Steinfels picked for 1991 ND commencement

Special to The Observer

Margaret O'Brien Steinfels, editor of Commonweal magazine, will address the University of Notre Dame's 146th Commencement Exercises on May 19, 1991.

Steinfels is the first woman to edit the nation's most influential Catholic magazine, and has headed the Commonweal editorial staff since 1988. The lay-edited Catholic journal of public affairs, religion, literature and the arts is in its 66th year of publication.

"Under Margaret Steinfels' editorship, what was already a fine periodical has strengthened its reputation as an indispensable voice in the conversation of our Church," said University President Father Edward Malloy. "It seems appropriate, especially during our Year of Women celebration, that we should hear an indispensable influence in that voice."

Eileen Kolman, chair of the Year of Women, said she was pleased with the selection of a woman speaker. Submitting a list of over 50 women as potential speakers to Malloy, Kolman said she did not specify a preference as to which woman to choose. "Our main thrust was that it be a woman," she said.

"I think for the last couple of years, the University has gone with people with high name recognition" to speak at commencement, she said. "These are not the only kind of speakers."

Margaret O'Brien Steinfels

"There are different kind of messages to send, and I think this [selection of Steinfels] represents a different kind of message, a different kind of role model," she said.

Previously, Steinfels had been editor of Church, a publication of the National Pastoral Life Center; executive editor of Christianity and Crisis; editor of the Hastings Center Report; a reporter and columnist for the National Catholic Reporter, and a movie reviewer for Today.

Steinfels' articles and reviews have appeared in these publications as well as in Jubilee, Catholic World, the New York Times Book Review, Psychology Today, the Los Angeles Times, the New York Times, the New Republic, and others. She is also author of "Who's Minding the Children? The History and Politics of Day Care in America."

A Chicago native, Steinfels was graduated from Loyola University in 1963, studied art and film history at Columbia University. She took courses at the Sorbonne in Paris before obtaining a master's degree in American history from New York University in 1971.

Steinfels is a board member of the National Center for the Laity and a former board member of the Catholic Press Association. She is married to former Commonweal editor Peter Steinfels, who is now religion writer for the New York Times.

Student Activities fees given with few limits

By BETSY PUNSALAN
News Writer

Students contributed approximately $410,000 in Student Activities Fees this year, all of which will be allocated to campus organizations to spend with relatively few stipulations, according to Student Body President Rob Pasin.

Each student at the University is required to pay $55 each year for the Student Activities Fee. This money is held by the University in an account which receives approximately $800 of interest per month, according to Student Body Treasurer Jim Hanley.

"I look at the Student Activities Fee as a kind of tax," Hanley said.

Roughly $80,000, or 20 percent of the Student Activities Fee, is used to fund the over 120 clubs, organizations, and activities on campus, according to Pasin.

The remaining 80 percent of the Student Activities Fee is divided among Student Government, Student Union Board, class governments, Hall Presidents Council, Student Senate, Judicial Council, and the Club Coordination Council, he said.

The groups cannot use the money to buy alcohol, and any expenditure over $5,000 must receive Senate approval. Other than that, they are free to spend it as they wish, Pasin said.

"It's through the clubs that [the Student Activities Fee] touches people the most," Hanley said, since a large number of students are involved in the many activities offered on campus.

"The Student Activities Fee also covers the debts of the businesses [on campus]. They've not been making money, although they're not losing as much as they used to. They're not really designed to make money in their pricing structure," according to Hanley.

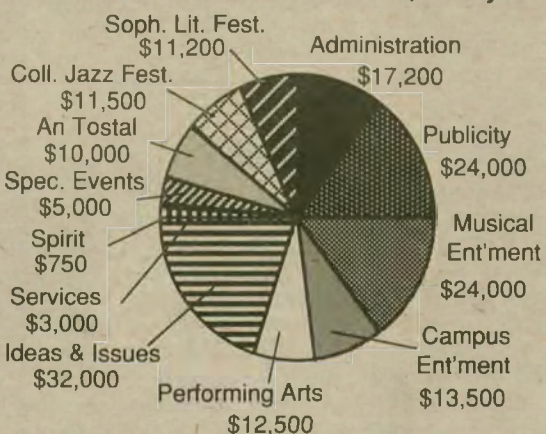

"I have seen some waste in the spending of the Student Activities Fee," Hanley admitted, citing organizations' "pizza parties" as "really not a good use of the money."

Industrial magnate Armand Hammer dies at age of 92

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Industrialist Armand Hammer was remembered Tuesday as a tireless crusader for international peace who improved the human condition by investing millions in education, medicine and the arts.

The flamboyant, globe-trotting chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp., the nation's 16th largest industrial company, died at his home in the Westwood district late Monday following a brief illness. He was 92.

The cause of death was not revealed, although associates said privately Hammer had been suffering from kidney problems. He died just one day before a planned celebration for his belated bar mitzvah.

Slammed by critics as a self-promoter more concerned with his image than corporate leadership, Hammer nonetheless drew praise from heads of state and leaders in business and education. He met with every Soviet leader.

Armand Hammer

INSIDE COLUMN

Madonna employs smut, not substance

Yesterday I was listening to the radio and heard a familiar female voice pant "Wanting...Needing...Waiting." I grimaced and popped in a CD. Never underestimate the power of shock value. It has certainly worked for Madonna.

Anna Marie Tabor

Asst. SMC Editor

Being an avid follower of popular music, my interest in the elusive, energetic singer traces back to the days of "Borderline" when she was the cute rebel with the belly-button. Because Madonna is so unpredictable, I was always slightly eager to see what issue she'd tackle next and what color her latest dye job would be.

Madonna definitely has a unique style and is somewhat of a legend in her own time. In this business of Milli Vanilli's, I'd even say that she is multi-talented performer. While her image is not exactly wholesome, many of her contributions to the music industry have been positive.

"Papa Don't Preach" can be interpreted as there being options other than abortion for an unplanned pregnancy. "Vogue" endorsed a street dance craze and gave The Roger Rabbit a rest. All of her songs are at least interesting or danceable. Until now, "Justify My Love" is not even palatable.

In an interview on Nightline about the video that MTV refuses to air, "Justify My Love" was shown in its entirety. "Like A Prayer" raised a few eyebrows, but her latest has been touted to astronomical heights. Which could be exactly what Madonna wanted. People will be curious to see what is so allegedly offensive and buy her video when it hits the market.

Furthermore, if video stores refuse to carry the video single or put a warning label on it, it will be in even greater demand. Recall how controversy popularized "The Last Temptation of Christ." (Not that the two are in the same category.)

Contrary to Madonna's insistence that she is encouraging sexuality awareness and open, healthy discussions with parents, I see nothing noble in her attempt. I also resent her telling me what I and everyone else fantasizes about. Since when are voyeurism and bisexuality universally desired?

