CAMPUS BY-PATHS

Youse fellows are mighty good time.

The contributions that have been cavortin' my way have been quite the berries.

Because of 'em, I don't need to worry nor nawthin'.

Not me.

Some of them are rather queer, rather puerile, you might say. For instance, I am told that Joe Bailey, of Sophomore hall, has purchased a new pair of shoes. This is possibly an event in the hall.

Another tells me that Vinnie McNally, sensational halfback on the Carroll hall football squad, has received a tasty shipment of delicious pretzels. The sender of the salted morsel did not give her name, and Mr. McNally is greatly puzzled; he cannot sleep at night thinking who of all the beautiful young ladies he knows is the admirer with such extraordinary taste. He invites the campus over to share the half bushel of delicacies.

Early today the rector of Cadillac hall announced the personnel of his committees for Homecoming. In a short talk given to the men, he emphasized the need of maintaining the old tradition of the hall—giving special mention to the remarkable showing made last year when Cadillac ran neck and neck with Badin for the honor of the best decorated hall on the campus. (Badin won by a cork.)

The committees are: Decoration—Tom McNichols, James Gray, Thomas Ryan, George Rategan, John Cowhey, Ray McClorry, Bill Neville, and Ed Thode.

Entertainment—Same as above.
Refreshments—Same as above.
Reception—Same as above.
Finance—Same as above.

Extensive plans have been laid for the yearly Homecoming dance to be held at the Cadillac ballroom, but there is fear that these will fall through because of the loss of the ball. It rolled under a bed.

RECTOR.

I received a letter yesterday—a very flattering letter. The writer, a Mr. Smith, president of a company in Warren, Pa., a company that makes what I am sure are unusual wool coats, has deigned to flatter me. Under a Philadelphia postmark, he begins his letter thus:

"I am writing to you today because you are an Alumnus of the University of Notre Dame."

That is, in itself, a high compliment, a rather anticipatory compliment (if I may be permitted to coin the word.) But he continues by inferring that I am a man of taste. "In this new coat we have combined all the essential qualities that a well-dressed man is looking for."

It is a coat that appeals to discriminating men." And what is better yet, "all this at no extra cost."

Mr. Smith concludes by saying that he would like to send me one of these coats in my exact fit at his expense. I shall be permitted to wear it for a week without cost and then, because I am "a Notre Dame Alumnus," I may have it for only $32.50. All I need do, to make a hit at the Georgia Tech game is to fill out the blank putting down my measurements.

Wonderfully kind of Mr. Smith.

Cavort at the Golden Tornado cavorting this eve.

Buy a Band Tag.

Help N. D. win by your cheers.
MR. GRUNDY.

WELCOME GEORGIA TECH.

Notre Dame welcomes you today. Remembering the welcome of last year when Notre Dame sent her eleven to Atlanta, Notre Dame is doing all in her power today to make you feel that, for a day, Notre Dame is yours.

May Notre Dame, in some small measure, repay you for the memorable reception accorded her men last year, and may you take back with you everything that Notre Dame can give you, except today's game.

NEWLY TOGGED BAND PARADES

New Program Planned for First Appearance of Music Makers in New Uniforms.

Notre Dame's band, with 58 men in the new uniforms, will make its appearance on Cartier field this afternoon, following immediately behind the Notre Dame team. Drum Major Clifford Potts will lead the band in a march around the field.

Southern airs, marches and popular selections will be played throughout the game and between halves. A special feature will be a medley, in which "Dixie" and the "Victory March" are combined.

Every student is urged to buy the band tags being sold. The contributions will go toward paying for the new uniforms. Band members report only a fair sale of tags. Members of the Blue Circle will sell the tags at the entrance to Cartier field before the game.

Men who wish to help the band by selling tags at the game should report to Mark Nolan, 231 Sorin, or to James Egan, 309 Badin. Tags may also be secured at the band room in Washington hall until 12:30.

