Palestinians bury victims of Israeli raid, vow revenge

Associated Press

SIDON, Lebanon - About 15,000 angry Palestinians vowed revenge Sunday as they buried victims of Israel's deadliest air raid into Lebanon this year.

Police put the final casualty toll at 49 killed and 60 wounded in Saturday's air attack on Palestinian guerrilla bases on Sidon's outskirts. They said eight bodies were recovered from the rubble overnight.

It was the highest toll of Israel's 22 air raids in Lebanon this year and Israel's deadliest attack on Palestinians since the 1982 Israeli invasion of Lebanon.

"We shall avenge our martyrs!" chanted the mourners as the bodies of 40 victims were buried in a mass grave in Sidon's Palestinian refugee camp of Ein El-Hilweh.

Police said two Lebanese victims were buried separately in Sidon, provincial capital of south Lebanon 25 miles south of Beirut.

Officials were arranging the burial of seven other Palestinian victims in the vast Rashidiyeh refugee camp at Lebanon's southern port city of Tyre, police said. The seven came from Rashidiyeh camp, which houses 30,000 people.

Two Israeli gunboats came under fire off Tyre on Sunday.

A Palestine Liberation Organization spokesman said the gunboats shelled the Rashidiyeh camp, but both Lebanese police and U.N.

peace force sources in south Lebanon denied this.

A police spokesman, who cannot be identified under regulations, said Shiite Moslem militia positions fired on the gunboats with heavy machine guns and rocket-propelled grenades "when they came alarmingly close to Rashidiyeh."

The U.N. sources also spoke on condition of anonymity.

All shutters were closed during the funeral procession in the teeming Ein El-Hilweh camp, the biggest in Lebanon with a population of 60,000.

Mourners waved Palestinian and Lebanese flags as they marched ahead of a convoy of 17 ambulances carrying the bodies to the cemetery. They were led by representatives of Yasser Arafat's PLO, Syrian-backed guerrilla groups and the Abu Nidal faction.

In Jerusalem, an Israeli military analyst said the raid was pre-emptive, not retaliatory.

7 dismissed from the Irish Guard

By ERIC M. BERGAMO
Senior Staff Reporter

Seven of the 10 members of the Irish Guard have been dismissed, Director of Bands Luther Snively told the band Friday afternoon.

Snively repeatedly said at the meeting with the marching band, which took place before afternoon practice, that the action was taken by the administration and was not a band matter, according to band members.

Snively referred any further comment to Vice President for Student Affairs Father David Tyson. Repeated attempts to reach Tyson Sunday night were unsuccessful.

"We've been given the opportunity to appeal, and we'll exhaust all the channels available to us," said Irish Guard Captain Mick Connors.

"We're out for the solution that is best for Notre Dame and for the guard," he added.

All seven who were dismissed Friday were returning members from last year's Irish Guard, band members said.

The three new members who had made the squad this year were not dismissed, band members said.

Guard members were also dismissed last November by James Phillips, who was acting director of bands at the time.

Band members said they did not know if the guard members were dismissed because of incidents relating to last year's dismissal or if there had been any recent problems.

Connors talked to the band after practice on Friday to ask for its support. Connors also said the seven dismissed this year were not involved in what transpired last fall, according to band members.

According to band members, Snively told the band that auditions to fill the vacancies would take place this Thursday.

Last November, Phillips dismissed the entire guard, but at that time he said that not all of the Guard members were involved in indiscretions.

U.S. security prepares for pope

Associated Press

Thousands of security officers, bullet-proof shields, dogs, metal detectors, helicopters -- even the Mounties -- will guard Pope John Paul II during his nine-city U.S. tour. The guardians can only hope, however, that the pontiff cooperates.

"One of the major problems is the Holy Father himself," said Deacon Norman Phillips, who is working on security arrangements for the San Francisco Archdiocese. "If he sees somebody on crutches or in a wheelchair there's no telling what he's going to do."

"The pope wants to go out to the people and the people want to go to the pope," said Monsignor Roger Morin, coordinator for the visit in New Orleans.

"You like to dream that things could be otherwise, that there could be a freedom of movement."

John Paul's second extended visit to the United States begins Thursday in Miami. In 10 days he will also visit Columbia, S.C.; New Orleans; San Antonio, Texas; Phoenix, Ariz.; Los Angeles; Monterey, Calif.; San Francisco and Detroit.

In Miami, security forces will have the additional responsibility of protecting President Reagan, who will meet with the pope on Thursday. In Los Angeles, first lady Nancy Reagan will join the pope in visiting a school.

The Secret Service has a $5.7 million appropriation for protecting the pope, and millions more will be expended by state and local police and sheriff's offices along the way.

The security challenge is commensurate with the popularity, and unpopularity, of the bishop of Rome. Tens of thousands of friendly people are anticipated along parade routes and at gigantic Masses in each city, and there will be smaller numbers aggrieved with church positions on women, abortion, birth control, homosexuality and other issues.

All landing areas will be swept for explosives. Manhole covers along all motorcade routes will be secured, and dogs will sniff for bombs at the sites of each day's events. Air traffic will be restricted overhead.

Bomb threat made at Sacred Heart

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI
News Editor

A bomb threat led to the evacuation of Sacred Heart Church Friday morning during a Mass for a priest who committed suicide on Aug. 29.

A call came through the University switchboard at 10:14 a.m. Friday indicating a bomb would go off in the church at 10:32 a.m., according to Notre Dame Director of Security Rex Rakow.

A search of the church after it was evacuated found no bomb, said Rakow.

About 250 people were in the church at the time of the threat. They were celebrating a memorial Mass for Father Niles Rasmussen, who was found dead from a gunshot wound last week.

Father Daniel Jenky, rector of Sacred Heart Church, interrupted the homily to tell the congregation that there had been a bomb threat and that everyone should leave the church immediately, a singer in the choir said.

The congregation, including University President Father Edward Malloy, who was celebrating the Mass, then left the church, said the singer.

Rakow said it is a felony to call in false bomb threats. No arrest has been made in connection with the threat.

Donna Bostwick, 33, of Goshen, died in Elkhart General Hospital of massive head injuries suffered in a two-car accident, according to Elkhart police and the Elkhart County coroner's report. The accident occurred when Bostwick's car struck another car head-on. The driver of the other automobile was treated for minor cuts. - The Observer

Hogs injected with growth hormones become leaner and more muscular, and the meat's taste is not affected by the chemical. The injections are the hottest new idea in swine production, but it will be at least two years before farmers can buy them and other chemical products. Experiments at Purdue showed that hogs, injected with growth hormones, or somatotropin, grow larger muscles and gain less fat. Evidence has not been found that the hormone is found in the meat or will change the taste. - Associated Press

Olliemania is a protest not a folk-hero cult

"America Loves Ollie."

In late July this sentence suddenly sprouted on T-shirts throughout my hometown under a portrait of the man directly responsible for the sale of missiles to Iran and the diversion of profits therefrom to the Contras.

Although an artist from my hometown created this shirt, just several days ago I observed that Col. North also seems to have taken the Golden Dome -- at least part of it. I entered an elevator, and then I saw someone's shirt say "Ollie for Prez."

T-shirts, buttons, demonstrations -- all in favor of a person who was one of the great villains in the public eye only several months earlier. To top it off, millions of viewers saw the spectacle of a joint congressional committee undergo a virtual conversion on national television: a hangman's jury of forbidding Torquemada's on the first day became a group of well-meaning, sympathetic chums by the end of the week who evidently deeply admired North's patriotism. Soon they were coaching him along to spill all he knew about the terrible trauma of deceiving the government as if they were participating in an alcoholics anonymous session.

Why Olliemania? Is it all just a farce? Another fad? I am led to believe it is not.

Syndicated columnists were at loss to explain it: "Hey, wait a minute, didn't we all already decide this North was a bad guy? How could the public be so easily duped? Why can't the common folk be as intelligent as us lofty college-educated columnists and see through this loose cannon?"

Even Newsweek, which must remain relatively tame to keep its large readership, felt obliged to explain what went wrong. It made the classic style-over-substance argument that the hearings were yet another example of "people watching television, as opposed to listening to it," said a Newsweek story.

But what really did go 'wrong'? Is the general public really so obtuse that it didn't listen to what was said in the hearings? Is the average Joe really incapable of telling the difference between a news broadcast and "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington"?

I argue this wasn't the case.

