FDN says American slain in fight

The Associated Press

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras - An American engineer killed in northern Nicaragua was caught in a firefight between rebel fighters and Sandinista militia, the largest U.S.-supported Contra force said Wednesday.

The account contradicted Nicaraguan statements that 27-year-old Benjamin Ernest Linder, of Portland, Ore., was singled out by the Contras and slain.

The Nicaraguan Democratic Force, or FDN, said that it held the leftist government of Nicaragua responsible for the death of the first American to die in Nicaragua's civil war. Nicaragua said the U.S. government was to blame for supporting the Contras.

"The death of Linder was produced in the midst of a firefight between one of our patrols and a group of militia of the Sandinista army, which accompanied the U.S. citizen," the FDN said in a statement released in Tegucigalpa.

Linder's body on Wednesday was in Matagalpa, a Nicaraguan provincial capital, where a ceremony was held in his honor.

American colleagues of the Oregon engineer joined Sandinista officials in blaming the Reagan administration for his death.

The Contras' statement said Linder was killed Tuesday near La Camaleona, located about 45 miles from the Honduran border.

House defies president; approves trade surplus plan

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The House defied a presidential veto threat Wednesday and narrowly approved major legislation to force Japan and other countries to end "excess and unwarranted" trade surpluses or face stringent U.S. sanctions.

The House voted, 218-214, to attach the plan to a sweeping, 900-page trade bill after its sponsor, Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., urged lawmakers to adopt "a new way, a tougher way," to fight the record $166 billion trade deficit and related job losses in some industries.

Under Gephardt's measure, countries with "excess and unwarranted" trade surpluses with the United States would be forced to eliminate them or face 10 percent annual reductions enforced through presidentially decreed sanctions.

Besides Japan, countries that run sufficient surpluses to be affected include West Germany, Taiwan, South Korea, Italy, Hong Kong and Brazil. But Hong Kong would not be liable for sanctions under the legislation, Gephardt said.

"I've been all over this country in the last few months and I think we're beginning to be in a state of decline," said Gephardt, an aspirant for the presidency. "Wages are beginning to decline in this country, well-paying jobs are being lost to countries abroad."

There were loud cheers from the floor, however, when Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., spoke against the measure and called instead for "a bill so tough the Japanese can't ignore it and so fair the president has to sign it."

Activist says blacks suffering 'backlash'

By SANDY CERIMELE
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Renowned playwright, poet and political activist, Dr. Amiri Baraka, called for democracy and the right to self-determination for all Americans living in a world of white supremacy in a lecture in the Center for Social Concerns Wednesday.

Speaking on, "The Black Liberation Movement in the 1960s: How far have we really come?" Baraka said a "backlash" has resulted in every attempt for progress in achieving equality made by blacks.

"We get a backlash every time we push up, just like our parents gave us as children every time we made a push up to something they didn't like," he said.

He added that this backlash is a result of the white supremacy and "comes with the disappearance of an economie base necessary for liberalism and significant social ability."

The rationale for this exploitation has consistently been the assumption of the inferiority of the black race, according to Baraka. "The exploitation began with

Dr. Amiri Baraka

Western dominance and U.S. imperialism of the so-called uncivilized Third World," he said.

Oliver Williams, a member of the Board's ad hoc committee on South African investments.

Williams stressed, however that this was his opinion and not necessarily the board's.

Sullivan will make his June 1 announcement after travelling to South Africa, where he'll meet with black union leaders to discuss what effect the withdrawal of American businesses would have on South Africa.

In an effort to influence the trustees' decision, several groups are sponsoring a protest at 3:15 p.m. Friday on the steps of the Administration Building.

Rose said she hopes between 400 and 500 people show up at the protest, which will take place rain or shine.

The rally is sponsored by student government, Anti-Apartheid Network, Black Cultural Arts Council, Women United for Justice and Peace, Notre Dame NAACP and the Peace Institute.

Besides influencing the board's divestment decision, the protest is intended to focus attention on racism in the United States, she said.

Notre Dame is not immune from the problem of racism, she said.

"It's not been anything like cross burnings or lynchings," said Rose. She's heard, however, of cases where a black student has gone to a party, and unlike white students, has been asked to show an I.D. card to prove he's from Notre Dame.

Rose also cited reports of

The U.S., according to Baraka, is considered the first liberated colonial state made powerful by the robbery and murder of oppressed countries. "Americans are the most arrogant and ignorant people in the world. They don't realize that the U.S. cannot survive without full democracy and self-determination. This means all citizens who are victims of this dangerous tribalism," said Baraka.

He said the democracy and integration we claim to have achieved in America is not founded in any real evidence. Black citizens have been discriminated against in such areas as education and politics, living predominantly in the South and in only 26 major U.S. cities.

In Brief

Accused of teaching religion in his classroom, a science teacher promises to appeal the Department of Education's decision to uphold a school board's decision to fire him. The superintendent said the district had received complaints about Rhodes' teaching of religion during his 23 years with the district and had warned him to stop discussing religion during lectures. When Rhodes said he could not teach without doing so, however, the board took action. Rhodes said Tuesday he will appeal to Commonwealth Court. -Associated Press

The perils of hall storage are not worth the hassle

Yes, it's that time of year again. It's time for finals. For final parties. For finals parties. And moving out of those wonderful dorm rooms. The seniors are lucky enough to avoid the consequences of moving out and back into a building three months later. For the rest of us, summer means only one thing.

Storage. (Screams, thunder and lightning, if this were TV)

Have any of you underclassmen ever really seen, with your own eyes, what happens to all that stuff that four or five semi-drunk guys from your dorm, or from some other dorm if you're female, pick up and throw into a disreputable-looking rental truck? "Sure, they put it in storage," you say. Sure, and nuclear bombs just spread radiation.

Until last summer, I had several theories on where stored materials actually ended up. The coal pits to the north of Notre Dame always struck me as a likely spot for dorm storage. Or maybe when they say they're storing in a warehouse, they really mean an abandoned warehouse. One with rats. Hungry rats.

Wait until the stuff comes back. If it does, it will most likely be dented, and possibly be snapped in half.

I had seen the condition in which others had gotten their stuff back at the beginning of freshman year, so I got together with a few guys in my section at the end of the year and we all split a small storage area. We rented our own truck and loaded our own stuff. It only took two trips, and it worked out to be only marginally cheaper than going through hall storage.

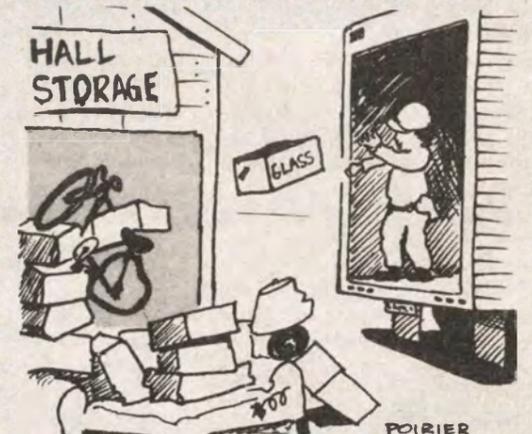

But at least I got my things back in one piece. Contrast that with the absolutely monstrous pile of "stored" (read "thrown in a pile in a warehouse") goods we saw in the same place we stored our things.

