SLC approves Junior cars and receives Porno Conf. Report

By Dave Lammers

The Student Life Council met last night and passed the motion for Junior cars for on campus students. However, an amendment was attached which required "a minimum amount of insurance for seniors, juniors and off-campus students," to be determined before school ends this year.

Concerning the recent Scholastic article on "Lawlessness," Professor James Massey disclaimed that the quotations in the article were obtained from the SLC investigating committee hearings on the Pornography Conference.

Father James Burtchaell addressed himself to the problem of the Student Government deficit this year, which Student Government Treasurer John Coughlin estimated will be five to ten thousand dollars.

Junior cars

The motion for cars on campus Juniors was presented by Sophomore Barney Gallagher. The surveys conducted among the present sophomores indicated that about 300 on campus Juniors would bring cars back next year. The number of organizational cars and hall cars would be reduced from a total of about 80 to five. The fee for possessing an on campus car would be increased from the present ten dollars to twenty five in order to defray the cost of increased security and the paving of new parking lots.

Gallagher presented three major reasons for on campus cars. The increased of relations with the South Bend community, the improvement of the social life, and an increased ability to have privacy, were the arguments Gallagher presented.

The major issue of debate concerning Junior cars was the necessity of establishing insurance regulations for all undergraduate cars. Father James Shilts pointed out that the recent accident involved an uninsured off campus car. Since states differ in their minimum insurance requirements, Father Riehle and student government officials plan to meet before the end of the school year so that the minimum requirements can be determined.

Father Riehle spoke about the major security problems that will be accentuated by the increased number of cars. While Riehle did not oppose the motion, he said that "many students become selfish and individualistic when they have cars." He cited problems with students crashing the gate at "60 miles per hour," security officers being insulted when students received parking tickets, and parking stickers being forged.

Father Burtchaell mentioned that the social atmosphere might, in fact, be depressed by the increase in cars, in that "sleazing at the circle" might become less popular next year. Burtchaell also brought up the problem of scholarship students possessing cars.

The motion passed by a vote of eighteen in favor, one opposed, and one abstention.

Porno report

At the beginning of the meeting, Professor James Massey, head of the SLC investigating committee of the Pornography Conference, emphasized that the author of the "Lawlessness" article in the May 9th Scholastic did not have access to the subcommittee hearings. Massey disclaimed that the quotes in the Scholastic article were drawn from the investigating hearings. The SLC subcommittee's report, distributed at the meeting last night, says, "Lawless accused Mroz of deliberately planning to show the films and of attempting to sabotage the Law School Centennial and stated that he would have Mroz thrown out of school." Massey stated that "there was another side of the story that wasn't included in the Scholastic article."

Prof. James Massey

Criminal incompetence

Father Burtchaell, Father McCarragher, and Student Government officials discussed the necessity of an audit of student government accounts.

Father Burtchaell suggested that the fiscal year be ended on March 31st instead of August 31, so that "student government officials can be held responsible for the money they hold in trust for the students." Student government Treasurer John Coughlin argued that since many bills were outstanding till the end of the year, a reliable account could not be given on March 31. Coughlin estimated the cash flow of the student government and the Student Union to "about $600,000" for this year. He estimated the debt for this year to run between five and ten thousand dollars.

The problem of "criminal incompetence" in student government officials was raised by Burtchaell, who suggested that some student officials be legally bonded, to protect against incompetence or embezzlement. Burtchaell argued that "unaccountable money is the central problem" and said that the "believability of an annual account depends on an audit. The student government officials could be made responsible by a bonding procedure. The public relations effect of bonding is also important.

The next meeting of the SLC will be at 4:00 next Monday.

Students circulate SUSC concert petition

Three Notre Dame students: Brett Huston, Greg Brown, and Terry McCabe, are planning to conduct a petition drive in order to show dissatisfaction with the Student Union Social Commission's planned concert program.

Brett Huston said that "the whole idea was to suggest that there is still time to change the planned concerts." Huston feels that hard rock "would have a wider range of appeal to a larger segment of the student body."

"What we want to show," Huston declared, "is that the students are dissatisfied with the concerts."

