

The Observer

VOL XX, NO. 83

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1986

an independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

The Observer/Hannes Hacker

Errant arrow

The North Quad received a preliminary shot of Keenan Revue humor after residents of Keenan Hall added a comedic arrow to the outside of the hall. The revue will be held at Saint Mary's O'Laughlin Auditorium Thursday through Saturday.

Challenger search discovers remains

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - Pathologists are examining human remains recovered from the Atlantic to see if they are those of the Challenger's astronauts, sources said yesterday.

NASA said yesterday that it has recovered no shuttle debris so far from the ocean bottom despite six days of searching with sonar and robot submarines. Two promising "targets," the space agency said, turned out to be the old wreckage of a helicopter and a light airplane.

That left 17 other potential targets about 15 miles offshore where photographs and radar indicated that large objects hit the water, NASA said.

But with the sea yielding less debris each day, officials weighed cutting back on the search of the ocean surface. The Navy was pulling its ships out at the end of the day yesterday, leaving the sea sweep to the Coast Guard, which also was reviewing whether to continue.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, would not disclose how many remains had been found or what they were but said they had been taken to a hospital at nearby Patrick Air Force Base to be preserved and studied.

"As we move away from this terrible day, we must devote our energies to finding out how it happened and how it can be prevented from happening again," President Reagan said yesterday in naming a commission to investigate the cause of the catastrophe independently of NASA. He said it would be headed by former Secretary of State William Rogers and former astronaut Neil Armstrong.

At the White House ceremony introducing the new board, NASA acting director William Graham refused to comment directly on the report.

"On the issue of human remains, all I can tell you at this point is that we are sensitive to the issue of personal effects and to the remains of the astronauts," he said. "We have plans in place to treat them with great dignity and great privacy, appropriate to the respect that we have for them."

No automatic penalties imposed on parietals violators

Editor's note: This is the second in a three-day series examining parietals at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. Today's stories will look at the two schools' current policies and judicial processes. Tomorrow's stories will look toward the future of the parietals policy.

By MARY HEILMANN
Assistant News Editor

Contrary to student perception and what the wording of du Lac may suggest, Notre Dame imposes no automatic penalty on parietals violators, according to the Office of Student Affairs.

"I think... any time there's a disciplinary case, regardless of whether it's parietals or some other issue, the circumstances of the case are always considered, regardless of what du Lac says," said Father David Tyson, vice president for student affairs.

"It would be ridiculous not to look into a situation. If du Lac says suspension is warranted and the feeling of the office of residence life is that suspension isn't warranted, they're not going to suspend," he added.

Tyson said he thinks there has been some confusion because du Lac states "Overnight parietals violations involve suspension or dismissal."

"I couldn't understand what some of the difficulty was, and it was in a conversation with (Hall Presidents' Council Chairman) Kevin Howard where I said, 'Do you think that just because the book says that?', and he said, 'Well, yeah,' and I said, 'Well Kevin, why did they have the hearing? We could just have security take a letter saying the book says you did it, go away.'"

But according to Judicial Council Coordinator Karen Ingwersen, the hearing process is flawed because the decision reached in the Judicial Review Board process may be appealed to the University President for a final ruling.

Review Process Explained

In the review board process, the student may appeal the ruling of the Office of Residence Life to the judicial review board, a panel of faculty and administrative members, which hears evidence and makes a decision on the case. This

Parietals:

A closer look decision can then in turn be appealed to Father Theodore Hesburgh, University president, by either the student or the Office of Residence Life.

"Decisions by the President are final," du Lac states.

"The people on the review board are very competent and I think they are very responsible. I don't know that I can say it (the Review Board) is effective though, because the decision can always be referred back to the administration for final ruling. In my view, this is one of the major detriments," Ingwersen said.

Reporting Procedures Varies

According to several rectors, the procedure for reporting minor parietals violations out of the dorm to Student Affairs varies from hall to hall. They declined, however, to speak further on the issue, or to be identified.

Once a parietals violation has been reported to the Office of Residence Life, Associate Vice President for Residence Life John Goldrick or Ann Firth, director of residence life, examines the evidence presented. On the basis of this, Goldrick or Firth makes a decision on whether or not the student is guilty of the violation and, if so, what penalty will be imposed.

As stated in du Lac, if a student wishes to appeal either this decision or the penalty, he or she then has five days from the date of verbal notification from the Office for Student Affairs in which to submit a written appeal to the office.

After the appeal is received at Student Affairs, the involved student and the administration begin the process of choosing the review board panel for the hearing.

Du Lac says the Judicial Review board "shall be composed of five people selected for each case from a panel of twelve faculty and administrative personnel. For each case, the student shall select one member, the Associate V.P., one member, and the remaining three shall be chosen at random in the presence of the student or an undergraduate student counsel and in the presence of the Associate V.P."

The ratio of the randomly chosen members must be 3:2, either faculty to administration or administration to faculty, it adds.

see du LAC, page 5

Saint Mary's infractions judged on an individual basis

By PEGGY PROSSER
Staff Reporter

"Parietals at Saint Mary's have nothing to do with sexual activity, and what students do in their own rooms is their own business," said former Dean of Students Sister Karol Jackowski.

"We view the seriousness of a violation in terms of its negative effect on the Saint Mary's community, and that includes drugs, theft and alcohol. All of these we have to treat by the Indiana state laws," said Jackowski.

Because Saint Mary's does not have a written sexuality code, sanctions given to parietals violators depend on the particular circumstances of the case, said Pat Rissmeyer, director of residence life and housing.

The Saint Mary's judicial system takes into account all facts of the incident when making a decision regarding a parietals violation, according to Margaret Caven, Regina Hall residence director.

Those involved with a particular case are also bound to confidentiality, which they consider to be a strong point in their judicial process, said Caven.

One Case Explained

In a recent parietals violation charged against a Regina Hall resident, the student was caught by both her roommate and resident advisor, and as a result was written up for the violation.

The student, who requested anonymity, explained the events in the judicial process.

A formal report was filed by the resident advisor which explained the incident. The report was then given to the hall director, who, as the next person in charge, would handle the matter.

Following this, the student was given a hearing with only the hall director, herself and her resident advisor present.

The student was read the incident report and then given a choice: she could consider that meeting to be the final hearing, she could appear in front of the Judicial Board or appear at another hearing consisting of a hall director, a member of the administration and a student.

The student chose the hall director, who found her guilty. The student was placed on disciplinary probation and was given eight hours of duty at the parietals desk.

The student said she was treated fairly by everyone involved in the incident, but expressed surprise at the sanction she was given.

"I thought for sure they'd tell me to be out within 48 hours. I couldn't believe they were ac-

see PARIETALS, page 5

In Brief

Design contest winners were announced last week for Saint Mary's 1986-87 Cultural Events Calendar. Any sculpture, painting, design or sketch representing the College and the performing arts was eligible. Haley Osterbeck won the first prize of $100; Ellen Morrison won second prize of $50; and the third prize of $25 was won by Lisa Hagen. Judges for the contest were Sandy Bate of Imprint, Inc., and Ed Martin of Boger Martin Fairchild and Co. - The Observer

Summer jobs at Cape Cod and the offshore islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard are available to students and teachers again this year. For generations businesses in these resort areas have been hiring college students from all over the country, including the midwestern and western states. For information, send a long self-stamped envelope to Cape Cod Summer Job Bureau, Box 594, Room 12, Barnstable, MA 02630. - The Observer

Of Interest

The "Spiritual Roots" sessions at Saint Mary's continue tomorrow with a book review at 12:15 in LeMans Hall's Stapleton Lounge. Paula McLean, director of public relations at the College, will discuss Elisabeth Kubler-Ross's book, "On Children and Death," which deals with issues surrounding dying children and their families. McLean holds an M.A. in counseling from Notre Dame, and is bereavement coordinator for the Hospice of St. Joseph County. - The Observer

Former death row prisoner Delbert Tibbs will speak at an informational meeting tonight on opposition to the death penalty. The slide show "People are not for the Killing" will accompany the meeting at 7:30. - The Observer

The struggle with Campbell's soup will be the topic of a discussion tonight at 7:30 in the library of the Center for Social Concerns. The Notre Dame community has supported midwestern farmers throughout the seven-year boycott and continued support will be the topic of this discussion sponsored by the Notre Dame Farm Labor Organizing Committee. - The Observer

"Words, Words, Words" will be a new program aired on WSND-FM to be broadcast for the first time today at 2 p.m. The show will be hosted by Dr. Paul Roche, its creator and the poet-in-residence at Notre Dame. The program will be a presentation of poetry and prose and is sponsored by the Program of Liberal Studies. All subsequent programs will be aired on Tuesdays and Fridays at 2 p.m. - The Observer

The artist-in-residence until Feb. 15 at Saint Mary's will be Peter Mitten, a California sculptor. Mitten will give a public lecture on "Questioning the Significance of Form," tonight at 7 in room 232 Moreau Hall. An open reception will honor Mitten Friday from 4 to 6 p.m. in the Sculpture Studio of Moreau Hall. Mitten currently runs his own private studio and acts as consultant and foundry service for San Diego artists. During his residency, he will be working with Saint Mary's sculpture students. - The Observer

Shelter for the Homeless will be conducting sign-ups for trained volunteers tomorrow from 6 to 6:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre LaFortune. Preference will be given to groups of 4, 2 males and 2 females. For more information call John at 1515. - The Observer

Weather

You're out of luck if you don't like rain. There is a 100 percent chance of rain today with highs near 50 and a 70 percent chance of rain with the lows in the upper 30s tonight. Tomorrow is not much brighter, with a 50 percent chance of rain and highs in the mid 40s. - AP

The Observer

Design Editor.....	Chris Bowler	Features Copy Editor.....	Eric Bergamo
Design Assistant.....	Melissa Warnke	Features Layout.....	Sharon Emmitte
Typesetters.....	Suzanne Hammer	ND Day Editor.....	Ray Szafranski
	Bill Highduchek	SMC Day Editor.....	Priscilla Karle
News Editor.....	Scott Bearby
Copy Editor.....	Alex Peltzer	Ad Design.....	Catherine Ramsden
Sports Copy Editor.....	Marty Burns		Allison Fahrenhoft
Viewpoint Copy Editor.....	Maura Mandyck	Photographer.....	Paul Pahoresky
Viewpoint Layout.....	Melinda Murphy	Typist.....	Colleen Foy

The Observer (USPS 599 2-3000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $30 per year ($20 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Wonder of copy machine dampened by breakdowns

Copy machines are wonderful inventions. With a flick of a switch here and the turn of a knob there, untold miracles appear before your very eyes.

The added features of copy machines are truly incredible; just about anything can be reproduced in a variety of forms and can even be whisked across the country in a matter of minutes.

The self-serve copy machines at Notre Dame, however, do not have the latest in space-age features. Perhaps one day they will, but for now the typical student has a simple wish: "please, when I want to make a copy of something, let me find a machine that works."

This is the age of efficiency, the "I want to get it done now" approach to life. There is no longer a need to trek to the library simply to make a photocopy, for there are over 25 self-serve machines strategically placed in dorms and dining halls.

Quantity does not bring quality, however, as the majority of them seem not to be in operation at the same time. Not very many people escape the frustration of finding at least one copy machine out of order. Actually, true frustration is going from copy machine to copy machine, only to find four or five of them out of order.

The ordeal happens so often that most people do not experience a reaction when they see the little red lights flashing on the copy machine, indicating that yet something else is wrong. "Out of order" signs seem to have become permanent additions to some of the equipment.

Copy machines do not stop working because of extreme abuse. They just stop with no warning, leaving the most innocent of victims with a blank expression on his face and a blank sheet of paper in his hand.

What does the average person do when a breakage occurs? More than likely, he looks around to see if anyone was a witness. If not, he probably will walk away casually - frustrated, but not wanting to get involved.

Walking away, though, turns the once innocent victim into a copy machine accomplice. Although in some cases the copier provides its own warning, in most cases it doesn't. After all, the machine is broken.

By walking away without leaving some evidence that the machine is not in operation, they are simply setting up the next victim. Even if the copier is not working, the coin slot will always take money. Of course, the machine will not offer you a refund since this seems to be a prerequisite for all coin-operated machinery.

How much money have you lost in the machines?

Scott Bearby

Assistant News Editor

What obscenities have you uttered after discovering an inoperative copier?

The no refund policy helps the machine profiteer make money whether the photocopier is in operation or not. It would be possible to complain, even rebel, if it was known who took care of the machines.

Although leaving a name and phone number of the "copy machine commissioner" near the equipment would be ideal, one really cannot blame them if they don't. Why should they be responsible for something that never works?

Unlike the Maytag repairman who claimed to be the loneliest repairman in the world, the copy machine mechanic seems to be the most popular (since we have not seen the Maytag man around recently he may have switched professions.) No sooner does the repairman leave and the copier is broken again.

Photocopies can be obtained from five cents to 25 cents, but you do not get what you pay for. Twenty-five cent machines work no better than the others, but they do give you five times the frustration.

The world is at the mercy of the copy machine. Without them, bureaucracy and civilization as we know it would come to a grinding halt. We can fight the situation, however.

A boycott of copy machines could be started, but eventually you would need to photocopy the protest flyers.

If you need some extra cash, install your own copy machines and take advantage of all the people who put money into machines that do not work. If job interviews are not going well, why not check into a career as a copy repairman? There should be a lot of money to be made.

In the meantime though, the best alternative is to wait until you see someone else use the machine first. There is no sense in you losing money.

Wish your friends a Happy Birthday through Observer advertising. Call 239-5303 for details.

Attention all Juniors

Junior Parents Weekend table reservations for President's Dinner

Tuesday, February 4 7-9 p.m.

TONIGHT IS THE LAST NIGHT!!!

COME TO: Basement of LAFORTUNE

BRING:

Maximum of 6 student I.D.'s to reserve two tables (9-10 people per table) to facilitate seating with friends.

Information for each I.D.:

- number of people in each party
- Home zip code

Table reservations are mandatory if you plan on attending the dinner, even if you have not yet registered for the weekend!

Please Note: Table number assignment will be random and not dependent on the time you come to register.

Senate looking to eliminate ND housing contract fines

By MARK PANKOWSKI
Assistant News Editor

The Student Senate is looking into the possibility of eliminating the fine imposed on students breaking their housing contract after concerns were raised at last night's senate meeting.

Senator Chris Abood will discuss with Student Residences Director Evelyn Reinebold the possibility that the fines be dropped because of problems students had as a result of yesterday's deadline for returning the contracts.

Students who returned their contracts for on-campus housing next year but decide later to live off-campus face at least $150 in fines, according to the housing contract.

"Apparently the fine is imposed because if you break your contract they've got to try to fill that room," said Mike Jaeger, campus improvements cabinet member.

"I think we all know there are people off-campus and there are transfers every year begging to get a place on campus," said Jaeger. "They don't have a problem anymore of filling space on campus."

Jaeger became aware of the problem after several students complained of being forced to return the contracts before they knew whether they actually wanted to live on-campus next year, he said.

"A few weeks back into the school year is a difficult time to be asking the people to make such a significant decision to students," said Jaeger, who added that the problem was especially acute for sophomores.

Students also complained that apartment complexes can't give guarantees of housing being available next year until several months after the students' contracts are due, said Jaeger.

"They (apartment complexes) may be able to tell us by the end of the year, but a sophomore cannot make that commitment to move off-campus unless he knows where he's going to live," he said.

Senior Class Vice President Pam Fox experienced the problem firsthand, she said.

"I was forced into that spot last year," Fox said. "We didn't get a guarantee until halfway through the summer with our apartment complex," she said.

"There's no way around it. You can't go off-campus unless you have a guarantee," said Fox, referring to parents who often won't let students move off-campus without the guarantee.

Along with the proposal to eliminate the fines, Jaeger also suggested the University could set a later deadline for housing contracts.

But Abood said the administration needs the contracts early enough to ascertain the number of rooms available for next year's freshmen.

Notre Dame professors offer reactions to shuttle mishap

By TRIPP BALTZ
Copy Editor

When the space shuttle Challenger exploded shortly after liftoff a week ago, a nation feared its hopes and dreams for the future of manned space flight might be lost in the blast.

The catastrophe has caused the National Aeronautics Space Administration, the Reagan Administration, and the American public to rethink its position on the value of manned space travel and contemplate whether to rely solely upon unmanned flight. More specifically, after the death of schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe, concern has arisen for the prospect of putting civilians in space.

Notre Dame Professors Robert Nelson and Thomas Mueller, both aerospace engineers, feel there is a need for both manned and unmanned space missions.

"Man has proved his worth in space," said Mueller, director of research and engineering studies in the College of Engineering. "Men make decisions that computers can't make. We have perception and decision-making ability," he said.

Nelson, associate director of aerospace and mechanical engineering, said he agreed that men and women can perform some experiments that automations cannot, but deep space missions will have to remain unmanned with the present technology.

"We should continue a vigorous manned program," he said. "But we may have been carried away with our success," he added. Nelson cited the success of the Apollo program and the 24 shuttle flights.

"We were lulled into thinking it (manned travel) was safe," he said. "We felt the risk was similar to flying from Michiana airport to Chicago."