Standard ND boxes were stacked 18 boxes high. The bottom ones looked an inch or two shorter than they're supposed to. Hope there wasn't any glassware in those.

Couches were piled only twelve high. The bottom one had literally snapped in half. Instead of looking like an "L", the couch looked like an "I" on its side. Maybe it was a recliner. It is now.

Carpets were kind of mixed in with the rest of the goods. They resembled spaghetti. I wonder what kind of molds grow in carpet. Did you ever wonder what those things were in the carpet when you unrolled it in the fall after storage? They sure weren't there in the spring,

Mark McLaughlin
Projects Manager

you thought. But is it really your carpet anyway?

We saw half a bicycle sticking out of the top of the pile. We couldn't find the other half. Things did seem to have an alarming tendency to snap in half in this storage pile.

I refuse to conjecture where the stereo speakers and other valuables were hidden. Perhaps they were buried underneath the couches to discourage thieves from taking them.

By the way, I have it from a reliable source that many storage crews are provided free lunch and a case of beer besides. Hey, if you stored your furniture yourself, you could be enjoying that free case of beer and free lunch yourself.

That was, of course, only one pile of dorm belongings I saw that fateful May afternoon. But it was enough to convince me never to send things to hall storage. Never ever ever.

Personally, I don't know what I'm going to do with my stuff this year. Maybe I'll sell it all off and buy new stuff next year. I'll get all new furniture for my room and save myself a few bucks and the hassle of storage. But this solution won't work for everyone, since if everyone sells off their furniture and carpets then no one will buy them. So you all keep sending your valuable furniture to hall storage.

I'll take mine home to New Jersey. By the way, have a great summer and all that. I promise I won't say "I told you so" next fall.

Falwell says PTL will continue

The Associated Press

FORT MILL, S.C. - The Rev. Jerry Falwell took over as host of the "PTL club" television show Wednesday and assured donors the ministry would survive, complying with "the rules and regulations of man as well as of God."

Falwell characterized turmoil in the ministry as God "cleaning house."

PTL is trying to rebuild following the resignation of Jim Bakker as its head and revelations shortly afterward of his sexual liaison with a church secretary in 1980.

Disclosures about the ministry's finances, including payment of $1.6 million in salary and bonuses to Bakker and his wife, Tammy, in 1986 have prompted the Internal Revenue Service and the South Carolina Tax Commission to challenge PTL's tax-exempt status and to seek millions of dollars in back taxes.

The success of the $129 million ministry and Christian retreat, however, depends on donations, Falwell said.

"Join us . . . to see to it this ministry never becomes just a page in history," he said during his first appearance as host of the program.

Falwell said he would remain as host of the show until a permanent replacement was found. But he said he did not know how long that would be.

The syndicated talk-show, which features music and Christian entertainment, is the cornerstone of the ministry founded by Bakker and is its main fund-raiser.

"I want to share heart-to-heart with you what happened here," Falwell, a fundamentalist evangelist, said from his office in Lynchburg, Va. "I believe a sovereign God is cleaning house."

The new PTL board chaired by Falwell agreed Tuesday to stop all payments to the Bakkers and to Jessica Hahn, a former church secretary who agreed to a settlement of $265,000 if she would remain quiet about the incident with Bakker.

Bakker, a charismatic, turned the ministry over to Falwell on March 19. The new board on Tuesday banished Bakker and his top aide, the Rev. Richard Dortch, from the PTL pulpit and agreed to investigate allegations of homosexuality and wife-swapping at PTL.

Falwell said Dortch would receive no remuneration, but he did not make clear whether that included severance pay.

The majority of the board, with legal control of PTL's operations, ignored Bakker's plea to turn the ministry over to charismatics, with former U.S. interior Secretary James Watt as chairman.

Church cracks down on national homosexual group

The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Under a toughened Vatican policy, Roman Catholic efforts to curb organizational activities of Catholic homosexuals are spreading in the United States.

One after another, local chapters of the national group Dignity are being barred by diocesan bishops from meeting in Church facilities and priests told not to cooperate with the group.

A few priests reportedly have resigned in protest, at least one of them publicly.

"It's just appalling," said James Bussen of Chicago, national president of Dignity, an organization of about 5,000 gay and lesbian Catholics, with 110 chapters across the country.

"We're disappointed in these diocesan decisions. We just wish the bishops would be brave and more steadfast in serving all people."

Noting that a gradually increasing number of American dioceses -- eight so far -- have acted to prohibit worship services or meetings sponsored by Dignity in churches, Bussen said in a telephone interview, "It seems to be a domino effect so far. We're not sure why, or how to stop it."

San Francisco's Archbishop John Quinn said the conflict with Dignity would be eased if it would "be more cooperative."

"If they would not be attacking the moral teaching of the Church, we could all work together," he told the National Catholic Reporter.

"BUILDING TOWARD ONE SOCIETY"

GO FROM COLLEGE TO THE ARMY WITHOUT MISSING A BEAT.

The hardest thing about breaking into professional music is -- well, breaking into professional music. So if you're looking for an opportunity to turn your musical talent into a full-time performing career, take a good look at the Army.

It's not all parades and John Philip Sousa. Army bands rock, waltz and boogie as well as march, and they perform before concert audiences as well as spectators. With an average of 40 performances a month, there's also the opportunity for travel -- not only across America, but possibly abroad.

Most important, you can expect a first-rate professional environment from your instructors, facilities and fellow musicians. The Army has educational programs that can help you pay for off-duty instruction, and if you qualify, even help you repay your federally-insured student loans. If you can sight-read music, performing in the Army could be your big break. Write: Chief, Army Bands Office, Fort Benjamin Harrison, IN 46216-5005. Or call toll free 1-800-USA-ARMY.

Iranscam fund-raiser admits guilt

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Conservative activist Carl "Spitz" Channell pointed to former White House aide Oliver North as a fellow conspirator on Wednesday as he pleaded guilty to the first criminal charge of the Iran-Contra affair.

Channell was formally accused of defrauding the government by telling contributors to his National Endowment for the Preservation of Liberty that their gifts would be tax deductible even though the money actually was used to provide military aid to the U.S.-backed Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Channell pleaded guilty to a single count and agreed to cooperate in independent counsel Lawrence Walsh's investigation.

Walsh's formal charge, known as a criminal information, said Channell was involved with a government official, but the charge did not identify that official.

However, when Channell was asked in court by U.S. district Judge Stanley Harris to name the persons with whom he conspired, he replied simply, "Col. North, an official of the National Security Council."

When Walsh aide Michael Bromwich was asked later if a similar charge could be expected soon against North, he said, "We're not prepared to do that at this time."

At the White House, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater declined to comment. "We're not investigating ourselves and I don't expect to elaborate on these kind of issues," Fitzwater said.

Under the agreement Channell entered into with Walsh, the fund-raiser and several of his employees said they would cooperate with Walsh's investigation into possible criminal activity in the secret sale of weapons to Iran and in the funding of the Contras.

