Reid bans sale of Playboy in Flanner

by John McGrath
Senior Staff Reporter

University officials have made it clear to the management of Flanner Food Sales that they want magazine sales at that operation to cease. In a recent Observer series on campus food sales operations, it was revealed that Flanner was selling Playboy and Penthouse magazines in addition to food items.

John Reid, director of Student Activities, disclosed yesterday that he had sent a letter to hall rectors last week informing them that the sale of all items not approved by his office at campus food sales operations must cease.

Tony Roberts, manager of Flanner Food Sales, reported that he had received a copy of the letter last Monday, telling him to "cease and desist" from selling any magazines. Roberts said he had complied with the order.

"We haven't banned anything," Reid stressed. "We've just told them that they have to go through the regular process."

Reid indicated that if magazine sales are to be re-instated at Flanner or at any other hall, the outlet's management would have to submit an application first to the Student Union Services Commission and then to his office.

"We usually get 50 or 60 requests (to sell unapproved items) each semester," Reid said.

"Food sales are traditionally just that—sales of food and non-alcoholic beverages," Reid commented.

"But is a hall food sales a food

Vietnamese-Chinese conflict

Teng says war may end within ten days

BANGKOK, Thailand [AP]—Vietnamese troops defending the Red River valley corridor to Hanoi held their ground yesterday against a three-pronged Chinese armored and infantry attack, Hanoi radio said.

It claimed Peking's soldiers were being killed at a rate of 800 a day all along the border front lines.

China's Vice Premier Teng Asiao-ping said yesterday the 10-day-old conflict might end within 10 days, but analysts in Bangkok and elsewhere expect the Chinese invasion force to first mount an all-out assault against Hanoi's troops.

The official Soviet news media charged that China was massing troops near its border with Laos for an invasion of that Vietnamese-dominated country. The report could not be confirmed.

In a speech in the western Russian city of Minsk, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko reiterated the Kremlin warning to China to pull out of Soviet-allied Vietnam "before it is too late," he said the invasion was "doomed to failure."

A Soviet airlift of military supplies to Hanoi appeared to be continuing. Airport sources in Calcutta, India, said three cargo planes—one Bulgarian and two Soviet—refueled there Sunday and yesterday on their way to the Vietnamese capital.

A Voice of Vietnam radio broadcast monitored here claimed Hanoi's troops had killed more than 2,300 Chinese in fighting since Friday at scattered battlefields along the front.

The broadcast said tank-led Chinese infantrymen attacked Vietnamese forces from three directions in the Cam Duong area, south of the provincial capital Lao Cai and about 150 miles northwest of Hanoi.

Cam Duong and Lao Cai, which was reported captured by the Chinese last week, lie in the Red River valley, a strategic water, rail and highway corridor leading to Hanoi. Chinese officials have been quoted as saying, however, they have no plans to try to seize the Vietnamese capital.

The Hanoi broadcast claimed counter-attacking Vietnamese troops killed 1,400 Chinese around Am Duong, but that fighting was continuing in the area yesterday.

China, whose troops are reported to have penetrated as far as 20 miles inside Vietnam, has issued few reports about the progress of the war. But Japan's Kyodo news service said Peking radio reported that a Chinese battalion overran five Vietnamese hilltop positions near Dong Dang, north of the town of Lang Son.

Hanoi claims its troops have killed more than 16,000 Chinese thus far. Intelligence sources here consider the figure inflated. The Vietnamese have not reported their own casualties, and the Chinese have published no casualty figures.

Kyodo news service quoted Chinese sources as saying Peking wants to "punish" Vietnam by destroying at least one Vietnamese army division and military bases and artillery emplacements near the border.

Eclipse turns day into night

Skywatchers by the thousands shared the awe of watching the sun suddenly go black yesterday in one of nature's spectacles that won't be repeated in North America until the 21st century.

Animals milled nervously and confused roosters crowed twice as day turned into night in a swath 175 miles wide across the northwestern United States and into Canada.

Street lights controlled by sensors flicked on in Spokane and Olympia, Wash., and elsewhere as the moon swept between Earth and the bright orange disk of the sun in the last total eclipse to be visible on this continent until the year 2017.

A house cat in Williston, N.D., grew fitful, then got "all hunched up and wouldn't go anywhere until the sun came out," his mistress said.

Eclipse watchers and solar groupies at Williston gathered in snowsuits and parkas in 15 degree temperatures, which fell 6 degrees more when the sun blinked.

"Hurray for the moon!" was the champagne toast among 24 eclipse-chasers high above the Columbia River gorge aboard a Boeing 727 jetliner chartered by the Pacific Science Center in Seattle.

The moon's shadow made landfall shortly after 8 a.m. PST at Agate Beach, Ore., in its eastward march across the sky, arcing as far east as North Dakota before swinging north into Canada.

At Olympia, the Washington state capitol, the Clouds broke 10 minutes before total eclipse.

The curious broke out homemade pinhole projectors and makeshift viewers as scientists set up more sophisticated telescopes or conducted experiments in chartered aircraft above the clouds.

But a mattress of clouds several thousand feet thick covered most of the Pacific coast and many had to settle for a televised versions.

At Goldendale, Wash., near the Columbia River, more than 1,000 persons had gathered, some from as far away as New England and California.

A cloud bank moved in at the crucial moment of totality, but a muffled cry of awe and joy rippled over the hillside at the small public observatory as the last tiny silver of sun fell behind the passing moon.

One of those traveling more than 1,000 miles to the snowcovered prairie of northwestern North Dakota was Jim Manning, assistant director of the Norehead Planetarium at Chapel Hill, N.C. He came with a party of eight which drove three days in a van and compact car to get there.

"You feel the awesome power of the laws of nature, how they affect things, and all you can do is sit there and watch," Manning said. "It's a gut feeling of helplessness and you say, 'My God, look what's going on.' It's a mystical experience."

The shadow crossed the earth at speeds over 3,000 miles an hour, beginning on the West Coast near Portland, Ore., and dissolving over Greenland.

Pope John Paul II reaffirms anti-abortion stance

VATICAN CITY [AP]-Pope John Paul II reaffirmed on yesterday his stand against abortion. Speaking to members of Movements for Life, an international lay organization strongly opposed to abortion, the Pope said the Second Vatican Ecumenical Council of 1960s, which modernized many aspects of the church, did not hesitate to condemn "everything that is against life itself." The Pope paraphrased remarks of the Ecumenical Council's pastoral constitution dealing with abortion, genocide, euthanasia and suicide. "You fight," the Pope said, "that everyman be recognized the right to be born, to grow up and to harmoniously develop his own capacities. A European meeting of the Movements for Life ended in Milan Sunday with a resolution calling abortion "legalized assassination."

Cosmonauts prepare to dock with space station

MOSCOW [AP] - Two Soviet cosmonauts circled the Earth yesterday making preparations to dock with the Salyut 6 space station. Tass, the Soviet news agency, reported that the flight by Vladimir Lyakhov and Valery Ryumin aboard the Soyuz 32 spaceship was proceeding normally in its second day. There was no indication when they would link up with the space station, which has been in orbit for 16 months and has been host to a number of space crews.

Legislator wants to return Commandments to school

NASHUA, N.H. [AP]- A state senator has introduced a bill to have the Ten Commandments posted in school rooms "to provide a moral code for youth." Sen. Alan Rock, R-Nashua, said his reasons for introducing the bill last week are based in part on visits to the state prison and his understanding that the average age of inmates is decreasing. Rock said voluntary contributions would be used to pay for Ten Commandment cards, which would contain a statement saying they were being posted for moral, not religious, reasons.