Dave Vecchi, Student Union Social Commissioner, found fault with several statements made in the circular which was passed out.

The first point is with the number of concerts scheduled. Vecchi stated that there are "four concerts scheduled, but only two definite." He also cited that his commission was going to co-sponsor four of five concerts with the manager of the Athletic and Convocation Center.

When asked if there would be a variety of music presented in the other concerts, Vecchi replied "There most definitely will be."

Vecchi outlined the procedure for the survey which the social commission plans to conduct in order to arrange their concerts according to the dominant student taste.

Vecchi also said that neither the Henry Mancini concert, or the Sergio Mendes Concert lost money, as stated in the circular.

There will be stacks of questionnaires available in the dining halls, at the evening meal both Wednesday and Thursday night. On the questionnaire will be listed ten groups, including; Blood Sweat and Tears, Canned Heat, and the Association. There will also be room for a student to list any group that he feels strongly about one way or the other. You can indicate a preference ranging from "definitely would attend," to "definitely would not attend."

"We haven't listed certain groups on the questionnaire, because they are out of our price range. Examples would be the Beatles, or Simon and Garfunkel," Vecchi stated.

Vecchi said that "the results may help to decide some concerts. It will help more to determine the spring concerts, rather than those in the fall."

"Hopefully though," Vecchi said, "the fall concerts will be fairly representative."

Vecchi remarked that the number of spring concerts would depend on the survey, and the success of the fall concerts. He plans though to have a concert for both "Mardi Gras, and Grand Prix."

"I wish to thank Brett Huston, Greg Brown, and Terry McCabe for expressing their dissatisfaction in a rational way. I hope other students will follow suit," Vecchi commented.

Vecchi did admit that the survey had been planned for exam week, but had been moved up "because of this petition."

Hall to head Soph. Lit. Festival

By Glen Corso

Robert Hall was appointed Chairman of the Sophomore Literary Festival yesterday. Rich Fitzgerald was appointed along with Hall, as associate chairman.

Ray Connell, president of the class of '72 made the announcements, and commented on them saying, "We had fourteen people apply, and they were all good. We picked Bob because of his experience, and his leadership ability, and because we felt that he could communicate with the various authors and alumni groups."

Hall's appointment was voted upon by the four class officers, after two interviews. Acting as advisors to the class officers were John Mroz, and Jim Metzger.

There will be three committees set up to administer the festival. They include a finance committee, a publicity committee, and a social committee. The festival will be financed by a $5,000 grant from student government.

Hall has been active in SUAC activities for the past year. He participated in the Mock Election, the Pornography Conference, the Black Power Forum, and was editor of the newsletter.

When asked about the concept of the Literary Festival, Fitzgerald replied, "The Sophomore Literary Festival is a way by which we can get across to the students something other than what they get in class. We also try to contribute something to the author."

"We hope that a writer coming here would derive more than just money or publicity, Hall declared. "We want to give him something of Notre Dame."

Commenting further Hall said, "It will also be an opportunity for people at Saint Mary's and South Bend to derive something from the university."

"I was impressed with the enthusiasm and the ability of the people involved," Hall stated. "Ray Connell's choice was by no means an easy one. It's important that these people are going to stay on and work for the betterment of the class."

When asked about SMC involvement with the festival, Hall said, "We would like some girls from St. Mary's to join in. We plan to have a committee made up of St. Mary's girls, and we are now looking for girls to staff it."

Due to the financial situation of the student government, the question of a cut in the $5,000 to run the festival is a possibility. Both Connell and Hall commented.

"The money situation is up in the air right now, because of the student government," Connell said. "If the increase in the activity goes through, we hope to get the $5,000 or more."

"If we don't get the money, we'll have to work a little harder and get it somewhere else" Hall declared.

He mentioned various sources such as Alumni groups, and other groups with money to contribute.

Fitzgerald praised this year's literary festival. He said that the "men chosen were fantastic. They were competent in their field." He cited both Barth, and DeVries as "exceptional men."

Fitzgerald said that he would like the authors, "if possible to have more contact with the student body."

"I'd like to have informal discussion of some topic with a group of interested people planned for the various authors. We want to have some more give and take between the authors and students," he said.

