

THE OBSERVER

Wednesday, September 14, 1994, Vol. XXVI No. 13

THE INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER SERVING NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY'S

Three resolutions passed by Senate

By GWENDOLYN NORGLÉ
News Writer

Sponsoring a forum on academic life, expressing its concerns to the Board of Trustees, and recommending stricter enforcement of principles on intercollegiate athletics were the topics of three resolutions passed by the Faculty Senate at their meeting this week.

The first resolution stated that the Faculty Senate would sponsor the Notre Dame Forum on Academic Life for the 1994-95 academic year.

The Forum, which was proposed by the Chair of the Faculty Senate, would invite "some of the most distinguished and articulate" members of the faculty to deliver papers on various aspects of "the intellectual and academic life" of Notre Dame, according to a letter written by the Chair in May 1994. Other members of the faculty would be welcome to attend an open forum discussing these topics.

The proposal for the Forum was brought before the Senate on Aug. 29, where it was "unanimously endorsed." If approved by the entire Senate, the Faculty Senate will cover the cost of advertisements for the Forum, which will be held in the Center for Continuing Education.

The Forum will be organized by an ad hoc committee of Faculty Senators appointed by the Chair of the Faculty Senate.

Resolving that the Faculty Senate should communicate one of its concerns to the Board of Trustees, the second resolution of the Faculty Senate said that "the spirit if not the letter" of the Academic Articles of Notre Dame were broken when the Board created and appointed another officer of the University.

According to the Faculty Senate, the Board failed to recognize the "shared responsibility" of trustees, administrators, faculty and students in filling appointments. The position was filled without any "meaningful input" from faculty members, according to the Faculty Senate.

However, according to the Academic Articles, "the Board of Trustees is the final institutional authority of the University," which includes the authority to create and fill the position of an officer. The Senate further resolved that the Academic Articles should be modified so that any appointments require "formal Faculty input."

In its third resolution, the Faculty Senate recommended that the Academic Council support "the effort of reform in intercollegiate athletics," according to the Faculty Senate. The Academic Council could join in

see SENATE / page 4

The Observer/Michelle Di Re

Constructing the future

Sorin College senior Dirk Bedford peers inside the display in the architecture building lobby.

Weekend Wheels fate uncertain

By BRAD PENDERGRAST
News Writer

The Weekend Wheels program may be brought to an end if some of the questions concerning it cannot be resolved, the Hall Presidents' Council said at its meeting last night.

The four-year old program, which helps students at off-campus bars and parties get home to campus safely, has been plagued by occasional low ridership and abuse of its services.

The program's current schedule, in which the buses go from a bar to student residences and then back to another bar, is misused by students who view it as free transportation to get from one tavern to the next, according to Hilary Bonenberger, co-chairperson of the council.

The council will hold a meeting earlier next week to discuss its options.

"If we feel that Weekend Wheels is beneficial to the campus, then we'll continue with it," Bonenberger said, "but if it is detrimental, we will look into using our funds for more worthwhile activities."

One problem in changing the buses' schedules is that the council will then forfeit the money it has already spent in printing up advertisements.

But if the current schedule is kept, bus drivers will be relegated to baby-sitting the students to make sure they do not abuse the service.

"We can't expect the bus drivers to tackle people who try to get away with misusing it," Bonenberger said.

The body of hall presidents voted unanimously last year to keep Weekend Wheels, but the usefulness of the program has changed since then.

"The service has been utilized tremendously in the past, but recently, it has been sometimes used not at all," she said.

In other news discussed at the meeting:

- A survey concerning the feasibility of installing cable television in dorm rooms will be passed out to students in the next few days.

- Friday is the deadline for signing up for the trip to the USC - Notre Dame game on Thanksgiving Break. Information and tickets are available at Anthony Travel, located in LaFortune Student Center.

- Rudy Ruettiger will speak at Flanner Tower on Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Crash raises troubling questions

By RON FOURNIER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The dispirited truck driver whose plane plowed into the White House grounds died with trace amounts of cocaine in his system and more alcohol than legally allowed for flight, officials said Tuesday.

And in a worrisome lapse of security, the tiny aircraft showed up on radar screens at the nearby National Airport, but operators did not notice until after the crash. "It was ... missed," a Secret Service spokesman said.

The news provided federal investigators their first clues about how Frank Corder's plane slipped past expensive security systems, and whether his flight was a suicide, a bungled prank, or a threat against President Clinton.

Agency spokesman Dave Adams said an autopsy showed that Corder's blood-alcohol content was 0.045 percent, slightly above the 0.04 percent legal limit for pilots. The legal limit for driving an automobile in most states is 0.10 percent.

Adams said the autopsy found "trace amounts of cocaine in his system," but complete results will not be available until tissue samples are examined.

Relying on a flawed initial test, the Secret Service at first said Corder's blood-alcohol content was 0.32 percent, eight times the legal limit. It is possible follow-up tests could pinpoint his alcohol content at a different figure, officials said.

Investigators said privately they were not surprised by the autopsy findings, but the results didn't point to a single motive. "He could have had a final drink or two" before killing himself, "or he might have been a little too drunk to land," said one investigator.

Investigators made significant inroads on the most politically sensitive question: How did Corder get so close to smashing into the White House?

Adams said radar at National Airport picked up the plane shortly before the crash, but the operators did not notice it. "They did not see the aircraft on the radar screen. After reviewing the tapes ... they did see it on the image," he said.

As a result, Secret Service agents at the White House did not know the plane had invaded restricted airspace until it was spotted by a guard seconds before the crash. Adams said he did not know how much time elapsed between the time the plane was recorded on radar and the crash.

The Federal Aviation Administration keeps recorded images of everything operators see on the radar. An FAA spokesman said the normal contingent of two radar operators was on duty at the time of the crash, but he did not confirm the Secret Service report that investigators have preliminarily determined that the plane could be seen on the radar screen as it approached the White House.

The Observer/Eric Ruethling

I'm a grill-watcher

Sophomores Jake Schaller and Jason Newcomer enjoy themselves during the Farley-Zahm Big Brother/Big Sister picnic on North Quad.

■ Inside Column

Gettin' down with mom and the Stones

Mick Jagger is my father. My mother has been telling me this for years but I never really believed it until Monday night.

Mom has always been a big Rolling Stones fan. The whole paternity issue first came up when I got braces in the fourth grade. When I arrived home from the orthodontist with my lips sticking two inches out from my face, my mom pulled me aside and let me in on her little secret about Mick, or should I say, "Dad."

By Mary Good
Accent Editor

So Monday night, Mom and I packed it up and headed for Chicago to see the Stones.

In the car on the way we jammed to Rolling Stones oldies. Ruby Tuesday, Get Off of My Cloud, Satisfaction... Mom knew all the words and I tried to keep up. When we rolled into the parking lot I was sure Mom was burnt out already. I mean, two hours of intense lip synching is no easy feat for a woman her age. But that was just the beginning.

When the lights went down, Mom jumped up. Then, he appeared. Actually, he came running out onto stage, jumping and dancing, rocking and rolling just like a teenager.

One look at Mom and I knew it was true. Mick Jagger is my father.

Now, I have known the lady all my life and never ever have I seen that look on her face before. For at least twenty years now she must have been saving that smile for Mick. And that wave too. She was just grinning and flailing her arms around and I think she believed he was singing "Not Fade Away," just for her.

Maybe he was. Whatever is between Mom and Mick, though, is beyond my comprehension. I mean, I dig Eddie Vedder, but...

The whole reason I was at the concert anyway was by default. My dad, or should I say "Joe," bought two tickets for my mom but refused to go. Smart man. She was a lot of fun, but talk about a total character transformation.

Mom has always informed me that only "bad girls" do things like stand on their chairs and drool over men in leather pants. Monday night Mom was a "bad girl." She just got up there with the rest of us unmarried, pre-professional, wild and crazy college kids and she rocked all night.

Our seats were not wonderful. Although we were on the main floor, we were pretty far back. Whenever Mom could catch a glimpse of Mick she pulled me close and pointed until I could spot the little speck of her rock star bouncing around way up there on the stage.

Every song was her favorite. Start Me Up, Shattered, Jumpin' Jack Flash... During Honkytonk Women, a cast of super-star blow-up dolls inflated. I could identify most of them. Elvis and Cleopatra to name a few, but there was one doll that probably only I could recognize. Yes, you guessed it, one of those Honkytonk personalities closely resembled Mom.

As the concert started winding down, the novelty of having Mick Jagger as a father wore off and the novelty of having a groupie as my mother kicked in.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

■ Today's Staff

News	Production
Kate Crisham	Kira Hutchinson
Ed Imbus	Kim Massman
Sports
George Dohrmann	Graphics
Viewpoint	Chris Mullins
Suzy Fry
Accent	Lab Tech
Kym Kilbride	Eric Ruethling

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

■ World at a Glance

Quarter of all females who quit school are pregnant

WASHINGTON

More than a quarter of the girls who drop out of high school cite pregnancy as the reason — and nearly 8 percent of male dropouts say it's because they've become parents.

But the most common reason for dropping out still is a plain dislike of school, the Education Department said Tuesday.

In its annual dropout report, the department said 381,000 high school students aged 15 to 24 quit school last year. All told, 3.4 million people aged 16 to 24 — 11 percent of the age group — are high school dropouts.

Although the 11 percent rate was unchanged from 1992, it has declined since the 1970s, when it ranged from 14 percent to 14.5 percent.

School Dropouts

Girls who cite pregnancy as a cause of school dropout by race:

White	26%
Hispanic	31%
Black	34%

Dropout rates for students aged 16 to 24 according to family income:

Low-Income	19.8%
Middle-Income	9.9%
High-Income	2.7%

Dropout rates in the four regions of the United States:

South	13%
West	12.5%
Midwest	8.8%
Northeast	8.5%

The Observer/Chris Mullins

"Students who were black or Hispanic, living in families with low income, or living in the South or West were less likely to complete high school," the report said.

However, the report found an encouraging trend among black students, whose high school graduation rate rose from 74 percent in 1972 to nearly 84 percent in 1993. Among whites, the graduation rate rose from 85 percent to 90 percent. Overall, 86 percent of all students completed high school last year.

"Many dropouts say they left school because they were failing or just didn't like it," Education Secretary Richard Riley said. "Some will come back and finish, but too many find themselves unemployed or stuck in a job with no future."

Barry nominated for DC mayorship

WASHINGTON

With 70 percent of Washington's vote counted, Marion Barry held a narrow lead over fellow City Councilman John Ray, 47 percent to 37 percent. Mayor Sharon Pratt Kelly trailed badly with 14 percent. The winner of Washington's Democratic mayoral primary will be the overwhelming November favorite. So Tuesday marked the biggest hurdle in Barry's effort to win back the office he left when a 1990 arrest for smoking crack cocaine landed him in prison for six months. The results of the several Senate primaries, with which the Republicans hope to gain a majority in the senior Congressional chamber, were still being counted

Judge Blocks Nuclear Shipments

COLUMBIA, S.C.

