SUB violations now 'corrected'

By LIZ PANZICA
Copy Editor

Student Union Board violations of the student body constitution have been corrected, said Mike Jaeger, student government chief of staff Sunday night.

Jaeger cited three past SUB violations of the student body constitution: it maintained no public record of steering committee meetings; it kept no public records of votes; and it had no advisory council.

After these violations were made known to the student senate, SUB started to keep a public record of steering committee meetings and votes taken, said Jaeger.

Although the constitution requires SUB to have an advisory council, Jaeger said SUB has not demonstrated a need for one. "If it's not required, then let's get rid of it," he said.

Jaeger said he wanted to "eliminate ambiguity" in the constitution. He said he wants student leaders to pay closer attention to the constitution.

"I recognize the fact that some people have paid no heed to the constitution because it is inefficient."

Jaeger said he would like the constitution changed so that it is consistent with the bylaws of student government.

Constitutional amendments must be approved by both the Student Senate and the HPC.

Jaeger said a constitutional amendment should not require approval from the Hall Presidents' Council because the HPC already has "adequate representation" in the senate. Jaeger said the HPC has one fifth of the vote in the senate, the second largest faction.

The constitution's status has been debated by student leaders for the last few years, Jaeger said.

In a letter released to Student Body President Pat Cooke, Student Body Vice President Laurie Bink and SUB Director Janel Blount Sunday night, Jaeger suggested constitutional reassessment.

The letter is "solely based on my four years of observations," he said.

"I would like the letter to make the public more aware; if (amendments) came to a student body vote, they would be aware," he said.

Jaeger's letter said nothing about SUB's alleged constitutional violations.

Board decides to maintain policy

By JIM RILEY

Notre Dame's Board of Trustees decided Friday to continue its policy of selective divestment from firms doing business in South Africa, said Richard Conklin, director of public relations and information.

The Anti-Apartheid Network later announced it would organize a boycott of Coca-Cola products next semester.

The Board of Trustees received a report from the finance and investment committee which said that since the last board meeting in May, Notre Dame had divested from three firms doing business in South Africa, Conklin said.

"These firms did not meet the board's criteria of working actively to eliminate apartheid in South African society," said Conklin. Notre Dame has divested from such firms each year it has been following the policy.

He said that after the board received the committee's report, there was discussion, and a consensus was reached. No formal vote was taken.

Notre Dame's policy had been based on the Sullivan

Principles, a set of fair employment principles authored by Rev. Leon Sullivan which called for total divestment if apartheid was not dismantled within a two-year period. That period ended in May, and Sullivan in June called for all American businesses to withdraw.

Notre Dame, however, continues to hold investments in companies which do business in South Africa and will continue to divest from those companies which do not meet the board's criteria.

The board will continue to review its policy every time it meets, Conklin said.

Even though Sullivan has pulled away from the principles, the companies doing business in South Africa are still rated by an independent firm as to how well they are following the principles, said Father Oliver Williams, associate provost.

Notre Dame has $17 million invested in 17 firms doing business in South Africa, Conklin said.

Students react to food-fight bill

By LYNNE R. STRAND
Staff Reporter

While Notre Dame students are still elated about beating 'Bama, student leaders are devising ways to pay the $1,400 Michigan food-fight bill.

Members of the Hall Presidents' Council will meet with the Student Senate Monday night to decide how the student government and classes should divide the bill.

"The money has to come from somewhere," said Pat Cooke, student body president. "We (the students) should take responsibility for our own actions."

"I think we should pay for the food fight, but we don't know how yet," he said. "Student government is trying to come up with the best possible solution that everyone will agree to, while minimizing the damage in collecting the money."

Senior Noella Menezes agrees with Cooke that the students should foot the food fight bill.

"I think it's a very good idea," said Menezes, who said she did not take part in the food fight. "I don't like the idea about wasting food. It's a very spoiled thing to do. If we're going to be foolish enough to do that, we should pay for it. This is a good way to make students responsible. It's a direct approach."

Menezes' opinion is the exception, however.

"It's a crock," said freshman Sam Battaglia. "I don't think they can make everyone pay for it." Battaglia said he was at a dining hall but did not participate in the food fights.

Sophomore Rick Purcell admitted he participated in the food fight and said he does not think students should pay.

"If we pay 13 thousand dollars a year to go to Notre Dame, we should have some fun," argued Purcell. "College is supposed to be fun. I don't know what the big deal is. The food is already paid for."

Sophomore Mary Seitz also was skeptical about the charges assessed for the food fight. "Is that $1,400 worth in glassware?" she asked incredulously. Seitz said she was too busy hiding from flying food

Criticism of today's youth mounting but unfair

It is no secret that American youth of today take a beating at the hands of intellectuals and journalists. Very little is admired of today's youth. Mostly it's a story of corruption and decadence.

Of course every generation has thought that its descendants were in some sense worse than they were. But recent publications assessing the quality of American education indicate that today's younger generation, ages 12 to 22, exceeds previous limits of ignorance, self-gratification, and barbarism.

But is it in fact true that America's youth cares only for sex, drugs, and money and is therefore the worst it has ever been? Or are these accusations only superficial understandings of an age group whose ideals have always been an easy target for academic attack?

Among the many charges directed against the newer generation is the claim that television and popular music have had too powerful an influence in shaping their minds. As a result of this mass media programming most members of this age group are believed to have attention spans of around thirty minutes, the length of a usual sit-com show. And because most songs last from three to five minutes, this figure is taken as the length of time an individual is able actually to listen to a single voice or argument.

Television is also held accountable for the decline in moral values evident in the youth. It is said that today's adolescents can only act out the roles they have seen on the tube. They are as superficial and as scatter-brained as the characters they mimic out of soap operas. The supreme concern with material satisfaction and sexual gratification, which are taken as hallmarks of this generation, are values programmed from impersonal sources. They are not the result of self-seeking, exploration, or imagination.

Perhaps the strongest indictment of the younger generation is that imagination and creativity have been replaced by mechanical role playing. The critics need only point to the debauchery of collegiate spring breaks at Fort Lauderdale or the lyrics of such songs as Madonna's "Material Girl," or the Beastie Boys' "You Gotta Fight for Your Right to Party" to establish the superficiality of these roles. Under such conditions they argue, true love vanishes and passions are drowned out by sexual promiscuity.

Finding fault with popular culture and in particular the foolishness of the young is an easy task. For some it even seems to be a favorite pastime and career. Allan Bloom's recent, well-published work The Closing of the American Mind offers one such indictment of the influence popular culture on the minds of the young.

Jim Carroll

You do not have to look far to find verifications for such theories of moral decline. Everything from Walkman cassette players to the introduction of Spuds Mackenzie as the original party animal can be used as evidence that today's youth has sunk to the lowest levels of mental activity. The theory is seemingly confirmed by nearly everything on television and radio, and even by such things as the popularity of fast food and the logos printed on clothing. Little or nothing is admitted as counter evidence.

The picture presented by such observers of social thought is not a flattering one. It presumes that at any given moment the mind of the average youth is likely to be occupied with one of four thoughts, sex, drugs, rock and roll, or money - all of which are immediate concerns of an entirely self-centered and superficial individual. The plastic brain of today's youth of course stands in implicit contrast to the truly youthful and noble mind of some golden era, but when this was no one seems to know.

Fear of failure spurs federal budget deficit talks

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Deficit reduction talks between the White House and Congress are into their deadline week with participants confident of success - because they can't permit a failure.

"The whole country views it as a test of whether the president and Congress can really govern," Rep. Leon Panetta, one of the negotiators, said this weekend.

The talks nearly collapsed on Thursday, scaring not only the people in the room but those outside.

"Not only didn't we like the taste of it, but clearly the signal from our fellow members (was) they wanted something significant done," Sen. Pete Domenici, a negotiator and senior Republican on the Senate Budget Committee, said this weekend.

On Friday, the talks restarted. Taped on the wall was a full-page newspaper ad from business and civic leaders calling for "Decisive Action: a bipartisan Budget Plan."

After less than two hours, the House, Senate and White House staffs were sent scurrying for a weekend of numbers-crunching. The bargainers will need the details this week to flesh out a plan to reduce the deficit by $75 billion or more during the next two years.

The goal of the talks, begun three weeks ago after the Wall Street collapse, is to reduce the fiscal 1988 deficit by at least $23 billion to an estimated $144 billion, as required by the Gramm-Rudman law. That would avert automatic spending cuts under the budget-balancing law, which without agreement would take effect Friday.

