Rick Mirer has remained a steadying influence in the Irish offense.

After leading Notre Dame to a 10-3 record in 1991, Mirer passed up the NFL's megadollars in order to take another shot at the national championship which has eluded him in his first two years as the Irish starting signal-caller.

Upon returning to Notre Dame, Mirer became the focal point of all talk about the 1992 Irish squad. But Mirer has found that the pressure and responsibility of being a senior, a captain and a quarterback at Notre Dame have not slowed him down.

"As a quarterback, I hope that I was already a leader," he said. "My job on the field doesn't change very much this season, except that I have to learn to call the coin toss."

Mirer was able to produce in every respect last season, throwing for 2,117 yards and 18 touchdowns, while dealing effectively with season-long speculation about his future with Notre Dame.

Over the winter, former Irish quarterback Tom Clements was brought in as a coach for Mirer and his protégés, Kevin McDougal and Paul Failla.

Clements, who led Notre Dame to a national title in 1973, is the sixth-leading passer in Irish history, only eight completions ahead of the quarterback he coaches.

"It's good having a guy that's been in our (quarterbacks') position," said Mirer of Clements, who twice led Notre Dame to wins over Alabama on New Year's Day. "He's proved himself as a player."

Clements was also a success in the professional football arenas of the Canadian Football League, where he led Ottawa and Winnipeg to Grey Cup titles in 1976 and 1984, respectively.

But despite speculation that Clements was brought in as a professional mentor for Mirer, the young gun maintains that the old pro is simply his coach.

"Right now, he (Clements) is just trying to help me with things at this level," Mirer said. "He has been in the position where he could call his own plays and run his own game, but I'm still a part of this system."

Under Lou Holtz, the Notre Dame system includes a tough running game bolstered by efficient and errorless passing. With questions about the Irish tailback position, some fans hope to see Mirer air it out this season.

"I don't know if we're going to throw the ball any more," said Mirer. "But last year, we were scoring 30 or 40 points a game without throwing that much. Our job is to score points. It doesn't matter how."

The Observer/John Rock

Quarterback Rick Mirer, one of the Notre Dame co-captains this season, hopes to continue in his role as the leader of the Irish in 1992, despite multiple offensive changes.

Matchups

perience before the Michigan game.

The other side of the ball is where Northwestern will have its most headaches. Two of the three starters on the Wildcat defensive line return, but their linebacking corps is suspect. Six-foot-three, 240 pound outsider backer Jason Cunningham has the bulk to compete with the Irish, but the other three linebackers weigh 228, 218, and 215 pounds, significantly less than Notre Dame fullback Jerome Bettis, who weighs in at 247 pounds. If the Irish offensive line can punch holes through the NU line, Bettis and the Irish will run wild.

Northwestern opponents ran for an average of 169 yards per game last season, while the Irish averaged 269 ypg, so despite promises to pass the ball more this season, Notre Dame quarterback Rick Mirer doesn't really need to do anything other than handoff for his team to win, although some injuries to the offensive line will concern the Irish.

Starting guard Todd Norman injured his knee in practice Monday, and will be out for at least four weeks. In the meantime, the starting job will most likely go to back-up center Lance Johnson, a senior, or possibly sophomore Mark Zataveski.

"Johnson looks good at right guard, but he just hasn't been there long," said Holtz. "Johnson has never had the opportunity to start. I'd like to give him it, but if it doesn't work, we're also pleased with Mark Zataveski."

Left tackle Lindsay Knapp broke his big toe at practice Tuesday, but his status is unknown for Saturday. Another injured player will return for the game, however. Second-string tight end Oscar McBride, who broke his jaw in last Friday's scrimmage, has been cleared to play.

The strong point of the Northwestern defense is its secondary, which boasts two returning starters at the corners. Anthony Purkett is only five-foot-eight, 170 pounds, but is a tough coverman, while Willie Lindsay was a second-team all-Big 10 selection last season. His seven interceptions put him among the nation's leaders in 1991, when he also registered three touchdown-saving tackles.

Both of the safeties are new starters, but Greg Gill, at free safety, had plenty of playing time last year, so the Irish receivers and Mirer will get an early challenge.

Special teams play will be a key point for the Irish this season, and it will be worth watching on Saturday. Kicker/punter Craig Hentrich is recovering from off-season reconstructive knee surgery and while he has made excellent progress in practice, he has yet to kick in a game.

Clint Johnson cemented his position as kick-returner with a run for a TD versus Hawaii last season, and he will get a chance to perform for a full season at that position. Jeff Burris has been given the punt returning responsibilities, but do not be surprised to see Mike Miller field a few. Miller was expected to challenge for the position last year before he left school. Miller returned for the spring semester and has played well in practice, giving him the chance to contribute to the team.