Men Off to St. Louis Asked to See Cronck

Students who intend to be present at the Notre Dame-St. Louis game in St. Louis on Thanksgiving day are asked to get in touch with Eugene Cronck, care of the Marquette hotel, Eighteenth and Washington avenue, St. Louis.

Mr. Cronck is secretary of the Notre Dame club in St. Louis and is anxious to keep the Notre Dame contingent intact at the game, as well as to make proper provisions for a banquet to be given by the Notre Dame club on the evening of November 29.

Senior Pin Plans Made by Juniors

Members of the Junior class who will graduate before September, 1925, will be signed up for pins, from Friday until Tuesday, is the announcement issued by the publicity manager of the Junior class.

The men on the campus who are representing pin companies will have their first opportunity to present their bids to the pin committee which will meet for that purpose next Monday. The time will be announced later.

The committee has dispatched letters to several pin companies for information on their products in order that all possible sources will be investigated before the final decision is made. Payments for the pins on the installment plan is being considered.

John Traynor, Frank Murray and William Merrinan constitute the committee on junior class pins and have charge of Off-campus, Walsh hall and Brownson respectively.

Any further information on the matter of class pins may be obtained from the aforementioned committee members.

VERY ILL.

Brother Florian, who has been ill for some time at the Community house, was reported to be in a very serious condition yesterday, and there is not much hope for his recovery.

O'Riordan Sketches Men for News-Times

Robert B. O'Riordan, DAILY cartoonist, is preparing a number of caricatures of South Bend men for an illustrated supplement of The South Bend News-Times. O'Riordan won a prize of a $150 art course offered by the Art Crafts Guild last year in a competition for art work in annuals. The biggest universities in the country were entered.

The issue of the News-Times in which the cartoons will appear will be out tomorrow. It will include 116 cartoons in a special 16-page supplement. O'Riordan did 70 of the drawings and touched up many done by other artists.

OCTETTE SINGS AT SENIOR HOP

Prominent Toledo Business Men Make Up Octette; Two Orchestras Will Play.

A Toledo octette will feature the Golden Tornado dance this evening at the Elks club and at the Tribune building.

Harry Denny's orchestra will play at the Tribune and the Music Masters at the Elks. The Georgia Tech squad will be the guests of the Seniors' class at both these dances.

The octette is made up of prominent Toledo business men who have abandoned business to see the Georgia Tech-Notre Dame game and will stay over to sing at the dance. The octette is comprised of the following:

First tenors—Ralph Landers, of the Landers Bros. Co.; Leo Schneider, of Wright Russell and Bray Ins. Co.

Second tenors—Joseph M. Murphy, president of the Citizens Ice Co.; Clifford L. De Shetler, of the Toledo Jewelry Manufacturing Co.

Baritones—Herbert C. Boynton, general agent, The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; Edward Holmes, assistant manager Second National Bank.

Bassos—Frank Conrad, auditor, P. A. and W. R. R.; Harry King, of the Club Beverage Co.

FROM MARION.

Col. Dillon and Lieut. Robert William, '21, are heading a delegation of rooters to the game today from Marion, Ind.

TO NOTRE DAME TODAY.

Three ways to get to Notre Dame today:

Michigan street, north to Howard street, over Howard street to Notre Dame avenue, Notre Dame avenue on north to parking space.

Jefferson boulevard, or South Bend avenue, to Notre Dame avenue.

Jefferson boulevard, or South Bend avenue, to Eddy street.

A parking place has been established and parking is not permitted at any place except in this enclosure. All roads leading to the Notre Dame campus are closed. This is being done to facilitate the swift movement of traffic and to protect pedestrians.

A word to the wise: Don't arrive later than 2:15.

Lawyers Sanction Canes for Seniors

The Notre Dame Law club, at a meeting held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Law building, voted to sanction canes for the entire Senior class. The Lawyers will pick their style of cane before the other colleges make their choice.

Joseph Hogan, Mark Nolan, and John Moran were the speakers. John Stanton presided.

