

Bender announces review committee; Roemer reacts

by Phil Cackley
Senior Staff Reporter

Student Body President Dave Bender announced yesterday the formation of a committee to review proposals regarding the planned removal of students from the University judicial process. The six-member committee named by Bender is composed of two administrators, two faculty members, and two students. It will consider not only the official University Trustees' proposal, but also one currently being drafted by a student government committee.

Jack Schneider and Thomas Carney, members of the University Board of Trustees, made public the intention of abolishing the University Judicial Board, of which two of the members are students, at a meeting held two weeks ago with representatives of the student government and campus media. The move stemmed from legal action related to the Hunter case brought against the University this summer. It is intended to put the University in a better legal position in the area of disciplinary proceedings.

"There are problems and inconsistencies in the University proposal," Bender stated, explaining that the review committee will iron out the proposal so that it can be introduced without snags at the Oct. 21 meeting of the Board of Trustees.

The administrators on the committee are Vice President for Student Affairs Bro. Just Paczesny and Dean of Students James Roemer. "They are obvious choices," Bender said, pointing out that they are the persons in the administration most closely connected to the issue. Additionally Paczesny is a University trustee.

Fr. Dave Burrell, chairman of the Theology Department, is one of the faculty members on the committee. Explaining his choice, Bender described Burrell as a "rational, fair guy" who is known to have an open mind. "If he's against our proposal, I'll accept that (that the proposal is a bad one). If he says it's good, that will bear out all the work we've done" and add credence to the plan, Bender added.

The other "faculty" member is Jeanne Swartz, a criminal defense lawyer who lives in South Bend. Swartz, 38, is a 1975 Notre Dame Law School graduate and is married to Notre Dame economics professor Thomas Swartz. A member of the 1971 search committee for the vice president for Student Affairs, she presently works in the Public Defender's Office of South Bend and is Counsel for the Retarded. Swartz also is a member of a South Bend law firm. Bender justified the selection, saying he wanted a woman's point of view on the committee, as well as an outside view. He stressed the necessity of the presence of a neutral lawyer on the committee because legal questions and technicalities will be dealt with.

Bender himself is one of the student members of the committee. The second is Tom Byrne, a senior government major, and former Campus Editor of the Observer. In looking for another student to serve on the committee, Bender said he looked for a student "who understood the procedure inside and out," as well as someone outside of student government. Speaking of Byrne, Bender commented, "He has credibility, is open-minded and I doubt if there's another student who knows as much about the process in question." Byrne resigned from his position of Campus Editor earlier this week. The action was not connected with his appointment to the committee.

The committee will meet at the end of next week and will consider all proposals on the matter, whether drafted by the trustees, by a student, or by student government, according to Bender. Meetings will be held as long as is necessary to work out a consensus on the plan, then a report will be submitted to the Student Life Council (SLC) and afterwards to the Board of Trustees.

Bender said that one advantage of the committee review is that Student Government will have the means of gauging the receptiveness of the trustees and administration to new proposals before the actual presentation to the Board of Trustees. In this manner, the SBP claimed he would know beforehand whether or not to take "further action."

Roemer acted to the selection of the committee in a letter sent to Bender, as well as in an interview. "I would have liked to see Dave appoint the committee through the SLC, which is the proper body to consider changes in the discipli-Burtchaell's resignation forced?

by Dave Rumbach
Staff Reporter

Sources quoted by the South Bend Tribune have stated that Fr. James Burtchaell's sudden resignation from his position as University Provost was not voluntary.

Campus sources, according to the Tribune, say that Burtchaell had incurred opposition from both the Board of Trustees and the Holy Cross community. Edmund A. Stephan, chairman of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees, would not deny that Burtchaell's resignation was not voluntary nor that the board had sought that resignation.

The Board of Trustees opposed the succession to the presidency by Burtchaell, a promotion built into the position of provost, according to one Tribune source.

"The Resignation is a sign he won't be it, the position was created as a testing ground for the presidency. Obviously he lost out," noted one source, described by the Tribune as "reliable."

The same source stated that the suddenness of Burtchaell's resignation was the result of the ex-provost's "style" and bore no other significance, the Tribune reported. "Jim is not a lame duck kind of person," the source stated, adding that the board had apparently wished Burtchaell to stay on for the remainder of the year before resigning.

Fr. Burtchaell, who has already moved out of his second floor office in the Administration building, was unavailable for comment.

Stephan, while refusing to comment on the Board of Trustees' alleged involvement in Burtchaell's resignation, praised the former provost describing his tenure in the second-ranking university position as "brilliant."

Key faculty members also praised Burtchaell both for his commitment to academic excellence and his frequent support of faculty interests.

Dr. Isabel Charles, dean of the College of Arts and Letters, commended Burtchaell for his efforts to "forward the college's Catholic commitments" and for establishing the Center for the Study of American Catholicism. Charles stated that Burtchaell benefited the College of Arts and Letters by endowing a number of chairs and that his service "on the faculty will benefit both students and teachers."

Professor Paul Conway, chairman of the Faculty Senate, stated that Burtchaell "went all out for the faculty when they were in agreement," adding, however, that they did not always see "eye to eye."

Burtchaell is currently teaching a course in "Biblical Ethics" and is planning to expand his teaching activities next semester.

In one week

One raped, two accosted

by Michael Ridenour

Three women students were reportedly attacked in separate incidents during the first week of the semester. One of the reported attacks took place in the residential area south of the campus, while the other two occurred on campus.

A graduate student was accosted and raped five blocks from the Library Tavern about 2:00 a.m. Sunday. She was walking to an off-campus residence after leaving the Library Tavern, when the assailant dragged her to a dark area behind a building. She was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment, where she later was unable to give the police an accurate description of the assailant.

