Student goods stolen; suspect identified

by Mark Rust
Staff Reporter

A Mishawaka suspect, foiled by his lack of imagination and the alertness of a janitor, is being sought in connection with the theft of a University student's property from the Self-Lock Storage Company in Mishawaka according to the Mishawaka Police-Detective Bureau.

The name of the subject has not been released.

The recovery of the goods and the identification of a suspect was made much easier for the police when it was discovered by a custodian Tuesday that a rented locker--adjacent to the one he was cleaning--held a number of boxes that fit the description of those stolen.

"Evidently, the suspect broke the inside lock and simply hauled the property into his own rented locker directly across the aisle," Sgt. William Biron of the bureau said.

Acting on a search warrant issued yesterday, the police inspected the boxes, identified the contents, and took the name of their suspect from the rental register.

Peter Rimkus, a junior Science major, told police Friday that every one of the 34 marked boxes that he had stored last spring had been taken over the summer.

Most of the stolen property--including two refrigerators, two chests of drawers, trunks, bookcases and shelving--was recovered. All the items in the suspect's locker were identified by the police as belonging to Rimkus.

According to the police, the whereabouts of the suspect are known and, upon issuance of an arrest warrant, "an arrest will be forthcoming."

Leaders ask for prayers

Mideast summit under way

CAMP DAVID, Md. [AP] President Carter sat down with Egypt's Anwar Sadat and Israel's Menachem Begin for the first big three talks at the Mideast summit yesterday and joined them in asking the world to pray for success.

"We ask people of all faiths to pray with us that peace and justice may result from these deliberations," the three leaders said in a statement issued by the White House less than two hours before their 3 p.m. EDT meeting.

White House spokesman Jody Powell said the plea for prayer probably was Carter's idea.

The meeting, at Carter's lodge, lasted an hour and 40 minutes. The three leaders gathered on a flagstone patio with a panoramic view of this forested, 134-acre presidential hideaway in the mountains of western Maryland.

But there was no word afterward about what was said or whether any progress was made.

It was the first meeting between the Egyptian president and the Israeli prime minister since Christmas at Ismailia, an Egyptian city on the Suez Canal, where they set up negotiations between their foreign ministers. The ministerial talks broke down in mid-January.

Historians at the Library of Congress said it also marked the first time an American president had met with the chiefs of state of Israel and Egypt at the same time to try to settle the decades-old dispute between Arabs and Jews in the Middle East.

After the meeting, President and Mrs. Carter took a hike around Camp David with Prime Minister and Mrs. Begin. The Israeli leader's wife arrived during the afternoon after attending a relative's wedding in Toronto.

While they were hiking, Sadat took a 45-minute motor tour around neighboring towns near the Pennsylvania border. Mrs. Sadat was visiting an ill grandchild in Paris and had no plans to join her husband at the Camp David summit.

President Sadat and Prime Minister Begin spoke briefly to each other as they encountered one another during early afternoon walks at this forested presidential retreat in the mountains of western Maryland.

Powell called it a "chance encounter" and said it happened at 12:15 p.m.. The spokesman said Begin and Sadat exchanged pleasantries for about two minutes and were joined by Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, who rode up on a bicycle.

Vice-President Walter F. Mondale was summoned from Washington, 65 miles away, early yesterday. Carter had left Mondale in Washington to tend to non-summit business, but the president had said he planned to include the vice president in important sessions.

Carter, acting as middleman, set the stage for the three-way session by huddling separately first with Begin and then Sadat.

Because of Carter-imposed secrecy, there were no disclosures about the substance of the talks.

"The style and tone has been quite informal," Powell said.

The separate meetings were Carter's first steps at this historic summit to find solutions to the 30-year conflict in the Middle East between Arabs and Israelis. The task of narrowing their differences looked long and hard. The summit could last 10 days to two weeks.

The private talk between Carter and Begin was Tuesday night. Begin made his way through the trees at this presidential retreat from his lodge at Aspen Lodge, where Carter is staying. Israeli sources, asking not to be identified, said the talk lasted 3½ hours.

The president then saw Sadat yesterday morning, again without authorizing any announcement on the substance of the meeting.

Before they were enveloped in secrecy, Sadat and Begin expressed sharply differing assessments of the goals of the summit. Clearly seeking a dramatic breakthrough - and counting on Carter to wring major concessions from Israel - Sadat declared in an arrival statement on Tuesday that "this is no time for maneuvers and worn-out ideas."