Court of Appeals orders trial in Indiana sterilization damage suit

INDIANAPOLIS [AP] - The Indiana Court of Appeals has ordered a trial in a damage suit brought against a surgeon by a New Albany woman who was sterilized.

The ruling Monday in favor of Linda Petro overturned a Floyd Circuit Court decision dismissing the suit against Dr. James Y. McCullough of New Albany. The lower court's action came because Mrs. Petro, diagnosed as mildly retarded, signed a consent form for the tubal ligation.

Mrs. Petro, 27, claimed in her suit that she was incompetent to consent to the operation and that McCullough was aware of her mental problems.

The appeals court, in a decision written by Judge Jonathan I. Robertson, said Mrs. Petro's competency was a question that should be decided by the trial court.

"We believe (Mrs.) Petro should be given the opportunity to present the issue of her mental capacity to execute the consent," the appeals court wrote.

The suit was idsmitted in circuit court before her case was presented.

Prior to the May 1970 operation, Mrs. Petro had been a patient several times at the Madison State Hospital. The appeals court said she was diagnosed as "mildly unstable and mildly retarded."

Mrs. Petro said that fact, and the fact that she had not been formally discharged from the mental hospital at the time the operation was performed, made her incompetent.

McCullough, who performed the sterilization at Floyd County Hospital, said the fact that she had been in a mental hospital was not proof of incompetence to understand what she was signing.

The case now returns to circuit court for further hearing.

In another decision, the appeals court said a Michigan City policeman has the right to sue the city for injuries he sustained while driving his patrol car.

The appellate court overturned the LaPorte Circuit Court, which had dismissed the suit brought by policeman James Elwell nad his wife, Judy.

The Elwells alleged in the suit that the city was negligent in maintaining a sewer drain cover, which allegedly caused the accident where the policeman was injured.

The city claimed that Elwell's exclusive remedy lay with the state workmen's compensation law and the Police Pension Fund Act, both of which provide payments to disabled policemen in Michigan City.

But the appeals court said that nothing in either of those acts, as they apply to police officers, prevented Elwell from seeking damages for negligence.

The sole limitation, the court said, is that the city is only liable for medical benefits to the extent they are provided through workmen's compensation.

The appeals court returned the case to the lower court for a trial on the merits of Elwell's claim.

In Peoples Temple case

Judge puts off burial decision

SAN FRANCISCO [AP] - A judge put off on Monday deciding whether to use Peoples Temple assets to truck to California for burial 565 bodies still lying in an East Coast hangar three months after the cult's mass murder-suicide.

Embalmed in steel military coffins, the bodies include 255 that have not been identified and 310 who were identified but whose relatives would not or could not afford to ship them back home.

More than 900 people died Nov. 18 after Temple leader Jim Jones ordered his followers to drink poison at the cult's settlement in Jonestown, Guyana.

Superior Court Judge Ira Brown Jr. said he considered the truck plan "very unwise," but added, "Unfortunately, the realities of the situation are such that we cannot bring each one back on United Airlines jets.

"Not only is it financially unfeasible, but it would take two years to accomplish and I have no intention of allowing that open wound to be there that long," he said during a hearing on how to dispose of the bodies.

A Delaware trucking firm has offered to ship the bodies at a cost of about $97 a body, compared to a cost as high as $1,400 for shipping by air.

Brown did not say when he planned to issue his decision. He gave attorneys two days to submit additional information or proposals to him.

A committee of clergy appointed by Brown drew up the trucking plan, which has the support of the State and Justice departments and an attorney named to handle the finances of the defunct Temple, which was based in San Francisco.

The plan recommended that $302,800 in Temple assets be spent to truck the bodies from Dover Air Force Base in Delaware to California.

Price plans to modify housing registration rules

by Maureen Heraty

Edmund Price, director of University Housing, admitted yesterday that he planned to modify the housing registration regulations for next year due to a complaint registered on the student's behalf by Freshman Advisory Council President Mike Shepardson.

Shepardson met with Price Tuesday to discuss the present housing registration regulations. Several freshmen had turned to Shepard when Price had refused to allow them to change dorms next year. Apparently, they had handed in their housing transfer request forms after the Feb. 2 deadline. They had, however, returned their housing contracts to the housing office in time. "No one told them that the request forms were due at the same time as the housing contracts," Shepardson said.

The students expressed hope that Shepardson might be able to handle the situation through the Freshman Advisory Council. Shepardson commented, "I realized that we had a problem because we were dealing with the administration."

Price told Shepardson that the students could turn in their housing contracts and housing transfer request forms anytime before Feb. 2, but he said that the administration maintains a "standard policy" which does not allow the housing office to accept any contracts or request forms after the deadline.

"I told him (Price) that the students had not been informed of the policy regarding the request forms. He replied that the office had notified the rectors," Shepardson related. "When I asked him why more effort was not put into informing the students, he said he didn't know. He said that he had not seen the need to publicize the policy."

Shepardson discussed the situation with Student Body President Andy McKenna and on his advice, presented the problem to the Hall Presidents' Council. The HPC offered to support Shepardson if the Administration gave him any resistance.

"I'm not trying to induce any radical change, I only want what is fair," explained Shepardson. "I think the students deserve more information on housing registration regulations, especially the freshmen who are registering for the first time."

Price has reconsidered the registration problem since his meeting with Shepardson. He said that he would review those housing transfer requests that he had previously rejected. "The students were unaware of the administration's policy towards housing registration and can not be blamed for failure to hand in the forms on time," he affirmed.

Price also stated that he intends to "set deadlines which will give the students time to consider their contracts and make any changes necessary before the deadline." Many students considered this year's deadline far too early.

SMC Assembly meets; discusses RA roles

by Margie Brassil
Staff Reporter

Nine members of the Saint Mary's Student Assembly were present for a meeting last night in the student government office in North Regina Hall. Possible revisions in the Student Government Manual and Big Sister/Little Sister Weekend were topics of discussion.

The question of revisions centered around the roles of resident advisors (RAs) and section representatives in student government. The functions of each seem to vary from dorm to dorm, with some dorms using RAs as the main means of communicating with the students, while other dorms are using the section

SMC finalizes Soph Parent weekend plans

by Margie Brassil
Staff Reporter

The agenda for this week's Saint Mary's Sophomore Parent Weekend has been finalized. According to sophomore Class President Adri Trigianni, "We've planned a spectacular, invigorating, and extremely creative weekend. We've received great help from the administration and an excellent response from the students."

Co-chairing the weekend with Trigianni are Mary Ellen Maccio, Peggy Blum, Catherine Shaughnessy and Donna Bellock.

One of the main events on Friday is "An Evening of Entertainment," a variety show with over 50 students in the cast. It centers around the fictional life of five Saint Mary's sophomores. It will be held in Angela Athletic Facility. A stage is being built, and a lighting and sound system are being developed with the help of Dan Diencheon and Mary Gerber.

The other activities are a Sophomore art show in O'Laughlin Auditorium, an exhibit in Madeleva on Saint Mary's Sophomores, and an academic open house. Special events on Saturday include a showing of "SMC-Place to Be," showing every half hour in Carroll Hall under the direction of Bro. Larry Stewart and the dinner-dance at the Century Center.

A suggestion was made that both groups should begin to work more closely and that a clearer definition of the role of the section reps be outlined in the manual. Currently, any member of a section can become a section rep but there is no clearly stated function in relation to the RAs.