The developments came less than a week before congressional panels are to open public hearings on the Iran-Contra affair and just one day after Walsh suggested prosecutions would be endangered if Congress granted immunity from prosecution to any more principal figures in the investigation.

are being eliminated, Black Studies programs of universities are being undermined and belittled, black professors routinely denied tenure and equal opportunity programs made dysfunctional or ineffective with less and less money," he said.

Baraka spoke of the political discrimination whereby of the 40 million black Americans, only one has become a senator since the slaves were "freed" 120 years ago.

"We are still victimized and abused and asking for our own Holocaust to be ended. The main obstruction to progress has been the tooth-and-claw animalism of our social structure, which results from our simple inability to think," he said.

He emphasized that according to the historical trend of white supremacy in America, "You can't teach a slave to read because it spoils the system of slavery . . . don't let them think."

Baraka said there is a need for all students of American universities to be conscious of their plight and change what they can to achieve equal representation in their country. "You don't always get everything you pay for, but you do pay for everything you get," he concluded.

Baraka, formerly known by the alias "LeRoi Jones," received a B.A. from Howard University, did graduate work at Columbia University and is currently a Professor of African Studies at New York State University in Stonybrook, where he is active in several interest groups and director of programs for black equality.

He gained national recognition in the 1950s with the Beat Generation literary movement, during which he wrote poetry, plays and prose concerning black rights.

racist comments made during last weekend's Bookstore Basketball final.

Prof. Peter Walshe, who will speak at the protest, agreed with Rose.

"We do not have minorities represented on this campus," said Walshe, director of African Studies. "Something is wrong."

Added Walshe: "There are many incidents on campus that suggest that there's a latent racism on campus."

If the board does decide to divest, it would mean a change in the University's investment policy.

The policy calls for divestment from firms which do not subscribe to the enhanced Sullivan Principles, the guidelines that commit companies to work actively for the elimination of apartheid from South African society.

In last May's meeting, the board modified this policy by authorizing total divestment if it believes U.S. companies "are not influencing the dismantling of the system of apartheid," or if "circumstances warrant this action because of further deterioration of conditions in South Africa."

A decision to divest at next week's trustees' meeting would be good for Notre Dame "because it would mean Notre Dame is taking the justice issues in South Africa seriously," said Walshe.

"Secondly, it would be important because it would then be Notre Dame throwing its very considerable weight in Catholic circles behind the whole broader divestment issue and sanctions movement.

"In other words, Notre Dame by itself is not going to change South Africa. Divestment by itself is not going to change South Africa," he said.

"But Notre Dame and the broader divestment movement, in cooperation with sanctions by Congress, in cooperation with black protests in South Africa . . . will bring the white regime to the negotiating table sooner rather than later."

Humility vital when addressing dissension

Walk into the periodical center, go to the farthest shelves, by the window. On the fourth row from the front, on the second shelf down you will find Fidelity magazine.

Robert Hennig

What is surprising is that the library has chosen to include Fidelity magazine in the theology section instead of the fiction area.

Jerry Walls, in his inciteful opinion of three types of Catholics in last week's Observer mentions his reading of Fidelity as a source of his education in "the ways of the Roman Catholic Church."

Unfortunately, people such as E. Michael Jones, editor of Fidelity, do not truly know what it means to be "Catholic."

In the past few months, Jones has seen fit to criticize Notre Dame Theology Professor Father Richard McBrien

(December), University President-Elect Father Edward Malloy (January), and the recent debate between Father Dan Maguire of Marquette and Notre Dame Theology Professor James Burtchaell (March).

Curiously, quotations from The Observer appear often in criticisms made by Jones.

It is also interesting that Jones' Fidelity and other publications such as "The Wanderer" insist upon chastising dissenters in the United States. For it is in their vigilance to point out the non-Catholicity of dissenters that their own non-Catholicity becomes apparent.

But how can people who follow every doctrinal statement and every papal encyclical to the letter not be Catholic?

Simply by the attitude of their obedience. An air of self-righteousness wholly inappropriate with the Christian witness is the main distinguishing feature I have found among the "guardians of the faithful."

Some letters to Fidelity magazine itself testify to this truth.

In the February issue, an anonymous reader addresses the point: "You are revealing little-known scandals seen in your brothers (and Mother Church), the frightening positions of so-called Catholic press; but I don't perceive the flens dico ('I say it with tears') attitude (Phil. 3:18), and you don't seem to ask your readers to join in a crusade of prayer for the malaise you show so forcefully."

The issue here is not whether their challenges have any merit or not it is in the manner they perform their challenge. It's not what they're saying, it's how they say it.

It is so easy to point out the errors in others, but a more difficult task is to do so humbly and more difficult still to not do it at all.

I am not defending those dissenters that normally come under the wrath - Curren, Kueng, et al. - but nor am I condemning them.

I wonder if the Catholic church can encompass both viewpoints. Can the church have two sons who nate each other?

I really don't know.

But we should try to reach some degree of understanding.

Maybe some dissenters fall of short doctrinal fidelity (a point made by simply calling them dissenters), but those who are so quick to criticize display no sense of Catholic spirituality.

What would Jones say to Jesus?

Jesus consistently violated those legal norms of the day, attacking those "knitpickers" who pondered the minutest question of the Law while ignoring their own spiritual needs.

I really can sympathize with Jones. Some positions taken in the name of "progress" in the Catholic church are neither progressive nor Catholic.

But if Jones and his ilk have a complaint, they should make it with a shade of sorrow at having to speak against their brothers and sisters in Christ. Compassion seems to be an appropriate word.

Unfortunately, I just don't see that.

Respect for Memorial reason for reception

Dear Editor:

Perhaps the reason why Archdruid Mark McLaughlin and his hooded friends received such a poor welcome during An Tostal has nothing to do with conformity, but rather with respect.

The Peace Memorial is a monument to more than 500 fallen sons of Notre Dame, the victims of three wars. It serves as a reminder that the price of war is too great - even for "hypocritical" and "conforming" students - to pay once again. To use the Peace Memorial for torch-burning, play-acting Druid idiocy is inexcusable as well as sickening. Five-hundred Notre Dame men - enough to fill Sorin, St. Ed's and Howard Hall to capacity - have made the ultimate sacrifice. They deserved better than hooded jokesters playing games on a monument recognizing their lives, bravery, and dedication.

And by the way Mr. Archdruid, if you think your reception at certain halls was inhospitable, just imagine what it would be like in front of 500 families missing their sons of Notre Dame.

War criminal subject too self-righteous

Dear Editor:

Am I alone in viewing the extradition of Karl Linnas as a nauseating display of self-righteousness? I see two super-powers move against a feeble, old man for alleged acts of terror during World War II, which, if true, hardly compare to the acts of inhumanity perpetrated by both the Soviets and the Americans. Yet these bloodstained Soviets and Americans judge a grandfather, who, as a 22 year old subordinate in a Nazi prison camp, may have supervised the execution of 100 or more prisoners. They send him to the gallows and call it justice. But who, I wonder, secures justice in the name of the 15 million people, including my grandfather, who were systematically killed in Soviet prison camps before, during and after Linnas' supposed acts of barbarity? Who troops about with ritheous indignation exclaiming that we must never forget that holocaust? Who is held accountable for America's ruthless bombing of Dresden, Hiroshima and Nagasaki? Who will try the men responsible for those crimes? And who, as we continue must-never-forgetting the Jewish Holocaust, even recollects the heinous crimes of the Soviet Union and the United States? The answers are - practically no one. Hypocrisy, anyone?