A federal judge ignored the government's warnings Tuesday and blocked the shipment of spent nuclear fuel from Europe for storage at a South Carolina weapons-material plant. The U.S. Energy Department argued that stopping the shipments would undermine the nation's policy of discouraging use of material that can be used to make nuclear weapons. U.S. District Judge Matthew Perry said the potential for harm to the state was much greater than that to the federal government. Perry turned his restraining order, issued Friday, into a preliminary injunction that could block the two shipments indefinitely. The Energy Department has said it had no choice but to accept the first shipment of 153 spent fuel rods from Europe. When the United States sold the fuel, it agreed to take it back to limit proliferation. Officials said the shipment was already on two ships heading for the United States. Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary said the agency would ask the Justice Department to examine Perry's ruling. "The department has acted responsibly and will continue to pursue the acceptance of this fuel into the United States," O'Leary said. The Energy Department warned in court papers that without being able to return spent fuel to the United States "reactor operators would be driven to reprocessing spent, highly enriched fuel, and they would be forced to seek alternative suppliers, such as the former Soviet Union and China."

Court delays ethanol gas additive

WASHINGTON

A three-judge panel of the U.S. Court of Appeals blocked the EPA from implementing the regulation that would clear the way for the widespread use of corn-based ethanol in cleaner-burning gasoline until an oil industry lawsuit challenging the requirement aimed at ethanol can be decided. The agency said the broader program to require cleaner-burning gasoline in regions of the country with severe smog problems would go into effect as scheduled next January. Last June, the EPA directed that a "renewable" additive, in effect ethanol, be a major component of a cleaner-burning gasoline that will be required beginning next January in nine cities with the worst air pollution problems. The regulation will affect about one-third of all the gasoline sold in the country. The regulation has been one of the toughest clean-air issues before the agency, with farm-state members of Congress pushing hard on behalf of ethanol, an oxygenate produced from corn. But the oil industry argued that a rival additive — MTBE, made from methanol — would be less expensive and that the EPA should not dictate what additive should be used.

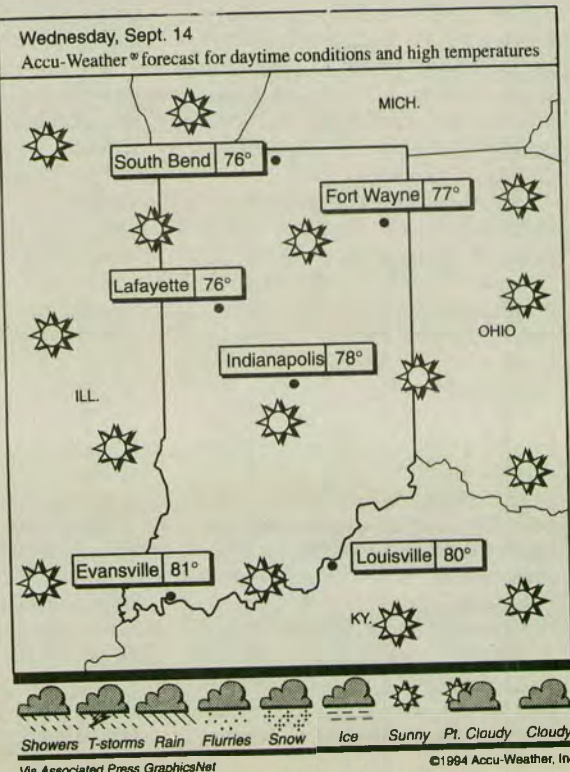

George Burns has surgery after fall

LOS ANGELES

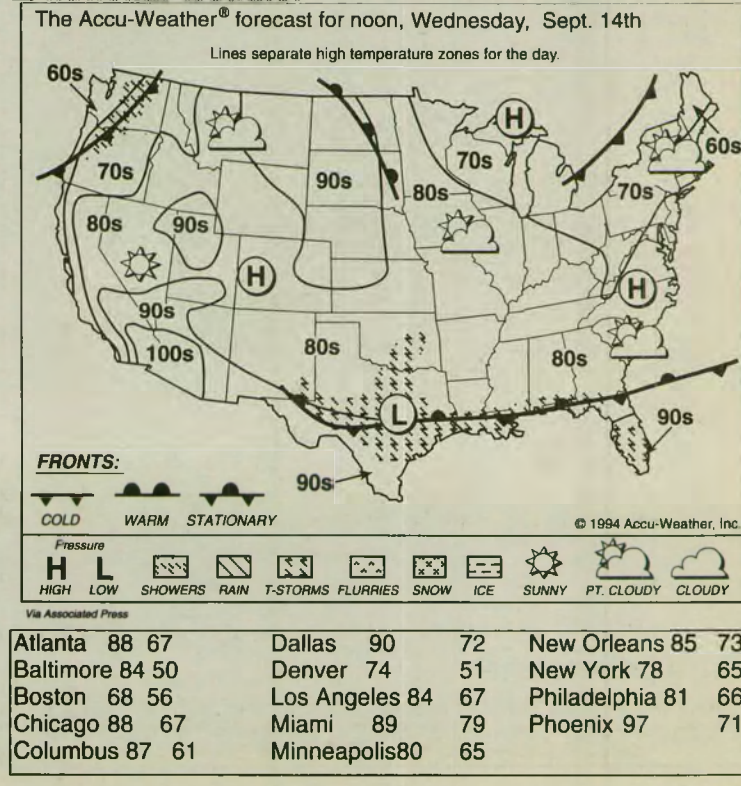

Comedian George Burns was hospitalized in intensive care Tuesday after surgery to drain a buildup of fluid on his brain, which was beginning to impair his speech. The 98-year-old comic made it through the surgery well and was expected to remain in Cedars-Sinai Medical Center for about a week, said hospital spokesman Ron Wise. Burns even cracked a few jokes after the operation. The fluid collected on Burns' brain after he fell in his bathtub and hit his head at his Beverly Hills home on July 13, Wise said. Burns was admitted to Cedars-Sinai on Monday night and underwent about two hours of surgery. Burns hit a soap dish when he fell, suffering a head cut. Burns' return to the hospital Monday was not an emergency, Fein said. The fall had forced Burns to cancel an upcoming engagement at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas. When once asked what his doctor thought about his daily penchant for martinis and cigars, "My doctor is dead," was his reply.

■ Indiana Weather

■ National Weather

Preparations for Haiti invasion move forward

By JIM ABRAMS
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
An aircraft carrier that could serve as a launching platform for invading Haiti headed to sea Tuesday, and President Clinton scheduled a Thursday night address to make his case that U.S. interests there are vital.

Both Democrats and Republicans in Congress complained they were being ignored by a White House bent on war.

Clinton is considering announcing a firm deadline for Haiti's military leaders to leave — or sending an emissary to Port-au-Prince with one last demand that they surrender power, a senior administration official said.

The USS America sailed from Norfolk, Va., as another huge carrier, the USS Eisenhower, was taking on Army helicopters and soldiers there for a Wednesday departure to the Caribbean.

Defense Secretary William Perry was heading to Norfolk to talk with military leaders aboard the Eisenhower and the USS Whitney, which would serve as the command ship for military operations in Haiti.

At the White House, chief of staff Leon Panetta threatened that if Haiti's military leaders don't give up power, "action is going to be taken against them very soon."

In Haiti, the army-installed government protested what it called the "scandalous and unacceptable behavior" of the United States but gave no indication of stepping aside.

Lawmakers on Capitol Hill were taking the threats at face value.

"My view is that the cake has been baked," said Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., who was briefed Tuesday by Perry and Joint Chiefs of Staff

Chairman Gen. John Shalikashvili.

Lawmakers in both chambers said there should be votes in Congress before the administration commits any U.S. soldiers to Haiti. But White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers said there was no need and that any action to restore Haiti's elected leaders would be "minor compared to what was needed" in the Persian Gulf War.

Democratic leaders in both houses, Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell and House Speaker Thomas Foley, both said they preferred the president come to Congress before any invasion. But Mitchell said, "No president in my lifetime has agreed" that congressional approval is necessary for military action.

Dole said he was pressing for a chance to bring the Haiti issue to the Senate floor for debate. In the House, Rep. Gene Taylor, D-Miss., hoped to force the body to take up a resolution barring intervention in Haiti without congressional approval.

Despite pleas from Secretary of State Warren Christopher for unity, few Democrats outside the Congressional Black Caucus, which is also divided on the issue, stood publicly behind Clinton.

Group: Haiti invasion necessary

By DAVID BEARD
Associated Press

CEIBA, Puerto Rico
The American public may not understand why Washington wants to invade Haiti, but members of a Caribbean peacekeeping force training here see no problem with it whatsoever.

"If you don't stop what is happening in Haiti, you're probably looking at dictatorship and terror spreading throughout the Caribbean," said Antiguan Lt. Tybrel Raymond, among the first 112 multinational peacekeepers to arrive for training at U.S. military bases in Puerto Rico.

"We in the Caribbean don't want another Grenada, or another Cuba," Raymond, 28, said Tuesday as he waited for a checkup at Roosevelt Roads Naval Station with soldiers from Antigua, Jamaica and Belize.

Another 94 soldiers from Britain, Jamaica and Trinidad and Tobago were en route to this U.S. commonwealth Tuesday to join a force that will swell to 1,500 soldiers representing 17 nations.

They will follow part of a 20,000-member American force being gathered for an anticipated invasion of Haiti, intended to drive out coup leaders and restore constitutional government.

Although polls show most Americans don't see saving the Haitians as vital to U.S. interests unless it would stop a wave of refugees, the soldiers interviewed disagreed. They said they had a better understanding of the suffering their Caribbean brethren are undergoing.

Several said it was only the grace of God that the slave ships carrying their ancestors landed on their islands, and not in Haiti, which has endured a succession of tyrants since independence in 1804.

Lt. Raymond cited racial and cultural links with Haitians as well. He said white Americans were not racist, just "not educated" about Haiti. "Once people are educated, their views will change," he predicted.

"My personal opinion is that the vast majority of Haitians are waiting for us to relieve them of the terror they live with," he added.

Many of his colleagues agreed, including several veterans of peacekeeping work in Grenada in 1983, after the Americans invaded to oust leftist extremists who had killed the prime minister.

"Haiti has been wrong for three years," said Antiguan Cpl. Lynroy John, referring to the Haitian military's 1991 ouster of elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide. "Someone has to put it right."

"This (Haitian military rule) has already lasted too long," added John, 30, who served six months with the multinational peacekeeping force in Grenada.

American Green Beret trainers, many of whom have worked for years with regional forces, say motivation among the Caribbean Basin troops is "up a notch."

Vatican suffers abortion set-back

By DANIEL WAKIN
Associated Press

CAIRO
Negotiating like a country but voting like a religion, the Vatican managed to chip away at abortion language at the U.N. population conference.

But it failed to block worldwide recognition that abortion is a fact of life that governments must deal with as an issue of public health.

That was a setback to the Holy See and to Pope John Paul II, who has been leading a single-minded moral crusade against abortion.

The Vatican also suffered damage on the diplomatic stage. It infuriated many diplomats and U.N. officials with its vigorous fight in conference rooms to keep more liberal abortion language out of the 20-year plan to curb population growth.

And it was forced on the defensive for allying itself with extremist governments like those of Libya and Iran. In the end, those countries and nearly a dozen other Muslim nations objected in Tuesday's final session to specific points in sections on reproductive rights.