The bargainers go into the week with the outline of an agreement that for fiscal 1988 would:

- Raise taxes about $10 billion, plus add some new fees for government services and step up enforcement of income tax laws.

- Allow the Pentagon about $285.5 billion to spend this year, more than last year but far less than the $297 billion Reagan requested.

- Restrain inflation growth in domestic agency budgets, to save about $2.8 billion, and cut costs in Medicare and farm subsidies by up to $5 billion combined.

Those items, along with concurrent savings in debt payments that result, would satisfy Gramm-Rudman.

Stretched into fiscal 1989, the program would cut that deficit by $44 billion to $50 billion, including $19 billion in higher taxes.

Passenger jet flips over, killing at least 19 people

Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY, OK - A Continental Airlines jet with 81 people aboard flipped on its back while taking off from Denver's airport in a snowstorm Sunday and skidded along the runway, killing at least 19 people and injuring 54 more, authorities said.

"We counted 18 dead outside the plane, and there are several dead in the fuselage," said Stapleton International Airport spokesman Richard Boulware. Twenty-one people walked away from the crash, officials said.

The DC-9 twin-engine jet, Flight 1713, was carrying 76 passengers and five crew members from Denver to Boise, Idaho, said Continental spokesman Ned Walker. Walker said the flight originated in Oklahoma City, and the crash took place shortly after 2 p.m. MST.

Rescue work was hampered by falling snow and ice, visibility was poor and some survivors were still trapped inside the plane more than four hours after the accident, authorities said.

National Transportation Safety Board chairman James Burnett and nine Washington-based investigators will fly to Denver to investigate the Sunday night crash. NTSB spokesman Ted Lopatkiewicz said.

At Denver General Hospital, Dr. Peter Pons said there were 19 confirmed deaths.

The Anti-Apartheid Network is planning a boycott of Coca-Cola products to begin next semester, said John-Paul Checkett, treasurer of the network.

"If the board won't divest, then we won't consume the products made by the companies which are still doing businesses there," he said.

Checkett said Coca-Cola did sell its shares in its beverage firm in South Africa. But the firm, operating under a different name, still sells Coke and Coke products and gives money to the South African government.

"This is kind of like the students divesting from the companies," Checkett said.

He added that the boycott is unrelated to the fact that Donald Keough, head of the Coca-Cola company, is also chairman of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees.

'Chile project' scheduled

By ANNE GALLAGHER
News Staff

In an effort to show solidarity with the Chilean people, Saint Mary's Justice Education Department and Student Body Government are sponsoring the "Chile Project," scheduled Nov. 16-17.

Both organizations said they hope to increase awareness and raise funds to counter a poll tax currently in effect under the regime of Chilean strongman Augusto Pinochet. The "Chile project" will involve the presentation of a continuous slide show in the Great Hall in LeMans, the showing of the film "Missing" at 7 p.m. in Carroll Hall and a liturgy in LeMans Chapel at 12:15 p.m. on Nov. 17.

The slide show will deal with Chilean geography and life under the present government, according to Esmee Bellalta, the director of the Justice Education Department at Saint Mary's.

Much effort is being made by the church in Chile under the leadership of Cardinal Archbishop Raul Silva.

"It seems appropriate to include a liturgy since the church is playing such a major role," said Bellalta. "I think this project is important because it gives us the opportunity to link two sets of people who have common goals but are in different situations."

Bellalta's husband, Professor Jaime Bellalta, member of the Architecture Department at Notre Dame and a native of Chile, criticized the present political state of the country and spoke of the urgent need of support for the upcoming election.

"Presently, Chile is in an apparent state of calm, but you can see a lot of poverty among the people. Unrest and general tension keeps growing," he said.

"Pinochet will decide when the date for the next election will be and who the candidates will be. He could prolong the date for another eight years, and there is nothing the United States or the people of Chile could do," he noted. "To know that the United States is concerned about this procedure will make people aware that there is a situation that needs to be rectified."

Currently, Chileans are struggling to hold their first presidential election since the military takeover by General Augusto Pinochet in 1973. A poll tax is in effect, which although only $5, is unaffordable for many Chileans who average a monthly wage of $20-$40.

Ortega to brief Mexican president

Associated Press

MEXICO CITY - Nicaragua's President Daniel Ortega made a surprise stop here on his way home from the United States and said he would brief President Miguel de la Madrid on a new Nicaraguan proposal for a truce in the Contra war.

"Now is a good time to exchange views with President Miguel de la Madrid, so he knows directly the steps my country is taking to comply" with a Central American peace plan, he told reporters when he arrived at the Mexico City airport Saturday.

Nicaraguan and Mexican officials declined to say what Ortega was doing on Sunday.

Nicaraguan Embassy spokesman Silvio Ordonez said Ortega, who was accompanied by first lady Rosario Murillo and their six children, went out for the day "to see the city." He declined to say where they went other than probably to Chapultepec Park, a vast city park.

Murillo and the children flew in Saturday from Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, to join him here.

The arrival of the Ortegas came as a complete surprise to Mexican officials.

"We know nothing about his activities. He arrived unexpectedly," Mario Enciso, the Foreign Ministry spokesman on duty, said Sunday. "We didn't know he was going to come."

A presidential press office official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Ortega will meet with de la Madrid on Monday.

 to participate in the food fights.

Sophomore Pam Zhulkie was not at Notre Dame during the food fights and noted that it is unfair for all students to pay the damages because you can't pick out who's responsible. "Cancelling dining hall events for the semester was enough punishment. People already know that the administration is serious. I don't know what the fine is accomplishing. It's just a joke to everyone." District 2 Student Senator Sean Hoffmann said it was fair for the student body to pay the damages because those responsible cannot be pinned down. "It's unfair for those who weren't there, but that's the way it (the penalty) works.

Hoffmann noted that he does not want to start another precedent. "Students shouldn't think we'll bail them out for everything."

Cooke said that setting a precedent is his major concern. "It's not good to charge the student body at large, but this is an unique case. A lot of student were involved. I don't think we're setting a precedent, but there's no other way to cover damages."

Junior Mark Szkudlarek, who was off-campus during the fights, noted that the $1,400 fine was "a token gesture. Paying the bill won't affect the students, while student government and the administration will be happy. Like a lot of things at Notre Dame, it's just a slap on the hand."

William Hickey, director of Food Services, gave the $1,400 figure in food fight damages to John Goldrick, associate vice-president for Resident Life. Goldrick met with HPC members last week, stating that the student body is responsible for paying for the food fights because a large number of 800 students were involved.

Under the system of apartheid blacks are denied virtually all political, economic, and social rights; they are legally denied the right to vote, to receive a proper education or decent employment. Eighty-seven percent of the land is set aside for whites, while thirteen percent of the land, the poorest land, has been formed into bantustans or "Homelands" where Africans are forced to live. These homelands are not economically viable so men and women must go to "white areas" to find work. Apartheid prohibits African families from living together in "white" cities, so supporting a family entails destruction of black family life. The health situation is appalling with a serious shortage of doctors and medical services for blacks. As for education, suffice it to say that it is free and compulsory for whites while blacks must pay and their children are not required to attend.

It has been argued that foreign investment in South Africa is a positive force for change and that it can lead to the dismantling of apartheid. Between 1960 and 1981 U.S. investment in South Africa increased ninefold. What were some of the positive changes that occurred during this 21 year gestation period? Many black political organizations, including the African National Congress (ANC) which was established in 1912, have been banned. More than 3.5 million blacks have been forcibly removed from "white areas." In 1976, 600 children were killed and thousands more wounded for peacefully protesting the government's insistence on using both English and Afrikaans as languages for teaching. Foreign firms have provided the investments and technology needed to build up a strong police and military force which not only keeps black South Africans in their allotted space but also insures that neighboring states remain sufficiently dependent on the South African economy to prohibit any independent development. And finally, despite changes in petty apartheid, the systematic denial of political, economic, and social rights to blacks is as firmly entrenched as ever.

In light of these results, advocates of foreign investment in South Africa realize that investment alone is not automatically a positive force for change. Definite steps on the part of foreign companies had to be taken to improve the situation for blacks. So in 1977 Rev. Leon Sullivan, a member of the board of General Motors, devised a code of conduct for foreign firms. This code consisted of six principles: desegregation of the workplace, fair employment practices, equal pay for equal work, job training and advancement for blacks and improvement in the quality of workers' lives. These principles are laudable in themselves. Yet when we consider that the "Sullivan principles" don't come close to the core of apartheid (disenfranchisement, population control, removals, detention and banings) and that even if all U.S. corporations in South Africa strictly adhered to them it would only affect one percent of the black work force, we see that they are not simply ineffective but irrelevant for tearing down apartheid structures. (Interestingly, Rev. Sullivan has come to recognize this fact and now urges all U.S. companies to get out of South Africa altogether.)