The fact is, Karl Linnas played on the losing team. Unfortunately for him the winners decide what is and what is not a war crime. They select who is and who is not a war criminal. So, far from their tainted pedestal, the United States and the Soviet Union can dish out their so called justice. Now, thanks to America's new found faith in the Soviet judicial system, Karl Linnas will hang while both the Soviet Union and the United States bask in the glory of righteousness. Personally, something about the whole affair makes me sick.

Macbeth is ambitious

features writer

Notre Dame's Department of Communication and Theatre is presenting Shakespeare's Macbeth through May 3. All performances are in Washington Hall, with Professor Reg Bain of Notre Dame's Department of Communication and Theatre directing the play.

The title role is played by Ted Manier, a South Bend native and Communications and Theatre major, and the role of Lady Macbeth is performed by Maureen Farley, a Finance major. Briefly, Macbeth is a play centered around the lead character's corrosion into evil -- a demise caused by his lust for power and position. Director Bain cautions us, though, that Macbeth is more than a cold-blooded monster. "There is no tragedy if there is no moral element in the character of Macbeth. At any point he could choose good, and we see him tormented by his darker choices. This Macbeth is a human who gets caught up in the politics of blood," states Bain.

The play reflects a united effort of the whole department, an effort which pays off. An especially tremendous job was performed by the carpenters, and everyone else involved in creating the set. Master Carpenter Scott Moore, Master Electrician P.J. Gibbons, and their respective staffs have turned in a monumental effort, creating a stage which reaches from the stage to the balcony of the theater.

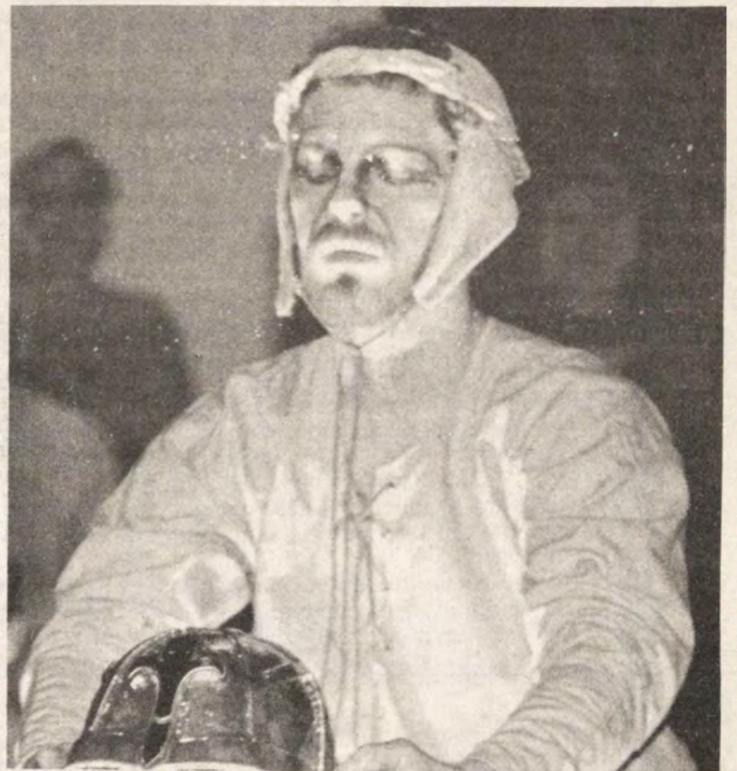

The united effort is also evident in the energy and enthusiasm of the cast who which makes the audience member forget he is watching a college play, performed by students who also must concentrate on class work. "I thought it went really well. I was impressed by the work they put into it," quipped Megan Kearns, a Lewis junior.

The cast of the play has received help from a number of professionals in preparation for opening night. Kate Burke, a vocal specialist from the University of Iowa, came to work on stage vocal techniques. Notre Dame's own English department has contributed help in the persons of Professors Paul Rathburn and A.L. Soens. Rathburn is aiding the cast in analysing the text (the theatre people call him a "dramaturg") and Soens is choreographing the fight scenes.

In addition to the outside help the cast is receiving, they are also benefitting from the expertise of Will Neuert, a professor in Communication and Theatre. Neuert has created a multi-leveled stage which reaches to the balcony of Washington Hall, and has pieces of the set jutting from the stage. This should serve to integrate the audience with the action of the play.

It seems that this effort has not gone to waste. "Sales are going really well," says Tom Barks, the facility manager of Washington Hall. "We probably won't sell out any performance... (but) there is a possibility on Friday and Saturday." There is no really bad seat in Washington Hall, but Barks pulled the "pole seats" -- "They are the favorite ones for lectures," claims Barks, and they will be used only when all of the other seats are sold. Last night's performance was played to about a three-fourths capacity crowd.

The Observer/Damian Chin

Ted Manier in the title role of Macbeth

Performances through May 2 are scheduled for 8:10 P.M., and on Sunday, May 3 there will be a matinee at 3:10 P.M. Tickets are $6.00 for the main floor and $5.00 for the balcony, and are available at the door or in advance at the Washington Hall ticket office.

Neil Diamond pleases packed ACC

features writer

Playing to a sold out ACC packed with enthusiastic fans of all ages, Neil Diamond proved last night why he is considered by many to be one of the entertainment industry's most dynamic performers.

This was more than just a concert--it was an event.

