

MARTIN CARMODY AND BRO. BARNABAS ADDRESS K. OF C.

ACTIVITIES OF NATIONAL ORGANIZATION OUTLINED; INITIATION POSTPONED

Various phases of the work of the Knights of Columbus, as a national organization were forcefully presented by Martin H. Carmody, deputy supreme knight, of Grand Rapids, Mich., at one of the most successful meetings in the history of the Notre Dame council Tuesday night. Brother Barnabas, director of the national K. of C. boy guidance movement, was also present, and made an eloquent plea for the under-privileged boy of America. The speakers were introduced by Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, C. S. C.

Mr. Carmody talked upon the Catholic university scholarships given by the Knights of Columbus; outlined the work of the K. of C. anti-prejudice committee and history commission; told of the work being done for the ex-service man, and spoke briefly on the boy guidance movement.

Work of K. of C. Outlined

He stated that the scholarships were offered to Catholic men who had finished college and who desired to become university instructors. The history commission, he explained, has resulted in the removing from the schools American histories which contained insidious pro-British propaganda. These histories began to make their appearance about ten years ago, and tended to undermine the patriotism of the American youth.

Speaking of the anti-prejudice committee and its work, Mr. Carmody told how the K. of C. was striving to combat bigotry and intolerance. He condemned all narrow-mindedness and urged the knights to respect the opinions of their fellow-men at all times, regardless of any difference of race or creed.

Members of the council were given a splendid insight upon the post-war work of the supreme council. Mr. Carmody told of the work being done for the disabled service men in the hospitals; the institution of vocational, correspondence, and night schools for ex-soldiers, and the awarding of university scholarships.

Brother Barnabas' Address

"The hands and face of your street Arab, as you call him, may be grimy with the dirt and his clothes may be ragged, but underneath all there is a heart of pure gold," said Brother Barnabas in his address on the boy guidance movement. "He is the boy," he said, "who is to be the man and the citizen of tomorrow. He needs proper training, the right sort of companionship, and wise supervision of his energies. It is our duty to see that he gets it."

Brother Barnabas has had 35 years' experience as a boy leader and knows the small boy and his problems better perhaps than does any other man in America. He stated that the boy needs not only a teacher, but a friend and companion, if crime and vice among the young are to be lessened. He told of several interesting cases which he encountered in the slums of New York and explained the conditions responsible for much of the wrong committed by the young in the large cities.

"As the result of congested living conditions of the present day we find families of six and seven people living in two small rooms," said Brother Barnabas. "There is no back yard or empty lot where knight of the South Bend council, the exercise that he needs, and which God intends that he should have. The father is too occupied with his work to be a pal to his boy, and he must go out on the street for companionship. While

Rev. Geo. Finnigan Delivers Sermon

Rev. George Finnigan, C. S. C., rector of Holy Cross seminary, delivered the sermon at the regular Wednesday evening Lenten services held in the Sacred Heart church last night. The subject of his talk was the "Passion of Christ."

In his sermon Father Finnigan emphasized the mercy of God. He used the characters in the passion of Christ and the events leading to the crucifixion to illustrate his comparison of the people of the time of Christ and those of the world today. Numerous examples were given by Father Finnigan to clarify his talk, a few of which were the Blessed Virgin, Judas, Veronica, and the good and the bad thieves.

DAY-DOG'S VODVIL BOOKED TONIGHT

ORCHESTRA, QUARTET AND BUTTERWORTH FEATURED IN VARIED PROGRAM

Eight acts of high class entertainment will be on the program for the first annual Day-Students' vaudeville, which will be presented in Washington hall tonight and Friday night at 8 o'clock. South Bend people will witness the initial performance this evening, and about 300 students will be accommodated at this time. The entire house will be reserved for the students tomorrow night.

Harry Denny and his Oliver Hotel orchestra, composed of eight Notre Dame students, will headline the bill with a feature act, set in gorgeous scenic and lighting effects. Charles Butterworth, well known on the campus for his monologues, will appear in a new and original skit which promises to establish a new record for continuous laughing. Charles Springer and Dick Lightfoot will offer about ten minutes of rapid-fire blackface chatter, which contains a good deal of local color.

The Glee Club quartet will render several of the latest song creations on the opening act of the bill. William Furey, a former day student and graduate of the university, will appear in a special number, featuring piano and vocal selections. A dramatic sketch from a famous stage play will be included in the attractive variation of vaudeville entertainment.

An instrumental quartet, assisted by Richard Griffin as soloist, will be one of the feature musical numbers on the program. "The Amen Corner," a sketch depicting a haunt familiar to Notre Dame students, will round out a well-balanced bill.

he is with his "gang" perhaps a street light or a window is broken and he is arrested. The juvenile judge sentences him to the reform school and the boy is ruined."