All in all, while Barnett has tried to instill a positive approach in his Wildcats, perhaps the most they can hope for is to shed the "Mildcat" moniker opposing fans have stuck them with for the past few seasons.

The Irish have superior talent at every position on the field, and are expected to cruise to an easy victory Saturday, in front of what amounts to nearly a home-field advantage at Soldier Field, where the Irish are 7-0-2 overall.

Maybe somewhere down the line the Wildcats will be able to compete with the Notre Dame, but that day hasn't arrived just yet.

KEEP YOUR EYES ON...

LEN WILLIAMS

JASON CUNNINGHAM

LEE GISSENDANER

FRANK BOUDREAUX

DENNIS LUNDRY

The senior quarterback has started every game of the two previous seasons. Williams completed nearly 62 percent of his passes last season including ten for touchdowns.

Senior outside linebacker Cunningham is the Wildcats top returning sack man. Last season, he notched six quarterback sacks for a total of 75 yards as well as nine tackles for losses of 84 yards.

Junior split end Gissendaner finished second on the team in receptions last year catching 19 passes for 234 yards and two touchdowns. This season he is the top returning receiver for the Wildcats.

Senior defensive tackle started all 11 games for the Wildcats last season and should provide strength and experience to the defensive line. Boudreaux led the defensive line with 39 tackles including 22 solo stops.

Sophomore running back returns after a standout freshmen campaign. Lundry led the Wildcat rushing crew with 586 yards on 142 carries. He is considered the top Northwestern returnee in the backfield.

Soldier Field: An ancient battleground

Irish have long history in Bears' home stadium

By MIKE SCRUDATO
Sports Editor

One would think that opening the season at Soldier Field in front of a sellout crowd made up mostly Notre Dame fans, alumni and students would please Irish coach Lou Holtz.

However, Holtz is bothered by the site of tomorrow's season opener. He would rather be playing at Notre Dame Stadium.

"I don't know too much about Soldier Field. We'll see it on Friday for the first time." - Lou Holtz

"Whenever you're playing away from home, it is not an advantage," the seventh-year coach commented. "I don't like to open on the road, but that's a part of coaching."

Twice before in the Holtz era the Irish have opened the season on the road. In 1987, they topped Michigan, 26-7, in Ann Arbor, and two years later at the Kickoff Classic in Giants Stadium, Notre Dame crushed Virginia, 36-13.

Notre Dame is 5-1 in season openers under Holtz, the lone defeat came at the hands of third-ranked Michigan, 24-23, in 1986, Holtz's first season at Notre Dame.

This season's opener will be the first time the Irish have played at Soldier Field since a 13-13 tie with Great Lakes in 1942 and their first appearance in the Chicagoland area since their last meeting with Northwestern, a 48-0 Irish whitewashing, in 1976 at Dyche Stadium, the home field of the Wildcats.

"I don't know too much about Soldier Field," Holtz said. "We'll see it on Friday for the first time."

"I'm not sure if we'll even park the bus. We may just look at it while we're stuck in traffic. That's one of the advantages of playing in a big city."

Though Holtz does not know too much about the home of the Chicago Bears, some of his most famous predecessors were very familiar with it.

Four of Knute Rockne's six national championship teams won games in Soldier Field, one of which, the 1929 squad, which was forced to play all of its games outside of South Bend because of the construction of Notre Dame Stadium.

This team was 3-0 at Soldier Field, including a dramatic 13-12 victory over USC in front of a crowd of 112,912.

One member of this team was Frank Leahy, who would become Notre Dame's head coach in 1941 and lead the Irish to five national titles over the next 13 seasons.

In his time at the helm of Notre Dame, Leahy compiled an incredible 87-11-9 record.

Northwestern has also played a number of games at Soldier Field over the years, but its coach Gary Barnett shares Holtz's uneasy feelings about the neutral site, and he is more concerned with the opponent than the site.

"This is going to be my first game as head coach of Northwestern," the former Colorado assistant said. "We can't worry where we are, we just have to go out and play the game."

The 1929 Fighting Irish won the national championship with an undefeated record, including three wins at Soldier Field while Notre Dame Stadium was under construction.

NCAA football season to kick off despite setbacks and controversies

Injuries, indictments and Hurricane Andrew have taken their toll on Miami, the NCAA has taken Notre Dame's best defensive player, and burglary charges against quarterback Garrick McGee have taken away Arizona State's only hope against Washington.

When the nation's top three college football teams open their seasons Saturday, it won't exactly be business as usual.