"There are risks everywhere," Nelson said. "There are risks when you get in your car and drive it around. The astronauts knew the risks, they knew no system is perfect."

Mueller said he believes it is a good idea to have a civilian go up in the shuttle. "We're not exploring, we're developing. Civilians are a part of this."

Nelson said he questions whether it is wise to use civilians at this time. But he pointed out that someday they may be necessary in space.

"It will eventually happen that civilians will have to be used in space," he said. "They will become involved in the use of space for industrial purposes."

The general public was not prepared for the catastrophe of the shuttle, Mueller said. But the space agency will recover from the disaster, according to both professors.

"First they will have to find the problem, then it will take at least three to four months to be ready for another flight," said Mueller.

Mueller pointed out that the preparation for each flight is very carefully planned out. "They (NASA) don't rush things," he said. "They're probably the most professional people in the whole country."

Nelson said that because the flight boosters and fuel tank are attached to the shuttle for the dangerous time after liftoff, there is a perpetual chance for something catastrophic to occur. Mueller said he believes there will never be a real solution to the technical problem.

"We'll have to wait until NASA says what happened. It's not a problem with the whole system, just one part. Once they fix that, they'll be back in business," Mueller said.

According to Nelson, the nation will take a hard look at its objectives in the area of space travel.

"There will be a reassessment of the program to see if what we're doing is okay. Maybe we're still right, maybe the program will need slight modification," he said.

"High risk is always involved," Nelson added. In the past, he said, "numerous people have tried to push towards a new frontier. The risk has never deterred them."

The Observer

The Independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is accepting applications for the following position:

Editor-in-Chief

Applications and personal statements are due Monday, Feb. 10 at 5 p.m. For more information, see Sarah Hamilton at The Observer office.

The Observer
3rd Floor, LaFortune Student Center
Notre Dame, IN 46556

Information Session

Attention Candidates on Merrill Lynch Interview Schedule.

Also Invited:

Interested Juniors & Seniors

—Any Major—

Find out how you can start building your career in the prestigious Financial Services industry.

TOPIC: Corporate Systems Program
Corporate Intern Program
(See Placement Office for more information on these programs)

DATE: Wednesday, February 5, 1986

TIME: 8 P.M.

PLACE: Morris Inn-Notre Dame Room

Merrill Lynch

STUDENTS Serving STUDENTS

Did you know..

You are not obligated to sign anything presented to you. Anything you sign may be used against you in the future.

You have the right to a written explanation of any disciplinary action or decision that concerns you.

You have the right to be informed of the nature of the charges 48 hours prior to a hearing on those charges.

You have the right to receive assistance from the University in obtaining evidence needed for your defense.

You have the right to present evidence in your defense at the hearing. As well, you have the right to have a witnesses speak on your behalf.

Know Your Rights

*2nd of 5 advertisements on students' rights when accused of a University Offense.

(Clip and Post)

Student Government

ND Moot Court team gives final arguments

By MARK MCLAUGHLIN
Copy Editor

Notre Dame law students had a glimpse of their future occupation Friday as the Notre Dame Moot Court team presented its final arguments of the year.

"The Moot Court is a mock representation of what happens in the Supreme Court of the United States," said Mary McPherson, one of two executive directors in the Moot Court program. The procedures followed in the Moot Court are the same as those in the Supreme Court, with each side arguing its points for 30 minutes, followed by a decision by the judges, McPherson said.

A verdict of no decision was handed down in the hypothetical case of Lanstel, Inc. against the City of Stewart at the 36th annual final argument on Friday. In a change from past years, the judges did not name one team better than another.

"The class of '86 has made the Moot Court an easy case ... they have decided that there will be no winner and no rankings ... meaning there will be no winners announced, said Judge Kenneth Ripple of the United States Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit.

According to Ripple, it was felt that declaring a winner would detract from the spirit of the final argument.

Also presiding over the final argument were U.S. District Judge Frank Kaufman and St. Joseph Superior Court Judge Jeanne Swartz.

Robert Cessar and Alan Weldy acted as counsel for Lanstel, Inc., the petitioners, while John Horas and Beth Spencer were counsel for the respondent, the City of Stewart. The case involved the allotment of cable television rights in the city of Stewart by the Department of Power and Water.

These four third-year law students were chosen in a long process that started in their first year, according to McPherson. She said that all law students were required to submit a written argument and an oral defense of this argument as part of their first year studies.

Interested students continued to compete on an intramural basis throughout their second year. Four students were chosen from this competition by faculty members to represent Notre Dame in the National Moot Court Competition.

This year's Moot Court team scored higher in intercollegiate competition than did last year's team, according to McPherson. In the Regional Competition, held in Indianapolis last November, the team of Cessar and Weldy received the highest brief score, while the team of Horas and Spencer scored highest in oral competition in the preliminary rounds. Both teams reached the quarterfinals, making Notre Dame the only school to place both its teams that highly.

McPherson said that the final argument is often referred to as the "showcase argument" because "(the Moot Court) gives these students the opportunity to showcase their talents in front of the Notre Dame faculty and their fellow students." This proved to be the case, as the final argument was attended by faculty and first- and second-year law students.

"They were very good," said second-year law student Juan Bermudez of the Moot Court teams. He added that he found the arguments hard to follow because he did not have a copy of the briefs available.

The presiding judges said they were also impressed. "The arguments were excellently prepared, and I felt the entire oral argument performance was on a very high level," said Kaufman after the arguments were presented. "Some tough questions were asked, and they were fielded well on both sides."

While no official decision was rendered, both Ripple and Kaufman said they felt that the counsel for Lanstel, Inc., was slightly more convincing. Swartz was called out of the final argument to attend to Superior Court matters and was thus unavailable for comment.

Kaufman felt that the counsel for both petitioner and respondent was of high caliber. In his closing remarks on the final argument, he said "I only wish I had the benefit of this type of excellence day in and day out."

The Observer/Mike May

Inch by inch

The lines were long yesterday as students waited throughout the afternoon at the ACC for Keenan Revue tickets. This group of students inched closer to the ticket booth hoping to get some of the 4,000 tickets available.

Board discusses SAGA changes

By KIM YURATOVAC
News Staff

Revisions in SAGA's menus were among the topics discussed at the Saint Mary's Board of Governance meeting last night.

Bob Luedke of Saint Mary's SAGA food service announced the menu planning meetings at which students can help SAGA officials plan 21 meals for the dining hall. The next meeting will take place Feb. 20 at 7 in the LeMans lobby.

According to Luedke, SAGA will be changing weekend lunch hours to 11:15-12:30 beginning Feb. 15. Other new ideas Luedke is considering are a yogurt bar, a fruit bar and a greater variety of low calorie entrees.

Julie Harmon, vice president for academic affairs, emphasized the speaker series entitled, "The Changing Values And Lifestyles Of Notre Dame And Saint Mary's Undergraduates." This series, sponsored by Notre Dame and Saint Mary's student government, will take place March 9-15 on both campuses.

Student Body President Anne Marie Kollman spoke of the problems the college was experiencing with registration. She explained that the Student Academic Council is working on a proposal to alleviate problems such as overcrowding and time conflicts.

Mary Lally announced the "Meet The Candidates" forum scheduled for Monday at 7 p.m. in the Haggard College Center. Student Government elections will be held on Feb. 12 from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m.

Kollman announced that the student government will be sponsoring a Keenan Review Party following the show Thursday in Haggard College Center.

Kollman also stated that the college programming board will be sponsoring the movie "Killing Us Softly," which will portray the effects of advertising on women. The movie will be shown Feb. 12 and 13 in the residence halls.

According to Kollman, flashing yellow caution lights for the intersection of U.S. 31 and the road connecting Notre Dame and Saint Mary's have been requested by Director of Security Richard Chlebek. The lights, which will be provided by the college, would be in use from 6 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. on weeknights and 6 p.m. to 2:30 a.m. on the weekends.

SOPHOMORES JUNIORS & SENIORS

SPEND AN AFTERNOON IN YOUR SPECIFIC CAREER INTEREST!

CAREER ORIENTATION DAY
TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1986

in Indianapolis

apply at the Alumni Association Office by Monday, February 10

$12.00 fee for transportation, lunch & dinner

Limited space available

sponsored by the Alumni Association
Student Alumni Relations Group (SARG)

SUMMER PROGRAMS ND - SMC STUDENTS

LONDON
May 21-June 20

ROME
June 15-July 14

Travel in Ireland
Scotland & France

Travel in France
Germany & Switzerland

Courses in Biology, Business, History, Italian
Music, Sociology, and Theatre

Informational Meeting Feb. 17

PASSPORT PHOTOS AVAILABLE

349 Madaleva Hall, SMC, at 7 p.m.

Previous students and teachers will be present to answer questions.

For further info. call Professor A.R. Black at x4460 or at 272-3726

35mm Color

Prints and Slides
from the same roll

Kodak MP film ... Eastman Kodak's professional motion picture (MP) film now adapted for still use in 35mm cameras by Seattle FilmWorks. Enjoy micro-line grain and rich color saturation. Shoot in low or bright light from 200 ASA up to 1200 ASA. Get the option of prints or slides, or both, from the same roll.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER

□ RUSH me two 20-exposure rolls of your leading KODAK MP film—Kodak E24 74 (200 ASA). Enclosed is $2.00. I'd like to be able to get color prints or slides (or both) from the same roll of this quality film.

NAME _____
ADDRESS _____
CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

Mail to: Seattle FilmWorks
P.O. Box C-34086
Seattle, WA 98124 2274

*1984 Seattle FilmWorks. Limit of 2 rolls per customer.

Please support
AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY®

Counseline Volunteers Needed!!!

Students needed to staff the information tape service of Counseling and Psychological Services on Friday evenings for 2 hour time blocks.

Times are 4-12 p. m.

If interested, call Mary (239-5485)

BREAK FOR THE BEACH

SPRING BREAK

MARCH

1-8 15-22
8-15 22-29

CONDO OR HOTEL LODGING
PARTIES / GOODIE BAGS / MORE!

OFFICIAL BEACH TRIPS

Daytona Beach FLORIDA from '87
THE REEF RESORT
South Padre Island TEXAS from '89
PADRE LITE CONDOS from '109
BAHIA MAR RESORT
Fort Walton Beach FLORIDA from '109
THE ISLANDER
Fort Lauderdale FLORIDA from '159
LAMPLIGHTER MOTEL from '229
CAMELOT RESORT
Mustang Island TEXAS from '129
PORT ROYAL RESORT

DON'T BE LEFT IN THE COLD!

Limited Space Available
CENTRAL BREAK RESERVATIONS

USA & HAWAII

1-800-321-5911

COLORADO

1-800-321-5912

or contact a local Sunchase representative or your local travel agency TODAY!

be a sunchaser

du Lac

continued from page 1

The student is entitled to representation at the hearing by an undergraduate student. Within the Judicial Council, Tim McDowell, Pat Flood and Ingwersen have volunteered to represent students, she said, adding that the student is not limited to these people.

"It can be any undergrad, but these are the people on the Judicial Council that have volunteered to handle this," Ingwersen said.

Noting that students are often hesitant about asking a friend to represent them, Ingwersen suggested that such representation can often be helpful.

"It is not inadvisable to take in a friend, because if it's you who is on trial, you might tend to be hesitant about doing or saying anything because you're afraid it might hurt you. In this sense, an uninvolved friend helps because they can be objective," Ingwersen said.

"Surprisingly, the competency of the undergrad is not much of a factor," she added. "I had thought it would be otherwise, but each individual case is handled according to the actual evidence presented, not how it is presented."

During the hearing, as stated in du Lac, everyone present has the right to call and question witnesses and to present evidence.

Once all the evidence has been presented, the review board makes a decision on the case. This decision must be reached by a majority of the panel members and can be to either uphold the penalty, to lessen the penalty, or "to make the penalty stiffer if they feel it's necessary," Ingwersen said.

"Any number of imaginary punishments are possible. Whatever they want to create (as a penalty) is fine, so in this sense there is a risk involved," she added.

President Has Final Say

At this point, either the student or the Office of Residence Life has seven days to appeal the decision to Hesburgh. The Office of Residence Life then prepares a summary of the case - whether they have submitted the appeal or the student has - which is reviewed by the panel chairman. If it is approved, it is sent to Hesburgh for a final decision.

Of the three cases appealed to the Review Board in which Ingwersen was involved, the penalty was lessened in all three situations, she said. Two of these were then appealed to Hesburgh by the Office of Residence Life. Hesburgh upheld the original penalty of suspension in both cases.

"I will say that in the case this semester that brought the parietals issue to the forefront, I considered all of the information presented that was relevant to the case," Hesburgh stated in a letter responding to the Judicial Council's inquiry into the penalties imposed on parietals violators.

"Certainly, there are many cases in which specific sanctions would ordinarily be imposed, but nothing is automatic. To do so would defeat the whole purpose of hearings and the presentation of facts regarding the incident in question," Hesburgh wrote.

"You may disagree with the penalty imposed in the overnight parietal case that became public this semester, but it is another matter to suggest that the sanction was automatically imposed without all facts being taken into consideration," he added.

Last semester the HPC criticized Hesburgh's decision involving the suspension of two students because of a parietals violation.

The letter sent to Hesburgh by the Judicial Council read in part "While we do agree with the existence of the parietals policy, we believe the penalty imposed on the individuals who violate this rule is far too severe . . . In addition, these punishments should be flexible enough to allow for the consideration of extenuating circumstances and the intent of the violator."

According to the recent parietals survey conducted by junior Bruce Lohman, 83 percent of the 227 respondents thought that the penalties imposed on parietals violators are too severe, while none thought they are too lenient. Four percent thought that the reduction of minimum penalties would greatly hinder the observance of the parietals code, while 36 percent thought it would not at all.

Observer promotes seven

Special to The Observer

The Observer news department has made the following appointments to its staff:

Keith Harrison, a junior American studies major from Pittsburgh, Pa., returns to the department as an assistant news editor. Harrison was previously a news editor.

Also promoted to the position of assistant news editor is Cindy Rauckhorst, a junior English and economics major from Oxford, Ohio. She had been a copy editor and a staff reporter.

Joining the news department as copy editors are Alex Peltzer and Mark McLaughlin. Peltzer, an American studies major from Visalia, Calif., previously worked as a design assistant and a staff reporter. McLaughlin, an aerospace engineering major from Middletown, N.J., is also the Observer's assistant production manager.

The Observer's new day chief is Tripp Baltz, a junior American studies and German major from Memphis, Tenn. Baltz is also a news copy editor.

Joining the news department as day editors are Bill Herzog, a junior from Reading, Mass., and Ellyn Mastako, a senior communications and history major.

Parietals

continued from page 1

tually giving me another chance," she said.

The particular sanction given to a student is decided by the board she chooses to appear before, and also depends on the case, said Rissmeyer.

"There may be tension over how differently we respond, but that's because our philosophy is different," said Rissmeyer, in response to student reactions to sanctions given to parietals violators.

Disciplinary probation involves a strongly-worded letter placed in a student's file for up to one year. If the student is charged with another violation, the letter can have influence over the next sanction, Jackowski said.

Different Reactions, Same Situation

For a parietals violation involving a man from Notre Dame at Saint Mary's, the Notre Dame student is dealt with according to his behavior, said Rissmeyer.

"Notre Dame and Saint Mary's are separate campuses, yet we have a cooperative relationship. If there's a problem with a Notre Dame student becoming loud or abusive to a resident advisor, we'll send his name over to ND," Rissmeyer said.

Jackowski added, "We hold the woman responsible for the behavior of her guest."

If the name of a Notre Dame student is turned over by Saint Mary's officials, how the matter is handled depends on the circumstances, said Ann Firth, director of residence life at Notre Dame.

Because the matter has never come up, Firth said, she could not say what the particular sanction would be in this case.

"I guess I or Dr. Goldrick would talk with our counterparts at Saint Mary's, and decide how it would be handled," said Firth.

If a Saint Mary's student is rude or abusive to a rector or resident assistant at Notre Dame, the student's name will go to Rissmeyer, who handles it accordingly.

One Notre Dame resident assistant, who also requested anonymity, said this almost never happens because most RA's do not ask a woman's name no matter what the circumstance.

"We've had parietals violations before, and it didn't matter where the girl was from. We just don't take their names (in our hall). That's just the way we do things here," he said.

Scott Cade, an RA in Keenan Hall, said he would not deal with the girl, but would find out who she was.

"I would ask the guy to take the girl home, then come see me. I'd never embarrass the guy in front of the girl. Then we'd take it from there," said Cade.

Brother Bonaventure Scully, Keenan Hall rector, said he would ask the girl for her ID, send her home, then turn the ID over to someone at Saint Mary's.

"One thing is, you don't go looking for it. What you do find, or catch, is coincidental," said Scully.

Once reported at Saint Mary's, Rissmeyer said she handles the matter according to the circumstances of the case. Everything, she said, is taken into account, such as the time of the violation, how the student behaved toward the particular RA or rector and any previous violations. She then has a conference with the student to discuss the matter.

"Usually, if a Saint Mary's student is rude or abusive to a rector or resident advisor on the Notre Dame campus, her name will go to me, and I'll handle it from there," Rissmeyer said.