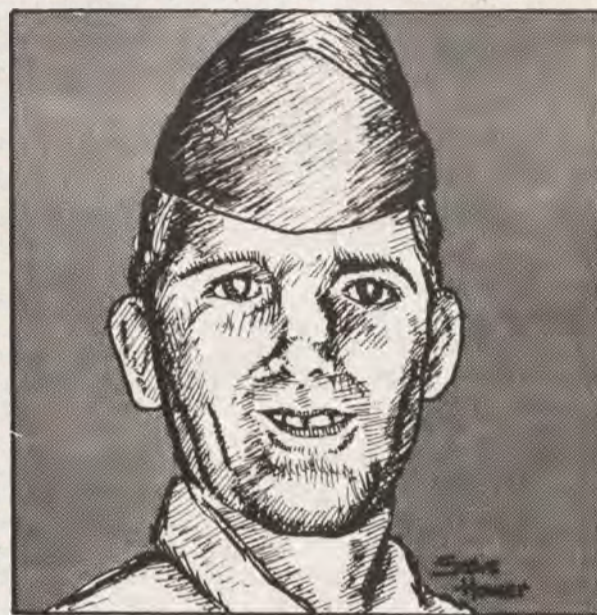

A look at a poll taken by Time shows only 29 percent thought North a hero. Furthermore, although 60 percent said they were sympathetic to North, only 51 percent believed he was totally truthful. How does one reconcile these opinions?

Simple: America really doesn't love Ollie that much.

Was it North's all-American face that every mother loves that made Americans change their minds? I don't think so. Four out of five dentists certainly wouldn't be that impressed by his dental work, he has wrinkles in his forehead and lines on his face, and his nose looks like it could have been broken in a boxing match.

Chris Julka

Assistant News Editor

Was it the macho heroism of North's deed? Let's be serious. The whole Iran-Contra affair looks more like a Gomer Pyle rerun than the act of one of the few and the proud, and polls show that this is the opinion of the majority.

So why all the support for North? The conclusion seems to me inescapable: rather than expressing devotion to a new folk hero, the buttons, posters, and T-shirts actually reveal a profound, grass-roots disgust of the people for the establishment in general.

Sure, we still have one of the highest standards of living in the world. Nevertheless, almost all of the national trends are pointing down.

The $2 trillion national debt, the loss of many of our key industries to East Asia, the comedy of our foreign policy, the upper class's use of Reagan's tax cut to raid corporations rather than to invest, a pork-barreling Congress, an air-headed Supreme Court -- Joe Average Citizen could go on and on.

Add to this the reverse psychology which resulted from the principal media's obvious dislike of North -- from almost exclusive coverage of North's detractors in the AP, to the caricatures, to John Chancellor describing North as "smarting off" to his interrogators -- and you've explained the entire phenomenon of North apparently being canonized by the public as a folk hero.

Am I suggesting the North hearings were an American equivalent of the Dreyfus case? No. I am only saying that rather than just a gag or inexplicable fad, Olliemania may actually be a very thinly veiled grass roots protest.

U.S.S.R. prints AIDS brochures

Associated Press

MOSCOW - The Soviet Health Ministry has produced 5 million brochures warning about the spread of the deadly AIDS virus and has begun distributing them in the capital.

The information campaign, begun over the weekend, shows the increasing seriousness with which the government is tackling AIDS, or acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

A year ago the state-run Soviet news media described AIDS as a scourge resulting from the decadent behavior of Westerners. The Soviet press also said the virus was the product of secret germ warfare research in the United States.

The new Health Ministry brochure, entitled "What You Need To Know About AIDS," takes a direct and non-political approach to explaining the virus -- how it can be contracted and how to avoid exposure.

The Russian-language pamphlet so far has been delivered only to two compounds for foreigners. But the number of brochures printed suggests the ministry intends to eventually deliver them to every household in Moscow, a city of 9 million.

According to the circulation figure printed on the back of the pamphlet, 5 million were produced.

Soviet citizens living near the foreigners' compounds said they did not receive a brochure in weekend mail deliveries.

Threats to public health, such as the annual influenza epidemics that sweep Moscow, are usually addressed in newspaper articles and on bulletin boards of clinics and hospitals.

But a health warning as detailed and mass-produced as the AIDS brochure was believed to be unprecedented.

AIDS is a fatal disease in which a virus attacks the body's immune system, leaving victims susceptible to a wide variety of infections and cancers. It is most often transmitted through sexual contact. Sharing of contaminated hypodermic needles or syringes by intravenous drug abusers is another major means of transmission.

No cure for AIDS is known. The brochure says those facing the highest risk of contracting AIDS are male homosexuals, and warns Soviets that "the more sexual partners you have, the higher your risk of contraction."

Homosexual contact is a crime in the Soviet Union, punishable by up to five years in a corrective labor camp.

The Soviet government issued a decree Aug. 25 that authorizes forced testing of anyone in the Soviet Union when "there are grounds for assuming that they are infected with the AIDS virus."

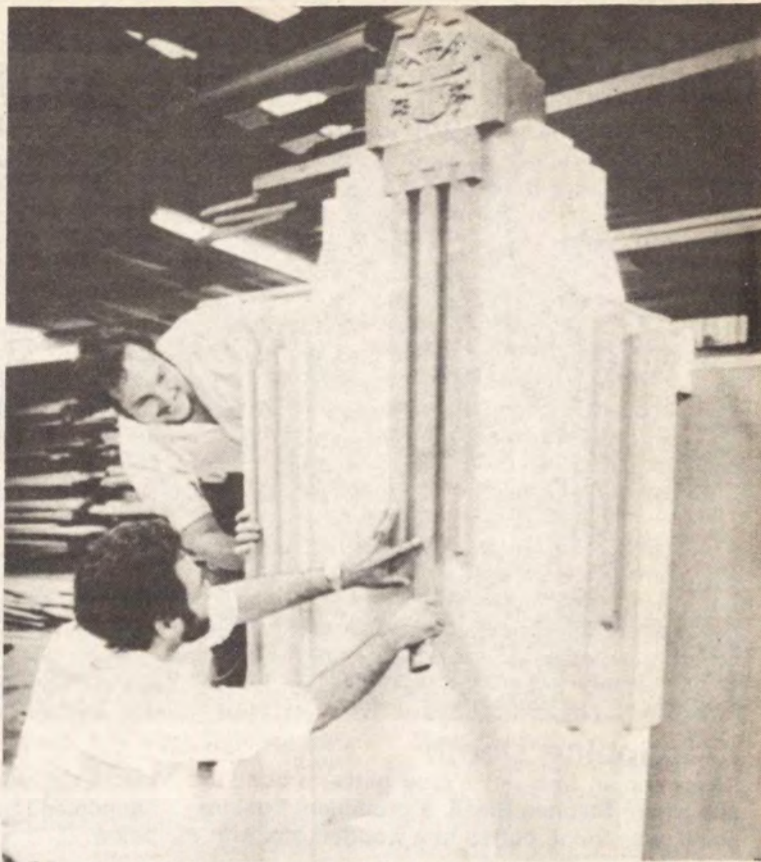

The decree set penalties for those who knowingly expose others to the virus.

"Deliberate exposure of another person to the danger of being infected with AIDS shall be punished with up to five years in prison," the decree said.

The prison term can be as much as eight years if a known AIDS carrier infects another person.

The Health Ministry brochure cited an analysis of thousands of AIDS cases registered internationally since 1981. That report said 77 percent of AIDS carriers were men who were homosexual, bisexual or sexually promiscuous.

An additional 15 percent were intravenous drug users, the brochure said, and 1 percent contracted the virus during blood transfusions. Children born to AIDS-infected mothers accounted for 1 percent and the remainder was listed in the brochure as "source of infection unclear."

Iran accuses U.S.; Mine sweepers sent

Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain - Iran said Sunday the United States pressured Kuwait into ordering five Iranian diplomats expelled. Six U.S. mine sweepers meanwhile steamed toward the Persian Gulf to help protect reflagged Kuwaiti tankers.

Vernon Walters, U.S. envoy to the United Nations, said Iran -- "if anybody there is thinking logically at all" -- would accept a cease-fire when U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar travels to the region this week.

In another development, Iran announced it was releasing 100 Iraqi prisoners of war and proposed that both sides release certain prisoners held for more than five years in the 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war.

Kuwait on Saturday ordered the five Iranians to leave the country within a week and complained that Iran fired a missile at the Kuwaiti coast on Friday. Iran considers Kuwait an ally of Iraq. Kuwait says it is neutral.

Iran's prime minister, Hussein Musavi, said Kuwait was too weak to expel the five on its own and was only obeying "that which is dictated upon it by other governments," according to Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, monitored in Cyprus.

"Persian Gulf governments are permanent neighbors which should care more about good relations with each other than relations with the United States," Musavi was quoted as saying.

U.S. warships began July 21 to escort 11 Kuwaiti tankers through the gulf.

The U.S. mine sweepers Estem, Conquest and Enhance left Hawaii Saturday morning, and the mine sweepers Inflict, Fearless and Illusive left Virginia on Sunday, U.S. military officials said in Washington.

Until now, mine sweeping operations in the gulf have been carried out by helicopters based aboard the U.S. assault carrier Guadalcanal.