TECH ELEVEN ENTERTAINED

Palace Theatre Host to Georgia Tech and Notre Dame Last Night; Special Program.

The Georgia Tech football team were the guests of the Palace theatre, through W. J. Richardson, stage manager, and Hugh Flannery, house manager, last night. Special features were arranged.

The Georgia Tech team and the Notre Dame team occupied boxes and nearby seats on opposite sides of the theatre. The colors of the teams decorated the house. Golden flowers and pennants were arranged on the Georgia Tech boxes, and Notre Dame pennants and blankets were arranged on the Notre Dame boxes.

A picture of the Army-Notre Dame game was shown, during which a big N. D. monogram was flashed on the screen. Eddie Luther led the Notre Dame team in a cheer for Georgia Tech, and then led the audience in a big U. N. D. for Tech. Tech then returned the compliment. The five-year-old son of Mr. Richardson came on the stage in a football uniform bearing an N. D. monogram; he led a large donkey with the sign, 13-0 on it. After that he pulled across the stage a cage on wheels in which was a kitten bearing the sign, 25-2.

Raymond Fagan's orchestra joined the Palace orchestra in playing the Victory March during the performance.

Every act featured Notre Dame and Georgia Tech. Fagan had his orchestra dressed in colors of the team. Two girls in his act were garbed in the colors, one as Notre Dame, one as Georgia Tech.

Professor Confrey Tells How to Study

"How to Study" was the subject of a discourse Wednesday by Prof. Burton Confrey of the Department of Education, at the weekly convocation lecture to the Freshmen class, held in Washington hall.

The economic methods of effective study as tried out in the University of Chicago for several years with beneficial results, were described by Prof. Confrey. Included in the lecture were definitions of the preliminaries of study, reflective thinking, study procedure, memory work and the mastering of thought.

Prof. Confrey will lecture on "How to Read" at the next meeting of the Freshmen class.

All lectures will be held at 1:40 o'clock on Wednesdays in the future, and not as 1:50 o'clock as in the past. Through this change, it is planned to eliminate much of the confusion prevalent at the meetings. Entrances for the students from the various halls also were assigned. Freshmen from Brownson and Carroll will use the west entrance, those of Sophomore and Freshmen, the east door, while the main entrance will be used by men from Badin, Walsh and off the campus.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Nieuwland, professor of research in chemistry, returned yesterday from a trip to Washington in the interest of the department. He has been gone since Sunday.

IRISH PRIMED FOR TORNADO

Intersectional Clash Means Much to Both Teams; Tech Gridders Determined to Win.

With a fighting determination to blot out the championship hopes of the Fighting Irish, the Georgia Tech football team arrived in South Bend shortly before noon yesterday and went directly to the Oliver hotel.

Coach Alexander and Captain McIntyre of the Golden Tornado do not say much about the outcome of today's game, but they manifest the spirit of the entire team in a few words: "We'll fight to the finish."

Since both teams have played big games and won, today's game will be a test of worth, the most important battle that either team has yet engaged in.

The Irish, having made a high mark in the football world for the season of 1923 by their sensational defeats of two great eastern teams, will have more than a mere game at stake, while the Georgians, although also triumphant in the southern conference, will have much to gain in today's struggle, if the final score does not jibe with the dope of the dopesters.

The Irish-Tornado clash this afternoon will be one of the feature games of today's intersectional grid card, since both teams are the leading football machines in their respective sections.

The Golden Tornado has been wreaking destruction on all sides in southern football, and with their invasion of the north, and considering the Tech clash with Penn State in November, much comparative football dope will hinge on the score-board figures at the final whistle of today's game.

A light signal work-out last night finished the week's preparation of the Notre Dame football team, whose execution of the battle formations left little to be desired for in improving a smooth-working football machine.

This afternoon will find thousands of people in the stand from all parts of the country, eagerly waiting for the opening kick-off, that they might have a chance to see the much famed team in action. Sport scribes from all over the country, particularly the South and East, will be on the sending end of the game wires, dispatching to the world the playing of two great teams, matching great wit and speed, with great reputations at stake.