Top-ranked Miami, which moved its practices to Vero Beach following Hurricane Andrew, will be missing its best runner and receiver when it visits No. 23 Iowa. Fullback Stephen McGuire still hasn't fully recovered from knee surgery and receiver Lamar Thomas, recently indicted in a financial aid scandal, is sidelined until his court case is resolved.

Injuries have also riddled Miami's offensive line, which will have only one returning starter. But the Hurricanes are still a two-touchdown favorite over the Hawkeyes, who were beaten 24-14 by North Carolina State in the Kickoff Classic.

"They call this place 'Quarterback U.' and 'Defensive Line U.' You can also call it 'Adversity U.," defensive end Rusty Medearis said.

Arizona State is down to fourth-string quarterback Troy Rauer against No. 2 Washington because of McGee's suspension. He was suspended Tuesday after being charged with burglary, and it was decided Thursday that the suspension would stand at least through the weekend.

Even with McGee, the Sun Devils would have a tough time against Washington, which went 12-0 last season and shared the national championship with Miami.

The Huskies have so much talent that their backup quarterback, Mark Brunell, was the 1991 Rose Bowl MVP.

In other Top 25 games Saturday, it's Duke at No. 4 Florida State; No. 7 Texas A&M at LSU; No. 8 Penn State at Cincinnati; Vanderbilt at No. 9 Alabama; No. 10 Syracuse at East Carolina; Utah at No. 11 Nebraska; Colorado State at No. 12 Colorado; Ball State at No.

13 Clemson; No. 14 Georgia at South Carolina; Louisville at No. 17 Ohio State; Appalachian State at No. 18 N.C. State; San Jose State at No. 19 California; No. 21 Mississippi St. at Texas; Southwestern Louisiana at No. 22 Tennessee; and Maryland at No. 25 Virginia.

On Thursday night, No. 15 Oklahoma played at Texas Tech.

Florida State starts the season with a new quarterback and a new conference.

The Seminoles, a former independent, are favored to win the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Penguins search for coach, expected to sign Barrasso

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Penguins may be ready to replace the winningest coach in NHL history with one of the losingest coaches from their own not-always-splendid past.

Eddie Johnston, seemingly a forgotten relic of bad Penguins hockey of days gone by, has emerged as the top — and, maybe, only — candidate to replace Scotty Bowman as coach of the two-time Stanley Cup champions.

Johnston, whose coaching record is the third-worst in Penguins history, has agreed in principle to a three-year contract that would pay him $275,000, $300,000 and $300,000, according to sources close to the team.

His hiring could come as early as this week, though Penguins general manager Craig Patrick and Johnston still were trying to iron out contract language.

Johnston was fired last spring as the general manager of the Hartford Whalers, a position he had held since May 1989. He took the Whalers' job one year after being replaced by Tony Esposito as the Penguins general manager. Johnston fulfilled the last year of his contract by serving as Esposito's assistant.

Patrick identified Bowman as his only coaching candidate several months ago, but the two sides were unable to reach an agreement following prolonged negotiations. The Penguins and Bowman were about $50,000 a year apart on a multi-year contract when talks broke off last month.

Patrick has refused to comment on the negotiations.

Faced with a limited field of candidates and with training camp about to start, Pittsburgh apparently turned to Johnston, who hasn't coached since 1982-83. His Penguins were an NHL-worst 18-53-9 that season.

His 79-126-35 record (.402) from 1980-83 is the third worst among the 13 coaches in Penguins history, ahead of only Red Sullivan (47-79-24) and Lou Angotti (16-58-6). However, the Penguins did make the playoffs twice in Johnston's three seasons and he also made the single-most-important personnel move in the franchise's 25-year history by drafting Mario Lemieux in 1984.

Johnston was the Penguins' general manager for five seasons beginning in May 1983, when he succeeded the late Baz Bastien. Besides drafting Lemieux, he engineered the 1987 trade for All-Star defenseman Paul Coffey.

"He's a good guy, a good coach," said Lemieux, an 18-year-old star in Canadian junior hockey when Johnston made him the NHL's top draft choice.

Johnston's friendly relationship with Lemieux is viewed by the Penguins as a positive, especially considering Bowman's often-combative dealings with his players.

Meanwhile, the Penguins are expected to announce today that goaltender Tom Barrasso, who was in the option year of his contract, has agreed to a three-year deal worth about $5.2 million. Barrasso had threatened not to report to training camp next week without a new contract.

The Penguins also plan to confirm the signing of free-agent forward Dave Tippet, formerly of the Washington Capitals.

Tippet, 31, had two goals and 10 assists in 30 games last season and would help the Penguins fill the void left by the retirement of centers Bryan Trottier and Jiri Hrdina.

The Penguins also must replace Phil Bourque, a defense-minded forward who played a valuable role on their two Stanley Cup championship teams. Bourque was paid $160,000 last season, but will make about $2 million over four years with the New York Rangers.