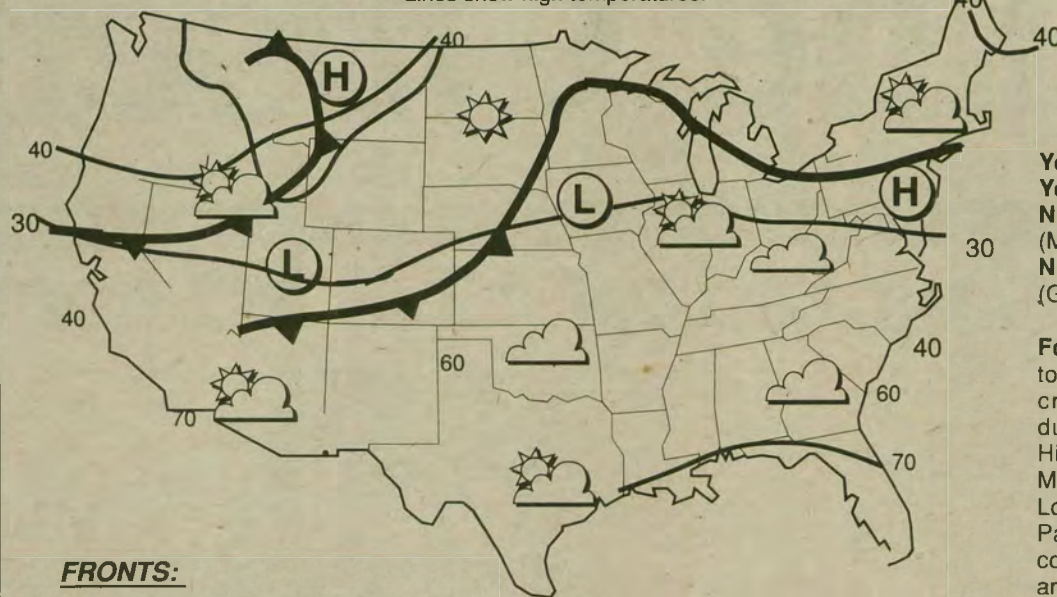

I try to look at it this way: Madonna can only go so far before she has to tone it down. The next cut might have a little substance or at least a good beat and not rely on hype and hormones to sell records. Unfortunately, that's what seems to be what we buy. The Controversy Queen knows this. I'd like to see her redeem herself by taking a stand on a less over-worked subject than sex and use an approach other than the dangling-carrot-in-front-of-the-donkey, scandal-ridden method.

Then again, maybe Madonna has mastered human nature.

Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze urged the Bush administration Tuesday to make a last-ditch diplomatic effort to avert war in the Persian Gulf. "It is also my strong hope that U.S. troops will not see action," Shevardnadze said at a news conference near the end of a two-day meeting here with Secretary of State

James Baker. Referring to the high-level talks President Bush has proposed with Iraq, the Soviet foreign minister said, "We pin much hope on the coming contacts." But Baker said Baghdad had still not agreed on a date for him to go to Iraq to see President Saddam Hussein. He offered any time between Dec. 20 and Jan. 3, but again rejected any Iraqi attempt to delay the visit until just before the Jan. 15 deadline set by the U.N. Security Council for Iraq to pull out or face the prospect of military measures.

Norway, which already has the world's most expensive cigarettes, is trying to stop smoking everywhere indoors and wipe out the habit in a decade. Even a smoker's home may not be his castle for long. Schools and day-care centers tell children about the dangers of passive smoking and encourage them to tell their parents to quit or smoke outside. Norwegians with tobacco habits are responding by rolling their own cigarettes, using butts over again, taking snuff and smoking on balconies. Tore Sanner, a professor at the Oslo Cancer Institute and head of the smoke-free campaign, granted that the number of smokers has remained constant for 10 years despite increasingly aggressive measures. About 1.2 million Norwegians smoke, or 37 percent of the population, but fewer young people are starting. Tobacco consumption has dropped only marginally, to 6,700 metric tons a year from 6,800 in 1980.

NATIONAL

Vail's snow is safe enough to ski on but authorities say it's not a good idea to eat any of the snow from its snowmaking operations, which use water that is partly from treated sewage. Water intakes for snowmaking in the Rocky Mountains resort 70 miles west of Denver are less than 100 yards downstream from a sewage plant's outflow into Gore Creek. When the creek runs low, regulators let Vail's snowmaking crews take only the same amount of water from the creek that the sewage plant is pumping in. As a result, state officials say, one-third to two-thirds of Vail's manmade snow is water from the sewage plant. "Would I eat that snow? Knowing what I know? Probably not," said Jay Skinner, a Colorado Division of Wildlife official who monitors resort snowmaking and its effect on streams. "I know it should be treated OK, but I wouldn't drink what's coming out the effluent pipe, either."

A hot air balloon floated over downtown Columbus office buildings up to 42 stories tall but then struck a 1,069-foot broadcast tower, ripped and crashed Tuesday, killing all four people aboard. The bodies of three men and a woman, all experienced pilots, were found in the balloon's crumpled gondola about 200 yards from the WBNS television tower, said Highway Patrol Lt. Randy Thatcher. People who saw the balloon said they had feared it wasn't high enough to clear the tower. "I'd been watching it from work when it came over town, and it looked like it was losing (altitude)," said firefighter David Roe, who saw the accident from the fire department's medical training center about a mile away. "It started climbing at a steep angle and looked like it would be OK, so I turned around to go back to my job. Then the secretary screamed, 'Oh my God! It hit the tower!' and I saw it was going down," Roe said.

INDIANA

Gov. Evan Bayh hung a red, white and blue ribbon on a door to the Statehouse in Indianapolis on Tuesday to show support for Hoosier soldiers serving in the Persian Gulf crisis. "Events in recent days have raised hopes that there will be a peaceful end to this dispute," Bayh said. "We pray for that, but meanwhile we must not forget the sacrifices being made by Hoosier men and women in uniform." The ribbon is a symbol of Operation Oasis, a plan for coordinating assistance to Indiana troops and their families. The governor said he would appoint a task force to help get packages and mail to Indiana soldiers and provide assistance to their families. Bayh also encouraged all Hoosiers to display red, white and blue ribbons in their homes and workplaces.

Tribal clash in South Africa kills 37 people

TOKOZA, South Africa (AP) — Factional rivalries erupted in warfare Tuesday in Tokoza, where Zulus and Xhosas slashed and shot 37 people to death and burned scores of homes before black officials held peace talks.

In the afternoon, when the violence had died down, women piled household belongings on their heads and fled in the rain to seek shelter in a nearby township.

Armed men stayed behind, guarding their shacks in the impoverished township and the workers' hostels that have become a flashpoint of factional unrest.

Representatives of the African National Congress and the Inkatha Freedom Party, whose supporters are at the center of the clashes, met later and said they would appeal to their followers to stop fighting.

Past appeals from leaders of the rival groups have made little difference. The death toll in Johannesburg townships has exceeded 1,000 since August, and ANC leader Nelson Mandela and Inkatha leader Mangosuthu Buthelezi have yet to sit down to talk.

Buthelezi, citing a tight schedule and late notice, rejected an invitation to tour Tokoza on Wednesday with Mandela and other black leaders. He said he instead would visit Tokoza separately with national Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok and said Mandela declined an invitation to join them.

Group shows women ways to balance work with family

By ANN MARIE HARTMAN
News Writer

"Compartmentalizing" is the key to successfully balancing studies or work with commitments to family or other relationships, according to a discussion group sponsored by the Year of Women Committee.

At a brown bag lunch discussion held in LaFortune Tuesday, various women shared their difficulties with balancing a family and a career. One of the attendees said that what has worked best for her has been to, "compartmentalize; do work at work, school at school, and do family when I am at home."

A representative of the Year of Women Committee, Kathie Newman of the Physics Department, discussed various child care options for working mothers and the necessity of finding one with which the parents are both comfortable. Overall, each of the working mothers said that even though their lives do not leave much time for them to be themselves, they all are leading very rich lives.

