NEW RULE FOR ENGLISH DUTY

Will Permit Make-up Work for 10 Per Cent Themes When Absences Are Excused.

The faculty of the English department met in the Classic room of the Main building yesterday.

A ruling on "make-up" work in English was approved by the faculty and will be presented to the Director of Studies. The ruling was requested by the latter.

English duties assigned for the day on which a student was absent, if worth 10 per cent or more, and if the absence is excused by the Prefect of Discipline, may be "made up," according to the new ruling.

A committee, consisting of Rev. J. Leonard Carrico, Professor George N. Shuster and Paul Fenelon, will request the purchase of books for the department. The faculty will make suggestions to the committee for the list to be presented.

Fines for Lawyers Forgetting Canes

Enforcement of rules regarding the carrying of canes by senior law-years will be secured by a system of fines, collectable by seizure of the offender's personal property when other means fail, according to a decision of the committee made yesterday. The canes are to be worn on the occasions previously announced, or the 10-cent fine becomes effective.

LOMBARD TEAM OPPOSE IRISH

Schissler's Squad Fast and Heavy; Rockmen Ready for Hard Game.

The Notre Dame football team will face their first real test of the 1923 season, when they meet the Lombard College team from Galesburg, Ill., this afternoon on Cartier field. Lombard has been pointing all its preparations for this game and is coming here with the determination to win.

It will be far from an easy game, since the two teams are evenly matched in nearly every department. It may even result in a coaching battle, before the final whistle. Lombard is as heavy as the Irish and just as fast. They employ a style of play similar to the Rockne system, particularly like the shift. Previous campaigns have proven that Lombard is a firm believer in the passing attack and then will bring with them an assortment of long pass-players. At the Marquette game, it was reported that the Lombard outfit has a weak defense on short passes, but Coach Schissler, has undoubtedly ironed out his little weakness during the last week, since he has become somewhat better acquainted with Irish football. Rockne's reserves were beaten at Galesburg, 34-13, last fall.

Lombard is apt to vary their game this afternoon with place kicking, and the defense may not have as easy a time on the receiving end as they did last week, when Maher took the kick and ran for a touchdown.

Lamb, the triple-threat man on the Lombard squad, mixed his game nicely by playing at the end or in the backfield, whenever necessary demands him. He gave a striking demonstration of toe work in the Marquette practice tilt. Swanson is another of Schissler's crack performers.

The visitors will be dressed in red uniforms, similar to the suits worn by Nebraska. Lombard expects to bring a large delegation of rooters.

Open Course in Education Seminar

The Department of Education opened a seminar under the general title, "Present Day Problems in Education," last evening in the Library. Rev. William F. Cunningham, C. S. C., is in charge of the subject. It was instituted primarily for graduate students, but upper classmen who are properly qualified may enter on application. The class is still open. Four credits will be given for the completion of the course, which will be conducted for a two-hour period once a week. Application can be made to Father Cunningham, Room 213, Main building, or Dujarie Hall.

CLUB PRESIDENTS.

A meeting of all presidents of students clubs will be held at 12:30 Monday, in the North room of the Library. In case the president of any club is unable to attend the meeting, some member must act as representative, according to Mark Nolan, Director of Students.

Rockne and Coughlin Attend; Dumke and Luther Sing.

The naming of Mr. and Mrs. Knute K. Rockne, Dr. and Mrs. John A. Stoeckley, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Coughlin as chaperones for the Junior dance, to be held tonight at the Tribune, completes the arrangements made by the committee in charge.

Ralph Dumke and Charles Butterworth, local entertainers, are on the program. William Furey and Eddie Luther are featured as singers, and the Steimrich orchestra of Elkhart will offer the music during the evening. Several other novelties are planned.

The dance will be from 9 to 12 o'clock. Permission for those students who attend the dance will be until 1:10 a.m. A special car will leave for Notre ame at 12:45. Permission to attend this dance may be secured by freshmen and sophomores from their hall rectors.

Kane in Politics In Springfield Now

"Mickey" Kane of the class of 1923, who was a prominent baseball, basketball and football man at the University during his career here, is candidate for a councilman's chair for Ward 1, in the city of Springfield, Mass., according to reports reaching here. Kane is now in the office of ex-Mayor Hayes of Springfield.

HOME COMING PLANS MADE

Special Meeting Held Last Night to Consider Plans for Entertainment of Alumni.

The program for Homecoming was discussed and approved, in its first draft, at a special meeting at the University last night. Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, Coach Knute Rockne, James Swift, chairman of the S. A. C., William Greavy, chairman of the Homecoming Plans Committee, Ed Luther, cheer leader, Matt Rothert, chairman of the Blue Circle, were in attendance.