The six mine sweepers are 170-foot MSO-class ships with wooden hulls. All ships of that class in the Navy's inventory were built in the 1950s and 1960s.

During the first convoy of U.S. warships and reflagged Kuwaiti tankers through the gulf July 24, the tanker Bridgeton was damaged when it hit a mine.

Kuwait on Saturday told Perez de Cuellar that Iran was guilty of hostile acts that merited U.N. action.

It pointed to the missile attack Friday and an earlier Iranian attack on a Kuwaiti freighter in the gulf. It said it was withholding other grievances to avoid complicating the U.N. leader's efforts to bring about a cease-fire.

GO FROM COLLEGE TO THE ARMY WITHOUT MISSING A BEAT.

The hardest thing about breaking into professional music is -- well, breaking into professional music. So if you're looking for an opportunity to turn your musical talent into a full-time performing career, take a good look at the Army.

It's not all parades and John Philip Sousa. Army bands rock, waltz and boogie as well as march, and they perform before concert audiences as well as spectators. With an average of 40 performances a month, there's also the opportunity for travel -- not only across America, but possibly abroad.

Most important, you can expect a first-rate professional environment from your instructors, facilities and fellow musicians. The Army has educational programs that can help you pay for off-duty instruction, and if you qualify, even help you repay your federally-insured student loans. If you can sight-read music, performing in the Army could be your big break. Write: Chief, Army Bands Office, Fort Benjamin Harrison, IN 46216-5005. Or call toll free 1-800-USA-ARMY.

Kidnapping Death

Police and an ambulance crew gather around the site where Stephen Small, a prominent businessman, was found buried in a wooden box with a makeshift ventilation system. Small was kidnapped and held for $1 million ransom. See story below.

Unclear tapes botch kidnapping

Associated Press

KANKAKEE, Ill. - The family of a kidnapped man who died after he was buried alive was "ready and willing" to pay a $1 million ransom, but couldn't make the delivery because the abductors' tape-recorded instructions were unclear, police said Sunday.

The kidnappers "botched it themselves," said Police Chief Timothy O. Nugent. "Maybe they didn't have enough tapes."

The body of Stephen B. Small, 39, member of a prominent media family, was found late Friday in a wooden box buried in sand southeast of Kankakee, about 60 miles south of Chicago.

Police said Small was kidnapped Wednesday when his abductors lured him to a building he was renovating. He was buried alive and provided with air through a plastic pipe, water in a jug and light powered by two car batteries.

After conducting a preliminary autopsy, Kankakee County Coroner James Orrison said Sunday he believes Small lived no more than a few hours after he was put in the box, measuring 3 feet wide, 3 feet high and 6 feet long.

Orrison said he thinks Small suffocated, but autopsy results were inconclusive and laboratory results were expected within three weeks.

Three people have been arrested in the case and police were searching Sunday for at least two more suspects.

The arrested suspects were identified as Daniel Edwards, 30, and Nancy Rish, 26, both of nearby Bourbonnais, and Kent Allain, 33, of Kankakee.

Needy students are 'largely bypassed'

Associated Press

NEW YORK - School reform has largely bypassed the three students in 10 who are considered disadvantaged, according to a panel of American business leaders who urge policymakers to bolster programs aimed at the very youngest children.

Reform efforts have yielded "little or no improvement in the dropout rate in the past few years," concluded a study sponsored by the Committee for Economic Development, a nonprofit organization whose trustees are mostly business executives and university presidents.

One million pupils will continue to drop out each year and another 700,000 will graduate lacking job skills unless fully-funded programs are established to help disadvantaged youths meet strict standards imposed by school reform, the report said.

The report, "Children In Need: Investment Strategies for the Educationally Disadvantaged," was done by a 15-member panel chaired by retired Procter & Gamble Chairman Owen B. Butler, who was to discuss it at a Tuesday news conference in Washington.

"Effective solutions for the educationally disadvantaged must reach beyond the bounds of traditional schooling," Butler said in an interview.

The report marked the second recent attempt by business leaders to summon fellow corporate executives into the fray of school reform. In 1985, a CED report, "Investing In Our Children," said schools were failing to stress the "invisible curriculum" of teamwork, honesty, and reliability essential to career success.

The new report called for more dollars for "proven programs" such as Head Start and remedial reading and math programs, calling such spending "a superior investment."

It said quality preschool programs for the disadvantaged such as Head Start yield a $4.75 return for every $1 spent, mainly through eventual savings in special education, welfare and crime control costs. Yet only 20 percent of those eligible are currently enrolled in Head Start.

Of the $264 billion spent nationwide on education last year, only about $1 billion was spent on educating children aged 5 and under, the report noted.

It argued that full funding for those and other programs with proven track records makes sense because the annual crop of school dropouts costs the nation an eventual $240 billion in lost earnings and foregone taxes.

If present trends continue, the report warned, "U.S. industry could be short 23 million Americans willing and able to work in a more complex, high tech environment."

Good Grief.

Weather helps firefighters

Associated Press

Crews battling forest fires that have charred an estimated 980 square miles in the West got help Sunday from calm, cooler weather.

Some fires in remote areas were being allowed to burn, partly because of a shortage of trained firefighters. No damage estimate was available yet for California, but Oregon officials estimated statewide damage at $318 million, mostly in timber loss.

In addition to prime timber, officials said the blazes also were destroying illegal marijuana crops hidden in the forests.

"We've basically used up all the firefighting resources in the nation," Jim Torrence, regional forester for the U.S. Forest Service, said at a news conference Sunday in Oregon.

The total burned area in California grew to more than 475,000 acres since Aug. 28, and 107,000 acres have gone up in smoke in Oregon. About 35,000 acres have burned in Idaho, and smaller fires were reported last week in Washington, Arizona, Montana, South Dakota and Wyoming, bringing the total acreage to about 629,000.

The burned area is only 72 square miles smaller than the state of Rhode Island.

Fires in California and Oregon were being fought by 22,000 firefighters, up 2,000 from Saturday, according to the Boise Interagency Fire Center in Idaho, which coordinates state and federal crews. It said they were fighting 1,844 fires, down from Saturday's 1,877.

Sunday was the third straight day of favorable weather in California, and crews were making headway against the state's worst blazes, including the 119,000-acre Paper Complex fire in the Stanislaus National Forest just west of Yosemite National Park, a spokeswoman said. Officials said it no longer threatened the Merced Grove of rare sequoia redwoods in the park.

"We're around the corner," said LoVae Pray Martines, an information officer for the California Department of Forestry. "We're beginning to get containment on our top five or six priority fires."

She said the Paper Complex fire had destroyed enough timber to build 10,000 three-bedroom houses.

One firefighter was killed Saturday and nine others were injured, none seriously, when a four-foot-diameter tree fell on their truck in Six Rivers National Forest about 200 miles north of San Francisco. The tree was in a fire area but was not burned or dead, Martines said. He was the second firefighter to die since Aug. 28.

Fire officials said an intense effort to prevent the huge Paper Complex blaze, about 150 miles southeast of San Francisco, from spreading into towns east of Sonora was paying off, with the fire 20 percent contained Sunday.

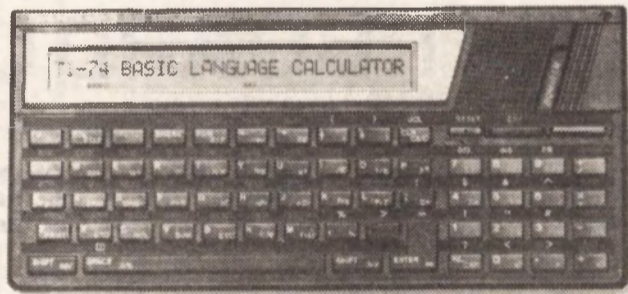

Thirteen isolated homes and 17 barns and sheds had been destroyed in the fire in Tuolumne County, said Forest Service spokesman Dick Wisheart.

Siamese twins separated

Associated Press

BALTIMORE - Physicians who participated in a 22-hour operation to separate 7-month-old West German Siamese twins said Sunday that they would consider the surgery a success when the infants leave the hospital.

"We will prefer to say that the operation was a success if the twins can return home healthy," said surgery coordinator Dr. Mark Rogers, director of pediatric intensive care at John Hopkins Hospital.

Doctors declined to predict the chances of survival for Patrick and Benjamin Binder, who were joined at the back of the head before the operation that began at 7 a.m. Saturday and ended at 5:10 a.m. Sunday.

"We take tremendous amount of pride in giving the Binder twins the best chance they could have," Rogers said a media briefing that included some of 70 specialists involved in the operation.

The twins' parents, Josef and Theresia Binder of Ulm, West Germany, were not at the news conference and were unavailable for interviews or photographs, said Lisa Hillman, spokeswoman for the hospital's Children's Center, where the operation was performed.

