Ex-WSND-FM disc-jockeys to discuss charges

by Ray McGrath

Former WSND-FM disc-jockeys Ted Twardzik and Sean Coughlin will meet today with Dean of Students James Roemer to discuss charges brought against them by WSND station management.

According to Tony Wesley, director of FM programming at WSND, the station management has filed a report with Roemer which states that the two students "were consuming alcohol at the station, and using vulgar sexual references over the air," early Saturday morning.

Drinking at the station is in violation of station, Federal Communications Commission (FCC), and University regulations, and lewdness on the air is forbidden by FCC and station policy.

The report to Roemer was filed as a supplement to a report made by Notre Dame Security. Security aided in removing the two disc-jockeys and a group of friends from the broadcasting booth of the station around 3 a.m. Saturday.

In addition to the report to Roemer, a report has also been filed with the FCC informing them of the violations. The action was a protective measure called for by law.

The report will probably have not effect on the status of WSND's broadcasting license, Wesley said, but it will almost certainly result in Twardzik and Coughlin losing their individual licenses.

Other penalties for the disc-jockeys, including fines and imprisonment upon conviction, are possible, but not probable, he added.

Fr. Edmund Joyce, executive vice-president of the University and legal holder of the station's license, will also receive a copy of the FCC report.

Twardzik and Coughlin both said last night that they regard the charge of drinking as a matter to be discussed with Roemer before they make any statement concerning their actions. But both disputed the allegations that they made vulgar sexual references over the air.

Coughlin asserts that statements such as one made by a person in the booth who said his girlfriend gave "good phone," were not intended to have sexual references.

Twardzik, who has worked for the station for three years, remarked, "I have been doing 'Nocturnal Night Flights' longer than anyone else on the staff, and I know better than he (Wesley) what can and cannot go over the air. That program was entirely legal."

He also noted that no one other than Wesley called to complain about the "Flagrant obscenities."

Both disc-jockeys also wanted to point out that, opposed to a claim attributed to John Foster, production manager of the station, they did not attempt to conduct a picnic on the roof of the station after having their show shut off. They merely went to the roof to collect their belongings which were there, and they promptly prepared to leave.

Both students wanted to stress that they had no desire to do anything "rowdy or perverted."

Commenting on today's meeting with the two students, Roemer stressed that the students had "every right to come in and tell their side," and he felt no prejudices concerning the incident, or the possible results of the meeting.

In clarifying the stand of the WSND management, Wesley stated that the two had been fired, but that the station management "wasn't out for any further retribution. But we are under legal obligation to report the incident to the FCC, and under obligation as managers to report it to the administration."

Both sides refuse concessions as Mideast summit continues

CAMP DAVID, Md. [AP] - Despite a "Gigantic effort," President Carter has been unable to gain major concessions from Israel at the Mideast summit, diplomatic sources said yesterday.

"Getting Israel to move was the problem all along, even before the summit began," said an official who asked not to be identified. He said it was "too early to make a judgment either way" about the summit's outcome.

Carter met for a second consecutive day with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat after a scheduled meeting Monday night between Egyptian and U.S. ministers was called off, without explanation.

The ministerial meeting subsequently was held yesterday afternoon.

As the summit rounded out a week, Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin remained apart. They have not met face-to-face at the negotiating table since last Thursday.

Jody Powell, White House press secretary and summit spokesman, cautioned reporters not to draw conclusions from the suspension of three-way meetings. "There hasn't been any need for one," he said.

Powell said "there has been flexibility shown on both sides." But he did not claim the president had gained major concessions.

Powell provided little detail of the summit, but it is known the discussions have centered on fundamental issues, including Arab demands that Israel give up the land it captured during the 1967 war and recognize Palestinian Arabs' "legitimate rights" to a homeland on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

Powell disclosed that Sadat telephoned Jordan's King Hussein on Monday, but there was no details disclosed about their conversation.

Hussein, who lost the West Bank to Israel after 19 years of control by Jordan, has ruled himself out of Mideast peace talks until Israel commits itself to withdrawal.