SAVE
35%
TO 65%
ON REPLACEMENT SOFT
CONTACT LENSES

Replace Lost, Damaged, or Discolored Lenses at a Fraction of their Original Cost!

*Daily Wear Lenses

- Amsoft
- American Hydron
- Asoft
- Bausch & Lomb
- Cibasoft
- Durasoft

$41.93 pair

*Tinted Lenses

- Bausch & Lomb
Natural Tints
- Cibasoft Colors

$63.97 pair

*Extended Wear Lenses

- AO Softcon $57/pr
- Bausch & Lomb $45/pr
- CooperVision
- Permalens $67/pr
- CSIT $97/pr
- Durasoft 3 $57/pr
- Genesis 4 $55/pr
- Hydrocurve $87/pr

IF YOUR BRAND IS NOT LISTED
HERE SEND A COPY OF YOUR PRESCRIPTION AND WE WILL SEND YOU A QUOTE

Date _____

Dear Doctor:

Please send me a copy of my latest soft contact lens prescription. Please complete this and mail it as soon as possible. Thank you very much.

Patient Signature

Brand _____ Base Curve _____ Power _____

_____ No. _____ Dia. _____ Oz. _____ Color _____

_____ Daily wear _____ Extended wear _____

Fitter's Signature

All lenses guaranteed first quality, and are supplied in the original factory sealed vials.

FOLLOW THESE 5 EASY STEPS

- 1 Acquire your complete contact lens prescription
- 2 Complete the order below
- 3 Make check, money order, or complete credit card information payable to CLS, Inc.
- 4 Enclose name, address & phone number with order
- 5 Mail all information to:

Contact Lens Supply, Inc.

30650 Carter Rd.
Cleveland, Ohio 44139
216/248-2416

"Contact Lens Suppliers for 25 years"

Please send _____ pairs at only _____ a pair. UND

* Total for lenses

* Shipping & Handling 2.00

* Total

I have enclosed total payment in the following manner:

_____ check _____ money order
_____ VISA _____ MasterCard

(Personal Checks must be cleared prior to shipment)

Charge Acct. No. _____

Expiration date _____

Signature _____

*No single lens orders please.

*We will keep all prescriptions on file for reorders.

*90% of the lenses ordered are in our inventory and ready to be shipped in 24 hours.

ATTENTION SOPHOMORES!

interns

I.F. INTERNS — a two year extracurricular career development program in the growing field of compensation and benefits—is now considering applicants for 1986-88 internship opportunities.

Successful candidates work in full-time paid positions with area or national firms during the two summers before graduation and attend required educational seminars in Chicago during the academic year.

I.F. INTERNS is for the energetic sophomore seeking to channel academic excellence toward specific career goals. Minimum 3.0 GPA required. Deadline for application is February 14.

For more information visit the Career and Placement Services Center in Memorial Library, or call/write:

Ellen Henderson
I.F. INTERNS
International Foundation of Employee Benefit Plans
3 West Burton Place
Chicago, IL 60610
312-337-0710

(The International Foundation is a nonprofit educational organization.)

Attention All Students!!!

The Chicago Tribune's

Advertising and Marketing

Departments are sponsoring a Question and Answer Reception

Wednesday, Feb. 5
6 - 8 pm
Senior Alumni Club

Even if you are unable to schedule an appointment with one of our recruiters, we encourage you to attend this reception and to submit your resume to the placement office for our review.

Education is the key to ending future of apartheid

The question of apartheid is answered so easily by armchair academics, by liberals with preconceptions, by conservatives with indifference. That apartheid is wrong is not even a consideration. Anyone with the slightest feel for humanity understands the equality of man irrespective of anything. The problem lies in how do we change the status quo? The solutions that we provide must have the compassion and insight that will lead to enhanced world harmony, and not merely an answer to the South African situation.

Blaise Aguirre

guest column

The ruling Nationalist party has been in control since 1948. Of party leaders, P.W. Botha is considered the most lenient ever. The last elections (in which blacks could not vote), saw 19 members of his party leave to form the Conservative party. It was numerically insignificant in an assembly of more than 140 seats, more than 100 occupied by the Nationalists, but it was a sign that some people felt the government was making too many concessions too quickly.

In the last by-elections five seats were contested. All were Nationalist-controlled, and the general feeling was that they should retain them relatively easily. They won four of the five. One went to the ultra-right wing Herstigte Nasionale Party. They had not won a seat in the previous 18 years of existence. Again numerically insignificant.

Another interesting fact was that in the previous elections, the liberal white anti-apartheid party, the Progressive Federal party, won more seats than ever before to become the official opposition. The government was being tugged at from both left and right.

Petty apartheid is ending. Everyday more restaurants open up to all, more bus services are becoming trans-racial, more job opportunities open up on the basis of merit rather than color. But these things are really only cosmetic changes that attempt to beautify that which is ugly. It is an inherent quality under oppressive shackles.

The Communist African National Congress was banned and its leader Nelson Mandela jailed for high treason and sentenced to life in prison. He has been offered freedom on various occasions on condition that he renounce violence as a means of change, something which he has not accepted.

After Mandela, it was the "death" in jail of a truly inspirational Steve Biko that drew that world's attention to South Africa. Imprisonment without trial is something to which the government is going to have to answer.

There are today two black leaders of national significance in South Africa. The first is Bishop Desmond Tutu, winner of the Nobel Peace Prize. The second is Bishop Buthelezi, leader of the five million-strong Inkhata and spiritual leader of the mighty Zulu nation.

Tutu's outspokenness and internationalism make him dubious in the eyes of a skeptical nation. Neither the whites, who feel he is trying to undermine the country's economy with his calls for disinvestment, nor the blacks who feel that he spends too much time abroad in a glory-seeking globetrot while they suffer back home, think Tutu will be a truly national leader.

Buthelezi, on the other hand, is not very different from our own Martin Luther King. He spends much time bringing the plight of the blacks to the senses of the whites. He calls for a peaceful and comprehensive end to apartheid and sees divestment as using an evil to combat an evil.

A major problem that has arisen over the past decade is that on the extreme left, the ugly head of the ANC has reared itself again. It comes to mainly uneducated black people with the Marxist promise of "true" equality. It disrupts classes, instigating students to commit acts of senseless violence, and it blatantly murders fellow blacks who show signs of non-violence.

It is a well-organized, Soviet-trained group that wishes to ensure that the strategically situated, mineral-wealthy treasure chest of Africa becomes a further conquest in modern Soviet colonialism. It happened in Rhodesia-Zimbabwe, it happened in Mozambique, it happened in Angola. Every sign indicates it will happen in South Africa unless careful steps are taken.

That apartheid must end is inevitable and right. The question is when and how. I truly feel the answer lies in education. Education not only of the still mainly Third World black, but education of the often complacent white, too. But this can only take place over a generation.

Black and white children must grow up playing together in kindergarten so they will be able to rule a future united in South Africa together. And if the South African government won't educate the blacks then it is the moral duty of the rest of the world to do so.

This could be done if all those "mightier than thou" companies leaving South Africa now would reinvest in the benefits of the majority black populous. The whites then would be forced to deal with a politically and academically competent people. The new South Africa would then truly be a paragon of a successful attempt by the world to construct a true harmony.

Blaise Aguirre is a former Notre Dame student now in his third year of medicine at the University of the Witwatersrand in Johannesburg, South Africa.

Students must realize the problems of alcohol

Lest my views about the alcohol use and social life on campus be misconstrued, please allow me to restate them publicly.

Terrence R. Keeley

guest column

- I completely support the institution and continued enforcement of the so-called "Beauchamp Report," believing as I do that the level of alcohol abuse at Notre Dame had reached epidemic proportions, and believing as I do that the misuse of alcohol continues to threaten and pervade too much of the University of Notre Dame's social fabric.

- Alcohol can and should be used maturely. Student leaders and the administration should continue to try to plan such occasions which permit legal and wise alcohol consumption. Such occasions might include faculty/student soirees, formal dinner and social functions, and daytime receptions.

- It is simply not right for the University to condone social affairs which invariably lead to widespread or habitual student drunkenness. Before the administration relaxes the campus-wide restrictions on alcohol, Notre Dame students should demonstrate more reliable self-restraint and responsibility at off-campus social gatherings.

- It is the students' attitude about alcohol use that most needs changing, not the administration's. Alcohol abuse is a widespread social problem in the United States and around the globe. Notre Dame students, being superior individuals, are called to recognize alcohol-related problems and rise above them.

A recurring theme of the two-hour discussion I enjoyed with hall presidents, student senators and other student leaders last Saturday afternoon was that the administration simply does not understand and refuses to listen to the students' pleas for more autonomy. Several specific examples cited seemed to me to be legitimate complaints given the Beauchamp guidelines, and I sympathize with the students' feelings of frustration. I suspect frustration amongst both the students and administration will remain high, however, until the students fully realize the nature of the social changes which the administration rightly seeks and strives with them to achieve it.

I am grateful to Bill Healy and the student government for inviting me out to the campus for an eye-opening discussion and candid exchange of views. While alcohol use seemed to dominate our talks, a host of other issues were discussed too. I intend to convey all of the students' views and concerns to the Board at its Executive Committee meeting next weekend.

Terrence R. Keeley is a member of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees.

New institution will be 'best hope' for world peace

"Two all beef patties, special sauce, lettuce, cheese, pickles and onions on a sesame seed bun."

Maybe the marketing strategies that took Ray Kroc and the golden arches to fast food fame can be successful in bringing peace to the world. Surely, bringing about peace through a $7 million donation to a Notre Dame "peace institute" should be no more difficult than putting the golden arches on streets from Paris to Hong Kong. If Ray Kroc's genius could cause the Chinese and French to wholeheartedly seek out his golden arches, peace should be as easy as making french fries.

Steve Safranek

a view from the limb

Kroc was eminently successful because he knew how to market hamburgers. He and his advisors knew how to convince the public that they would receive an inexpensive quality meal under the golden arches. Moreover, he convinced people that they wanted to eat hamburgers and french fries on a regular basis.

A fine tribute was paid to him by his wife, Joan, who gave $7 million to Notre Dame to establish a peace institute; (this was just a touch of her estimated $700 million fortune.) Notre Dame can use such a grant for enhancing its role as a leader on social issues in several ways.

First, such an institute should build itself a building - one with golden arches and a marquee that reads "over 60 billion measures of peace bestowed." By our studying the issue of peace, we should be as successful in ending its absence as McDonald's was in marketing the big mac. The jingle already springs to mind. People will soon have "peace attacks," feelings of anxiety (worse than hunger pains) that will have them charging to the doors of the institute for their portion of peace wisdom.

If Notre Dame is as clever in marketing as it seems, it may even be able to influence Burger King or Wendy's to sponsor another institute. I suggest an institute for "Love Studies." Eventually, if we can establish enough of those programs, we can do away with the need for graduate programs that study philosophy, theology, or literature. Such an end is obvious to the liberal mind that recognizes peace and love are of primary academic concern in this world filled with war and nuclear weaponry.

Surely, wise men will see that utopia may be at hand: that which has eluded generation after generation of our forefathers will now be taught at Notre Dame, (non-degree seeking students need apply.)

Not only does such a program raise our awareness (awareness raising being of primary importance in doing away with the evils in today's complex society), it again marks Notre Dame as a leader in American educational circles. Other schools may teach their students about mere philosophy or theology, or may even train great physicists.

But Notre Dame can teach people how to bring about peace. The University can take young adults and inculcate them with such wisdom that virtue itself, sufficient to bring peace, will result. We will prove again that old Catholic adage, that knowledge is virtue, that war can be avoided if only people knew what our wise teachers know.

This new institute is our best hope for world peace. We need no longer fear the Soviets or any warlike country because graduates of the institute, peace scholars, will be able to show the leaders of the Kremlin, the as yet unslaughtered Afghanistanees, and the repressed people of eastern Europe and South Africa that all of the repression was just a miscalculation.

What a tribute to Notre Dame. What a tribute to Ray Kroc. Peace is at hand. Hold the pickles.

Steve Safranek is a second-year law student and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Quote of the day

"The person who knows how will always have a job. But the person who knows why will be his boss."

- Carl C. Wood

P.O.Box Q

Wednesday lunch fast
reaped great profits

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Senior Staff for Student Affairs, I am really pleased to send you (Kevin Moser, president of the World Hunger Coalition) the enclosed check in the amount of $7,966 for transmittal to the Notre Dame Hunger Coalition for distribution to the various overseas relief organizations, according to the criteria it has established through its own research.

These funds represent 7,966 lunch meals during the fall semester just completed. As we know, these meals were given up by those students who pledged to forego their Wednesday lunch in order to come to a greater awareness of what hunger actually feels like and to aid those less fortunate than themselves.

Our congratulations to you, Kevin, and to all Notre Dame students who have cared enough to cooperate with your coalition venture. It certainly afforded many students an opportunity to identify with and to reach out and help the hungry poor.

Sr. Jean Lenz

Assistant Vice President for Student Affairs

Fragmentation in films is an essential quality

Dear Editor:

In response to John Dettling's editorial on network television, I would like to agree with him that it has little to offer. I, too, have outgrown my childhood tastes and cannot stand to sit through much of what the networks serve up. However, the fragmentary nature of television and film should not be derogated or blamed for the wretched quality of programs or our loss of literacy. Fragmentation of reality is the essence of film and its offspring, television, that which distinguishes it from the theater. If you've ever seen a filmed stage play using a stationary camera, it's incredibly boring. On the contrary, some commercials, in spite of their exploitive purposes, are brilliant in their quick-cutting. Psychology tells us that the mind fills in the gaps; we don't need to be shown everything. Life itself is fragmentary. Notice as you walk down the quad - as you turn your head and alter your concentration, you do not see the whole of everything; we're not given time to ponder, rather, we're bombarded with chaotic and incomplete images. Therefore, one could say, although this is arguable, that film and television represent a truer version of reality, at least superficially, than the stage. The theater, though still valid, is more artificial.

In short, fragmentation is an essential quality of film and television; we should not denigrate that. Instead, we should criticize the content - the mentality - or lack thereof, that goes into these programs. That is the real problem.

Donald Seymour
Morrissey HallWe should be skeptical of Johnson's response

Dear Editor:

In the Jan. 23 Observer, Bradley Johnson, a student at Purdue University, was quoted concerning the boycott of Campbell's products endorsed by FLOC and supported by Notre Dame. Johnson's sole interest was to express his concern about the possibility of a similar movement on his own campus in West Lafayette.

He did, however, publicly admit he was the president of the Indiana Federation of College Republicans, insinuating that his true interest was not solely confined to the realm of Boiler-makerdom. If Johnson's problem were truly with a group of manipulative and ungrateful "victimizers" (as he portrays the migrant farmworkers to be), appearing on his campus and inciting protests, (in a quite un-Republican manner), that would be quite puzzling.

Why, then, does he blow off steam in the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's student newspaper? I am sure such a fine university as Purdue has a campus chronicle of some sort in which he could voice his concern for Campbell's integrity. Perhaps we should be more skeptical.

Barbara Grant

Farley Hall

Student Affairs should question many issues

Dear Editor:

In the beginning there were caves and cavemen who made music by banging sticks and stones. Today, there are cavelike dorm rooms occupied by "Young Adults" who are fortunate to have high tech stereo equipment that can play at various sound levels, depending on who your R.A. is.

Recently, I heard of a young lady who was sanctioned or punished for repeatedly playing her stereo over a sound level which was viewed as acceptable. The punishment entailed denying the young lady and her roommate the right to turn on their own stereo for a period of two weeks; however, it was not this childish punishment the respected rectress sanctioned that upset me. I have grown to expect that juvenile attitude from the Office of Student Affairs in general, but the other half of the 'punishment' upset me.

The second half of the punishment entailed that the respected student was ordered to report to Logan Center every Saturday morning for a couple of hours to help people less fortunate. This concept of punishing someone by sending them to Logan Center to help physically and mentally handicapped people seems to me very immoral. This would make it seem as if the respected authorities saw the people in Logan Center as something similar to lepers. This supposed punishment I feel is very unthoughtful and disrespectful to those people who frequent the Logan Center. Something like this, coming from what is meant to be the Catholic university of America, upsets me greatly.

This is not however the first time I have heard of this action by respected rectors and rectresses, but it is only now I really thought of what this action means. That is why I am voicing my disgust, and I would encourage anybody who feels similar to do the same immediately.

Sean Evers

Off-campus student

Poem captures feelings incurred after tragedy

Dear Editor:

As I mourned the loss of the seven crew members aboard the space shuttle Challenger, I recalled a poem of the English poet, Stephen Spender, which summed up my feelings rather well. The poem merits sharing.

I think continually of those who are truly great...

The names of those who in their lives fought for life.

Who wore at their hearts the fire's center.

Born of the sun they travelled a short while towards the sun,

And left the vivid air signed with honor.

May their dreams never die.

Gregory Shumaker
Notre Dame law studentSkiles is tarnishing name of entire Big Ten

Dear Editor:

There are people who feel that Scott Skiles has fallen victim to his public visibility. Others feel that care should be taken in making his punishment fair and reasonable. Some people feel that the maximum penalty should be imposed and then there are some members of our youth that applaud his celebrity status and ability to evade jail and punishment.