"Like any other parents, they were greatly relieved,"

Rogers said of the parents, adding that the twins were expected to remain at the hospital for several weeks.

The biggest risk after such an operation is the formation of a blood clot in the newly constructed blood vessels, as well as intracranial bleeding and heart complications, physicians said. The critical period is the first three to four days after the surgery, they said.

"At the end of the 22-hour operation, the twins -- Patrick and Benjamin Binder -- who are now two separate boys, were in critical but stable condition," Ms. Hillman said earlier.

Doctors, using dolls and diagrams, demonstrated the complex techniques used in the delicate operation.

While Patrick and Benjamin had separate brains, they shared a common vein in the back of the head that doctors had to separate.

The biggest concern was preventing serious blood loss and brain damage during the time doctors stopped the twins' hearts while they separated them, constructed new sinuses and re-established the blood flow, Rogers said.

"We knew we were under pressure to accomplish all this in less than an hour since any longer would increase the risk of brain damage and other organ damage," said Dr. Ben Carson.

An estimated 60 units of blood were used in the operation, which ended with doctors covering the brains of both twins.

It was only the second attempted separation of Siamese twins in Hopkins' 98-year history. Five years ago, doctors successfully separated twin girls born to a Delaware couple.

Siamese twins occur in about 1 per 2 million to 2.5 million births, and the survival rate of twins who have been separated are normally no greater than 50 percent, Carson said.

Information about the Binder twins and their family has been difficult to obtain because a West German magazine, Bunte, paid the parents of the twins an undisclosed amount of money for exclusive rights to their story.

Reagan praises Landon as exemplary American

Associated Press

TOPEKA, Kan. - President Reagan on Sunday saluted Republican Party elder statesman Alf Landon as personifying the "quiet strength and simple decency" of Americans.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, stopping in Topeka en route back to Washington, took part in an early birthday party for Landon, who turns 100 on Wednesday.

"I can't resist saying, 'You don't know what a joy it is for a fellow like me to go to a birthday party for someone who in all honesty can call me kid,'" said Reagan, 76.

Landon, who suffered the most lopsided electoral college loss in the history of American presidential elections, told the first couple, "It's a great day in my life, and it's a great day in the life of all of us, just to have had the privilege we have had today, to meet the president of the United States and Mrs. Reagan."

Reagan quipped that when he last saw Landon, the former Kansas Republican kidded him about whether Reagan would make it to 100.

"He looked me up and down ... and said, 'I think you can make it,'" Reagan quoted Landon as telling him.

The Reagans visited privately with Landon and his family before the Republican president and the would-be Republican president of 51 years earlier appeared together before reporters.

Reagan later watched admiringly as Landon's family and friends sang "Happy Birthday."

Not all banks created equal: Survey reveals which are best

By BRIAN MURRAY
Business Writer

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students now have two alternatives to banking at the Notre Dame Credit Union.

St. Joseph Bank just opened a branch in the basement of La Fortune, and First Source Bank has had a branch in Hagar at Saint Mary's. Let's evaluate the services each bank offers.

Checking Accounts: Both St. Joseph Bank and First Source offer free checking with no minimum balance requirements. St. Josephs Bank also offers free one-line checks. The Credit Union requires a minimum balance of $5, and charges a fee when your account falls below $500. Both the Credit Union and First Source charge you for your checks.

Savings accounts: First Source and Saint Josephs banks both offer five percent interest on savings accounts. First Source has a $1 per month charge for balances below $100. Saint Joe has no minimum charges and pays 5.25 percent on balances above $500. The Notre Dame Credit Union pays 5.25 percent on savings with a minimum balance of $100.

For those under 21 years of age, First Source offers checking and savings without any minimum charges, and gives six percent interest on savings. First Source calls this offer a Financial Independence account, and it is supposed to help students in their transition to adulthood. The only catch is a $25 start-up fee. This fee, however, can be reduced to $20 if you are referred to First Source by one of their customers. Another $5 can be saved through a First Source coupon.

Which bank allows the consumer to come out ahead? Suppose a student has $1,000 at the beginning of the year, withdraws money evenly over the course of the year, and keeps as much as possible in the savings account.

After deducting various fees and penalties, St. Joseph's comes out ahead with $19.93 made through interest. Next is First Source which will earn for him $18.16. Finally, the Notre Dame Credit Union gives him $1.83.

If you want to get the most for your hard earned money, the choice is obvious.

The market is finally caving in to women's demands. Walter Hibbs, inventor, has designed a toilet seat closer. The automatic Seat-Down is made of a hydraulic cylinder and piston rod that is inserted between the seat bottom and floor. The Seat-Down user can set the device to close after staying up for up to three and a half minutes.

Say goodbye to ironing. Alan Rypinski has invented a spray product that actually takes wrinkles out of a shirt. The founder of Very Incredible Products, Inc., claims that all one must do is spray "Wrinkle Free" on a shirt and then smooth out the wrinkles with your hand. The product also removes odors and static cling. A three ounce can costs about $5 and will cover about twenty shirts.

Avoiding state sales tax when purchasing by catalog or television is now an endangered practice. Representative Byron Dorgan (D-ND) is sponsoring a bill that would require catalog houses and shopping networks to collect sales tax on out-of-state purchases. The forty five states that have a sales tax will benefit from approximately $1.5 billion in generated tax revenue. Prices for products from catalogs or shopping networks will increase an average of 5 percent.

The owner of a local video franchise, Bob Craig, won a trip to Japan and visited the production facilities of Matsushita. There he witnessed the production of blank video tapes. A large, thick roll of magnetic tape was cut and fed into various tape cases. These cases were then labeled Quazar, Panasonic, Magnavox, TDK, and Kodak. Blank tapes run from $3.99 for Kodak tapes at Target to $7 for Quazar tapes at a video store. The price difference is simply the cost of perceived quality.

Dow falls 38.11 points; Fed ups discount rate

By STEVE CLAEYS
Business Editor

Action by the Federal Reserve and investor pessimism caused the Dow Industrial Index to fall 38.11 point on Friday.

Friday's decline resulted in a drop of 77.97 points for the week. This was the largest weekly decline this year for the Dow.

One contributor to Wall Street's worries was the announcement by the Federal Reserve that the discount rate was raised from 5.5 percent to 6 percent. This increase was effective immediately.

The discount rate is the interest rate paid by banks when they borrow money from the Federal Reserve.

Responding to the rate hike, the prime rate of the major banks climbed from 8.25 percent to 8.75 percent.

Some observers suggested that raising the discount rate was a premature action by rookie Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan. Greenspan possibly raised the rate to establish his control of the Federal Reserve.

There has been doubt over whether he will be able to fill the shoes of former Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volker.

Another contributing factor to the Dow's fall is investor worry about the trade figures scheduled to be released this Friday. Another increase in the trade deficit will weaken faith in the Reagan administration's trade policy and the economy.

Interactions with security need trust

There are certain things I believe most people have difficulty accepting. Some of these are injustice, violence, disrespect and lack of consideration for others. I find it distressing when I find these around me, and particularly when it happens at home. In this case, home is Notre Dame.

Victor J. Krebs

guest column

In the past few weeks, I have become aware of a very unsettling situation on campus, and I hope that what I have to say may help to change it. I am referring specifically to the relations between Security and the student body.

During this past summer a friend of mine living on campus asked me to help him move from his room. This was my first exposure to what is (as he told me) a common problem accepted by most students as a given and unchangeable fact on campus. As anyone who lives on campus knows, access by car to the university is very restricted. And of course there are very good reasons for that. The regular procedure is to check in at the gate and request permission from the security guards on duty. I must say that in my prior experience I had never had any problem with this procedure. I never had any problems getting past the gate whenever I had good reason for it. But on this particular occasion I was shocked by the rude manner in which we were received by the guard on duty. Having no reason to feel guilty, we were made to feel very uncomfortable by his attitude. Not only did he not let us in, but he called the other gate, where we headed hoping to meet a far more reasonable person, to "warn" them about our possibly coming. We were received literally as criminal offenders; without a chance to explain our case, we were ordered to leave the premises and not to come close to the gates again.

At this point my surprise had turned to outrage and frustration at our inability to reach any reasonable person to explain what we needed. We were forced to leave the car and walk to the security office where we requested permission to enter campus. We finally did get in, after wasting a lot of time, but, what's worst of all, after we had been subjected to a most humiliating and totally unnecessary trial.

Time passed and I forgot the incident.

I thought to myself this must have been a bad fluke, that it couldn't happen again. But I have had a chance to talk to other undergraduates and to hear unbelievable stories of abuse of authority and simply unnecessary ill-treatment of students. I resisted to believe against all this evidence; after all, security officers are there to protect our interests, they are reasonable individuals performing a difficult task, and they deserve all our cooperation and support. I still want to believe that, and there would be nothing that could make me happier than to see that it is true. We are a community here at Notre Dame, where values of respect, consideration, justice and fairness, and most of all love for each other, are our ideals.