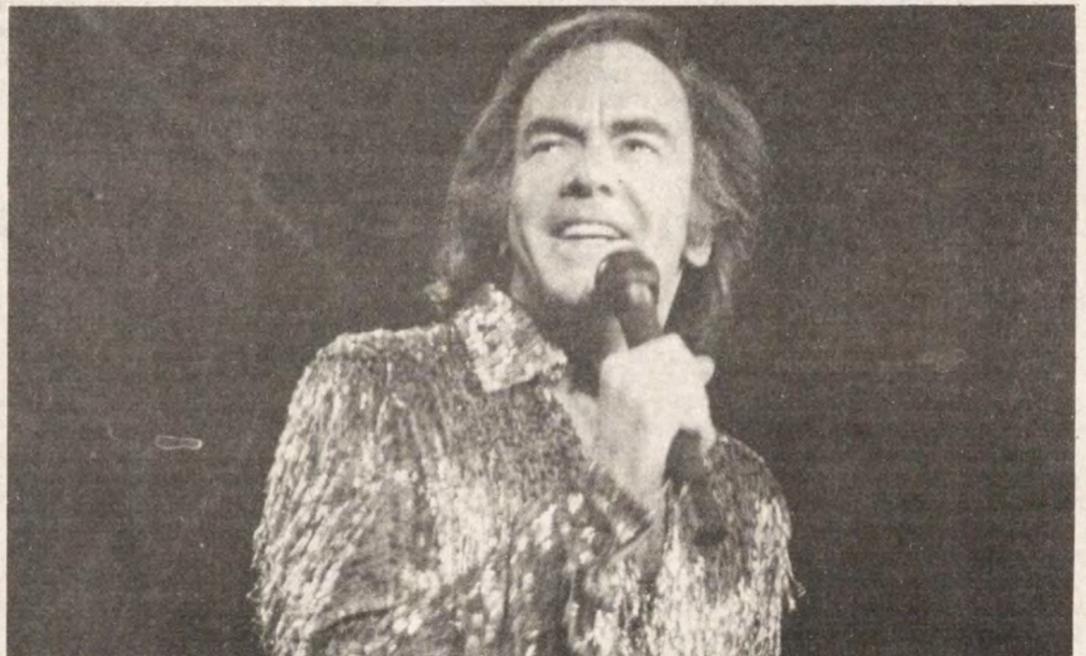

Diamond tends to attract an older crowd to his concerts, and last night was no exception. There was an air of dignity and order to this crowd as they waited for the show to begin. The air smelled of fine perfume and expensive scotch (quite a surprise to anyone who has ever been to a "rock" concert).

Diamond was about 20 minutes late, but this only served to build the intensity until he and his band finally appeared at 8:25 p.m.

Diamond took the stage amidst thick fog and an exciting display of green laser beams. His stage was semi-circular, with flowers flanking all sides. A small tiered runway in front allowed him to move in and out of a mob of adoring first row fans.

Diamond opened with "Headed for the Future," the title song from his latest album, but soon brought out favorites like "September Morn" and "Cherry, Cherry." He brought down the house with three rousing reprises of the classic "Sweet Caroline," the last of which was belted out from atop the band's piano. Diamond played for the entire audience, constantly moving behind his band to sing to the fans seated behind the stage. It was as if the audience was engaged in a game of tug-of-war for Diamond's attention, with each section applauding and screaming as he moved closer. Diamond loved it, and his fans were ecstatic.

Later, Diamond excited the crowd with a spirited medley of songs from his movie The Jazz Singer, including the hits "Hello Again" and "Love on the Rocks." Without a doubt, the most electric moment of the night was during the popular "Coming to America." As the house lights were turned up, and Diamond had everyone standing and singing, a huge American flag fell from the rafters and draped the stage.

The Observer/Joann Whitfield

Neil Diamond proved there is no generation gap.

The rest of the concert was an emotional roller coaster ride, as Diamond would bring the audience to its feet with rousers like "Forever in Blue Jeans" and "Cracklin' Rosie," and then silence them instantly with ballads such as the wrenching "You Don't Bring Me Flowers" or "Heartlight," from the movie E.T.

Diamond ended the concert with "I Am, I Said," which is considered by many to be his theme song. He explained the song's personal significance in an emotional monologue which ended with Diamond saying, "This is a song that will be with me until I die." If Neil Diamond can continue to put on shows like last night's, let's hope that won't be for a long time.

New tax laws to change amount students pay

Although April 15 has come and gone, this story should interest those who are going to the working world, going to school or going bananas trying to find a job. That's right -it's never too late to start planning for your 1987 taxes.

Despite all the hype about the new lower rates, some students won't benefit much from the new federal income tax rules.

Remember all those zeros on the old tax tables for income up to $2,480? They are gone. Now single people are taxed from the first dollar up to $1,800 at 11 percent and at 15 percent up to $16,800.

The new laws really sock it to continuing students. Last year, the personal exemption was $1,080, but this year's increase to $1,900 is not as rosy as it seems. A student who is dependent on his parents could earn as much as $3,560 without paying any income tax in 1986, but the same guy will pay $183 this year.

For the ones who decide to don business suits this year, the situation is more complex. People with $22,000 jobs may earn only half of that this portion of the amount of money she makes over $17,850: 2,677.50¢ (2,200), or $3,293.50. What does this mean? It means that Lucy's biweekly paycheck loses $127 to the feds.

Of course, all the new hotshot businessmen will be looking for the itemized deductions their parents received. Chances are good, however, that graduates will not itemize deductions unless they incurred huge expenses for moving, interest, medicine, and charitable contributions.

How huge? Itemizing won't save a taxpayer a cent unless these expenses exceed the standard deduction of $2,480 in 1987 and $3,000 in 1988.

So, what can a graduating senior do to reduce the tax bite? First, try to shift income like capital gains to the year of graduation when a student will be in a lower tax bracket.

Second, if you pay interest to companies like Master Card or GMAC and you qualify to itemize, you should remember that the consumer interest deduction is being phased out: 65 percent of it can be claimed in 1987, but only 40 percent in 1988 and none by 1991. If you want to buy things on credit, do it now.

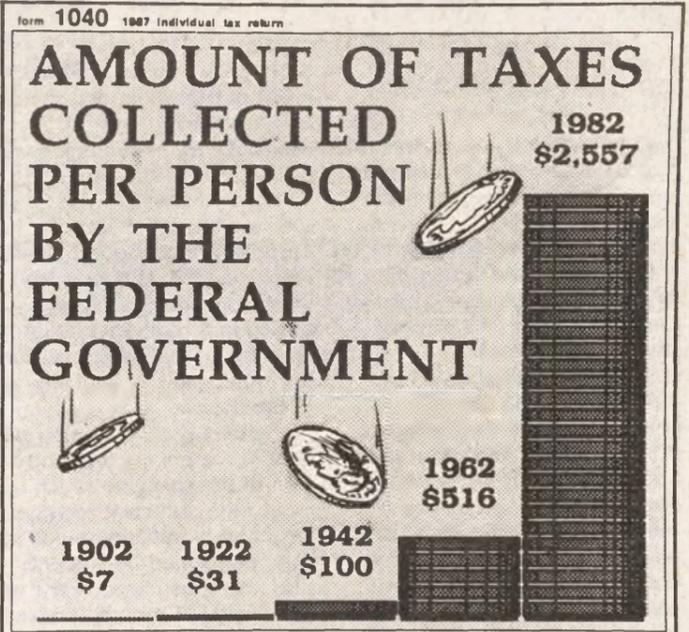

Don't waste your time keeping information on spending that has no tax consequences. Non-deductibles include life insurance premiums, personal automobiles and business suits. On the other hand, records of moving expenses and job-related travel can prove to be very valuable.

Even educational expenses can be itemized. Accountants seeking to enhance their present positions, for example, can cut taxes by claiming the expenses involved in taking the CPA exam or in getting an MBA. Sorry, law degrees are not deductible.

One final piece of advice, don't forget to keep copies of your returns.

Oh, but that's not all. Payroll stubs are full of details on other taxes. Social Security taxes, for example, will rise from 7.15 percent to 7.51 percent next year.

Also, many graduates will be astounded by the chunk the states will grab. Not every place is a haven like India. New York's top rate of 14 percent on income is a far cry from the 3 percent that Hoosiers pay. This doesn't include the slice sales taxes or city income taxes take.

Alex Vonderhaar

year depending on when they start, putting them in lower brackets for 1987 than in 1988.