The Blue Circle men will be stationed at the railway stations and registration booths all Friday afternoon. At 7 on Friday a red torch parade and snake dance will be held in South Bend, after which the Purdue team and the Alumni will be given a reception.

A boxing show in the gym, in charge of Frank Cahill, and a vaudeville program in Washington hall, in charge of William Greavy, will begin at 9 o'clock. Preparations for the barbecue, south of the gym, will begin at 10:30.

A mass for deceased Monogram men at 8:30 will be held on Saturday morning. The barbecue will be held at 10 o'clock. It will be in charge of the Rocky Mountain club, with music by the Notre Dame band.

The game begins at 2:30 on Cartier field. Purdue will be saluted first, and a salute will then be given Notre Dame.

The Monogram club banquet will be held at 6 o'clock. Homecoming dance will be held at 9, at the Palais Royale.

Solemn high masses, sung in Sacred Heart church, at 8:15 and 10 o'clock, will end the Homecoming program.

Sammon Heads Forum Debate Work Planned

The Notre Dame Forum held their first meeting last night and elected the following officers: Dan Sammon, president; Don Gallagher, secretary, and Joseph P. Burke, chairman of the program committee.

The club will take up their new quarters in the Law building, at the next meeting.

The club plans to continue their work of providing material for the varsity debating teams. The membership will be limited.

Clifford Potts Chosen Drum Major of Band

Clifford J. Potts, who served as a lieutenant in the army for three years, was chosen yesterday to act as drum major of the Notre Dame band, for the coming year.

Potts will endeavor to organize the band on drill maneuvers, in order that all field or street demonstrations will be executed with military preciseness.

The drill program will start Monday afternoon.

THE FRESHMAN HANDBOOK

With the conclusion of Notre Dame's second annual "Hello Week," it is timely perhaps to comment upon another plan of the S. A. C. which has a similar end in view. Just as it was discovered that Notre Dame men were drifting away from the ideal unity of college-friendship, and "Hello Week" was introduced to correct this tendency, so it has been found that many students have little knowledge of the history and traditions of their school, and the "Freshman Handbook" has been compiled to place such knowledge within the reach of all students.

In previous years the new students had to depend upon chance to learn from the upper classmen many things about Notre Dame. There is of course a unique satisfaction in acquiring tradition by word of mouth in casual moments. But this satisfaction is more than offset by the inaccuracies and the incompleteness which must inevitably result in such telling and retelling. Thus, in some cases, students have acquired erroneous ideas about certain traditions; in other cases they have remained in ignorance of many interesting and important facts throughout a great part, or even the whole, of their college career.

And because these students are unacquainted with those things that give our University its distinctiveness, they have failed to see its individuality as an institution and to appreciate its advantages accordingly. We cannot love what we do not know; and these students, not knowing their school, could not entertain a deep and sincere sentiment toward it.

In future years, however, by means of their "Handbook" the freshmen will be enabled to gain much of this knowledge immediately, and consequently should profit to a greater extent from the environment of Notre Dame. Their attachment to Notre Dame will rest upon knowledge, and not upon external enthusiasm. The future students of Notre Dame, therefore, will have reason many times to thank the S. A. C. for its compilation of this valuable little book of information.

GHOST OF WASHINGTON HALL

The frolicsome shade, who is said to make Washington Hall his trysting place, probably had nothing to do with the ghostly echo of applause that followed upon the announcement that the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra would make Notre Dame a port of call. At most it was no more than decorous. Perhaps the fault lies in press-agenting. Had the reporter recorded the cost of staging the November 6 concert, the reverberation might have been more protracted. In any event it would not have been so ear-racking as an advance notice from Roy Bargy or Paul Whiteman.

Perhaps it remains an open question whether the faculty is right in booking high-grade chamber music in preference to the prevailing melo-mania of the varieties. It may be the program designers are taxing too much the taste of the student body. We do not think so.

We believe that in spite of a marked lack of vociferation, the tide of appreciation will rise to sublime heights; for the Washington hall schedule this year promises the appearance of several artists of the first water. Chatauqua stuff and the mediocrity of the vaudeville circuits will have not place in the 1928-29 season. Father Carey's committee has given the University the best possible within the radius of its budget. We doubt that the quality of the divertissement would be better if the student entertainment committee had had its say.

As a whole, the program is possibly the best that has been scheduled for Notre Dame in years. Such engagements as Alberto Salvi and Jesse Isabel Christian make the program unusual.

Considering the budget, the program looks to be one of much promise. The finances do not permit the securing of such artists as Rosa Raisa, Chaliapin, Titi Ruffo, De Wolf Hopper, and the Metropolitan Opera stars, but only foolish persons deplore that fact.