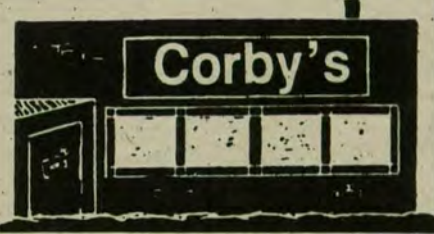

Problems concerning Big Sister/Little Sister Weekend this year were also discussed. Some of those present complained that the weekend will be too close to spring break. The weekend is planned for March 30 through April 1, the week following break.

Islamic revolutionaries arrest foreign oil workers in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)--Islamic revolutionaries arrested an American and three Britons employed by an oil-drilling company yesterday on charges of "plundering the wealth of Iran by charging exorbitant prices," a company spokesman said.

Sources said the four were trying to flee Iran. There were few details about the arrest. The American Embassy said it knew nothing of the matter and spokesmen of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini declined comment.

A spokesman for California-based Flour Co., the drilling firm, identified the American as John Cassiba and the Britons as W. Walsh, K. Thompson and P. Dtrez. No hometowns were available. The four were employed in the southern city of Aghajari.

Hassan Nazih, new director of the National Iranian Oil Co., said, meanwhile, that Iran would resume oil exports next week. He did not say exactly when or in what amounts.

Nazih notified oil workers in Abadan of the resumption of exports and said the production and export politics "will be based entirely on Iran's national interests and we shall never accept colonially imposed agreements."

At present Iran is producing about 700,000 barrels a day to meet domestic requirements.

The English-language Tehran daily Kayhan International quoted highly placed oil sources as saying that exports probably would start next Sunday or Monday with supplies going to the highest bidders.

The newspaper said Iran's popular light crude could fetch up to $24 a barrel, $10 more than benchmark Saudi light crude will cost next October when the full 14.5 percent increase decided on by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries takes effect.

Before anti-shah strikes reduced Iran's oil flow to a trickle, the country was the world's second-largest petroleum exporter, producing six million barrels a day--5.4 million going abroad.

Oil experts believe Iran's production will be about half of the previous output, leaving about 2.4 million barrels a day for export.

State radio said Khomeini would move to the holy city of Qum Thursday. Observers said that did not mean his influence would be less. Khomeini's move could give Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan a freer hand in the day-to-day running of government.

"Whenever Ayotollah Khomeini resides, he still will be the leader of Iran," Deputy Prime Minister Amir Entezam told the Associated Press.

--Islamic courts resumed the ancient tradition of public floggings. In Zanjan a large crowd turned out Sunday to watch a convicted thief receive 25 lashes. And in the eastern city of Kerman 5,000 persons watched two youths receive 30 lashes each for drinking liquor, which is forbidden by the Moslem holy book, the Koran. In Yasooj, two men got 80 lashes each for drinking.

Wilma Rudolph speaks as part Black Cultural Arts Festival

by Mike Moran

"The most important aspect of setting goals is to face up to what you want to accomplish and not walk away from it." This remark set the tone for a talk by former track star Wilma Rudolph to a crowd of about 200 interested students last night in the Library Auditorium.

Rudolph, a winner of three gold medals in the 1960 Olympics, spoke as part of this year's Black Cultural Arts Festival, which continues through this Saturday. Festival Chairman Kevin Green summed up the importance of her speech by noting, "Her presentation paralleled the ideas that the festival is intended to express."

The stated purpose of the 1979 Festival is "to provide an awareness of the black cultural experience, an understanding of various aspects of Black life, an awareness of the achievements and talents of Black Americans."

Rudolph's experiences while growing up in Tennessee and her eventual athletic accomplishments provided the main subject matter for her talk.

She first described the tribulations of having to walk with leg braces until age nine, and the problems she encountered even when she finally had them removed. "I was never included in the athletic games kids played in my neighborhood," she recalled, "but this motivated me to be the best at something in order to show that I did indeed have ability."

While detailing her early life, the gold medalist spoke with frankness and in an informal manner. "Many students were impressed with the fact that she is a very positive person with a down-home attitude," Green noted afterwards. "She makes you feel like she's talking to you personally, and not just to a large crowd."

Rudolph proceeded to expand on her striving for athletic recognition, from her basketball playing in high school to her eventual triumphs at the Olympics in Rome. She also gave a degree of credit for her successes to individuals who helped and inspired her along the way.

Achieving international notoriety presented Rudolph with new problems. As she observed, "The most difficult thing that happened to me in growing up was becoming world famous at age 19. Where does one go from that?"

The star athlete's life has, however, taken on new directions. Rudolph observed that she is happily married, has three children, and is presently working toward her Master's Degree in Business Administration at Peabody College in Nashville. She also operates her own public relations firm, which deals to a certain extent with training programs for young athletes.

Rudolph reflected on these and other aspects of her life in advising the audience to set goals and pursue them, in spite of any problems which arise. "I feel that we'll always face problems in life," she concluded, "and every day as I look around, I say to myself, 'It's only just begun.'"

Winter dumps trouble in states east of the Mississippi

(ap) - The relentless winter of '79 continued to pound America's midsection yesterday, spreading knee-deep snow and spilling floodwaters into many areas from Missouri to New England.

On the day the sun blinked, to the thrill of thousands of eclipse-watchers gathered in the Pacific Northwest, residents of southeast Missouri and parts of Arkansas were digging out from under their worst snowstorm in 60 years.

National Guardsmen were mobilized in several states for rescue work, and at least six deaths were blamed on the storm.

Hundreds of schools were closed and power lines were tumbled by ice, snow and freezing rains from Cleveland to western New York State.

Flash floods were expected in parts of New York, New Jersey, Western Pennsylvania and most of Ohio.

Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson declared 30 counties in the southern part of the state snow emergency areas and activated National Guard Units to aid an estimated 2,000 motorists stranded on highways.

An additional 250 National Guardsmen were attempting to get food and fuel to hundreds of other motorists stranded in southeastern Missouri, where 50 m.p.h. winds had built snowdrifts up to 10 feet high.

With an estimated 350 cars stalled on Interstate 55 and the highway closed to all traffic, the Missouri Highway Patrol said temporary shelters were set up at armories, churches, courthouses and private homes in Sikeston, Benton, Cape Girardeau, Jackson and nearby towns.

In Fredericktown, Mo., a doctor and his nurse - a husband-and-wife team - mounted cross-country skies to reach a pregnant woman snowbound in her rural home and in labor.

"We had tried to get out to her home in four-wheel drive vehicles, but we only got within a mile of the house," said Dr. Phillip Beyer, 36, who go there just in time to deliver a 9-pound, 8-ounce baby boy.

Mrs. Everett Summers of Cape Girardeau said, "Nothing is moving. Cars are buried. It will be Thursday before we can get out. The snow is over my head out there."

Heavy snow also fell in the mountains of northeastern Tennessee and western North Carolina.

'It will be Thursday before we can

In Maryland, where a number of roads were closed by flooding and the Potomac river was at or near flood stage, National Guardsmen were evacuating families in low-lying areas.

In Prince Georges County, about 400 residents of the Mistletoe Garden Apartments in Laurel were forced to evacuate Sunday night because of flooding.

The National Weather Service said yesterday the Potomac River from West Virginia to the District of Columbia was at or near flood stage.

In New York State, hundreds of schools were closed as ice-heavy limbs crashed onto power lines. In an area south of Buffalo and Rochester, snow was reported up to 2 feet deep.

The coastal communities of neighboring Boston were spared expected severe flooding at high-tide yesterday morning, thanks to a last-minute wind shift.