Begin viewed summit goals in more modest terms, saying the Israeli delegation "will make all endeavors possible to reach an agreement so that the peace process can continue and ultimately be crowned with peace treaties."

Carter himself has expressed limited expectations for the summit, saying "no one can ensure the degree of success which we might enjoy."

No new evidence revealed as Connally and wife testify

Washington [AP] Former Texas Governor and Mrs. John Connally recounted yesterday the moments when President John F. Kennedy was cut down from behind by an assassin's bullet, and said they heard no firing from the front.

A congressional hearing at which the Connallys testified produced gasps from spectators who were reminded of the shock of those frightening moments of American history, but no important new evidence about the assassination surfaced.

Giving no support to theories that two gunmen were firing in a conspiracy to assassinate the president, the Connallys said there were three shots and all came from behind them.

Their testimony to the House assassinations committee supported the Warren Commission's conclusion that acting alone, murdered the president in Dallas, firing three shots from a sixth-floor window to the rear of the president's car.

Some investigators say that there may have been some firing from a grassy knoll in front of the motorcade.

"You heard none from the grassy knoll?" asked Rep. Samuel Devine, R-Ohio.

"No, sir," Connally replied, "and I don't think any came from there." "We reacted to the shots," Mrs. Connally testified. "If one had come from the front we would have reacted to it."

The Connallys were in Kennedy's car when the president was assassinated Nov. 22, 1963. Connally was wounded.

They testified, as they have before, that Connally either was - or may have been - hit by a separate bullet.

But they said it was one of three from behind.

Mrs. Connally testified that she distinctly heard three shots and perceived that the first hit Kennedy the second hit her husband, and the third hit the president.

Connally testified he is not certain himself that he was hit with a separate bullet but said he is certain he was hit by the second shot which came from behind.

"There has been a great deal of speculation that the president and I were hit with the same bullet," Connally said. "That may well be. But it wasn't the first shot."

The amateur motion picture film of the assassination was shown in the hearing room - drawing a gasp from spectators when the president was hit - and then Mr. and Mrs. Connally were asked to give their own recollection.

"I heard what I thought was a rifle shot," Connally said. "I think it came from over my right shoulder. I looked at the president because I, frankly, had the fear it might be an assassination."

"I never made the full turn. I was hit. I was knocked over. Just doubled over. The force of the bullet drove my body over about double. I could see I was almost drrenched with blood."

"I only heard two shots. I did not hear the shot that hit me. I heard another shot, the third. It hit with a loud impact."

Japan to help restore site

ATHENS, Greece—Greece has approved $270,000 in credits for the importation of titanium from Japan to help restore the 2,500-year-old Acropolis monuments, officials said Wednesday. Greece stopped all imports from Japan last June because the trade balance favored the Japanese. The decision to import the highly costly metal was seen as an attempt to get the Japanese to import more Greek goods. The metal, resistant to erosion and temperature changes, will be used to support the marble temples.

Crawford trial ends

MOSCOW—A Soviet prosecutor asked for a five-year suspended sentence for American businessman Francis J. Crawford yesterday at the end of Crawford's two-day currency speculation trial. A suspended sentence could free Crawford to leave the country, although the judge could order him kept here. The maximum sentence is eight years in a labor camp. Judge Lev Mironov said a verdict would be handed down today.

Cross burning seen

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Police spotted a flaming, three-foot-high, cotton-wrapped cross burning on the lawn of ABC-affiliate WNGE during Tuesday night's repeat showing of "Roots." The show, based on a book by Henning, Tenn., author Alex Haley, depicts Haley's search for his heritage and traces the history of slavery in the United States. Cross-burnings in the United States have historically been associated with white supremacist groups.

Ticket office prepares for scalpers

by John McGrath

Officials at the Athletic Ticket office are bracing for the annual bout with a perennial problem that accompanies Notre Dame football -- ticket scalping.

Mike Busick, ticket manager, says that the situation this year is no different, and that standard procedures will be followed.

"If we know of any instance or get any proof that a person is charging an inflated price for tickets, we will revoke that person's privilege of purchasing tickets in the future", Busick said.

According to the ticket office manager, South Bend police, both uniformed and plain-clothes, will aid in the detection of potential scalpers at Saturday's game and throughout the season. In addition to South Bend police, campus security personnel will be stationed at the student gates.

"The police are instructed to confiscate the tickets and to ask any scalpers to leave the university grounds", Busick said. "If we catch any student, (scalping) we will confiscate their I.D. as well as their ticket and turn the card over to the Dean of Students office for disciplinary action", the manager said.