The Vatican also got limited support from 10 Latin American countries, including Argentina, Peru and Ecuador. They withheld agreement on phrases in the reproductive rights section but accepted the abortion passage. Brazil, the world's largest Roman Catholic country, did not side with the Vatican.

Yet in eight grueling days of bargaining here, the Vatican and its Catholic allies won numerous battles, including:

—Recognition that parents should be involved in teen sex counseling.

—The elimination of "pregnancy termination" from the definition of reproductive health care.

—The deletion of the phrase "sexual rights."

—Two mentions that abortion should not be promoted as a method of family planning.

—Language that family and reproductive health matters should conform to local laws, cultures, ethics and religion.

The Vatican didn't even fight a call for access to contraception and the distribution of condoms to fight AIDS, knowing it could not win on that front.

University of Notre Dame
International Study Program in Mexico City

Information Meeting:

Thursday, September 15, 1994

4:30 p.m. — Room 118 DeBartolo
Spring 1995 & 1995-96 Academic Year

All are Welcome

Accounting Majors

Explore the option of corporate accounting

Procter & Gamble

Accounting Development Program

Procter & Gamble's Accounting Development Program offers both a breadth and depth of experiences that provide direct involvement and responsibility in building the business.

Accounting Career Night

September 14, 1994

Monogram Room, JACC

6 - 9 p. m.

Don't let the "Homework Blues"
get you down!

Let Ferraro Specialties type your class assignments.

Any length - quality service rush jobs - NO PROBLEM!

Free Pick Up and Delivery!

Call today!
Ferraro Specialties: 234-8209

Massive anti-crime bill becomes law

By CAROLYN SKORNECK
Associated Press

WASHINGTON
After six years of talk and bitter congressional debate, the huge anti-crime bill became law Tuesday, banning many assault-style weapons, allowing the death penalty for dozens more federal crimes and providing billions of dollars to build prisons and hire police.

President Clinton, signing the $30 billion, six-year measure at an elaborate outdoor ceremony at the White House, hailed its provisions but said all Americans would have to help as well.

"Even this great law ... cannot do the job alone," he said. "By its own words it is still a law. It must be implemented by you. And it must be supplemented by you."

"Even when we put a new police officer on your block, the officer can't make you safe unless you come out of your home and help the officer do his or her job," said Clinton.

Election-year political overtones loomed large as Clinton noted that "some people in this town tried to keep this day from happening" despite a toll of violence that saw "half a million Americans ... killed by other Americans" in the last 25 years.

Clinton did not directly blame Republican leaders for the bill's close calls last month. However, he pointedly praised the relatively few GOP congressional members who were invited to the ceremony because they bucked their party leadership to keep the bill — and its disputed firearms ban — alive. They were among those "without whom we would not be here today," Clinton said.

The law

— Bans the manufacture, sale and possession of 19 specific types of assault-style weapons and scores of copycats and firearms with similar accoutrements. Manufacturing must stop immediately, but those in private hands or in stores are exempted.

— Allows the death penalty for 60 additional federal crimes, including drive-by shooting and carjacking deaths.

— Sends some third-time felons to prison for life.

As for the money, some of which already has been appropriated, the law authorizes $10.8 billion for state and local law enforcement including $8.8 billion for subsidies to help hire up to 100,000 new officers, fulfilling a 1992 Clinton campaign pledge.

The law also authorizes $6.9 billion for crime-prevention programs, many of which were criticized by Republicans as wasteful "pork" spending.

Health care debate continues

By NITA LELYVELD
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

Democratic congressional leaders met with President Clinton on Tuesday and said they may ask Republicans to help draft a slimmed-down health reform bill that could be passed this year.

"We want to explore the possibilities and see whether there is a meaningful probability that we could work together to produce some legislation," said House Speaker Thomas Foley of Washington.

But Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said health reform was "hanging by a thread" and a group of Senate Republicans led by Sen. Phil Gramm of Texas, said they would oppose any efforts to pass health reform legislation in the month or so that remains.

Some wondered how the leaders could hold out any hope for consensus in the eleventh hour when it has proved so elusive for months.

"The American people believe that it's time for us to stop listening to the president, stop listening to each other and come home and listen to them," said Gramm.

"I think it is a bad idea to try to bring this debate back to life," Gramm said.

Lawmakers on both sides of the aisle said that is what voters had told them.

Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., said he supported trying to do something this session, but added, "I would guess that most people returning to Congress today from the two weeks at home will have found what I found in Connecticut, which is that the most commonly expressed opinion about health care was what the Brooklyn Dodgers always used to say, 'Wait till next year.'"

Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., speaking at a news conference with Gramm, said it would be disastrous if Congress rushed out "some scaled-down little thing whose name sounds good, which has a sweet and sexy sound to it about how you're going to be safer if only these things will take place." He said such a bill would end up being big and harmful.

Foley said the attempt to reach a consensus would necessarily be modest.

"It isn't all going to be accomplished this Congress, I think that is probably clear," he said. "But I hope some initial steps can be taken that are constructive, positive and initial, and will still have a meaningful result leading to the achievement of the goals that we have sought."

Meanwhile, prospects for reaching a consensus on the proposal of a self-styled "mainstream" group of Republican and Democratic senators appeared slim to none as senators returned to work.

The Observer

the News Department is now accepting applications for the Business Page Copy Editor

position. Please submit a letter of intent and resume by Thursday, Sept. 15 at 5 p.m. Questions? Call Michael Martin at 631-5323.

Senate

continued from page 1

this effort by insuring the University's full compliance with the principles defined by the Knight Commission on Intercollegiate Athletics, which is co-chaired by Father Hesburgh, and the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

The principles defined by these two organizations are a code of conduct for intercollegiate athletics. According to the Faculty Senate, "the University of Notre Dame's observance of responsible academic leadership and ethical standards in intercollegiate athletics has brought it distinction, respect, and leadership."

One way for the Academic Council to confirm its support of certain principles is by publishing them in the Faculty

Handbook, which would be recorded in The Academic Code, according to the Faculty Senate. Among these principles are the following: "unquestioned academic and financial integrity of its athletic programs," "integrated ... housing, food service, tutoring, and other areas of campus life" for both student athletes and other students, and that "standards for admission ... of all student athletes ... are comparable to those for other students," according to article 26 under The Academic Code.

According to this article of the code, these standards include "comparable ... welfare, health, and safety" and "financial aid standards" for both student athletes and other students.

The Faculty Senate will meet three more times this semester in the Center for Continuing Education.

Catch the Action!

Round trip bus transportation to Michigan State

September 17th

The bus leaves the Alumni/Senior Club at 9:30 am

Tickets: $15

On sale now at the LaFortune Info Desk

Student tickets to the game available through SUB lottery September 13th.

Beta Alpha Psi Presents:

ACCOUNTING CAREER NIGHT

WHO: Open to all. Seniors and juniors strongly encouraged to attend.

WHAT: 15 companies - both public and private firms - will be there to answer any and all questions.

WHEN: Wednesday, 9/14 from 6 - 9 pm.

WHERE: JACC Monogram Room.

When in the Italian club ...

A member of the The Italian Club of Saint Mary's College joined Rome Program alumni last night to socialize and reminisce.

The Observer/Tina Lemker

SECURITY BEAT

FRI., SEPT. 9

11:45 am A Breen-Phillips resident reported the theft of her football ticket book from her bookbag at the North Dining Hall.

8:10 pm A Zahm Hall resident reported the theft of his bike from the DeBartolo Hall bike rack.

8:28 pm Security confiscated t-shirts from four visitors who were selling them illegally.

9:00 pm Two off-campus students reported the thefts of their football ticket books from Nieuwland Science.

SAT., SEPT. 10

1:51 pm Security confiscated t-shirts from a visitor who was selling them illegally.

1:52 pm A Michigan resident was apprehended by Security when he tried to enter the stadium wearing a stolen usher's jacket.

2:10 pm A Breen-Phillips resident was escorted out of the stadium for having alcohol in her possession.

8:20 pm A visitor reported the theft of numerous items from his vehicle while parked in Blue Field.

Sun., Sept. 11

7:51 am An off-campus student reported vandalism to his vehicle while parked at Alumni Senior Bar during the football game.

10:05 am A visitor reported vandalism to his vehicle while parked in Blue Field.

12:47 pm A male visitor reported being assaulted by an unknown male on Saint Mary's Road.

8:45 pm An off-campus student reported the theft of his ATM card from a drawer in Haggard Hall.

Former U.S. Treasurer sentenced to prison

By HARRY ROSENTHAL

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

The former U.S. treasurer, whose signature appears on most of the nation's currency, was sentenced Tuesday to four months in prison for evading taxes and obstructing justice.

Catalina Vasquez Villalpando had pleaded guilty earlier in the year to three felony charges, which also included conspiring to hide outside income while she served in the Bush administration.

Her signature is on all U.S. paper money printed between December 1989 and April 1994.

"I'm embarrassed," she told U.S. District Judge Thomas Hogan, her voice breaking. "I hope you will find it in your heart to take what I owe society in some sort of community service" rather than in a prison sentence, she said.

A few minutes later, Hogan said, "I can find no basis to excuse your conduct." He said the office Villalpando held imposed more of a burden to obey the laws.

She was told to surrender to a federal prison, still to be determined. After serving her time, she will be put on supervised release for three years, including four months of house detention. She also must do 200 hours of community service.

Villalpando had faced a maximum possible sentence of five years in prison and a $250,000 fine on each of the convictions.

An oddity in the case involved the conflicting views of two prosecutors about how much Villalpando had cooperated in their separate investigations.

Justice Department lawyer Jonathan Rusch said she had lied "time and time again" and had done "nothing to advance the ball."

But Robert Warren, of the Office of Independent Council which is conducting an investigation of the HUD scandal, said, "She has been entirely truthful. ... She has not dissembled with us."

Rusch said, "She did not file tax returns over five years, a period that overlaps her service as a special assistant to the president of the United States." He said she "admitted nothing about her own criminal culpabilities until after she was confronted with her crimes."

In February, Villalpando admitted reporting 1989 taxable income of $161,983 rather than the actual $329,884.

Lawmakers seek accountability

By MELISSA ROBINSON

Associated Press

WASHINGTON

With dwindling time in the 103rd Congress, a bipartisan group of lawmakers launched a final push Tuesday for legislation that would force Congress to abide by the same laws that govern private employers.

Traditionally, Congress has exempted itself from health and safety, civil rights and labor laws that other employers must follow.

But a group of lawmakers, spurred by public complaints about government, has proposed extending such protections to an estimated 40,000 employees of Congress.

"It can help restore the public's faith in government," Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, a chief sponsor of the bill, said at a news conference.

Those covered would include congressional staff and employees of branches of Congress such as the General Accounting Office, Congressional Budget Office and the Library of Congress.

Because some legislative workers are already covered, the number of new workers reached by the bill could be as low as 25,000.

At issue is whether the bill will be considered by the Senate before Congress adjourns in a few weeks. A Senate committee is scheduled to take it up next week, and a similar bill overwhelmingly passed the House last month.

Sen. Joseph Lieberman, D-Conn., another prime sponsor, said he would meet with Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, in the next few days to convince him to bring the bill up for a vote.