Patrick told the New York Daily News the decision not to pursue Bourque was an economic one. The Penguins' payroll, the third-highest in the league, is expected to grow substantially due to Barrasso's contract and ongoing negotiations on multi-year contracts with Lemieux and Jaromir Jagr.

"We signed Dave Tippet, who is a similar-type player (to Bourque) and we've got Shawn McEachern, who can play center, left wing or right wing and who may have similar speed," Patrick said.

Belichick prepares for Colts

Browns' coach will meet his mentor, Marchibroda

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Seventeen years ago Bill Belichick was delighted to earn $25 a week learning from Ted Marchibroda. On Sunday, the Cleveland coach will match wits with his former tutor.

"I'll be forever grateful to Ted for giving me an opportunity in the National Football League," said Belichick.

He was a 23-year-old with no coaching experience when Marchibroda hired him as a special assistant with the then-Baltimore Colts.

That year, the Colts overcame a 1-4 start to finish 10-4 and win the AFC East championship. Belichick, now in his second year coaching the Cleveland Browns, left after that year to become assistant coach at Detroit, Denver and the New York Giants.

While with the Giants, Belichick coordinated their defense, which led them to victories in Super Bowl XXI and Super Bowl XXV.

"It was a thrilling year for me. Professionally, it was a great experience to be able to really live with Ted, go to work with him daily and his staff," Belichick said Wednesday in a teleconference. "It was a tremendous learning experience."

"It's a year that I'll never forget."

Belichick and Marchibroda developed respect for each other in Baltimore.

"I didn't really care if I got anything. I just wanted the opportunity," Belichick recalled.

"After a couple of weeks, I found out that I was doing such a good job that I got a raise to $50. ... They told me not to spend it all in one place. By the time they took out taxes and everything, there really wasn't much."

Belichick said he didn't need much since the club provided a hotel room, he rode to and from practice with Marchibroda and the coaching staff frequently fed him.

"The hours that we were putting in, I really didn't have time for anything else and really didn't want to do anything else," he said.

"He was a worker," Marchibroda said. "When I gave him some work, he never questioned it and he always brought it back complete. He was one of those guys who would do whatever it takes."

Marchibroda isn't surprised that Belichick has become a head coach.

"I'm very happy for Bill's success and I'm also very happy for the way he achieved it," Marchibroda said.

"He worked very hard. He didn't step on anybody's toes, always stayed in the background and when the opportunity came he was prepared for it," the Colts head coach commented.

The Browns defeated Indianapolis 31-0 in December during a season in which the Colts finished 1-15.

This lead to the return of Marchibroda who has been an assistant since the Colts fired him following the 1979 NFL season.

Belichick expects things to be much tougher Sunday when both teams open their season.

"Offensively, it's a whole new look," he said of the system Marchibroda has installed. "The biggest change that I notice in the Colts is the attitude they have. I think Ted's done a great job generating a lot of enthusiasm."

"You can see the players are playing hard; they're playing with confidence."

Oilers do not know which Steeler team they will face

HOUSTON (AP) — It appears the Houston Oilers are playing four teams in Sunday's opener in the Astrodome.

While the Pittsburgh Steelers will be the only opponent on the field, film canisters labeled Pittsburgh, Kansas City, New Orleans and New York Giants littered the Oilers meeting rooms all week. Coach Jack Pardee and his staff were trying to figure out what the Steelers' melting pot of coaches will throw at them.

"We're guessing," quarterback Warren Moon admitted. "They have a secondary coach that was with Cincinnati. They have a coordinator that was with New Orleans and then they have a coordinator for a head coach who was with Kansas City."

The Oilers, 4-1 in the exhibition season and favorites to win their second straight AFC Central title, expect to solve the mystery by Sunday's kickoff.

"We're getting a little combination of all three of those, so we're seeing how those three teams played us and then try to prepare that way," Moon said.

It's a sign of the changing times in Pittsburgh.

Gone is trap-happy Chuck Noll and in his place is Bill Cowher, Kansas City's defensive coordinator last year.

Cowher has assembled a staff that includes defensive coordinator Dom Capers, former defensive backs coach at New Orleans, and defensive backs coach Dick LeBeau, Cincinnati's defensive coordinator the past eight seasons.

The new offensive coordinator is Ron Erhardt, assistant head coach for the Giants last season.

Cowher will give the Oilers a hint. He'll do something different from 1990, when he tried to slow the Oilers' run-and-shoot as the Chiefs' defensive coordinator.

"We won't use the same scheme we did two years ago when Warren was passing for 500 yards," Cowher said.