I personally feel that the NCAA, Michigan State University President John DiBiaggio, Athletic Director Doug Weaver and Coach Judd Heathcote should all be condemned for not acting swiftly in expelling Scott from the MSU basketball team and scholarship status. Every time Scott Skiles takes to the basketball court, he is crippling the integrity of the NCAA, Big Ten, the institution of Michigan State University, the players of MSU, but most importantly, he is insulting the fans and law-abiding citizens of this country by reinforcing the all-too-often truism that power, fame, fortune and celebrity status are all keys to the corridor of "above the law" status.

I am a Big 10 sports fan but more importantly I am a Big 10 institution fan. I want to see the Big 10 practice honest recruiting procedures, develop sportsmanlike athletes, provide higher educational opportunities and educate their athletes and to be competitive and provide good entertainment for the loyal fans. It is an honor to be part of the Big 10 athletic programs and it is also a big responsibility for the athletes to uphold their well respected status. To have such an individual in the Big 10 not only tarnishes all of the respected athletes of the Big 10, both past and present, but it is also embarrassing to the thousands of individuals who hail from these fine institutions.

So, my plea goes to all of those who feel like I do. Let's stop the three years of embarrassment, roars of boos in arenas across the Midwest, newspaper articles sent out via wire services and the laws of this country being repeatedly violated. Let us remove Scott Skiles from the Big Ten and place him where society places repeated violators of our laws until he duly learns his lesson. This is the law of our land and should be the law of the NCAA and the Michigan State athletic department.

James David
Sturgis, MINeal, Student Activities have students in mind

Dear Editor:

As Sarah Hamilton was negligent in implying that Joni Neal and the Student Activities Office are not working with students to plan quality social events, we members of the "Around the Corner Club" would like to set the record straight.

These women have met with us at least weekly since May of 1985 to plan innovative and exciting social events. Along with this, they have sacrificed many hours of their own free time to help implement these activities.

On the subject of budgets, every penny of the "increased budget" has gone directly to social programming or will be used to develop the new undergraduate club in LaFortune. Any insinuations that Joni Neal and her staff have anything other than the best interests of students in mind are totally false.

It is a shame that the valid portions of Miss Hamilton's column were overshadowed by her obsession with false rumors. We too believe that it is time to forget the "alcohol fests" that dominated the social life of yesterday and look toward the future.

It is time we all start working together to improve OUR social life.

Janet Grojean

John Rubino

Steering Committee, Around the Corner Club

Know about companies before a job interview

Dear Editor:

Since E.F. Hutton will be at Notre Dame recruiting students this semester, a brief reminder of some unfortunate events in that company's recent past might be in order.

Last year the U.S. government discovered that for the past few years, Hutton had been passing checks between different bank accounts in different cities at a rate rapid enough to maintain high balances in interest-bearing accounts, without supplying the actual cash.

When done by individuals this is called check kiting and is a criminal offense, no matter how small the amounts of money used. What's curious about the Hutton case is that none of the company's top executives have been prosecuted, though Hutton kited its checks on a billion dollar level.

Hutton, of course, has an explanation. According to chairman Robert Fomon, Hutton's upper echelon was not even aware that this was happening. In Fomon's explanation, the managers of Hutton's local offices came up with the idea on their own, and implemented the practice on a national level without telling their bosses.

Sure, it was just a coincidence, the product of team spirit and initiative in the middle-management ranks.

There are a couple more coincidences in this story. For instance, Fomon happened to be in Washington the day before the Justice Department released its report. And what do you know? He had lunch with the then head of that department, former Attorney General William French Smith. Fomon claims that the little get-together was purely a social one, set up by the two men's wives. Sure.

The purpose of my letter isn't necessarily just to criticize E.F. Hutton, but to also question what all we holier-than-thou domers are doing. On one hand, I can't criticize a person for interviewing with the company. If they offered me a job with a good salary, I would jump at it so fast their greedy little heads would spin.

On the other hand, we here under that shadow of Our Lady say we're gravely concerned with ethics in business. In fact, I can't even get in the philosophy course of that name because it's too crowded. A word many of us use to describe Notre Dame is "classy," a word I associate more with mob-run Las Vegas casinos and Mary Kay cosmetics company cars with spoked wheels than universities with high moral standards.

Anyway, we proclaim these to be our principles, then turn around and work for men and women who sell airplane toilet seats to our government for thousands.

Nevertheless, I have my qualms about writing this. Though I am a senior, I am in no danger of being kidnapped by evil corporate giants who want to pay me good money. In sharp contrast to the innocent actions of Hutton's executives, a vicious secret circle of professors here has engaged in a conspiracy to keep my grade point average well below the "get a nice job with a big company like E.F. Hutton level."

I mean maybe if Hutton would, God forbid, bend the rules a little and hire this useless history major to run its payroll accounts, I could produce massive salary increases for the employees, including, of course, myself, without ever letting my bosses find out.

Martin P. Madden

Notre Dame student

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, letters and the Inside Column present the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief.....Sarah E. Hamilton
Managing Editor.....Amy Stephan
News Editor.....Frank Lipo
News Editor.....Dan McCullough
Saint Mary's Executive Editor.....Theresa Guanno
Sports Editor.....Jeff Blumb
Accent Editor.....Mary Healy
Viewpoint Editor.....Joe Murphy
Photography Editor.....Peter C. Laches
Copy Chief.....Philip H. Wolf

Operations Board

Business Manager.....David Stephenitch
Controller.....William J. Highducheck
Advertising Manager.....Jim Hagan
Advertising Manager.....Anne M. Culligan
Systems Manager.....Mark B. Johnson
Production Manager.....John A. Mennell

Founded November 3, 1966

Accent

Social life alive and well with Around the Corner

COLLEEN CLYNES
features writer

Hoosier Hysteria. The Windham Hill Series. Mass Appeal. The Honeymooners "Lost Episodes" night at Alumni Senior Bar.

If you attended just one of these few activities you have participated in an Around the Corner Club event. The name not familiar? Surprisingly enough to many students, this organization has been providing many of the social events this year. The name, however, has remained in relative obscurity. Until now.

The Around the Corner Club wants to capture both the attention and interest of students. Most of all, they want to make themselves known.

The idea behind the club "came along with the alcohol policy," states Adele Lanan, Assistant Director of Student Affairs. Director of Student Activities Joni Neal describes the club's general purpose, "We wanted to create positive programs and events entirely non-alcoholic in nature." This the Around the Corner Club certainly has accomplished. With an average of two social events a week, the club has been a forerunner in campus activity.

Its unique name results from the club's lack of a specific meeting place. "Students have to keep checking around to find out where an event is taking place," explains Lanan, "one night it might be at Stepan, the next, Alumni-Senior Club. A new event is always just around the corner."

The present name, however, is temporary. "A new name for the club is being decided upon," explains Vince Willis, student leader of the club. "Next year we'll have a specific place to meet and will need to rename ourselves."

Willis is one of a twelve-member student committee that plans events. Membership is open to anyone willing to donate some time and creativity. They meet on Mondays at 4:15 p.m. in the newly-renovated basement of LaFortune. Any interested students are more than welcome to attend one of these sessions.

Another interesting aspect of the Around the Corner Club is its sponsorship of other organization's events. "Every so often a group will approach us and say, hey, we've got this great idea but not enough money to pull it off. If the student committee approves of their idea, then we will allocate not only the necessary financial donation but also often an energy donation as well," explains Lanan. Examples of this type of involvement include the musical chairs and beach party events last semester.

Lanan and Willis said that they feel that "unfortunately the idea of the Around the Corner Club just hasn't come across yet." Even though attendance to events has been substantial, "they still lack a total student response."

"I think people are confused not only about who we are and what we do but also what kind of group we cater to. Our club is not just for freshmen or sophomores as most people think. We are here for the whole campus. That idea just hasn't caught on," Lanan states.

Willis said he feels that "there has been a noticeable increase in attendance over recent weeks, and it seems that all the students that have attended our events have for the most part enjoyed themselves."

"The group waiting for John Cougar tickets certainly seemed appreciative," adds Lanan. Along with radio station WZZP, the Around the Corner Club distributed hot chocolate and doughnuts to fans waiting for tickets.

Anonymity has been a definite setback. The club is mainly trying to make themselves known at the present time. Neal stresses the importance of this, "A lot of money has been committed to the club's future, so it's important for students to get an accurate understanding of everything we are trying to do."

The Around the Corner Club is providing many opportunities for students to get involved. Willis states, "Everyone is always complaining about social life. Here we are, providing students with a chance to create their own activities, and we suffer from a lack of feedback. It seems we must be losing a lot of great ideas. We really just want people to know who and what the Around the Corner Club really is. Then they have to take it from there."

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

Notre Dame students enjoy themselves at the Undergrad Night sponsored by the Around the Corner club

The Observer: Hannes Hacker

New club in LaFortune will be the place to go

J. CHRISTOPHER MURPHY
features writer

Fun, good times, lots of dancing and free beer are just around the corner!! Well, everything except the free beer anyway. As the first non-alcoholic nightclub on campus opens in LaFortune in just a few weeks, students will begin to forget that beer and liquor were once a prerequisite for having a good time. The Around the Corner Club is renovating Chataqua Ballroom into the place to be.

As the Around the Corner Club is transformed from a social committee to a night club, most of its functions will be geared towards this facility. The club will continue to co-sponsor campus wide programs with other organizations, but 80 percent of time and funds will go towards the programming and management of the club. According to Joni Neal, the student activities director and chairman of the Around the Corner Club, a name has yet to be chosen. "Imposter" is one proposal which seems to have strong support, representing "non-alcoholic night club atmosphere."

The Club hopes to establish itself as a consistent contributor to the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's social life for years to come. They are planning a weekly calendar of programs which could possibly include: talent night, margarita night, and Irish Mania. The club will be open seven nights a week, but will be free for private reservations, open dances by disc jockeys and bands, and possibly video dances on nights that are not theme nights.

The ballroom on the second floor of LaFortune is being completely renovated. The upper vault ceiling will be painted bright royal blue and the lower vault will be done in pale gray. The walls will be warm gray and the conic white with gray accents. The carpeting will be charcoal black. The center of the room is being transformed into a floating, walnut and oak patterned dance floor with sunken lighting. Strip lights will also be installed around the perimeters of the dance floor as well as the raised terraces and stage.

An intermediate floor is being built above what is now the international students office. This will be the electronics control booth for the ballroom, controlling the ceiling, floor and stage lighting and sound. It will also contain facilities for disc jockeys and movie projection.

In the north hallway a non-alcoholic bar is being constructed. Refreshments and deli sandwiches will be served by University Food Services. Though no colors for the room have been chosen, the bar will maintain the night club atmosphere. The bar is made of oak with a paneled front and brass rails.

Though it has not been finalized yet, but Joni Neal and Chris Nye are hoping for black tables and black and charcoal tweed couches and chairs. A quiet lounge will be located on the south end of the club and will be accessible to the main area. Neal and Nye hope to develop an "elegant" facility.

The entire project is the "baby" of Chris Nye, of Cole Associates, in conjunction with the Student Activities Office and the Around the Corner Club.

Volunteers are needed to help plan events for the rest of this year and next year. Applications for manager positions should be available by mid-February so that positions can be filled by spring break. Positions for student managers will be open in the following areas: general management, reservations, marketing, programming, food and beverage soliciting.

The hopeful opening of the club is February 17, 1986.

The Around the Corner Club
Vince Willis

Behind the scenes at the tenth Keenan Revue

CATHERINE COFFEY
assistant features editor

As the lights dimmed and the curtains came down on the 1985 Keenan Revue, the minds of juniors Mike Sweeney and Steve Thomas were abuzz with activity. Why? Because they have the awesome responsibility of producing and directing the 1986 Keenan Revue, an annual production highlighting the many talents of Keenan Hall's residents.

Along with a technical crew of approximately 25 people, a makeup crew of 15, and hundreds of Keenan performers, these two are responsible for putting it all together.

"We started last year with simple things like reserving the auditorium. Then Mike and I wrote over the summer about ideas we had. This past week we auditioned skits," said director Steve Thomas sleepily.

"The ratio of the time I've spent on The Keenan Revue to the time I've spent on homework is about 100 to 1," Bill Boyle, assistant director and hall president said of the two weeks before the Revue.

And that's not even considering the time and effort put in by the rest of Keenan Hall residents. This year, 112 acts auditioned, the most ever in the Revue's history. Only 41 acts were left after the seven member board, composed of the director, producer, their assistants, and the head writer, Bob Kaemmerlen, had made their final cuts last Sunday.

In reference to this year's acts, Thomas said, "We were looking for originality and the ability to hit on topics that have never been touched before. We looked at some things we thought were done well, and we thought, this is a Keenan joke, and it's good, but not everyone's going to understand it. So we were trying to appeal to everyone."

Of the 41, roughly 14 are musical, which is about the same ratio as last year's show. Only a few of the skits are based on classical talent, and the rest are humorous skits, poking fun at Du Lac, the administration, and various aspects of life at Notre Dame.

"I think this year's Revue is special because it's the tenth annual show, because we have original music, because we had 112 skits audition and last year we had only 75. The general quality of the show has risen. What we've got is first rate stuff," Thomas said.

According to Mike Sweeney, the Revue's producer, about 95 percent of Keenan Hall residents participate in some way in the show.

"We always have a few skits that are open to anyone who wants to get in. They are primarily for people who really want to be in it, but who were cut," he said.

Boyle agrees, adding "Because of the time limitations of the show nobody has as much time as they'd like. But I think we represented everybody - at least we tried our best."

And if a resident is too shy for the bright lights of the stage, he can always work on set design, production, or a number of other committees.

Matt Snyder, a sophomore from Creve Coeur, Missouri, is the technical director for this year's show. Called the "unsung hero" by Boyle because of his tremendous contributions to set design, sound and lighting, he is the "man with the headphones" behind the scenery. Most students however, have already sampled his creativity, for he is in part responsible for the Steve Martin-esque arrow protruding from two walls of Keenan. Program Director Chris Cooke, a junior business major, helped engineer the stunt, which appeared outside Keenan last week. The arrow wasn't needed to create enthusiasm, however, because the residents are already ecstatic.

"This is the most excitement the dorm has seen all year," said sophomore business major Frank Publicover.

The dorm also doesn't need the publicity.

Tickets to the Revue are highly prized, as evidenced by yesterday's long lines which wound all the way around the basketball arena at the ACC, where tickets were distributed. Keenan residents don't have to wait in line. Each receives four tickets that they can give to anyone. Almost every resident has an interesting story to tell about what people will do to get these tickets.

"A good buddy of mine says that if I give him tickets to the Revue, he'll do my entire semester's work in photography class for me," confided one resident who wishes to remain anonymous.

"Every year girls just roam the dorm in packs, going from door to door looking for extra tickets," said senior Jeff Chou. "If someone has extra tickets, they make a deal. She'll go out with him, but in return she gets a Keenan Revue ticket."

The men with all the tickets are ticket managers John LaGorio, a senior engineering major, and Scott Fabian, a junior business major. According to LaGorio, all 4050 tickets are accounted for, every one. Have people bothered him for extra tickets?

"I have had a call from an old friend," LaGorio admits. "It's really funny what people will do for tickets. Keenan's phone numbers are all in succession by rooms. Sometimes you'll hear one phone ring. And if no one answers it, you'll hear the phone across the hall ring. You can hear the ringing continue all the way down the hall until somebody answers his phone and says, 'Sorry I'm out of tickets.'"

Thomas also had a story to relate.

"One girl called today from Saint Mary's and asked me if I could attend a formal over there. I said probably. She said 'By the way, do you have any extra Revue tickets?' When I said no, she said, 'Well I'm not sure if this formal thing is going to work out. I'll get back to you on it.'"

Boyle jokingly insinuates that a few groups are given special consideration.

"Moreau Seminary put in a request for fifty. Since we'd like to keep up our relations with God, we're looking into granting them the tickets."

Despite God and wandering women, most Keenanites eventually give their tickets to close friends, relatives or girlfriends.

"I gave one of my tickets to a girl I went out with last semester, one to a girl I'm seeing this semester, one to a friend of mine in Holy Cross, and one to my sister," said Tim Kerper, a junior from Birmingham, Alabama.

The majority of tickets go to non-Keenan Notre Dame students. Saint Mary's also gets a hearty share, receiving about 25 percent. Because Keenan raises no capital on ticket sales, they must turn to other forms of financing to cover such production costs as lighting, sets, ticket printing, and the four experts hired from O'Laughlin Auditorium who help out the technical manager.

Money is generated through fundraisers, such as T-shirt and hat sales and, most importantly, donations. Although local businesses often help out by printing material for free and lending equipment, the show still relies the heaviest on donations collected immediately after the show. If every person who attended the show contributed 37 cents, it would cover all the expenses incurred.

"We rely very heavily on post-performance donations. If this year's donations aren't up to par, there might not be a 1987 Keenan Revue," Boyle said.

The fact that Saint Mary's doesn't charge Keenan for the actual use of the Auditorium also helps.

"The use of O'Laughlin is Saint Mary's contribution to the Revue," said Sweeney.