But, recently, I experienced another incident reminiscent of that summer nightmare. Against this evidence I cannot believe what I want to believe. The evidence has turned against me, and I am forced to admit what I had heard from many others: there is a problem in the attitude of SOME security guards (and I would like to emphasize that qualification) towards students.

I was walking towards Sacred Heart this morning, trying to relax between classes. As I approached Sorin Hall I saw a member of Notre Dame Security waving his arms at me, telling me to move out of the way. I walked towards him and told him I was headed to the lakes. I think he might have taken that, mistakenly I might add, as a challenge of his authority. It was not meant to be that. When I asked him what was going on, he answered with an unfriendly push and the demand that I get out of the way. I do not mention the person's name, although I did take note of it, because these lines are not an attempt at retribution. They are written in the spirit of reconciliation; I am concerned about the problem incidents like these indicate.

I am not the kind of person that shies away from body contact. But I am very sensitive to violence, and there was violence in this response. I hate to have to say this because I respect authority and I recognize the vital role our security guards play in our community. I have met many other members of the Security squad that I am pleased to say have always been courteous and respectful, helpful and pleasant people to interact with, and this, I should add, when I was dressed both as a teacher and as a student (as was the case this morning).

But in this case I sensed ungrounded hostility, and this must be changed.

Students are responsible individuals, and they should be treated as such. It should be a basic premise in the relations between security and students that they are friends, not foes; that there is a community of which we all form part, and that its harmonious existence depends on mutual respect and understanding. There are, of course, cases where students make mistakes, and they act like less than they are supposed to and should be expected to act. But those should be seen as the exceptions and never as the rule. Perhaps we are in part to blame for this attitude in some security guards; but that is no justification for it.

In criminal justice the individual is considered innocent until proven guilty. I think that the force of this principle derives from the fact that in our commerce with other human beings trust is the only natural way to go. If this principle is sound, shouldn't it ground also the relations between students and security officers? I ask this rhetorically, of course. The answer is very clear. I hope my words help in some measure to bring things back to where they should be, for the well-being of our community.

Campus education about AIDS lacking

Dear Editor:

I am enraged and appalled at the lack of information and educational material about Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS) available to students, graduate students, faculty and personnel here at Notre Dame. AIDS is an issue that affects every single person at this university. Many people are obviously in need of education about this serious health threat, but I have yet to see anything regarding AIDS come from the administration or the Student Health Center. Where are the educational pamphlets? Where is the counseling? What is the administration's policy regarding anyone associated with the university who contracts AIDS? Will the university admit or hire someone who has contracted AIDS, or will we be fired, expelled, excommunicated, or what have you?

While the administration hems and haws over how to bring such a subject into this community, all people who have not been educated about AIDS are at a serious risk. How can the university justify sentencing so many people ignorant of AIDS to this serious health threat? Assuming that no one at Notre Dame engages in pre-marital sex, extra-marital sex, or I.V. drug use, isn't the fact that our nation's blood supply is partially contaminated with the AIDS virus enough of a sign to the university that we at Notre Dame all need to be educated about it?

Ryan White, the boy from Kokomo, Indiana, who contracted AIDS through contaminated blood used for his hemophilia, is a clear-cut case for the dissemination of information about AIDS to the Notre Dame community. What would have happened to Ryan if he had been an undergraduate student at Notre Dame? Would he have been abused, harassed and kept out of school like Ryan was? Is this the kind of behavior we will see when the AIDS issue finally reaches the Notre Dame community? Extensive information and educational programs for us all will prevent such un-Christian and disgraceful actions.

We as a community can no longer be afraid to confront the issue of AIDS head on. Sure, it's hard to talk about, and of course many people are afraid of the disease. But we should grab this bull by the horns before it gets out of control. This community cannot afford to keep its collective head in the sand as the world around us braces for the impending health disaster that AIDS is presenting. We as a Christian Catholic institution should be at the front of the assault to protect ourselves, those around us, and our basic human and civil rights. Surely the Catholic community cannot condone ignorance, which breeds hysteria.

Office puts students in their place

accent writer

Football games, classes, dining hall meals, studying parties, extracurricular activities—all of these fill our time at Notre Dame and make our college experience something we'll always remember. Yet in addition to these activities, something else lingers in the back of our minds during our four years here: What will we do when we graduate?

But don't panic. A busy office in the basement of the Hesburgh Library can help answer these difficult questions. Career and Placement Services, open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays, aids students in assessing their skills and interests, learning about careers toward which their majors can lead, and conducting job searches. The office arranges career counseling, special programs, and senior on-campus interviews—all of which assist students in planning and implementing career goals.

Under the direction of Kitty Arnold, Paul Reynolds, and Jeff Rice, the office of Career and Placement Services offers a number of opportunities for students to receive guidance in career planning:

DISCOVER. DISCOVER allows students to conduct a self-assessment of their values, interests, and skills on a computer and responds with a list of careers that correspond with their qualities. Call the office (239-5200) to arrange a time to work on the DISCOVER evaluation.

Career Counseling. Career and Placement Services has five professional staff members available to counsel students about their career concerns and questions. Students do not have to be seniors to talk with a counselor, but should call the office first to make an appointment.

Group Workshops and Presentations. Throughout the school year a number of workshops are offered on resume writing, interviewing, conducting mail campaigns, and making job decisions.

Career Library. Located in the Career and Placement Services office, the Career Library has many books on life planning, self-assessment, and job searching skills. It also has pamphlets from about 500 employers.

On-Campus Interviews. Last year 275 business and government organizations came to Notre Dame to interview

The Observer/Damian Chin

Kitty Arnold, director of Career and Placement Services.

seniors for jobs. Just less than 9000 interviews were arranged by Career and Placement Services. The Weekly Bulletin, available in the office, lists the companies with which seniors can interview in the following weeks. Computers decide which students will be interviewed by the companies. Such factors as the student's date of graduation, whether the specific company is of high priority to the student, and how many interviews the student has already had are all taken into consideration before the computerized decision is made. Seniors must be registered in the office to be considered for on-campus interviews.

In addition to these services, the office has videotaped mock interviews, information on summer jobs, internships, and non-profit service organizations, and up-to-date listings of job vacancies. The office sponsors employer receptions, during which employers talk to students about available jobs, and junior orientation sessions in the spring about filling out profile forms before summer.

Upcoming programs put on by Career and Placement Services include the following:

Placement Nights. The September "kickoff" to the recruiting season has one session left, for the College of Arts and Letters, on Tuesday, September 8 at 7:00 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium. The session will include three 15-minute talks from different company representatives and a live, on-stage interview.

Industry Day. On September 30 thirty corporation representatives will provide information for engineering students in the Fitzpatrick Hall Concourse from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Arts and Letters Career Day. On October 7 career representatives will be available to talk to students with backgrounds in the Liberal Arts from 12:00 noon to 4:00 p.m. in the Center for Continuing Education.

Law School Caravan. Various law schools will be represented in Stepan Center from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

MBA Mini Forum. On October 29 representatives from graduate schools of business will answer questions in the CCE from noon to 4 p.m.

"Seniors should now have a fairly clear picture of what they want to do," says Jeff Rice, assistant director of Career and Placement Services, "but they shouldn't panic if they don't." His key advice to seniors is "to know the job you've applied for and take every opportunity to learn more." A successful interview has a lot to do with how much a student knows about the potential employer.

Seniors should be registered in the Career and Placement Services office, have an up-dated profile on file, and check for coming interviewers.

The office of Career and Placement Services is called a service for a reason: its employees and facilities are there to help you make a smoother transition from college to the start of a new career.

Before and after in this week's soaps

All My Children: Skye and Tom marched out when Adam interrupted their reception to announce his engagement to Brooke. After Ellen tricked Natalie into admitting she and Ross were lovers, she left her husband. Constance told Damon that their plans against Erica were on track. Palmer blew up when Nina announced she had married Matt. Coming: A terrifying prospect for Mark.

Another World: Donna, concerned about Vicki's mood, bought her a new car. Cass agreed to use Kathleen's insurance money to set up a foundation in her name. Mac chewed out Cass over a legal matter he mishandled. Rachel warned Sam to stop making waves in the art department. Coming: Peter escalates his attack.

As The World Turns: Sabrina was encouraged when Seth didn't report their embrace to Frannie. Margo was dismayed to hear Tom warn Hal that he would fight for her. Duncan correctly figured out that James was setting him up as the Falcon, as Stenbeck drew Lucinda and Emily tightly into his web. Coming: More trouble for Holden.