If Mitchell does not agree, Lieberman and Grassley said they would try to attach the bill to virtually any other bill that reaches the floor.

The Observer

the News Department is now accepting applications for

Copy Editors

Please submit a letter of intent and resume by Thursday, Sept. 15 at 5 p.m. Questions? Call Sarah Doran at 631-5323.

TRUMAN SCHOLARSHIP

Information Meeting for JUNIORS interested in Public Service

Wednesday, September 14, 1994

4:30 - 5:30 p.m.

127 Nieuwland Science Hall

The Opening Mass of the

NDE 4th Day Community

Will be

Wednesday, September 14th

at the Grotto, 8:30 p.m.

Bring blankets if it's cold!

13TH ANNUAL CHRISTMAS
CUT
COLORADO
SKI
BREAKS
JANUARY 2 - 15, 1995 • 4, 5, 6 OR 7 NIGHTS
STEAMBOAT
BRECKENRIDGE $168
VAIL/BEAVER CREEK
YEA GOTTA BE THERE!
TOLL FREE INFORMATION AND RESERVATIONS
1-800-SUNCHASE
NOBODY DOES SKI BREAKS BETTER!

Trade authority request dropped

By DAVE SKIDMORE
Associated Press

WASHINGTON

In an attempt to win congressional approval of a new world trade accord this year, the Clinton administration on Tuesday withdrew its request for authority to negotiate future trade agreements on an expedited basis.

The decision represents a blow to the prestige of President Clinton, who now must travel to two international conferences — in Miami on Latin American trade and in Indonesia on Pacific Rim trade — without so-called fast-track authority in his pocket.

But U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor told reporters that legislation implementing the Uruguay Round of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade was "in very good shape now" that it has been severed from the fast-track request.

"Nothing is more important to continuing our recovery and building global growth than the Uruguay Round," he said.

Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, agreed to take up separate fast-track legislation early in the next Congress.

In it, Congress would agree to vote on future trade agreements without amendments within a specified time after they are submitted by the president. Such authority is considered crucial to preventing complex trade agreements from being picked apart by special interests in Congress.

Kantor said delaying fast-track authority would not hinder progress in current trade negotiations, most notably with Chile.

Gibbons said he and Moynihan would work to resolve remaining differences between their two panels by Sept. 20, allowing the administration to submit a bill implementing GATT soon after that. It must be accepted or rejected without amendment and Clinton is pressing for a vote before Congress adjourns in mid-October.

The bill had been threatened by the dispute over future fast-track authority between conservatives and pro-business lawmakers on the one hand and environmentalists and labor advocates on the other.

Liberals wanted to require future trade agreements to address labor and environmental standards. But conservatives saw that as a back-door way to stiffen U.S. environmental and labor laws and business interests feared it would restrict their operations overseas.

"I think it was the major impediment (to GATT). It would have been very difficult to resolve in the next week," said Rep. Robert Matsui, D-Calif., chairman of the Ways and Means trade subcommittee.

Although the deadline for ratifying GATT is July 1, the United States and other major industrialized nations have promised to push for approval this year.

Several contentious issues remain, including provisions of the implementing bill affecting U.S. anti-dumping laws and provisions on paying for the roughly $12 billion in tariff revenues that would be lost during the first five years of the accord.

Banned FIS leaders released from jail

By RACHID KHIARI
Associated Press

ALGIERS

The top two leaders of the banned fundamentalist Islamic Salvation Front were released from prison and put under house arrest, and three other leaders were freed, the president's office announced Tuesday.

The banning 2 1/2 years ago of the Salvation Front, known by its French acronym as FIS, triggered an insurgency by Muslim militants that has left about 10,000 people dead. The widely popular FIS was about to win control of the National Assembly in 1992 before the elections were abruptly annulled.

President Liamine Zeroual is under increasing pressure to reach agreement on sharing power or forming a transitional government. The opposition urged him to release the jailed FIS leaders so they can take part in talks.

FIS leader Abassi Madani and Ali Belhadj were released from a military prison in Blida, south of Algiers, and placed under less-strict house arrest.

The statement from Zeroual's office didn't say where Madani and Belhadj, arrested in June 1991 for "attacking state security," had been sent, only that it was "to another place of residence." Government sources, however, said they were moved to a nearby state-owned residence "for their own security" but would be able to receive visitors.

They had been sentenced in July 1992 to 12 years in prison each.

Noureddine Chigara, Abdelkader Omar and Kamel Guemmazi, also high-ranking FIS leaders, were allowed to go free, the presidential statement said.

"We are happy with the liberation of some of our leaders," said Rabah Kebir, head of the FIS in exile, based in Germany.

"We consider that a positive step but not sufficient," Kebir said in a statement read over the telephone. "There remain to be released all the members of FIS ... in order to reunite all the necessary conditions for a beginning of negotiations."

Three possible crash scenarios identified

By CLAUDIA COATES
Associated Press

CORAOPOLIS, Pa.

Federal investigators have identified three possible causes of the crash of USAir Flight 427: The right engine went into reverse, it came loose, or brakes were unevenly deployed.

A key engine mount piece was found today but the discovery didn't immediately settle the question of whether the engine came loose.

Investigators believe something may have caused the plane's right wing to rise, forcing the plane to roll to the left and go out of control, National Transportation Safety Board member Carl Vogt said Monday.

"We want to examine everything that might have caused the right wing to rise," Vogt said.

The Boeing 737-300 dropped from 6,000 feet Thursday and nose-dived into a wooded ravine at 300 mph, killing all 132 people on board.

Searchers today found the right engine's rear mount. Unlike the three other engine mounts, it had been separated from the wing and engine, supporting a theory that the right engine might have come loose.

Vogt said investigators will have to try to determine whether that rear mount came off during flight or when the plane hit the ground.

A third possibility is that the plane's right engine somehow went into reverse. The thrust reverser, which helps stop a plane once it has landed, was found deployed on the right engine. It's possible that the impact of the crash knocked it into the deployed position.

When activated, a thrust reverser closes across the rear of a plane's engine to deflect the exhaust and counteract the plane's forward motion. Each of the 737's engines had six actuators to control the thrust reverser. Three of the right engine's actuators were found in the deployed position, two weren't deployed, and one hasn't been found, officials said.

Pilots control the actuators with levers that are designed so they can't be moved accidentally. They can't control just one engine at a time.

Pilots control the actuators with levers that are designed so they can't be moved accidentally. They can't control just one engine at a time.

Correction

An article yesterday misstated the dates of the trip to Washington, DC, sponsored by the Saint Mary's Young Republicans. The excursion will be held from October 22 to October 27.

InterVarsity Christian Fellowship

Introductory Bible Study

Wednesday, September 14th
7:00-8:30 pm at the CSC

the Robert Morris Gallery
Limited Editions
Fine Art Photo Silverprints
Local Artists

Decorate Your Dorm

with a black & white poster from an original Silverprint.
Also post cards and playing cards available.

The Old Bag Factory

1100 North Chicago Avenue
Goshen, Indiana 46526 • 219-534-5648

Hours: 9-5 Mon.-Fri.; 9-4 Sat.; Evenings by Apt.

Notre Dame Hispanic Student Night

Sunday, September 18

5:00 - 7:30 p.m.

La Fortune Ballroom

Hosted by: Campus Ministry

*Welcome Hispanic Freshmen

*Student Panel on Hispanic Student Life at Notre Dame

*Dinner

*Special Appearance by "Coro Primavera"

Cost: Free! ¡Todos Bienvenidos!

Questions: Fr. Pat Neary, CSC - 631-7800 or Lena Jefferson - 631-8825

Murder hearing sparks violence in N. Ireland

Associated Press

BELFAST
A hearing in which a Catholic was accused of trying to murder a Protestant sparked a courthouse fistfight and violence in Protestant areas of Belfast on Tuesday.

Police said Protestant youths hijacked vehicles, setting one on fire, and hurled rocks at officers in sporadic late night attacks that died out before midnight.

The clashes occurred amid heightened tensions in Belfast, with Protestant "loyalist" paramilitaries ignoring calls to match a cease-fire by the Catholic-based Irish Republican Army by calling a halt to violence on their own side.

Tuesday's clashes originated in the city's Crown Court, where 23-year-old Stephen Larkin from west Belfast's staunchly Catholic Ardoyne area was accused of attempting to murder a prominent loyalist, Johnny Adair.

Spectators from both sides of the sectarian divide jeered and swore at each other after Larkin's lawyers asked the judge, Liam McCollum, to dismiss the charge.

Fistfights broke out in the courthouse foyer. Police wielding nightsticks moved in to keep the two groups apart and eventually drove a crowd of about 40 Protestants outside.

Police said masked loyalist paramilitaries armed with clubs appeared on the street to reinforce a group of Protestant women who had lined up across the road, blocking traffic.

The Protestants set a van alight behind the courthouse and began hijacking vehicles. The violence then spread to nearby Shankill Road, west Belfast's Protestant heartland, where more vehicles were hijacked.

Police and British Army reinforcements called to the scene to disperse the crowd fired plastic bullets when a gasoline bomb was thrown at them.

Police said three officers and a civilian suffered minor cuts and bruises in the clashes.

Three indicted in tax scandal

By LARRY MARGASAK

Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA

The government charged the ex-president of United Way of America and two fellow executives with conspiracy, mail and tax fraud Tuesday, accusing them of lavishly spending the charity's money on vacations, real estate and air travel.

The 71-count federal indictment named William Aramony, 67, president of United Way from 1970 until 1992; Stephen Paulachak, 49, a United Way executive between 1971 and 1988 and also president of an indicted spinoff company; and Thomas Merlo, 63, chief financial officer of the charity from 1990 until 1992.

The diversion of funds, previously reported in news stories, caused a shakeup at the national charity organization known to virtually all Americans, and depressed contributions to local United Way organizations.

United Way of America is the national service and training center for local United Way organizations and is financed by dues from the local groups.

The local organizations collect contributions and distribute them to charities. They had nothing to do with the alleged wrongdoing.

The indictment said more than $1.5 million was diverted, with some of the money spent for purchase of a New York City apartment, a Coral Gables, Fla., condominium, a vacation to London and Egypt — complete with a Nile cruise — and a lifetime pass on American Airlines.

Some of the money went to Aramony's girlfriend, who was not named in the indictment, which was handed down by a federal grand jury and announced by the U.S. attorney's office here.

Money went to pay for construction of a sunroom at the woman's Gainesville, Fla., home; for her personal income tax payments; her own vacations and trips she took with Aramony, and for "consulting payments" even though she did no work for the United Way.

"Today's news represents a critical step forward because it reinforces all the positive changes that have been made to restructure United Way of America ...," said Dr. Tommy Frist Jr., chairman of the Alexandria-based United Way of America.

After the diversion of money became known, the national group brought in former Peace Corps chief Elaine Chao as president, instituted new financial controls, adopted a new code of ethics and gave local United Ways more control over the national organization.

The indictment charged Aramony, Paulachak, Merlo and a spinoff company with conspiracy to defraud United Way, mail fraud, wire fraud, interstate transportation of fraudulently acquired property and money laundering.