The two campus attacks were assault and battery cases. According to James Roemer, the dean of students, the attacks "were unusual," in that one happened in daylight while the other occurred at night in front of a hall in a lighted area.

A Saint Mary's student was accosted by two cyclists August 30th while walking near the Community Cemetery at 2:15 p.m. The cyclists were of high school age. She said one of them blocked her path and placed his hands on her clothing but they left when she threatened to have them arrested.

The third incident occurred last Saturday about 10:30 p.m. in front of Alumni and Dillon halls. An unidentified male was making a groaning sound while laying in the grass and when the woman investigated she was attacked. Coming outside of Dillon for "a breath of fresh air," she was able to escape injury after being thrown to the ground by her assailant. Security was unable to find the suspect after searching the area.

Roemer said this was the first time to his knowledge that a student had been attacked in front of a hall or in broad daylight in such well-traveled areas. Roemer warns women students to "be prudent and careful, and try to get transportation if at all possible by bus or car between the two colleges and other places around South Bend." He also suggests "teaming up with friends" when walking on campus, especially at night. "Security can help but that's not going to make it 100 per cent safe," Roemer added.

Commenting on the seriousness of the attacks on campus this past week, Roemer said "the two campus incidents were misdemeanors and it wouldn't have been all that helpful to call in the police. Yet after three attacks in the first week, it's an alarming situation and in the future the police will be called in if another such incident occurs."

Angela to open formally

by Jean Powley
St. Mary's Editor

This weekend will be one of athletic exhibitions, clinics and seminars as St. Mary's dedicates its new Angela Athletic Facility.

National sports figures such as Micki King Hogue, Olympic diving gold medalist in 1972; Patty Berg, Ladies Professional Golf Association's (LPGA) tournament record holder; and Carmen Piasecki, four-time winner of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association (WMGA) will all be present to speak and conduct clinics.

The program of events, entitled "Women's Sports: Prospects and Problems," will begin Friday evening with a reception and banquet for guests of the college and will end Sunday night with a college sports night, at which time St. Mary's athletic program and coaches will be introduced.

Formal dedication ceremonies for the $1.8 million facility will take place Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Among the other prominent sports figures and events scheduled for the weekend are a dance clinic and performance by Kaleidoscope, a modern dance ensemble from Indianapolis; a tennis clinic conducted by Joan Ramey of the Ramey Tennis School in Indianapolis; a volleyball clinic and demonstration by Donald S. Shondell of Ball State University and a karate clinic led by Barbara Cope-land, second degree black belt of the Myong Kim's Karate School.

Other clinics include one in fencing conducted by Dr. Michael DeCicco of Notre Dame; a handball clinic with Noel O'Sullivan of Notre Dame; and a racketball exhibition by Jean Gorman of St. Mary's.

Also, a sports communication clinic will be conducted by Lew Wood, "Today Show" announcer with NBC, and Pose Tucker, freelance television interviewer, on Saturday morning.

Wood will, in addition, serve as master of ceremonies at the conference's opening banquet Friday night.

Seminars planned for the weekend include one on women's collegiate sports by Leanne Grotke, Indiana University Athletic Director and Commissioner for National Championships for the Association for Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) and a session on religion and sports by Sister Katherine Reichert, director of campus ministry at St. Mary's and former Minnesota women's golf champion.

Physical education for the special student will be Dr. Evelyn A. Davies' topic in her session entitled "Adapted Physical Education." She is a physical education professor at Indiana University.

John Boruff, assistant recreation director with the South Bend Community School Corporation, will discuss community recreation in his seminar Sunday morning.

Finally, a dual tennis match between St. Mary's and DePauw University will be featured Saturday afternoon immediately following the formal dedication ceremonies.

All Notre Dame and St. Mary's students, faculty and staff are welcome to participate in any or all of the planned activities, except the meals, according to Kathleen Cordes, St. Mary's director of athletics and recreation.

"We're anticipating an awfully good conference," she said.

A schedule of the dedication activities will be included in the Observer's Friday "on campus today" section.

Klein to help SMC frosh

by Jean Powley
St. Mary's Editor

The class of 1981 at St. Mary's will be academically counseled by someone totally unfamiliar to upperclassmen, Mary Ellen Klein. She is the college's new freshman academic counselor.

Klein will work with Rosemary Doherty, freshman dean for the past six years, in a team arrangement this semester. Then, in the spring when Doherty returns to teaching full-time in the English department, Klein will take over sole operation of the freshman office.

On the job since the end of August, Klein is busy, at present, assisting freshmen with such academic concerns as class changes and scheduling difficulties. She is also teaching part-time in the English department.

When she is given total responsibility for the freshman office in the spring, she will also be involved for instance, in counseling students on course choices and study habits. Then, next summer she will choose and schedule courses for the class of 1982.

Immediately before coming to St. Mary's, Klein served as assistant director of admissions at John Carroll University in Cleveland, Ohio for four years. She also taught freshman composition there.

She was also assistant dean of students at Seton Hill College, a women's college in Pennsylvania, for two years.

A native Ohioan, Klein holds a bachelor's degree in English from Notre Dame College in Cleveland and a master's degree in English from John Carroll University.

She is now in the process of getting her doctorate in higher education administration.

Since St. Mary's is still new to her, Klein says that she has not yet set any specific goals except to continue "the fine work already done in this office."

"I found this a very warm and welcoming community. As a freshman myself, I'm still learning about St. Mary's just as the students are," she said.

Disciplinary procedures against students

by Bob Varettoni
Senior Staff Reporter

The University, with its proposed change in disciplinary procedure, is trying to "stack the deck" against students, according to J.P. Russell, chairman of the Hall Presidents Council (HPC.)

Russell gave this opinion last night in Alumni Hall at the first meeting of this year's HPC. He outlined the new disciplinary situation for the HPC when Dave Bender, student body president, failed to make a scheduled appearance to discuss the matter.