When we consider the words of John Vorster, former South African Prime Minister—"Each trade agreement, each bank loan, each new investment is another brick in the wall of our continued existence"—we begin to see that foreign investments are the very bricks that build the apartheid prison.

How can we help free black South Africans? We can help tear down the walls of the prison by refusing to invest and ceasing all business in South Africa. Economic sanctions threaten the very existence of South Africa's apartheid system. In the words of South Africa's Director General for Finance, Chris Stals, "if the world banking community should effectively exclude South Africa from international trade and payments systems...it would put us on the barter system overnight." If the world stopped doing business with South Africa altogether the economic foundations of apartheid would effectively be shut down.

So we have two theories about foreign investment and apartheid. Foreigners say that investments in South Africa will bring about an end of apartheid.

White South Africans say investments will keep apartheid strong and disinvestment will threaten its very existence. What do black South Africans say? As far back as 1959 they called for international economic sanctions against South Africa. Nobel Peace Laureate Albert Luthuli, president of the ANC at the time, saw the full implications of such actions—"the economic boycott of South Africa still entail undoubted hardship for Africans. We do not doubt that. But if it is a method which shortens the day of bloodshed, the suffering to us will be a price we are willing to pay." African leaders continue to call for economic sanctions as the one alternative that might reduce the bloodshed resulting from black emancipation in South Africa.

Now here is a disturbing thought. Despite the fact that history has shown that investing in South Africa supports apartheid, and the fact that South Africans, both black and white, have stated the same, Notre Dame has consistently argued that the University should not divest from South Africa.

The irony is that an institution renowned for teaching principles of peace and justice has been a promoter of injustice in practice. If this support were unwitting it might be excusable. But the fact that Notre Dame has maintained its investments in South Africa, despite the fact that conditions there have deteriorated beyond the point where our own investment policy calls for disinvestment, is damning indeed.

The next Board of Trustees meeting is on the weekend of November 13 and 14. Once again they will review the policy of investing in South Africa. It is inconceivable that the members of the Board could still be ignorant of the real effect of our continued participation in the South African economy. Therefore, we can hope to see a decision to divest from companies doing any business with South Africa. Anything short of this would continue to undermine the struggle for justice in that country.

Gregory Maggetti, a graduate student in economics, is co-chairperson of the Notre Dame Anti-Apartheid Network.

P.O. Box Q

Apartheid may harm nascent labor force

Dear Editor:

The Notre Dame Board of Trustees is about to make a decision of far reaching consequences. Will they or will they not disinvest all assets with ties to South Africa? The issue is complex. Even though there can be no hesitation in condemning the immorality of the political practice of apartheid, the proper reaction on the part of morally sensitive individuals and institutions presents a far more complex situation. Any movement in the sphere of economic decisions necessitates great caution.

Where is the wisdom when, in attempting to achieve a good, one adopts a policy of walking out and abandoning the very position from which one may, sooner or later, exert an influence for good?

On Sept. 17, the New York Times had a very interesting article, "South Africa Trade Now Led By Japan." An excerpt from this article may be worthy of consideration: "...Japan has made significant inroads into the business once held by American companies...The biggest Japanese advance in recent years has been in areas where American products once dominated: mainframe computers...chemicals and automobiles..."

The labor movement in South Africa, an enormous potential power base, is now in an infant stage of positive development which is just beginning to reflect a sense of self awareness. It is an undisputed fact that the South African economy cannot exist without black participation. Imagine the influence one could exert if, instead of abandoning a position, one used it to provide further encouragement to this emerging labor force?

Divestment may be a satisfactory vehicle by which one may express passionate opposition to an immoral system, but to what effect if that same vehicle proves to be a crippling obstacle to the very means by which black South Africans may better themselves.

The architecture program:

'It's a way of life'

Architecture majors are mysterious people on this campus. Unlike the stereotypical "Arkie," who is non-social, artsy and rather nocturnal, most Notre Dame Arkies are actually disciplined and well-rounded students who appreciate aesthetic beauty as well as a good party.

The Architecture program involves majors as early as the freshman year, when would-be Arkies experiment with the discipline's demands in a studio course. Commitment increases during the sophomore year, and it is then that some students, still unsure about their decision to become architecture majors, opt to leave the program. The third out of five required years takes place in Rome—an exciting change of scenery and lifestyle for the majors.

Notre Dame is one of only three universities in the country with a full-year Rome program. Arkies receive outstanding opportunities to travel and experience first-hand the work of the masters, not to mention the pasta at Giuseppe's, a local hang-out.

The demanding fourth and fifth years require students to maintain a healthy sense of competition. "It's not cut-throat," explains fourth-year Arkie Joye Reno, "Everybody has their own talent." Stephen Kromkowski, another architecture major, adds that studying architecture at Notre Dame is extremely rewarding. "We don't deal with hypothetical, utopian projects," he says.

As a fifth year student, Kromkowski is now working on his thesis project. "Design is endless," he comments. His work entails restructuring a section of an actual city or town, right down to the plumbing and electricity.

Venturing into the Architecture Building, these students' "home away from dorm," one discovers why the Arkies enjoy their major and each other. City maps cover the walls of the upstairs studios, contributing to the relaxed, lived-in aura of the building. Drawing tables are piled high with books and sketches; a radio plays from some unknown location under some papers.

The Arkies wandering around this maze-like arrangement of rooms create a general feeling of comfortable friendship. The group, after all, is part of the Arkie experience. "We're kind of in our own little world," Reno explains.

Rome is only one of several unifying traditions for the Arkies. The Beaux Arts Ball, held each semester, is "something totally crazy and radical for Notre Dame," as Reno describes it. Definitely one of the more unique events on campus, the costume ball is known for its flair and outrageous atmosphere. It's likely that the Arkies owe their curious reputation in part to the Beaux Arts Ball, which is always a much anticipated event.

The Architecture building is currently housing "Expo Roma," an exhibit of work done by the students while in Italy. The Expo is attended by visiting architects and professors from around the country. All Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students are encouraged to view the visually exciting work while sipping some real Cap-pacino.

One architecture student sums up the dedication Arkies feel for their major: "It's a way of life; it's a profession. You've gotta love it."

The last time the Crimson Tide lost by as wide a margin was in 1957, when Auburn shut out its state rival, 40-0.

The seventh-ranked Irish upped their record to 8-1 with their fifth-consecutive victory.

The Notre Dame defense forced Curry to use three different quarterbacks in the game, and allowed only a pair of first-half field goals by Phillip Doyle.

Tide starting signal-caller Jeff Dunn left the game with 28 seconds left in the first half, after he was knocked out of bounds by Irish outside linebacker Darrell Gordon and suffered a minor head injury.

Reserves Vince Sutton and Billy Ray could not lead the Alabama offense to any points the rest of the way.

"We (the Irish defense) just played well fundamentally and with a lot of intensity," inside linebacker Wes Pritchett noted.

Bobby Humphrey, Alabama's all-America tailback, gained 94 yards on 14 rushes and had 214 all-purpose yards.

"We knew they would try to give the ball to him," Pritchett continued. "We didn't change anything. We just did our jobs and it worked out."

Outside linebacker Cedric Figaro led Notre Dame in tackles with seven, while defensive back Brandy Wells and inside linebacker Ned Bolcar added six apiece.

The Notre Dame offense, sparked by sophomore signal-caller Tony Rice and the usual assortment of ball-carriers, scored on four of its first five possessions and opened a 20-6 halftime lead.

Rice dashed into the end zone from 12 yards out on a second-quarter option play to give Notre Dame its first lead, 10-3. He then completed his first career touchdown pass later in the quarter on a fourth-down play, a three-yard loft to tight end Andy Heck that made the score 17-3.

The remaining Irish touchdowns were enough to make the Notre Dame fans wish they had a few Florida orange trees with them in the stands.

Junior tailback Mark Green, who gained 149 yards on 18 carries for his third straight 100-yard game, struck early in the fourth quarter. Green took a pitch and burst through a big hole on the left side, racing down the sideline for a 74-yard score.

That was the longest run from scrimmage by a Notre Dame back this year and the longest under second-year Irish coach Lou Holtz.

Green held that record for a whole six minutes.