That's about the only contribution Saint Mary's could make, since only Keenan members have been permitted to perform in the ten years the Revue has existed. The first performance was conducted in the basement of Keenan Hall. Originally the idea of Resident Assistants Rick Thomas, now a member of Chicago's Second City, and Steve Lentz, the show was created to brighten up the mid-winter slump most students experienced and as an alternative to the typical party.

"I think the show is so popular because people like to go and laugh at themselves. Every year after the show, we get complaints from people because they weren't abused enough. I remember Walsh Hall complained a couple of years ago that there weren't enough Walsh jokes in the Revue," said Sweeney.

As audiences grew with the show's popularity the Revue moved from the basement to Washington Hall and finally to O'Laughlin Auditorium, the largest auditorium with the biggest audience capacity of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's campuses.

Father Richard Conyures, the rector of Keenan during the initial years of the Revue, was also instrumental in the production of the first Revues.

"Without him The Keenan Revue would never have lasted," Sweeney said of Conyures. "It was important to him to involve the Keenanites in a non-drinking function. Another important point is that the Revue is a gift to the entire University."

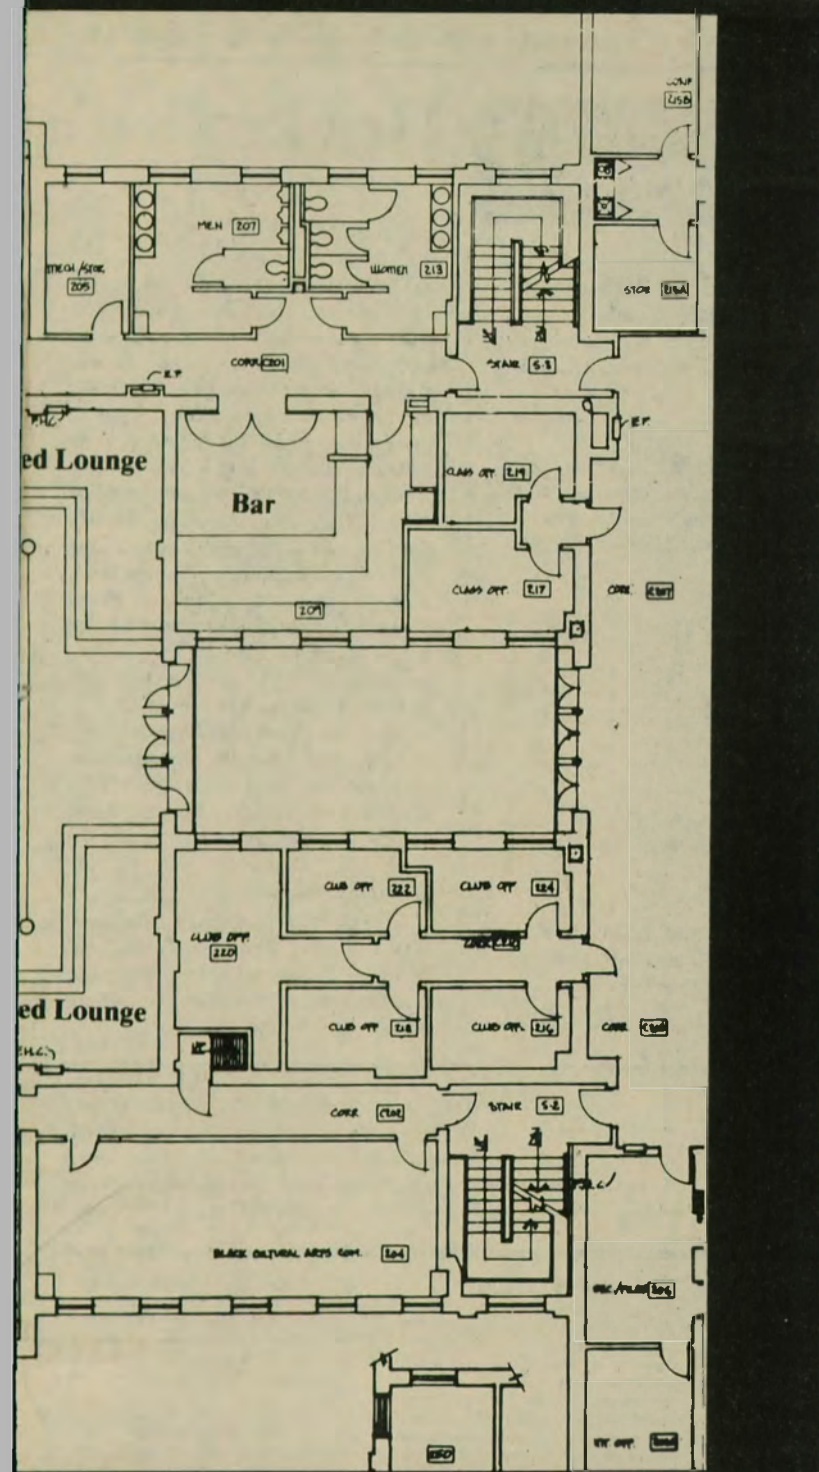

While Thomas and Lentz were seniors and left the dorm the same year of the first Revue, Conyures remained the rector for several years, supporting students who participated in the show's production, but never doing their work for them.

"He made sure it was always a student show," Sweeney said, "and Steve and I are definitely committed to this also."

And now, ten years later, the Revue is in its final stages. The programs are running off the presses, technicians are testing their equipment, set designers are adding the finishing touches, and the performers are polishing their acts. All this for the three performances this Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 7:30 p.m.

"The thing I like the most about the Revue," said Thomas, "is seeing it come from nothing and within three days, grow into a show."

And what a show it will be.

Sports Briefs

The ND Rugby Club will hold an organizational meeting tonight at 7:30 in the LaFortune Center. Anyone interested is welcome to attend, and no experience is necessary. For more information call Phil Sheridan at 288-4761. - The Observer

Men's and Women's indoor soccer tournaments will be held by the NVA. Rosters must include a minimum of eight players and should be turned in with a $5 entry fee by tomorrow. For more information call the NVA. - The Observer

The ND field hockey team will hold a meeting Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in the Football Auditorium of the ACC. All members of the 1985 team and any new prospects should attend. Members also are reminded to come dressed to participate. For more information call Head Coach Jill Lindenfeld at 239-6281. - The Observer

Body Fat Testing will be offered by NVA to the first 75 people free of charge today at 6:15 p.m. - The Observer

The ND-Dayton men's basketball game will be the topic tonight on "Speaking of Sports" at 10 p.m. on WVFI, AM-64. Listeners may phone in their questions or comments by calling hosts Pete Pranica and Rudy Brandl at 239-6400. - The Observer

The ND /SMC women's golf team will be videotaping indoors tomorrow as scheduled. Members are reminded also that there will be a meeting Sunday at 5 p.m. in the Football Auditorium of the ACC. For more information call Laura Gleason at 283-3351. - The Observer

A campus tug-of-war contest is being organized by the ND Promotions Dept. and Lee Jeans. Dormitory and class competitions will be held. Interested groups should begin to assemble teams. For more information call Kevin Lennon at 239-6440. - The Observer

Moonlight cross country skiing will be offered by the NVA on Thursday from 7 p.m.- 10 p.m. on the Burke Memorial Golf Course. Anyone interested may rent skis at a cost of $1 at the Rockne Golf Shop. For more information call NVA. - The Observer

An interhall track meet will be held by the NVA on Wednesday, Feb. 19. For more information call NVA. - The Observer

Weekend group rentals for the Rolfs Aquatic Center are now available through the NVA for ND and SMC groups. For details and rates call NVA at 239-5100. - The Observer

Hockey

continued from page 16

and scored with only six seconds remaining in the period.

The Irish came out strong in the third period. The team managed to take twice as many shots on goal as the Foresters, but Lake Forest managed to get twice as many goals. In the period, Lake Forest scored two goals to make the final score 6-3.

Notre Dame's first loss over the weekend came Friday night at Lake Forest. The game was close throughout as the Foresters did not ice the game until a late empty net goal. Tom Mooney and Brian Montgomery both contributed goals in the losing effort. Lake Forest won the game 4-2. Smith felt that the defensive effort this weekend was better than in previous weeks.

"The defensemen played quite well this weekend," said Smith. "The team as a whole played well; we just couldn't put the puck in the net. We beat the daylights out of the plexiglass though."

This upcoming weekend, the Irish travel to play Army on Friday and Saturday nights. Smith is hoping the team will be able to improve its luck against the Cadets.

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center, accepts classified advertising from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Observer Saint Mary's office, located on the third floor of Haggard College Center, accepts classifieds from 12:30 p.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for next day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or by mail. Charge is 10 cents per five characters per day.

Classifieds

NOTICES

Typing Available
287-4082

$10-$360 Weekly/Up Mailing Circulars!
No quotes!
Sincerely interested rush self-addressed envelope: Success, POBox 470CDD, Woodstock, IL 60098.

TYPING
CALL CHRIS
234-8967.

Attention: Students
Dolores Francis
Typing Service has a phone change
277-8131

LOST/FOUND

If you accidentally took my long, black, wool coat on Sat. night at the O.C. party on Marx, could you please return it? I am freezing! The tie tacs are yours but I really need my I.D. and coat back! 3738

LOST: WOMAN'S ND RING WITH BLUE STONE AND INSIDE INSCRIPTION: LER 83 CALL JOANN AT 3878.

LOST

ONE PAIR OF PRESCRIPTION GLASSES
I was riding in the backseat of your blue 2-door at 10:30 am on Monday the 27th. You drove me down ND Ave and let me off at the circle. I left my glasses in your backseat. If you find them can you bring them to Tex at the South Dining Hall.

LOST: tan cowboy hat with Michelob band in dining hall. Call Jim 1360.

lost MONEY, BANKING & FINANCIAL MARKETS BOOK in Business building name and address are on the inside cover; call John at 1024

LOST: Pair of Brown Gloves in Gym 4 of the ACC on Tuesday, Jan. 28. Please call BOB at 1248 if found. My hands are freezing!

LOST: A PAIR OF LONG RED GLOVES IN WASHINGTON HALL DURING FATHER BLANTZ'S 10:10 HISTORY CLASS. IF FOUND, CALL KAY AT 3208.

LOST: 1 BLUE HALF SIZED NOTEBOOK JOURNAL CONTAINED VERY PERSONAL INFORMATION PLEASE RETURN IF FOUND TO SALLIE 284-5012

I am irate! This is the third time in a week that the honest people of Notre Dame have helped my belongings disappear. If you walked off with the red Kangol cap I left in 114 O'Shag, please call me at 3564. It was a Christmas present and I'm pretty fond of it. Please show some decency and reaffirm my faith in the Christianity of this school.

LOST: Okay, this isn't funny anymore. My HP-15C calculator lost in the Math Bldg. last semester is still missing. Could whoever has it please return it to Lost & Found on the 2nd flr. LaFortune?

STOLEN: My black book bag was taken from the South Dining Hall S during Thursday's lunch (1/30). I saw the person who acted as if he was refilling the paper in the copying machine, and am sure I will be able to identify his picture in the ADMINISTRATION FILES. So if your guy who thought his CRIME was perfect: THINK AGAIN and come to your senses. Return the bag to its last position near the copier or soon pay the consequences.

LOST: 87 N.D. CLASS RING; IN FRONT OF S. DINING HALL, 1/30/86; CALL STEVE AT 3062; REWARD!!!

found: one black book bag, in the south dining hall at closing time, Thursday night behind the copier. Call 234-7121 to claim.

LOST: black and white herringbone coat at Senior Bar Thursday night. If found, please call 288-5092.

FOUND: BASKETBALL TICKETS, A.C.C. 29, JAN. 1986. IDENTIFY THEM AND THEY'RE YOURS. CALL DANIEL AT 1026.

LOST: Last Tuesday I lost a thick gold chain bracelet. It was a graduation gift, please call Lisa - 3098 if you have any information.

Lost: Black Swatch in snow outside Gate 3 of ACC last Tues. 1/28. It was buckled at the time, unfortunately not around my wrist. Please call I've been late ever since. Thanks alot. Brian AT4335.

LOST: Basketball tickets; Probably lost in South Dining on Saturday Feb. 1. The ticket is Section 6; Row 9; Seat 15. Please call Chip at 2704 with any information.

LOST OLIVE GREEN JACKET Mistakenly taken from Senior Bar Coat Rack Saturday Night, January 25. GREAT SENTIMENTAL VALUE, REWARD, NO QUESTIONS ASKED, Call Tim 2004, 417 Stanford Hall.

Lost: A pair of prescription eyeglasses in a case with a picture of a kitten on the case. It was lost Saturday night between Walsh and Zahm. Call Nicole 2677.

LOST: silver TIMEX watch. Lost around Senior Bar or Campus View on Feb. 1. Reward if found. Call Pat at 3165.

LOST: A thick, chain-linked gold bracelet with a large clasp. It was lost Friday, Jan. 17th. It has incredible sentimental value and cannot be replaced. If you have any information and can identify it, please call Karen at 1884. Thank you.

FOR RENT

LARGE FOUR-BEDROOM HOME WILL ACCOMMODATE FIVE STUDENTS. COMPLETELY FURNISHED. CALL NANCY HUMBARGER 234-9364.

WANTED

Ride needed to Wabash College (Crawfordsville, IN) or Purdue University. Weekend of Feb. 14-16. Will share costs. Cindy 2687

call joann, 3878

Cheap modem adaptable to IBM. What do you have? Call 5337 8-12/1-5 or 287-8881 after 5:30.

Help! Is anybody going to Dayton for ND-UD game Wed and coming back Thurs? I need paper brought back for Fri. class. HELP!! call Bob, 277-5817.

Need ride to PENN STATE 2/13-16 Call Corinne 1292

RIDE WANTED: Anywhere East on Toll Road! Toledo, Cleveland, Ohio exit 7 preferable. Feb. 7-9 or 14-16. Will share expenses! Call Brad AT 4022

Need Riders To Louisville, Ky For 2/7-2/9 Call Denise 284-4368

Riders Needed To Iowa City 2/7-2/8 Call Chns 284-4401

FOR SALE

Is It True You Can Buy Jeeps for $44 through the U.S. government? Get the facts today! Call 1-312-742-1142 Ext. 7316.

CLEAVELAND, TOLEDO Train Tix 4Sale-Way) Brian4335

TICKETS

Hi. My name is JOHN. I have 7 tickets to the KEENAN REVUE but I have no friends to give them to. If you would like to be my friend and would like my precious REVUE TICKETS please give me a call at 3323. Females need only apply.

HELP:
I AM STUCK IN "THE FRANCHISE'S" DOGHOUSE AND MUST ESCAPE. I HAVE 2 KEENAN REVUE TIX FOR THURSDAY NIGHT AND NEED TO EXCHANGE THEM FOR 2 ON FRIDAY NIGHT. IF YOU CAN HELP ME ESCAPE, PLEASE CALL MIKE AT 2292.

PERSONALS

If you want magic, let go of your armor. Magic is so much stronger than steel!

- Richard Bach,
The Bridge Across Forever

Before the song all music came like muted, empty octaves begging a composer's pen. The notes cried silently for paper staves and kept their sound in theory only.

- Calvin Miller,
The Singer

Puff:
It's not often my sister takes me to lunch... thank you.
T.B.

PREGNANT? NEED HELP?
Call 234-0363. 24-hr. hotline, counseling & free pregnancy tests
WOMEN'S CARE CENTER

OAR HOUSE: COLD BEER & LIQUOR. CARRY OUT TO 3 A.M. U.S. 31 N., 1 BLOCK SOUTH OF HOLIDAY INN.

SUMMER SERVICE PROJECTS applications deadline is February 3. More info at Center for Social Concerns.

"We Can Make You Laugh" on February 8 if not YOU win $25

"We Can Make You Laugh" comedy show February 8, 8:00 pm Washington Hall. $2

Loving Catholic couple wants to adopt an infant. If you know of anyone who is considering placing a child for adoption, please call collect 17) 367-3379 after 7 p.m.

DAVE FLANAGAN FOR UMC

SMC-ND SUMMER PROGRAMS- LONDON, IRELAND, SCOTLAND, PARIS (MAY 21- JUNE 20), PARIS, GERMANY, SWITZ, ROME (JUNE 15- JULY 14). COURSES IN BIO, BUEC, HIST, MUSIC, SOC, ITALIAN. MEETING FEB 17, 7:00 RM 348 MADEIRA. FOR INFO CALL PROF. A.R. BLACK 284-4460 OR 272-3726.

S.M.C. REMEMBER R.A. APPRECIATION DAY! THUR. FEB. 6

THAT'S WHAT FRIENDS ARE FOR

RAMBEAR LIVES!!!

Hungry? Call YELLOW SUBMARINE at 272-HIKE. Delivery Hours: 5pm-12am Monday-Thursday; 5pm-2am Friday; 3pm-1am Saturday; 4pm-10pm Sunday.

WANNA MAKE MY VALENTINE'S DAY (and yours too)???-DI

Interested in tutoring a South Bend grade-school or high-school student? Neighborhood Study Help Program has many spots in a number of schools and centers. Call Martha Massaman at 3864.