According to Busick, there are

Graduate tests hold registration

Students planning to take one or more of the admission tests required by graduate and professional schools are advised to register for the tests immediately. A disruption in mail service could prevent those who delay from being registered for the early fall examinations.

Registration Deadlines for the examinations are:

- | | |
|-----------|---|
| Sept. 11; | Dental Admission Test (DAT), |
| Sept. 14; | Law School Admission Test (LSAT) |
| Sept. 21; | Graduate Management Admission Test (GMAT) |
| Sept. 28. | Graduate Record Examination (GRE), |

usually about a half-dozen scalpers caught each game. "As long as people are willing to pay, there is going to be scalping", he said.

Busick offered no consolation to those who might be cheated by scalpers, saying only "our best advice is not to pay the price, and they will eventually come down (to a more realistic figure.)"

Phones needed to open

OBUD still unable to function

by Pat Mangan

As of yet, the Ombudsman office has not been able to resume its services to the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's community. Normally, the Ombudsman Service (OBUD) is in operation seven to ten days after the beginning of the fall semester. This year however, OBUD was edged out of its former office to accommodate the unusually large cabinet of Student Body President Andy McKenna. Although moving has been an inconvenience, it is not OBUD's main problem since their new location is only a door away from their old office on the second floor of LaFortune. The real problem is that OBUD's new office is yet to be equipped with telephones.

Tom Lux, Director of OBUD said, "It takes a least seven to ten days to gather and correct our information." Lux had expected to be in service by Tuesday, but since OBUD primarily supplies information to the community by telephone, it is at the moment severely handicapped.

Lux was surprised by the delay and had expected the phones to be installed by last Friday. He was not sure of exactly who or what was causing the hold up, but Director of Student Activities John Reid offered this explanation,

"Normally it takes about ten days for the phone company to service the University's many needs at the opening of the fall semester. If for example, this order were called in in February, it would only take a day for Indiana Bell to install it."

When the phone company serviceman responsible for servicing the University was notified of the situation by a Notre Dame operator, he remarked, "I thought they were already installed".

Although OBUD has not been able to resume its services on schedule, the delay is not expected to be a long one. Lux said that he expected to be in full service by the end of the week.

Ford Motors to cooperate in Pinto probe

ELKHART, Ind. [AP] - Ford Motor co. will cooperate with an Indiana grand jury's probe into the fiery crash of a Pinto, but its chairman and its outgoing president will probably not testify, the automaker said yesterday.

Elkhart County Prosecutor Michael Cosentino disclosed early yesterday that the grand jury had summoned chairman Henry Ford II and Lee A. Iacocca, ousted as president in July, to appear when the panel reconvenes Tuesday.

Ford's general counsel, H.R. Nolte, said in a statement released late in the day that he believes "the needs of the grand jury can be met with the appearance of other company personnel, and that it will not be necessary for Mr. Ford or Mr. Iacocca to appear."

Nolte said the company "is prepared to cooperate with the prosecutor to assist the grand jury in its deliberations."

Cosentino had said he wouldn't insist on appearances by Henry Ford or Iacocca and that the grand jury would be willing to hear from anyone designated by the automaker.

He said that summonses were forwarded to the Wayne County, Mich., prosecutor in Detroit.

The University is currently investigating the feasibility of a new computer check-out system, according to David E. Sparks, Director of University Libraries.

The mini-computer would assist the libraries in keeping track of book loans, and would keep the bookshelves, which are now in 'disarray', in better order, according to Sparks.

Library administrators were given a demonstration of the computer system in action at Western Michigan University and were impressed with its efficiency. The computer, which is manufactured by Computer Library Systems Inc. of Boston, would cost the University an estimated $350,000, excluding installation fees.

Sparks is optimistic about the computer, but stated that the University must depend on "a gift from some alumnus" in order to invest in the new checkout system.

Academic Commission lectures include Leary

by Ed Callahan
Staff Reporter

Academic Commissioner John Kuluz yesterday released the schedule of events for the fall semester, beginning with a Space

Symposium Sept. 11 and 12.

The commission has not yet received word from Joseph Califano, Rev. Jesse Jackson or Angela Davis, but a number of guests have been confirmed. A two day symposium on the direction of space exploration entitled, "Space Explorations and Contributions to American Culture," will begin Monday. The symposium will feature a lunar exhibit in the Library Concourse, a film festival, and a talk by NASA astronaut Don Lind.