Byrne accuses backers of election fraud

CHICAGO (AP)--Mayoral candidate Jane Byrne accused backers of incumbent Michael A. Bilandic of "doing everything they can to steal" today's election, and the state's attorney said three precinct captains had been arrested for threatening campaign workers.

Mrs. Byrne said yesterday she had received "literally hundreds of call from voters, precinct captains and my precinct workers detailing cases of voter intimidation, fraud in absentee ballots and threats of political reprisals if people don't do as they are told."

Later yesterday state's Attorney Bernard Carey predicted: "A lot of precinct captains will panic because their (city patronage) jobs are threatened if they don't get out the vote. The heated campaigns and closeness of this mayoral primary may even spark some violence."

Carey, at a news conference, said three north side Democratic precinct captains were arrested Friday for threatening to break the legs of two women campaigning on behalf of an independent running for Alderman. The independent candidate supports Mrs. Byrne.

He said the three were charged with intimidation and preventing candidate support and released on $3,000 bail pending a hearing in March.

Mrs. Byrne said the FBI had contacted her regarding the election abuse charges because it has been getting the same kinds of reports, and she was giving information to the FBI. Bilandic and his staff were not immediately available for comment.

But an FBI spokesman, George Mandich, said the FBI has received no election fraud complaints independently. He said agents contacted Mrs. Byrne's office yesterday to see if she had any information of possible violations of federal statutes.

Mrs. Byrne's charges were reinforced by David Orr, an independent candidate for city council, who said a Democratic precinct captain supervised the marking of absentee ballots at a large nursing home on the city's north side, in violation of state

Vote "Yes"

The controversy about Nestle's marketing and distribution of infant formula in less developed countries is lengthy and involved. Concerned groups have made accusations of exploitation of the poor, corporate irresponsibility, and unethical practices; and Nestle has countered these accusations by statements which supposedly demonstrate their own concern. These statements are issued from the Office of Corporate Responsibility, which is part of Nestle's public relations department.

It is questionable whether these statements actually answer the accusation or are simply general and possibly inapplicable facts used to circumvent the charges. In either case, Nestle has not addressed the issue of corporate responsibility to the satisfaction of concerned groups.

Part of the problem in this controversy is that the Nestle Company in America does not distribute or market the formula. It is the Swiss corporation, Nestle, S.A. against whom the charges are leveled. The only way Americans can affect the Swiss corporation is through economic means. This can be achieved by boycotting the products of its subsidiary, The Nestle Company.

Today's ballot contains a referendum which asks if students want the University to support the boycott and ban Nestle products from the dining halls and vending machines. The Observer urges you to vote "Yes" and support the Nestle boycott. We believe this boycott is the only way to force Nestle to directly address the charges.

Administration violates duLac

Dear Editor:

Over the years, we, the students of Notre Dame, have been constantly charged with violating the rights and responsibilities expected from the Notre Dame Community as set forth in the duLac manual for student life. So now, with equal concern that the rights and responsibilities of the community be maintained, I would like to quote duLac in pointing out a probable Administration violation of the University Policies.

On page 38 of the 1978-1979 version of duLac, it is stated, "All large, domestic-type refrigerators are prohibited (for student residence hall usage). Electric refrigerators in student rooms must not exceed 4.6 cubic feet in size and must be in good operating condition. A charge of $15 will be assessed each semester against the occupants of rooms which have electric refrigerators of prohibited size...Due to the energy shortage these regulations will be strictly enforced."

This would indicate that only those students who possess refrigerators larger than 4.6 cubic feet should be charged the $15 per semester. No Student Union leased refrigerator is in excess of the prohibited size. Therefore, all students with refrigerators smaller than 4.6 cubic feet should be cognizant that any such charge assessed to their student account is in violation of University Policy.

Should the University carry out this "illegal" activity proper action should be initiated to have them properly disciplined according to the Disciplinary Procedures of pages 31-2 of duLac.

a shepherd who presents and reinforces those tough moral imperatives in a kindly way with an empathy for the struggle of rule-keeping. We could have someone with ice water in his veins giving stern-faced readings of even the best enlightened "theology of the 6th and 9th." Such a chaplain would have as much impact on student conduct and spiritual life as the iron Moses frozen into the snow of the library lawn. Griff, however, is to be found in the warmth of Darby's Place at his listening post till all hours of the morning.

Griff is much beloved, and it is not because he waters down the rules, for he doesn't. He is beloved because he cares about students, and he challenges them to the responsibility of making adult, Christian decisions. His God-given

Wake me when it's over

As another winter leaves us with an array of dripping icicles, grimy slush, and other frozen facets of this paradise we call Notre Dame, we discover an aspect of student life that has become as frigid and disheartening as any of Jack Frost's creations: the Student Body President elections.

For all you nostalgia buffs, this is your time of year, because issues and platforms staunchly defended ten years ago can still be heard in the speeches our candidates give today. Take an example: in 1969, three points on every platform were: more student involvement in student government; closer contact between the student body and the student government; and a promise that the SBP would effectively work with the administration. If you remove most of the rhetorical nonsense in the platforms of our three candidates, these three "promises" return a bold stare. Not only were these the issues ten years ago, but they have cropped up in every election since then. A question naturally follows--"What, if anything, can a SBP hope to accomplish if he has ten years of failure behind him and an unyielding administration before him?"

Before our three hopefuls start frothing at the mouth and sputter out phrases like "students are apathetic so it's not the SBP's fault, blah, blah, blah," I'd like to point out Article II, Section I, paragraphs two and three of the Constitution of Undergraduate Student Government. It states, in effect, that the duties of a SBP lie basically in being "responsive to student interests" and "representing those interests in all areas of student life." For the past ten years these words rang in our ears during election time, but when a new school year rolled around, we discovered the SBP we had chosen to be our voice in University affairs was muttering incoherently in his bureaucratic nest. And I can't really blame the student body for this. A quote from the March 6, 1975 issue of The Observer supports my point: "...the dismal voting turn-out was not caused by student apathy alone, but rather the fact the students saw little correlation between voting for student body president and having the university improved."

For ten years we have lacked the type of person that is outlined in the Constitution. That is the reason that LaFortune hasn't been completely rennovated even though specific plans were drawn up in 1971. That is the reason that improved hall life and social conditions keep being thrown around the political ring year after year. That is the reason that academic reform continues to be a pertinent issue despite the fact students had voiced the need for action nine years ago. No one has yet been able to grasp the reigns of the student body, jerk them out of their lethargic state, and lead them to a point where one can honestly say that this campus is more than an Emil quiz.

For those of you who expect Student Government to abolish parietals, put a keg in every dorm, and return to Taiwan diplomatic relations with the U.S., don't hold your breath because they don't have the legislative powers. The most they can do in that respect is throw a tantrum outside the administration building. If Fr. Hesburgh decides to shrug them off, no change will occur in the University's essential structure. States a March 29, 1973 Observer article, "Student Government does have a useful function to perform. However, students should not entertain high expectations, for it has no institutional power...As most of you have long recognized, there is no real power here. Student Government is no government." Well, some people have not yet recognized this fact, and included in this group of muddle-headed idealists always seem to be the candidates. Just keep in mind as you are interrupted in your studies by a wild-eyed man mouthing catch-all phrases that what he says he can do and what he can do are usually two different things.

I wish I could end on an optimistic note and say that if the candidates would concentrate their efforts toward the students instead of playing Igor to a deaf, blind and dumb Dr. Frankenstein of an Administration, perhaps the issues won't be as frozen in time as they always seem to be. Such a statement should not go unwarranted, however. I can't possibly see any SBP eclipsing the Dome in the near future, and there doesn't seem much that we, the Student Body, can do about it except heave a weary sigh, keep our feet out of the slush, and be thankful that elections are only once a year.