D'Aurora to run Parents Wknd

Last night Junior Class President Barry Doyle named Jim D'Aurora as the General Chairman for next year's Junior Parents Weekend. D'Aurora will also serve next year as Executive Secretary of the Student Union. The appointment was made in light of recommendation by Jay Fitzsimmons, this year's chairman of the Junior Parents Weekend.

Concerning the Parents Weekend, D'Aurora commented, "We'd like to restructure the weekend so that it is not a glorified weekend, but rather one of routine."

D'Aurora said they hope for a variety of on-campus activities such as the Bengal Bouts, but that they would "like the parents to meet Notre Dame without the excitement of a football Saturday and formal dances."

A major problem confronting the Parents Weekend, D'Aurora said, is the lack of participation by the faculty in the four college receptions. In light of this problem, D'Aurora hopes that the college receptions can be narrowed to a department level reception "whereby our parents will meet our advisers and immediate faculty members assisting in our education," or broadened with the idea of a "faculty panel discussion from each college, concerning current events, problems in education, or campus problems."

D'Aurora stressed the fact that many students will be needed to investigate possible plans for next year's Junior Parents weekend. Carl Rak has been appointed executive coordinator of the weekend, and Brian Zevnik, who will serve as secretary of the Class of '71, has been named executive secretary for the weekend.

Applications are now being accepted for many other positions. A chairman is needed for the main dinner, which D'Aurora emphasized as one of the most important events and therefore requiring a responsible and dedicated chairman.

Seminarians join 'takeover' epidemic

by United Press International

Seminarians staged takeovers of buildings on campuses of two eastern theological schools yesterday.

On other campuses, Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes sought court action to oust demonstrators from the student union building at Lincoln University in Jefferson City. State police patrolled fringes of the Southern University campus in Baton Rouge, La. Classes resumed at violence racked City College of New York and Howard University in Washington D.C.

About 50 seminarians took over the administration building of Union Theological Seminary in New York City in support of the demands of black militant James Forman for "reparations" to American Negroes.

At Andover Newton Theological Seminary in Newton, Mass., about 50 students seized the administration building when the all white board of trustees failed to meet and consider demands for blacks on the board. They disrupted operations in the building. The administrative staff left. A spokesman for the rebels said they had not decided how long they would hold the building. Only five of the seminary's 600 students are black.

Nixon to give Vietnam progress report

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Nixon conferred for the first time yesterday with his military chief in Vietnam and announced he would report to the nation on Wednesday on prospects of ending the war.

White House officials said the President would not use the speech to announce a limited withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam.

Gen. Creighton W. Abrams flew into Washington unannounced Sunday afternoon for the White House conference, described as a general review of the military situation. The new, intensive wave of Viet Cong mortar attacks and whether they constitute a significant new offensive were discussed, White House spokesman Ronald Ziegler said.

Fortas to resign rumor: 'very reliable'

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Paul J. Fannin, (R., Ariz.) said he has "very reliable" information that Abe Fortas will resign this week from the Supreme Court. Fannin said the information came to him from a Washington attorney in a position to know. He would not name him.

At the same time, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell confirmed that he met secretly with Chief Justice Earl Warren to give him "certain information known by me which might be of aid to him."

Mitchell's terse announcement confirmed Newsweek magazine's report of a Mitchell-Warren meeting. Newsweek said the attorney general called on Warren at the request of President Nixon and to tell the chief justice of "far more serious" evidence against Fortas' off the bench activities than those made public so far.

Astronauts prepare for moon shot

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) - Three astronauts practiced space flying on the ground yesterday in the final major rehearsal for the Apollo 10 moon orbiting adventure that begins Sunday.

Their launch crews, meanwhile, prepared the towering Apollo 10 space machine for the start of the 5 1/2 day countdown at midnight.

Thomas P. Stafford, John W. Young and Eugene A. Cernan undergo their last head to toe medical checkup today and then hope to slow down the pace of training for the riskiest spaceflight yet undertaken in the moon program.

The space agency said the session was the last big simulation planned for the Apollo 10 crew in the intricate, computer controlled containers which the pilots have relied on for months to get ready for flight. The goal of the flight of Apollo 10 is to pave the way for a moon landing by two of the three Apollo 11 astronauts in July.