The Bold and The Beautiful: Rocco and Conna were stricken to learn that Katie saw their kiss. Mark became jealous, because Donna had taken money from Rocco. Thorne and Storm offered comfort to Caroline, who finally realized that she didn't provoke the rape. Eric raged when Stephanie told him about Bill's plans for Thorne. Coming: Bill thirsts for vengeance.

Days Of Our Lives: Roman and Lexie rescued Jennifer and Frankie from Nick. Kim was rushed to the hospital with pneumonia. Shane was tracked down in time to convince his wife to take lifesaving drugs. Eve relished taking care of Shane and the baby without Kim. Adrienne confided her rape agony to Justin, who responded lovingly. Kayla was devastated by Patch's badmouthing and upset when Jack proposed. Coming: Eve rules the roost.

General Hospital: Bobbie was shocked when Martha became sicker. Leaving Monica in the dark, Alan and Edward made plans for their regained millions. Aware of Lucy's manipulations, Tony was still tormented by his desire for her. Duke followed Robert and Anna to Mt. Rushmore and found out that Ms. Devane loved him. The WSB team tried to discover Elena's secret before her destructive scheme could succeed. Coming: The free world in danger!! Guiding Light: Reva turned to Alan for help when issued a summons to have Marah tested, but was stopped by Alex. Josh made plans to join Billy in Venezuela. Alan gave Phillip papers that severed their relationship. Cam made a deal with Alan-Michael to pay his tuition. Meredith helped Rick diagnose a case of cancer. Roxy discovered a swelling on Johnny's neck. Coming: New trials for Roxy.

Loving: Alan told April his brother had gotten her pregnant. Clay stunned Ava with a marriage proposal, which she accepted. Harry gave Ann an engagement ring, thus spurning Gwyn. Cabot gave Trisha and Steve their dream house for a wedding gift. Lily and Jack had a tryst in his office and narrowly escaped discovery by Ann. Coming: Jack insists it's over.

One Life to Live: Gabrielle moved into the Lord mansion to take care of Al, and she agreed to spy on Tina for Cord. Cord was stunned to learn of his mother's blackmail, but couldn't pry the reason out of Tina. Lee told Mari-Lynn her side of the story. Patrick injected his deadly serum into Kate's perfume. In order to secure Melinda's release from the hospital, Cassie agreed to sponsor her aunt, and Larry reluctantly said he'd be her doctor. Coming: Cord's suspicions mount.

Ryan's Hope: Against Rick's wishes, Ryan met with Catie, who told her Humphrey died. A panicked Ryan was trapped in a restricted area. Ryan miscarried in the hospital, and Rick blamed her. Lizzie returned her wedding dress to Maeve and made one more attempt to listen to John before finding him with Concetta. Ben vowed to win Lizzie as Jack comforted Ryan. Coming: Old wounds resurface.

Santa Barbara: After the charges against Tori were dropped, Paul planned to steal Tori's and Julia's babies. C.C. got a court order keeping Gina from seeing Brandon. Cain regained more of his memory. Eden's disability kept her from responding to Cruz, though she wanted to. Pearl discovered a bugging device Eleanor put in Cruz's telephone. Jake began his modeling career. Mason called C.C., but the line immediately went dead. Coming: Keeping tabs on Eleanor.

The Young & The Restless: Lauren double dated with Paul and Dana, and realized she and Paul had grown apart. Paul assured a surprised Dana he wanted to see her again. Victor gave Nikki a taste of her own medicine, while Nikki considered telling her husband the truth. Victor acknowledged Ashley's growing feelings for Steven. Phillip confessed to driving the car, which saved Cricket's job. Cricket, Kay and Jill all vowed to help Phillip beat his alcoholism. Coming: Phillip faces the future.

College football roundup OU, Nebraska romp in openers

Associated Press

The scene is repeated every year. Oklahoma and Nebraska roll over outclassed opponents and Barry Switzer and Tom Osborne moan and groan.

In fact, that was the way it went for most of the nation's top-rated college football teams, who began their schedules against teams with little chance to beat them. Only sixth-ranked Louisiana State and No. 10 Miami played ranked opponents, the Tigers defeating No. 15 Texas A&M 17-3 and the Hurricanes beating Florida 31-4 in a game in which Florida quarterback Kerwin Bell injured his shoulder.

Top-ranked Oklahoma ran over North Texas State 69-14 and No. 2 Nebraska beat Utah State 56-12, getting ready for a game next Saturday with third-ranked UCLA, which battered San Diego State 47-14.

No. 5 Auburn beat Texas 31-3; No. 8 Florida State downed Texas Tech 40-16 and No. 9 Clemson defeated Western Carolina 43-0.

No. 11 Penn State began defense of its national title with a 45-19 romp over Bowling Green, No. 13 Washington beat Stanford 31-21, No. 17 Tennessee beat Colorado State 49-3, and Georgia, tied with Florida at No. 20, beat Virginia 30-22.

The lopsided wins didn't keep the coaches from moaning.

"The thing that disappointed me was the physical errors we made," Switzer said after the Sooners lost two of six fumbles and were penalized 10 times for 75 yards. "You only have about 12 possessions in a football game," he said. "Against a good football team we'll get beat."

Nebraska rolled up 603 yards in total offense, including 157 rushing yards by Steve Taylor, a school record for a quarterback. Keith Jones ran for three touchdowns and Taylor rushed for two.

But Osborne wasn't ecstatic.

"I chewed them out at halftime," he said. "I didn't think we played very well. At the end of the game, I thought we had played fair. But we better get better with it or we're going to have an awful hard time next week."

UCLA 47, SD State 14

Gaston Green rushed for 135 yards on 19 carries and quarterback Troy Aikman, a transfer from Oklahoma making his first start for UCLA, completed eight of 10 passes for 67 yards as the crushed the defending Western Athletic Conference champions.

UCLA went ahead just 5:05 into the game on a two-yard touchdown run by Mel Farr, capping a 36-yard, six-play drive that began after an interception by linebacker Ken Norton. The Bruins scored again 1:47 later on a 74-yard punt return by Darryl Henley, and made it 21-0 when Eric Ball raced eight yards for a touchdown on the first play of the second period.

Auburn 31, Texas 3

Quarterback Jeff Burger completed 16 of 22 for 269 yards and two touchdowns after a summer of controversy that almost ended his college career as Auburn spoiled the Texas coaching debut of David McWilliams.

Burger, a fifth-year senior, almost lost his eligibility this season after he was found guilty of plagiarism on a term paper. But the school's administration reversed an honesty committee's recommendation for a two-quarter suspension.

LSU 17, Texas A&M 3

Mike Archer, at 34 the youngest head coach in major college football, got his career off to a good start, thanks to the LSU defense he used to coach.

Victor Jones scored touchdowns on runs of one and two yards and the defense allowed Texas A&M only 67 first-half yards. The Aggies didn't cross midfield on their own until the third period, by which time LSU led 17-0.

It marked the fifth season-opening setback for Coach Jackie Sherrill in his six seasons at Texas A&M.

FSU 40, Texas Tech 16

Danny McManus completed 19 of 34 passes for 275 yards and two touchdowns and ran for another score, while Dayne Williams added two TDs for the Seminoles, who broke a 13-13 tie with 17 second-quarter points.

Derek Schmidt became the Seminoles' career scoring leader with 279 points when he kicked a 44-yard field goal for 16-13 lead. McManus ran six yards for a touchdown and passed 37 yards to Herb Gainer to make it 30-16.

Clemson 43, W. Car. 0

Freshman tailback Terry Allen scored twice and David Treadwell kicked three field goals for Clemson, which began all but one of its six first-half scoring marches began inside Western Carolina's 32-yard line. Two TDs came after long punt returns, two after fumble recoveries and the other following a blocked punt.

The Tigers set the tone early by driving 69 yards in 10 plays on their first possession, which Allen capped with a 9-yard scoring run on his fourth carry as a collegian. Allen scored on another 4-yard run to make it 24-0 after linebacker Jesse Hatcher blocked a punt out of bounds at the Western Carolina 16.

Miami (Fla.) 31, Florida 4

Steve Walsh passed for 234 yards and a touchdown and Miami's defense intercepted Bell three times and sacked him five more, causing a slightly separated shoulder that could keep him out of the next game with Tulsa.

Walsh, a sophomore who inherited the job from Heisman Trophy winner Vinny Testaverde, completed 17 of 27 passes in his first college start.

The interceptions came as Miami broke the game open with 13 points in a seven-minute span of the third quarter. Linebacker Randy Shannon returned one 41 yards for a touchdown to give Miami a 24-2 lead midway through the period.

Florida's only points came on two safeties, each following poor snaps from center that sailed over the head of Miami punter Jeff Feagles and through the end zone.

Top seeds advance in Open

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Top-seeded Steffi Graf, No. 3 Chris Evert and No. 5 Pam Shriver breezed past unseeded opponents Sunday to advance to the fourth round of the U.S. open tennis championships.