Mihajlo Mihajlov, a Soviet dissident now living in Yugoslavia will speak Sept. 19 on the "Religious Renaissance in Communist Countries." The schedule also highlights a multi-media presentation as part of a two day symposium on political assassinations through American history. Lectures, slides and films will be used along with afternoon workshops in reviewing the assassinations of John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King and others.

Timothy Leary, who describes himself as an "agent of change and an evolutionary surfer," will be speaking on the sixties consciousness movement, including the evolution of intelligence, space migration and life extension. His scope will include not only the sixties but also the latter half of the twentieth century.

Former rock critic for the New York Times, Henry Edwards will be speaking in November. Edwards wrote the book and screenplay for the movie, "Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band".

Phillip Crane, presidential candidate from Illinois along with Karlis Kaufmanis, noted astronomist, will be appearing in December.

Kuluz said that nothing has been confirmed for the spring semester yet and the commission are open to all suggestions. Possible guests include the Amazing Kreskin, Doug Henning's magic show and Larry O'Brien, commissioner of the National Basketball Association.

Timothy Leary is one of the speakers featured in this semester's Academic Commission lecture series

O'Meara urges research in faculty hiring criterion

by Rob Powers

University Provost O. Timothy O'Meara says he will stress the criterion of research in the hiring of faculty.

"The natural home of work of this sort is the University", O'Meara said, "since it is research which distinguishes a university from a college. To make it a university, distinguished research must be performed here."

O'Meara explained that research includes not only laboratory work in the sciences, but also creativity on the part of the faculty in the liberal arts and business.

O'Meara stated that research has gradually become one of the primary considerations for admission to the faculty during the Hesburgh Administration, and since then, the faculty has become much more involved in research.

While O'Meara described Notre Dame as a "First rate university" in the area of teaching, he added, "We are not yet distinguished in research. What we are doing should be of a higher order in the area of research."

Clark Equipment funds series

The first business lecture in a series funded by a $100,000 gift from the Clark Equipment Co., Buchanan, Mi. will begin in April, 1979.

Bro. Leo Ryan, dean of the College of Business, said, "We will have more details after the dinner on Oct. 5." At that time, fifteen members of the business faculty and fifteen senior officers of Clark Equipment will meet at the Center for Continuing Education to name a general chairman and appoint a committee for the lecture series.

The $100,000 gift was announced May 6 at the time of the company's 75th anniversary. B.E. Phillips, president of Clark, presented the grant to University President Fr. Theodore Hesburgh as a memorial to the company's first president, Eugene Clark.

O'Meara said he will encourage the individual departments to more strongly emphasize research as a criterion for hiring faculty and determining tenure.

O'Meara added, however, that the total potential of a candidate, and not just his research background, is the primary consideration when he is being reviewed for a position. "One must not only ask 'How good is this person?' "he said, "but 'How good will he become?' "

Sister John Miriam Jones, Assistant Provost, explained that there are three qualifications necessary for admission to the faculty: the quality of the candidate's research, the candidate's ability as a teacher, and the candidate's ability to relate to his colleagues and students.

Jones pointed to the problem of notable researchers in the universities who have no teaching ability. "There is a great vacuum for good teaching in the universities. Research can not be stressed over the ability to convey that knowledge to the student."

And then there was one. Persistent young men spent a profitable evening last night on the annual SMC panty raid. Ingenious SMC girls found several ways to tantalize, one of which is shown above. [Photo by Beth Cutter]

Reserved for liturgy and prayer

Student Affairs clarifies use of hall chapels

by Gregory Solman

Since Sorin Hall was built early in the University's history every dormitory at Notre Dame has had its own chapel for liturgy and prayer.

"I've heard Notre Dame referred to as the 'City of the Blessed Sacrament'," Fr. William Toohey director of Campus Ministry, commented on the University's unique situation of having a chapel in each of the 22 residence halls.

"I know of no other school in the world with a chapel in each dorm, and we are committed to preserving that tradition," he added.

For this reason, the University again has clarified its policies regarding student use of the hall chapels. In a directive from the Office of Student Affairs to each of the hall rectors and resident advisors, it is stated that hall chapels must be reserved for liturgy and prayer.

"The only exception is a general hall meeting called by the rector because a specific hall could not accommodate all of its residents elsewhere," the directive states.

"Chapels shall not be used for parties, banquets, club or organization meetings, classrooms and study halls. However, it could be a quiet place to read for some students," the statement continues.