Moon threw for 527 yards in a 27-10 victory that was the second best passing performance in NFL history behind Los Angeles' Norm Van Brocklin's 554 yards in 1951.

If the Steelers are causing the Oilers problems, the Oilers' run-and-shoot is giving Cowher headaches.

"It's become a part of the NFL; it's a different identity," Cowher said. "It's an offense you have to prepare for now with Detroit and Atlanta also running the four wide receivers."

The Steelers won't have any recognition problems with the Oilers offense or defense.

Moon established NFL records with 404 completions on 655 passing attempts last year and he led the NFL with 4,690 passing yards, the third time in NFL history a quarterback had consecutive 4,000-yard performances. He joins Miami's Dan Marino and San Diego's Dan Fouts.

Haywood Jeffires became the fifth receiver in NFL history to catch 100 passes last season. He's joined by Ernest Givins and Curtis Duncan, while Leonard Harris will replace Drew Hill, a Plan B loss to Atlanta.

Montana questions Niners moves

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Quarterback Joe Montana says he wants to play. If he can't, he says he may leave the 49ers.

"I would rather go to another team and be able to play. I think it's just a natural reaction for a competitor," Montana said. "Show me somebody who likes to be on the bench and I'll show you someone who is always on the bench."

Montana is on the injured reserve because of recurring arm trouble and won't play the first four 49ers games of the season. Instead, Steve Young will start. Montana said he has nothing against Young, the first to take the starting job from Montana since 1981.

"It has nothing to do with my contract, the 49ers or Steve," Montana said.

Montana claims no one from the team watched him throw before he was put on the IR.

49ers owner Eddie DeBartolo Jr. said he thought Montana's reaction was natural.

"Some people would criticize him for being so stubborn and unrealistic about coming back," said DeBartolo. "How can you criticize the very same inner drive that makes him the great quarterback that he is? That's just Joe. You got to love him."

Montana, who will earn $3 million this season, underwent elbow surgery in October. He threw normally at 49ers minicamps in May and June, but was sidelined Aug. 1 when his arm became inflamed.

Montana said he was first told he was going to be placed on the injured reserve last Thursday, then asked if he would make an appearance in a preseason game against the Seattle Seahawks on Friday. Montana was officially placed on the IR on Tuesday.

"I can't imagine why they wanted me to go out and make a little ceremonial appearance," he said. "For what? If I can't get ready for the regular season, why jeopardize myself in an exhibition game."

Montana did not suit up for the game, but did throw 35 15-yarders to backup Steve Bono about an hour before. He said he was encouraged by the tosses.

"The arm felt great, better than it did going to training camp," he told the San Francisco Examiner. "I couldn't help but think that it would have been good to rejoin practice on Monday."

But Montana can't practice with the team until the fourth game. Until then, he will throw four times a week with conditioning coach Jerry Attaway to assistant trainer Ray Tufts.

Rookie Lindros becomes the highest-paid player in NHL

TORONTO (AP) — Eric Lindros hasn't played an NHL game but the Philadelphia Flyers rookie is already at the top of one category — the salary list.

Lindros has a base salary of $3 million for 1992-93 and will also receive a $3-million signing bonus spread evenly in $500,000 payments over six years, giving him a salary of $3.5 million for this season.

Lindros stands to make even more because his contract calls for individual bonuses and salary revisions based on the bonuses.

The figure and information is contained in a salary survey compiled by the NHL Players' Association, a copy of which was obtained by The Canadian Press.

Lindros stands to make 100 times more than Steve Junker of the New York Islanders should Junker wind up in the minors. Junker, Lindros's teammate at the 1992 world junior hockey championships, has base salary of $145,000 if he skates in the NHL and $30,000 if he is sent down.

Lindros's salary makes him the top dollar earner in the NHL, moving him past Wayne Gretzky at $3 million and Mark Messier at $2.385 million.

However, few people doubt The Great One will be No. 2 for long. It's believed that Los Angeles Kings owner Bruce McNall has an unwritten promise that Gretzky will never trail in the salary race.

One player who saw the list was shocked by what Lindros will earn.

"I thought, 'Wow,'" said Steve Yzerman of the Detroit Red Wings, who received $1.5 million last season. "It seemed like there were a lot of threes and a lot of zeros."

Yzerman said the Flyers may have opened the door to higher salaries by signing Lindros to such a lucrative deal.

"In a sense, Eric was a free agent because every team in the league had a shot at him," Yzerman said earlier this week. "It shows you what kind of dollars a player can make if there was free agency in this league. Down the line, it will affect a lot of players, I'm sure."

Lindros isn't the only recent addition to the millionaires' club.

Defenseman Dave Manson of the Edmonton Oilers will earn $1.1 million this season and next, while his paycheck jumps to $1.2 million in 1994-95 and 1995-96.