Russell said that under the new set up students will no longer take part in disciplinary hearings. In the past, he noted, there have been student representatives on both the University Judicial Board and the Appeals Board. He added that du Lac the student handbook which details University regulations, will be distributed by Saturday.

Other topics discussed by the HPC included a plan for tutoring programs within each dorm. Florenceann Stringle, Student Government academic commissioner, said that Sorin Hall's program, where students volunteer to tutor others within their own hall, will serve as a model.

"With Dean Hofman's tutoring program, freshmen are taken care of well," Stringle said. "It would be nice if we can do something for upperclassmen."

Stringle said she felt sorry for the student enrolled in "some course like Zoology 1000" who finds no one to turn to for help. She added that this new program will be underway within two weeks.

Marianne Moore, SU calendar coordinator, announced the formation of a Student Union service which will check for conflicts of dates involving campus social events. Moore hoped this new service might prevent hall formals, for example, to be scheduled for the same night as a concert.

Russell introduced John Rooney, the new An Tostal chairman, to the HPC last night. He also introduced Tom Soma, Student body vice president and Tom Gryp, Student Union director, who will report at future HPC meetings.

Dan Haugh, representing the Mardi Gras staff, announced that Mardi Gras this year will run from February 3 to 11. Since this is earlier than in recent years, Haugh noted that construction of booths will have to start on Jan. 21, the first day of the second semester.

In some unfinished business from last semester, Russell announced St. Edward's Hall as the winner of the April Rockne Trophy. Alumni and Fisher halls were runners-up.

The HPC will not hold a regular business meeting next week. Instead, members voted to attend a "beginning-of-the-year dinner" on Tuesday.

ND housing problems eased

by Michael Lewis
Staff Reporter

The effort to find housing for Notre Dame freshmen and transfer students is going well, according to the housing office.

Fr. John Mulcahy, student residence director, is out of town and could not be reached for comment. However, his office confirmed that all of the freshmen living in the Farley Hotel have found rooms. Also, the freshmen who lived with resident assistants in Keenan and Flanner have found rooms.

However, the Farley hotel is not empty. "A few transfer students are staying in the hotel of their own volition until they can find off-campus housing," the office revealed. Office workers said that it would "probably be a while" before all of the students can find off-campus housing.

The original waiting list for campus housing numbered over 90 women and 180 men. However, this list includes a few students who decided not to attend Notre Dame, and others who have found housing off-campus. As rooms become available, the office refers to the waiting list to determine who still wants on-campus housing.

To help reduce the overcrowding, Carroll hall now houses undergraduates, and has been put into use as a permanent dormitory.

Freshman Eileen Tarpey lived in the Farley hotel for a week before a room became available.

"I thought I would have a room, but when I received a letter from Notre Dame, my room assignment was marked o-c," she said.

She also said that the housing office said that a room would soon be open, and to stay in the hotel for a few days. Tarpey lived with five other freshmen in the hotel.

"It wasn't bad living there, but we couldn't unpack our suitcases. All we went down there for was to sleep and change clothes," she added.

"We had bunk beds and our suitcases, and that was about it."

Roemer reacts to appointees

nary procedures," he commented. He also would have liked to have seen some discussion of Bender's choices before actual appointment took place.

While not saying that the choices were not "good ones," Roemer expressed a wish that all of the committee members would have been chosen from within the Notre Dame community, noting the Swartz is a South Bend lawyer and not directly connected with the University. He suggested that David Link, dean of the Law School, might have been chosen instead. Roemer also pointed out that Bender did not consult him before making any of the choices.

In his letter to Bender, Roemer recommended that the number of the committee members be dropped from six to three, the three being Roemer himself, Bender and a faculty member. "If we have any more on this committee, it will be too difficult to achieve a consensus on the choice of words as well as on the concepts involved," the letter reads. "The tumult and shouting of a larger group is not helpful. In fact, it slows and often destroys the progress," he added, citing his past experience in labor negotiations.

The Student Government proposal is not yet finished, according to Bender, but should be completed by the end of the week. "We're trying to build a consistent model of justice," he said, indicating that the student government proposal will touch all levels of University disciplinary procedures in an effort to standardize regulations.

The committee drafting the proposal consists of Bender, Joe Gill, executive coordinator, Steve Dane and John Talbott, judicial coordinators, and Patty Dondanville, Alumni representative. In addition, numerous faculty members' and students' opinions have been asked. Bender said tha the SLC representative had been consulted on Sunday night.

Student Government's plans in connection with the drafting of the proposal include a series of talks to be given by Talbott in the residence halls, to explain student rights under the disciplinary system as it presently stands. The same would be done after the changes to be determined have been approved by the trustees.

Bender also intends to take the Student Government proposal into the halls, once it is completed, to explain it to the students, and to feel out campus reaction to it. Another plan is to issue a Student Government Student Rights Manual, after the trustees have acted. The manual would rely in part on research done this summer by Dane at Georgetown, VA in the matter of student rights.

The drafting committee welcomes student input, Bender said, and students with ideas should call the Student Government office. Or, a separate proposal can be written up and submitted to the reviewing committee itself.

Treaty language finalized

Washington [AP] - The United States and Panama gave final approval yesterday the exact language of the proposed new Panama Canal treaties as President Carter began marathon talks with hemisphere leaders gathering for the formal signing of the accords.

Carter told reporters his talks with the visiting dignitaries were emphasizing human rights, nuclear proliferation, his hope for restraint in military spending and his desire to promote an improving quality of life in developing nations.

The canal treaties will be formally signed during nationally broadcast ceremonies tonight at 6:30 p.m. CST.