These brown-bag lunch meetings, over the course of the semester, have discussed several topics relating to the work environment. Each discussion has had several group leaders who have generally been from the faculty, staff, or graduate students of the Colleges of Sciences of Engineering of Notre Dame or from sister departments at St. Mary's.

These meetings were held on an experimental basis this semester. They have been well-received, Newman hopes that they will continue next semester. Sessions are open to all willing to share and participate. Future topics can be suggested at the meetings.

At Tuesday's meeting of the Faculty Senate, Robert Miller, director of University Libraries, said that, despite weaknesses in current library resources and services, the library has improved over the years and will continue to improve, if it receives input from faculty members and other library users.

"The libraries are basically about delivering information to researchers. Each individual has different needs and we have to try to respond to those needs. Our mission is a complicated one," said Miller.

Limitations to delivering information are posed by the availability of resources, the range of information needs that individuals have, and the format in which research is presented, he said.

Because library users occasionally need resources that have been checked out by other users, the library also faces problems with confidentiality in its circulation system, he said.

"The library profession at present has a code of ethics - no one under any circumstances has any idea of who has checked out what," he said. "We are trying to be idealistic and realistic in finding a solution to conflicting needs. We'd like to ask each member of the faculty and student body if they'd want their name released."

While most undergraduate areas of study have reasonably good library collections, and the library does have nationally recognized collections of theology, medieval studies, and sports material, the library is especially weak in current journal subscriptions, he said.

He also said that the library staff is committed, but inadequate in size to meet user needs, that the budget leaves no room for flexibility or expansion, and that library technology is reasonable, but not on the cutting edge.

"We have made a lot of progress in the last ten years. We have made progress in our ability to serve; we are doing better at meeting local needs than fifteen years ago," Miller said. "We have grown in our endowments. We have new, and I hope, better copiers. We are getting materials into UNLOC more quickly, and I think we've generally made a lot of progress with UNLOC.

Despite these improvements, Miller said he would like to see improvements in coverage for all undergraduate areas of study and for nationally recognized collections and the provision of facilities for the use of full-text data.

"We also hope to provide facilities that are more conducive to the work of graduate students. We have increased the number of carrels but we hope to provide a place for graduate students to work together," he said.

"We'd also like to extend hours, especially of branch libraries which are grossly inadequate in size, environment, and facilities. We are hoping this will change in the near future," he said.

Miller said that faculty members can help the library improve by sharing criticisms and praises with library personnel, by telling the library what students will need for their classes, by responding to surveys, by considering membership in the Friends of the Library of Notre Dame, and by having patience as the library improves.

Fees

"I'm not a programming body. As Treasurer, I have no say [in how an organization spends its money], as long as it falls within the constraints of the Student Government Constitution."

"I don't think the groups use the [Student Activities] Fee as effectively as they could to keep the clubs going," Hanley stated. "It's not [these] people's own money, so they're not as cautious on how they spend it."

One big problem in the allocation process is the amount of duplication in organizations' activities, said Hanley. He pointed to Student Government's Intellectual Life and SUB's Ideas and Issues Departments as one example where money is allocated for two organizations that are essentially the same. "Can you tell me the difference between these two?" he said.

Intellectual Life is, according to Pasin, "very cost-intensive." He cited Intellectual Life and Public Relations as two departments where much of the Student Government budget is spent.

For the 1990-91 budget, $17,500 was allocated for Intellectual Life, and $32,000 was allocated for Ideas and Issues.

Of the organizations receiving Student Activities funds, "HPC is the most effective group," according to Hanley. "Their money goes right into the dorms," he added, pointing to the Keenan Revue, St. Ed's Carnival, and Mr. Stanford as evidence of the funds' use.

Those organizations requesting Student Activities funds must follow a budget procedure before receiving their allocation.

Each group must submit a proposal to the Budget Committee, a standing committee of the Student Senate, which meets every April. This group is headed by the Student Body Treasurer and is composed of the Student Body President, Vice President, one class president, one HPC chairperson, the SUB manager, and the Club Coordination Council Chairman.

"Each group submits a budget proposal, and the Budget Committee reviews it and usually slashes it," Pasin admitted. "It's a hellacious thing," he continued, citing the 20 or more hours the committee spends reviewing the numerous proposals each April.

The Student Senate then reviews the Budget Committee's proposed budget and "has always approved it in the past," said Pasin.

"There's been a very significant and important change in the way clubs receive money," Hanley said, referring to the newly organized Club Coordination Council. This group reviews each club's budget proposal, and then turns its recommendations for all the clubs over to the Budget Committee.

"The Club Coordination Council is a big step towards improving the budgeting process. But it's still a tough process," Hanley said, referring to the Budget Committee's larger review of the individual proposals. "There are a lot of personalities involved. People not only look out for themselves, but they also attack others."

"When [everyone else's budget] is on the firing line, it's 'slash, slash, slash,' but when it comes time for their own budget to be proposed, it's 'we're down to the bare minimum.'"

Hanley stressed that the budgeting is "not an arbitrary process," and is not simply a continuation from last year's budget.

All of the $410,000 has not yet been allocated this year. A sum of $12,000 has been set aside in a contingency fund for unanticipated expenses, said Hanley.

According to Hanley, there was a surplus of $40,000 of Student Activities funds left over at the end of last year's Student Government administration.

"All the money left over goes into an outside account that earns interest," said Pasin. "This is called the 'carry forward fund' and it is used for capital expenditures."

Pasin cited the new Notre Dame Video Store as one example of a capital expenditure which used the carry forward funds, as well as purchasing vans for the Center for Social Concerns, "which all clubs can use."

Pasin stressed the fact that no Student Activities funds are being used for the Student Government lecture series. "This is strictly corporate-sponsored," he explained, noting that the average cost for each lecture speaker is around $8,000, plus travel and lodging expenses.

Car wreck on highway in Tennessee kills 15

CALHOUN, Tenn. (AP) — Two chain reaction crashes in dense fog on a highway in southeastern Tennessee killed 15 people Tuesday, injured more than 50 and left the roadway looking like a war zone.

A morning fog covered Interstate 75 over the Hiwassee River, about 40 miles north of Chattanooga, when the 75-vehicle pileup began about 9:30 a.m., said Cecil Whaley, director of the Tennessee Emergency Management Agency.

People involved in the accident, which covered more than a mile of the interstate, described hearing booms in the fog as dozens of tractor-trailers collided with each other and with cars.

Traveling salesman Ralph Fisher of Cleveland, Tenn., was headed north when he hit the fog patch. He said he noticed traffic slowing down so he pulled to the roadside.

"After that I started hearing bangs and booms from everywhere. Immediately after that there was a truck on fire from across the road. We stared hearing them banging and booming from over there. Then all of a sudden you started hearing them from everywhere," said Fisher, 43.

Whaley confirmed 15 dead, but said the number could rise as crews searched the burned shells of vehicles. In some cases, only nameplates distinguished the wreckage of a car smashed into the side of a truck.

"This is one of the worst accidents that anyone can remember happening in Tennessee in terms of the number of vehicles and fatalities involved," said Whaley, who followed rescue efforts from his Nashville office.

Names of the victims would not be immediately released because some of the bodies were burned beyond recognition, Whaley said.

Authorities believe an initial accident occurred in the southbound lane, and cars jumping the median or people rubbernecking to see the southbound crash may have caused the second pileup in the northbound lane.

From there, authorities say it was a ghastly chain reaction.

Russell Newman, eastern district regional director of the Tennessee Emergency Medical Agency, says no one is really sure what happened.