The Georgians are a fast, hard, clean playing bunch, who are going on the field this afternoon to put all they have on the altar of the pigskin to further manifest their reputation of being true sportsmen and, if possible, to carry away with them the glory of defeating the Notre Dame football team.

Captain McIntyre, when seen after the Georgians had run through a light work-out on Cartier field, had little to say about the game, but in expressing his hopes for the best, mentioned the high regard in which Notre Dame was held by the Tech school. Since, in the Rockmen's remarkable victories of the past two weeks, McIntyre noted, the Irish were obliged to spend most of the time intervening between the games in traveling to and from the scene of their encounters; considering the strain, he said, the triumphs that followed were magnified so much the more.

The attractive personality, clean-cut features, and delightful manner of the Georgian's captain, marked him as a typical southern gentleman and a gallant leader of a squad of true southern gentlemen.

OIL DOOR ROAD.

The Door road has been oiled this week and a dustless thoroughfare will welcome motorists to the game this afternoon.

WELCOME THE GOLDEN TORNADO

Southern hospitality is traditional. When the Notre Dame football team visited Atlanta last year they were given a welcome that they will never forget. Nothing was too good for them, and they were made to feel that they were honored guests.

And that was only proper. In other days when a team traveled to another college to contest in sport the members of the visiting team were treated as almost personal enemies as well as opponents in a game. The game was war and "everything's fair in love and war."

That era has passed; a new order has come. Last year at Atlanta Notre Dame was given a wonderful welcome. It is up to the Notre Dame men this year to repay her and to make the Georgia team feel that we appreciate the treatment that was accorded us. We'll show them that hospitality is not limited to the south, and that northern hospitality can equal that of our neighbors below the line.

THE BAND

What is there about a good band more than any other good musical organization that thrills you? What is there that makes your pulses quicken, that makes your heart-beats keep time to the music? You seem to know what it is, but at the same time you can't tell just WHAT it is.

Then think of the orchestra, or the organ, or perhaps the steam piano. It is the dance, the girl, and perhaps the place, that makes the good orchestra what it is. Then the organ. It is yourself, your present emotions, and your surroundings that make or unmake a good organ recital. And the steam piano. With the circus parade comes the steam piano. But without the parade, the tunes of the steam piano fall upon deaf ears.

With the band it is different. No matter where you are, no matter who you are, no matter what the occasion or the need, you are thrilled at the first notes of a band. No matter whether it be upon your own Cartier field, or whether it be on a street in Ireland with absolute strangers taking part in one of their own celebrations; no matter whether it be a German band playing on a street corner, your pulses quicken, and you can't account for the feeling that runs up and down your spine.

We have in the past been thrilled with the music of the Notre Dame band. We have always been thrilled by it but we found greater thrill in its music when it played at a welcome for the team, for a snake dance, for a football game on Cartier field. The place, the occasion, has much to do with our delight in the music.

But now uniforms have been secured and the band shall seem so much better. The music may be no better, and the occasions may be no more important, but we shall be delighted more than ever. Just as the marching parade of citizens in their multi-fashioned garb is less attractive than the marching parade of West Point cadets, is the band, now properly garbed, more attractive. And just so will its music seem better and we will feel prouder.

The uniforms cost much money. The band must pay for them and so they are tagging you today. A band is necessary to make celebrations and games worth while. The band seeks aid today. Notre Dame needs the band; the band needs you.

Furey Exonerated from Hotel's Suit

Exonerating William J. Furey, Commerce '23, from being concerned in a suit brought by a South Bend hotel, the following has been made public:

William J. Furey was included as a party defendant in the case of the Allardt-Hoffman Hotel Company against the Senior class committee of the Class of 1923 of Notre Dame University because, as we understood, he was a member of this committee, living in South Bend. It was necessary, in the complaint, to include a defendant living in St. Joseph county. Mr. Furey says that while he was chairman of another class committee, he was not in any respect a member of the committee sued.