We suggest that the program be also devoted to the encouragement of local aspirants. If there is to be a Shakespeare revival on the campus, if there is to be a Little Theatre club, a first-class University orchestra, it will not be spending everything on professional talent.

Through the Looking Glass

When Theethil O'Thithyhap came to N. D.,
He said, "Goodneth thakes, I thimply can't thee
My way clear for rules; I thall break them by gee."
He did, and now Theethil is NOT at N. D.

(Synopsis of the last installment: Punk.)

There flashed on the screen these words, "The End." Fooled again. Hooda got up and started to leave. He had walked but a few feet when he heard behind him, "Aha, my little witch, I shall kiss you." He galloped for the exit. Another flirt. He put on more speed. At the door he risked a backward glance and then stopped in his tracks (or shoes) for there on the stage were two people. It was the man who had been talking to a girl.

Hooda was quick to grasp (or clutch) the situation. He had no sooner got a fair hold on its thorax, than he began thinking. From then on it was easy.

"It is play acting," thought Hooda. "I will stay and see it, but I must never tell the folks at home."

He made for a seat, and after setting on a few laps of braces of spooners, he decided that the rear was too unpleasant, too stinging, and so went down front.

The play was still going on.

The girl was young and beautiful. Watery blue eyes shone out of a face as expressive as a badly hacked green. The subtle, carmen bloom of her cheeks belied the white streaks in her hair, and the premature droop of the nose bespoke of a healthy outdool life in the vast wet places. The gentle curve of her neck belied the sound of her voice. The soft slope of her shoulders belied the Einstein theory, while the size of her shoes made liars of her feet.

Her gown was sweet and severe, being of Cannvasse de Tourment, plainly done up, or finished, with Lace Au Horrid and trimmed completely by a handful of Coloure du Shreike, supplemented and offset in spots with a wisp of cabbage leave. In jewelry her taste was simple. A single cowbell hung from her neck and made a pleasant Tinkle de Grunte with her every cavort.

Dear F. T. K.:
Looking over Tuesday's DAILY, I noticed the following headline: "Books on Verse by Christmas." Who is this bird Christmas anyway? Also noticed that "Pins are pens." I've heard that "Pigs is Pigs," and "East is West and West is West." That a "Still house" may be very noisy, that freshman are green, and that a green house is not a freshman hall, but still I doubt that "Pins may be successfully used as Pens."

Yours till Hooda finds his "W," G. J. A.

J. H. stopped us today. We ask him one question a day. We asked, "Where is the capitol of the U. S. He said, "All over Europe." It made us sore, and therefore we are going to run some poetry of his. It is simply effishent. Probably with accent on the former. The idea is: A duck, a tree, a rotten limb on the tree. The duck walks briskly under the tree to keep out of the rain. Look it over. Overlook it.

Herbert Brennon is responsible for "The Rustle of Silk," the screen version of Cosmo Hamilton's story which is being shown at the Blackstone this week. Betty Compson is a lady's maid who, hungering for romance, has long worshipped her mistress' husband from afar. The husband, Arthur Fallaray, is a distinguished member of Parliament, who, because of his vigorous fight for the ex-service men, is being mentioned for Prime Minister. His wife sues him for divorce, and Fallaray discovers that he loves Lola, the maid. Lola, it would seem, is a self-sacrificing young woman, and refuses to mar his career by marrying him, but promises to wait until his country no longer needs him. So there's the story.

Conway Tearle takes the part of Arthur Fallaray in the same fashion which has made him a matinee idol for some years past; Cyril Chadwick as Chalfont, Fallaray's enemy, is an admirable villain as villains go; Anna Nilsson is Fallaray's wife, a social butterfly who can not appreciate her husband's interest in politics, and Charles Stevens, an excellent character actor, is Lola's father.

The Editor Says

Newspapers print only the sordid things in life, says the man in the street. When one picks up the usual newspaper and reads about murders, suicides, robberies and disasters, the charge seems to be right. News is the unusual, and the-unusual, as it happens, is usually evil. Good actions are seldom praised in newspaper columns.

The editor cautions his cubs against editorializing in the news columns, and so adjectives and sentences of praise (and of condemnation, too, for that matter — since news is supposed to be a record of facts, not opinions) are blue-pencilled.

Even the editorial column is not given over to paeans of praise unless the occasion is unusual. The little things, and very often the important things that good men do, are not noted.

All of which leads up to our point — the reason for this column. From time to time we will perch ourselves before the Underwood and click out a bit of praise or comment. What might go in the newspaper news or editorial columns, and does not get there because of journalistic practice, will find its way here — unless, of course, lack of space or slips of memory prevent.

The first day's praise should be of the Blue Circle.

The Blue Circle, an organization of picked men, hustlers, has made the DAILY possible, and only an ungrateful kind of daily would remain dumb in such circumstances.