Rugged forward Brendan Shanahan of the St. Louis Blues, a 33-goal scorer in 1991-92, has a base salary of $1 million and a $390,000 signing bonus for a $1.390 total for 1992-93.

Veteran defenseman Mark Howe of the Detroit Red Wings will make $1.05 million based on a salary of $700,000 and signing bonus of $350,000.

Goalie Tom Barrasso signed a five-year deal worth a reported $6.5 million on Thursday. New York Rangers goalie John Vanbiesbrouck signed a three-year deal Wednesday for $1 million a year.

freshmen competing to fill the final three spots.

Sunday's match will give fans a look at the future of college soccer. Coach John Rennie's Blue Devils will feature as many as eight underclassmen in the starting lineup, and the Irish started eight sophomores and a freshman in last weekend's exhibition.

Notre Dame is concentrating on UCLA, however, and will worry about Duke on Sunday.

"We're concerned with the first game," Berticelli explained. "We'll see Duke the night before and we'll make the adjustments that need to be made, but we're taking it one game at a time."

Not too many adjustments appear to be necessary for the 20th-ranked Irish.

Inexperience caused some defensive lapses against the Hoosiers, but the offense returns the bulk of last season's firepower.

Senior Kevin Pendergast and junior Mike Palmer both shifted from midfield to defense during the preseason and they're still learning the ropes.

"We're trying to improve our defense, but it's the kind of thing that takes time," Berticelli said. "We're also trying some things that will make us more dangerous on attack."

With last year's two leading scorers Jean Joseph and Tim

Oates returning, the Irish are already a dangerous offensive team. And the addition of freshmen Bill Lanza, Virginia's Gatorade Player of the Year in 1991, and Eric Ferguson will only add to the team's scoring ability.

"We'll find out right away how good we can be," Berticelli said. "This is not an easy way to start the season, but it will give us some idea of where we stand."

Belles soccer ties Valparaiso, 0-0 Kalamazoo awaits Belles

By MAGGIE HELLRUNG
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's Belles were at an absolute standstill last night after a scrimmage against Valparaiso University left both teams scoreless, 0-0.

"I was hoping for a victory, but unfortunately, this wasn't the game for it," said Coach Tom VanMeter, "we have to learn to play together and develop some continuity."

The scrimmage, hosted by Valparaiso, allowed some of the younger players to take part in the action after injuries during Sundays' scrimmage against Notre Dame kept a few starters out of the game. Saint Mary's senior Cindy Jordan, defense for the Belles, suffered a partially torn medial collateral ligament in the knee. Junior and defense/halfback Mandy Eiler suffered a sprained ankle, but should be back on the field by next week. Several other players were not able to attend the scrimmage because of academic obligations. Junior forward Megan Dalsaso also did not participate in the scrimmage because of a family emergency which called her out of town.

Victory over their Indiana neighbor is something the Belles had grown used to. Last season the Belles defeated Division I Valparaiso 3-0, as well as in their 1990 season.

"We were missing quite a few girls, which put us at a disadvantage," said VanMeter.

Although there were some serious position changes due to graduating starters from last year's team, the overall feeling in the athletic department is that of promise.

"We're pleased with this year's team," said Dr. Jo-Ann Nester, director of athletics at Saint Mary's, "We have a strong returning core and some decent recruits."

"I've got a good team," says VanMeter, "Things will happen for us, but we are going to have to work for it."

Next Friday the Belles will go head to head with Loyola University at Saint Mary's. VanMeter feels optimistic about the Loyola game.

"I want to take advantage of next weekend because it is a football weekend. We have a week to prepare and I think we have an opportunity for a victory. I think it is important to show the fans that we have something really good to offer across the street."

The Saint Mary's volleyball team will begin the 1992 season at the Kalamazoo College Tournament this Saturday.

Coach Julie Schoeder-Biek, currently in her second season, is apprehensive about beginning the season with a tournament but has confidence that the Belles will come out on top. "We've only had two weeks together including tryouts. However, we have more talent and depth which would make for a successful season," stated Schoeder-Biek.

The Belles possess six returners, two of whom are seniors - a recipe for great success. The ultimate goal for the volleyball team is simple: to acquire more national attention and obtain a bid in the NCAA tournament.

Last season, the Belles placed first in the nation in blocking percentage. Producing individual records in hitting percentage and achieved sets were senior co-captain Karen Lorton and junior Michelle Martino.

Beginning Saturday, Schroeder-Biek would like to see the start of many more individual records.

The team will have to defeat four of the eight teams in Saturday's confrontation in order to place in the tournament. The Belles will have to face Kalamazoo who, last year, was ranked third nationally.