For immigration violations

Iranians face deportation

WASHINGTON [AP] - Thirty-eight Iranian students who have been arrested in the Los Angeles area over the past two months on various criminal charges face deportation for immigration violations, the Justice Department said yesterday.

Terry Adamson, a Justice Department spokesman, said the students did not face deportation because of the criminal charges since they have not been brought to trial.

They could be forced to leave the country for such violations as not being enrolled at the colleges or universities where they were supposed to be attending class, Adamson said.

The Justice Department began an investigation into the status of Iranian and other foreign students following a violent demonstration in Beverly Hills, Calif., on Jan. 2 by anti-shah Iranian students. About 500 students were turned back by police in a protest at a mansion where the shah's sister and mother were living.

At the direction of Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, immigration officials took a random survey of 500 students in the Los Angeles area and discovered that 135 were not attending the colleges where they were listed.

Adamson reported yesterday that of those 135, the whereabouts of 64 are unknown, 18 are reported to have left this country, 38 are attending school elsewhere, 12 have applications pending for new immigration status and three now face deportation proceedings.

The group of 500 that were surveyed included others besides Iranians.

The group of 38 who have been arrested is separate from the random sample of 500.

Bell has ordered a survey of the foreign student situation to be completed within a month.

The Justice Department previously reported that there are some 235,000 foreign students listed as being in this country, including some 50,000 Iranians.

Officials say U.S. ready to use force to protect interests

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two administration officials said yesterday that the United States is prepared to use military force if necessary to protect oil sources and vital interests in the Mideast.

"Protection of the oil flow from the Mideast is clearly part of our vital interests," said Defense Secretary Harold Brown. "...In protection of these vital interests, we'll take any action that's appropriate, including the use of military force."

The defense secretary added that military force "is not necessarily appropriate in every instance."

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, speaking of U.S. interests in the Persian Gulf, said, "The issue of a U.S. military presence is under consideration. That would involve military personnel. Whether it would involve a deployment of troops...combat arms of the ground forces, is another question."

Brown's comments were in response to questions about Soviet actions in the Mideast. The defense secretary said that while all problems in the region cannot be blamed on the Soviet Union, the Russians are "clearly eager to fish in muddy waters."

He said that many nations in the Mideast recognize a threat from the Soviet Union.

'clearly eager to fish in muddy waters.'

"the United States is prepared to counter such a threat from a major power with whatever means are necessary," Brown said. "The United States is prepared to defend its vital interests with whatever means are appropriate, including military force where necessary, whether that's in the Middle East or elsewhere."

Brown made the comments on the CBS interview program "Face the Nation."

Schlesinger, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," said when pressed for specifics, "These matters are under review and it would be inappropriate for me to get into specifics at this time."

'Yours, mine, and ours'

Experts discuss sexuality

Two marriage and family experts will discuss the topic, "Sexuality: Yours, Mine, and Ours" tonight in the Architecture Auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Joan Aldous, professor of Sociology, stresses however, that the discussion will deal with many problems facing Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students at the present time.

Aldous also pointed out that newspaper clippings of recent editorials and letters to the editor concerning sex and dating problems at Notre Dame were sent to the two experts, Richard N. Hey, professor and head of Family Social Science at the University of Minnesota, and Juanita Evans Leonard, a marriage and family counselor from Indianapolis.

"The clippings should provide them with a little background on the situation here," Aldous said.

The two speakers will begin the dialogue by making brief presentations, but a large part of the program will be devoted to answering questions from the audience.

The session is being sponsored by the Notre Dame Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the Department of Theology, as well as the Saint Mary's Department of Religious Studies.

K of C accepts applications

The Knights of Columbus Council is now accepting applications for hall captains. Duties include distributing a newsletter twice a month, coordinating hall activities with the Council and attending one meeting a month with all the captains. Applications are now available from K of C secretary Roman Macia. The deadline is March 9.

Student election

Student elections are being held today across campus. Students can vote in their respective dorms from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. and from 5-6:30 p.m. Off-campus residents can vote in the Huddle from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. All undergraduates are eligible to vote.

Besides selecting a new Student Body President and SBVP, students can also cast a yes or no vote on two referenda--A World Hunger Coalition ban on Nestle's products and a proposed amendment to the student government constitution which would place an off-campus representative on the Student Government Board Commissioners.

Marc Woodward, Ombudsman Election Commissioner, indicated that any SBP/SBVP tickets which receive a simple majority of the vote (at least on vote over 50 percent) will win the election. If no candidate receives such a majority, a special run-off election will be held on Thursday.

NASM accepts SMC music department as member

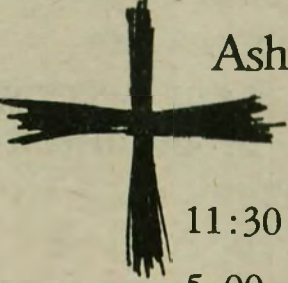

Saint Mary's College department of music has been accepted as an associate member of the National Association of Schools of Music. NASM has been designated by the Council on Postsecondary Accreditation as the agency responsible for the accreditation of music curricula in higher education, and by the United States Office of Education as the agency responsible for the accreditation of all music curricula.

Degree programs approved at Saint Mary's are the Bachelor of Music in Performance in piano, voice, organ and harpsichord; Bachelor of Music in Music Education and Bachelor of Music in Theory and Literature. A new Bachelor of Arts degree in music will be submitted for plan approval from NASM in April and will be in effect for the academic year 1979-80.

Susan Stevens, chairman of the department of music, received official notice of Saint Mary's accreditation in July 1978. Ruth Fischer, piano faculty member and chairman of the departmental accreditation committee, represented Saint Mary's at the national convention of NASM in Colorado Springs last November where she received the award for the College.

Of the 17 new member institutions, Saint Mary's was the only Catholic women's liberal arts college admitted.

White House sends standby plans for gas rationing to Congress

WASHINGTON [AP] - The White House is sending Congress standby plans for gasoline rationing and other energy-saving measures that likely will include allocation of crude oil among refineries and restrictions on weekend retail sales of gasoline and diesel fuel.

Administration officials said the plans would be sent to Capitol Hill today.

Any gasoline rationing plans probably will be based on the assignment of coupons to owners of registered vehicles, according to sources who asked for anonymity. The coupons could be freely bought and sold.

Other details, including the amounts of gasoline likely to be authorized for various classes of uses, remained to be settled.

Published reports have said the rationing plans would limit motorists to less than two gallons of gasoline a day.

But Jim Bishop, an Energy Department spokesman, strongly denied such reports Monday night, calling them a "total fabrication."

He added that the administration plans contain "no reference to a specific gallonage" in gasoline rationing plans.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told the House Budget Committee last week that the loss of Iranian oil production during the political turmoil there could lead to mandatory steps to insure an adequate supply of heating oil next winter, causing a reduction in "gasoline availability."

"There will be a gasoline problem - in all likelihood - this summer," Schlesinger said.

Iran's revolutionary government has said it will resume oil exports soon, but it has not disclosed how much oil will be exported or to whom it will be sold.

Meanwhile, White House and Energy Department spokesman have emphasized that no emergency is anticipated soon.

Bishop did not disclose details of the standby plans, but said they generally would follow the outlines which officials have recently discussed in public.

During congressional testimony earlier this month, David J. Bardin, head of the Energy Department's Economic Regulatory Administration, said mandatory fuel-saving may become necessary if voluntary conservation is not effective.