Freshman tailback Ricky Watters improved on Green's mark by one yard, sprinting left, weaving through defenders and cutting back to the right side en route to a 75-yard touchdown with 4:01 left to play.

Ted Gradel made good on all three Notre Dame field-goal attempts and all four extra points to account for the rest of the scoring. The senior was accurate from 49, 21 and 22 yards.

"It's like I told Bill Curry after the game," Holtz said. "I said, 'Bill, you just picked a bad day to play us in South Bend.' We were very emotional, and our defense was absolutely tremendous."

Holtz expressed concern before the game that his offense might have trouble moving the ball against a quick Crimson Tide defense. But the Irish racked up 465 yards to Alabama's 185.

"This football team has totally amazed me," Holtz continued. "This was a total team effort."

It appears Notre Dame is bound for Dallas and the Cotton Bowl on Jan. 1, to play the winner of the Southwest Conference (either Texas or Texas A&M). Representatives of the Orange Bowl said they have not decided which school will receive a bid to play the winner of this Saturday's Oklahoma-Nebraska game in Miami on New Year's Day.

They said they are looking at Miami, Syracuse, Florida State and Notre Dame. With bids coming out in less than a week and no bargaining under way between the Orange and Cotton Bowls, however, it appears likely that the bid will go to Miami before Notre Dame gets the chance to play the Hurricanes on Nov. 28.

"If we go 10-1 with the schedule we have, I definitely think we deserve the right to play for a national championship," Brown said.

EXTRA POINTS - Gradel's 49-yard field goal in the first quarter was the longest of his career. His previous best was 44 yards against both Michigan and Purdue earlier this season ... Sophomore cornerback Stan Smagala suffered a minor concussion in the first half, but is expected to practice as usual this week ... Notre Dame was penalized 15 yards when the student body was charged with unsportsmanlike conduct for throwing oranges. The crowd was first warned.

Farley began the scoring on its very first drive. After quarterback Carol Elliott completed two big passes, she then ran an option in from the three-yard line to put the first points on the board. The conversion was successful, making it 8-0.

The rest of the first half belonged to BP, as it scored two touchdowns.

The first TD came on a 16-yard pass from running back Ann Curoe to Carolyn Burke, a play similar to one the team used last week against Lyons. The conversion was good to make the score 8-8.

After a punt by Farley, BP was at it again, this time with quarterback Teresa Coombs connecting with Carolyn Burke for a 31-yard strike. With a successful conversion, the score was 16-8 in favor of BP, and that was the way it ended at the half.

The second half saw a renewed, but very temporary, Farley attack. After two unsuccessful drives by both teams, Farley got the ball back on an interception by cornerback Jen Bonnvecio.

With this renewed momentum, Elliott went to work. With two 20-yard passes, one to wide receiver Colleen McGillis and one to Kara England, Farley was at midfield. Elliott then connected a 25-yarder to England, and then another 25-yard pass to McGillis for the touchdown.

The score was then 16-16, and the game looked like it might go into overtime.

The BP offense was determined, though, and they marched down the field for an easy score.

Starting from its own 43, BP's drive looked effortless. A pass from Coombs to right halfback Margaret Johnson brought the ball down to Farley's 11-yard line. The touchdown was scored by another Coombs-Burke combination, this time an easy square-out in the endzone. Margaret Johnson scored the conversion and the final score was 24-16.

"We played really well," said Carolyn Burke, who scored all three BP touchdowns, "The victory was great. "This was our year. We went out there to win and we did it."

Burke also scored all four TD's for BP last weekend against Lyons.

"The girls worked hard this season and I'm really happy to see them win," said offensive coach Dan DeBoer. "We worked them hard and they came through."

Defensive coach Jeffrey Elia echoed DeBoer's thoughts.

"It was all the girls," he said. "It's been a long time coming."

Celts win, remain undefeated

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - K.C. Jones isn't satisfied that the Boston Celtics are off to their best start since 1972.

"We've got to be more consistent. We took some bad shots out there and shot selection really worries me," Jones said after the Celtics beat Indiana 103-98 Sunday to bring their record to 6-0.

Larry Bird scored 11 of his 24 points in the first quarter, when the Celtics took the lead for good.

Boston, off to its best start since it opened with 10 victories in 1972, made 10 of its first 13 shots and shot 68 percent (17-of-25) in the first quarter.

"We came out a little soft in the first quarter and gave them 36 points. We can't afford to do that the way we shoot," Indiana Coach Jack Ramsay said. "They make good passes, they look for each other, plus they make the outside shots."

Men's basketball squads tie in annual Blue-Gold contest

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

The Notre Dame men's basketball team played its annual Blue-Gold intrasquad game Sunday night and proved that so far this team isn't going to beat itself.

The 30-minute contest ended in a 58-58 when Mark Stevenson, playing the latter parts of the game for the Gold squad, powered in a layup with one second showing on the clock.

The Blue squad was paced by senior co-captain Gary Voce's 24 points and 10 rebounds, while senior co-captain David Rivers knocked in 22.

Many eyes were turned to the newcomers on this year's edition of the Irish and early reviews were mixed. Freshman Kevin Ellery, a 6-5 forward from Springfield, Ky., looked impressive along the baseline, scoring 14 points and grabbing two rebounds for the Blue squad.

Fellow freshman Tim Singleton, a 6-1 guard from New Orleans, showed burst of speed while running the Blue offense. He finished with two points but dished out seven assists.

Many eyes were also trained on 6-9 forward Keith Robinson. A sophomore, Robinson sat out last season under the provisions of Proposition 48. Robinson finished the evening with eight points and led the Gold squad with eight boards.

The two squads played the first 20 minutes in man-to-man, but Irish head coach Digger Phelps also wanted his squad to practice zone offense and defense for the final 10 minutes. Sean Connor, who the Irish will rely on as their zone buster, filled two-of-four three-point shots for the Blue and four-of-eight from inside 19-9 for 10.

Sophomore Tony Jackson was the fifth starter for the Blue squad and had five rebounds in 22 minutes.

Scott Paddock chipped in 12 points and two rebounds for Gold while Joe Fredrick and Jamere Jackson added four and two respectively.

Stevenson saw time with both squads and finished with a combined total of 18.

The Irish will play an exhibition game against Zadar of Yugoslavia this Thursday evening at 7:30 and open their regular season Dec. 1 at defending National Champion Indiana.

Unforced turnovers stick out in women's intrasquad opener

By BRIAN O'GARA
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame women's basketball team kicked off the 1987-88 season last night with the annual Blue-Gold intrasquad game held in the Joyce ACC.

The final score was Blue 37, Gold 30, but that is simply a formality.

Under first-year Irish Head Coach Muffet McGraw, Notre Dame is looking to improve last season's 12-15 record, and is favored to win the North Star Conference title with the help of five returning starters and eight monogram winners back.

Often, however, the Irish of new looked like the Irish of old in this game of two 10-minute halves. A total of 26 turnovers were committed in the game. Only Blue team members Lisa Kuhns, back from a knee injury that kept her out last winter, and freshman Sara Liebscher did not give the ball away.

"I was happy with their intensity," said McGraw of both teams. "But we had too many turnovers. And they weren't forced errors, but most of the turnovers were because of a lack of concentration."

Down 13-10 at halftime and 25-14 with three minutes remaining, the Gold team set up a full-court press to close the gap to five points before the Blue team held on for the win.

"The Gold team did a good job coming back," said McGraw, who hopes to pick up the pace of Irish basketball with a solid fast break and full-court press game plan, characteristic of her teams at Lehigh where she compiled a record of 88-41 in five years.

"The press is coming along," continued McGraw. "The Gold team had our one, two and three players (point guard Mary Gavin, junior Diondra Toney and sophomore Annie Schwartz) so they were a little quicker out there."

Senior forward Sandy Botham led both teams with 12 points, while playing a strong inside game to key the Blue team's victory. Freshman Karen Robinson led the Gold team with 10 points, including two consecutive three-pointers in the losing team's comeback effort.

The Irish next take to the court on Wednesday in LaGrange at Prairie Heights High School as they face the Wales National Team. The LaGrange site is an attempt to build community support.

ND Volleyball team sweeps weekend opponents

By THERESA KELLY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame volleyball team said good-bye to the Joyce ACC Pit by winning its last three home matches against Marquette, Valparaiso and Michigan State over the weekend.

Saturday night, the Irish defeated a tough MSU squad in the weekend's best action, 12-15, 15-13, 15-13, 15-11.