Whatever these facts may be, we feel satisfied, and we believe the public should know that Mr. Furey had nothing to do, personally with the collection of any of the money in question, nor has he at any time had any control over the money now on deposit in the American Trust Company, which the complaint charges is being withheld from payment of the indebtedness due the Allardt-Hoffman Hotel Company.

The complaint in question was not intended to and does not charge that any of the defendants had in any way misappropriated funds. And we wish to make clear the fact that especially as to Mr. Furey there is no such claim or imputation. Whether a member of this committee or not, Mr. Furey had no part in the collection or withholding of this money, which in any way casts a reflection upon him morally or otherwise.

Hooda was undergoing a quiz. With fiendish and diabolical nastiness, the professor was hammering questions at him. It looked bad for Hooda, and then some one came in late and sat in front of him. From then things went differently for some strange reason.

Prof.—"What does the expression, 'A horse, a horse, my kingdom for a horse,' make you think of?"

"A dice game," said Hooda.

Prof.—"What do you think of the epigram, 'He travels fastest who travels alone?'"

"The man that wrote that never had someone chasing him," gurgled Hooda.

Prof.—"And concerning the line, 'Now is the time for all good men to—'"

"Pardon, I haven't a typewriter," whined Hooda.

Prof.—"Have you ever been in a dilemma?"

"No; we have a Buick," said Hooda.

Prof.—"You have displayed to me a vigorous ignorance. I shall attempt one more question. Lightning travels 24,638,925,450 miles a second. Is there anything in your befuddled mind that travels faster?"

"Yes," said our Hooda. "It is gossip." . . . A silence fell o'er the room as the Prof. marked up a 100 per cent.

What They Say

Issues of The Daily Princetonian, the official daily of Princeton University, have reached the campus. The issues contained stories and comments on the Notre Dame-Princeton game.

The Saturday issue, October 20, contained a story on Notre Dame, its founding, enrollment, colleges, etc., and a story on the game, in which Coach Rockne was quoted as saying: "I honestly believe that we will be beaten. Of course we will do all we can to win but we will consider it no disgrace to lose to a Princeton team."

"Our hat is off to the Notre Dame football team. We can only paraphrase what Coach Rockne said before the game: we consider it no disgrace to be beaten by such a team," said the Monday issue. A story said that "outclassed in every department of the game except punting, . . ."

We have collected the impression of six students who made remarks on the bill, each commenting on one number.

Thank You Doctor—"Good enough. Fully as entertaining as many of the skits I have put on."—Al. Sommers.

opposition last year, were made to jump through Rockne's hoop to the snap of a whip, so complete was the mastery of the westerners.

For the first time since the Yale game in 1921, Princeton's colors drooped in defeat.

As the shrill blast of a whistle denoted the end of the game a Notre Dame wave broke upon the field and, behind the university band, the joyful rooters paraded under the goal posts, tossing their hats over the crossbar in reckless abandon. Then, having partly spent their exuberance in a victory demonstration such as has been the privilege of few colleges that have opposed Princeton, the sons of Notre Dame came to a halt before the stadium towers and with lusty voices gave expression to their college cry:

"He's the man.
 Who's the man?
 He's a Notre Dame man.
 Rockne! Rockne! Rockne!"

It was a tribute to the master mind that made this victory possible a tribute to Knute Rockne, the successful coach, and, though the outcome of the game cut deeply into the pride of Princeton adherents, it must be conceded that Knute bane have a great team.

[Newark, N. J., Sunday Call]

Losing to Notre Dame in mid-season would not be regarded as a calamity at Princeton. After all such games are but stepping stones to the battles with Harvard and Yale. But the manner in which the Tigers were outgeneraled and outplayed by the Indiana eleven left Princeton stunned. Compared to the slick-moving football machine from South Bend the vaunted Jersey eleven appeared like a raw Hickville High School team, unable to advance and utterly helpless in Coached by Knute Rockne, the westerners stepped around the ends as though there were no ends. They eluded tackles as though there were no tackles. Their interference spilled all opposition. In short, against the system Rockne has taught at South Bend the sturdiest line, coached in the old school of football, would have been of no avail. It is incomprehensible that a Princeton team would be unable to diagnose the methods of attack and defense of the Notre Dame eleven, yet in the fourth quarter the westerners' play was just as baffling as in the first period.