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's alumni will pay $2,677.50 on their first $17,850 and 28 percent after that in 1988. It's not as bad as it sounds because taxable income is figured after taking out the personal exemption ($1,950 next year) and the standard deduction.

The standard deduction is new in this year's IRS booklet. If you're not a dependent on your parents' return, you can take an extra $3,000 out of your 1988 income.

Before you get too confused, we will pause for an example.

Lucy the engineer got a great offer of $25,000 from Texas Instruments in Dallas. In 1988, her taxable income will be $20,050: 25,000 -1,950 (her personal exemption) -3,000 (the standard deduction). Her tax, therefore, will be $2,677.50 plus a

Market climbs 20.3 points

Associated Press

NEW YORK - The stock market staged a moderate recovery from its recent lull. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed 22.30 to 2,254.26, after struggling to a 1.42-point gain on Tuesday. Volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 173.59 million shares.

exchange and an easing of upward pressure on interest rates. Before the opening Wednesday, the Commerce Department reported that the index of leading economic indicators rose 0.4 percent in March.

That modest increase stemmed almost entirely from gains in stock prices. Analysts said it was consistent with expectations of a slow-growth, low-inflation economy that would presumably serve as a favorable background for the stock stabilizing dollar in foreign market.

On Tuesday the market broke a four-session losing streak, aided by signs of a stable background for the stock stabilizing dollar in foreign market.

First-time investor's guide to entering the bull market

By SAM SIEWERT
Business Writer

The stock market is becoming an increasingly popular investment alternative. Many students are using their job earnings to make money in today's vibrant bull market.

The realistic world of investing, though, is often different than the ideal conception a would-be investor may have of it.

But the investor will find that investing in the market is not very difficult after all.

The first step is to decide how much to invest and what level of risk will be acceptable.

The funds you use in a high risk investment should be money you can afford to lose, although in reality even the worst investment won't be a complete loss.

Because medium risk investments are characteristically less dynamic, the investor must be willing to have his money invested for longer periods of time.

Finally, for low risk investments, it may be best to open a certificate of deposit rather than enter the stock market.

Say you have decided how much you want to invest and what level of risk is acceptable. Which stock should you buy?

If you've been watching stock market favorites or have received a tip from friends or family, you may be set.

Another way to find a winning stock is to do your own research. Your goal is to find a stock that is worth less than the other stocks in its industry. This means you must research the industry as a whole to determine if the price of stock "xyz" is below market value. After some time, the market will recognize the undervalued stock, and its price will jump, earning you a profit.

Of course your other option is to seek the advice of a full-service broker who has current, detailed market research information available.

Once you have gathered information, the next step is to pick a stock broker to carry out your transactions.

When trying to decide between a full-service and a discount broker, you should consider the service you need and how much each type of broker costs.

If you are interested simply in acquiring a security, you will probably want to deal with a discount broker. He will execute only your orders to buy and sell. If you need investment advice, however, and can afford the higher rates, then you should sign up with a full service broker.

The rate differences between discount and full service brokers are not as great as in the past. Competition between the two types of brokers has caused prices to fall.

After you set up an account with a broker you are ready to buy and sell stocks.

Just call up your broker and tell him exactly what you want done. You can specify that the stock is to be bought or sold on your command, regardless of the price. Or you can say that a stock is to be bought or sold at a certain price within a set amount of time.

Once you have acquired your stock, you can get current price quotes from your broker or watch the market summary in the papers.

After buying your first stocks, you are on your way to using the stock market as a profitable investment. With time and experience your success and understanding of the market will improve vastly, and so will your profits.

month of February. After Western Kentucky blew out Notre Dame in the opening round of the Coca-Cola NIT Classic, some wrote off the Irish for the season. As February began with the Carolina game, the Irish stood at 11-5, and not many gave them a chance to get past the No. 1 team country.

But then the miraculous upsets which have been a hallmark of Phelps tenure at Notre Dame began to happen. The Irish knocked off the top-ranked Tar Heels, but two weeks later, following two-straight road losses, the Irish were 13-7. They wouldn't lose again in the regular season.

First the Blue Devils of Duke fell, followed by an upset of No. 4 DePaul. Phelps had primed his squad, and it responded. He said before the Duke game that freshman Joe Fredrick would be a factor and worked with him on his free-throw shooting. Sure enough, Fredrick came off the bench in overtime to hit a jumper and two free throws as the Irish pulled off another improbable upset.

Before the DePaul game, Phelps guaranteed a classic, and it was. The Irish took it right to the Blue Demons and came out with a 73-62 win.

In the NCAA's, the Irish beat Middle Tennessee St., 84-71, and Texas Christian, 58-57, in the East sub-regionals, but then fell to revenge-minded North Carolina, 74-68. Still, it was a superb season for a team that graduated four seniors the year before.

"What I liked the most about this team was that it didn't know how to lose," said Phelps, whose record at Notre Dame stands at 325-146. "Whatever it took, this team did the things it had to do to win. The kids never quit."

Krause Award nominees boast impressive campaigns

By BRIAN O'GARA
Sports Writer

Several individuals have turned in outstanding performances for Notre Dame athletics this year.

While only three can be honored with the Edward W. "Moose" Krause Award, presented by The Observer sports staff to the outstanding male athlete, female athlete and coach, many more deserve special recognition for their achievements.

Bruce "Tiger" McCourt, a sophomore local from South Bend, tallied 16 goals and six assists for the Irish soccer team in its 13-7-2 season. He put the punch back into Notre Dame's offensive attack with five game-winners and two hat tricks during the season.

The transfer from Holy Cross Junior College was among the top 10 scorers in the nation at one point in the season. In every game he had a goal or assist, the Irish won.

Last fall, Steve Beuerlein turned in the best performance of his four years at the helm of the Notre Dame football offense. The senior quarterback from Fullerton, Calif., and four-year starter broke nearly every Irish passing record, including the most career passing yards in the season-opener against Michigan and the all-time total offense mark, previously held by Joe Theismann, against Navy.

Beuerlein was one of the nation's leaders in passing efficiency, thanks in part to his 102 consecutive pass attempts without an interception midway through the season, including a career-high 39 attempts against eventual national champion Penn State.

Beuerlein's favorite target, flanker Tim Brown, also had a stellar year on the gridiron for Notre Dame. The junior from Dallas, Tex., was among the nation's top five players in all-purpose yards per game for most of the season, averaging well over 150 a contest.

Mary Kay Waller led the volleyball team with her powerful net play to a 33-7 record, its best season ever. The sophomore from Lawrence, Kan., ranked among the nation's top ten leaders in kill percentage and blocks per game for much of the season, and was named to the first-team North Star Conference squad.

Corrine DiGiacomo, a senior captain from Rosemont, Pa., set the Notre Dame career scoring record in field hockey with a penalty shot goal against Southwest Missouri in September. DiGiacomo missed the final nine games of the season with a knee injury, but tallied 15 goals and two assists to lead the Irish in scoring.

Art Lambert coached the Notre Dame volleyball team to an outstanding 33-7 record, a huge improvement from last year's 12-19 mark. Lambert's squad set several team records, perhaps the most impressive being their 17-game stretch of wins midway through the season.