"We were obviously glad to win those last matches at home," said Irish head coach Art Lambert. "MSU was a better team than Valpo or Marquette."

In the first game, the teams traded points and side-outs until the Spartans took a 10-6 lead by finding a seam between the Irish front and back lines. Notre Dame came back to tie at 10 behind the serves of Mary Kay Waller but could only manage two of the next seven points as MSU took the early lead in the match, 12-15.

In the second game, Colleen Wagner gave the Irish a spark as they took a 3-1 lead and fought for some tough side-outs. The Spartans' quick offense gave them the momentum and put them up 5-3, but defensive lapses through the middle of the game gave the Irish an 11-8 lead. The rest of the game was a tough see-saw battle, but Whitney Shewman and Maureen Shea put away the final two points and the Irish tied the match at a game apiece, 15-13.

In game three, both teams played tough, refusing to let the other move far into the lead. A strong net game gave Michigan State a 13-11 lead, but Shea and Amy White teamed up to tie the game at 13. A critical service error by MSU gave the Irish the chance to win, and Zanette Bennett and Waller found the holes in the Spartan defense to put the game away, 15-13.

The Spartans jumped out to a 6-0 lead in game four, and it looked like another marathon match was in the works. But the Irish found a second wind and battled to tie the score at 11. Waller served the final three points for the Irish as they took the game 15-11 and the match 3-1.

"The whole team may have been a little tired," Lambert said. "Michigan State is a team we should have put down quickly."

Shea led the Irish with 15 kills followed by Bennett with 12.

Freshman Amy White had 47 assists at setter, a position she first played for the Irish on Friday against Marquette.

"I was happy with Amy White's performance," Lambert said. "It was really asking something to play her at setter against Michigan State. She made some errors, but that's to be expected. I was pleased with her attitude and efforts."

Saturday's match was the last home match for four Notre Dame seniors: Kathy Baker, Gretchen Kraus, Kathleen Morin and Jill Suglich.

"It was great to win our final home match for the seniors," said Lambert.

The Irish played a North Star Conference doubleheader on Friday, easily defeating Marquette in the first match, 15-5, 15-5, 15-1. Later, they beat Valparaiso, 15-6, 15-6, 13-15, 15-8. Lambert welcomed the chance to get a look at some of his younger players in a game situation.

"This was a good chance to get some players into the action," he said. "They may not have been the toughest opponents, but I was really pleased with our freshmen."

The Irish will travel to Western Michigan Tuesday to take on the nationally-ranked Broncos.

NFL roundup

Colts finally defeat Dolphins

Associated Press

The longest period of domination in the NFL is over, and the Indianapolis Colts have been pronounced a contender.

With the help of 154 yards rushing and a touchdown from Eric Dickerson, Indianapolis beat Miami 40-21 Sunday, ending the Dolphin's 14-game winning streak against the Colts. Dean Biasucci kicked four field goals for Indianapolis.

It was the longest winning streak against one team in the NFL, dating back to 1980 when the Colts were in Baltimore. The victory kept Indianapolis in a first-place tie with the New York Jets in the AFC east with a 5-4 record.

Dallas 23, Pats 17, OT

Herschel Walker broke a 60-yard touchdown run with 1:50 gone in overtime to lead Dallas over New England. Roger Ruzek of the Cowboys sent the game into overtime with a 20-yard field goal with 28 seconds left in regulation time.

Walker's long scoring run came on a first-down play from the Dallas 40 and gave him 173 yards rushing on the day, a career high and fourth best in team history.

Browns 27, Bills 21

Bernie Kosar passed for 346 yards and two touchdowns, winning a quarterback duel with fellow Miami, Fla., alumnus Jim Kelly as Cleveland beat Buffalo. Kosar completed 24 of 33 passes and threw touchdowns of 15 yards to Reggie Langhorne and 52 yards to Webster Slaughter.

Oilers 23, Steelers 3

Warren Moon threw two third-quarter touchdowns to help the Oilers defeat the Steelers at Pittsburgh for the first time since 1978.

Vikes 23, Bucs 17

Chris Doleman forced two fumbles, both recovered by Keith Millard, setting up 10 Minnesota points and leading the Vikings, 5-4, over Tampa Bay.

Other NFL scores Sunday: New Orleans 26, San Francisco 24; Washington 20, Detroit 13; Los Angeles Rams 27, St. Louis 24; New York Jets 16, Kansas City 9; Cincinnati 16, Atlanta 10; Seattle 24, Green Bay 13, and New York Giants 20, Philadelphia 17. San Diego beat the Los Angeles Raiders 16-14 at night.

Irish do it all, bounce 'Bama, 37-6

ND dominates 11th-rated Tide

By MARTY STRASEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame student body was a little premature Saturday afternoon, hurling oranges onto the field in quest of a bid to the Orange Bowl.

But you would never know it from the way the Irish threw an inspired defense and a big-play offense at 11th-ranked Alabama, routing the Crimson Tide, 37-6, at Notre Dame Stadium.

"After beating Alabama like we did today, we can go all the way," said Irish flanker Tim Brown, who caught four passes for 114 yards and compiled 225 all-purpose yards on 14 touches of the ball.

"The only thing to say at a time like this is that we were whipped," Alabama head coach Bill Curry said. "We were beaten by a vastly superior football team. That was obvious."

"Had we responded at our very best, I doubt seriously we'd have beaten this Notre Dame team today."

Seniors get win in home finale

By RICK RIETBROCK
Assistant Sports Editor

Two years ago it was a case of bewilderment.

"I feel bad for our seniors, but the way we lost it, I feel bad for our whole team," said then-junior quarterback Steve Beurelein after another tough loss, a 10-7 heartbreaker to LSU in the final home game of the 1985 season. "We played well but it just wasn't meant to be."

"It makes you wonder what it takes to win."

Last year it was just plain frustration.

"We had our chances and didn't win," said Notre Dame head coach Lou Holtz after last season's 24-19 bitter loss to Penn State in the home finale. "This loss affects us -especially our seniors -very deeply. Other teams have made good plays against us and sometimes we don't do the little things we need to."

Dillon goes to the air to stomp Stanford, 24-0

By TIM SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Was it Joe Montana?

No.

Was it Tony Rice or Kent Graham?

Well...maybe not. But Dillon Hall's quarterback Mike Brammer weaved a little of his own magic on the grass of Notre Dame Stadium Sunday afternoon, as the Big Red stunned Stanford, 24-0, to capture the men's Interhall football championship.

Throughout the season, Dillon has relied on a powerful running game to compile a 7-1 record and a berth in the championship game. Sunday, though, the Big Red went to the air early and often, and stayed there.

Brammer passed 20 times in the game, completing 11 of those for 164 yards. Add to that a 31-yard option pass, and Dillon piled up nearly 200 yards in the air.

"Our offensive coordinator Ross Perri decided this week to go with the pass," said Dillon coach Jeff Morgan. "(He did so) basically because he felt we've been slighted all year. Everyone knew we could run, but he knew we could throw the ball. Our offensive line played incredibly too." Dillon wasn't 'supposed' to win.

The Studs dominated the regular season and entered the final game brimming with confidence.

"There's no reason for us not to be confident," said Stanford coach Al Martin last week.

But within minutes of the opening play, Dillon was leading 3-0 and the Studs were reeling. Stanford started the game with the ball and went nowhere (four plays, nine yards). Dillon took over on downs in Stanford territory. One first down and five plays later, Brammer nailed a 40-yard field goal which could easily have been 50.

The first half seemed like a continual repeat of those two series - Stanford stopping itself with an ineffective passing game, and Dillon using its air attack to pile on the points.

Dillon's most impressive drive of the game came late in the first quarter. Five first downs moved the Big Red 69 yards, and an eight-yard run by Tim Murphy made the score 10-0.

The prime receiving threats for Dillon in the half and in the game were Steve Murphy and Bill Celebrezze. Murphy caught five passes for 123 yards and one TD, while Celebrezze matched that with six catches for 60 yards and a touchdown.

Leading 17-0 at the half (Celebrezze's TD being the third score), the Big Red settled in to hold off the Studs' potentially explosive offense and add a few more points.

They were successful. "We wanted to shove it down their throats," said Morgan of the second half strategy. "They ran it up a few times during the season. But we also wanted to get all of our players in."

Though Stanford's offense was more effective in the second half than in the first, the Studs were still stymied by their own mistakes and the Big Red 'D'.