The "chapel space" policy was formulated by the Office of Student Affairs. According to Fr. Daniel Jenke, rector of Dillon Hall and associate director of Campus Ministry, the policy is "generally supported by most of the rectors."

According to Toohey, the policy "wants to restrict the use of chapels as social space...to reserve it and make it a special place for solitude, quiet, reflection and meditation."

"We don't get too rigorous with the rules," Toohey added. "Obviously, if a student walks into a chapel with a sociology book, no one will kick him out."

When Toohey arrived at the University nine years ago, chapel space was being used more for social space than it is now. At that time, the chapel policy had not been clearly stated.

After several "informal efforts" to reinforce the proper use of the chapels, a formal policy was issued by the Office of Student Affairs.

"Father Hesburgh is particularly committed to the concept of the traditional hall chapel," Toohey said. "Hopefully, when using the chapels," he added, "the students themselves can decide upon what functions are proper and tasteful."

Richmond teachers settle strike; Marion teachers still off the job

[AP] - Richmond teachers returned to the classrooms yesterday while Marion teachers went back to the bargaining table amid speculation that a settlement to that strike was near.

Marion teachers, who have been off the job 10 days, reported light progress in their talks and summoned a state mediator from Indianapolis in hopes of reaching an agreement before a court-imposed this morning deadline for returning to work.

In Richmond, the teachers voted unanimously yesterday to end their 13-day walkout and then marched en masse into schools to begin preparation for the start of classes for the city's 9,700 pupils today. There was no immediate decision whether the seven class days lost to the strike would have to be made up.

The strike's end came after negotiations for the teachers and the school board reached what was termed a "conceptual agreement" on a new two-year contract, capping 20 months of bargaining.

The agreement called for a 6 percent pay raise for last year, when the teachers worked without a contract and an 8.6 percent raise for the current school year. Under the last contract, the system's 472 teachers earned between $8,975 and $18,077 a year.

The teachers had been demanding a 9.5 percent raise for this year, while the board had offered 8.5 percent.

The settlement was reached after the teachers dropped issues concerning preparation time for elementary classes, restrictions on class size and due process for non-tenured teachers.

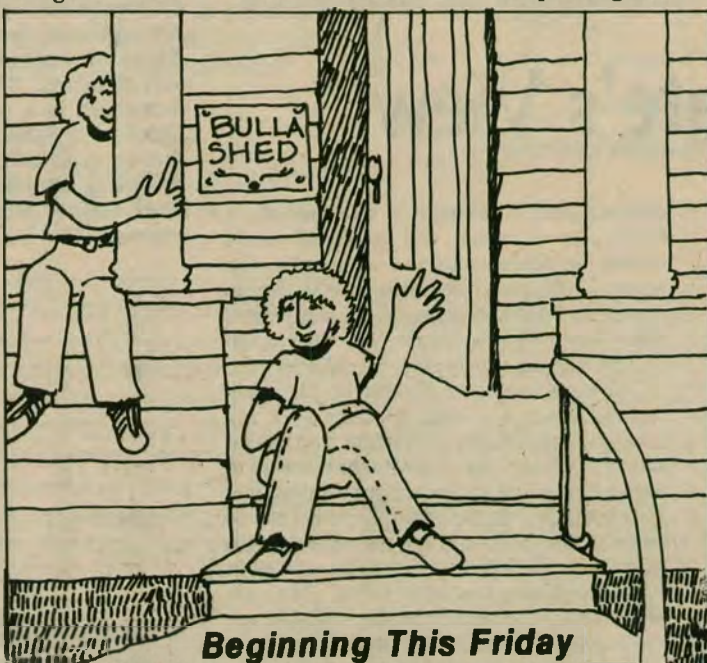

Jack Haggengjos president of the 330-member Richmond Association of Classroom Teachers, said the contract agreement indicated that language disputes, rather than pay, had been the stumbling block. He said the new contract was one that both sides could live with.

At Marion, Grant Circuit Judge A. Morris Hall summoned another 144 teachers to his courtroom yesterday, held them in contempt for defying his original back-to-work order and gave them until 8 a.m. today to return. If not, he said, they will be fined $25 each per day and sentenced to one day in jail for each day they remain on strike.

It was the same ultimatum given to 168 teachers who appeared in court Tuesday.

Eight strike leaders still are in jail, with seven of them released under the custody of armed sheriff's deputies to participate in negotiations.

Through 'Horizons' program

Students learn about community

by Robbie Moore

A new program aimed at developing student interest in the South Bend-Mishawaka area is underway. Mary Ann Roemer and Father Don McNeill, creators of "Horizons," are urging students from Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Grace Hall, to participate in the program.