Coincident with its joy in living, is its thankfulness to the Blue Circle, who enabled it to live.

As the Boosters last year, and as the Blue Circle this year, these 50 chosen men secured enough subscriptions to make publication of this periodical possible. They worked hard, persistently, and well.

They deserve our first, and most sincere praise and thanks.

Nicholas McCabe Gets Tribune Prize

A fifty dollar prize for general excellence in Journalism, offered annually by the South Bend Tribune, was awarded this year to John Nicholas McCabe. McCabe received his degree in June.

The award was not announced at the graduation exercises, but was announced during the summer. McCabe is the first man to receive the award as the fund was begun last year.

FOOTBALL

Let Rockne of Notre Dame Tell You About It

One of the most remarkable series on football ever written is now appearing in the Chicago Evening American. The author is Knute Rockne, head coach at Notre Dame, and recognized the country over as one of the most brilliant mentors the gridiron has ever known.

If you are a player you will be a better one through following these articles, and if you are a follower of football you will enjoy the sport all the more.

Three Other Experts

Three other widely known writers combine in furnishing readers of the Chicago Evening American with latest football news.

Harold Johnson, veteran of many Big Ten campaigns, will cover all the important games played in the West this year. "Chuck" McGuire, former Chicago captain and all-American tackle, writes as no other writer can, because he has played Big Ten football and knows it like a book. Eastern football is covered for the Chicago Evening American by Eddie Mahan, former Harvard star.

For the most authentic football news read the Chicago Evening American every day.

FROSH CLASS HEAR CUSTOMS

Father O'Donnell and James Swift
Caution Yearlings on Campus Conduct.

"Remember at all times that you are Notre Dame men," was the message delivered by James Swift, chairman of the S. A. C., to the Freshmen class which assembled in Washington hall yesterday to hear a discussion on their duties to the University.

Announcement was made at the meeting, by Don Gallagher, Senior class president, that the election of officers by the Freshman class, would be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in Washington hall.

In behalf of the alumni and the faculty, Swift extended a welcome to the class of 1927. Traditions and customs, which have been looked upon as sacred for the past 80 years, were explained and appeals for their preservation were made. Particular stress was laid upon the observance of these duties which, he said, distinguished this University from other universities. Incidents were cited in which members of the class assembled, had been guilty of misconduct. He deplored these acts and described the punishments frequently meted out, though reluctantly, by those interested in the preservation of Notre Dame's ideals. He concluded his discussion by appealing to the class to uphold every tradition and custom, that the spirit of the University may be perpetuated.

Don Gallagher, appealed to the men to support the ideals set by the classes of the past. He urged those present to keep in mind the spirit of fairness when choosing the officers of the class.

The "Freshmen Handbook" was referred to as "The Bible" for all first-year men, by the Rev. Hugh O'Donnell, prefect of discipline, who made the closing address. A detailed explanation of the rules to be found within its pages was given and Notre Dame spirit and good fellowship were defined. He remarked upon certain acts which should be discouraged by the freshmen and asked for a display of the spirit and loyalty which will make of the class of 1927, real Notre Dame men.

mas Is Planned for Club.

With the election, Thursday evening, of Hyas Tyee Paul Frey, Tenas Tyee Adam Walsh, Sachem L. Barney Macnab, Tytas Tyee Jerry Holland, and Chief Scout Tom Dempsey, the Pacific Coast club started their preparations for a banquet during the Christmas vacation.

As it is almost impossible for the coast men to go home during the holidays, this banquet is one of the most important on their calendar. Their membership totals slightly over twenty.

The Chief Scout was instructed to act as Keeper of the Pump, and the Keeper of the Wampum was given the more Sivash title of Tytas Tyee in the discussion that followed the settlement of the banquet plans.

PARKER ANNOUNCES A New One for Students

Parker D-Q—the Note-taker Pen, $3

Strong metal girdle reinforces cap
Large ring-end links to note-book
—A pocket-clip if you prefer—
No extra charge for either

WE asked about 1000 students at seventeen universities and colleges the kind of pen they wanted.

The majority preferred the Parker, but not all could afford to pay the Parker Duo-fold price.

So we set to work and produced this black beauty—the Parker D. Q.—formed on Duofold's classic lines and made by the same crafts-guild.

We gave it a 14k gold point tipped with polished Iridium, and a good healthy ink capacity; then we added two things we could find on no other pen of this size below five dollars—a metal girdle to reinforce the cap; and an extra large ring link to fasten to the student's note-book. These features are included free, or a pocket-clip instead of ring-end.

The Parker D. Q. is an ink-tight pen. Ask to see it—note its shapeliness and balance. Try other pens too, and see how super-smooth the Parker is in comparison.