He outlined mandatory measures as possibly including federally imposed allocations of crude oil among refineries and allocations of gasoline, fuel oil and other refined products at the wholesale level.

Bardin said direct consumer rationing would be considered only as a last-ditch effort.

Energy officials have also said they may have to restrict weekend sales of gasoline and diesel fuel, even ordering Sunday closings.

Bilandic, 56, was an alderman from the Bridgeport neighborhood when Mayor Richard J. Daley died Dec. 20, 1977. City Council named him mayor, and he easily won a June 1978 special election to fill the remainder of Daley's sixth four-year term.

Like Bilandic, Mrs. Byrne, 43, was a disciple of Daley's, serving as his cabinet-level commissioner of consumer affairs and co-chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee.

Bilandic fired her after she publicly charged that he helped facilitate taxicab fare increases in violation of city laws. Investigations were conducted, but no charges have been brought.

The winner of the Bilandic-Byrne race, will face the winner of today's Republican primary on April 3.

Dolan announces competition

The annual competition to select the best manuscript in American Catholic studies for publication has been announced by Dr. Jay P. Dolan, director of the Center for the Study of American Catholicism at Notre Dame.

The author of the award-winning manuscript will receive a $500 prize and the book will be published by the University of Notre Dame Press in their series, "Notre Dame Studies in American Catholicism."

To be eligible for publication, manuscripts must be pertinent to the study of the American Catholic experience, though the series is not limited to any one discipline. Unrevised dissertations normally will not be considered.

Manuscripts must be received by the Notre Dame Center by September 1 for consideration in the new competition.

EARN OVER $650 A MONTH RIGHT THROUGH YOUR SENIOR YEAR.

If you're a junior or senior majoring in sciences like math, physics or engineering, the Navy has a program you should know about.

It's called the Nuclear Propulsion Officer Candidate-Collegiate Program (NUPOC-C for short) and if you qualify, you can earn as much as $650 a month right through your senior year. Then after 16 weeks of Officer Candidate School, you'll get an additional year of advanced technical education. This would cost thousands in a civilian school, but in the Navy, we pay you.

It isn't easy. There are fewer than 400 openings and only one of every six applicants will be selected. But if you make it, you'll have unequalled hands-on responsibility, a $24,000 salary in four years, and gilt-edged qualifications for jobs both in the Navy and out.

Ask your placement officer to set up an interview with a Navy representative when he visits the campus, or contact your Navy representative at 800-841-8000, or send in the coupon. The NUPOC-C Program. Not only can it help you complete college. It can be the start of an exciting career.

Bergland asks for farm/crop insurance program reforms

WASHINGTON [AP]-Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland asked yesterday that Congress enact "A comprehensive reform" of federal farm disaster and crop insurance programs, a plan the administration unsuccessfully advocated last year.

Called the Farm Production Protection Act of 1979, the measure "is the administration's top priority in farm legislation for this session of Congress," Bergland said.

The proposal would combine the insurance programs of the department's Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, federal farm disaster indemnity and other payment programs, and the subsidized-interest portion of emergency loans made by the department's Farmers Home Administration and the Small Business Administration.

After consolidation, the department's Commodity Credit Corporation would be responsible for the new insurance program, Bergland said. The current FCIC would be dissolved.

The insurance program would cover all risks and would be offered to all producers in all counties. In the first year it would cover 18 crops and later, over 10 years, would be expanded to cover "all other commercially produced farm products," he said.

Bergland said "specialty insurance" could be developed on livestock, fish farming and other aquaculture products, prevented-planting situations and others on an experimental basis.

The 18 crops included in the proposal are barley, citrus, corn, cotton, dry beans, flax, grain sorghum, oats, peanuts, raisins, rice, rye, sugarcane, sugarbeets, sunflowers, soybeans, tobacco and wheat.

Congressional hearings were held last year on a similar insurance proposal but failed to gain approval before adjournment.

Bergland said the plan would cost an estimated $632 million the first year, compared to a cost of $653 million for the existing programs.

Casino Commission grants permanent license

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. [AP] - The New Jersey Casino Control Commission voted unanimously yesterday to grant Resorts International Inc. a permanent license for its Boardwalk casino.

"It sounds like we're in business," a jubilant company president I.G. "Jack" Davis Jr. said after the decision. "I think the commission has made a very fine ruling and it bodes very well for the industry."

The license allows Resorts International to operate up to three casino hotels here. It must be renewed annually by the five-member commission, considered a formality, and can be revoked at any time.

The 5-0 vote came after seven weeks of commission hearings into charges by the New Jersey attorney general's office that Resorts International had ties to organized crime, associated with business men of questionable integrity and mismanaged casinos here and in the Bahamas.

Four affirmative votes were needed to grant the license.

The commission flatly rejected the state's 17 legal objections against Resorts International filed Dec. 4 after a year-long, $1.5 million investigation into the firm by the attorney general's Division of Gaming Enforcement.

"I have found no facts which suggest to me that this applicant is not qualified for licensure," commission Chairman Joseph P. Lordi said.

Lordi said evidence showed the firm had no ties to organized crime, its Atlantic City casino financing was acceptable and the firm is now "running a well-controlled casino."

The company, which also operates two casinos in the Bahamas, opened the East's first legal casino last May 26 in the former Chalfonte-Haddon Hall Hotel here.

The casino, one of the largest and most profitable in the world, has already grossed more than $160 million, a rate three times better than the largest casinos on the Las Vegas strip.

sales, or is it a hall grocery store?" he wondered aloud. "Where do we draw the line, or don't we?"

Roberts indicated that he plans to re-instate magazine sales at his operation.

"As far as I'm concerned, we are," Roberts said. "But I'm trying to get the hall council's go-ahead before I do anything."

He said that the issue will be brought up at a meeting of the Flanner Hall Council. If the council approves, Roberts said that he plans to file an application as soon as possible.

"If we do come back (resume magazine sales), we would probably carry the same kind (of magazines)," Roberts commented.

The Flanner manager reported that magazine sales, before they were discontinued, accounted for a small part of the total sales at the outlet. "They were just like a service," Roberts said.

Concerning the specific issue of magazine sales, Reid said that the decision to allow food sales to conduct this business or not lies under his jurisdiction. "But what magazines are sold—that could be a hall council or hall staff decision," he said.

Roberts was not optimistic about the chances of resumed Playboy or Penthouse magazine sales, however.

"If it (the application) comes to him and if it was his decision, I think John Reid probably would not OK it, on the grounds that it (sale of Playboy or Penthouse magazines) is out of place in a Catholic school," Roberts observed.

Museum loans art to ND

Two French Master paintings from the Norton Simon Museum of Art in Padena, Calif. have been loaned to Notre Dame and will be added to regular exhibits during March in the art gallery. The important works were completed by Francois Boucher (1703-1770) and Odilon Redon (1840-1916).

Boucher's painting, "La Belle Villageoise," is acclaimed by critics as an excellent example of the artist's genre subjects.

The Simon Foundation's Redon painting, simply entitled "Flowers in a Brown Vase," has a direct appeal based on its clear colors and rich use of paint. One of the most important Symbolist artists of the late 19th century, Redon brings to the art of flower painting a new sensibility, a poetic atmosphere that lends to the painting a dreamlike quality.

Also on exhibit during March at the Notre Dame Gallery will be modern art from the Permanent Collection, 20th century European and American works of Picasso, Chagall, Gottlieb, Calder and others, and Old Master Drawings, Renaissance and Baroque works of Cambiaso, Guercino, Pellegrini and van Goyen from Notre Dame's collection. The gallery in O'Shaughnessy Hall is open daily until 5 p.m. and guided tours are available by request. There is no admission charge.