Apollo 10 is scheduled to set out for the moon at 12:49 p.m. EDT Sunday and swing into lunar orbit 76 hours later. The astronauts will circle the moon for 2 1/2 days to check out lunar landing machinery, to improve moon navigation techniques and to inspect the Apollo 11 landing site on the Sea of Tranquility.

Hesburgh featured in NY Times Magazine

By Bruce Bowles

Notre Dame and Father Hesburgh were the subjects of a feature article in Sunday's (May 11) article in Sunday's (May 11) New York Times Magazine. Thomas Fleming, a freelance writer for the Times, gathered the material for his article from a recent visit to the campus and his interviews with Father Hesburgh and some students.

In his examination of Notre Dame life and Father Hesburgh's relation with it, Fleming stressed Father Hesburgh's role as an administrator "walking on a tightrope of his own creation." On one side, the students; on the other, the alumni.

He dealt with Father Hesburgh's letter of February 17 extensively. Remarks of condemnation or commendation are cited from a wide variety of sources: from the President of the United States to a "junior who is prominent in (Notre Dame) student politics."

Fleming sums up Father Hesburgh's stance: he is a "priest and university president, Catholic and American." Hesburgh's Irish and German ancestry are mentioned as reasons for his "tough response" and also for his "willingness to be loved."

The article continued with an account of Hesburgh's rise to prominence. After ascending to the Presidency in 1952, he became well known for his activities on the Ford Foundation and received invitations to sit in high positions on government and private institutions. He is now a member of more than thirty boards and commissions and devotes "about 100 days a year to government and/or foundation service."

How does he keep up with his job as an administrator? Fourteen-hour work days is Fleming's response. Doctors at the Mayo Clinic, however, have warned him that continuing his present ways will shorten his life by as much as ten years.

The stress is becoming even more severe. The alumni remember the "Good Ol' Notre Dame" that they attended, and even the 5,000-name petition in support of the Viet Nam war three years ago. Now they witness the abolishment of the Patriot of the Year Award and read about the Dow and CIA demonstrations.

Then Fleming cites the Pornographic Conference--"If someone had plotted to embarrass the Hesburgh administration, they could not have devised a more diabolic scenario." With the sudden appearance of the letter, "they (some student leaders) felt it was a desperate effort by Hesburgh to regain his crumbling image."

ND booters tie

The Notre Dame Soccer Club walked off the field Friday afternoon with a 1-1 tie with Goshen College. It was a hard fought contest from the start. Goshen came from the opening kick-off and scored within the first three minutes of play. They scored on a left-footed shot from the outside. It was a tough goal, on the first penetration of the game and one of the few the Irish defense was to allow all day. The defense, led by Captain Greg Abrams, Rick Coleman and Ken Foley constantly thwarted Goshen offensives the entire afternoon. It was Foley especially who was effective at his left-fullback position, working with Abrams to start Irish fast-breaks.

visitors leading 1-0, but the Irish front line soon permeated the Goshen defense to score with 15 minutes remaining in the third period. Fred Rohol scored from in close with the assist coming from John Amato. The Irish fought through the Goshen line many times in the second half and completely controlled play. It was only the erratic shots of the line that kept the score from being greater. Bob McAleer, the Irish goalie, played a fantastic game saving several shots that were certain scores. This game ends the Irish' undefeated spring soccer season, with a record of 2-0-1.

Golf

Bob Battaglio improved tremendously from last weekend, shooting a 70 to lead Rev. Clarence Durbin's golfers to a fourth-place tie in the Michigan State Invitational on Saturday. The medalist honor went to Michigan's Rod Sumpter, who had a 69.

Indiana pulled off a mild upset in the team competition, winning over Purdue and Ohio State. The Hoosiers had 362 strokes, three better than the Boilermakers. Michigan, ND, and Ohio State came in at 371. There were 25 schools in the meet.

Bob Wison, who played so well last week at Columbus, had a 75 for the Irish. Jim Dunn (73), Mike Sprinker (76), Bill Cvengros (77), and Charley Musick (80) rounded out the ND total.