Former hostages raise their fists into the air, celebrating their arrival at Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Washington Monday. More than 150 Americans who had been trapped in Iraq and Kuwait for four months returned on a jetliner which had flown from Germany.

Some U.S. citizens will stay in Iraq

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 500 Americans, a majority of them children, will remain in Kuwait and Iraq after this week's evacuation flights, although the number who are doing so voluntarily is unclear, the State Department said Tuesday.

Spokesman Richard Boucher said some families with one or more Americans are staying because they have roots in Iraq or Kuwait. In other cases, the non-American head of household has been unable to obtain permission from Iraqi authorities to leave.

Just how many there are in each category could not be determined.

The evacuation of Americans appeared all but over Tuesday, as only eight boarded a government-chartered Boeing 707 in Baghdad, a department official said. When the same plane had left Kuwait en route to Baghdad, there were no Americans aboard.

With the exception of three Americans who have had visa problems, Boucher said, all Americans who wish to leave Iraq and Kuwait apparently have left, so far as is known.

On the chance that some Americans appear who have not yet made their presence known to U.S. officials, an additional charter flight is planned for Thursday. White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said that flight is likely to be the last. There are five U.S. diplomats working at the embassy in Kuwait and all will be brought home soon, but it has not yet been decided whether they will be aboard the Thursday flight.

The three other Americans who have been left behind had been among those used by Iraqi authorities as human shields to deter a potential U.S. military strike, Boucher said.

He said that as many as 510 Americans will remain in Kuwait and Iraq permanently. That is more than half the number who were in the two countries when President Saddam Hussein announced last week that all foreign hostages were free to go home.

"As of today, we believe that as many as 310 Americans have chosen to stay in Kuwait," Boucher said. "This includes 60 women, 215 children, and 35 males with dual Kuwaiti-American citizenship."

PROTECT YOURSELF with "CURB" (CN) FORMULA...

In the name of "personal protection," a mass fraud is being made against the public, especially those who need it the most—the elderly, females and others trusting in the effectiveness of the Tear gas containers they carry around.

Tear gas is manufactured under two formulas: (CS) and (CN). The most widely available is CS (Paralyzer, Sabre, Cap Stun, Pro-Tector, etc.) and is being touted as the "best" when in fact, it is not. The chief problem with (CS) tear gas is that it takes about 24 seconds to immobilize an attacker—if you are lucky enough to hit the attacker in the eyes. By contrast, (CN) formula tear gas incapacitates the assailant within 2 to 5 seconds from a "hit" anywhere in the chest area.

NOW, for the first time, Curb is being offered to the public (at a remarkably low price). Curb's (CN) effective 10 to 15 foot range will allow you to get to them before they get to you. Curb is the most potent of any tear gas weapon, 1/10% more potent than MACE and, a lot less expensive (also small enough to carry while jogging.)

It's final--Ivana Trump divorces The Donald

NEW YORK (AP) — A tearful Ivana Trump was divorced Tuesday from her millionaire husband, Donald, whose "cruel and inhuman treatment" was cited for the end of their 12-year marriage.

But the dissolution of the marriage left unresolved exactly who will get what from the troubled Trump empire and whether the couple's marital agreement giving Donald the lion's share will hold.

"There are two parts to any marriage: One, 'Are we married?' And two, 'Do I owe you any money?' Today we've cleared the way for the real issue: division of property," said Trump's lawyer, Jay Goldberg.

Mrs. Trump, assisted by attorney Michael Kennedy, left the courthouse in tears after the divorce was approved by state Judge Phyllis Gangel-Jacob.

While Mrs. Trump said through her attorney she would have no further comment on the matter, her ex-husband issued a statement of good will.

"I wish Ivana the best. I have no doubt that she will do very well in the years to come," said Trump.

But whether Mrs. Trump will do it with a reported $25 million pre-nuptial agreement or with much more remains to be seen. The judge said all other money matters such as child support, equitable distribution of property and the validity of any pre- and post-marital agreement will be decided at an April 11 trial, unless they are otherwise resolved.

Pro-life advocate stoops to life swapping

Dear Editor:

I find going to an abortion debate one of the most vivid reminders these days of human fallibility. Not only can we not agree on the issue, but many refuse to admit absolute knowledge of some of the facts, such as when human life truly begins.

Yet there must remain some absolutes in our society. We must, for example, if we are to have society at all, believe in such causes as human preservation. The abortion issue, however, finds us imposing human judgements over this very instinct in the interest of convenience and facility.

The abortion debate that took place on Nov. 29 was clouded by hypocrisy as each contender asserted or negated this absolute to meet his own ends. Not only did hypocrisy color the views of Ms. Weddington, the lawyer whose victory in Roe v. Wade still plagues our society, but a harshly contradictory statement made by Mr. Scheidler, the executive director of the Pro-Life Action League, served to blight his otherwise forceful argument.

Mr. Scheidler compromised his pro-life position when he struck a bargain with society that he would stop supporting a death penalty if abortion were outlawed. Is the pro-life movement now to stoop so low as to employ the pro-choice technique of swapping life for life, of deciding which human being's right should be dispensed with to achieve their own ends? It is bargaining that advocates of choice actually engage in, weighing the rights of the child against those of the mother, or figuring whether the probable quality of the child's life renders it worthwhile, as if the life of a human being should be subject to our economic laws of supply and demand or profit-expenditure.

For Mr. Scheidler to barter human life, deciding which is desirable and which disposable, and for him to support the death penalty, is for him to say his objections to abortion are not based on the right to life inherent in being human, but on some other kind of subjected decision. Quality or worthiness, perhaps? How dare he claim the right to decide if another human being has the right to live and then attack Ms. Weddington for subjecting humans to these same decisions of her own!

As pro-choice orators usually are, Ms. Weddington was well-versed in all the typical examples of advantageous exchanges of human beings: child for mother, child for child, helpless for powerful. For instance, she was quite concerned about the parents of a large family who might desire to eradicate any "extra" little blessings in order to better love and provide for the children they already have. She adamantly complained that many people worry a great deal about human life before birth, but fail to care for human life in the rest of society. She pleaded for expressions of the worth of human life through care of children and adults already visible in society rather than concentration on the lives of those unborn.

Better living conditions for the less fortunate of our society, increased love and attention to nurture our growing children, and overall concern and respect for the worth of human life are wonderful pursuits: not our choices, but rather things we must always strive for by laws of self-preservation and human decency. But how can wrenching the unborn baby from her womb enable a mother to better love her children? How can a society that supports the murder of its most innocent and vulnerable foster concern for the welfare of its dependents and nurture its young?

How can the worth of human life be respected when that life is being subjected to human judgements and technological capabilities cannot claim control. Respect for the human right to live must begin at the beginning of life and not end until the last breath is drawn. Overstepping this boundary negates the absolute, leaving each and everyone of us at the mercy of the masses.

Brochure needs group information

Dear Editor:

The Faculty/Student Committee on Women is organizing the composition and distribution of both a brochure describing the various women's groups on campus and a newsletter serving as a regular form of communication among these groups. We have already contacted many different organizations and committees for information yet realize that we may have neglected various groups. We encourage any of these groups within the Notre Dame community that would like to be part of our endeavor and have been overlooked to contact Sr. Kathleen Cannon in the Provost's Office by Friday, Dec. 14.

We believe that this attempt at networking will help to achieve the work of our committee as well as that of many others dedicated to similar efforts.