PLATYPUS, HAPPY 19th!! I MUST SAY, THE PAST 3 MONTHS HAVE BEEN INTERESTING, BUT FUN. MR. ROSCO SAYS "VERY NICE"

SMC Sexuality Education Council - Body Maintenance - Female Hygiene, Gynecological Exam, Breast Self Exam Wednesday, February 5, 7:00pm Stapleton Lounge, Gloria Chelmeriak, Director of Health Services

NOVENA TO ST. JUDE
O Holy St. Jude, Apostle and Martyr, great in virtue and rich in miracles, near Kinaman of Jesus Christ, Faithful Intercessor of all who invoke your special patronage in time of need, to you I have recourse from the depth of my heart and humbly beg to who God has given such great power to come to my present urgent position. In return, I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked.
Say Three Our Fathers, three Hail Mary's, three Gloria's. St. Jude pray for us and all who invoke your aid. Amen. Publication must be promised. This novena has never failed. Say for 9 consecutive days.

SEX
Well, we didn't have any but we had dancing we had singing we had partying we had a great time and best of all we had YOU to make it THE SOCIAL EVENT OF NORTH QUAD thanks for coming
HUGS AND KISSES, TT and the TENNIS PLAYER

Recent inductees to N.D. Burger Hall Of Fame include Karen, Joan, and Patty Burger of Walsh Hall. Congratulations from a longtime burger connoisseur.

I LOST MY SANITY IN FARLEY

I lost something better...

WANT TO SELL your old Eng. Econ. book? Call Mike 3380

AND HOW IS GWENDOLYNNE TODAY?????

Always an usher, never a groom.

Sometimes I wish I could eat Blistex...

ATTENTION CHICKS!!! Mike "Chick-Magnet" Fleweger turns 20 today. Don't fight the magnetism-experience its electrifying thrill-be drawn to 418 St. Ed's and wish him a Happy Birthday!!!

MIKEY MIKEY MIKEY FEB. 8 FEB. 8 FEB. 8

Bassiat wants to join/start rock band Call Tom 1156

DJ, VDYA

Memories... A red rose; "car trouble"; curlers; sitting side by side; Chablis; French onion soup; family, God, friends (not necessarily in that order); Ranch Dressing; a toast; Jumbo Prans; chocolate mint cheesecake; Just Once; JD; Kool-aid; smiles; Play it Sam; As Time Goes By; They were gray, you were blue; more Kool-aid; Here's Looking at You Kid; Round up the usual suspects; MORE Kool-aid; more smiles; Imagine; Hogan's Heroes; William Jennings Bryant; We all know how painful that can be; Elizabeth A. Seton (started the first catholic gradeschool); quotes; a hug; sweet dreams... WHAT A LADY!! - WHAT A NIGHT!!

D.

Thanks For Making My 21st So Much Fun! Love Mo

Four Winds Group for Theatre presents Wild's The Importance of Being Earnest Feb. 13, 14, 15. Science Hall Auditorium, Bethel College, 7:45 p.m. $5 for adults, $4 for students. Reservations: 259-8511

ATTENTION ALL JUNIORS!!! Tonight (Tues. Feb. 4) is the last night to reserve table seating with your friends for the JPW PRESIDENT'S DINNER. Bring max. of 6 I.D.'s to basement of LaFortune between 7-9 pm tonight!! (see today's ad for further details!)

THE LONDON CLUB
Weekly meetings Sunday nights - real late. Look for minutes to be published right here.

Art Trads Dropouts
Co-Founders

I sat on the Grotto bench, collecting snow atop my dome, benumbed and be--ad by my colossal overpowering lack of knowledge. Of philosophy, a philosophy of life, of why we're here.
(Apologies to J. Kirkwood)

SUSPECTS INVOLVED IN REVENGE IN ROME BLACKMAIL, SEX, LARCENY, DECEIT, MURDER- RED, RED WINE, MURDER, FRIENDS HAL(FRANK), MAIN GOAL IN LIFE WAS ATTAINING MONEY AND POWER, BUT ALAS, HE LEFT HIS WALLET MELINDA (SUE); WAS ALL TOO EAGER AND WAS CAUGHT IN A VERY PRONE POSITION JEFF (PAUL); NOT AS INNOCENT AS HE SEEMED. HE TIPPED OFF THE KILLER, AS WELL AS HIS MOTHER ANNIE(KRISTA); INNOCENT BRAT GOT WHAT SHE DESERVED, AND DROVE THE PORCELAIN BUS THE MORNING AFTER DOROTHY(TINA); MODEL MOTHER AND WIFE-WHO COULD HAVE KNOWN THE REALMS OF HER TORRID PAST? PETER (ERIC); VENGEFUL, DECEITFUL, COMPETITIVE- THE KILLER UNTIL WE MEET AGAIN- TRUST NO ONE! YOUR HOSTESSES

MERKY GIROUX You ARE The Brady Bunch Trivia Queen You Rule Regina Hall Love From Your Faithful Subjects Shirley & Laurie Partridge PS: The Partridges Are Next!

To The "Morally Responsible" Guys That Helped Us Out Fri. Night. Thank! We Couldn't Have Made It Without You. Mary Jane & Donna

MIKE BENDER 425 STANFORD YOU'RE NOT AS COOL AS YOU THINK YOU ARE B.S.

BOB HODGE THE SHAMBO-ETTES ARE LURKING IN THE SHADOWS. B.S.

THE 4 STOOGES IN 113 MORRISSEY: WATCH OUT FOR MARSHMALLOW MANIA WHEN YOU'RE UNDER THE TABLE FRIDAY! B.S.

Yes, you guessed it! The Tuesday personal has made its return. Greetings to: Brian, Pec, Jim, T. Nork, P.G. (sorry!), Mr. Great Wall, K.K., Kevin, The Creature, That cute guy with the dimples, (what's his name?), The PC's, Clem, Denny, and last but not least: Push-me-Pull-me, (alias, the Wise Korean). Looking forward to a great semester, but guys, would you at least give me a WARNING before you storm the station next time? Love, Duz.

Perry, Yes It Was 3:30 A.M. And I Did Ask You To The Formal! See You In Louisville!! Jerry

Flyer's Froese gets nod tonight in NHL star game

Associated Press

HARTFORD - For a good part of his National Hockey League career, Bob Froese has been a No. 2 goaltender.

But he doesn't mind being a backup for tonight's NHL All-Star Game.

"I feel a lot more comfortable than being a starter in this situation," the Philadelphia Flyers' goalie said yesterday as he prepared for the NHL's 38th showcase game at the Hartford Civic Center.

Froese was an alternate pick by Mike Keenan, the Flyers' coach who will be in charge of the Wales Conference.

Mario Gosselin of the Quebec Nordiques won the starting goaltender spot for the Wales by default. He was the second leading vote-getter in the balloting by fans to Pelle Lindbergh, the Flyers' goalie who was killed in an auto accident last November.

"It was a tough mental adjustment to go from No. 2 to a job that I had competed for for so long," Froese said. "But Mike Keenan helped me make the adjustment. He told me that the shadow of Pelle would always be there, and not to be afraid to make mistakes."

When he first took over the No. 1 job, however, Froese put a lot of pressure on himself.

"I thought I had to stop every shot," he said. "I thought I had to be Bob Froese and Pelle Lindbergh both. I took too much on my own shoulders."

Froese quickly established himself as one of the NHL's top goalies this season. At the All-Star break, he was among the league leaders in goals-against average with 2.70 and had posted a 16-9-1 record and three shutouts.

Former Philadelphia Flyers goaltender Pelle Lindbergh may be gone but he has not been forgotten by NHL fans. Fans voted the former star who died last November in a tragic auto accident as the starting goaltender for tonight's NHL All-Star game in Hartford, Conn. Lindbergh's former teammate, Bob Froese, will take Lindbergh's place on the squad. Details of tonight's game appear at left.

While not on the ballots, Froese wound up with 5,000 write-in votes from the fans, who voted in this event for the first time. He was happier, however, about the 134,982 votes that Lindbergh got.

Among the Oiler starters are center Wayne Gretzky, right wing Jari Kurri, left wing Glenn Anderson, defenseman Paul Coffey and goaltender Grant Fuhr. The only non-Oiler in the starting lineup is defenseman Doug Wilson of the Chicago Black Hawks.

The Oilers also have four other players on the 20-man roster.

SMC fencers move up with tourney showing

By GLORIA ELEUTERI
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's fencing team competed in the Notre Dame tournament on Sunday and came away with a 3-2 record for the day while boosting its overall record to 6-5 on the season.

"A good team effort has allowed us to look stronger earlier this year than last year," said Head Coach Mike Weeks. "There has been an overall improvement which contributes to individual as well as team progress."

Saint Mary's first two victories came against Michigan Dearborn (10-6), and Eastern Michigan (12-4). Captain Mary Beth Proost scored a 2-1 and a 1-2 record, while Ann Raney posted 2-1 and 3-0 decisions. Teammate Becca Barnett dominated with a 4-0 and a 3-1 slate, and Laura Harris had a 1-3 and 3-1 record. Mary Fran Wilkin displayed strong skills over her opponent with identical scores of 1-0. To close out the bouts, Shannon Maughan scored 0-1 and 1-0 decisions.

With its momentum increasing, Saint Mary's then faced defending NCAA champions Wayne State. Each member demonstrated her improving skills, as was evident by their 9-7 loss. Proost, Raney and Barnett came away with 2-2 decisions, followed by the 1-2 slate of Laura Harris.

At this point in the meet, the Belles were showing great optimism.

"The team rose to the competition (over the weekend) by doing so well," said Wilkin. "This was the closest the team had ever come to Wayne State. It was a great feeling."

"At this point," noted Weeks, "with two weeks to go, the team is fencing well."

A two hour layover could have had an effect on the team's performance against Detroit. Detroit dominated the match, 11-5. Proost fell to her opponent 1-3, while both Raney and Barnett scored 2-2 decisions. These were followed by Harris with a 0-4 slate.

Barnett remained optimistic after the loss.

"The team is more competitive this year and shows potential for more improvement," she stated.

The final bout of the day ended on the up beat for Saint Mary's. Tri State University fell victim to an 11-5 decision. Proost and Barnett went undefeated in this match with scores of 4-0 and 2-0. Raney finished with a 2-1 decision to end the day with a most satisfying individual record.

Losses were handed to both Harris, 0-2, and Maughan, 0-1, while Wilkin maintained a 1-1 record.

"The team was able to bounce back after the loss to Detroit," Weeks said. "I was very pleased with the way we fenced because we received a solid team effort."

"Competition at all the meets has been pretty even, and it gives the team a chance to face a variety of opponents. Also, it was great to have the support of all those who attended the meet. It is important to the fencers since it is their only home competition."

Next weekend will hopefully continue to display the improvement of the Saint Mary's fencers as they travel to Chicago to meet with Northwestern, Ohio State, Case Western, Purdue and Lawrence.

NOTRE DAME STUDENT ACTIVITIES BOARD presents
SPRING BREAK IN DAYTONA BEACH
featuring the famous CARRIAGE HOUSE HOTEL

PRICE:

Hotel only, $129
Hotel & bus transportation, $209

SPRING BREAK IN FT. LAUDERDALE
FEATURING THE TOTALLY NEW RIVIERA RESORT HOTEL
Right on the beach ★ Right in the middle of the Strip

PRICE:

Hotel only, $225
Hotel & Transportation, $309

To Sign Up
Stop By The Student Activities Board Office
Or For More Info
Call 239-7757

Please bring checks to the Ticket Stub in the basement of LaFortune. 11:30-4:30

No. Carolina remains atop poll; Irish hold on to 14th position in list

Associated Press

North Carolina, which suffered its first defeat of the season last week, remained atop The Associated Press' college basketball poll, although the Tar Heels were not the unanimous choice for the first time in three weeks.

After winning their first 21 games of the season, the Tar Heels fell at Virginia 86-73 last Thursday, then beat Clemson 85-67 Saturday. They received 58 first-place votes and 1,235 points from the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

Georgia Tech, 17-2, which received three first-place votes and 1,118 points, moved up one notch to second, followed by Memphis State, like North Carolina, unbeaten until last week.

The Tigers, 20-1, lost on the road at Virginia Tech, 76-72, on Saturday and fell one spot in the voting with the only other first-place vote and 1,091 points, 29 more than No. 4 Duke, 20-2.

Oklahoma, 20-1, moved from sixth to fifth, followed by Kansas, 20-3, which had been fourth but suffered a 77-74 loss at Iowa State last week. Michigan, 19-2, jumped from ninth to seventh with 860 points, 41 more than Syracuse, 17-2, which jumped from its 11th-place ranking last week with a 68-64 victory over St. John's.

Nevada-Las Vegas, 21-2, improved one place from last week, while St. John's, 20-3 and seventh last week, rounded out the Top Ten.

Georgetown, which defeated Louisiana State, 74-72, on national television Sunday, led the Second Ten, followed by Kentucky, Bradley, Notre Dame, Virginia Tech, Louisville, Texas-El Paso, Indiana, Western Kentucky and Alabama.

Last week's Second Ten was Syracuse, Georgetown, Bradley, Notre Dame, Indiana, Virginia Tech, Louisiana State, Louisville, Texas-El Paso and Richmond.

Western Kentucky, 17-3 and leaders in the Sun Belt Conference race, and Alabama, 15-4 and in second place behind Kentucky in the Southeastern Conference, are both making their first appearance in the Top Twenty this season.

Falling from the ranks of the ranked were Louisiana State and Richmond.

Louisiana State, 16-6, lost three games last week - two to ranked teams. Then No. 8 Kentucky beat the Tigers on a buzzer shot, 54-52. Georgia coasted to an easy 92-76 victory over Louisiana State, and the Tigers fell to Georgetown on Sunday.

Richmond, which last week made its first appearance in the Top Twenty since 1954, dropped two of three games to fall to 17-3. The Spiders lost to Old Dominion, 62-59, and Virginia Tech, 71-67, before saving the week with a 67-47 victory over William & Mary on Saturday.

Notre Dame's Mark Stevenson reaches out for a basket in last night's Irish victory over Maryland. Details of the game appear on page 16.

Irish

continued from page 16

staff and players seemed to voice discontent, however muffled, with the officiating.

"We didn't play very well in the second half," said Terrapin head coach Charles 'Lefty' Driesell. "We deserved to lose. Bias gets that rough treatment all the time, and it's too bad. I never comment on the officials. You saw what they did - draw your own conclusions."

Bias and his teammates also showed frustration with the way things went.

"Yeah, I was frustrated," said Bias. "I guess they were playing pretty rough and pushing, and I got upset at times. But I just have to let them beat on me - if I push back I get called. Sure it's frustrating."

"I know everyone on the team is frustrated with what's been happening lately," said Terrapin guard Keith Gatlin, who finished with only four points and three assists. "We were making a run there at the end, and then they call (Bias) for the offensive foul. I just don't know. Sometimes I think they're watching him too closely."

But the Irish had other ideas.

"Our defensive rebounding and our offensive play were the keys in the second half," said Phelps. "On defense, we didn't want to let Bias get started, so we guarded him closely all night."

"We tried to deny Bias in the corners, and in the inside we used weakside help," said Jim Dolan, who spent much of his night trying to keep Bias away from the basket.

Phelps defended the officials.

"Both pairs of officials did a good job," he said. "They called what they saw in the first half, and they did the same in the second half. Don't think the officials had anything to do with the outcome."

"This isn't the first time Bias has faced physical play," continued Phelps. "College basketball is physical this year. Bias seems to get discouraged when he doesn't get the ball, and we tried to keep it away from him."

Others felt intensity was the thing that earned the victory last night.

"After the close win against Marquette, we knew we couldn't come out and play the same way again tonight," said Irish forward Donald Royal. "We knew we had to have intensity for the whole game."

The Irish, now 15-3, travel to Dayton tomorrow for a game with the rival Flyers. This begins a stretch of tough contests for Notre Dame, with seven of the last 10 games on the road.

"Now we play seven games away out of our last 10," said Phelps. "We've proved how good we are with our record so far. Our last 10 games will test us, and hopefully tune us up for the NCAA's in March."

Last Night's Results Notre Dame 69, Maryland 62

	M	FG-A	FT-A	R	F	P
Lewis	24	2-5	1-2	0	2	5
Bias	40	9-12	7-9	6	4	25
Long	10	0-0	0-0	0	1	0
Gatlin	36	2-5	0-0	2	1	4
Baxter	14	1-1	0-0	0	2	2
Johnson	33	6-15	0-2	3	2	12
Massenburg	8	1-4	0-0	2	1	2
Jones	35	6-9	0-0	5	4	12
	200	27-51	8-13	18	17	62
FG Pct.	.529
FT Pct.	.615
Rebounds	- 2. Turnovers - 13. Assists - 11 (Bias 5). Technicals - 1 (Bias).

Notre Dame (69)

	M	FG-A	FT-A	R	F	P
Royal	27	2-5	4-7	5	3	8
Dolan	36	3-5	1-1	8	4	7
Kempton	27	1-3	2-2	4	3	4
Rivers	36	9-14	0-1	2	2	18
Stevenson	37	5-8	6-6	1	2	16
Hicks	7	0-0	0-0	1	0	0
Connor	4	1-1	0-0	0	1	2
Barlow	23	5-6	4-4	3	1	14
Voce	3	0-1	0-0	0	0	0
	200	26-43	17-21	24	16	69
FG Pct.	.605
FT Pct.	.810
Rebounds	- 2. Turnovers - 17. Assists - 15 (Rivers 5). Technicals - none.