THE - sports parade

By Milt Richman, UPI sports columnist

The man behind the merger

NEW YORK (UPI) - Somebody had to make the move and in the end it turned out to be the one man nobody ever expected to - Art Modell, the National Football League president and owner of the Cleveland Browns.

He didn't do it because he's a martyr, nor did he do it for the money as some already erroneously believe.

He did it for the corniest reason in the world - "for the good of all" - and if there are those who take that to mean for his own good as well, Art Modell isn't going to bother arguing the point.

As happens whenever 25 millionaires get together in the same room Modell, the 26th, was in Doctors Hospital with bleeding ulcer, there was considerable difference of opinion over which NFL clubs should move into the much younger, less established American Football League.

The prevailing sentiment was "let George do it" and for awhile NFL officials were looking exactly as foolish as the major league baseball owners did when they were going around in the same unbroken circles trying to find themselves a suitable commissioner.

But there are some good thinking men in football also, men who will put the game ahead of their own selfish interests, and did this past weekend.

Pete Rozelle, the football commissioner, is one of those who worked hardest. When the 25 millionaires in his Park Avenue office, who sat there 35 hours and 45 minutes all told, protested they were "too tired" from time to time, Rozelle insisted they stay until they could hammer out an agreement.

So Rozelle deserves any extra fanfare he gets. So does Carroll Rosenbloom of the Baltimore Colts and Dan Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who agreed to go into the AFL along with the Browns.

But one man possibly deserves more credit than all the rest and Paul Brown picked him out. Brown's choice was Art Modell, who originally objected to moving his ball club to the AFL.

"I just feel that's all to his credit," Brown said of Modell when asked how he felt about the NFL president and Cleveland owner changing his mind.

"It was his decision that what is best for pro football is best for everyone."

Those who are now saying Modell, Rosenbloom and Rooney "sold out" for the money, an estimated $1 million apiece couldn't be more wrong.

None of the three asked for any money. The idea to give them some came from the 13 other NFL owners who felt the three new representatives in the American conference should be compensated for the natural loss in receipts they are bound to incur because the new ballparks in Cincinnati and Kansas City won't be ready for at least another year.

Besides, none of the three are hurting that much for money that they'd bolt the NFL for that reason alone. All three are well fixed.

The next logical question then is why would such a hide bound NFL man like Modell consent to over to the rival circuit, and from his room at Doctors Hospital where he's still on a bland diet, he undertook to furnish the answer.

"A week ago this past Friday night May 2 I had dinner with Pete Rozelle," Modell said. "I told him 'I have a surprise for you. If certain conditions are met, Cleveland is a possibility.'"

That was the first time Rozelle had any inkling Modell would even consider moving his club to the other league, but Modell had a surprise in store for himself, or rather a shock, when he returned to his hotel room here for the alignment meetings.

He fell unconscious that night and was taken to the hospital where he has been since. But he has kept in touch by telephone.

"I made my decision this past Friday," he says, "but before I did I spoke with Wellington Mara of the New York Giants and Dan Rooney. I wanted to make sure the Rooney's knew my position and that the Giants wouldn't suffer."

"Originally, I was dedicated to a 16-10 status quo," says Modell about the alignment. "I wanted 16-10 for two years. The next best thing, I felt, was to deliver three teams now so as to preserve the rivalries and maintain competition. Now that it has been done, I feel happy. It's been rough. I haven't had a smoke in nine days."

Grand Prix set for finals

The results of the time trials and sprint race held May 11 for Notre Dame's upcoming Grand Prix Go-Kart Race have been officially announced.

The winner of the 20-lap sprint race was No. 44, the Sports Car Club with a time of 15:40.8. Second place went to lucky No. 7 of Alumni Hall with a time of 15:57.8.

The official line-ups for the race were determined by the time trials, the results of which were a reversal of the sprint race. Alumni had the best 2-lap time of 1:33.266. The Sports Car Club will be in the No. 2 position when the Grand Prix Race gets underway next Saturday. Their time was 1:33.333 for 2 laps. Walsh Hall with No. 29 came in 3rd with a time of 1:34.66.

The results of the time trials and sprint race will be put to the final test at 1:30, May 17th, Grand Prix Race Day.