Families suffer from soldiers' brutality

Dear Editor:

My neighbors in Kuwait were living comfortably. They had a nice home, nice cars; they were a nice family. On the ninth day of the invasion, Iraqi soldiers broke into their house. They were stealing cars and other valuables and this house looked nice.

When the soldiers came in, the family was sitting at supper: two parents and four teen-aged daughters. The soldiers tied up and gagged the man; he was about fifty. He was a man of peace. He did not protest.

The soldiers packed everything they could in the family's cars. The woman and her daughters were crying. They said to the woman, "Choose your favorite daughters: you keep two and the conquerors take two!" She fell to her knees and begged them not to take her girls. "These are my babies," she said. "They are like your sisters. You are like my sons." She begged and begged and begged.

They laughed. "Choose two or we will take all four," they said. She kissed their boots and begged them not to in the name of everything they believed in. "We are all leaving," they warned. She chose to save her two youngest daughters. But they did not leave. "You took too long," they said. "We are going to punish you."

They raped her two youngest daughters in front of her eyes. They took turns. When they were done, they took the other two daughters with them. After four and a half weeks of searching, she found her daughters dead. They had been repeatedly raped and beaten....

QUOTE OF THE DAY

'There are no principles, no methods. Everything comes down to luck and happenstance. Nobody knows just where they stand.'

Ryszard Kapuscinski

Hell's bells! Beware of satanic carols

The other day as I was digging through my desk I came upon Joe Moody's "translation" of Hotel California by the Eagles. Joe pointed out that the song was a reference to the satanic church. I, being the journalist that I am, decided to ask around for other people's opinions.

People had no trouble believing that this song and many others were really evil songs with references to satanism, death and drug use. Some of the other songs with these drug references people mentioned were not Metallica or Iron Maiden but Led Zeppelin's "Stairway to Heaven" and Peter, Paul, and Mary's "Puff the Magic Dragon."

Now I know I am only a freshman (as some people pointed out oh-so-tastefully recently) but I think I have found another song to add to the list.

I know my discovery might shock a few people, but after discussing hidden messages with these mental giants, I don't know how I could have ever been so blind. These people are so right.

Now when I listen to Led Zeppelin and Pink Floyd these satanic death lyrics become glaringly obvious. Granted, Jimmy Page and Roger Waters are geniuses at disguising their true message, but individuals like Joe Moody have shown me the light. I have since disposed of all my records except for "John Denver and the Muppets' Christmas."

Getting to my new discovery

Michael Snyder
Duke On Stuff

— the other night at a "graceful" Christmas SYR, I heard the song that turned my life around. I was standing there, between the bed and my curly straws when the lyrics hit me square across the face. It was so obvious, so apparent. I couldn't understand why I hadn't figured it out before. It was as if my entire had been cleansed and my life had a new meaning. "Jingle Bells" is straight from Hell!

Dashing through the snow ...

The word dashing indicates the individual is out of control because of the break-neck speed they are racing at. This racing is obviously caused by this "snow", which is a common term for cocaine. This is an explicit invitation for you and me to join the race by doing drugs.

In a one horse open sleigh ...

A one horse sleigh indicates to the listener that there is only one available and open path to true enjoyment of life. This line, along with the next two lines, shows the author's evil intent.

Over the fields we go ...

The word "over" indicates the people are flying over a field by some supernatural force, probably the devil's work. The word "we" tells the listener to bring along their friends to join in these evil doings.

Laughing all the way ...

This is an obvious and easy line to decipher. This laughing is obviously referring to "snow" or cocaine. The words "the way" again tell the listener that his or her path is already chosen and all they can do is join by drug induced hallucinations.

Ha Ha Ha ...

This line is nothing more than screams of ecstasy from fornication.

Bells on bobtail ring ...

These bells are obviously referring to John Dohne's quote "Do not ask for whom the bell tolls, it tolls for thee." This quote concerns the good ole' days when the dead were collected right at your front doorstep. One knew when the undertaker was coming by the bells he would ring.

Making spirits bright ...

This line tells one that the only truly happy or "bright" individuals are the "spirits", which are, of course, the dead. The author is practically begging us to walk among the dead. Another possible interpretation is that the "spirits" are alcohol in the form of punch which is a violation of Du Lac.

Oh what fun it is to ride and sing a sleighing song tonight ...

This line tells the listener "Hey, come along. Everybody's doing it. You can quit any time. It's just one." The author uses the bandwagon effect to convince the reader to join in on this song of death and drug abuse.

It is apparent to me exactly what the author's intent was in writing this song. It is an open invitation for all of us to enter the dark and evil world of drugs and death. Not only are the lyrics morally corrupt, but when I played the song backwards, I heard subliminal messages.

This technique, known as backmasking, plays upon the subconscious mind which picks up the message that the conscious mind can not. When one plays the chorus backward, if one listens very carefully, one can hear "Women and Football Don't Mix." I don't have to tell anyone how I feel about that. (Nor do I want to hear what you think about that anymore.)

Needless to say, I was offended. This song is evil forward and backward and should be taken off records everywhere. Every time a child hears this song, they have to fight off the corrupt and rude messages the song contains.

I would just like to thank those individuals responsible for my awakening. I am making a personal vow to ban "Jingle Bells" forever. I don't know how I could have ever been so blind when the lyrics are so blatant. I'm not sure how successful my crusade will be, but this will put a new perspective on Christmas classics like "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," (another reference to drugs) and "Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer." (Perhaps Rudolph has been using the nose candy in his stocking!)

A farewell to Rome

By ELIZABETH WHOLIHAN
Accent Writer

Christmas vacation is quickly approaching. For those of us who are not staying with the Saint Mary's program for a full year, this vacation is a fabulous opportunity for three whole weeks of travel in Europe. One popular choice will bring together Notre Dame and Saint Mary's student with a celebration in Austria. Those of us who are returning to the States before Christmas are hurrying to squeeze in a few more excursions to the parts of Italy we just should not miss.

However, before we lose contact with our home campuses at Christmas break, there are just a few more things we would like to share with you. If you have thought about studying in Rome but never got around to applying, it is not too late. Prove something to yourself and get an application. Everyone should experience a semester or year abroad if possible.

Some of the experiences were silly and pretty unimportant. Nevertheless, they have made an impression and will not be forgotten. For instance, many of us will never forget seeing Ma and Pa Kettle or "The Bold and the Beautiful" on television in Italian. Italian MTV must be experienced and should not be explained.

Our group will never forget our self-appointed "song advisor," Matteo, who always found an appropriate song to fit an occasion. "Happy Birthday" and the theme song to "The Jetsons" were two of the easier tunes, but it was a challenge to remember the words to "The Mary Tyler Moore Show."

"If you have thought about studying in Rome,... prove something to yourself and get an application."

We will always credit Dave for helping us study our art history. His imitative poses were more interesting and useful than the book alone. All of these things are little experiences that are noticed by an individual either alone or as part of a group. Some may be silly, but they will not be forgotten.

This is the last article for the semester from the students in Rome. Although I am returning to Notre Dame next semester, perhaps someone will keep the home campuses aware of the existence of the students abroad. Personally, I want to thank the other students in Rome for their support—and yes, they will see this article—because many of my ideas were based on their words and actions.

To any students who have considered studying abroad for a semester or a year, I hope the articles have given you an idea of some of the more personal aspects of the experience. Nothing is perfect. You will not be pleased with every aspect of the program, but that is a personal opinion. It really is an opportunity to change (I know I did even though I laughed when people told me the same thing.)