Notre Dame's football is not western football generally. Iowa in its invasion of New Haven against Yale last year mastered no such game. Chicago in battling against Princeton last season had no such deceptive tactics. It is the Rockne system alone, and it's hats off to the wizard of South Bend.

After Notre Dame operated on Princeton the defeat of the Army a week ago is no longer a surprise. Princeton can hope to combat successfully the plan of warfare adopted by Harvard and Yale. It is doubtful whether any eastern team

WABASH MEET IRISH TODAY

Coach Meehan Has Three Veterans to Lead Squad; Wabash Brings Fast Team.

Coach Meehan's cross-country team will open their season here in a meet with Wabash. The three-and-a-half mile run will start at 11 o'clock this morning.

The Irish will start a squad of 10 men, among which are listed several stars from last season's championship team. Kennedy, Cox and Wendland were members of the team that triumphed over the state squads at the Indiana intercollegiate meet last fall and brought home the coveted title.

The team this year has been reinforced by several promising step-ers who starred on the freshman and interhall teams of last season. Joe Sheehan, senior Engineer, who came out for a mile during the interhall season, made a wonderful showing in the distance runs and won a berth on the varsity squad, making several of the big trips.

Bidwell, star freshman miler, is also a powerful addition to the squad and is expected to display some classy stepping in the distance runs. Cooper, another fourth year man who came out for the team for the first time last year, made a creditable showing in the two miles at the Aggie meet last spring.

The Wabash steppers are a fast run-for-ever bunch. Robbins and Johnson are the big performers on the down stater's squad, Robbins having bested Kennedy, captain of the Irish track team in the state meet at Purdue last spring.

The Irish runners are strong and carrying plenty of reserve strength, are due for some fast time today.

FIVE KNOCKED OUT.

Five knock-outs featured the boxing bouts in the Notre Dame gym last night. Spillane, of the light-weights, knocked out Colby in 1 minute and 10 seconds; Schell knocked out Cook in the second round; O'Toole knocked out Young in the first round; Canny knocked out Finucane in the second, and De Vautet, weighing in at 197, knocked out Brady, 185 pounds, in the first round.

Details will be published in tomorrow's issue.

Pasteur is Subject of Mr. DuBois' Talk

At a well-attended meeting of le Cercle Francais Wednesday in the Main building, M. DuBois, professor of French in the South Bend high school, gave an interesting talk on Pasteur, the French scientist. A discussion of the life of Pasteur by the members followed.

At the next meeting of the club, the Rev. Omer J. Chevrette will give a talk on the death of Pope Benedict XV and the election of Pope Pius XI. Father Chevrette was in Rome at the time of the events.

TO ATTEND GAME.

Educational Students Study Grade Schools

The educational seminar being conducted by the Department of Education held its third meeting in the Brownson room of the Library recently. Reconstruction in Education has been selected as the general subject for discussion for the work of the year.

The subject is being approached from two points of view; first, outlining the historical background of the American educational system; and second, seeking a philosophical basis for each of the units in that system.

The particular subject for the last discussion was: "Whence Came the College?" Following this the following subjects will be taken up in order: "How the High School Happened," "The Genesis of the Graduate School," "The Organization of an American University," "The Function and Need of a School of Education," "The Junior High School," and "The Junior College." The subject of the week before was "How We Happen to Have Eight Elementary Grades."

Twenty students have registered for the course, most of whom are in the graduate school. Most of these men also are studying Educational Theory and are also gaining actual experience by teaching freshman classes or the grades in St. Edward's hall.