"There are no plans for King Hussein to come to Camp David," Powell said.

Powell also refused to speculate on how the summit would conclude.

Carter, his press secretary said, has shuttled between Sadat and Begin, looking for compromises on the future of the West Bank and Palestinian Arabs.

Powell has said Carter would bring the two leaders together at an appropriate point.

Meanwhile, in Bonn, West Germany, Syrian President Hafez Assad blasted Sadat's Mideast peace initiative and the Camp David summit, saying there can be no peace until "the rights of the Palestinians" are restored and occupied Arab lands returned.

Assad condemned all peace movements that take place outside the United Nations and without Palestinian representation.

At the same time, in New York, former President Richard M. Nixon told his first full-dress news conference since his resignation that it is important "for the United States to play the role which it can in attempting to mediate the differences without imposing, of course, a settlement."

NASA astronaut speaks on future of space exploration

by Jana L. Schutt
Staff Reporter

National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) exploration has certainly proved that "man is the cleverest computer that can be built with unskilled labor," according to Don L. Lind, NASA astronaut, who spoke last night in the Library Auditorium.

Lind's talk, entitled "Space Shuttle and Beyond," was sponsored by the Student Union Academic Commission as the third segment of a two-day symposium on the direction of U.S. space exploration.

Lind has not traveled in space yet. He was a back-up crew member for the Skylab 3 and 4 missions and also acted as a member of the Skylab rescue crew. He is a member of the Astronaut Office's Missions Specialist Group and is scheduled to fly on the Spacelab mission.

About 75 people watched Lind's slide presentation which spanned the history of space exploration from Mercury through Gemini and Apollo to Skylab and the future.

Lind explained that the Mercury and Gemini programs were used to develop the necessary technology to carry out the Apollo missions.

According to Lind, the Apollo program was specifically designed to study the moon. During each of the moon landings, a science station was erected on the moon's surface to carry out scientific experiments which studied the moon's composition, inner core and other geographical data.

After Apollo there was much leftover equipment, so NASA pieced these "scraps" together to build Skylab, Lind stated. In 1973, Skylab I was launched and used to conduct 93 experiments dealing with medical science, the sun and earth resources.

Lind said that, according to medical data obtained from Skylab, "the Lord designed our bodies very well." Hypothetically, a person is able to remain in a weightless environment for as long as 400 days without ill effects if he receives

Postal strike fades

WASHINGTON - Big-city union leaders backed down from earlier threats to stage an illegal mail strike this week as a labor mediator moved yesterday to settle the deadlocked postal contract dispute on his own. Sources said the chances of a strike appear to be fading because union members are reluctant to jeopardize their careers and risk going to jail.

Speedway bombings end

INDIANAPOLIS - Still wary after a week's pause in a series of mysterious bombings, the Speedway area of Indianapolis is slowly relaxing again. School attendance has returned to normal, and evening athletic activities have resumed. Police, however, are still working ten-hour shifts, checking any reports of suspicious packages. The sudden halt in bombings after eight explosions in six days is just as baffling as the attacks were to begin with.

ND women's dorms plan slumber party

by Lynne Daley

In an effort to diminish the competitive nature existing among the women's dorms at Notre Dame, the Student Union, along with Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Lewis Halls, will sponsor a slumber party for all Notre Dame women at 11:30 p.m. this Saturday in Stepan Center.

The evening is planned to provide an opportunity for girls to meet people outside their dorms in an atmosphere free from interhall or classroom rivalries.

Girls who plan to attend should wear a nightgown and robe to the event and bring a blanket and pillow. The evening's activities will include a horror film, complete with popcorn. An "evening wear" contest and background music will also be featured. On Sunday morning the girls will go in a group to breakfast in North Dining Hall.

A 25-cent admission charge will be levied to help defray the cost of the film and the necessary security measures.

Beth Jones, Farley social commissioner, hopes that this event will prompt other events on campus increasing unity between the women.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $20 per year ($10 per semester) from The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. Second class postage paid, Notre Dame, Indiana, 46556.