"Horizons" originated in the classroom. Urban studies students, enrolled in the course, "The Empty City," were mainly residents of Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Grace. "These three halls were chosen for the pilot program as a matter of convenience," Roemer said.

Future plans include expansion of the program to include participation of other dorms.

A bus tour of South Bend and Mishawaka on Sept. 17, following an audio-visual presentation at 1:30 p.m. is part of the program. The slide show will be shown in the Library Auditorium and will highlight the historical aspects of South Bend and the St. Joe River.

The cost of the tour will be a dollar with room for 150 students divided equally among three buses. The fee must be paid before Sept. 11, and will be collected by rector's assistants.

The bus tour will make stops at points of interest such as the Century Center, the Farmer's Market, and the 100 Center, as well as a riverboat ride down the St. Joe River. Special guest commentators will include Jean O'Meara, wife of the ND provost.

Following the tour, there will be a cookout behind Grace Hall.

"So many students spend four years here at Notre Dame and unfortunately never discover the opportunities which lie beyond Corby's, Shula's and Nickie's," she stated. Born in Mishawaka and a present resident of South Bend, Roemer wants to acquaint the students with these opportunities.

"I remember dating Notre Dame students and hearing them complain that there was nothing to do in South Bend. I would like to show those students they are wrong," Roemer said.

"Horizons" began last Spring. It is comprised of thirteen students and three directors. This group reflects a mixture of hall presidents, rectors, and rector's assistants. They are presently working with representatives from Student Affairs and Urban Studies.

Roemer hopes students will be persuaded to involve themselves in the community surrounding Notre Dame, by offering their assistance in civic projects such as Logan Center.

In U.S. Open
Walts' winning streak spoiled by McEnroe

NEW YORK [AP] - John McEnroe ended the rampage of giant-killer Butch Walts Tuesday, defeating him 6-1, 6-2, 7-6, in the quarter-finals of the U.S. Open tennis championships.

And second-seeded Chris Evert put down teen-ager Tracy Austin 7-5, 6-1, while top-seeded Martina Navratilova easily beat 11th-seeded Virginia Ruzici of Romania 6-3, 6-2.

In the lone night singles match, fourth-seeded Vitas Gerulaitis was to play Johan Kriek of South Africa in another quarter-final. McEnroe, the 19-year-old who seeded 15th, encountered little of the intensity that Walts had used in dumping defending champion Guillermo Vilas Monday night.

Walts, who served spectacularly against Vilas, served well-74 percent of his first serves were good- but not nearly so emphatically. He aced just six times, the same as McEnroe.

But clearly the match wasn't decided on service. Walts never broke service, except for one point in the final-set tiebreaker.

McEnroe was faster and more successful at the net, and virtually controlled the first two sets.

Walts played a smarter game in the final set but couldn't get ahead. McEnroe won the tiebreaker 7-4.

McEnroe, meanwhile, advances to the semifinal against the winner of a quarter-final match against the winner of the Jimmy Connors-Brian Gottfried quarter-final Thursday.

This is the farthest the young New Yorker has ever made it in the Open, having fallen in the fourth round last year. His best showing ever, the one that spotlighted him as a rising star was his trip to the semifinals of Wimbledon in 1977, where he lost to Connors.

He was upset in the first round of Wimbledon this year by Erik van Dillen, a former U.S. Davis Cup player who had slipped nearly to obscurity.

Austin, the 15-year-old fifth seed who was the other sensation at Wimbledon 1977, had her best showing ever against Evert - at least in the first game. She plays very much like Evert, with two-fisted backhands and sweeping forehands. She also likes to stand back and rally. But she still isn't as strong as Evert, and the older woman did a better job of mixing her shots.

Navratilova, who has lost only 16 games so far, never going to a third set, says it doesn't bother her that she isn't getting a tough workout.

"I'd much rather win easier and play well than go three sets."

She will meet the winner of a quarter-final match between 16-year-old Pam Shriver and Lesley Hunt of Australia. Evert will play the winner of a quarter-final between Wendy Turnbull and Kathy May.

There was one upset Wednesday. Eighth-seeded Marty Riessen and Sherwood Stewart of the United States toppled the top-seeded duo of Frew McMillan and Bob Hewitt of South Africa 2-6, 6-2, 7-5 in the quarters.

SMC netters win

the first SMC team ever to qualify for post-season regional play.