Brother Barnabas stated that the man who desires to be a leader of boys must represent the highest type of manhood; he must know boy psychology, and must love his work. In conclusion he told of the establishing of boys' clubs and recreation centers and the good work which these were accomplishing.

Others Speakers Talk

Raymond Hoyer, who has charge of the graduate course for boy guidance leaders at the university, made a brief talk in which he explained the work which had been started in South Bend and Mishawaka. He asked for volunteers to take charge of indoor baseball teams in a parochial school league which is being organized. The managing of the teams will be carried on next year by the men who are to enter the course in boy leadership in September.

Toledo Girl Draws Juggler Cover

Miss Claire Murphy, a resident of Toledo, now attending an art school in New York city, submitted a number of drawings, including a snappy cover design, for the "Girls' Number" of the Juggler which will make its appearance on the campus Sunday evening, and it was her cover design upon which Dan Hickey, the editor, has decided. She was born in Toledo and educated in the Ursuline convent there. Later she attended Marymount college, Tarrytown, N. Y., and from there went to the Art Students' league where she is now studying. It is the first time in the history of the Juggler that a girl has drawn the cover.

Never before have the editors been swamped with so much material from female contributors from all over the country, and because of the high quality and the large quantity of material submitted, the Juggler will be increased in size considerably this issue.

Miss Jean Giomi, of South Bend, will also feature in this issue with her art work. The prize for the best work done has not yet been announced.

BLUE CIRCLE MEN REWARDED BY S.A.C.

SWIFT EXPRESSES APPRECIATION OF FACULTY AND S. A. C.

The Blue Circle members were presented with gold charms by James Swift, president of the S. A. C., Tuesday evening in the south room of the library. The charms were given to the Blue Circle men as a token of appreciation from the university and the S. A. C. for the services rendered during Homecoming and other occasions of the year.

Rev. Matthew Walsh and Coach Rockne were scheduled to make the formal presentation, but owing to a misunderstanding in the meeting time, they were not present.

James Swift, besides expressing the appreciation of the faculty for the work which the organization has accomplished, expressed his own personal gratitude for the assistance of the Circle.

Matthew Rothert, chairman of Blue Circle, thanked the university and the S. A. C. through Swift in the name of the club for their tokens of reward.

The charms are of gold with a blue enamel circle in which is inscribed the name of the club and the year. In the center of the charm is a gold monogram.

Kentuckians Elect Officers Tonight

The Kentucky club will hold its annual election of officers at a smoker to be given Thursday night, April 10, in Clark's banquet room. Plans for the Easter dance which is to be given sometime during the Easter vacation will be completed. Father McNamara and Professor Cooney, the two speakers secured for the evening, give promise of a rousing good time. As this will be the most important smoker of the year for the Kentucky club, all members are expected to be present.

Pictures of Prom Guests in by Friday

Juniors are reminded that pictures of Prom guests which are intended for the rotogravure section of the South Bend News-Times and the society page of the South Bend Tribune must be turned into 123 Corby hall not later than 11 o'clock Friday morning.

All pictures that are received will be returned to the owner. Photos turned in after the time limit will, however, be published in the regular society section.

GOVERNOR HARDING DISCUSSES ISSUES IN 1924 CAMPAIGN

IOWA ORATOR TALKS BEFORE STUDENTS IN LAW BUILDING

Hon. William L. Harding, former governor of Iowa, Tuesday night explained to a large audience of students in the Law building what he believed would be the issues in the coming presidential campaign.

His talk, under the auspices of the newly formed Republican club of the university, was of an educational nature primarily, but he also emphasized the Republican stand on the various questions, particularly the tariff. With regard to this he said:

Tariff Big Issue

"In my mind, the big issue is going to be marked—a place to sell. And that involves the tariff. In what country is the best market? The United States of America, of course, because our people are living on a higher plane. They have more of the necessities and more of the luxuries than does any other nation. Ninety-six per cent of the business in this country is done among ourselves.

"Why does a farmer build a fence around his farm? He does it to keep his neighbors' stock out and to protect his own land. In principle that's all there is to the tariff. Tariff builds a fence around the United States to protect its market.

"Here is the history of the tariff: Alexander Hamilton advocated the first tariff for the reason that we had no manufacturing in America. Then came Henry Clay, and at the same time Andrew Jackson, the great uncle of the Democratic party, was advocating a protective tariff. The first Republican tariff was passed in 1862 and continued until 1894 when the Democrats gained power.

Fence Comes Down

"What did the Democrats do? They tore down the tariff fence immediately. Here's what happened. The manufactured products of Europe were shipped into this country, and the factories of the United States were forced to close down. During Grover Cleveland's administration we issued bonds to pay the president's salary. We had to build soup houses in New York and Chicago to feed the people. That all happened in 1894-5 when the fence was down.