The President said he hopes the new canal treaties will bring "a new era of cooperation and equality of treatment" among nations of the hemisphere.

The meetings among the hemisphere leaders are billed as the first hemisphere summit conference in a decade.

Carter's first Latin American visitor Tuesday was Panama's head of government, Omar Torrijos. Press Secretary Jody Powell, commenting on Carter's busy schedule of talks with 19 government heads and other leaders, said Carter views the meetings as "an unprecedented opportunity for the enhancement of our relations with other nations in this hemisphere."

The White House spokesman also announced that Carter will be lobbying for the canal agreements at a White House briefing Wednesday, for 70 prominent Americans many of them business leaders.

The plans for the elaborate Wednesday night signing ceremonies contrasted with the simple State Department ceremony yesterday marking agreement on the exact language of the treaties. The formal initialing of texts of the canal agreements was low-key and almost perfunctory. In a sense, however, this event culminated 13 years of often difficult negotiations.

P.O. BOX Q

Hunter's Case Again

Dear Editor,

I find the actions of the Notre Dame administration in the Al Hunter case and in the planned elimination of the student judicial board to be very disturbing. These actions have no place in what is supposed to be a Christian community.

In the Al Hunter case, the University followed their rules when they suited them, and the administration broke the rules when they did not. They did not let Hunter confront opposing witnesses when the rules stated that he was entitled to, and they flagrantly violated the established deadline for an appeal. Why have rules if they can be broken at will? How can students' rights be protected when these rules are violated at will?

Since they ran into legal difficulties on the Hunter case, the University has decided to take no further chances. They will be able to control the judicial process without any students trying to defy them when they break their own rules. From now on, Dean Roemer will be both prosecutor and judge while keeping a facade of fairness.

I find the actions of the University very phony and hypocritical. Notre Dame will retain its veneer as a Christian community while its administration breaks its own rules and deceives its own students. If this University is trying to educate us to be mature, Christian adults, they certainly are going about it the wrong way. As so often seems the case, they are telling us that we are not responsible enough to make our own decisions and form our own value systems. Instead, we are left to follow their example of deceit and hypocrisy.

I am especially disappointed by the actions of Fr. Hesburgh in this situation. He has built a national reputation as a Christian humanitarian while his University treats its students this way. Charity begins at home, Fr. Hesburgh.

Pat Toomey, Jr.

Justice

Dear Editor:

I believe that the removal of students from the university judicial system is a lamentable miscarriage of justice. The sanctimonious remarks made by the Dean of Students and university trustees is referring to students as the "problem" in the judicial system betray an underlying distrust in the integrity of the Notre Dame students. Unfortunately, the handful of people who learned the real shortcomings of the system through participation in its most recent use are bound by confidentiality. We students have much to lose in this decision and I believe a further investigation into the matter is warranted.

Brian Diamond

Ticket Injustice

Dear Editor:

A grave injustice has been rendered upon those of the Notre Dame community who have been deprived of basketball tickets through no personal fault. The method of allocation through the postal system during the summer months did not give every student a fair chance to obtain a ticket and removed the opportunity of choosing a seat location. Many spend at least part of their summers away, and occasionally a letter is lost in the mail. Obviously a victim of these instances would have had no opportunity to apply for a ticket and they are sold out. The only recourse open to us is to pay $30.00 to be put on a waiting list for a padded seat. And if perhaps we are granted a ticket, who will be sitting next to us? The enjoyment of basketball games is derived partly from the company of friends

Despite these few drawbacks to the system, it is apparent that the sale of tickets has been successful. Congratulations to the ticket manager for another misguided service-capitally executed!

Jayne Rizzo '79

Center Odor

Dear Editor:

In the Wednesday paper's report on the new laundromat for men, it was stated that LaFortune was unacceptable because of the "problem of unpleasant odors." This is fine—students shouldn't have to suffer unsavory smells while washing.

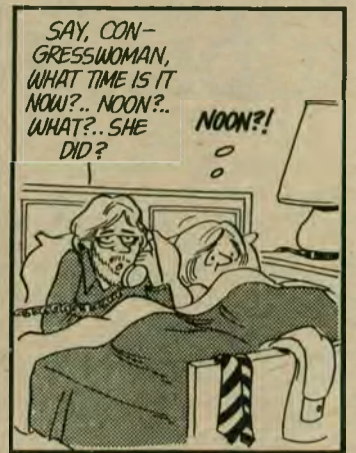

But if this is the case, how can it be that off-campus students are expected to eat lunch with the odors, that formal dances take place there, that the entire student body is expected to take its leisure amidst the stench? (And don't let me short change the cockroaches and sparsely-furnished areas.)

How is it that the people in the administrative offices can continue to be so inconsistent? Awaken, Administration of Notre Dame! The sun is shining and LaFortune stinks.

The CIA Apologizes

art buchwald

Washington--A federal judge has just ruled that the CIA must write a letter of apology to people whose mail they opened in the United States. The Department of Justice has suggested the text of the letter, which turns out to be a formal apology in typical governmental gobbledygook, which in my opinion would not get the CIA off the hook.

I think if the CIA really wants to show it's sorry for reading the mail of Americans they should make each letter a personal one, which would show that the Central Intelligence Agency has a heart.

Here are a few suggestions of the types of letters of apology Adm. Stansfield Turner, the head of the CIA, would send out to people whose privacy had been violated.

Dear Mr. Macomber,
You can't imagine how sorry all of us in the CIA are for reading your mail during the past 14 years. It was an oversight which I assure you won't happen again.

I regret your Aunt Tilly in Dublin still has pains in her back. Our medical team suggests she use a hot water bottle at night to relieve the agony. Also, I think your son is out of line when he says he wants to stay in Paris to continue his education. Our agents in Paris report that he is not going to school but is spending all of his time at cafes.