Aramony, Paulachak and Merlo were accused of filing false personal and corporate tax returns and Merlo was charged with perjury.

Aramony is charged in 53 felony counts, Merlo in 35, Paulachak in 35 and the spinoff company — the Partnership Umbrella Inc. — in 24.

Walter Bonner, Paulachak's lawyer, said "Partnership Umbrella Inc. and Mr. Paulachak entertain no doubt, whatsoever, that following a trial ... they will be found innocent ..."

John Hume, Merlo's lawyer, said his client "was a victim of circumstances."

ACCOUNTING SENIORS

PANEL ON RECRUITING PROCEDURES

Wednesday, September 14, 4:00 p.m.

Room 122 Hayes-Healy

Questions? — Prof. Misiewicz, 254 Hayes Healy (631-7314)

Astronauts release satellite to probe sun

By MARCIA DUNN

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL

Discovery's astronauts released a satellite Tuesday to study the streams of charged particles hurtling from the sun through the solar system at 1.5 million mph.

While the deployment itself was flawless, the shuttle radar system failed and commander Richard Richards could not track the satellite as the two spacecraft drifted apart.

The satellite, Spartan, will study the solar wind for two days as similar observations are made by Ulysses, the first spacecraft to orbit the sun's poles. Ulysses was launched by the same shuttle and shuttle commander four years ago.

Astronaut Susan Helms used Discovery's robot arm to lift the 2,800-pound, gold-colored Spartan from the cargo bay. She released the satellite late in the afternoon as the Discovery soared 160 miles above the Indian Ocean, just south of Australia. Then Richards slowly backed the shuttle away, and the radar problem arose.

An hour later, Richards finally locked onto the satellite with the shuttle radar, but the distance measurements were off by 2,000 feet.

Richards had counted on using the radar for Thursday's rendezvous with Spartan; the crew must capture the satellite to bring it back home next week.

Mission operations director Randy Stone said the astronauts will have to use backup navigation systems to close in on Spartan if the radar isn't fixed by Thursday. Shuttle astronauts have never attempted a rendezvous before without radar.

"It will be an aggravation, but it really does not put Spartan in any jeopardy whatsoever," Stone said.

The $14 million Spartan needs to fly free of Discovery in order to point at the sun. The two telescopes on the satellite will focus on the sun's searing corona, or outer atmosphere, where solar wind originates.

One telescope will observe ultraviolet light emitted from the sun's south pole to determine the temperature and speed of solar wind at its point of origin; the other will measure visible light to determine solar wind density.

Attention
Communities ND
participants!!!

come to the 2nd annual KICK-OFF DAY

anyone who has participated in Communities ND welcome

- get your community started for the new year
- regroup with others who have "lost" their communities
- let us know how we can help you this year

Sunday, September 18
1:00 - 3:00 p.m.
LaFortune Ballroom

REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED!
QUESTIONS?? call Kate Barrett at Campus Ministry: 1-5242

NOW HIRING

Food Servers & Hostess/Host

Flexible Hours

Apply Anytime

272-3672

Cleveland Rd. across from UP Mall

InterVarsity Christian Fellowship

Fellowship Meeting

Friday, September 16th

5:30-7:30 p.m.

We'll meet in front of Stepan Center

THE OBSERVER

NOTRE DAME OFFICE: P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 631-7471
SAINT MARY'S OFFICE: 309 Haggart, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 284-5365

1994-95 General Board

Editor-in-Chief
Jake Peters

Managing Editor
John Lucas

Business Manager
Joseph Riley

News Editor.....Sarah Doran	Advertising Manager.....Eric Lorge
Viewpoint Editor.....Suzanne Fry	Ad Design Manager.....Ryan Maylayter
Sports Editor.....George Dohrmann	Production Manager.....Jacqueline Moser
Accent Editor.....Mary Good	Systems Manager.....Don Kingston
Photo Editor.....Scott Mendenhall	Observer Marketing Director.....Tom Lillig
Saint Mary's Editor.....Elizabeth Regan	Controller.....Kristen Martina

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accent Editor, Photo Editor, Sports Editor, and Saint Mary's Editor. Commentaries, letters and Inside Columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through letters is encouraged.

Observer Phone Lines
Editor-in-Chief	631-4542
Managing Editor/Viewpoint	631-4541
Sports	631-4543
News/Photo	631-5323
Accent/Saint Mary's	631-4540
Day Editor/Production	631-5303
General Information	631-7471

Business Office	631-5313
Advertising	631-6900/8840
Systems/Marketing Dept.	631-8839
Office Manager	631-7471
Fax	631-6927
E-Mail	Observer.Viewpoint.1@nd.edu
Unix	observer@grumpy.helios.nd.edu

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Rice fails to tell whole story

Dear Editor:

Professor Rice's articles generally infuse the Observer with a redeeming perspective. However, the article, "Murder is murder, regardless of who and why," (Sept. 5) left me wanting. In the article, Dr. Rice condemned the use of violence that has been perpetrated against abortionists as of late. Rice (as well as the Catholic Church, myself, and others) views elective abortion to be tantamount to cold blooded murder. While I do not necessarily disagree with the conclusion, so much of the article contained statements which have no logical progression.

Dr. Rice contends that the idea of "imminence" is a necessary prerequisite to using force; it is only inside the abortionist's "killing room" that the imminence criteria is satisfied. Rice makes this statement recognizing that the anti-abortionist can only get as far as the parking lot where, Rice argues, the imminence criteria is not satisfied. If Dr. Rice had three daughters, each of which was raped and murdered on three successive days at a place similar to an abortion mill, I find it hard to believe that he would not find the parking lot imminent enough to polish off the rapists/murderer. In this scenario, I find it incredible that Rice could convince himself of his espoused imminence criteria.

According to Rice, once the imminence criteria is satisfied in such a context, this would justify the use of "reasonable force to defend the child." He qualifies "reasonable force" saying, "It is practically inconceivable that lethal force would have to be used." But in the above scenario, I find I must ask if Rice, or any other upstanding moral father, would not use a force sufficient to discourage the rapist/murderer from preying on his daughters. Constrained by the vigilance of the federal authorities, it seems that lethal force could be a practical contender; Rice may only get a moment of opportunity to discourage this evil. Rice's belief in the full humanity of the unborn makes this analogy morally equitable. This leaves us with the question: is it readily conceivable that the criteria for force is met, or would Rice really not use force to save his daughters?

In order for Professor Rice to be convincing, he needs to address some of the issues raised in this letter.

PIEDER BEELI

Department of Physics
Graduate Student Off Campus

Shop with more than your wallet in mind

Dear Editor:

Recently the Observer chose to run two large advertisements, one from Wal-Mart and the other from the Meijer Corporation. These two companies typically offer the consumer low prices and are obviously attractive to the average college student. However, as educated adults we owe it to ourselves as well as the rest of the American public to be enlightened about the companies we choose to patronize and give our hard earned dollars to.

The Wal-Mart Corporation is a notorious anti-union company which thrives on paying its employees low wages. The company has been convicted of several unfair labor practices ranging from requiring employees to work off the clock, to several civil rights violations. In addition, Wal-Mart, through its slick advertising campaigns, portrays itself as "The All-American" company, declaring that most of the products they sell are American made and have the made-in-the-U.S.A. label in them. However, according to an expose shown on the NBC news program "Nightline", many of these products are in fact distributed by U.S. companies, not made in the U.S.A. In fact, many of these products are made in countries such as China, Burma, and India, which have been documented as having practically non-existent labor laws which allow for child-labor and unsafe working conditions.

The Meijer Company has recently opened two "superstores" in the South Bend/Mishawaka area. In addition to these two stores the Meijer Corporation has stores throughout Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana. Most of the stores outside Indiana are organized by the United Food and Commercial Workers Union (UFCW). However here in the state of Indiana, which has consistently proven itself to be anti-union and in my opinion anti-worker, the company refuses to acknowledge the presence of the union in the work place. Informational picket lines have been set up outside the businesses to educate the consumer about the situation in the stores.

'The Wal-Mart Corporation... thrives on paying its employees low wages.'

As two of the finest institutions of higher education in the country, we as students should not allow our reputations to be marred by associating ourselves with these two companies. Therefore, I am asking the Observer to cease accepting advertising from both of these companies as well as asking the Saint Mary's/Notre Dame community to carefully consider shopping in these stores which make multi-billion dollar profits at the expense of their employees.

JENNIFER O'DELL

Holy Cross Hall
President, SMC College Democrats

DOONSBURY

GARRY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Literature is the one place in any society where, within the secrecy of our own heads, we can hear voices talking about everything in every possible way."

-Salman Rushdie Is Nothing Sacred?

Murder mystery returns to Saint Mary's College

By LAURA SMITH
Accent Writer

Do your weeks seem to last forever? Do you spend half of your study time waiting for the weekend—a time of fun and relaxation? How about an exciting study break with a mysterious twist to liven up your week?

The Saint Mary's College Student Activities Board (S.A.B.) is sponsoring Murder Mysteries tonight at 7 p.m. in the Saint Mary's College Clubhouse. This clubhouse is known to most students as Dalloway's Coffee House. Murder Mysteries on Campus is presented by a traveling murder mystery group from Michigan.

This group is composed of three regular cast members and two students. These two Saint Mary's students have been randomly selected by S.A.B. to assist the cast members.

These two Saint Mary's students, Christine Ross and Alexis Dunbar, will be briefed on their role in Murder Mysteries two hours prior to the show.

During the presentation, a "murder" will occur. Students and audience members may then approach the cast to ask for clues to solve the mystery.

This exciting event requires 100% audience participation, according to McCandless Hall Junior Kelly Kilmer, S.A.B. Cultural Chairperson. "It's very interactive. Whoever solves the murder becomes the master sleuth and wins $50," she said.

"Those making accusations, however, must name not only their suspect, but how their suspect committed the murder," said Kilmer.

Kilmer is excited to bring Murder Mysteries back to Saint Mary's after a successful turnout last fall.

"Murder Mysteries has been popular on other campuses and we thought it would be fun to bring it here again," said Kilmer.

She invites everyone to come for a good time and just to have fun.

This event is one of the many upcoming entertainment features sponsored by the new S.A.B. members. Admission for this year's performance of Murder Mysteries is $2.

Courtesy of S.A.B.

Never too late for resumés

By CAROLYN WILKENS
Accent Writer

Ah...the days of Fall. A time for students to soak up the last rays of Indian Summer before September drifts away and South Bend's wintery weather really arrives. A time when studies, sports, and socializing crowd students' schedules and dwelling on the future could be put off. . . for another time. Even for some seniors, graduation still can look a long, long way down the road.

Unfortunately, one can choose to remain blissfully ignorant for only so long. And with the ultimate question to end all questions, the reality check really kicks in with a vengeance.

The ultimate question being: "So what are your plans after you graduate?" can leave even the most stoic-hearted senior smiling weakly and wobbling in the knees. Fear not; Career and Placement to the rescue.

For any student, it's only a short walk over to the library, where Career and Placement is located in the basement.

There you will join about a dozen of your fellow colleagues who also have decided that the Real Future is not so far away after all.

The Career and Placement begins early to advertise their services. The department mails flyers to juniors in October, and then send out more periodically as little reminders that college doesn't last forever.