It is a fantastic risk to take. A person really steps away from the security of friendships and family, even more so than freshman year. Most importantly, the whole trip is what you want it to be and what you make of it.

Bucks down Bulls, Robinson unplugs Pistons

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jay Humphries scored 21 points and the Milwaukee Bucks went on a 24-10 tear in the third quarter to beat the Chicago Bulls 99-87 Tuesday night, setting set a club record with an 11-0 start at home.

Frank Brickowski added a season-high 19 points, Alvin Robertson 16 and Jack Sikma 15 as the Bucks took over first place in the Central Division with a 15-6 record. Milwaukee was 10-0 at home to start the 1984-85 season.

Chicago, which had beaten the Bucks 18 of 21 times the last three seasons including the playoffs last season, was led by Michael Jordan with 31 points. Scottie Pippen added 14 points.

Milwaukee used a 13-2 surge early in the third quarter — the only spurt by either team up to that point — to open up a 66-60 lead. Robertson had 6 points and Sikma 5 in the spurt.

Jordan scored twice for the Bulls to cut it back to 2 points, but the Bucks went on an 11-1 surge behind 5 points from Brickowski to lead 77-65 entering the fourth quarter.

Jordan hit a three-point play with 3:15 left to make it 87-82. But Sikma hit a bank shot and Robertson made two free throws with 2:43 to go, putting Milwaukee up 9 points.

Spurs 95, Pistons 86

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — David Robinson had 27 points and 16 rebounds as the San Antonio Spurs handed the Detroit Pistons their first home loss of the season, 95-86 Tuesday night.

The Pistons, looking tired after a 1-4 trip to the West Coast, are 8-1 at Tha Palace. It was only their second loss in 14 games in which they have held opponents under 100 points.

Joe Dumars led the Pistons, who missed 11 of 35 free throws, with 19 points. Isiah Thomas added 16 points and John Salley 15. Rod Stickland added 16 points for the Spurs and Sean Elliott 13.

The Pistons, who didn't make a basket until 4:03 into the game, led by 1 point twice in the first quarter, the last at 19-18 on a basket by Salley with 2:06 remaining.

But Elliott had 5 of his 7 first-quarter points as the Spurs outscored Detroit 8-3 the rest of the period.

With Robinson scoring 7 of his 9 second-quarter points, the Spurs led 48-39 with 2:49 left in the period. But Detroit outscored San Antonio 8-2 the rest of the way to cut the deficit to 3 points at halftime.

San Antonio's Terry Cummings had a hyper-extended left knee and left the game late in the half after scoring seven points.

76ers 119, Magic 114

ORLANDO, Fla. — Hersey Hawkins made five of six 3-point shots to match Dennis Scott in a long-distance shooting duel and Rick Mahorn delivered a key three-point play with 1:21 to go Tuesday night, leading the Philadelphia 76ers to a 119-114 victory over the Orlando Magic.

Charles Barkley led Philadelphia with 28 points and Hawkins had 27 as the 76ers extended their winning streak to four games. Orlando lost for the 10th time in 12 outings despite Scott's career-high 29 points.

Walsh may coach Tampa...

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Bill Walsh says he plans to wait until after the NFL playoffs to decide whether to stay in broadcasting or return to football, but the Tampa Bay Buccaneers would be his top choice if he chooses the latter.

"If I pick a team to sign with, Tampa Bay would be at the top of my list," Walsh told the St. Petersburg Times on Monday. "But there's a lot that would have to occur before we finalized something."

Walsh led the San Francisco 49ers to three Super Bowl titles before retiring after the 1988 season. He has seven games

Although not in a hurry to make a decision about his future, he thinks Tampa Bay could be a good opportunity.

"I have great respect for (owner) Hugh Culverhouse and great respect for the whole organization," Walsh said.

"I also think Tampa Bay can become competitive and real contenders in that division (NFC Central) right away. It's just a matter of me looking into whether I want to leave the San Francisco area at this stage of my life. That would be the prime consideration."

Walsh said he has not talked directly with Culverhouse, but that he has had two conversations with San Francisco owner Eddie DeBartolo and 49ers president Carmen Policy about the Bucs coaching vacancy.

He said Culverhouse had asked DeBartolo and Policy to present Tampa Bay's position in preliminary discussions.

DeBartolo told the newspaper on Sunday that Walsh "might prefer to be the general manager instead of being on the field." The former 49ers coach would not elaborate on what position he would like to hold for the Bucs.

everything works out, what kind of offers I get," says Curry.

Says Schafer of Curry's chances, "He's made a tremendous improvement. If he continues, who knows?"

For the immediate future, Curry's concerns are his continued improvement and the play of the team over Christmas break, when they go East to play four games.

"I'm happy (with my play so far), but I think I can do better,"

he says. "The biggest part of the season is what happens after Christmas. All of the eastern guys will be psyched."

The Irish will have some time to kill before their next game, however, as they will enjoy a two-week vacation before they take off for the East Coast. Curry is one person who can use the rest.

"You get run-down working out everyday," he says.

And for a busy mechanical engineer/left wing, vacation time is a precious commodity.

...but Browns want him, too

The Cleveland Browns have talked to former San Francisco 49ers coach Bill Walsh about joining the organization, according to a published report.

The report also said any Browns shakeup would not involve the jobs of Browns executive vice president Ernie Accorsi or pro personnel director Mike Lombardi.

The (Cleveland) Plain Dealer quoted unidentified sources as saying the Browns were one of three teams to contact Walsh, now an NBC-TV analyst, about a head coaching or front-office position. The other teams are believed to be Tampa Bay and a West Coast team, possibly the Los Angeles Rams, the newspaper said.

"I'm not going to comment on that," Modell said when asked if Walsh had been contacted. "I'm not going to comment on any names in relation to the coach of the Cleveland Browns."

Bud Carson was fired as Browns head coach on Nov. 5 after the team went 2-7.

He was replaced by Cleveland offensive coordinator Jim Shofner, who is not expected to return as head coach next season but may take a post with the team's front office. Under Shofner, the Browns have deteriorated to 2-11.

Field

a poor public address system. Problems with the field itself include insufficient dugout room (the visitor's space only fits 14 people) and inadequate storage areas.

Cosmetic changes on the field, however, have been excellent. Notre Dame coach Pat Murphy commends the playing field surface, calling it "much better" than downtown Coveleski Stadium, the site of the class-A South Bend White Sox.

"It takes seven or eight years to mold a ground like that," said Murphy, "and the groundspeople have done a great job."

Major improvements of the field—or the outright construction of another stadium, perhaps across from Eck Tennis Pavilion, and re-sodding Jake Kline's surface on the new field—is becoming necessary as the disparity between Irish baseball attendance and other teams' attendance grows.

A Notre Dame Sports Marketing report revealed that 86 percent of the student respondents would be more likely to attend a campus baseball game if the stadium were of a higher quality, similar to the good-time atmosphere at Coveleski, where there is plenty of seating, concessions and bathrooms.

It is true that a school in the Midwest is not going to be the most ideal place to watch a baseball game. The weather is too unpredictable. But if Notre Dame wants to see the baseball team truly grow and create a corresponding growth in fan attendance, something will be done about the miserable atmosphere for watching a baseball game.

If something is done, things might be "shakin' at the Jake" for different reasons.

New study reports higher steroid use

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — A limited study of five NCAA Division I-A schools suggests that more than a quarter of the nation's football players may have used steroids at least once.