"The next time they got in was in 1912 while Teddy and Willie were having their family quarrel. The first thing they did was to tear down the fence again. You know what happened in the fall of 1914. Then the war came and the tariff went up. One day the war was over and the fence went down. The first ship that came in was laden with frozen mutton and beer and with wool. If you remember, in the fall of 1919 the bottom of the market dropped out for the farmer. Then in 1920 the Republicans won and the first thing they did was to build the tariff fence again. The farmer received $2,200,000,000 more during the year after November, 1921, when the bill was passed, than he did during the previous year.

Farmer Comes First

"The American farmer is entitled to first chance to feeding the American people. I'll be willing to put up a bond that if you elect the Democrats in this campaign that within four months from the time the returns are in the smoke stacks of South Bend will be closed. How high should this tariff fence be is the next question. The answer is, high enough to protect ourselves and to keep the other fellow out."

He discussed the reduction in taxes and in the number of federal (Continued on Page 4.)

THE DAILY'S STAND FOR NOTRE DAME

A union building to be built as soon as possible.
 A well-organized student body, residing on the campus.
 True recognition of good scholarship and a better appreciation for the efforts of men in campus activities.

THE SQUAD LEAVES

Coach Keogan and sixteen of his finest will leave sometime today for a spring training trip in the south. The importance and the necessity of this southern jaunt is very great. A number of practice games will be played, individual faults ironed out, sore arms and stiff muscles allowed to ease themselves under the influence of the southern sun, and teamwork developed in anticipation of the hard season hiding just around the corner of April.

Baseball this year has taken a new grip on the university. Never before have practices been so well attended. Coach Keogan and his men are being observed eagerly by the student body, and a good team with a long string of victories are hoped for. There are some weaknesses on the team which, if Coach Keogan can overcome them, will make his triumph so much the greater. The southern trip will be the first test for the new team and the new coach. We have confidence in both! Good luck and everything that goes with it fellows, and "hit the ball where they ain't!"

IMMIGRATION VS. DISCRIMINATION

Because the time of the Washington correspondent has been so monopolized by more dramatic happenings, the prosaic matter of immigration legislation has been given less attention than its importance might warrant. The necessity of such legislation becomes evident when it is observed that the present immigration act expires June 30.

It is true that several bills treating this subject have been proposed; but unfortunately the one which is most discussed, and which apparently has the best chance of being made a law, is far from being satisfactory. This is the Johnson immigration bill which proposes a reduction of the quota from 3 to 2 per cent and a change from the 1910 census to the 1890 census as a basis of calculation. Under these provisions the present quota of 350,000 would be reduced to about 160,000.

So far as the limitation of numbers is concerned there is no quarrel, since the country is at present generally in favor of a restrictive policy; but the fact that such restriction is discriminatory makes the bill objectionable. Leaders of the opposition have pointed out that many of the phases of the bill are apparently founded on religious and racial prejudice. And indeed its supporters admit that it does favor the Nordic group of immigrants. To permit this favoritism it was necessary to make drastic cuts in the quotas of the nations of Southern and Eastern Europe. Italy, for instance, could send only 4,000 yearly instead of 42,000 under the present law.

Yet the superiority of the Nordic over all others is a hypothesis which has still to be proved. A good Nordic is no better than a good non-Nordic; and the immigration tests should eliminate the undesirables of both groups. Perhaps this strange solicitude for the Nordics is explained by the fact that Senator Johnson's bill has the active support of that transient, and hence irresponsible, organization known as the Ku Klux Klan.

It is to be hoped that the desire to adjourn before the meeting of the party convention in June will not lead Congress to approve hastily an immigration law which threatens to operate ineffectively and to do an injustice to some nations that are friendly to the United States. Rather than do that it would be better to extend the provisions of the present law for one or two years. And before the end of that period it should be possible for some capable member of Congress to prepare a bill which will give us a strong, comprehensive and effective immigration law.

I do the very best I know how; the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing I was right would make no difference.—Abraham Lincoln.

New Offerings on Stage and Screen

BLACKSTONE—"Conductor 1492" and Vaudeville.
 OLIVER—"The Mask of Lopez."
 ORPHEUM—"Name the Man."
 PALACE—"The Green Goddess" and Vaudeville.
 LA SALLE—"Drums of Jeopardy."

"Conductor 1492" is a typical Johnny Hines story. We can assure you that, because we know that he wrote it himself. This is a fast and furious farce, involving the ups and downs of a very clever young man, trying to get along in the big world, and as Hines comedies always do, ends up with a marriage. Robinson's Syncopators are slated to fill the Blackstone with mad melody, and Milo, the mystery, will bare his secret three times a day.

The Oliver unravels a breezy western story to use up the time until Clara Kimball Young appears in person Sunday in "Trimmed in Scarlet."