Semiformal tix on sale

Notre Dame seniors who wish to purchase tickets for this Sunday's semiformal at Cinnabar's may do so today and tomorrow. On-campus students should contact their respective hall representatives, and off-campus students may purchase tickets in the senior class office in the basement of LaFortune Student Center from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. today and from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow. Tickets are $15 each, and the dance will begin at 7 p.m. and last until midnight.

Philadelphia Club to organize

The Philadelphia Club of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's will conduct its first organizational meeting in Grace Hall penthouse at 8 p.m. Sept. 14. Organization of a chartered flight for Christmas break, the selection of remaining club officers and the writing of the club charter will be discussed.

Integration in L.A. schools meets with resistance

LOS ANGELES [AP] - Thousands of white parents kept their children away from the city schools yesterday, as the first day of a massive integration program got rolling in the nation's second largest school district.

Early attendance reports showed many students assigned to travel from the predominantly white San Fernando Valley to inner-city schools avoided classes.

Leaders of an anti-busing boycott, who staged a rally attended by 4,000 persons Monday night hope to force cancellation of mandatory parts of the plan by stripping the district of white students.

The otherwise smooth start of school was marred by scattered picketing, a bomb threat, four minor bus accidents and a bus lost in traffic for four hours.

Board of Education member Bobbi Fiedler, a busing foe, said 15 percent to 25 percent of the white pupils scheduled for busing went to school yesterday and most of the no shows will not return.

"I don't think what you're seeing is a boycott," said Fiedler. "It's a withdrawal from the school system."

But school officials said some schools had received phone calls from parents who planned to keep their children home only the first day to see how the busing plan worked out.

Despite the high white absentee rate, Miller and Mayor Tom Bradley said the start of integration in the 711-square mile district was a success.

Fasting pledges due today

N.D. professor lectures on China

by Donna Teevan

Morris Pollard, professor of microbiology, lectured yesterday on a two-week tour of medical facilities in Mainland China he took last May 1. The lecture, entitled "Observations on a Scientific Mission to the People's Republic of China, 1978," was given at 4 p.m. in the Library Auditorium before a small group of people.

The purpose of the journey was to allow Pollard to observe Chinese medical facilities, so that he could offer advice for the improvement of Chinese health care and medical research. He said he was also asked to give ten lectures in various cities.

Although reluctant to criticize Chinese research, Pollard said, "I had to tell them, in some cases, 'you're wasting your time' or 'you're on the wrong track,'" but added that "the Chinese are basically brilliant."

Pollard said the trip originated when he received a phone call from the Chinese liaison office of the Academy of Medical Sciences inviting him and his wife to China. They accepted the invitation on May 21 left Washington, stopping briefly in Japan before entering heavily guarded Mainland China.

Upon arriving in Peking, the Pollards were greeted by the Vice-President of the Academy of Medical Sciences who gave them a proposed itinerary. However, Pollard stated, they were told they could "go anywhere and see anything," even if it was not included in the itinerary. In addition to their stay in Peking, the Pollards were scheduled to visit Canton and Shanghai.

Pollard compared the size of the region he visited to an area stretching from "Florida to Massachusetts and inland to Cleveland, Ohio."

Pollard noted that food conservation is an important issue in China. He said there are no dogs or cats in the cities and very few in the rural areas because they deplete the food supply.

Although there is much deprivation in parts of China, particularly in the industrial cities, Pollard remarked that most of the people he saw appeared "well-fed, well-clothed and happy."

He commented that young people have little control over their futures in China. Admissions to universities are based on the abilities the students demonstrate in highly competitive examination, he said. Neither college graduates nor the less educated may choose their own careers, Pollard added.

Pollard's hosts invited him and his family back for another visit next year, he stated.

ND security 'steals' bikes to protect student owners

by Sue Wuetcher
Staff Reporter

Notre Dame Security has been confiscating unlocked bicycles to prevent them from being stolen.