The letter you received from the Carlsons in Venice telling you what a wonderful time they were having was slightly exaggerated. Carlson came down with dysentery and Mrs. Carlson's photographs of St. Mark's Square were all overexposed.

We'll be happy to send you information on any other letters we read, if you want us to. I hope it will make up in a small way for what we do not consider an illegal undercover program.

Sincerely Yours,
Adm. Stansfield Turner

Dear Ms. Halifax,

As you know the CIA was involved in a mail-reading program, and for reasons which no one here can explain all your letters from abroad were opened and scrutinized. You can't imagine how upset we are about this. Some overzealous employee, who will have to remain nameless for security reasons, was responsible. After going through his report on your mail, all I can say is that you have beautiful handwriting and I wish my children could write as well.

Your love letters to Mr. Cesar Randini in Rome were masterpieces and should be published in a book. The CIA would do it, but we recently went out of the book publishing business.

We're sorry that Mr. Randini broke off the relationship by marrying Signora Carmelita Verdi of 14 Via Condotti, but you must take my word for it that Mr. Randini is not a one-woman man. All the time he was calling "his little artichoke" he was spending his evenings at Signora Verdi's apartment, sometimes leaving as late as four in the morning. You are well rid of him.

Sincerely,

Adm. Stansfield Turner

Dear Mrs. Starbuckle,

I am obligated by the federal courts to inform you that we have been reading your mail and that of your husband, whose trips to London, Brussels and Antwerp on business have taken him out of the country six times a year.

I know you are suspicious that some of these trips are not all concerned with business. I can assure you that as far as Brussels and Antwerp are concerned your husband has been conducting commerce for his company.

We are unable to find out exactly what business he has in London, unless his meetings with Lady Mathilda MacIntosh of 1234 Cadogan Square have to do with steel exporting. Our records show Lady MacIntosh has never been in the steel business, nor was the late Sir Harold MacIntosh, who was 30 years his wife's senior.

Unfortunately, the bug we planted in the Cadogan flat has always been drowned out by Frank Sinatra music whenever your husband has been there. Since we can no longer, by law, follow this case, I might suggest you inquire about a London private detective who could investigate what Mr. Starbuckle really does in London.

In putting forth this suggestion, it is our sincere hope that you will forgive the CIA for reading your mail. And if anything good comes of our intelligence about Mr. Starbuckle's stopovers in London, we hope you will think kindly of the CIA in the future.

Sincerely,
Adm. Stansfield Turner

"...NOW, WILL YOU HAND OVER MR. TONGSUN PARK, OR MUST I BAT YOU AROUND A LITTLE?"

Park indicted on 36 charges

Washington [AP] - A federal grand jury has listed 27 present and former members of Congress who allegedly assisted or received money from South Korean businessman Tongsun Park, accused of buying favors on Capitol Hill with the support of his government.

The indictment of Park on 36 corruption charges was unsealed Tuesday as the Carter administra-

Scheidler gives scholarships to ND students

Notre Dame students who live in Indiana will benefit from a new scholarship fund established by a bequest from Benno M. Scheidler, an Attica, Indiana businessman and farmer.

Fr. Theodore M. Hesburgh, university president, announced that the Cecilia M. Scheidler and Benno M. Scheidler scholarships have been made possible by an initial $200,000 distribution of Mr. Scheidler's bequest to Notre Dame. Hesburgh expressed the University's gratitude, noting the 64 per cent of Notre Dame's students require some form of financial aid to enroll and remain at the University.

Mrs. June McCauslin, director of financial aid, said that invested income from the Scheidler fund will enable scholarships to be awarded beginning in the 1978-79 academic year. Recipients will be chosen, she said, from among Indiana students who have been accepted for admissions to Notre Dame and who have a certified financial need.

Mr. Scheidler operated a Coca-Cola bottling franchise in Attica and was in the ice business. He also was engaged in farming and had considerable holdings as a landowner. Mr. Scheidler died on September 22, 1976.

Gabriel elected to Executive Body

Dr. A.L. Gabriel, director of the Folsom Ambrosiana Collection at Notre Dame, was elected to the general assembly of the Executive Body of the International Committee of Historical Sciences, at the 50th anniversary meeting of the committee held recently in the Canary Islands.

tion stepped up the pressure for Park's return to the United States from Seoul.

Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell asked President Carter to contact South Korean President Chung Hee "to have Tongsun Park returned to the United States." Tongsun Park "is now a fugitive from American justice and we would hope he would appear for trial," Bell told a news conference. "We're ready to go to trial immediately."

Bell declined to comment on the possibility of future indictments against members of Congress.

Former Rep. Richard T. Hanna, a California Democrat, was named an unindicted co-conspirator in the Park indictment and was pictured as Park's right-hand man in the alleged effort to buy friendly congressional treatment of South Korean interests with lavish parties and cash contributions.

"We're in the season and we'll have to see what the harvest will bring," Bell said. The indictment also named an unsuccessful congressional candidate as having received money from Park.

The indictment of Park, a lion on the Washington social scene until he fled the country, was returned Aug. 26 but was kept sealed until Tuesday. The existence of the indictment was reported last week, but details of the charges have not been available until now.

Park was accused of conspiring from about 1967 to Dec. 31, 1975 to bribe members of Congress with thousands of dollars "for the purpose of inducing them to take official actions and make decisions favorable to the Republic of Korea and the regime of President Park Chung-hee."

Hanna received more than $100,000 from Park, advised Park on which of his congressional colleagues should be bribed and helped distribute the money, the indictment said.

Two former directors of Korean Central Intelligence Agency, Kim Hyung Wook, who held the job between 1963 and 1969 and Lee Hu Rak, who followed him in the job between 1970 and 1973, were part of the alleged conspiracy, the government said.