A professor in Penn State's college of health and human development said Monday his study sets an "upper limit" of actual anabolic steroid use among college athletes, whereas an NCAA study done last year set a lower limit.

"The mean overall projected rate of use of anabolic steroids across all sports surveyed was 14.7 percent for male athletes and 5.9 percent of females," Professor Charles Yesalis said.

Yesalis, who worked with researchers from Penn State and five other schools, said the study shows that steroid use is more widespread than earlier thought. Last year's NCAA study, based on self-reporting, estimated steroid use at less than five percent.

"For years, a number of researchers have believed that with self-reporting there's an underreporting of use," Yesalis said. "This represents an upper bound, and for the first time there are boundaries and somewhere in between is reality," Yesalis said.

Athletes at five schools that agreed to participate in the study were asked to estimate steroid use among their opponents. Even so, Yesalis said the athletes said a lot about their own programs.

Chang upsets Edberg in Slam Cup

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Michael Chang won the last four games to upset top-ranked Stefan Edberg 6-4, 4-6, 7-5 on Tuesday in the opening round of the $6 million Grand Slam Cup, the richest tournament in tennis history.

Chang, who trailed 5-3 in the decisive set, broke Edberg's last two service games to win the error-filled match.

"I knew I had a decent chance against him, I've played him before and he's won some and I've won some," Chang said.

Pete Sampras and Goran Ivanisevic also advanced to the second round. Sampras, the U.S. Open champion who is seeded fourth, overcame a sloppy start to beat Andrei Cherkasov of the Soviet Union 5-7, 6-2, 7-5. Ivanisevic, the fifth seed from Yugoslavia, ousted Kevin Curren 7-6 (7-3), 7-6 (9-7).

The 16-man field was determined on the basis of results in the four Grand Slam tournaments of the year — the Australian, French and U.S. Opens and Wimbledon. The winner gets $2 million and first-round losers receive $100,000.

Chang's stamina and determination prevailed over Edberg, who made too many unforced mistakes on his usually perfect volleys.

The victory leaves Chang trailing 5-3 in career clashes against Edberg. Chang beat Edberg when he became the youngest Grand Slam winner at the 1989 French Open.

Edberg was serving for the match at 5-4, but double-faulted and hit a volley wide to allow Chang pull even. Chang then held his serve at love, the first love game of the match, then got to match point on a double-fault before passing Edberg at the net for the victory.

"The year is finished at last, and that's one good thing," said Edberg, who won only three points in the last three games. "I missed a lot of easy shots, it's hard to get motivated after such a tough year."

Sampras served 16 aces but struggled with his second serve and his ground strokes.

"I rely on my first serve maybe too much," Sampras said.

He lost the first set when he committed two double faults.

On the first, he fell behind 15-40. The 19-year-old American then served an ace but followed with another double fault to give Cherkasov the set.

Sampras quickly took control and dominated the second set, firing three aces on the last four points to win. He had a chance to put the match away after going up a break for a 5-4 lead in the final set, but hit a forehand long on the third break point.

But the Soviet was unable to take advantage. A spectacular passing shot down the line gave Sampras two break points and when Cherkasov netted a backhand, the American regained the lead.

Watson may rejoin Club now that Jew is accepted

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Tom Watson still will not indicate whether he intends to rejoin the Kansas City Country Club, although he said he is pleased by the club's decision to invite Henry Bloch into the fold.

Watson, who grew up playing golf at the 94-year-old private club, resigned Nov. 28 when he learned the club's membership committee rejected an application by Bloch, who is Jewish.

Watson's wife and two children are Jewish. He is not.

The club's current and incoming board of directors announced last week that if Bloch re-submitted an application it "will be acted upon favorably."

Bloch, chairman and chief executive of H&R Block Inc., a national tax-preparation firm, said he planned to do so.

Club president L. Chandler Smith said if Watson chooses to rejoin, he must follow procedure and apply for reinstatement. The club's board of directors then must approve his application.

North Stars lose again, Blackhawks beat Penguins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Al MacInnis, the NHL's top-scoring defenseman, extended his scoring streak to seven games with a goal and two assists Tuesday night as the Calgary Flames built a 5-1 lead before holding off a third-period rally for a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota North Stars.

Though he allowed four goals, Mike Vernon was often spectacular in stopping 33 shots. He has 14 victories, second in the NHL to Chicago's Ed Belfour, and is 5-1-2 in his last eight games. Robert Reichel scored twice for the Flames, who are unbeaten (4-0-3) in their last seven road games.

Dave Gagner had two goals for Minnesota, which lost for only the second time in seven games (4-2-1).

Blackhawks 4, Penguins 1

PITTSBURGH — Troy Murray, Steve Larmer and Mike McNeill scored just over four minutes apart in the third period to give the Chicago Blackhawks a 4-1 win over the Pittsburgh Penguins on Tuesday night.

Chicago has the NHL's best road record at 11-5-1, including a 9-2-1 streak. The Penguins are 1-6-1 in their last eight home games and have scored five goals in their last four games.

Penguins goalie Frank Pietrangelo was given a 10-minute misconduct and game misconduct for arguing with referee Kerry Fraser after Larmer's goal at 10:49. Pietrangelo, apparently believing he was interfered with by Mike Hudson, slammed his stick against the goal cage and was given the penalties. Wendell Young replaced him.

Larmer scored his 22nd goal when he deflected Chris Chelios' shot from the right point.

Islanders 3, Devils 2

UNIONDALE, N.Y. — Ray Ferraro's second goal of the game with 42 seconds remaining in regulation time gave the Islanders a 3-2 victory over the New Jersey Devils, snapping New York's seven-game winless streak.

Ferraro took a pass from Bill Berg in the Devils' zone, used

Tom Fitzgerald as a pick to avoid a defenseman and swept into the slot, where he deked Chris Terreri to the ice and shoveled a forehand shot into the vacated net.

The Islanders had been 0-5-2 since beating Winnipeg on Thanksgiving night and are 2-7-2 in their last 11 games.

The Devils trailed 2-0 after two periods but tied the game on power-play goals by Brendan Shanahan and Claude Lemieux.

Capitals 4, Flyers 1

LANDOVER, Md. — Dino Ciccarelli scored a goal and assisted on another as the Washington Capitals defeated the Philadelphia Flyers 4-1 on Tuesday night.

Washington improved its record to 8-4-0 in the last 12 games and is now 5-0-1 in its last six against the Flyers.

The Observer/John Studebaker

Notre Dame hops leading scorer Daimon Sweet (16.4 ppg) will help pull the Irish out of the doldrums of defeat tonight against USC.

season.

The Trojans will look to senior forward Ronnie Coleman to do most of the damage inside the paint. Coleman leads the team in rebounding with 10.2 rpg even though he is only 6-6, and is second on the team in scoring with 17.2 ppg. Point guard Robert Pack, the only other Trojan player averaging in double figures at 13.2 ppg, handles most of the playmaking chores as he averages 5.8 apg.

USC is coached by George Raveling, one of the most recognized figures in all of college basketball. Raveling, whose resume includes assistant coaching duties in the 1984 and 1988 Olympics, is in his fifth season at USC.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, will count on the Texas Express backcourt of Daimon Sweet and Elmer Bennett for most of its scoring. Sweet, a 6-5 guard, leads the Irish with 16.4 ppg, while Bennett, who will continue to assume the point guard duties while Tim Singleton is out with a back injury, averages 15.5 ppg and 4.8 apg.