Saint Mary's dominated the competition in Chicago as Noreen Bracken, Tami Griffin, and Mary Scott won their singles matches. The teams of Griffin/Schuster and Bracken/O'Brien also captured doubles titles. These victories allowed SMC to easily outdistance the second-place finisher Wooster College of Ohio, 37-24.

The Belles face Indiana State University in their next match at home tomorrow at 3 p.m.

Over Missouri game

John Heisler expresses mixed emotions

by Frank LaGrotta
Sports Writer

John Heisler, Assistant Sports Information Director

John Heisler will probably smile a little on Saturday no matter how the game turns out.

You see, Heisler, Notre Dame's newly-acquired assistant Sports Information Director just happens to be a Missouri alumnus. During his undergraduate tenure he managed to spend a lot of time in the Tigers' Sports Information den where he served as a student assistant. Upon graduation, he was promoted to a full-time assistant to director Bill Callahan.

You might say Heisler got pretty wrapped in Mizzou athletics. Then last spring he returned to Notre Dame to assume the sports information post vacated by Bob Best.

Returned?

"I lived in South Bend all my life," laughs the 23-year-old Heisler. In fact, from 1963 until I left for Missouri I missed only one Notre Dame home game."

Which was?

"The 1964 Iowa game," he recalls. "We had a tremendous snowstorm in South Bend that weekend and I had a terrible cold so my mother wouldn't let me go to the game. What could I do? I was only ten years old!"

Heisler, who received a season ticket to Notre Dame games as a gift in 1968 remembers the last time the Irish took on Missouri.

"I was a high school senior at the time and I remember that Missouri beat Notre Dame 30-26. I was crushed! As a matter of fact it was two weeks after that game that I visited Missouri. When they found out that I was from South Bend they ribbed me to death."

Now, six years later, the question is would Heisler be "crushed" if the Tigers were to pull a repeat of their 1972 performance and upset the Irish again?

"I guess I have semi-mixed emotions about Saturday's game," he admitted. "I'd be lying if I said that there wasn't a soft spot in my heart for Missouri, no matter who they play. But I've been a Notre Dame fan for years and now after working closely with the coaches and athletes here I guess I'll be pulling for them as well."

"It's a strange situation."

A lifetime sports enthusiast with aspirations in the field of journalism Heisler says he reported to Missouri's sports information office "the minute I walked on campus."

"I guess I learned about the existence of sports information at Notre Dame. Every time this office would put out a guide or a brochure I'd be up here to buy one. I subsidized this office for years."

"It seemed natural that someone who loved sports and wanted to write would end up in a sports information office so I decided to get involved at Missouri."

Heisler wound up serving as the campus correspondent for the St. Louis Globe Democrat and The Associated Press. He didn't decide until midway through his senior year that he would pursue a career in sports information.

"I was torn between sports information and writing for a newspaper as a career," he says. "But as I got more involved I realized that sports information was the way I wanted to go."

After handling publicity for basketball and several non-revenue sports, he was named Missouri's first full-time assistant sports information director in April 1977. When the Notre Dame job became available, Heisler applied and was selected from a field of literally hundreds of applicants.

"I thought coming to Notre Dame would be a boost for my career," Heisler points out. "This office and it's director, Roger Valdiserri, are highly respected throughout the business and I thought I could really learn a lot here."

All of which brings us to Saturday's game between the Irish and Missouri; a game, Heisler believes Notre Dame has got to be favored.

"There is no doubt about it," he emphasizes, "on paper Notre Dame has a better team. But you also have to consider that Missouri will be sky high coming in here and that could be a plus for them."

"Notre Dame has a better team, but that's just the thing that inspires our opponents."

As far as Missouri, Heisler believes that first-year coach Warren Powers has made great strides in attempting to restore the football program to the prominence enjoyed under former coach Dan Devine.

"He's young, energetic and very enthusiastic," said Heisler of Powers who replaces retired coach Al Onofrio. "From what I saw before I left, his enthusiasm is catching on. That's good for Missouri because they'll need it."

As far as players, Heisler warns that the Tiger lineup boasts a few to be wary of.

"Kellen Winslow is probably the best tight end Irish fans will see all year. He'll remind a lot of people of Ken MacAfee in that he's big and strong. Once he catches the ball he's a great open field runner. They also have two fine linebackers in Chris Garlich and Billy Bess."

Heisler admits his role at Notre Dame overrides his ties to Missouri. However, should the opportunity present itself, he'd be anxious to renew some old acquaintances.