Halftime - Notre Dame 33, Maryland 33. Officials - Jim Reinebold, Bill Sorukas (both IH-SAA), Paul Calvan, Don Shea, Danny Booker (all SEC). A - 11,345.

North Carolina's Brad Daugherty is double teamed by two Marquette players in a game earlier this season. Daugherty's Tar Heel squad retained its position atop the AP basketball poll this week despite a loss to Virginia earlier in the week. More on the poll appears above.

Suicide of Holy Cross' Carter leaves friends, students bewildered

Associated Press

WORCESTER, Mass. - The suicide of Holy Cross football coach Rick Carter has stunned students and faculty at this Jesuit college, where Carter was remembered not only as a winning coach, but someone who cared.

"Most of the team is just shocked," senior quarterback Patrick McCarthy said. "It hadn't really sunk in yesterday afternoon. I'll remember him as a coach and as a friend, someone who played a big part in our lives for four years."

"He made us winners. He got us to believe," said Steve Raquet, a former Holy Cross lineman who now plays with the Montreal Concordes of the Canadian Football League.

Carter, 42, was found dead in his home at 8:14 a.m. EST Sunday by his son, Nick, a 21-year-old Holy Cross student. Worcester County District Attorney John J. Conte said Carter had hanged himself with a belt and called the death a suicide.

Carter's wife, Deanna, had spent the weekend with Carter's seriously ill mother in Kettering, Ohio.

During his 20 years of college coaching, Carter had a record of 137-58-7 and led the University of Dayton to the NCAA division III championship in 1980 with a 14-0 record. He also had coached at Hanover College and Earlham College, his alma mater.

In his five years at Holy Cross, he had a 35-19-2 record, including a 9-1-1 season in 1983, when he was named Division I-AA coach of the Year.

It had been a difficult year for Carter.

Friends said the sudden death of his father last summer hit him hard and said he also had been concerned about his mother's health.

"That took a great toll on him," Carter's aunt, Frances Johnson, told The Telegram of Worcester. "He and his father were very, very close. His father was a sports person. They were two of a kind."

The Proof is in the Taste!

Open Mon-Sat 11 am Sun 4 pm

Pizza-Sandwiches-Salads Beer & Wine

277-2020

Located in Roseland (Next to Randalls)

If you haven't met us yet... Now's the time!

we're friendly, convenient, good -- yet affordable.

The Varsity Shop
Edison Rd. at St Rd 23
277-0057

$6 haircuts

Open 6 days
Evenings until 7:30

Queen's Castle & The Knights

$5 student cut $8.50 complete style

MINUTES AWAY FROM CAMPUS

272-0312 277-1691

DISCOUNTS FOR ALL STUDENTS now women included too!

We also feature the Royal Bronze Sunbanning Center See a tan in minutes... Not Hours

Ironwood & St. Road 23 (Across From Martin's)

ND men swimmers split at home; take ORU but lose to Bonaventure

By KATHLEEN McKERNAN
Sports Writer

In the Rolfs Aquatic Center last Friday night, the Notre Dame men's swim team had the dual challenge of trying to dampen the celebration for mighty St. Bonaventure while at the same time preserving Oral Roberts' pride.

Notre Dame beat Oral Roberts, 66-44, yet lost to Bonaventure, 68-44, in the double dual meet.

Last year, St. Bonaventure handed the Irish their worst defeat with a score of 81-31.

"We expected St. Bonaventure to be strong," Irish coach Tim Welsh said. "But one of our team goals was to close last year's gap (in points)."

"We did score a few more. We have been swimming very well, despite the scores."

While Bonaventure gave the Irish some points by swimming the last couple of events in exhibition, Notre Dame closed the 50-point gap by a gentleman's half, and kept even at least with last year's difference.

Against Oral Roberts, the Irish had to be careful of too much domination. While Oral Roberts' men have had more experience at a varsity level than the women, other factors caused problems for the Titans.

"We expected them to be OK," Welsh said, "but a couple of things affected them. For one thing, they had a long trip. They swam a little slower than usual."

Besides the difficulty in the travel arrangements, the meet itself is set up to Oral Roberts' disadvantage.

"In double dual meets, when one team is so much better than the others, as St. Bonaventure was, these things very often happen," said Welsh. "We had to swim the meet to St. Bonaventure. In doing that there was not much of an alternative but to beat up on Oral Roberts a little."

The dual meet gave Notre Dame's young divers a chance to gain some needed experience.

"We're improving rapidly," Welsh said of his divers. "What's been remarkable about our divers is that they haven't had any significant diving experiences. Both completed a full 22 dive competition, all of which they have learned since fall."

Diving for the Irish are freshman Todd Maus and junior Terry Dempsey, the latter of which swam for the team last season.

According to Welsh, the most important swim of the meet for the team was Roger Miro's 200-yard Freestyle, which, at 1:47.77 was good for first place against Oral Roberts and second against Bonaventure.

"The (North Star Conference) championship is only three weeks away," Welsh said. "One key event is the 800-meter Freestyle. I'm looking for the four fastest swimmers. This was Roger's first opportunity to swim the event this year, and it was our fastest 200-Freestyle of the season."

The men's swimming team closes out its home meet schedule this weekend with meets against Bradley on Thursday and Ferris State on Saturday.

New England Patriots wide receiver Irving Fryar, shown here modeling the cut finger that hampered him prior to the Super Bowl, is one of seven Patriot players implicated earlier this week in a drug scandal that has rocked the NFL franchise. The latest details of the story appear below.

Women swimmers can't help but embarrass ORU

By KATHLEEN McKERNAN
Sports Writer

Friday afternoon in Rolfs Aquatic Center, the Notre Dame women's swim team defeated Oral Roberts by the score of 91-22.

And the meet was less evenly matched than even the 69-point difference would suggest.

For Oral Roberts, 1986 is the first year that the women's team has competed as a varsity sport. The team simply could not offer Notre Dame's defending North Star Conference champions much competition.

"We did get a chance to swim people in new events," said Irish coach Tim Welsh. "It gave us a chance to experiment with what might become championship events for us."

Freshman freestyler Tracy Johnson turned in an impressive 2:03.00 time in the 200-yard event, a swim which gives Welsh more options in planning his lineup for the 800 freestyle relay in the conference championships.

Hollianne Logan, a sophomore from San Diego, swam her first butterfly this season and finished first at 1:05.38, just ahead of teammate Venette Cochiolo. The co-captain's time of 1:05.38 gave her second place in the event.

"Butterfly is one of our strongest events," Welsh noted. "The time is fast enough to give us even more flexibility in the fly event."

Another who turned in an excellent performance is sophomore diver Andrea Bonny. For the third week in a row she broke varsity records in the one- and three-meter diving events.

Bonny also beat last week's qualifying score for the Division I diving zone competition with a point total of 400.425.

Rhodes scholar Tess Doering had a particularly exciting meet according to Coach Welsh.

Her third-place finishes in the 200-yard Individual Medley and the 100-yard Backstroke were in her first competitions since early December.

"Because of the interviews (for the scholarship), she was not able to train with us," Welsh said. "That's a special credit for her. Then, her Christmas plans did not allow her to train with us. She has trained by herself. She has shown a lot of self-discipline."

Welsh also lauded senior Julia Boss, who shaved over a half of a second off her time in the 50-yard freestyle event. She swam it in :25.46.

"That's the first time she's gone under 26 seconds," said Welsh. "A half second may not seem like much, but in the 50-yard it's a big jump."

Notre Dame had the opportunity to rack up more points against Oral Roberts, but chose to swim exhibition in the final relay event.

Throughout the meet, Oral Roberts gained points through the scoring rule that prohibits a team from sweeping the scoring in any event. Oral Roberts failed to place in any events until the first (one meter) diving competition. In that event, Oral Roberts' Shara Sheek finished third behind record-breaker Bonny and teammate Kathleen Epping.

In humiliating the inexperienced Oral Roberts team, the Irish raised their record to 5-2. Notre Dame's women will swim Friday against Illinois-Chicago and Valparaiso, and next Wednesday against Saint Mary's in their final home meets of the season.

Patriots announce testing will continue for seven

Associated Press

BOSTON - Seven members of the New England Patriots who tested positively for drug use during the past year will continue to be checked on a random basis, the head of the team's drug program said yesterday.

The group includes two players whose tests showed they had been drug-free for six to eight months, said Dr. Armand Nicholi, who also is the team's psychiatrist.

"Until they understood that they would be tested, some of them questioned" why the tests were continuing, Nicholi said. "If players are clean for six to eight months, we stop consultation but (continue the) test."

He also said tests done on the seven players were negative since Jan. 2 and two of those players were drug-free all season.

"To my knowledge, we tested all seven" during the week before the Patriots' 46-10 Super Bowl loss to the Chicago Bears Jan. 26, he said at a news conference.

Nicholi called the news conference to reinforce points he made in a written statement last Thursday in which he said seven Patriots were tested for drug use during the past year.

In that statement, he said tests showed that five of them had used marijuana and the other two had used marijuana and cocaine. The statement also said "our testing indicated that all seven players had been drug free for several weeks, with some drug free for the entire season."

Under the players' collective bargaining agreement with management, teams can test players if a physician has reasonable cause to suspect drug use by those players. Nicholi said it's up to Patriots Coach Raymond Berry to decide if there is reasonable cause.

"Most of them that have been called in" by Berry "freely admitted recreational use" of drugs, Nicholi said.

"There's only been one time that I've ever actually talked to a player in which it would be classified as a reasonable-cause situation where I didn't have absolute proof," Berry said. "He just said, 'no,' and that was it."

In Honolulu, five Patriot players said they believe a player, not Berry, gave the Boston Globe names of six players who allegedly used drugs at one time. The five were among eight Patriots who were in Honolulu for Sunday's Pro Bowl all-star game.

Save how much on Tuesday?

$2.00 off a 16-inch pizza!

Fresh, hot, great-tasting pizza from DOMINO'S PIZZA®. Made to order and delivered in 30 minutes, guaranteed, or you get $3.00 off your order.

And on Tuesday, get $2.00 off any 16-inch cheese pizza with 2 or more toppings.

Just ask for Tuesday's special. Available all day this Tuesday... only from Domino's Pizza.

One call does it all!

Call us:
277-2151
1835 South Bend Avenue
Plaza 23 Center
South Bend

Our drivers carry less than $20.00. No coupon necessary. Just request the Tuesday special. Limited delivery area. © 1986 Domino's Pizza, Inc.

DOMINO'S PIZZA DELIVERS® FREE.

ANTI-VIOLENCE VOLUNTEERS

Center for Non-Violence seeking full-time staff.

Lodging, $180mo., & Health cov. Public internet research & publishing on aggression, developing courses on non-violence and operating National Coalition on T.V. violence. Located in Champaign next to U. of Illinois.

One year commitment. $1000 separation stipend.

Call: 217-384-1920

Send resume to: Thomas Radacki, M.D. Box 2157, Champaign, IL 61820

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS.

"Are you OK to drive?"
"What's a few beers?"

"Did you have too much to drink?"
"I'm perfectly fine."

"Are you in any shape to drive?"
"I've never felt better."

"I think you've had a few too many."
"You kiddin', I can drive with my eyes closed."

"You've had too much to drink, let me drive."
"Nobody drives my car but me."

"Are you OK to drive?"
"What's a few beers?"

DRINKING AND DRIVING CAN KILL A FRIENDSHIP

U.S. Department of Transportation

Wrestlers bid for upset lost at Central Mich.

By RICK RIETBROCK
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame wrestling team journeyed to Mount Pleasant, Mich., Friday with hopes of upsetting undefeated Central Michigan. The trip was unsuccessful, however, as the Irish were defeated, 30-18.

Notre Dame head coach Fran McCann said he was unhappy with the performance of his squad, whose dual-match record dropped to 5-3.

"I was extremely disappointed with the match," said McCann. "We needed an all-out effort to beat Central Michigan, and we didn't get it. We were flat."

Notre Dame got pins from 134-

Chris Geneser and Dave Helmer lost by decision, with Geneser and Helmer losing by one point each.

Dave Carlin lost by disqualification. Ron Wisniewski lost by technical fall, John Krug was beaten by major decision and Spero Karas was pinned.

Fran McCann

McCann indicated that the losses by Geneser at 167 pounds and Krug at 177 pounds were particularly costly.

"We were really counting on those two," commented McCann. "And after Bubolo pulled off the upset, they were especially critical. After you get an upset, your good wrestlers have to win but they just couldn't get it done."

McCann said that while Central Michigan had a stronger team, the Irish could have been hampered by their own mental approach to the match.

"We don't quite have the horses like they do yet, but we could have beaten them with a strong effort," he said. "They're a good team, and it would have been an upset."

"I think we had too many doubts going into this match because they are 10-0. We have to be more positive."

The road will not get any easier for the Irish this week as they head to East Lansing to face Michigan State on Thursday.

Jerry Durso

pound Jerry Durso and 158-pound Dean Bubolo, as well as a technical fall from 142-lb. Pat Boyd. The win by Bubolo could have been a big one according to McCann.

"In a match like this one, you need your good wrestlers to win and you need some surprises," McCann noted. "With Dan Carrigan hurt, Bubolo filled in and wrestled out of his weight class."

"His win was a big lift for us, and it could have put us over the top."

Getting over the top proved to be a little too difficult, and the Irish were saddled with the loss.

Irish wrestlers Carl Hildinger,

The Observer/Hannes Hacker

The Notre Dame wrestling team traveled to Central Michigan University over the weekend in an attempt to upset the host school but came up short, losing 30-18. The loss dropped the Irish season mark to 5-3. Rick Rietbrock gives details of the meet in his story at the left.

Men's interhall basketball action heats up; Flanner, Grace I record important wins

By DAVE MCGAREL
Sports Writer

Action in men's interhall basketball continued to heat up this past week as teams vied for the two playoff spots in each of the three divisions. While the ACC and the Big Ten had but a few scheduled games, Big Sky division teams played several competitive and important games.

Two of the Big Sky's powerhouses clashed when unbeaten Flanner I met a 3-1 Keenan squad. Flanner entered the game with only six healthy players. Two starters, Scott Hardek and leading scorer Joel Rump, were out with injuries, as were two other subs with various ailments.

"We only picked ten players at the start of the year so we would have a tighter-knit team," said Flanner captain Eric Grasberger. "It backfired a little against Keenan because we couldn't play really aggressive for fear of fouling out."

Flanner did emerge victorious, however, with a hard-fought 40-39 victory.

Point guard Wes Shorter led the Flanner troops with 20 points while, as Grasberger noted, teammate Pete Kazmierczak contributed with a key assist and great defense down the stretch. With the victory Flanner improved its record to 6-0, while Keenan suffered its second straight defeat.

Keenan's other loss came several days earlier when Grace I won a thriller in overtime, 55-51. Grace led 53-51 in the five-minute extra period on Steve Takach's basket. With two seconds left, Keenan missed the front end of a one-and-one. Grace's Tom Hickey then iced the game with two free throws.

Grace now is tied with Stanford, which edged St. Ed's 54-52, for second place in the Big Sky division. Cavanaugh, meanwhile, ripped Off-Campus Crime, 72-47, to tie Keenan at 3-2.

In the ACC division, Alumni I defeated Grace II by a margin of 61-45 to boost its record to 3-1. Grace II fell to 2-2.

In other games, Flanner II beat Carroll Vermin 40-32, while Dillon I had an easy time with the Off-Campus Bombers, winning by a count of 78-60.

Big Ten action saw Sorin continue to dominate and Dillon II fall from the ranks of the undefeated. Captain Pat Collins' Sorin team mauled the Fisher Stingrays (2-2), 63-23, to move to 4-0. Dillon II (3-1) was surprised by Holy Cross (2-2) in a close 55-53 decision.

In other Big Ten tilts, Alumni II beat Howard, 67-55, and Pangborn won a forfeit when Off-Campus II failed to field a team.

Women's Track Club does well in home meet

Talk about bad timing. While the majority of the student body was enjoying the Marquette basketball game last Saturday, the Women's Track Club was hosting the Notre Dame Invitational track meet. Forget about attracting fans - the team was unable to even get trainers and officials for the meet.

But the meet went on as planned. Against varsity competition, Notre Dame finished a strong fourth place. St. Joseph's won the meet with Loyola finishing second, Detroit third, Goshen fifth, and Evansville sixth.

Distance runner Nancy Loughlin put in a gutsy performance for the Irish. She took eighth in both the mile run and two-mile run, and with only a ten minute rest after the two mile, she ran the anchor leg of the mile relay. She combined with Kathleen Lehman, Julia Merkel, and Maureen O'Leary for a third place finish in that event.

O'Leary also ran very strong, winning the 440-yard run and finishing third in the 300-yard run. Lehman, bothered by a sore knee, took fifth in the 880-yard run. Susan Rosenthal placed second in the shot, and Julia Merkel, who had been ill up to the race, finished second in the mile. Another runner, Kristine Dragani, did not run due to illness, and Club President Mary Beth Fiske did not run because she had to officiate the meet.