The Orpheum will continue "Name the Man" for the rest of the week. Conrad Nagel, Patsy Ruth Miller, and Mae Busch are featured.

The Palace will present George Arliss in "The Green Goddess." Any George Arliss production is sure to be 99 44-100 per cent excellent. A group of male chorus girls in "The Different Revue" is the headliner of the vaudeville. Anything different will be hailed with delight we are sure—if it is different.

The LaSalle holds "Drums of Jeopardy" until Saturday night. This is a mystery story concerning the vicissitudes of a pair of large emeralds, and a few neat killings. Elaine Hammerstein, Jack Mulhall, and Wallace Beery are the stars of the cast. Wally, of course, does the dirty work.

What Others Say

Words

Words are the god about which two-thirds of modern college students kneel in worship. Not that the student boasts broad knowledge of the classic of Webster—such an accusation would be libelous considering his vocabulary of 100 words, all rendered negative in their significance through over-use. The other side of the question—the attempt to make words cover lack of thought—is more deplorable.

The average student relies more upon his tongue than upon his brain. To bluff the prof., to juggle mediocre knowledge into a semblance of sound reasoning—such ability is to him the achievement supreme. He gets his note—and is satisfied. In every class you can find him. He talks much, says little, boasts that he never opens a book, takes notes only under pressure, crams for 10 hours before the final examination, writes a blue book of catchy phrases, dotted with infinitesimal fragments of thought caught on the fly, get a passable grade. An hour later his mind is a vacuum. He leaves the class with an empty head—but well developed bump of conceit.

The list that was announced last night by Coach George Keogan includes the following men: Cerny and Silver, catchers; Magevney, Daws, Dwyer, Stange, McGrath, pitchers; Nolan, Ash, Sheehan, Pearson and Vergara, infield, and Dunne, Bergman and Reese, outfield.

The squad in charge of Coach Keogan and accompanied by Manager Tom Walsh will leave South Bend this morning at 9 o'clock on the Vandalia and will arrive in Atlanta, Ga., for the first game, Friday afternoon. The squad will play a second engagement with the Tech nine on Saturday morning and from Atlanta the team will go to Knoxville, Tenn., where the third game on the slate will be played off against the University of Tennessee, April 14. Day Dogs Ready for Brownson Nine Brownson and Day will play their first game of the interhall baseball tournament when the two teams meet on the Brownson diamond this afternoon at 4:30.

Father Holderith has a squad of more than thirty candidates from which to pick a team. The practices that have been held indicate a fast off-campus aggregation. The Brownson crew has been holding regular practices throughout the week, and is looming up as a strong contender for the championship, having a quantity of mound material and a number of heavy slugers.

Engineering League Opens Diamond Card

The Chemical engineers defeated the Civil engineers, 21-8, in the opening game of the Engineering league, played on the Brownson diamond yesterday afternoon. The work of the batteries, Conway and Degnen of the Chemicals and Herlihy and Driscoll of the Civils, featured the afternoon's encounter. The Miners will meet the Electrical nine next Friday afternoon.

At a meeting last Tuesday evening, five representatives of the Engineering schools met and organized the Engineers' baseball league which includes the departments of chemical, mechanical, mining and civil engineering. A schedule was drawn up which permits each team to meet their league opponents twice during the season. A local sporting goods store has offered a pennant to the team winning the league title.

SOUTHERN TRIP

 the home schedule on Cartier field April 23.
 The southern jaunt as mapped out by Coach Keogan will be anything but a spring vacation and the squad will be called on for practice both in the forenoon and afternoon. The team was issued full equipment before the start of the journey. One of the new features of the field equipment this year will be a baseball coat similar to the basketball sweat shirt except it buttons in coat fashion. New individual bat bags were distributed to complete the player's wardrobe.
 The southern colleges will be in far better condition than the Notre Dame nine, having had the advantage of an early season due to their climatic conditions. Nearly all the southern colleges have been playing spring games with many of the northern colleges making training jaunts through the south. The trip will be for training primarily and only hard work and long practice will be engaged in, leaving out all consideration of winning ball games. The squad will return to South Bend Easter Sunday.

 competition in these representatives of the east coast and the middle west. Michigan holds the western two-mile title, while Yale holds the eastern mile title. Luke Walsh of Notre Dame will run a special half mile race with Conger of Princeton. It was originally announced that Cox would compete in this match race, but Rockne stated last night that Cox would register his performance on the two mile team.

The Kansas relay games at the University of Kansas stadium, April 19, will see at least one representative of Notre Dame in action and possibly a relay team. Gene Oberst will hurl the javelin with the best field performers in the conference and Missouri Valley. The Drake relays will be staged the following Saturday, and since Rockne will enter a full complement of tracksters, he may not task his relay men by entering them in the Kansas games.