Stanford quarterback Al Martin began to heat up early in the third quarter. The senior signal-caller completed four of five passes on Stanford's first drive of the half, but a bobbled pass wound up in the hands of Dillon's Tim Murphy, and the Studs best scoring threat was thwarted.

A defense ("completely new," according to Murphy) specifically designed by coach Ted Rolff to stop Stanford's passing attack apparently worked, as the Studs were held to just 98 yards in the air and just 106 overall.

Senior co-captain Buzz Eckelcamp led the Dillon defensive line with two-and-a-half sacks and innumerable pressures. Martin was on the run all through the game.

The Big Red's final score was its most exciting. Early in the fourth quarter, faced with a fourth-and-two, Brammer dropped back and dumped a pass to Steve Murphy over the middle. Murphy snaked his way 36 yards through the Stanford secondary, and Dillon had the trophy.

Dillon's Mike Brammer had a big day as the Big Red pounded Stanford, 24-0, in the men's Interhall football championships. Tim Sullivan details the action above.

BP takes IH title with 24-16 victory

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Sports Writer

In what was a highly exciting and competitive football game, the Breen-Phillips football squad edged out Farley for the women's Interhall football championship by a score of 24-16.

The game was played at Notre Dame Stadium, where the fans saw the BP football team snap Farley's three-year domination of the Interhall league.

Farley was attempting to capture a fourth-consecutive women's title, a feat that has never been accomplished in the history of Notre Dame, but Breen-Phillips had a different feat in mind.

Last year, these two teams met for the championship, and Farley emerged the winner. This year, BP and Farley met in the regular season and BP established itself as the "team to beat" by edging Farley 24-22.

Breen-Phillips followed through on that reputation in the title game. In what was a very passing-oriented game, the BP passing attack was a little too strong for the Farley secondary. All three BP scores were in the air, and all were scored by wide receiver Carolyn Burke.

CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS

1983-1988

The doors of the Center were opened for the first time in January 1983. In 1988 the Center will celebrate its Fifth Anniversary with a variety of special programs and events for students, faculty, alumni, and staff. Details will follow.

PLEASE NOTE!

Although we are well into the Fall Semester, there is still time to participate in many programs at and/or through the Center. These include many of the Service/Social Action Groups, Seminars, Summer Service Projects, etc. If this semester's schedule is full, check out now details on a program or group which interests you and begin to participate at the beginning of the Spring Semester.

Center challenges students

Do you ever feel that your academic work is challenging you to ponder the mysteries of life without any clues? The Center for Social Concerns has some clues to offer. We believe that seeing life outside the University and encountering people of different experiences and backgrounds will give students a new way to approach the important questions that are being presented in the classroom.

The Center for Social Concerns works with approximately twenty-five student organizations that enable their members to encounter life from a new perspective. Some groups are organized to do service in the South Bend community -- from visits to the elderly to caring for young children. Other groups are organized to help students face hard issues in concrete ways. These groups deal with issues and act on what they learn. Amnesty International and World Hunger Coalition are two such groups.

Students who want to continue their education during the summer and school breaks can participate in Center for Social Concerns programs that give them an opportunity both to learn and to serve. These include trips to Washington, D.C., and Appalachia during Fall and Spring breaks. Summer Service Projects allow students to spend eight weeks getting to know new people and serving in a variety of communities. The Urban Plunge gives students a revealing glimpse of urban life.

Our challenge is to gain insight as we pursue knowledge. The mysteries will never be solved, but the clues that come from new experiences and reaching out to others will, without doubt, shed some light on the big questions that we encounter in our search.

Kathy Royer
Coordinator, Service/Social Action

Summer service: 'Beyond abuse'

"... Each time our women attended a mandatory support group or parenting class they met other women who were struggling like themselves and some who had broken free. Every talk she shared with us she learned something new about herself. Each time she faced a new challenge, applied for public aid or a driver's license, she gained confidence in her abilities. Regaining one's self-esteem is difficult for anyone - a growing process that can frighten some to return home to the familiar. But compassion is well rewarded. Because I was there to help, showed an interest and allowed them to trust me, women told me things they had never told anyone before, expressed fears that they had never admitted to themselves. I came upon the best way to counsel them quite easily. As they talked it became quite obvious that they knew the source and the answers to their own problems and, when given a chance to hear themselves talk, they could clarify their mixed and often conflicting emotions themselves. While we worked with the victims to prevent the crime from recurring, we also struggled to break another cycle - the continuance of domestic violence with each generation."

Cathy Stacy
Dove Shelter House, Decatur, IL
Summer Service Project, 1987

Cathy was one of 72 students who returned to campus this Fall after 8 weeks of service throughout the U.S. in placements ranging from shelters for abused wives and neglected children to Indian reservations. The students are now taking a theology course, sharing their experiences, and attempting to understand more fully the meaning of service.

Social Concerns Scholarship tuition credits up to $1200 are awarded to the students who apply and are chosen to take part in the SSP Program. The projects are underwritten by Notre Dame Alumni Clubs and the James F. Andrews Scholarships. Contact the Center for details on the 1988 Summer Service Projects.

'Crucible of experience'

"As has always been the case, the best theory is forged in the crucible of experience. Thus, we at Notre Dame have structured opportunities for concrete involvement in the social, political, and ecclesial orders. Through internships and summer study, through foreign study centers, and through the umbrella of organizations affiliated with the Center for Social Concerns, we provoke the awareness of faculty and students alike. The mission of service begins in the activity of some among us.

But their experience of the plaintive cry of the poor and disheartened returns to the classroom and research project to seek a better and more just way.

In the journey to justice and peace, in efforts at spiritual and moral renewal, Notre Dame has a mission to society and the Church."

Father Edward A. Malloy, C.S.C.
President
From the Inaugural Address
Sept. 23, 1987

Commissions help Center with projects

This year Student Government is working very closely with the Center to facilitate student community service. There are commissions within the Student Body Cabinet which direct their efforts to this cause. One of these, the Service Concerns Commission, works in conjunction with the many organizations, on and off campus, affili-

Groups enrich students and community

The NDSMC branch of the American Red Cross is a group of students who provide first aid services at such events as ND home football games, basketball games, concerts, An Tostal, interhall sports, and more. We also operate a Quick Response System whereby we are on stand-by to provide first aid or transportation to the Student Health Center when needed. All of the events we work in guarantee free admission. Call Brother Louis Hurcik (239-7053) about classes. Our current student coordinators are Dave Ragan (283-1023) and Bill Fazzalaro (283-2333). It's a great way to help the community and make friends. Call Dave or Bill with any questions.

Pax Christi- Notre Dame is...

- a community of support and friendship
- a way to work for peace
- a group of people committed to creative consciousness raising
- a source of strength for peacemakers

We meet bi-weekly (usually Wed.nights) for prayer, discussion, and action. At our meetings you may find:

- a bunch of fun people
- lively discussions
- prayer
- brainstorming creative alternatives or solutions to violence and injustice
- fig newtons and milk
- people who want to make a difference (no matter how small, or big!) in a world hungry for justice and peace

For more information, call Dan Keusal (239-7943) or Tom Esch (239-7735).

COMMUNITY FOR THE INTERNATIONAL LAY APOSTOLATE

The Community for the International Lay Apostolate (CILA) is a group of students who feel that, for them, living a Christian, service-oriented lifestyle involves integrating this "orientation" into many different aspects of their lives. Thus, there are four aspects of CILA, each with its own projects. Our EDUCATION projects include faculty-dinner discussion groups centering on social issues and workshops. Our SERVICE projects include playing with kids at a day-care center, going to Appalachia over Fall Break, and to Mexico for a month in the summer. Our SPIRITUALITY activities include weekly reflection groups and an annual retreat. Our SOCIAL activities include camping trips and dinner parties.

CILA people become involved with whichever project(s) they choose, depending on their time and interests. New members are most welcome. If you would like more specific information on our projects, call Colleen Prentice (283-2537).

COUNCIL FOR THE RETARDED

The Notre DameSaint Mary's Council for the Retarded is one of the largest and best known volunteer organizations on campus. The CFR, in conjunction with Logan Center, participates in a wide variety of activities for clients at many different levels of ability.

The most popular of these are the recreation periods on Saturdays and the Friday bowling program. Monthly dances are also held at Logan Center and are announced in the Observer and by campus posters.

For more information on these and other programs, please call Dennis Hughes (283-4075) or Marie Mellin (284-5526).

THE OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT NETWORK

Overseas Development Network (ODN) is a nationwide student organization working to respond constructively to the problems of world hunger and poverty.