Some juniors do begin gathering information about writing their resumés and cover letters. Whatever they decide rests entirely on their own judgement. Although students are not required to write a resumé prior to graduation, it is strongly recommended that they do.

At Career and Placement, students can learn the correct way to write a resumé and cover letter.

Handouts on how to write resumés are available at the front desk of Career and Placement.

Also, in the Resumé Expert packet there is a special tutorial diskette which explains the steps. Books on this kind of stuff can also be found in the basement library, and if you're still feeling a little lost, workshops are provided during the semester.

Resumé Expert is a special program which Career and Placement offers to students for eighteen dollars, in order to help them find jobs. Once the student has completed the resumé on disk, it can be easily formatted into the database network.

The student answers a whole series of questions which include personal experience, special skills, and even geographical preference. All their answers are taken into account relative to companies nationwide which recruit Notre Dame students.

When companies contact Career and Placement they request specific criteria which they are looking for. Academic major, internship and job interests are all possible requirements. Through the database, Career and Placement can then match up the students to the company that could potentially best suit their needs.

According to Kitty Arnold, the director of Career and Placement, both the resumé and cover letter are essentially the only two pieces of paper which represents the student.

They are essentially the student's passport to the working world. Therefore, she emphasizes that both documents "should be strong and powerful as possible."

Everything from the working of the resumé, to its appearance, and even the kind of paper used can make an impression.

As for the creativity of the resumé, Arnold suggests caution when deciding on the extent of inventiveness.

Originality is good, but a fine line between professionalism and tactlessness should be observed. "Making yourself too different is like shooting yourself in the foot," Arnold says. Instead the student should stress her strengths, and allow her skills and experience speak for themselves.

Exactly how much work this resumé writing entails can vary greatly with each student. For example, a student who is focused on being an accountant already has an idea of what direction she wants to take. Others without a specific career in mind may not be so lucky. These students need to focus more on what they want, and determine a specific angle to express in their resumé.

Campus interviews can also be set up through Career and Placement. For a twenty-dollar processing fee, students are able to interview with visiting business recruiters.

Even if you have been slow in getting your act together, take heart. Somewhere out there in your destiny is a job with your name on it. And your resumé is the first step towards finding it.

When writing a resume:

DO:

- Show your power to articulate.
- Stress your strengths.
- Try to communicate good orientation.
- Use heavy bond paper in professional color (white, ivory, beige, or gray).
- Proofread. Proofread. Proofread.
- Use an easy-to-read format.
- Have a professional look over your resume.

DON'T:

- Date your resume.
- List salaries or amounts of scholarships
- Lie about your accomplishments and background.
- Use someone else's resume as your own (Where I worked this summer, two people actually sent in this same resume! Go figure they did not get the job.)

The Observer accepts classifieds every business day from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Notre Dame office, 314 LaFortune and from 12 p.m. to 3 p.m. at 309 Haggard College Center. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is 2 cents per character per day, including all spaces.

Need 2 GA or stud. tix to BYU leah x4704

For information contact George Dohrmann at 631-4543

■ COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Hayden Fry, Iowa worried about trip to Happy Valley

By GREG SMITH
Associated Press

IOWA CITY, Iowa
It's bad enough that Penn State is so good, but just venturing to Beaver Stadium to play the sixth-ranked Nittany Lions is no easy matter, either, Iowa football coach Hayden Fry said Tuesday.

When Penn State was invited to join the Big Ten Conference a few years ago, there were all sorts of promises that the airport at State College would be enlarged.

That hasn't happened yet, so Fry's Hawkeyes will have to fly into Harrisburg and then make up to a three-hour commute to the stadium for Saturday's game.

"I kind of agree with Bobby Knight. He said, 'You can't get to Happy Valley from Indiana, and once you get there, you can't get back,'" Fry said, quoting the Indiana basketball coach.

The Hawkeyes (2-0) face their first stern test of the season against a Penn State team that has whipped Minnesota and Southern Cal by a combined score of 94-17 in its first two games.

Iowa has beaten Iowa State 37-9 and Central Michigan 52-21.

"This is the kind of ball club that can put the hurt on people," Fry said about the Nittany Lions.

The last thing Fry wants is distractions, something that's likely to happen on the way to the game.

"That's what happens on those long trips," he said. "Everything's so pretty. You're watching the eagles soar around, the deer standing up on the rocks looking down at you and everything."

Then you walk into Beaver Stadium and you're walking right into 155 howitzers — right at you; big change of environment."

Fry said it's the same at other schools, such as Arkansas, where airplanes have to "land way back in the pea patch someplace to get there."

"The runways at Fayetteville, Ark., are right on top of the mountains. You don't throw your anchor out ...

"And then you go through all those winding hills of the Ozarks and everything, it's beautiful."

Even Kinnick Stadium in Iowa City can seem imposing to visitors, Fry said.

"The stands are right on top of the sidelines and everything. That's a new experience who've never been in our place. We have an advantage there," he said. "People go to sleep in the dressing room. They like that pink color."

Fry said he'd like the Hawkeyes to at least walk through Beaver Stadium on Friday night but said that would depend on weather and traffic. If they can't make it, he said it won't be a problem "if I don't make it one."

"So much is mental, like people used to artificial turf. A lot of teams were beat before they played the game. Or you go to Colorado, can't breathe, high altitude," Fry said.

Fry, appearing relaxed and jovial, stayed away from talk about his 1983 team that went to Happy Valley and came away with a 42-34 victory, the most points scored against Penn State at Beaver Stadium.

Instead, he heaped praise on the Nittany Lions and coach Joe Paterno.

"There's not really anything you can think of bad about Penn State. It's kind of the utopia in college coaching, whether it's academics or football or a man like Joe Paterno as their leader. It's all A-plus, No. 1," Fry said.

"I'm not going to say anything but nice things about Penn State, the environment, the food. It's about the only thing we'll get to enjoy," he said. "I'm not looking forward to this trip."

†

FACULTY NOTRE DAME - SAINT MARY'S SINGLES GROUP

Social gatherings of single faculty have been sponsored since 1992. Regular gatherings take place monthly, special events or outings occasionally. Come help us begin a new year and meet old and new colleagues.

OPENING PICNIC

Saturday, September 17
4:30 p.m.

Fischer Graduate Community Center
Inside-Outside for Good Weather or Bad
Access to Large Screen TV for ND-MSU Game

Burgers, dogs, soft drinks provided
Bring a salad or dessert, if you wish.

For further information call Fr. John Gerber, C.S.C. 1-8601 or JoAnne Bunnage 1-4617

Co-sponsored by the Singles Group and Campus Ministry

Attention:

Undergraduate Schools Committee Volunteers

If you want to represent Notre Dame at your high school over fall or Christmas break, you must attend one training meeting.

If you missed the training meeting last Wednesday evening, you still have two opportunities:

Wednesday, September 14
or
Thursday, September 15

Each meeting will begin at 8:30 p.m.

and will be held in

Hayes-Healy Auditorium (Room 122)

If you have any questions, please call one of us:
Jennifer Carrier Luke Woods

Undergraduate Admissions Student Coordinator
631-7505 634-1962

ART PRINT & POSTER SALE

Sponsored by LAFORTUNE STUDENT CENTER

FEATURING:

- Prints of Master Artists
(Including the works of Dali, Gauguin, Kandinsky, Matisse, Miro, Monet, O'Keeffe, Picasso, Remington, Renoir, & Van Gogh, plus many others)
- M. C. Escher Prints
- Personality Posters
- Rock Bands
- Black & White Photography
- Contemporary Posters
- Framed Prints

DATES: TODAY Thru FRIDAY

TIME: 9:30 A.M. - 6:00 P.M.

PLACE: NOTRE DAME ROOM (2nd FLOOR),
LAFORTUNE STUDENT CENTER

3 PRINTS FOR ONLY $17!

1994 Notre Dame Basketball

November
Thur., 17	SLOVAKIA
Tue., 22	VERICH REPS
Sun., 27	VALPARAISO
Tue., 29	INDIANA
December
Sat., 3	at San Diego
Mon., 5	at Loyola Marymount
Sat., 10	at DePaul
Thur., 22	ST. BONAVENTURE
Tue., 27-28	at Far West Classic
First Round:
ND vs. Oregon St.
Or. vs. G. Wash.
Final Round
3rd Place Game
Champ. Game
Sat., 31	CORNELL
January
Tue., 3	LEHIGH
Thur., 5	LOYOLA (MD)
Sat., 7	at Louisville
Tue., 10	COLUMBIA
Thur., 12	at Missouri
Sun., 15	HOFSTRA
Tue., 17	at Dayton
Sat., 21	XAVIER
Tue., 24	DUKE
Sat., 28	BOSTON COLLEGE
February
Wed., 1	IONA
Sun., 5	at UCLA
Wed., 8	DUQUESNE
Sun., 12	KENTUCKY
Wed., 15	at Butler
Sat., 18	vs. Fordham
Sat., 25	MARQUETTE
Tue., 28	LOYOLA (IL)

■ BASKETBALL

Horace Grant free to sign with Magic

Forward is still shopping services, Bulls an option

ORLANDO, Fla. The ball was in Horace Grant's court Tuesday after a federal judge ruled that the all-star power forward's $22.3 million contract with the Orlando Magic could be illegal.

Magic officials indicated they would not pursue the issue in court but would try to sign Grant to a contract acceptable to the NBA.

But Grant and his agent could have other ideas.

U.S. District Judge Dickinson Debevoise decided Monday in Newark, N.J., that a one-year escape clause in the contract could be a circumvention of the NBA's salary cap, which is designed to prohibit the richest teams from signing all the best players.

NBA officials hailed the decision. They had argued that teams were starting to use one-year escape clauses to skirt the NBA rules.

Grant's six-year contract called for him to become a free agent after playing the first year at a salary of $2.125 million, which is the most Orlando can pay under the salary cap.

Grant would then re-sign with the Magic for the remainder of the contract terms.

As a result of Debevoise's ruling, Grant now has several options, some of which do not include the Magic.

But Grant, who has said repeatedly that he wants to play in Orlando, could not be located for comment Tuesday nor was his agent available for comment.

Grant could sign a long-term deal with Orlando with a two-year opt-out. Jeff Mishkin, the NBA's vice president for business and legal affairs, said the league probably would accept such a contract because it would mean the player accepts more responsibility for a lower salary over a longer time.

Grant could agree to a 1-year, $2.125 million contract with the Magic, or sign a contract with another team with money to spend under the salary cap.

He could return to the Chicago Bulls, who tried to re-sign him to a $20 million contract over five years.

This could go higher because teams are allowed to exceed the cap by any amount to re-sign their players.

Grant also could ask for a full hearing before the judge, whose decision was in a motion for summary judgment. Grant's agent, Jimmy Sexton, indicated Grant might take that course.

"It just means we'll have to have a one-day hearing, but our facts were better than any of those other cases, so we're confident," Sexton told the Chicago Tribune.

The Magic's John Gabriel doesn't like that option.

"(The judge) has already said that the league has a good case here," said Gabriel, Orlando's vice president of basketball operations.

"He said he will not argue the fact that the league has the right to challenge this. I think he also cites that these one-year, option-out clauses may not be in the best interest of the league."