The three winners lost a total of seven games on the stadium court at the National Tennis Center.

Graf needed only 38 minutes to beat Patricia Tarabini of Argentina 6-2, 6-0. Evert eliminated Natalia Zvereva of the Soviet Union 6-0, 6-2 in 64 minutes, while Shriver downed Laura Golarsa of Italy 6-1, 6-2 in 42 minutes.

Also advancing were seventh-seeded Zina Garrison, No. 10 Manuela Maleeva, No. 11 Lori McNeil and No. 13 Sylvia Hanika.

In men's play, second-seeded Stefan Edberg and No. 3 Mats Wilander moved into the fourth round with straight-set victories.

Shriver's match, the first of the day on the stadium court, was played before a few hundred people.

"It's hard to remain intense when the stadium is half empty and your opponent isn't playing well," said Shriver, who has won 18 straight matches.

After winning the first set in 16 minutes, Shriver was concerned that the match would end too quickly.

"My folks drove up (from Lutherville, Md.) to watch me," she said. "I figured I had to be out there for at least 45 minutes."

Although they lost the Triangular, the returning runners have made impressive advancements over last year, and the new faces already are making their marks.

"It was bad to have the course problems affect the top 10 finishers," said Ryan. "We could have possibly knocked one or both of them off. This will just give us some motivation when we face those teams again."

there. He did make a few mental errors, but we can live with those for now."

Thanks to little if any offensive pressure on the part of the Bulldogs, Grace said he felt confident enough to leave the freshmen on defense and move Lowney outside. Lowney had an excellent second half making runs down the left side and adding to the Notre Dame offense.

Grace indicated that, for now, Lowney and Drury will still split time at sweeper.

IRISH ITEMS - Wingback Paul LaVigne had to leave the game in the second half because of recurring chest pains. LaVigne said he had been hospitalized the previous week to have tests done, but nothing was found.

Junior Zanette Bennett tallied 24 kills against Ball State, breaking the former Notre Dame record of 23 which she set last season. Sophomore setter Taryn Collins continued to pace the Irish offensive attack and recorded a school-record 56 assists in the four games.

"We came back and played very well against Ball State," said Lambert.

Despite finishing third of four teams in the tournament, the Irish regained composure after the loss to a much-improved Hoosier team to defeat the Cardinals and bring their record on the young season to 2-1.

Before you choose a long distance service, take a close look.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money.

Think again.

Since January 1987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct-dialed out-of-state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information on specific rates, you can call us at 1 800 222-0300.

And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere to anywhere, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.

McEnroe hit with suspension

Associated Press

NEW YORK -John McEnroe drew a $17,500 fine and a two-month suspension Sunday for his verbal outbursts during a third-round match at the U.S. Open.

McEnroe's agent, Peter Lawler, said McEnroe would appeal the penalties, which cannot go into effect until the appeal is reviewed by the Men's International Professional Tennis Council.

McEnroe, who will play ninth-seeded Andres Gomez in the fourth round, has 10 days to file an appeal after the Open ends Sept. 13. If he loses the appeal, the two-month suspension would begin the Monday after the decision is reached.

The council fined McEnroe a total of $7,500 for his behavior during a five-set victory over Slobodan Zivojinovic Saturday. Another $10,000 was automatically tacked on because it was the second time this year that he has exceeded the $7,500-mark in fines.

McEnroe drew a point penalty for cursing and yelling at chair umpire Richard Ings during Saturday's match and a game penalty for swearing at a CBS employee holding a microphone at courtside. The four-time Open winner began his tirade after questioning several line calls in the second set.

Ken Farrar, the council's chief of supervisors, said McEnroe's behavior was among the worst he had seen since becoming a supervisor eight years ago.

"Verbally, it probably ranks at the top," he said during a news conference at the National Tennis Center. "We've had some physical abuse that was pretty bad."

The $7,500 fine included

$5,000 for verbal abuse and $2,500 for unsportsmanlike conduct.

"It's an arbitrary total," Farrar said. "I took each situation as I saw it."

McEnroe's profanity was not heard on CBS' telecast of the match because it occurred during commercial breaks. However, the language could be heard by satellite dish owners who were receiving the raw feed of the telecast.

CBS later showed one of McEnroe's outbursts on tape with the profane language edited out.

A suspension would cover all Grand Prix tournaments, but not exhibitions or non-sanctioned events.

Players can be fined up to $25,000 and suspended for one year for "aggravated behavior," but an MIPTC spokeswoman said the maximum penalty has never been levied.

Murphy brings high expectations in first year

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

First-year Irish baseball coach Pat Murphy is not too well known around the Notre Dame community. The feeling is not mutual.

"Notre Dame has encapsulated my whole life," said Murphy. "Since I was a young kid, all I remember is Notre Dame football and basketball. I used to write letters to Digger Phelps. I kid him that I probably held him up from recruiting because he had to answer so many of my letters."

"This is a dream come true for me, but it's also a challenge, and it's also something I think I'm ready for."

Murphy's challenge is to try and turn around a team that posted a 15-29 record last season and has developed a habit in recent years of losing close games.

At 28 years old, Murphy has coached in all phases of the game. He served as head coach at Division-III school Claremont-Mudd-Scripps, was the youngest manager in professional baseball when he directed the Class A Tri-Cities Triplets, and will manage the Holland baseball team in the 1988 Seoul Summer Olympics.

"There aren't many people who've been lucky enough to have the opportunities that I've had," said Murphy. "I'm not saying I've earned all these opportunities - I've been lucky and fortunate - but as far as being ready, there's no doubt Notre Dame wouldn't have hired me if I wasn't ready."

To improve fortunes for the Irish this spring, Murphy has had the team adjust to a few of his personal philosophies as keys to success.

Murphy's Law No.1 - Upgrade the schedule

It's not news that Notre Dame will be playing Big Ten schools and most of the tougher Midwestern schools this spring. But Murphy also has added teams from other regions to the list of opponents.

"We play Duke and Wake Forest from the ACC," said Murphy. "We'll also play Indiana three times and Indiana State, which finished in the Top 20 last year."

While the 1988 schedule is not yet completed, Murphy also indicated there was a good possibility the Irish would return to the Midwestern Collegiate Conference. Notre Dame left the conference to become an independent in the 1987 season.

Murphy is also planning for the Irish to start their 60-game schedule in late February.

Murphy's Law No.2 - Revise the fall season

Notre Dame traditionally has played a fall schedule which included several games against other Midwestern schools. The Irish still will compete against other schools this fall, but now they will be scrimmages, with nobody keeping score or recording statistics.

"I never wanted to play a game in a kept-score situation unless you were playing to win, and in these games we're going to play to evaluate," said Murphy. "Why have the players feel negatively about thinking, 'Hey, I got the loss' when in actuality we weren't playing to win?"

Murphy's Law No.3 - Cut the roster

Under former Irish coach Larry Gallo last year, the Irish had as many as 45 players on the team roster. Murphy is planning to include only about 30 players on the team this year.

"I can't keep 40-some ballplayers, I've got to keep ballplayers I think can be major contributors," said Murphy. "Some of that is based on potential, some of that is based on what they've done. I've got to only keep guys who can help us, whether that's 21, or that number's 31 or 51, that's what I'm going to keep. There are not 45 people who are Division-I ballplayers, and I've got to keep a workable number, plus the fact that I'm not a good enough coach to coach 45 people."

Murphy's Law No.4 - Be Aggressive

Last year, the Irish were 6-17 in games decided by two runs or less and extra-inning games. Murphy is well aware he will have to change that record this spring.

"We've got to be aggressive," said Murphy. "Aggression is the best identity that this team can have. We're not going to sit back and wait for them to do their thing. We've got to do our thing and make them react to us."

Murphy also knows he has to give his players a winning attitude following two straight losing seasons by the Irish. Murphy has included several intrasquad games.

"One positive thing, overall, is that they're great individuals and great people. Negatively, overall, they don't believe in themselves as baseball players," said Murphy, "but once we push them to the wall and prepare them so well, hopefully the result will be, 'I believe in myself and I deserve to win. I expect to win.'"

Murphy is hoping his philosophies will bring a gradual change that eventually will lead the Irish to national prominence in a sport where Notre Dame has not seen much success recently.

"We have to start slowly; nothing's going to happen overnight," said Murphy. "But I think we can be as strong as any other program in the country. I firmly believe that. It's going to take time, but I think we can do it."

At 28, Murphy definitely has the time to build the program, but it probably will take a while to see if his childhood dream will become a nightmare or have the happiest of endings.

ND blanks Drake, 2-0, under the lights

By PETE GEGEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame soccer team notched its first victory at Krause Stadium as the Irish overwhelmed Drake, 2-0, Friday night.