Notre DameSt. Mary's ODN works closely with other social action groups to organize our two main events. Third World Awareness week is a week long educational series featuring lectures, films, and discussions about issues in the Third World. The Hunger Cleanup involves students from both schools donating a few hours to clean-up projects in South Bend as a fundraising effort to benefit both the local and overseas community. ODN meets every other Tuesday at 7:00 p.m. at the Center for Social Concerns. For more information call Liz Durkin (287-3876) or Tony Lee (283-4489).

The Notre DameSt. Mary's World Hunger Coalition was founded in 1974 with the purpose of educating our community on the issues related to the tragedy of world hunger. A second purpose is to actively participate in the fight against world hunger, and thirdly, to foster spiritual growth among the members of the coalition.

Our largest undertaking is the Wednesday lunch fast each semester, where hundreds of students forfeit their lunch symbolically. The cost of the food is donated directly to various hunger relief and developmental programs. Other WHC programs include bi-weekly meetings and speakers, visits to local soup kitchens, participation in World Food Day and Third World Awareness Week.

The WHC is always open to energetic suggestions and enthusiastic members. If there are any inquiries, please call Lorie Konwinski (283-2959) or Ron Burkhart (283-2195).

CENTER FOR BASIC LEARNING SKILLS

The Center For Basic Learning Skills, located behind St. Paul's Methodist Church at 1007 West Colfax in South Bend, provides illiterate adults with an opportunity to acquire basic learning skills -- reading, writing, spelling, and mathematics.

The volunteers tutor one day per week (Mon.-Thurs.), on the day of their choice. A van leaves for the Center from the library circle at 1:15 p.m., and from the main circle at 1:20 p.m.. It returns to campus from the center at 3:15p.m.

If interested, call Christopher Zenk on campus anytime at (283-1952), or call Sr. Marita at (259-5427) before 9:00 p.m.

BIG BROTHERS / BIG SISTERS

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is a non-profit social service organization primarily funded by the Notre Dame Student Activities Board, in conjunction with the United Way of St. Joseph County.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters provides a setting in which the student and the child can meet and enjoy themselves. Activities range from cookouts to rollerskating parties, and add some flavor to the personal meeting the student and the child experience on their own.

The gift of shared time and friendship can last a lifetime, and the price is just a few hours a week. Please share the experience with us. For information call Scott (283-1164) or Laura (283-1269).

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

"Charity, Unity, Fraternity, Patriotism": These are the cornerstones of the Knights of Columbus. First and foremost is Charity, which is at the heart of all activities of the Knights, from council Masses and Rosaries to volunteering our services for retarded citizens.

The Knights of Columbus, Council number 1477, and our sister organization, the Ladies of Columbus, remain dedicated to our history and traditions. If interested, stop by the Council building, next to the Bookstore, or call at (239-7018) or (283-1092).

NORTHERN INDIANA STATE DEVELOPMENT CENTER

Northern Indiana State Development Center is a small residential facility for mentally retarded children and adolescents. The residents of NISDC go to special education classes in schools throughout the South Bend Community. Their education does not stop in the schools, however, as the children also participate in a variety of training, therapy, and recreation at NISDC.

Please consider a volunteer experience at Northern Indiana State Development Center. Our facility is close and convenient for students. Our residents would really enjoy having you come.

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE

The Notre Dame chapter of the N.A.A.C.P. prides itself on being the most inclusive organization on campus. Students from all races and creeds combine their energies and talents to act on issues which affect the minority peoples on campus and in the society at large. For more information on what the N.A.A.C.P. is doing, please call Lionel Coleman (283-1208), Danny Bailey (283-2325), Lois Conrad (283-2690), or Jennifer Perkins (283-4304). The Notre Dame N.A.A.C.P works for all of us.

CHILD ABUSE & NEGLECT COORDINATING ORGANIZATION

The Child Abuse and Neglect Coordinating Organization (CANCO) has as its purpose the prevention of child abuse and neglect, and the treatment of its devastating effects.

For more information about volunteering in CANCO, please contact Peggy Probst for work in the Day Care Center or Julie Cooper for the Parent Aide Program (256-0010).

DISMAS HOUSE

The Dismas House student group is a relatively new project working in cooperation with the Dismas Board of South Bend to operate a community of former prisoners and students. This community promotes bonds of trust and friendship between students and former prisoners, and serves as an unstructured rehabilitation program for the former prisoners who often need to be reconciled with society. Any student who is interested in living at Dismas House next fall should contact Kathy Royer (239-7862).

WOMEN UNITED FOR JUSTICE AND PEACE

The members of WUPJ have joined together to educate ourselves and others to grow in the power of our common sisterhood, to lead us to an understanding of our responsibilities in the world today, and to the action we must take accordingly. The goals of the organization are:

- Informed discussion and creative action on vital issues of justice and peace
- Affirmation of the belief that together we can make a difference for peace and justice
- Spiritual nourishment to our peace-making
- Celebration of our common humanity
- Cooperation with local, national and international peace and justice groups

If interested contact Kristin Komyatte (135 Lewis, 283-2145 or 4179)

A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE: THE URBAN PLUNGE

Early this month 402 students - a record number - registered for the Urban Plunge - a 48 hour immersion into the kind of life that most Notre Dame and St. Mary's students have never seen. During Christmas Break, UP participants spend two days at an inner-city site of their choosing, hosted by contacts from a variety of sources: religious and lay church leaders, social workers, ND/SMC alumni, community agencies, and other interested individuals.

The Urban Plunge offers students the opportunity to experience the conditions of injustice, poverty and apathy found in our cities, as well as the chance to meet persons who are working to improve these conditions and to evaluate their strategies. The Plunge process includes an Orientation Workshop, a written reflection paper, and follow-up discussions in the homes of faculty and resource persons. Participants receive one hour of academic credit. Registration for next year's plunge will take place next fall.

THE FACULTY AND CENTER ACTIVITIES

A variety of faculty-related activities are available through the Center. The FRIDAY FORUM, a faculty-led talk/discussion series, meets four times each semester to examine a particular theme. During 1987-88 it is "The University and for Social Change?" A related workshop is being planned for the January break. Faculty serve as speakers and discussion leaders during the week-long "Call to Peacemaking" (fall semester) and "Peace with Justice" (spring semester).

Some faculty serve as pivotal participants in the URBAN PLUNGE follow-up session where small groups of "Plungers" spend an evening at the faculty's home to reflect on and begin the analysis of their Urban Plunge experience. Others host small groups of seniors who meet in the faculty's home four or five times in the spring semester to converse about their undergraduate years at Notre Dame and to examine how social concerns are and will be integrated into their lives upon graduation. Still others are asked to serve as advisors to the various service/social action groups affiliated with the Center.

For further information, contact Kathleen Maas Weigert (239-53195322).

WASHINGTON SEMINAR
SPRING '88

The Washington Seminar program completes its sixth year with a Spring seminar, to be held during the spring break. As was true during the fall break, the seminar is a chance for about 24 students to explore the relationship between social concerns, public policy formulation and Catholic social teaching. Participants can earn one Theology credit.

Two themes will be explored on the trip to D.C.: arms control negotiations and welfare reform. Meetings will take place with representatives of the United States and Soviet arms control policy makers and with members of the House of Representatives and the Senate who are particularly involved in both issues. Additionally, seminars will be held with Church-related groups attempting to influence public policy on both issues.

Contact the Center for Social Concerns for information on the 1988 Spring Washington Seminar: Steve Newton, C.S.C. (239-7861)

APPALACHIAN SERVICE SEMINAR

Students during the Fall and Spring breaks perform direct services for those in need in various sites in Appalachia - e.g. repairing and building homes. This Fall almost 50 students spent their break at three Kentucky sites. For information on the Spring '88 Appalachian Seminar contact Sue Cunningham (239-7867).

... AND MORE

In addition to the groups and programs described here in some detail, there is a wide variety of other programs, courses, and activities available through the Center. These include:

Senior Reflection Groups - Small groups of seniors share meals and discuss common concerns and feelings about leaving Notre Dame. Hosted by Faculty and Staff in their homes. Contact Mary Ann Roemer.

Post-Graduate Service Opportunities - Workshops, seminars and other meetings enable seniors to consider the integration of service into their chosen careers and/or the advantages of a year or two of volunteer service, e.g., Peace Corps, Holy Cross Associates. Contact Mary Ann Roemer.

Academic Courses:

Theology Courses (Don McNeill, C.S.C., and Staff) - Reading and reflection on issues raised by service experiences. Courses include: "Church and Social Action," "Theology and Community Service," "Reflections on Service," "Church and Social Justice."