"We played them well last year," praised Schroeder-Biek. "This season, Kalamazoo lost many key players so no one knows what to expect."

"We're trying out a new defense this year. Hopefully, this tournament will allow us to work on it. I'm confident we will do well."

major problem for the Irish defense.

"We have worked a little more with the players who are going to match up with their scorers," he said.

Defenders Jill Matesic and Andrea Kurak anchor the defensive unit, and will be looked upon to step up as the younger players develop.

Two additional players who should have key roles in Saturday's game are goalkeeper Kim Gold and sweeper Ashley Scharff. Gold takes over for the injured Lodyga, while Scharff replaces Jarc at the instrumental sweeper position.

Gold started two games last year, but saw considerable time relieving Lodyga. Although Scharff has not played a minute of college soccer, she and the rest of the underclassmen have impressed Petrucelli.

"All the younger players have played really well, and they are a very talented group," he said.

"I have confidence in their abilities."

The Irish enter the contest ranked 18th, and N.C. State is the first of seven ranked opponents the Irish will face this year.

Although Petrucelli doesn't usually note the rankings, he is happy that his team is getting national recognition.

Junior teammate Michelle Martino also has faith in their co-captain. "She's a good asset," she said. "She helps out everyone when they get down."

Lorton, a Business Administration major, would like a job in sports marketing when she graduates. Interested in any aspect, whether it be with products or players, she enjoys sports and wants to remain a part of them.

Lorton's skill and enthusiasm can be seen as she and her teammates open their season tomorrow at the Kalamazoo College Tournament in Kalamazoo, Michigan. The Belles open their home season against Loyola University on Friday, September 11, on their home floor in Angela Athletic Facility.

I'll take it my way

A Dodgers' fan woes and other random thoughts

They are the bad news bears and they are my team - sad to say. I am an out of the closet Los Angeles Dodgers fan.

Now, I think, many of you can relate to those pathetic past seasons when "your" team, well, let's say, stunk.

For me, there were such high hopes. Pitcher Orel Hersheiser would ride his 1988 World Series tidal wave talent back to a seemingly solid bullpen. Darryl Strawberry would prove his fancy price tag to L.A. fans, as well as Mets' fans, was no fluke, and his best friend Eric Davis would do the same to the Reds' supporters who hassled him during his time in Cincinnati.

Well, the Mets' and Reds' fans are having the last laugh, though Mets' backers can relate to my deflated expectations.

But, suddenly, last April, Los Angeles went up in flames while the Dodgers' potential bit the dust.

Remembering better days on the field is my only comfort. (And rookie Eric Karros and maybe Tommy Lasorda will take a job in Tampa Bay.)

In 1981, a skinny nine-year-old kid screamed herself hoarse when her players Ron Cey, Steve Garvey and Fernando Valenzuela won the World Series over the New York Yankees.

In 1988, a seventeen-year-old girl stood in front of her television, jaw to the floor. When Kirk Gibson knocked the stadium lights out with a homerun, he not only clinched the game but the World Series.

In 1992, a twenty-year-old woman can only have "true blue" dreams of days gone past. Maybe just like Mets fans and Dodgers fans do, too.

It's time for Northwestern fans to prepare for a drubbing on Saturday. When Notre Dame football players take the field, it won't be the Irish fans on their knees praying for mercy.

But be sure, DuBose or shine, Wildcat fans will cheer their team on.

Did anyone go out on Wednesday to meet sand-scorchers Karch Kiraly and Steve Timmons? Kiraly perfected his spike on the beaches of Santa Barbara, California. At least volleyball is the one California sport that has conquered the sands as being number one.

Did any one else notice that Wayne Gretsky is no longer the highest-paid National Hockey League player? It was announced that Eric Lindros will make $3.5 million a year.

It seems odd that someone who has never played a game in the NHL will make more than the Great One. Be certain that Kings' owner Bruce McNall will make sure that Gretsky is the highest-paid player.

Karen Lorton shows her serving technique.

Lorton leads Belles volleyball team

By KILEY COBLE
Sports Writer

Beverly Hills maybe home for those famous twins Brenda and Brandon Walsh, but South Bend has its own dynamic duo in Karen and Kevin Lorton. Saint Mary's senior volleyball player Karen Lorton grew up in South Bend, excelling in her sport partly due to the fact that her brother helped sharpen her skills in endless games of beach volleyball.

There are six children in the Lorton family and Kevin is the most athletic, according to Karen. Last season, however, Karen finished fourth in the nation in blocking, fourth in Division III hitting and second in blocking.

This is Lorton's fourth year with the Belles, and she has been extremely pleased with the amount of competition in Division III play. "The teams are outstanding," she said. "We play at a high volleyball level."