"Julia and Kathleen have really been doing a fantastic job for me," said head coach Dan Ryan. "Despite their problems, both ran well in two events each."

Such problems are not uncommon for the team. The team thrives on knowing that it is doing the best it can despite its lack of size (12 members) and its club status.

"We have a strong team, but we're small," noted Fiske. "When it comes to big meets we don't have the numbers to carry the team. A lack of sprinters especially hurts us."

"Everyone assumes we are varsity," she continued. "At the meet in Windsor, people were saying, 'Is that the Notre Dame?' We also get about 25 recruiting letters from runners who don't realize that we're not varsity."

A certain pride is evident in the dedication of the team members. Over Christmas break, Ryan gave the team a workout scheme which he had followed when he was an all-america track member of the University of Michigan. Though he did not expect them to follow it, many runners tried. As a result, the team returned in good shape for the season, which made Ryan's job a lot easier.

Pete Gegen

Club Corner

"This is really a great job, even though it isn't compensated," Ryan said. "If it weren't for the dedication of these girls, I wouldn't be here."

"Coaching track is really a joy for me, but being a club is a pain for the runners," he continued. "Mary Beth had to practically run this meet by herself, so she missed her race."

Over the weekend previous to the Notre Dame Invitational, the team traveled to Windsor, Ontario for the Can-Am track classic. The Irish ran very well against some of the strongest collegiate teams in North America.

Fiske was able to run in this meet. Her time of 13:30 in the 3000-meter run was impressive considering she missed the entire cross-country season due to ankle problems. Merkel won her heat in the 1000-meter run, and the team of O'Leary, Dragani, Lehman, and Merkel ran the 800-meter relay for the first time, placing third in their heat.

The team is off this weekend as it prepares for the Huron Open track meet at Eastern Michigan.

The Men's Volleyball club improved its record to 3-1 with two victories last week. On Wednesday the team easily defeated Western Michigan, 15-1, 15-4, 15-10.

"It's the best I've seen us play in a while," said head coach Bill Anderson. "Everything started to come together."

"We played very well, but Western Michigan doesn't belong in our league," added Club President Ed Abt. "But our second and third teams also looked good, which shows we have a pretty strong bench."

Friday night Notre Dame hosted a late-arriving University of Michigan team. The Irish won the match, which didn't start until 9 p.m., by the score of 15-9, 15-7, 11-15, 15-7.

"We played really laxed," said Anderson. "I think we were just tired of waiting."

This weekend the team travels to Ohio State to take part in an eight-team tournament which features powerhouses Ohio State and IUPUI-Fort Wayne.

The Gymnastics Club began its season this past weekend. The men placed third in the quadrangular meet, and the women took second in a triangular meet.

"The men really didn't do too well," said Club President Jim Ciesil. "They were nervous, but they should improve a lot."

"The women did well overall," he continued. "It was the first competition for a lot of them because they are mostly freshmen and sophomores."

Paul Nowak finished third overall for the Irish with an average score of 5.53, and Michelle Broussard won the women's all-around with an average of 7.12. Other strong performers for Notre Dame included Francis Sverdrup, Dave Pignot, and Maureen Durkin in the vault, Maureen Leonard on the beam, Matt Sennett on the pommel horse, and Ciesil in the floor exercise.

The team competed without its coach, Rich John, who underwent surgery Friday after ripping his achilles tendon during a workout Thursday.

And finally, the ski team returned to the slopes of Michigan this past weekend for two meets. The results were not available on Saturday's race at Crystal Mountain, which consisted of a giant slalom and a dual slalom. At Caberfae on Sunday, the Notre Dame women placed second, St. Mary's took fifth, and the men finished third.

"K.K. Meyer and Laurie Shea skied very well Sunday," said women's captain Kathy Skendzel. "We didn't have K.K. on Saturday, but Jane Heisel raced well then."

For the men, John O'Donovan placed third overall on Sunday, and John Kruger put in a strong performance in the slalom.

Bloom County

Zeto

Kevin Walsh

The Far Side

Gary Larson

"Once in a while couldn't we just have some pasta?"

The Daily Crossword

- ACROSS
- 1 Despicable people
 - 5 Swamp denizen for short
 - 9 Admonitions
 - 14 Rabbit
 - 15 Ring of light
 - 16 Creamy white
 - 17 Amazon cetacean
 - 18 Portent
 - 19 Relish
 - 20 Famed song route
 - 23 Free
 - 24 Row
 - 25 But: Lat.
 - 26 Flip-flop
 - 30 Silt
 - 34 Males
 - 35 Swiss river
 - 37 Down the primrose path
 - 41 Llama land
 - 42 Rd.
 - 43 Surrendered
 - 44 Adjust the sound again
 - 46 — la la
 - 48 Homily: abbr.
 - 49 Setback
 - 54 Willie Nelson song
 - 58 Cubic meter
 - 59 Rainbows
 - 60 Church book
 - 61 Refueling ship
 - 62 Capture
 - 63 Croissant
 - 64 Small land masses
 - 65 "Born Free" heroine
 - 66 Epithet of Athena
- DOWN
- 1 Contract in wrinkles
 - 2 Kayak
 - 3 Sheep
 - 4 Civil War general
 - 5 Opt
 - 6 Collided with
 - 7 Olive genus
 - 8 Implied
 - 9 Render harmless
 - 10 Roundish
 - 11 Star of a kind
 - 12 Helen of —
 - 13 Damascus' land: abbr.
 - 21 Demi—
 - 22 Overawe
 - 27 Uncovered
 - 28 Praise
 - 29 Pa. port
 - 30 Cut off
 - 31 Unique object
 - 32 Raison d'—
 - 33 Close
 - 34 — West
 - 36 Finale
 - 38 Indian princess
 - 39 Value too highly
 - 40 Fla. town
 - 45 Escorts
 - 46 Footprints
 - 47 Indian Ocean arm
 - 50 Marketplace
 - 51 By — (orally)
 - 52 Advance furtively
 - 53 — Gay
 - 54 Elevator man
 - 55 Dickens heroine
 - 56 Baobab e.g.
 - 57 Spoken
 - 58 —disant

© 1986 Tribune Media Services, Inc. All Rights Reserved 2/4/86

Monday's Solution

2/4/86

Campus

- 12:00 P.M. - Brown Bag Seminar, "Theater, Video and Counter Culture in Chile," David Benavente, Kellogg Fellow, Room 131 Decio, Sponsored by Kellogg Institute
- 1:00 P.M. - Dessert-Card Party, University Club, Sponsored by Ladies of Notre Dame
- 3:30 P.M. - Minicourses, Time Sharing Option and MacWrite Wordprocessing, Room 104 Computing Center
- 3:30 P.M. - Graduate Seminar, "Adaptive Control Using Extended Prediction Horizon," Dr. Erik Ydstie, University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Room 356 Fitzpatrick, Sponsored by Chemical Engineering Dept.
- 4:00 P.M. - Lecture Series, Art Department Visiting Lecture Series, James Addey and Alison McMaugh, Michigan State, Isis Gallery, Riley Hall of Art
- 4:30 P.M. - Seminar, "Genetic Analysis of the Iron Oxidizing Bacterium Thiobacillus ferrooxidans," Mark Roskey, Notre Dame, Room 232 Moreau, Sponsored by Dept. of Biological Sciences

- 7:00 P.M. - Lecture, "Questioning the Significance of Form as It Relates to Material and Process," Peter Mitten, artist in residence, Room 232 Moreau, Sponsored by Saint Mary's Art Dept.
- 7:00 P.M. - Meeting, AIESEC, Room 220 Hayes-Healy
- 7:00 P.M. - Meeting, Southern California Club, Little Theater, LaFortune
- 7:00 & 8:00 P.M. - Information Night, Spring Break, Florida 1986, Room 304 Haggard College Center, Sponsored by Student Activities Board
- 7:30 P.M. - Faculty Forum, Friends of the Library Faculty Forum on the People, Dr. Dian Murray, Rare Book Room Memorial Library
- 7:30 P.M. - Discussion - Meeting, Boycott: Continued Support, Center for Social Concerns Library, Sponsored by F.L.O.C. - N.D. Support Group
- 7:30 P.M. - Informational Meeting, on opposition to the death penalty, Delbert Tibbs, former death row prisoner, Center for Social Concerns Building
- 7:30 P.M. - Meeting, Amnesty International, Center for Social Concerns Building.

Dinner Menus

- Notre Dame
- Southern Fried Chicken
 - Veal Merengo
 - Spinach Quiche
 - Grilled Reuben Sandwich

- Saint Mary's
- Veal Scallopini
 - Eggplant Cheese Bake
 - Spaghetti with Meat Sauce
 - Spaghetti with Marinara Sauce
 - Wet Burritos

TV Tonight

- | | | | |
|-----------|------------------------------|------------|---|
| 8:00 P.M. | 16 The A-Team | 9:00 P.M. | 16 NBC Movie of the Week: "Peter the Great" |
| | 22 Melba | | 22 CBS Special Movie: "Sins" |
| | 28 Who's the Boss? | | 28 Moonlighting |
| | 34 Nova: "Horsemen of China" | | 34 Odyssey |
| | | | 46 Lesea Alive |
| 8:30 P.M. | 22 Charlie & Company | 10:00 P.M. | 28 Spenser: For Hire |
| | 28 Growing Pains | | 34 Yes Ma'Am |
| | 46 Skylite Cavalcade | | 46 Dwight Thompson |

Want to Make a Difference on the Notre Dame Campus?

Applications available for next year's

Applications available January 24 at the SAB offices (2nd floor LaFortune) Applications due February 7

•General Business Manager

•Controller

•Student Activities Board Manager

Gain practical business experience while improving social life!

Strong overall effort propels Irish to big 69-62 victory over Maryland

By ERIC SCHEUERMANN
Assistant Sports Editor

While many preferred to focus on the physical play in Notre Dame's 69-62 victory over Maryland last night, Irish head coach Digger Phelps made sure the team's fine overall play against the Terrapins was not overlooked.

"The reason we won the game was our offensive execution," said Phelps. "That was our problem in the last 10 minutes against North Carolina and for part of the Marquette game."

"We had one relapse tonight, but that was because of turnovers and not shot selection. We got over that and executed very well down the stretch when we had to."

It was apparent from the statistics that the Irish had indeed played one of their finest offensive games of the season. Notre Dame shot 61 percent from the field for the game, which included a 65 percent effort in the second half.

Leading the way for the Irish were guards David Rivers and Mark Stevenson with 18 and 16 points, respectively. Rivers, playing perhaps his finest game since the DePaul contest, shot 9-of-14 from the field and also contributed five assists.

Ken Barlow came off the bench to score 14 points in 23 minutes of action.

"With it being more of a half-court game tonight, I had to be patient and show poise," said Rivers. "We had to have ball movement - that's the name of the game. We were able to set picks down low to get the good shots. Sometimes we may force shots, but we try to be creative out there."

The game started out on a strange note, with the scheduled Southeastern Conference officials unable to arrive in time due to fog at Michiana Regional Airport. Two high school officials took over until the second half when the SEC officials finally made it.

Stevenson led the Irish in the first half with 10 points, many of them coming on strong drives to the basket against a seemingly relaxed Terrapin man-to-man defense.

"I think this was my best game at Notre Dame," Stevenson said. "I played good defense, and offensively I stayed in the game. I take whatever the defense gives me, and tonight I saw I could penetrate because they were not helping out on defense. So I just took the ball to the hole."

The game was tied 33-33 at the half and stayed close until the 13:05 mark when Rivers hit an 18-footer from the top of the key on an in-bounds play. This started an eight-point run for the Irish, and Barlow's bank shot with 11:03 to play gave Notre Dame a 51-43 lead.

The Terrapins quickly pulled to within five, but Rivers drove through an ill-advised half-court trap and hit a crucial eight-foot jump shot to break an Irish scoring drought and push the lead back to seven.

"We were flat for awhile and went three minutes without scoring," said Rivers. "I tried to ignite the team by pushing the ball upcourt."

The Terrapins seemed to have one more shot when they trailed by six and had the ball, but an offensive foul call on forward Len Bias and the ensuing foul shots by Irish forward Ken Barlow put the game out of reach for good.

Bias led the Terrapins with 25 points, but was continually harassed all night by the physical Irish, a tactic that frustrated Bias. The Maryland

see IRISH, page 12

The Observer/Paul Pahoresky

Notre Dame forward Tim Kempton goes up against Maryland's Terry Long (center) and Derrick Lewis (left) in last night's 69-92 Irish win over the Terrapins. Eric Scheuermann details the game in his story at the left, while John Coyle describes the effect the strong Irish inside game had on the physical Terrapins in his story below.

Physical defensive play frustrates, limits Bias

By JOHN COYLE
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame basketball team has been playing an extremely physical brand of basketball inside all season, and last night was no exception. The trademark physical play, along with a mix of three different defenses, was a key factor in the win over the Terrapins of Maryland.

While Maryland is not a one-man team, the Terrapins needed an above average game from Atlantic Coast Conference leading scorer, Len Bias, if they were to knock off the more talented Notre Dame squad. Irish head coach Digger Phelps was aware of this fact and designed his defensive game accordingly.

Using a point zone, a two-three zone, and a straight man-to-man at different times throughout the evening, the Irish were able to disrupt the Maryland offense and prevent Bias from dominating the game. The Terrapins seemed confused by the Irish defense at times, which, combined with the aggressive play underneath, frustrated the Maryland players.

Although Phelps said the Irish used only these three basic defenses, often the Irish defense resembled a diamond-and-one with either Jim Dolan or Donald Royal on Bias. Nonetheless, the switching Irish defenses made it very difficult for Maryland to adapt its offense to the situation.

"We used no gimmicks," said Phelps. "(Ken) Barlow, (Sean) Connor, (Tim) Kempton, (Scott) Hicks, Royal and Dolan all played (Bias) when he came in their area. In the post, we fronted him and we tried to deny him when he was in the wings."

The contact in the paint, more than anything, seemed to have the most detrimental effect on the visitors from College Park, Md. With only two referees working in the first half, there was a lot of pushing and shoving from the start, which set the tempo for the whole game.

The bigger and heavier Irish players were able to wear the much smaller Terrapins down and prevent Bias from moving down low, where he is most dangerous.

"That's our plan... to play people physically, down low," explained Dolan. "Both sets of referees let us play physically inside."

Bias was visibly frustrated by the tactics of the Irish defense and the amount of contact underneath. He was often involved in shoving matches with Barlow and Dolan as they vied for position. The talented forward complained to the referees on several occasions for what he thought was unnecessary roughness on the part of the Irish big men.

"I can't do anything but let them beat on me if the refs don't call it," said Bias. "I thought the game would have been called a little tighter."

They (Notre Dame) were more physical than most teams."

Phelps was quick to defend his team's aggressive, physical style of play after the game.

"Physical play is a part of our game but everyone has played Bias physically," noted the Irish head coach. "College basketball is a very physical game this year. I guess when Bias doesn't get the ball, he gets frustrated."

Phelps believes the Irish defensive physical style will benefit them as they get closer to NCAA tournament time. It certainly proved itself successful last night as Notre Dame was able to disrupt Maryland's offensive game plan and keep Bias under relative control.

The Observer/Paul Pahoresky

The Notre Dame hockey team was tripped up by Lake Forest last weekend as the Foresters swept an away-and-home series from the Irish. The losses dropped the Irish season record to 8-15-1. Mike Keegan reviews all the weekend action in his story at right.

Weekend brings losses to Irish hockey squad

By MICHAEL KEEGAN
Sports Writer

For the Notre Dame hockey team, last weekend was one it would just as soon forget. In an away-home series against Lake Forest, the Irish dropped both games by scores of 4-2 and 6-3, respectively. Head coach Charles "Lefty" Smith felt the team as a unit played well, but it did not capitalize on scoring opportunities.

"Both games were very similar," said Smith. "It seemed as though we were down in their zone all game long, but we didn't get any goals. I thought we got a good effort out of everyone. We were getting the shots we wanted, but a strong effort on the part of Lake Forest's goalie coupled with missed opportunities accounted for the team losing both games."

In both games, the Irish outshot the Foresters. On Friday night, Notre Dame had 30 shots on goal compared to only 16 by Lake Forest. At the ACC on Saturday night, the Irish held the shots on goal advantage by a margin of 30 to 26. Smith said the difference in both games was the fact that Lake Forest made the best of their opportunities, while the Irish did not.

"The scoring opportunities were clearly in our favor," said Smith. "Even though Lake Forest had less opportunities to score, they capitalized at critical times. By making the best of their opportunities, they beat us."

In Saturday's game, the Irish jumped out to a 1-0 in the first period when Tom Mooney scored off assists by Mike McNeill and Dave Waldbillig. A few minutes later, Lake Forest's Jim Elia scored to tie the game. But in the only other score of the period, Notre Dame's Brent Chapman took a pass from Tim Reilly and put it past goalie Gary Willett for a 2-1 Irish lead.

The second and third periods, though, proved disastrous for the Irish. Lake Forest scored the first three goals of the second period. All these goals came between 9:27 and 12:07 of the period. This placed the Foresters ahead 4-2. With the team's enthusiasm diminished, Mike McNeill provided a small bit of hope as he took a pass from Greg Duncan

see HOCKEY, page 10