Prospectus.

The UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME issues this, its fourteenth annual Catalogue; under circumstances cheering and encouraging, beyond those of any previous year of its existence. The course of study has been methodized anew, has been greatly enlarged, and is, it is believed, rendered fully adequate to the demands of the advancing culture of the North-west; the corps of Professors and Tutors was never before so numerous and efficient; to which may be joined the scarcely less important consideration that each succeeding year has witnessed large and expensive additions to the material facilities for imparting a thorough and complete education.

The Literary Department, the only one as yet fully organized, is divided into a Preparatory School, in which is given rudimental instruction up to the point where the Student may profitably enter upon the course of an undergraduate; and a College proper where the full curriculum of liberal studies requisite for graduation is pursued.

In the Preparatory Department, and in the lower College classes, the usual catechetical or tutorial method of teaching is adopted, the efficiency of which is largely promoted by the systematic use of the blackboard in the recitation room. In this stage of his education the utmost pains is taken to ground the pupil thoroughly in principles, to create and encourage a habit of self-reliant thought, and to cater as little as possible for merely passive mind. In the higher classes, as far as may be done with advantage to the Student, the text-book is replaced by the Professors own oral instructions. Already have been instituted courses of lectures on CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, on LOGIC, and a course introductory to the study of metaphysic, on ENGLISH LITERATURE, and on ELOQUENCE, in addition to those occasional lectures which, from time to time during the progress of the year, Professors find it necessary to give in their several departments. The advocates of an education more Christian than has hitherto prevailed in countries not exclusively Catholic, will learn with pleasure that a course of reading in Latin and Greek Patristic literature and eloquence, in the noble lyrics and hymnology of the Church, and in Christian poetry generally, from PRUDENTIUS onwards, has been introduced among the studies of the two last years.

The degree of A. B. will be conferred on such as shall have completed in this institution the course of study prescribed by the statutes, or, coming from other institutions at least by the commencement of the senior year, shall on examination be found prepared for the class to which they apply for admission.

The degree of A. M. will be conferred on such of the graduates in the first degree, as shall after leaving College, have devoted full three years to professional, literary or philosophical studies, and shall present to the faculty a thesis, or deliver an oration, on some subject relating to their respective liberal pursuits.

Students who do not desire to graduate, may adopt a partial or irregular course, fitting them for commercial life, for civil engineering, &c., or for any pursuit outside of the learned professions, which requires a special training. Such a course would run parallel with the regular course, and would include all the advantages, literary and otherwise, which the institution offers to its inmates in common.

Special facilities exist at Notre Dame for the acquirement of the French and German languages. Not only are these languages taught very carefully by persons of acknowledged competency, but many of the members of the institution being natives of France and Germany, opportunities at all times occur for conversation in these tongues.

There are in the College various societies of students, formed for different objects—the St. Aloysius, a Literary Society, St. Cæcilia, a Musical Association; the Confraternity of the Nocturnal Adoration, and the Arch-Confraternity. There is also a Military Company composed of the larger students, who have regular parades, the arms and accoutrements being furnished by the State.

The disciplinary government is mild, yet sufficiently energetic to preserve the most perfect order and regularity. The morals and general deportment of pupils are assiduously watched over, and their comfort and personal habits receive the same attention as if they were in the bosom of their own families. Only conciliatory means of correction are used, but if the student proves insensible to these, he is promptly dismissed from the College.

Parents may rest assured that the utmost care will be taken that their children comply regularly with their religious duties, and that no efforts will be spared in instructing them fully in the principles and obligations of their holy religion.

LOCATION.—The University of Notre Dame is situated in the lovely valley of the St. Joseph, close by the banks of that storied river of the North-west. It is in the midst of a fine and proverbially healthy farming region, and by means of two great trunk lines of railroad, one of them passing within a mile of the College grounds, easily and quickly accessible from every part of the country. At the depot at South Bend omnibuses or private conveyance can be obtained; and in the town itself there is a spacious and delightfully ventilated hotel, where every comfort may be enjoyed.

Among the peculiar advantages which Notre Dame presents, as a place of Education, may be noticed,

1.—ITS RETIRED LOCATION.—At a time when solid studies are rare, when dissipations of every kind are thrown in the way of the young student, and when morals are but slightly watched over, it seems that every parent who desires to secure to his son an opportunity of spending the few years of his education usefully and profitably, and passing safely the dangerous season of early youth, removed from all the temptations of our large cities, should readily comprehend the advantage of placing him in such an Institution as Notre Dame. Here, the young student is under the most watchful and paternal care—here he can apply himself, undisturbed, to his studies, under competent Professors—and, on moderate terms, he may acquire a solid knowledge of everything to which he may wish to devote his attention—here, also, his young mind breathes an atmosphere of piety, the influences of which will hover around him throughout his life.

2.—ITS NORTHERN AND HEALTHY SITE.—This is a point especially worthy the consideration of Southerners—the change of air and location having a natural tendency to produce the most salutary effects on the constitutions of the natives of the Southern States.

3.—THE EXTENSIVE GROUNDS OF THE INSTITUTION.—If Students are here deprived of hurtful pleasures and dissipations, they are amply remunerated by those delightful and innocent amusements which the nature of the locality so abundantly provides. The extensive forests surrounding the College give the best opportunities for hunting to those who are fond of that sport; whilst the beautiful Lakes, upon whose banks the University stands, afford choice fishing grounds in summer, and almost uninterrupted skating during winter.

4.—CARE IN SICKNESS.—Students, when ill, have not to remain in the College rooms, but are transferred to the airy and pleasant apartments of the Infirmary, where they are attended by the visiting physician, and nursed with devoted care by experienced sisters, who never suffer them to be alone, but strive to supply the place of their absent mothers.

Manual Labor School.

In this Department, conducted by the "Brothers of St. Joseph," boys are taught several useful Trades, and receive, at the same time, a good, common English education. They are constantly under the vigilant and paternal care of the Brothers. Their moral and religious training are the special objects of an association of men who devote their lives and energies to the noble task of preparing the children of the poor to become good Christians and useful members of society.

The number of Apprentices in this Institution at present is forty-five.

The conditions for admission are :

1. Each applicant must have attained the age of twelve years, and shall remain until he is twenty-one.
2. He must pay a fee of Fifty Dollars on entering, which sum is refunded in clothing at the expiration of his term.
3. He must be provided with suitable clothing for the first year.

St. Mary's Academy.

About one mile west of the College, is beautifully located on the banks of the river St. Joseph, and is everything that could be desired as a locality for a Female Academy. It is under the charge of the "Sisters of the Holy Cross." All the branches taught in the best Female Institutions in the country are taught here. The buildings are extensive, land additions and improvements are daily progressing. For further particulars concerning this Institution and its various Departments, the public are referred to the Catalogue of the "Sisters of the Holy Cross," of 1858-9.