"Sure there are some guys I'd like to see but I won't let that interfere with my duties here."

And should the unthinkable happen and Missouri upset the Irish?

"I'm not going to any victory parties," Heisler emphasized.

"Those guys from Missouri would never let me live it down."

New assistants aid Devine

by Mark Ronsini

The 1978 Irish Football programs will bear the names and faces of two new assistant mentors: Gene Smith and Jim Gruden.

Following last year's memorable accomplishments, head Coach Dan Devine was burdened with the task of replacing two fine assistant coaches, Francis Peay and Hank Kuhlman. Peay, last year's junior varsity coach, had accepted a generous coaching position at the University of California at Berkeley. Kuhlman, director of the Irish backs and specialty teams, signed with the NFL's Chicago Bears as an assistant coach. Devine's search went no further than his own backyard.

Smith, who only two years ago donned the Irish blue and gold, finds himself as full-time coach of the Notre Dame junior varsity squad. The ex-Irish player looks upon this fact as a distinct advantage. "Because I played the last few years here at Notre Dame, I do know most of the players. I have the ability to communicate with them, and this is important."

Smith entered Notre Dame in 1973 with outstanding athletic credentials. The Cleveland, Ohio, native lettered seven times in football, basketball, and track as he finalized a stand-out career at Chanel High School in Bedford, Ohio. At Notre Dame, Smith saw action at three different positions including offensive guard, linebacker, and defensive end. Unfortunate injuries, however, limited his football career. In 1977 Smith worked as a teacher's assistant while pursuing his master's degree in International Relations.

"I was very surprised and excited at receiving the offer," said Smith. "It afforded me an opportunity at my young age that I could not possibly turn down. It is the best place that one could be."

Jim Gruden, assistant coach at Indiana University for the past five seasons, will direct the running backs and the special teams for the Irish squad. Gruden, 41, lacks no experience in the college coaching ranks. Before his five-year stay at Indiana University, Gruden coached at Dayton University, as well as Heidelberg (Ohio) College, his alma mater.

As a player, Gruden called the signals for three seasons and lead his team to a remarkable 24-3 slate. Football, however, was not his only athletic forte. Gruden earned four letters in golf and was twice his conference's runner-up in that sport.

Gruden, like Smith, is thrilled at the prospect of coaching at Notre Dame. "I was very flattered at the fact that I received the position," said Gruden. "I had heard about Notre Dame ever since I was a kid. It was very special to me."

Both men, no doubt, realize that coaching football at Notre Dame is no simple or menial task. The pressures for prime performance are intense, at Notre Dame, especially when defending a National Championship is the new task to be completed. However, Smith owns an NCAA ring while Gruden may not have to wait very long to enjoy that privilege.

SMC netters open season with victory

Last year's fifteenth best tennis team in the country, the Saint Mary's Belles, opened their 78-79 season with an 8-1 victory over Saint Joseph College at home yesterday.

"They played well today," commented coach Tom Selsor, "and it should be a good season this year."

Selsor continued, "The team looks strong, but time will tell whether we have the strength that we had last year."

The Belles lost Barb Timm and Louise Purcell, the number one and number two players, to graduation. Two other netters, Tami Griffin and Noreen Bracken, chose not to return to the squad this year. Despite these losses, Selsor believes that this year's squad has the potential to repeat the performance turned in by last year's SMC netters.

In yesterday's match against Saint Joseph, the Saint Mary's squad fulfilled Selsor's expectations as they breezed past their opponents. Cindy Schuster, the number one SMC singles player, opened the match by defeating Barb Salkeld, 7-6. Ann Daniels, Maureen O'Brien, Mo O'Brien, and Terri Bracken followed Schuster with easy victories over their opponents.

The doubles teams of Schuster/Daniels, O'Brien/Bracken, and O'Brien/Karen Smith also scored victories for the Belles. The only loss sustained by Saint Mary's came in the number six singles match when Maura Finneran was defeated by Saint Joseph's Sue Fitzgerald.

Selsor hopes that the addition of freshman Karen Smith and the return of junior Ann Daniels after a year in Rome will be sufficient to fill the gaps created by the loss of key players from last year's squad. With the new players selected in Tuesday's tryouts, the Belles have a squad of 14 women.

The 77-78 Belles finished fifteenth out of a field of 30 teams in the National Collegiate finals held in Santa Barbara, CA, last June. The team made their way to the finals by capturing the Midwest AIAW Regional title held in Chicago. Six singles players and three doubles teams represented