Nazz initiates '77 season on Saturday evening

by Chuck Kaufman

The Nazz, Notre Dame's music nightspot, will open its doors to the public this Saturday night at 9 p.m. Located in the basement of LaFortune, the Nazz offers a relaxed and open atmosphere for getting together with friends, while listening to live music and entertainment provided by Notre Dame students.

The Nazz will be open Monday through Saturday from 9 p.m. until midnight, and will offer beverages and various foodstuffs for sale. According to Enrique Lulli, director of the Nazz, the coffeehouse is intended to be an alternative form of nighttime entertainment for students. It is a place, he noted "where you can go have a pizza and listen to good music," while enjoying the conversation and camaraderie of friends.

A distinguishing feature of the Nazz remains its encouragement and almost exclusive use of live student entertainment. John Flaherty, who is in charge of entertainment for the establishment, stated that anyone is welcome to perform on stage, either by signing up with him ahead of time, or by simply coming up from the audience to do a spontaneous number. Flaherty encourages individuals and groups in all fields, not only in music, to share their talents with others at the Nazz. Anyone interested in performing may contact either Lulli at 1479 or Flaherty at 1575.

The Nazz will open this Saturday night with an impromptu jazz jam, featuring members of the Notre Dame jazz combos. The jam is open to the public and Flaherty welcomes interested musicians to come and join in.

On Thursday, Sept. 15, the staff of Urban Studies will present Neighborhood Roots, an urban study of the South Bend community. The purpose of this program is to stimulate student interest toward the community of South Bend.

According to Thomas Swartz, associate professor of economics and an instructor of urban studies, Neighborhood Roots provides an excellent opportunity for students to appreciate the variety of neighborhoods in South Bend. "A great deal of students remain isolated on campus," Swartz explained, "and do not know what exists outside of Notre Dame. South Bend is a vastly diverse city; poor sections and magnificent residential areas are within several blocks of each other. Although the immense diversity does present economic and social problems, Neighborhood Roots intends to focus on the positive aspects of the South Bend community."

Valerie Hardy, commissioner of Social and Interracial Concerns, stresses that this program intends to get students aware and interested in community activities. "This program is excellent for students in urban classes," Hardy emphasized, "and all students can find out for themselves what South Bend has to offer."

The program itself will consist of an hour tour of South Bend, scheduled to leave the south circle Thursday at 4:30 p.m. The tour will end at the ZB Falcon Hall, where members will partake in a traditional Polish wedding meal, consisting of chicken and Polish sausage. During dinner, several speakers will represent the ethnic neighborhoods of South Bend, which include the Polish, Black and Mexican-American communities.

Following the meal, John Roos, associate professor of government, will present slides of neighborhoods that he has visited. At approximately 7:15, Swartz will give a brief analysis of the process of neighborhood decay. Then Prof. Thomas Broden will report on the justice issues in relation to Central City downtown spiral, suburban subsidies, the Institute for Urban Studies Strategy and the potential for student involvement. Following Broden Fr. Donald McNeill will explain "Urban Plunge" and the role of the Center for Experiential Learning. Finally, students Hardy and Barbara Frey will inform members of other opportunities for community involvement. The participants will return to campus at approximately 8:30 p.m.

McNeill, the Director of the Center for Experiential Living, hopes that through Neighborhood Roots, students might be able to have more of a social background to complement their academic studies. "We have an outstanding staff institute of urban studies," McNeill maintained, "and this program is an excellent opportunity for students to appreciate the diversity of the community nearby. Member met last April to come up with Neighborhood Roots, and I hope for more of this involvement in the future." McNeill also stressed that registration is open to all.

Anyone interested in Neighborhood Roots may register at the dining halls on Sept. 7, 8, and 9. Registration fee is one dollar, and enrollment is limited to 250. If there is an excess, a similar program will soon be constructed.

Amin orders 12 public executions for treason

Nairobi, Kenya [AP] - President Idi Amin has ordered the public executions of 12 former ranking government and military officials convicted of plotting to overthrow him, Uganda radio said yesterday.

Broadcasts monitored in Nairobi said the executions by firing squad were scheduled for 5 p.m. Friday (9 a.m. CST) under a clock tower on the outskirts of Kampala, Uganda's capital.

The radio said official government photographers have been assigned to cover the executions and that any others who attempt to take photographs will do so at their own risk.

Among the 12 doomed men are Lt. Ben Ogwanga, a former intelligence officer; Y. Y. Okoth; J. Olobo; A. S. Okidimenya; Abdalla Anyuru, a former chairman of the Uganda Public Services Commission and Ben Ongoma, a former leading businessman in Kampala.

They were convicted of treason by a military tribunal on Monday and sentenced to death. Amin signed the execution orders early yesterday, Radio Uganda said.

Two other defendants were also found guilty of plotting against Amin and were given 15-year prison terms.

Two more were acquitted and freed shortly after the trial got under way in Kampala City Hall on Aug. 22.

The accused had all pleaded guilty to planning the coup which, according to Uganda radio, allegedly was timed for last Jan. 25. That was the sixth anniversary of Amin's accession to power when he toppled former President Milton Obote. Obote was out of the country at the time of the coup.

It was the first public trial held in Uganda. The radio reported scores of Ugandans packed the city hall daily to listen to defendants outline their roles in the move to oust "Life President Amin."

Amin announced the plot last Feb. 16 at a rally in Kampala. Three of the alleged plotters confessed and one of them implicated Anglican Archbishop Janani Luwum.

Uganda radio announced the next day that Luwum and two of Amin's ministers arrested and then were killed in an automobile accident. Others sources said they were murdered.

Treaty still requires ratification

"We have come to the end of a very long road," said the co-chairman of the U.S. negotiating team, Ellsworth Bunker, as he initialed the documents for the US.