A crowd of over 2,000 looked on as the Irish exploded for two goals in the final 16 minutes to push their record on the young season to 2-0.

Forward Randy Morris scored his second goal of the season at the 74:06 mark on a spectacular play which showed just how well he and linemate Bruce "Tiger" McCourt work together. Morris one-touched it home after McCourt fed him with a beautiful pass.

"(Irish forward) Danny Stebbins had the ball at mid-field," said Morris of the play. "He played it in the air, and when I saw it was going to Tiger, I just knew he was going to kick it to me, I made the run."

McCourt fed Morris on the left side with a perfectly-led pass. But to get the goal, Morris had to rely on his "forward sense."

"The crowd started to cheer, so I knew something good was happening," said Morris. "I knew that a good keeper would be coming out to go after the ball in case I dribbled it, so I one-timed it to where I thought he wouldn't be."

The ball found the upper right corner, giving Morris a team-leading five points on the season. His goal-scoring and McCourt's assists represent a reversal of last season's roles, where McCourt led the team in goals and Morris in assists.

"I think it is a combination of things," said Morris, "like me being older, more confident, and the other teams keying on Tiger more. They're putting two men on Tiger, which leaves me open."

Midfielder Kurt Roemer scored an insurance goal at the 83:00 mark off a corner kick. Morris hit the corner hard to midfielder Rolfe Behrje, who deflected it off his head to Roemer. It was a set play where Behrje has the task of deflecting the line shot in order to upset the defense.

The two goals help bring the large crowd to life. The entire west stands were packed from end to end with students and soccer fans from the South Bend community.

"I was very pleased with the crowd," said Irish head coach Dennis Grace.

"They really got us pumped up."

In the first half the match quickly turned into a kick-and-run game as both teams moved the ball quickly up and down the small field. Grace kept rotating his players in and out, using seven subs in the first half.

Meanwhile Drake kept the pressure on the Irish, playing an aggressive style similar to the one Loyola (Ill.) used to give Notre Dame trouble in a game last Tuesday.

The Irish appeared to have a goal early in the first half when midfielder Joe Sternberg scored from the right side. But the goal was disallowed as the referee whistled him for a hand ball. Sternberg admitted to Grace that the ball was headed over the end line, and the only way to stop it was with his hands. He gave it a shot, but the referee caught him.

The Bulldogs came back on transition and almost capitalized on an Irish mistake. Notre Dame's defense tried to push the ball back to keeper Dan Lyons, but the pass was too slow and Lyons had to fall to the ground to block a Drake shot.

Stopper Steve LaVigne had an excellent chance at the 35:00 mark when he dribbled in alone from the right side. The Drake defense forced him to a bad angle and keeper Mike Jensen made the save. Sternberg and McCourt then followed with opportunities, but both shots sailed over the net.

The second half started slowly, much to Grace's displeasure.

"Our players were playing at a slower pace in the second half than the first when I thought we should have been shoving down their throats," said Grace. "I wanted to turn up the pressure because they were tired. We were tired also, but they were twice as tired."

The biggest switch Grace made on the field was to let freshman Mike Drury play most of the second half at stopper, allowing senior captain Steve Lowney to move to his more natural position of mid-field.

"Mike Drury is turning into a great sweeper," Grace said. "He is very composed back

Volleyball splits pair in Classic

The Notre Dame volleyball team defeated Ball State but dropped a match with Indiana this weekend to finish a disappointing third place in the Hoosier Classic.

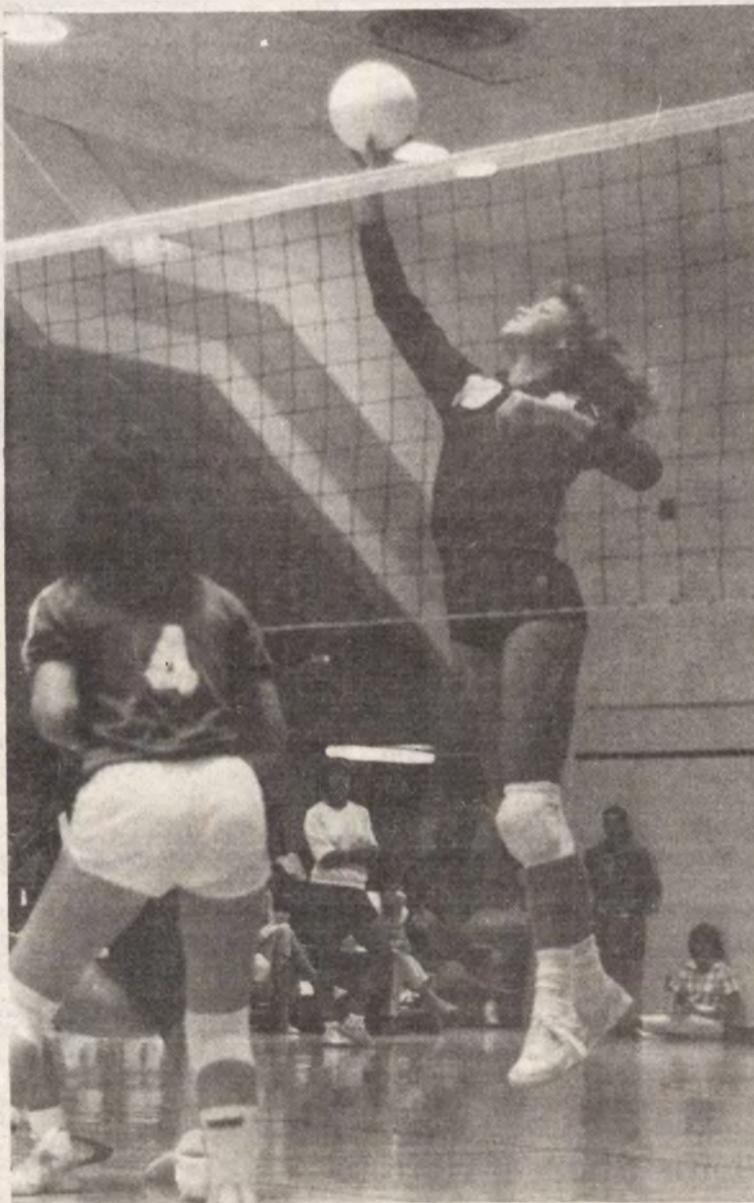

The Irish lost their first match of the season Friday evening to the Hoosiers, 15-13, 13-15, 8-15, 11-15. Looking sluggish and committing several hitting errors, Notre Dame won the first game of the night but dropped the next three to enter the losers' bracket of the tournament.

Out of 161 attempts against the Hoosiers, the Irish connected for only 36 successful kills, while committing 22 errors.

"They (Indiana) gave us all kinds of opportunities," said Head Coach Art Lambert, "but we couldn't make them pay off. It seemed like we could drive a truck through the holes where our outside hitters were hitting the ball, but we kept putting the ball into the net or hitting it right at Indiana."

Junior Mary Kay Waller led Notre Dame in the Indiana contest with 10 kills and 10 blocks.

Irish pick up third; Ryan is pleased

By THERESA KELLY

Finishing third at a triangular usually does not leave a coach smiling, but Coach Dan Ryan of the Irish women's cross-country team, who always seems optimistic, was pleased with the results of Friday's Purdue Triangular.

The host Boilermakers won the event with 27 points, and Illinois State edged out the Irish, 53-49, for second. Sally Smith of Purdue took the individual honors with a time of 18:55.

Junior Terry Kibelstis led the Irish with a time of 19:04, good for fourth place, and Teresa Rice finished fifth, just six seconds behind.

"There was a lot of confusion about the course," said Ryan. "Terry (Kibelstis) was running second with 800 meters to go, then a few runners went the wrong way."

"The Purdue runners were more familiar with the layout, and they used it to their advantage. They placed five runners in the top 10, and that's how they won it."

"Terry and Teresa are just doing phenomenal for this point in the season," continued Ryan. "Their efforts have put them way ahead of last year."

Freshman Jenny Ledrick placed third for the Irish, 11th overall, with a time of 20:04. Wendy Murray, Kathleen Lehman, Julia Merkel and Linda Filar rounded out the top seven for the Irish.

"I was particularly proud of Jenny Ledrick," said Ryan. "She promises to be a good runner for us. I can see that she's going to be an important part of this team."

Ryan said the team's hard work is paying off thanks to a three-week stretch of intense training.

"We've been running double workouts at 6:30 in the morning and 4 in the afternoon. They usually run between 75 and 80 miles a week."

"We have improved significantly, but it has taken an incredible amount of work. I have some girls running a minute to a minute and a half faster than last year."

The Irish are keying in on some important meets, such as the National Catholic Invitational, the North Star Conference Meet and the NCAA District Meet. The team will include other meets in its training plan.

"We're pointing to some meets as big and working and