Yves Auriol, in only his second year as mentor of the Notre Dame women's fencing team, coached the Irish to the first-ever National Championship for a Notre Dame women's team.

Under Auriol, a native of France, the women's fencing team has seen two consecutive undefeated seasons.

Move Yourself, All Your Stuff, And Save, Too!

It's as easy as renting a Ryder truck, one way.

Compare costs before you make plans for moving at the end of the semester.

If you're 18 or older and have a valid driver's license, you can use a Ryder truck, rent-it-here, leave-it-here. Load up your stereo, 10-speed, clothes, everything. You'll still have room, no doubt, for one or two friends with their things to share the cost.

Compare that to the price of a plane ticket. Or even a bus. Plus shipping.

Rent a newer truck from the best-maintained, most dependable fleet in the world - Ryder. The best truck money can rent.

struggle for Rivers, especially immediately after he returned to the lineup following his rehabilitation.

"We had some ups and downs this year, especially me," he said. "When I first came back, I expected to be 100 percent, and when I didn't start that way, I became frustrated and played that much worse."

"But I think I came along at the right time, and most of the credit for that should go to our trainer, Skip Meyer. He was with me for all the rehab and he made sure I didn't do too much at a time."

Tournament time was when Rivers did it all. He scored a season-high 27 points in the first-round game against Middle Tennessee State and added 24 against TCU, including the winning free throw.

Against North Carolina, the six-foot junior canned 23 in the season finale.

"It's an honor because, along with the USBWA award, it lets me know that my effort and determination are being recognized," the Jersey City, N. J. native said. "Seeing that people recognize those things motivates me to do more."

Coach

This is one writer who is going to miss those days. 'Mary D.' has resigned and decided to return to school at Northwestern (where she used to coach) to pursue a masters degree in business administration.

There are probably a lot of coaches who refer to their players as their own children. But I wonder how many other coaches treated their players that way in every aspect of life. And the energetic DiStanislao's willingness to lend a helping hand to each and every one of her players is only half the story. The numbers tell the other half pretty much for themselves.

A career record of 204-109 over 12 years. When she took over the job at Notre Dame, the Irish program made a leap from AIAW Division III status to an NCAA Division I squad. Since then, she has registered three 20-win seasons in seven years and guided Notre Dame to a third-place finish at the Women's National Invitation Tournament in 1985-86 with a 23-8 mark. Many thought the Irish should have received a bid to the NCAA Tournament that year.

"The opportunity to go to Northwestern was more or less an offer I couldn't refuse," said the 36-year-old DiStanislao, who hopes one day to become an athletic director. "The decision has no bearing on how I feel about Notre Dame. I love this place and I always have. I feel very strongly about the job we've done, I feel we're in a good position to continue along a successful path, and it's a cinch to say I'm going to miss this place."

The Irish were 6-15 and had just been trounced, 90-55, at the hands of Tennessee at one point in this past season. Three players had quit the team, leaving no seniors and no captain. So what did DiStanislao do? She gave her players a choice. They could either go out in embarrassing fashion or they could start playing some basketball.

They chose the latter, winning the last six games of the season when they weren't given much of a chance, and finishing the campaign with a 12-15 record.

Then, nine days ago and exactly seven years after she was named head coach for the Irish, DiStanislao decided to call it quits. While she told her story at a rather quiet press conference, her players gathered together with long faces.

"It was definitely her who kept the team together in some hard times," said junior point guard Mary Gavin. "She's helped me from day one and we were all really upset that she wasn't going to be coaching next year. But we're also really happy for her because she's doing what she really wants to do. I think it's a good decision for her, no matter how much she'll be missed."

As of yet no decision has been made as far as a replacement is concerned. The only thing anyone seems to know for sure is that DiStanislao is on her way to Northwestern.

A couple of days ago the same reporter stopped by the basketball offices in the ACC just to say 'hello.' Or is it 'good-bye'?

This time it was very different, however. The lobby was the same, but the similarities ended there. In the hallway were a number of large moving boxes. DiStanislao was not busy with a player in her office. In fact, she wasn't even in her office. Not much else was either. It's amazing what you can fit in moving boxes.

DiStanislao was in Irish assistant coach Caren Truske's office with Truske and the other assistant coach, Bill Fennelly. They weren't talking hoops. They were sitting back, talking about the evening's WWF wrestling card.

I had to laugh. I finally catch her at a time when she isn't busy, and I don't need an interview. Oh well. Maybe some other time. Hopefully some other time.

But enough of these stories. Good luck Coach D. We'll miss you.

Irish golf team tries to defend title at Spartan Invite

By ORLANDO RUBIANO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame golf team concludes its season this weekend at Michigan State, as the Irish are out to defend their Spartan Invitational title they captured a year ago.

The 54-hole tournament should be a three-way race between host Michigan State, Miami (Ohio), and Notre Dame. In all, 10 clubs representing the Big Ten and MAC will vie for the top spot at Forest Akers Country Club.

After a poor finish at the Kepler (Ohio State) two weeks ago and a break in the schedule last week, the squad is eager to resume match-play. Coach Noel O'Sullivan, whose club has been preparing at both Morris Park and South Bend for the Spartan, is confident they will finish on a positive note.

"We have had good rounds of golf this spring, and I can't see us finishing worse than third at the Spartan," said O'Sullivan. "Besides, with a forecast for good weekend weather, we should do just fine."

If a change in the golf team's fortunes are to be realized, the coach hinted that Norm Campbell would be part of the answer.

"Certain situations call for a needed change," he said, "but in Norm Campbell's situation the change was deserving. The players are looking forward to Norm making the trip. His presence will not disturb the chemistry, but can only enhance it."

Dick Connelly, whose outstanding play at the Kepler made him an academic all-America nominee, enters the Spartan with the club's low average. He has played well all year and has been the most consistent golfer on the team according to O'Sullivan.

"Dick has really performed well," he said, "which is remarkable considering he was hampered by a wrist problem for most of the fall."

Naturally, the rest of the Irish contingent will have to put forth good rounds if they want to keep their title. O'Sullivan coined the team's motivation as pride.

"We are the defending champs, and we owe something to the program and ourselves," he said.

SMC tennis has impressive finish

By ELLEN WILLSON
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's tennis team ended its challenging spring season on a strong note with an 8-1 victory over Hillsdale College at home Tuesday.

"We have improved tremendously this season and we should be a top-notch team next fall," said Head Coach Deb Laverie.

Senior Kim Drahota, at the number-two singles position, ended her college tennis career by defeating Hillsdale's Natalie DeVore, 6-0, 6-2.

In the number-one singles spot, freshman Jennifer Block fell to Hillsdale's Janet Milczarski, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.

In other singles action, Charlene Szajko, Elizabeth Heinz, Sandy Hickey and Jane Schnell all posted straight-set victories.

In doubles, Block and Heinz teamed to defeat Milczarski and DeVore of Hillsdale, 4-6, 6-2, 6-0.

Drahota and Kate McDevitt held out to beat Hillsdale's Susan Weide and Lil Peterson, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4.

The pair of Szajko and Hickey rounded out the team effort with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Jacquin and Hammond of Hillsdale.