Heightening the Magic's concern is the fact that training camp opens in three weeks, and further legal action could take a lot longer.

Charles Grantham, executive director of the NBA Players' Association, said the union would urge Grant to continue the court fight.

"The NBA puts out a press release saying they won," Grantham said. "How could they come out and say that was a victory? What the judge was saying is that there seem to be some facts in dispute, and we need to have another hearing on this."

While leaving Grant in limbo, Debevoise upheld the contracts of A.C. Green of Phoenix, Chris Dudley of Portland and Toni Kukoc of Chicago.

See
Michigan State
Sports Extra in Friday's Observer

Sonics sign Cartwright

SEATTLE The Seattle SuperSonics on Tuesday signed 37-year-old unrestricted free agent center Bill Cartwright, who was limited to 42 games last season because of injuries.

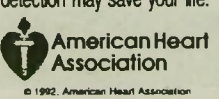

It will be the 16th NBA season for Cartwright. He played the past six seasons with the Chicago Bulls after nine with the New York Knicks. He played on three NBA title teams in Chicago.

The Sonics gave him a three-year contract but have the option of not renewing it for the second and third seasons. Terms of the deal were not disclosed.

THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS A STROKE OF GOOD LUCK.

Know the warning signs. Early detection may save your life.

American Heart Association
© 1992, American Heart Association

WANT TO IMPRESS YOUR NEXT SYR DATE, LEARN SOME COOL DANCES,
AND HAVE FUN AT THE SAME TIME?

JOIN THE
BALLROOM DANCE CLUB!

Classes start Thursday at Stepan Center. Just pick the class that's more appropriate for you!

7-8:30 SYR Essentials: For people interested in learning the basics of the waltz, fox trot, cha-cha, and the swing.

8:30-10 Strictly Ballroom: Dance like your favorite movie stars! Learn choreographed routines using the viennese waltz, bolero, samba, and tango.

Questions? Call Joe Cavataio at 4-1763.

Michigan State Ticket Lottery

Winners may pick up their tickets between 1 and 6pm today at the LaFortune Information Desk.

The 10 alternates may purchase any leftover tickets on a first come first serve basis between 6 and 6:30 pm.

SUB is not responsible for any lost or stolen tickets.

333777	754072	757071	759091	761058	763019
333780	754073	757077	759094	761059	763030
333781	754074	757078	759095	761060	763037
333785	754077	757082	759098	761061	763041
333787	754080	757083	759103	761062	763042
333788	754081	757087	759106	761064	763047
333789	754082	757090	759109	761065	763054
333791	754084	757098	759113	761066	763057
333793	754085	757104	759114	761070	763060
333795	754086	757110	759115	761071	763063
333796	754087	757114	759116	761071	763065
333799	754088	757124	759121	761076	763069
333805	754091	757127	759130	761078	763070
333809	754093	759002	759134	761081	763071
754018	754102	759007	759135	761083	763077
754019	754103	759008	759136	761095	763081
754021	754106	759013	761002	761097	763086
754022	757002	759014	761003	761098	763090
754023	757004	759015	761004	761102	763094
754024	757009	759016	761010	761103
754025	757010	759017	761015	761107
754027	757011	759023	761016	761108
754029	757012	759024	761024	761111
754032	757016	759029	761028	761113
754034	757019	759031	761029	761114
754038	757022	759032	761030	761121
754040	757027	759034	761031	761129	333784
754041	757028	759036	761034	761130	757017
754045	757029	759038	761035	761131	757023
754047	757034	759042	761037	761132	757084
754048	757039	759043	761039	761134	759058
754049	757040	759056	761046	761138	759073
754052	757045	759061	761049	761139	761109
754053	757047	759062	761050	761140	761136
754054	757050	759070	761052	761141	763064
754055	757051	759075	761053	761143	763067
754058	757053	759077	761054	763003
754062	757058	759085	761055	763004
754067	757060	759089	761056	763017
754071	757062	759090	761057	763018

STUDENT UNION BOARD

■ COLLEGE FOOTBALL

Tailback talk surfaces at Ohio State

By RUSTY MILLER
Associated Press

COLUMBUS, Ohio
Eddie George still is the starting tailback at Ohio State. But the gap between him and his backups grows smaller every day.

Buckeye coach John Cooper said at his weekly Tuesday luncheon that he and his staff were taking a long, hard look at the tailback position heading into the 24th-ranked Buckeyes' 98th home opener Saturday against Pittsburgh.

"We've got to have better production out of that position," Cooper said.

Cooper acknowledged that George was No. 1 and "a great individual," but then discussed ways the sophomore needed to improve.

"He needs to run with his eyes," Cooper said. "The other thing Eddie needs to do — and he's a great kid to be around — Eddie needs to spend more time in the film room. He needs to spend more time with his position coach. He needs to know the blocking schemes. He needs to know to cut it outside."

He added, "Whether he can ever get the vision, the kind of vision you love to have, I don't know. That remains to be seen."

George has gained 198 yards and scored three touchdowns as the Buckeyes have split their two starts in 1994. Dimitrious Stanley, a sophomore whose father is a former Ohio State assistant coach, has carried eight times for 26 yards. Pepe Pearson, a freshman from Euclid, has five carries for 20 yards. Jermon Jackson, a freshman from Ironton, seemed a likely redshirt candidate but may see action as quickly as Saturday.

Cooper said George has a tendency to rely on his own instincts and run over potential tacklers rather than patiently wait to pick up a block.

"Eddie is so determined. He wants to do it but he thinks he can do it on his own," Cooper said. "You can't do that at this level. You can't do that against Washington. You can't run over those guys. You'd better follow your blocking. ... Those are things Eddie will learn."

Cooper went to great pains to say he was not blaming George for the offense's problems when Ohio State fell behind 22-0 in the first half in Seattle. He stressed that he wanted to see if other players might be capable of doing even more.

"We need to get those guys in and see how they're going to play in a game," Cooper said.

Adding to Cooper's worries is a concussion statrting fullback Alex Rodriguez sustained against Washington. Head trainer Billy Hill said Tuesday that Rodriguez was questionable for the Pittsburgh game.

Stopping the opponents' ground attack is almost as much of a concern to Cooper as is his own running game. Washington's Napoleon Kaufmann ran for 211 yards on 32 carries against the Buckeyes — the best rushing total by one player against Ohio State since Southern California's Charles White had 242 in the 1980 Rose Bowl.

Making matters worse, a Pittsburgh back has run for more than 200 yards in both games the Panthers (1-1) have played. Curtis Martin had 251 in an opening 30-28 defeat against Texas and Smithfield native Billy West had 226 yards on 26 carries in a 30-16 victory over Ohio University last Saturday.

"It's a big-time worry," Cooper said of his defense against the run. "You can't keep giving up that kind of yardage and have the kind of defense we expect to have."

The kicks off at 12:36 p.m.

FSU gets good news on suspended players

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.

A temporary agreement clearing the way for the NCAA to restore the eligibility of five Florida State football players, including All-America line-backer Derrick Brooks, was approved Tuesday by a federal judge.

"The preliminary injunction is a 10-strike for us," said Florida State president Talbot "Sandy" D'Alemberte. "It gets FSU the protection it needs to go forward Saturday and the following Saturdays."

Brooks, tailback Tiger McMillon and reserve offensive lineman Marcus Long were scheduled to come off a two-game suspension from D'Alemberte on Saturday, but the school was at risk of further penalties if they played without the NCAA restoring their eligibility.

The third-ranked Seminoles visit Wake Forest this Saturday.

Two other players, guard Patrick McNeil and offensive tackle Forrest Conoly, are serving four-game suspensions for their involvement in accepting gifts from prospective agents last November.

"It gives us a chance to put this player issue behind us," said Wayne Hogan, acting athletic director. "It was becoming a huge monkey on our backs."

The players, however, will must sign a waiver that moves the jurisdiction of their eligibility to the NCAA under terms of the agreement. That, D'Alemberte said, should be only a formality.

Attorneys for all sides went to work immediately on the language of the agreement described as a "workable solution," by U.S. District Judge William Stafford, who said he would then sign it.

Dave Berst, longtime NCAA enforcement executive, said the deal looked like a way for all parties to get out of the legal morass that threatened to keep the Seminole players idle.

Upon receiving the signed order by Stafford, the NCAA will act quickly, possibly within hours, Berst said.

The agreement came after a 90-minute recess ordered by Stafford. He was not anxious to deal with the larger question on the constitutionality of a Florida law in a few minutes when he just received many of the legal briefs Monday.

"You've been working on it all summer and you expect me to wing a decision?" he asked attorneys.

Stafford restricted the injunction to only the eligibility question and left the debate on the constitutionality of a due process law to be determined later.

GO REALLY IRISH!

Ireland Program

Information Sessions:

Sept. 13	Sept 14
7:00 p.m.	7:00 p.m.
Montgomery Theatre	Game Room
LaFortune	Haggar
Notre Dame Campus	Saint Mary's Campus

Students discuss study at St. Patrick's College, Maynooth, Ireland.
Everyone welcome!

■ BASEBALL

Sanders pleads innocent

CINCINNATI

An attorney representing Deion Sanders entered written pleas of innocent Tuesday to a felony charge and two misdemeanor charges stemming from a confrontation with an off-duty police officer at Riverfront Stadium.

The Cincinnati Reds center fielder was not required to appear at an arraignment before Judge William L. Mallory Jr. in Hamilton County Municipal Court.

Instead, attorney James Keys Jr. entered written pleas of innocent to a felony charge of failure to obey a police officer's order and two misdemeanor charges of leaving the scene of an accident.

A separate pretrial hearing on two other misdemeanor charges was scheduled for Tuesday before Judge David Davis. But Sanders was granted a continuance until Oct. 12 on charges of driving without a license and resisting arrest.

Defending Our Lives

1993 Academy Award for Best Documentary
Lecture and Film Presentation

WASHINGTON HALL
15 SEPTEMBER 1994
7:30PM FREE ADMISSION

1992 REEBOK
HUMAN RIGHTS
AWARD RECIPIENT

Reception to Follow in LaFortune

SOPHOMORES!!!!

Get Involved!

Apply for the position of JPW Sophomore
Committee Chairperson!!

Applications available at LaFortune information desk September 12-16.
Application deadline
September 16!!!

SPORTS BRIEFS

In-Line Hockey Tournament- This one day, double elimination tournament will take place on Sunday, September 18 at Outpost Sports (3602 N. Grape Rd., Mishawaka, IN 259-1000). It will be an 8 team, 5 on 5 (including goalie) tournament. All equipment will be provided by Rollerblade, but participants are encouraged to provide their own skates. The fee is $10 per team and you must register in advance at RecSports. There will also be a $5 insurance fee and transportation will not be provided. For more information call RecSports at 1-6100.

The Climbing Wall located in the Rockne Memorial will be open for operation beginning Tuesday, September 13. The hours will be Tuesdays and Thursdays 7:00-10:00 pm and Sundays 2:00-5:00 pm. All users have to complete an orientation session before they will be allowed open use. For more info call RecSports at 1-6100.