... Irish cagers

Larry Gillman. "Notre Dame is so big and aggressive on the glass that they hurt you. Their press was also effective because it was aggressive."

Gillman's team managed to hit on only 44 percent of their second half shots, but still stayed in the game until the last two minutes due to ND's dreadful 39 percent accuracy.

"A lot of our problems stem from the fact that we've been conditioning hard for the playoffs," explained Digger Phelps. "We are getting into top physical shape for the playoffs and that takes its toll."

Notre Dame boasted six players in double figures as the season's leading scorer, Kelly Tripucka, sat out resting a sprained ankle. Laimbeer topped Irish with 17 points followed by Tracy Jackson and Flowers who poured in 15 and 14 points respectively. Laimbeer shared rebounding honors with Orlando Woolridge totaling 13 caroms.

All-American Mack led all scorers with 20 points while Maynor chipped in 17 for the losing cause.

Notre Dame's record now stands at 22-3 while the Pirates drop to 12-15 on the season.

The Irish finish the regular season this weekend as they hit the road to take on DePaul and Michigan.

"We knocked DePaul out of the final four last year," reminded Phelps. "They just beat Marquette and would love to make it two in a row against ND. Michigan is going to be very tough too. Our players think it will be a fun game, but Arkansas was a fun game last year and we lost that one. This game is no consolation game for us."

Rossman will fight bout maybe...

NEW YORK [AP] — Mike Rossman, who was last seen standing in the ring in Las Vegas waiting for a fight that didn't happen, will defend the World Boxing Association light heavy-weight title against former champion Victor Galindez at a site and date to be determined within the next 13 days, promoter Bob Arum said Monday.

The bout, which was not held Saturday because of the WBA and the Nevada State Athletic Commission battled to a draw over the naming of fight officials, probably will be held in New Orleans, Miami...or Las Vegas. Madison Square Garden in New York is a possibility.

And it probably will be televised by ABC, which got burned Saturday. Probably.

"It is an attractive fight and we want to televise it if we can find a date," Jim Spence, vice president of ABC Sports, said, adding that the experience hasn't soured ABC's outlook toward boxing. "We still want to carry what we consider meaningful fights."

Although it was a deadlock between the WBA and the Nevada Commission that kayoted the fight, Spence said: "In all candor, I feel that the promoter, Top Rank (headed by Arum), should have sorted it (the matter of officials) out before Saturday."

"I'm a very careful guy. Galindez (WBA President Mandry Galindez of Venezuela) told me that we could use Nevada officials because Nevada, a member of the rival World Boxing Council, would join the WBA before the fight," Arum said. Nevada did, but it didn't save the fight.

Galindez, from his base in Caracas, Monday urged both fighters to stay in shape and make plans for a title fight "as soon as possible."

A.N.T.S. take intramural tourney at Saint Mary's

by Beth Huffman
Sports Writer

The A.N.T.S. (Absolutely No Talent Squad) is certainly a misnomer for Kathleen Bracken, Mary Dornbos, Joni Glockner, Beth Huffman, Joanie Imler, Judy Liberatore, Mary McCluskey, and Sue Schriber. These Saint Mary's students compose the intramural-winning basketball team.

En route to their win in the tournament, the A.N.T.S. compiled a 4-0 record. The tourney began with the A.N.T.S.' first opponents failing to appear, thus a win by forfeit.

Next, the A.N.T.S. were challenged by the team from Student Affairs, a team which boasted four male players and many Saint Mary's athletic coaches. Despite troubles containing the male members of the Student Affairs squad, the A.N.T.S. pumped in points for a 41-18 romp.

The A.N.T.S.' toughest competition of the tourney proved to be in the form of the Super Swishers, whom they met in the semi-finals. The Super Swishers provided a tough aggressive game for the A.N.T.S., as they, too, had four male teammates. It was not until the final seconds of the game that the A.N.T.S. pulled ahead with a basket for a 30-28 win.

The finals saw the A.N.T.S. face the Bean Heads for the tourney crown. Competition began and remained close until the second half when the A.N.T.S. staged a scoring rampage while maintaining a tough defense. The final scoring saw the A.N.T.S. take the win and the tourney at 28-21.

As the tourney victors the A.N.T.S. will have their name engraved on a trophy, which after a week will be placed in the trophy case at Angela Athletic Facility. The squad members will also be invited to participate in the All Sports Banquet to be held later this year.

Martin's situation developed last July when, after calling Steinbrenner and slugger Reggie Jackson liars, he resigned as Yankee manager in a tearful press conference at a Kansas City hotel.

Five days later, he returned to Yankee Stadium for Oldtimer's Day and received a tumultuous welcome from a capacity crowd when it was announced that he would be returning as manager in 1980. The agreement for his return had been worked out in tedious negotiations between Steinbrenner and Newton and, according to the owner, it included a clause requiring Martin to conduct himself in the best interests of the Yankees.

ND women qualify for nationals

by Michael Orman
Sports Writer

It used to be that varsity swimming at Notre Dame was reserved just for the men. But last season, freshman diver Betsy Shadley broke that sex barrier, becoming the first female ever to make the Irish swim team. This season freshman freestylist Jeannie Blatt joined Shadley in the team's female ranks.

Yesterday, both girls received some rather exciting news. They both have qualified for and will participate in the 1979 Small College National Swimming and Diving Championships in Reno, Nev. The four-day championships will run from March 7 through 10.

"I couldn't believe it," exclaimed Shadley. "I thought coach was kidding when he gave me the news."

Blatt's response was similar. "I'm very excited about it, to say the least," she said. "I just hope I can do well when I get there. I'm really honored to be representing Notre Dame on the national level."

Blatt has had two second place finishes this year, competing with the men. Against St. Bonaventure her time of 10:49.75 in the 1,000-yard freestyle was good enough for second place, just 3.75 seconds behind winner David Campbell, also of Notre Dame. She also earned a blue ribbon at Western Ontario when she clocked a time of 10:52.9 in the same event.

Shadley has also scored a number of points for the Irish over the past two years. The first win of her Notre Dame career came just two weeks ago against Marshall. Shadley tallied 162.65 points in the 1-meter required diving, beating Marshall's Jim Hole by just 1.10 points.

Shadley and Blatt can legally compete on the small college level because of the size of Notre Dame's female enrollment. The university's women number less than 3,000 so girls can participate in small college national competition.

"I'm extremely happy for both of them," commented coach Dennis Stark. "I'm also happy that the university was willing to send them to Reno."

Syracuse ends season with win

SYRACUSE, N.Y. [AP] - Led by Louis Orr's 17 points and 12 rebounds, eighth-ranked Syracuse University closed out its winningest regular basketball season Monday night with a 92-60 victory over crosstown rival LeMoyne College.

Syracuse ran its record to 24-2, going into Wednesday's Eastern College Athletic Conference play-off against St. Bonaventure in neutral Rochester.

LeMoyne gave Syracuse a struggle, shutting out the taller Orangemen for the first three minutes while scoring six points. LeMoyne held on to its lead for three more minutes until Orr put Syracuse ahead to stay at 11-10.

After missing his first seven shots in the opening moments, Jene Grey kept LeMoyne in the game with 20 first-half points including a 14-point spree in 10 minutes that cut Syracuse's lead from 18 to eight points.

Although hampered by fouls, Grey finished with a game-high 28 points.