Other Justice and Peace Courses (Kathleen Mass Weigert) - Study and analysis of contemporary ethical and moral issues in justice: "Introduction of Peace Studies," "Peace Movements in America."

Hispanic Community Concerns (Staff) - Opportunities for contact with programs serving the Hispanic community in South Bend and elsewhere.

Latin America Programs (Staff) - Students study in Mexico for a semester or a year at the Universidad Iberoamericana or in the Program in Global Community at Cuernavaca.

Peace and Justice Opportunities (Dan Keusal) - Courses, films, programs, conferences, and individual summer opportunities in justice.

Social Concerns Cultural Arts Series (Staff) - Sponsored by the Center and Student Government for the Notre Dame and South Bend communities.

NOTE: Center facilities include a coffee house, a large multi-purpose room, seminar rooms, resource room, library, and reflection room. Contact the Center receptionist to reserve rooms for lectures, films, liturgies, meals, and other gatherings.

iated with the Center, such as the World Hunger Coalition, the Church World Service and the Community Service Commission. In effect, the Service Commission aids the Center to prepare and organize new, unexpected and innovative activities. This year a variety of special projects are being undertaken by this commission, including the CROP Walk, a Thanksgiving food drive, and this Center publication.

For additional information, contact Service Concerns Commissioner Renee P. Gau (283-3098) or Social Concerns Commissioner Casimir (Kaz) Crist (283-2065).

'Opportunity to share ...'

"Students at Notre Dame have been fortunate in many ways. The Center for Social Concerns and the programs which they offer give us the opportunity to share our gifts with others. Their programs and our involvement in those programs are what makes Notre Dame so special."

FUN AND LEARN

The Fun and Learn Program is a recreation/socialization program for six to 16 year-old children who are experiencing difficulties in school. The program seeks to develop self-confidence, self-esteem, and to challenge children physically and mentally through recreational activities. It is not a tutorial program.

Volunteers are needed every Saturday from 9 to 11:30 a.m. Interested students at ND contact Clifford Lichaytoo (283-1139) or at St. Mary's contact Barb Gulliford (284-4424).

ANTI-APARTHEID NETWORK

The Anti-Apartheid Network is an organization designed to increase awareness on campus about the oppressive government of South Africa and to prompt us to do what we can to establish a just government in that country. Our main goals this year are to encourage the University to divest its holdings in all companies doing business in South Africa, and to combat racism on campus. All are welcome at our weekly vigils at 12:15 pm. on Fridays on the Dome steps where we hear news updates from the region. Contact Julie Coyle (283-1822) or John Paul Checkett (283-3895) for more information.

STUDENT TUTORIAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

The Student Tutorial Education Program (STEP) is dedicated to helping the residents of the South Bend Juvenile Facility develop socially and educationally. As tutors, our major goal is to motivate the residents to complete and improve their schoolwork, and to teach them better study habits. Each participant tutors on either Monday or Thursday evenings from 7-8 p.m. Transportation to and from the facility if provided. Questions?? Call Ed Kelly (283-3155), Sean O'Kane (283-1419), or Tracy Schindele (283-4094).

LEGAL SERVICES

The Legal Services Program of Northern Indiana is a private nonprofit corporation providing free legal representation to low income individuals in northern Indiana. Legal Services assists people who cannot afford a private attorney with legal problems in areas such as housing, public benefits, consumer, health and family law.

Being a volunteer with Legal Services is interesting and challenging work full of learning opportunities. Interested people should contact Pam Cleyes (234-8121).

ST. THOMAS MORE SOCIETY

The St. Thomas More Society consists of a group of individuals committed to keeping alive and spreading the ideals and moral principles exemplified in the life and death of St. Thomas More. The two primary focuses of the society are its lectures and community service. For more information contact Bill Pifher (239-7735) or Pete Morgan (283-1063).

PROJECT HEAD START

Project Head Start is a comprehensive, interdisciplinary child development program designed to serve pre-school children from families with limited income. The Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students who take part in the program volunteer in a Head Start classroom one morning or afternoon each week.

If interested, contact Denise Talotta (283-2551) or Lois Clark (234-2150).

VOLUNTEERS FOR THE OVERNIGHT SHELTER FOR THE HOMELESS

This club is new. Its main task is to organize the volunteers in the Notre Dame/St. Mary's community for work at the Overnight Shelter for the Homeless. Also, it will work actively to publicize the problem of homelessness in America to the college community, through speakers, articles, and fundraisers. If you are interested in volunteering at the shelter, or in helping the homeless through other means, contact one of the officers: Ken Kollman (283-3554), Kelly McGoldrick (283-2822), NDSMC liaison Mary Carol Cahill (284-5231).

MADISON CENTER

Madison Center, a comprehensive mental health center providing mental health and substance abuse services, utilizes volunteers from the community. Volunteer positions are appropriate for students interested in the mental health field.

Training is provided for each program. Those interested in applying or receiving further information may contact Laurel Eslinger, Coordinator of Volunteer Services, (234-0061), during the morning hours.

GRADUATE ASSOCIATION FOR LATIN AMERICA

The Graduate Association for Latin America (GALA) is an interdisciplinary group of graduate students interested in Latin American issues. GALA intends to continue to sponsor events which have potential for attracting broad support from among the many groups on campus that are interested in Latin American issues. Direct questions to John Kennedy, Dept. of Economics (233-6298).

AMNESTY INTERNATIONAL

Amnesty International is a non-partisan worldwide organization advocating human rights and working to free prisoners of conscience, ensure fair trials for political prisoners, and stop torture and executions. Amnesty International's volunteer groups in cities and campuses around the world write letters to government authorities responsible for abusing human rights; publicize Amnesty's human rights concerns in the communities; and raise funds to support ongoing human rights work.

If interested in helping with Amnesty's work, contact Celeste Kolton (232-2469), David Baltierra (283-1194), or Ann Troester (284-5303).

CIRCLE K

Circle K International is an organization dedicated to service, leadership development, and career development.

Our weekly service activities include visits to Marian Hill Retirement Home, Logan Center, NISH (with St. Mary's), and Ducomb Center for juvenile offenders. Speakers on career development and other pertinent social issues are also available at meetings to educate the members. Circle K International (CKI) wants to involve tomorrow's leaders today. Contact Dan Struzel (283-3444) for more information.

STUDENT ADVOCATE VOLUNTEERS FOR THE ELDERLY

Student Advocate Volunteers of the Elderly (SAVE) is a service organization that helps to meet the needs of the elderly in the South Bend area. The primary work of SAVE for the last 10 years has been to visit the lonely elderly, although in many cases SAVE volunteers have cleaned houses, shoveled snow and done yard work and other miscellaneous odd jobs.

For more information call Cleo Mellinger or Kevin Young from 9-5:00 p.m., M-F, (239-5279).

YOUTH SERVICE BUREAU

The Youth Service Bureau 70001 Program is designed for high school dropouts between 16 and 21 years of age. Services provided include GED preparation, pre-employment training, job development, and motivational activities. John Reid (ND '70) is program director.

Volunteers are used as individual tutors in math, language, and reading. GED classes meet Monday through Wednesday from 1 to 4:00 p.m. Interested individuals may contact Mr. Reid (284-9231).

NEIGHBORHOOD STUDY HELP PROGRAM

The Neighborhood Study Help Program (NSHP), in this our 25th year of service to the South Bend Community, is the largest volunteer service organization on the Notre Dame/St. Mary's campuses. We tutor South Bend area school children from kindergarten to the high school level. Each tutor is assigned one child. The tutor visits the tutoring site twice each week for approximately one hour.

Questions? Please call John Baker (283-4681), Chris Hoepfinger (283-3154), or MariKris Dalum (283-2650).

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

In presenting this four-page special on the Center for Social Concerns, we wish to remind the reader that we are focusing on the student service and social action groups, and social concerns programs and activities connected with the Center for Social Concerns.

Current information on Center programs and activities is available through the CSC Calendar/Newsnotes distributed to faculty and students, and through the CSC Newsletter, mailed primarily to Center alumni. Each of these publications appears quarterly.

This is a paid advertisement made possible through the cooperation of:

The Observer staff who assisted in its production

Notre Dame Student Government which partially defrayed the cost

The student groups which provided a writeup on their organizations

Center staff who shared material on their programs

And you, the reader, whose interest and followup makes all of this worthwhile.

Thank you.

Eugene J. McClory