6-9 junior LaPhonso Ellis (14.9 ppg, 10.9 rpg) will be counted on for inside scoring from his forward position, and 6-11 center Keith Tower should help out on the boards. Either Kevin Ellery (11.8 ppg) or freshman Brooks Boyer will round out the starting lineup.

Boyer and Jon Ross have been getting considerably more playing time of late, and with Singleton's injury their continued improvement off the bench may be essential to the team's progress. Boyer in particular has been impressive in the last three games, averaging 9.0 ppg over that period and helping Bennett with the ballhandling chores.

"The way I can help with Tim Singleton out of the lineup is to help bring the ball up," Boyer says. "Elmer can't do that all by himself. And if I get the open shot I think I can knock it down and maybe help out with a couple of three-pointers. I'm not going to go coast to coast and dunk in anyone's face, but hopefully I can help out."

ND hopes to rebound from losing streak tonight

Trojans invade ACC to face 2-6 team

By KEN TYSIAC
Associate Sports Editor

The Notre Dame men's basketball team desperately needs a win to pull itself out of the depths of a losing streak that has reached six games.

The Irish (2-6) hope to get a win tonight when USC visits the Joyce ACC at 8 p.m. Although the Trojans have a 4-1 record, their victories have come against teams like Chicago State, San Diego State and Colorado State. In their lone game against a respectable opponent, the Trojans lost 72-59 against Maryland.

Still, USC has beaten the teams it was expected to beat. Notre Dame, on the other hand, has not. Last Monday, for example, the Irish lost 91-77 to a very beatable Butler squad. Although coach Digger Phelps's squad can explain its losing record by pointing out that Notre Dame's schedule has been a murderer's row featuring Arizona, Duke, Indiana and UCLA, the fact remains that the Irish have to win against the lesser teams even if they do play well against the top programs in the country.

USC is one of the teams on the schedule which Notre Dame must defeat.

"You have to go into every game believing you're going to win," freshman guard Brooks Boyer says. "Especially with the situation we're in right now, we have to go in there tomorrow, play hard and get the win."

In order to stop USC, the Irish will have to stop 6-5 sophomore guard Harold Miner, who averages 24.0 points per game. Miner, who was recruited heavily by Notre Dame, is currently shooting 60.3 percent from the field and has made 12 of 26 three-pointers on the Elmer Bennett will direct the Notre Dame offense tonight as the Irish try to snap a six-game losing streak when they host USC at 8 p.m. at the JACC. Senior point guard Tim Singleton is still out with a back injury.

The Observer/Scott McCann

Minnesota-bred Mike Curry is a potent part of the Irish offensive assault. The junior has nine goals and nine assists this year.

Tough schedule doesn't bother Curry

By RICH KURZ
Sports Writer

Most students at the University of Notre Dame feel their schedule is plenty full when they are enrolled in five courses, but not Mike Curry.

A mechanical engineer, Curry is not only taking six classes, but in his spare time he finds the energy to star for the Notre Dame hockey team. The junior left wing is the second-leading scorer on the Irish squad, with nine goals and nine assists in 15 games so far this season.

"This year it's been really tough," says Curry of his busy schedule, "but in the past it's helped."

Notre Dame coach Ric Schafer credits his star with excellent organizational ability.

"He's a rare individual," says Schafer. "He can manage the rigors of academics and hockey."

Intelligence is not the junior's only asset. If the rink at the Joyce ACC were a racetrack, then Curry would be A.J. Foyt. He's the fastest skater on the team, and he enjoys using his speed.

"I like it when the games are really wide open," Curry says,

Mike Curry

"like when it's four-on-four or three-on-three. I can get open a lot easier. That's the most fun part."

Schafer has given Curry the green light, saying, "He's got tremendous speed, and he's starting to use it."

Curry enjoyed a successful high school career, playing for John Marshall High School in Rochester, Minn., where he made all-conference and all-state his senior year.

Making the all-state team in Minnesota is no small feat, but even so Curry was relatively unprepared for the jump to college hockey.

"The first year he was overwhelmed," says Schafer. "His second year he made adjustments, and this year he's really coming into his own."

Last year Curry was the sixth-leading scorer on the team, but this year he has become an essential part of the Irish offense.

"He'd done reasonably well the past two years," says Schafer, "but he was disappointed with his point production. He's hungrier this year, more willing to give and take checks."

According to Curry, a balanced scoring attack is part of the reason for Notre Dame's success this season.

"The team doesn't depend on me. We have three good scorers in David Bankoske, Lou Zadra, and myself. One has to be hot (for the Irish to win)," he says.

As for his future, Curry has many options. Most hockey players dream of playing professional hockey, but Curry isn't sure he'll take the opportunity if he gets it. With a degree in mechanical engineering from Notre Dame, he has the luxury of taking offers from two different fields.

"I could see myself playing pro hockey in Europe where the rinks are bigger and my speed will be more important, but I have to see how

Irish Baseball deserves better than Jake Kline

Notre Dame has a world-class athletic program. There is no disputing it. Some examples of its world-class facilities are Rolfs Aquatic Center, which rivals any collegiate swimming site in the nation; the Eck Tennis Pavilion, an attractive recruiting tool for tennis coaches Bob Bayliss and Jay Louderback; the Loftus Sports Center, which contains an indoor football field and one of the fastest indoor tracks in the nation.

Jake Kline Field, however, doesn't cut it.

Whereas other programs' facilities are some of the best in the nation, Jake Kline Field is one of the worst. And that description does not fit a class act like the Irish baseball program.

The inclusion of three more solid recruits to the Notre Dame baseball team only summons more embarrassment that we don't have adequate resources for them. Here are Murphy's three prize catches for next season:

•Craig Allen, a pitcher from Franklin, Ky., who had a 0.72 ERA last season and a 10-2 record, fanning 94 batters in 67 innings. Allen also hit .396 and stole 24 of 26 bases during that season. He was rated by Kentucky 24 magazine as the top pitcher in the state.

•Steve Verduzco, a shortstop from San Jose, Calif., who hit .405 and stole 36 bases for his American Legion team this past summer. As a junior at Bel-larmine Prep, he batted .355 with 26 thefts, meanwhile maintaining a 4.0 GPA. He is the brother of Illinois quarterback Jason Verduzco, and he has two brothers at Yale, one a quarterback and the other a pitcher.

•Tim Kraus, a pitcher out of Cincinnati, who compiled a 1.57 ERA at Colerain High, going 7-2 in his junior season. He also played quarterback for the football team and averaged more than 20 points a game for the basketball squad.

This catch fits the direction of the baseball team, which is slowly going the way of a national contender. Granted, it is not there yet, but with student body and Athletic Department support, it just might reach it in the near future.

But stop and look around. What you find is not the most encouraging state of support for the baseball program.

Fan attendance is a major problem. Nobody goes to the games. But let's not lay all the blame on the student body. Jake Kline Field is not exactly Dodger Stadium (sorry for the partisanship).

I can remember getting my first baseball writing assignment at The Observer, during my freshman year. I was up at the office feeling pretty proud when Dennis Corrigan, the sports editor, said, "Things are shakin' at the Jake. Bring a parka."

This seeming non sequitur turned out to be a telling characterization of the weather at Jake Kline: It's about 10 degrees colder than surrounding areas. I don't know why. It has something to do with the wind, and possibly with the configuration of buildings around the field. Whatever it is, it causes for vicious winds that have made my bones colder than any other weather conditions I've experienced at Notre Dame.

Other problems that discourage fan attendance are scarce seating, no bathrooms, no concession stands and