Syracuse ran its winning streak to 18 games with scoring help from Roosevelt Bouie, who had 16 points, and Danny Shaves, who had 12.

LeMoyne, a Division II school, fell to 14-9 and had scoring help from Jim McDermott, who had 19 points.

Irish cagers win home finale; Flowers, Laimbeer MVP's

by Ray O'Brien
Sports Editor

In their last home game of their college careers, seniors Bruce Flowers and Bill Laimbeer led Notre Dame to their 22nd win of the year against a stubborn East Carolina squad, 89-72.

It was Laimbeer who got the Irish offense rolling as he scored eight of his team's first 11 points rocketing ND to a 28-12 lead.

Super-jumper Oliver Mack, aided by the perimeter shooting of George Maynor, brought the Pirates to within nine at 35-26 - which is how the margin stood at the half with the home team holding a 45-36 advantage. Cooling off, Notre Dame failed to score in the final two minutes of the first stanza.

East Carolina outrebounded Notre Dame in the first twenty minutes, 15-12 and shot nearly 57 percent from the floor to stay close to their third ranked opposition. Mack led all scorers at the half with 14 points as he combined a fine shooting touch with his driving ability.

Laimbeer's 13 points was his best output for a half this year. The two Irish captains connected on 8-of-9 of their field goal attempts helping Notre Dame to record a .586 mark from the floor.

Flowers sparked the Irish in the second half after the Pirates pulled within three at 47-44 with 17:06 remaining. It was a race to see if the senior co-captain would reach his 1,000th point before being whistled for his fifth foul. With a capacity crowd backing him, the Huntingwoods, Mich. native reached the lofty plateau with five minutes remaining as he canned a free throw to make the score 78-63. Flowers then left his last home game the way he came in four years ago, with an aggressive foul.

"It seems like I only started yesterday," commented a reflective Flowers. "It went so fast and it still hits me hard. I've been thinking about this all day. You don't realize what you have until the last moment. I'm sad that I took it for granted last year, but the four years have been great."

Notre Dame outrebounded their guests 32-23 in the second half and took better shots as the Irish zone forced East Carolina into long range shooting.

"The key to this game was the rebounding," said Pirate coach [continued on page 10]

Tracksters race to four medals

by Mark Perry
Assistant Sports Editor

Four Notre Dame records were shattered this past weekend, as a small Irish contingent competed in the Illini Classic at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

The Irish runners came home with four medals, including two first place awards. Also, the distance medley relay team qualified for the NCAA Indoor Championships.

"It was an excellent weekend for us," Irish coach Joe Piane. "I was extremely pleased with the results, and I'm happy that we are sending eight guys to the NCAA meet."

Chuck Aragon, Ken Lynch, Pete Burger, and Tony Hatherly combined to take first place in the distance medley relay, as they qualified for the NCAA meet with a 9:49.7. This was well under the qualifying standard, and also bettered the Notre Dame record, set in 1965, 9:49.7.

Qualifying earlier in the season were the two-mile relay team and Chuck Aragon in the 880-yard run.

The shuttle hurdle relay team of John McCloughan, Arnie Gough, Dave Bernards, and Tim Twardzik also took home a first place award, winning the event in 29.3 seconds.

Perry Stowe took fourth place in the pole vault, and also bettered his won Notre Dame indoor record, clearing 15 feet, 7 3/4 inches.

Dennis VanderKraats placed third in the three-mile run, and also continued Notre Dame's assault on the Irish record. VanderKraats finished the race in 13.44, bettering the record set by teammate Steve Welch last week at the Central Collegiate Conference meet, 13:50. Together VanderKraats and Welch have combined to shave over 15 seconds off the old record.

Welch established a record of his own in the two-mile run, as he finished the race in 8:51.8, bettering the performance by Bill Clark in 1965, 8:54.4. Despite this record, Welch did not place in the event.

The Irish host their final home meet of the indoor season this Saturday, as they run against Kentucky State at the ACC.

Martin's antics may backfire

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. [AP] - Billy Martin's idea of showing up in the New York Yankees' training camp last Thursday to "finalize" his contract for 1980 may have backfired on the former Yankees' manager.

Owner George Steinbrenner, who had agreed to restore Martin to the Yankee dugout following the 1979 season, now has attached an important "if" to the ex-manager's return.

According to the boss, Martin's status now is contingent on the outcome of pending legal action in Reno, Nev., where sports writer Ray Hagar has filed a civil suit against him. The suit followed an altercation between the two last fall when Hagar claims Martin punched him three times.

The Nevada suit is not the only matter bothering Yankee brass. The club received three complaints this winter that Martin had appeared for a speaking engagement intoxicated and had used inappropriate language in his talk. At another speaking engagement, Martin allegedly was in no condition to go on the had to be replaced at the last minute.

There also was a public argument in a Manhattan restaurant with Arthur Richman, public relations director of the New York Nets. Richman has dismissed the matter but it upset Steinbrenner, who bristles at anything that does not reflect well on the Yankee image.

The owner also wasn't exactly thrilled with Martin's appearance in training camp.

"Nobody can pressure me," said Steinbrenner. "It's just not going to work that way. If his agent (Doug Newton) thinks he can bring him into camp to pressure me, he's wrong because nobody's putting pressure on me. But it doesn't bother me. I guess his agent thought it would work."

Martin had implied during his visit to the Yankee camp that Steinbrenner was avoiding him. But the Yankee owner said that he did not want to burden Martin with contract details before the trial.

"What's the rush?" wondered Steinbrenner. "He's got my word. Do I have his? I live up to my word. He has to live up to his."

Auerbach praises Larry Bird; hopes to sign him in June

BOSTON [AP] - Indiana State All-American Larry Bird brings back memories to Red Auerbach, the architect of 13 National Basketball Association titles with the Boston Celtics.

"He's a big Cousy," Auerbach said Monday in an interview, comparing the 6-9 Bird with former Celtics great Bob Cousy, a guard noted for his quick hands and peripheral vision along with his scoring.

"I never though I'd ever compare anyone with Cousy, but Larry Bird has those great hands and great vision," Auerbach said.

Like most national television viewers, Auerbach, the former Celtics' coach now at the helm as president and general manager, was somewhat in awe watching Bird Sunday afternoon.

Bird picked by Auerbach as the Celtics No. 1 draft choice last June although only a junior, scored 49 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as Indiana State completed a perfect regular season with a 109-84 victory over Wichita State.

"When he gets anywhere near the ball, it belongs to him," Auerbach said. "Everyone in the country knows he can shoot. Other things impress me more."

"He has a great concept of the game, a great feel of what's going on between the four lines. He's got patience, he's stong and he's unselfish. And those hands and vision."

"Cousy was more spectacular, but that kid can do it all. He can shoot from anywhere on the court. But if he doesn't have the shot, he won't take it. He'll pass to someone open. And how he can pass. He spots the man and gives it to him. He's always anticipating on the floor."

Auerbach complimented former Marquette Coach Al McGuire for his television commentary on Bird against Wichita State.

"Al McGuire knows his basketball and I agreed with him all the way with what he said," Auerbach said. "He told everything as it was without being gushy. It would be very easy to become gushy with the spectacular game Bird had, but Al didn't. He was looking at things other than scoring, the same as I was."

So just where do the Celtics stand with Bird?

"He does everything and we'd love to have him," Auerbach said. "He could step into the starting lineup with any team in our league, but we want him. We've tried to be very low key with him while he finishes his college career."

"I've seen him play and talked to him just once. However, I'm going out to see him in the playoffs. Then, after the season, he'll get an agent and we'll sit down and talk."