The initialing for Panama was performed by its chief negotiator, Romulo Escobar Bethancourt, and the Panamanian minister of education, Aristedes Royo.

Escobar said this was a "very happy" occasion for him.

Lawyers for the two countries had been working on Spanish and English language texts since the basic terms of the new treaties were agreed to in Panama four weeks ago.

The first treaty calls for the United States to relinquish to Panama all sovereignty over the Panama Canal Zone by the year 2000. The second recognizes that the United States can intervene militarily after that to ensure the neutrality of the canal.

Recent polls indicate U.S. public opinion opposes the accords by a narrow margin. Carter has predicted eventual majority support, however, and Wednesday's signing ceremony and attendant summit conference are designed to enhance prospects for Senate ratification.

A two-thirds affirmative Senate vote is required to put treaties into effect. The signing tonight marks the end of the negotiating process but Senate ratification is necessary before the treaties go into effect.

If the Senate ratifies the treaties, another signing ceremony will be held, probably in Panama.

Former President Gerald R. Ford

will attend the signing, as a symbol of high-level bipartisan backing for the treaties. So will Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson whose husband initiated the negotiations with Panama in 1964.

Majors recalls Pitt's perfect start

by Tony Pace
Sports Writer

During the past few seasons, the Notre Dame-Pittsburgh clash has become one of the premier battles of intercollegiate football. In fact, some would argue that last year's 31-10 thrashing of the Irish by Pitt was the Panthers most important victory in their national championship march.

In an exclusive telephone interview, Johnny Majors, former head coach at Pitt and now the top man at Tennessee, commented on the Notre Dame-Pitt rivalry and the upcoming season. Looking back, Majors said, "As important as the rest of the season was, I felt Notre Dame was the most important because it was the first game. They had a national ranking, tradition and prestige in national football. I thought if we could win, it would give us great confidence and a chance for a great year."

"As we prepared for the game," Majors continued, "our biggest concern was how they (Notre Dame) might change from the year before. I also knew that it would not be easy to beat Notre Dame at home. You gotta have poise for the noise."

An interesting feature of both the 1976 and 1977 games is that they have and will receive national attention. In 1977, as in 1976, ABC will open its college football schedule with this matchup. Majors certainly believes this exposure is an asset to the game. He said, "Last year we were motivated because it was on television."

Majors believes this year's contest will live up to all of its advance notices. "Pitt," he states, "has good size and experience. Notre Dame's pre-season ranking could be realistic. Their defense is good and they have an improved offense."

This year's game is in Pittsburgh and the home field advantage could be decisive. "Of course," Majors said, "everyone would like to play in their home environment. Notre Dame has certain subway alumni wherever they go, but playing at home will not hurt Pitt."

The man who is attempting to fill Majors' shoes at Pitt is by no means an outsider. Though Jackie Sherrill spent last season as head coach at Washington State University he previously had been one of Majors' top assistants at both Iowa State and Pittsburgh. Speaking of Sherrill, Majors said, "he worked with me for eight years. He is one of the fine assistant coaches I've worked with. I certainly hope he does well. He has a great start and he has a lot to work with. He doesn't have to build a program like a lot of other young coaches have to do. Also, he played a part in the building of the program."

Overall Majors is extremely satisfied with what he accomplished at Pitt, with the national championship being the brightest feather in his cap. He feels confident that even with his departure the Panthers will remain a national football power. He stated, "I left them with a great program. I gave them national coverage and financial support. From the Sugar Bowl alone they received $900,000. They have a program to be proud of. I worked to build that program."

Majors coyly avoided making a prediction on the outcome of this Saturday's game, saying, "I know I'm smart enough not to bet on football but I think it could go either way." He added, "I hope it's a clean hard-fought game. I hope Pitt shows well."

As far as the whole season goes, Majors sees Oklahoma, Notre Dame, Michigan, Ohio State, Alabama, Southern Cal and Texas Tech as the teams most likely to vie for national honors. He added however, "Right now I am mainly concerned with building a name for ourselves. If I had some of the Pitt players here at Tennessee we would do well." With an energetic and magnetic coach like Johnny Majors, it should not be long before the Tennessee Vols return to their place among college football's finest.

Women's tennis opens season

by Laurie Reising
Women's Sports Editor

The 1977-78 Notre Dame women's tennis team was chosen last weekend following two days of tryouts.

Representing the Irish this season will be freshmen Laura and Sheila Kronin, Sioban Kilbride, Sue Leininger, Maureen Noonan and junior Ann Kelly. Also new to the team are two transfer students, Jean Barton, a junior transfer from St. Mary's College, and Ellenor McManus, a sophomore transfer from Princeton University. Returning netters are Ginger Siefring, a senior, sophomore Paddy Mullen, captain Diane Shillingburg, a junior, and the first woman monogram winner at du Lac, junior Mary Shukas.

The team opens up its fall season at home today when they face St. Joseph's College at 2:30.

Beat Pitt rally

There will be a pep rally for the Notre Dame football team Thursday, September 8 at 6:10 p.m. on the steps of the Administration Building. The event is sponsored by student government.

Football ticket distribution

Student football tickets for the 1977 season will be distributed at the ticket sales window on the second floor of the Athletic and Convocation Center on the following dates:

Seniors: Monday, September 12, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Juniors, Graduate, Law and all students in their ninth semester or higher: Tuesday, September 13, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sophomores: Wednesday September 14, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Freshmen: Thursday, September 15, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Since the Navy game will be played on Saturday, October 29, during the fall semester vacation, a ticket for that game is not included in the four-game season student ticket. Tickets will be available for those wanting to attend the game, free of charge for undergraduate students.

No student may present more than four certifications for adjacent seating. If you desire to sit with a Saint Mary's student whose class is the same as yours and who has applied for a student ticket, she must accompany you to the ACC ticket window.