Aerobic Classes - Classes have started for Challenge U Fitness. Make sure to bring your green exerciser ID card with you. Some classes are still open. Call the RecSports office to find out more information.

Special Olympics - Anyone interested in volunteering for the Special Olympics in swimming should contact Coach Dennis Stark at 1-5983.

Rowing Club - The Rowing Club needs a coach. Please call Chris at 273-3975.

Novice Rowers - Practice begins Wednesday at 4:30 and 5:45. Meet at the main circle and bring insurance forms. It's not too late to join. Just show up Wednesday, Thursday, Friday.

Men's Volleyball - Tryouts will be held September 18 from 2pm to 5pm and September 19 from 7pm to 10pm in the pit of the JACC. Attendance is required for both dates. For more information, call Shawn (x1989) or Matt (234-8958).

Field Hockey - An informational meeting will be held on Thursday, September 15, at 9pm in PW's party room. Anyone with questions should call Christy (x2771) or Tanya (x2984).

Women's Lacrosse - Practice starts today at 9pm in Loftus. Bring any extra sticks.

SAINT MARY'S

Belles breeze past Anderson, 5-1

The Observer/Cynthia Exconde
Freshman Sarah Dakel and Saint Mary's topped Anderson.

Offense shines despite Sullivan's absence

By TARA MOONEY
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's soccer team crushed Anderson University in a 5-1 victory yesterday afternoon.

Maura Sullivan, Cathlynn Howe, and Eileen Newell all scored one goal each for the Belles (2-0). Lisa Nichols had an impressive performance with two scores and junior Tiffany Raczynski added two assists.

"We played well against a team we had never faced before and generally had no previous knowledge of as a team," freshman Sarah Dakel said.

Despite several minor injuries the team performed well. Sullivan, a senior captain, sat out two-thirds of the game with an injured ankle, but is expected to play in Thursday's game against Calvin College.

"We were still tired from the weekend game but we ended up pulling together," Sullivan said.

The Belles game against Calvin begins at 4 pm at Saint Mary's.

"We are starting to come together as a team on and off the field," added sophomore Jody Jennings.

"I think our team played well, but there is definitely room for improvement for Thursday's game," Newell said.

Happy 21st

Bill
"Meat"
Maloney

Taking off to a great future!

Much Love,
Mom, Dad,
Meredith, & Toby

MISHAWAKA BREWING COMPANY

Area's only Microbrewery!

Study Booths
Irish Meat Pie

Baby Back Ribs
Sandwiches

Puburrito
Appetizers

Outdoor Beergarden

61" Widescreen TV

256-9993

3703 N. Main Mishawaka
1/2 Block south of Edison

SUBWAY

Great Feet.

Sit back with some friends and enjoy the six feet of a SUBWAY party sub while watching the 22 feet of the Notre Dame men's soccer team in action against Xavier at 1 p.m. on Sunday.

1:00 SUNDAY!

NOTRE DAME

VS.

XAVIER

Alumni Field — Behind the J.A.C.C.
ND / SMC STUDENTS FREE WITH ID!

FOUR FOOD GROUPS OF THE APOCALYPSE

DAVE KELLETT

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

CALVIN AND HOBBS

BILL WATTERSON

DILBERT

SCOTT ADAMS

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

- 1 By the side
- 6 In the back
- 10 Hoarded
- 14 1936 Leslie Howard role
- 15 Nose (out)
- 16 Actress Nazimova
- 17 Foes at Gaugamela
- 20 Mythological lineup
- 21 Whomps
- 22 — Claire
- 23 Loyal
- 24 Foes at the falls of Reichenbach
- 31 Topple
- 32 Leisure
- 33 Card

- 35 June honoree, for short
- 36 Taxable income
- 38 Philippine island
- 39 Plaintive
- 40 Out of business
- 41 Camera carriage
- 42 Foes at Troy
- 46 Fix, artwise
- 47 "Flying Down to —"
- 48 Bundle barley
- 51 Cosmetic items
- 56 Foes at Tenochtitlán
- 58 Mayberry moppet
- 59 Simulacrum
- 60 Ferber title

DOWN

- 61 Level
- 62 Not stifling
- 63 Levels off
- 1 Not give —
- 2 "Damn Yankees" role
- 3 Sign from on high
- 4 Barber's call
- 5 Green light
- 6 Pilot's vision problem
- 7 Nirvana
- 8 Cabinet dept.
- 9 Group based in Geneva
- 10 First name in the N.B.A.
- 11 Literary pseudonym
- 12 Jack Horner's surprise
- 13 Itar — (news agency)
- 18 Circa
- 19 As — (generally)
- 23 "Take —!"
- 24 Tankard's kin
- 25 Rival of Sally
- 26 "The Cloister and the Hearth" author
- 27 N.Y.C. subway line
- 28 Busybody
- 29 Reb general Richard

Puzzle by Richard Thomas

- 30 Dear pelt
- 34 Fellows
- 36 Colonial African land
- 37 Prefix with Disney
- 38 Mil. rank
- 40 Caniff's " — Canyon"
- 41 Bishop's bailiwick
- 43 Oregon's — Lake
- 44 Narrow opening
- 45 "Hey you!" sound
- 48 Dundee denizen
- 49 Original Arizonan
- 50 Gannon University home
- 51 Marston — (1644 battle site)
- 52 Don River's outlet
- 53 Hayseed
- 54 Ugandan exile
- 55 Needs a facelift
- 57 AT&T alternative

Get answers to any three clues by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420-5556 (75¢ each minute).

"The problem, Mr. Fudd, is that you've been having a subliminal effect on everyone in the factory. We're proud of our product, Mr. Fudd, and there's no company in the world that builds a finer skwoo dwivuh. ... Dang! Now you got me doing it!"

Of Interest

- Students interested in the Mexico City program should attend a meeting in room 245 DeBartolo at 4:30 p.m. today.
- The Entrepreneur's Club first meeting will feature Art Velasquez, founder and CEO of Azteca Mexican Foods, Inc., tonight at 7:00 in the LaFortune Ballroom.
- Science Majors are encouraged to attend Science Placement Night at 7:00 p.m. this evening in the Hayes-Healy Auditorium. Representatives of Hewitt Associates, Merck Human Health Division, and Sigma Chemical Company will offer interviewing and job search suggestions, in addition to company and general industry information. A science job interview will be demonstrated. A question and answer session will follow.
- The Women's Resource Center will have an organizational and planning meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Center (inside Student Government Office on the second floor of LaFortune. For more information, call Linda Chalk at 232-2739.
- WVFI will be having a general meeting for all returning DJ's tonight at 8:30 in Montgomery Theater for show picks and information.

Menu

Notre Dame

- North
- Turkey Alfredo
- Broccoli Cuts
- Mashed Potatoes

Saint Mary's

- Roast Beef
- Turkey Cutlets
- Broccoli Rice Casserole
- Green Peas

South

- Arroz con Pollo
- Collard Greens
- Grilled Pork Chops
- Fettucine Alfredo

Have something to say?
Use Observer
classifieds.

TWO QUICK QUESTIONS

- 1. If someone were to ask you if you drank responsibly this past weekend, what would you say?
- 2. What is responsible drinking?

Here is how many health professionals define responsible drinking:

Zero = Zero Alcohol. Especially if you're under 21, driving, chemically dependent, on certain medications, or pregnant.

One = One drink per hour, which sets the pace for moderate drinking.

AND

Three = No more than three drinks per day, and never daily.

If you have any questions, please call the Office of Alcohol and Drug Education at 631-7970.

■ FOOTBALL

Photo Courtesy of Notre Dame Sports Information
Tight end Pete Chryplewicz will miss 3-6 weeks after surgery to repair a broken bone in his wrist.

Holtz thinks title chances gone

But if players prove him wrong. . .

By TIM SHERMAN
Assistant Sports Editor

At the very best, he is a tough man to read.

In one breath, Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz is praising his team for their performance in Saturday's 26-24 loss to, finding nothing but positive things to say about his team. Then, without a hint of warning, he will summarily dismiss any notion of re-entering the national championship hunt.

So, what are we really to take away from last weekend.

"I'm telling the team that the National Championship is not realistic," said Holtz. "If they want to prove me wrong then they are welcomed to try."

For now at least, they will be trying without tight end Pete Chryplewicz.

"Pete Chryplewicz has broken his Navicular bone in his wrist," said Holtz. "He will definitely miss a few weeks."

That was really the only significant injury that came about from Saturday, although two Irish stars were banged up.

Derrick Mayes, who was helped off the field following his acrobatic go-ahead catch, sprained his ankle and did not practice yesterday but should play Saturday at Michigan St.

Meanwhile, x-rays on co-captain Lee Becton's injured foot came back negative. Nonetheless, the perpetual worrying nature in Holtz came through.

"I really totally expected them (the doctors) and say he had a broken foot. I was quite delighted to hear it wasn't."

Another thing that has delighted Holtz has been the play of the sophomore class. Besides such usuals as Powlus and Kinder, he has high hopes for a number of others.

"Mike Doughty will play much more at left tackle and Melvin Dansby at right defensive end. You are going to see more of Lyron Cobbins at linebacker, Scott Sollmann and Emmett Mosley at wide receiver."

While stopping short of using the hackneyed phrase "youth movement" that baseball managers come to love at this time of year, Holtz clearly has his eye on the future.

"I think the National Championship is very much within our grasp with this team. But not this year."

■ VOLLEYBALL

Irish top Boilermakers

By BETSY BAKER
Sports Writer

Coates, May key three match sweep

The Notre Dame volleyball team is as hot as the weather in South Bend right now, but as we can all expect the cold weather to come, there is no end in sight to the success of the Irish.

The 13th-ranked Irish are now 10-0, after defeating the Purdue Boilermakers in three games last night 15-4, 15-8, and 15-10. One of the many highlights of last night's match is that every player on the Irish roster saw playing time.

Senior co-captain Nicole Coates led the Irish victory with 12 kills and four service aces. Coates' powerful performance was too much for the Boilermakers to handle, forcing them to commit numerous passing errors.

Another player who shined for the Irish was freshman setter Carey May, who contributed 17 assists.

"Both Nicole and Carey did a great job for us tonight," Coach Debbie Brown said. "Carey's performance is especially impressive, because as you change setters, you change the rhythm of the game."

Brown is happy with her team's performance tonight, especially since everyone played, but expected to see more of a challenge from Purdue.

"I did not expect to get everyone in, but everyone came in and did a great job."

"It's important to get everyone some experience, especially going into a big tournament like this weekend," Brown added, referring to the Colorado Coors Tournament this weekend in Boulder, Colorado.

Purdue's looked flat, with one reason being the absence of several key players, due to injury, but Purdue Coach Carol Dewey made no excuses for her team's performance.

"We've struggled with consistency this season," Dewey said, "but I'm not going to make any excuses for our performance."

Dewey did not hesitate to compliment the Irish and their performance.

"Notre Dame is a good passing team," said Dewey. "They have good ball con-

see IRISH / page 10

Senior Nicole Coates led the Irish past Purdue with 12 kills.

The Observer/Kyle Kusak

THE FULL SCHEDULE

A look at the complete schedule for the 1994-95 Notre Dame men's basketball team.

See page 12

of note. . .

Michigan State ticket lottery results can be found on page 12