Observer announces Krause Award winners

Rivers' courage pays dividends

By RICK RIETBROCK
Assistant Sports Editor

David Rivers finished as the Notre Dame basketball team's second-leading scorer and led the Irish in steals and assists. But his statistics weren't half the story.

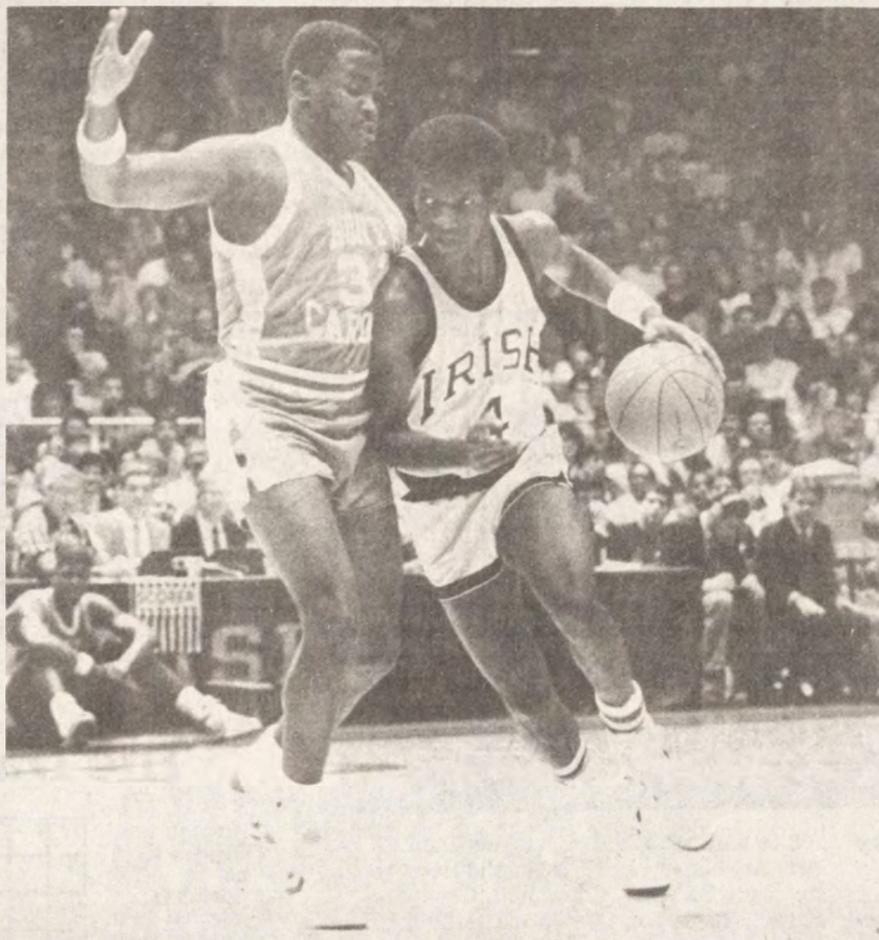

For his courageous comeback and sterling play in the NCAA Tournament, Rivers has been selected by The Observer sports staff as the 1987 recipient of the Edward W. "Moose" Krause Award as the Male Athlete of the Year.

Rivers survived a van accident in August to lead the Irish to a 24-8 record, and the Sweet 16 of the NCAA Tournament. Along the way, Rivers averaged 15.7 points per game, handed out 163 assists and registered 45 steals.

He was an honorable mention all-American and was selected Most Courageous Athlete by the United States Basketball Writers Association.

"I think the season was a successful one," Rivers said. "We accomplished more than a lot of people thought we would. The team was not as talented as the previous year's team, with (Tim) Kempton, (Ken) Barlow and (Jim) Dolan. We realized that and I think we worked harder because we were not as talented."

But much of the season was a

Phelps' squad hits Sweet 16

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

Irish men's basketball head coach Digger Phelps has been named the winner of the first Edward W. "Moose" Krause Award for Notre Dame Coach of the Year by the sports staff of The Observer.

This is the first year that the award, which also goes to the outstanding male and female athletes of the year, also has been given in a coaching category.

Phelps' 16th Irish squad finished with a record of 24-8 and made the NCAA Tournament's Sweet 16. Additionally, the Irish finished 20th in the final Associated Press poll. All this for a team that Phelps said might only finish with 18 wins in the regular season.

"Before the season, I said that there would be two games that would be important," said Phelps. "One was against BYU, and the other was at Utah. I thought we had to win those games and then get into the Tournament on our strength of schedule. I never thought we would win 22 games."

Indeed, the Irish schedule was imposing this season with road dates at Kansas and UCLA, as well as home dates against eventual NCAA champion Indiana, North Carolina, Duke and DePaul - the latter three all in the Record-setting guard Gavin is female athlete of year

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The 1986-87 Notre Dame women's basketball season was one of giving and taking away for junior point guard Mary Gavin, as she established herself as the school's all-time leader in both assists and steals.

In honor of her accomplishments, Gavin has been named this year's winner of the Edward W. "Moose" Krause Award by the sports staff of The Observer. The award is given annually to the outstanding male and female athletes at Notre Dame, and this year a coach's category has been added.

"I'm pretty excited," Gavin said. "I think it's an honor, especially here at Notre Dame. There are a lot of women's sports here, and to be singled out as athlete of the year has to make a person feel pretty happy."

Gavin, a native of North Wildwood, N.J., broke assist and steal records in game, season and career categories.

Her season mark of 214 assists gave her the career record in the same category with 535. She also upped her career steals record to 188 with a new season standard of 80.

In addition to those career and season records, Gavin established new game marks with 17 assists against Marquette and 10 steals in another contest with the Warriors. In the latter-mentioned contest, Gavin also became the first player in Notre Dame history to record a triple-double, with 11 points and 14 assists to accompany the 10 swipes.

Gavin, however, overlooks the personal accomplishments and prefers to focus on the success of the team, which went 12-15 on the season but won its last six games.

"I really don't put too much weight on the records and personal things," Gavin said. "If anything the assists are important because I've always grown up with the idea of passing the ball. People have always told me not to be a selfish player, and I think that's really helped assists with the talent I play with here. I owe a great deal of my success to my teammates.

"We really came together as a team at the end of the season, and I think that momentum will help us out a lot going into next year. If we would have lost some of those games, next season probably would have started off like this last one did. I don't want to speculate, but we've got a full team returning and I think we've got some momentum going our way."

Women's basketball won't be the same

Allow me to set the stage for you. It's a typical day at the Notre Dame basketball offices. Early afternoon. Middle of the week.

Marty Strasen

Assistant Sports Editor

The women's basketball writer for The Observer walks through the front door, past a comfortable reception area and down the hall toward Irish head coach Mary DiStanislaio's office. Usually he makes an appointment, but earlier today yet another player has decided to quit the team and he needs the story soon.

Today he has a problem, however. Coach DiStanislaio is busy with another player at the moment. It might be a while. A personal problem, no doubt, or maybe troubles in a class. It seems the Coach is never finished with that type of thing. If it isn't watching films of the last game or going over some plays, it's counselling a player or solving a personal problem. Well, maybe later for those