All students must bring their blue punched athletic certification card plus their student I.D.

Married students should not obtain a ticket with their class. Instead, present your athletic certification at the ticket office of the ACC with evidence of your marital status between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Monday, September 12, or Tuesday September 13.

On Monday, September 19, tickets will be distributed to married students upon presentation of your receipt.

Golf tryouts

Anyone interested in trying out for the Notre Dame golf team may do so on September 10 and 11. On both dates contestants will play 18 holes, being paired by their handicaps.

The final two rounds will be played over a three day period on September 15, 16 and 17, with the pairings determined by the contestant's performance in the first two rounds. The competition is played for one of the most prestigious Notre Dame awards, the Notre Dame Golden Dome Medalion, donated by W. J. Burke.

Coaches Devine and Sherrill anticipate Saturday's opener

PITTSBURGH AP - Notre Dame Coach Dan Devine has tradition to uphold; Pitt Coach Jackie Sherrill a national title to duplicate, but both underplay any pressure they feel to win their national televised opener on Saturday.

"This is not a must game for us," says Sherrill, who replaced Johnny Majors at Pitt. "It is a must game for Notre Dame. They have been there. They're No. 1 in preseason polls. And there's no way they'll be national champions without beating Pitt."

Devine, speaking by telephone to reporters gathered at the Pitt luncheon Tuesday, said:

"Pittsburgh could be the No. 1 team in the nation. And they could have three first team All-Americans. It's going to be a good football game."

Devine says he is guardedly optimistic about his team, which has most of last year's defensive unit intact. But he says that's misleading because the defense was not as good last year as it was cracked up to be.

"We gave up too many points. We weren't quite as good as we looked."

Notre Dame's secondary will have five returning lettermen, all starters at one time or another last year. In all, 11 defensive regulars are returning.

On offense, the Irish will have several new faces, including quarterback Rusty Lisch and wide receiver Kris Haines, who Sherrill calls Notre Dame's most underrated player.

Jerome Heavens, returning from knee surgery, will start at fullback, while Tom Domin and Vagas Ferguson will be the halfbacks.

Sherrill says he really has only one halfback so far, Elliott Walker who teamed with Tony Dorsett last year in Pitt's backfield. The other starter will be Larry Sims, a 5-foot-10 sophomore.

Dorsett, now a Dallas Cowboy, said Tuesday he may fly to Pittsburgh after the Cowboys meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Thursday night for the Notre Dame-Pitt game.

"If possible, I'd like to see the game from the sidelines. If my presence can help motivate, that's fine. But I don't know if I can help from there," Dorsett said.

Devine won't miss Dorsett, but he says his team also won't be lulled by the absence of the Heisman Trophy winner, who ram-

The Underhanded

Towle's rags

Let me repeat this one more time. The University of Nevada-Las Vegas has been slapped with two years of NCAA probation because of recruiting violations within the basketball program. I bring this up because it has surprised me to no end that there are many sports fanatics here at Notre Dame who didn't even know it. Yes, indeed, Jerry Tarkanian's basketball team will be absent from the television screen and the NCAA playoffs for the next two years.

Well Jerry, it's about time that the NCAA finally nailed you. After all, every college basketball fan in the country has known of your guilt for several years now. The papers told us that and it was only a matter of time before the NCAA gathered whatever they did for convicting evidence. Jerry Tarkanian was a convicted man when he left Long Beach State after the NCAA had penalized that school for similar reasons.

He had to be guilty. How else could he have assembled the most exciting and explosive basketball team of the 1970's? Never mind the possibility that he may be a great recruiter and coach. Jerry Tarkanian was looking for trouble when he came to the gambling capital of the country. I only hope that the NCAA will be equally aggressive in its policing of all other schools in the United States. From Los Angeles to Miami, from Norman to Wichita. State your promise to keep your minds open, NCAA. Say "Cheese" Johnson. That's from the Valley Conference. Figure it out. He's guilty.

On to the Heisman Trophy. Why? Well, the football season hasn't really started yet and already the "race" for the award has been narrowed down to about three or four names. Now, isn't that kind of unfair to those unknown players who will emerge from the 1977 college football season with outstanding performances? There's no way of knowing who is really deserving at this time of year.

It's really absurd. There could be a quarterback somewhere out there in America who will pass for 4,000 yards and 30 TD's while rushing for another thousand while leading his team to an undefeated season and a berth in the Boardwalk Bowl. Only he won't have a chance against the likes of a Browner, Miller, or Cavanaugh. Tony Dorsett certainly deserved the award in 1976 but he had it in the bag even before he took the field against Notre Dame last year.

And in like manner, rumor has it that next month's issue of Sporting News intends to feature prognostications for the Cy Young award of 1977. Leading candidates to be illustrated include six-year old change up specialist Tom Fidyrych of Mt. Lakes, New Jersey and Mark Seaver, a 10 year-old, flame-throwing righty from Oak Lawn, Illinois.

There is another rumor going around that Hank Aaron's major league homerun record has been broken. Now that's news to me. Who was this super slugger? It wasn't Bench, Kingman, Schmidt or Foster according to the rumor. No, it was reportedly a man by the name of Sadaharu Oh, a Chinese descendant who plays for Japan's version of a major league.

Someone, somewhere had the nerve to say that his recent hitting of career homer number 756 had broken Aaron's record. Without going into details, Oh's record does not stand up to Aaron's. Let Aaron's record stand and keep Oh's mark in proper perspective, as a great deed in a different league representative of a totally different culture.

Finally, Boston Red Sox fans had to be rejoicing following Monday's action where the Bosox picked up a full two games on the millionaire club. They took a pair from Toronto while the New York team was losing a pair to the Indians. Thanks for your Indians, Patty.