Lorton and fellow senior Laura Panowicz are co-captains of the team this year, and both are optimistic about the season. The Belles have added four freshmen and a junior who spent last year in Rome. After a 8-15 record last year, the captains are anxious to improve on what they called a "growing year."

Saint Mary's has a difficult schedule this year, according to head coach Julie Schroeder-Biek. A new tournament is scheduled at Baldwin-Wallace College on September 18 and 19, and the Belles will face nationally ranked Kalamazoo College and Illinois Benedictine College in October.

According to Schroeder-Biek, Lorton is the one to lead Saint Mary's through their challenging schedule. "She is a good leader," she said. "She's one of the best in the nation and a real hard worker."

Notre Dame soccer to kick off seasons

Men open with tough games

By JASON KELLY
Sports Writer

It's time to get serious.

The only competition the Notre Dame men's soccer team has faced so far this season was last weekend's 2-0 exhibition loss to No. 5 Indiana.

This weekend, the Irish begin the regular season in Bloomington at the Adidas-Met Life Classic with games against No. 4 UCLA and No. 13 Duke, two of their toughest tests of the season.

In tomorrow's opener, the host Hoosiers take on Duke, followed by the Notre Dame and UCLA.

The Bruin's lineup includes Olympians Zak Ibsen at forward, Joe-Max Moore at midfield and Brad Friedel at goalkeeper. Also returning are defensemen Tayt Ianni, Dan Beaney and Ty Miller from last year's NCAA quarterfinal team.

"It will be tough to play a team with so much experience right off the bat," Irish coach Mike Berticelli said. "It's not just the Olympic players. The rest of their team is really strong. They will test us to the full range of our abilities."

Duke, Notre Dame's Sunday night opponent, is no slouch either. Although the Blue Devils managed only a 10-9 record in 1991, they return eight starters, with a group of promising

Women travel to N.C. State

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's soccer team will look to youth to gain an advantage as they travel to face fifth-ranked N.C. State Saturday.

Five freshmen and four sophomores cracked the starting eleven, due to injuries and graduation losses, leaving coach Chris Petrucelli with the youngest starting lineup in his five year reign as coach.

The loss of tri-captains Michelle Lodyga, Margaret Jarc and Denise Chabot is the biggest loss, along with standout midfielder Stephanie Porter.

Initially it would appear that playing so many freshmen places the Irish at a disadvantage, but Petrucelli feels that it could work to his team's favor.

"I think we're in a good situation with freshmen," Petrucelli said after his team's final practice before leaving for N.C. State. "They (N.C. State) will not know what to expect, and the freshmen will not be intimidated."

Petrucelli is worried about the explosive Wolfpack offense. With seven of their top eight goal scorers returning from last season, N.C. State should pose a

Women's volleyball romps New Orleans

By DAN PIER
Sports Writer

Every coach dreams of having her strategy come to life in the arena exactly as it looks on paper. Notre Dame volleyball coach Debbie Brown must have felt like she was dreaming last night as her team romped past New Orleans 15-6, 15-1, 15-6.

Brown was especially happy with Notre Dame's performance in the areas she targeted for improvement.

"We set three primary goals for the match," Brown explained. "We wanted to execute well, play with more emotion, and play a lot of people. We did an excellent job, and that was a big step forward. I was very pleased."

Notre Dame was off to the races when senior Alycia Turner served five straight points to put the Irish ahead 6-1 in the first game. Some rare Irish errors helped New Orleans climb back within 10-6, but two kills by Jessica Fiebelkorn, one by Christy Peters, and an ace by Turner put the game away.

Game two looked like a Harlem Globetrotter-style exhibition for the Irish, with the helpless Buc-kettes playing the part of the Washington Generals. Notre Dame pounded out 14 kills by 5 different players and added two service aces. New Orleans mustered just one kill.

"We were executing the game very well," said Brown. "We had good communication among the players, along with good skills execution. It was fun to watch."

In game three, Brown reached her goal of coming out playing time to more players. The new lineup took some time to get acclimated, falling behind 4-0. Things quickly turned around, however, thanks to Nicole Coates' two aces and Andrea Armento's six straight service points.

Throughout the match, Notre Dame's defense bottled up the Buc-kettes' dangerous weapon, outside hitter Javonne Brooks. She tallied just five kills for the match.

Considering the tough competition coming up in this weekend's Big Four Classic, Brown was content with last night's rather easy match.

"I think this was a good one to develop some team unity and get some rhythm," Brown noted. "It should give us some confidence going into this weekend."

The Big Four Classic will be played in the JACC with a non-tournament format. Notre Dame will battle Louisville tonight at 8:00 and Kentucky tomorrow night at the same time. Other matches will be featured at 5:30 each night.