"We steal them before someone else does," Arthur N. Pears, director of Security, stated, adding, "All reported stolen bicycles are checked against those we have on hand. The owners are notified immediately." He said that if students would lock their bicycles then Security would have no reason to take them.

Pears commented that the bicycles located in the basement of Holy Cross Hall are those that were unclaimed at the end of the school year. "I would think that if a student's bicycle was stolen he would think enough to report it," Pears said.

He noted that having bicycles registered with Security makes it much easier to recover them in the event that they are stolen or claimed by Security. Pears said that he could see no reason for students failing to do this. "The office remains open until 8 p.m. to accomodate students," he said, addind, "Registration costs only one dollar and is good for four years."

Pears stated that Security is trying to alert students to take precautions with their property. All on-campus bicycles are tagged two or three times a year as a reminder for the owners to register them.

Ads are run in The Observer encouraging students to register and mark their property. There are also programs in every hall designed to inform students on how to protect their property.

N.D. Paddlefish Club organizes

by Cathy Santoro

The Elusive Paddlefish Club conducted its first meeting as a University-approved organization last night in the LaFortune Student Center, with approximately 100 persons attending.

According to Brian Ward, vice-president of public relations for the Paddlefish, the purpose of the club is to "promote social activity in the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's community, organize human interest events and create an awareness of an endangered species."

Tom Feifar, chairman of the board for the Paddlefish, related the history of the club to new members at the meeting. "It all began last summer," Feifar stated, "when I discovered the Paddlefish in Tank 89 at the Shedd Aquarium in Chicago." Enthusiasm to start a club named after the "elusive" fish "blossomed into something we never expected," the chairman stated.

The club boasts a membership of 197 ND-SMC students. Michael Goron, executive vice-president, explained, "Purchasing an official Paddlefish T-shirt makes one a life-time member of the club and entitles the owner to attend all Paddlefish functions."

The club hosted three happy hours last year which were judged "a great success" by Club President Bruce Flowers. The organization also sponsored a "Little Miss Paddlefish Contest." The penny-a-vote competition earned $130 which the club donated to the Bengal Mission Charities.

Plans for this year's activities include a kick-off happy hour, a semi-formal, a blood drive, the second annual "Little Miss Paddlefish Contest" and a field trip to Chicago.

proper exercise, diet, and the "knowledge that he will return to earth," Lind noted.

Seven telescopes were used to study solar physics in the Skylab program. Information from these observational telescopes revolutionized the knowledge of solar corona and solar flares, Lind said. He added that over 218,000 miles of film was used to photograph the sun for every two weeks that the Skylab was in operation.

Some of the earth resource experiments carried out on the Skylab missions were designed by high school students. These studies investigated the effect of weightlessness on animals and tested the usefulness of searching for fuel desposits on earth from the vantage point of space, Lind explained.

He showed slides of the newly developed Space Shuttle which already has been taken for low-speed test flights and landing patterns. The reusable shuttle handles like a fighter plane, takes off like a rocket from an upright position and lands on a regular commercial runway, Lind said. It will be used to deploy satellites as well as carry cargo.

Lind's concluding slides depicted the projected Spacelab, a scientific lab which will operate in outer space for long time periods. The generation of solar energy is under consideration as a Spacelab project. According to Lind, the plan is technologically feasible, but its implementation depends on whether Congress will allocate the funds to carry it out.

A question and answer session followed Lind's presentation.

5 report assaults

Five Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women, four students and one staff employee, have reported to Notre Dame Security that they were assaulted by teenage boys riding bicycles.

Six separate incidents (one woman reported two assaults) each involved from one to three bicycle riders and a lone woman. The boys, who appeared to be from 13 to 16 years old, grabbed at the victims as they rode past. None have been apprehended.

The incidents took place between 8 and 9:30 p.m. between August 28 and September 5 at different campus locations including Bulla Road near the townhouses, the lake road by the Grotto and by Lyons Hall, and areas around the Law Building, Sorin Hall and the Architecture Building.

Over-crowded conditions at recent graduation ceremonies have caused Notre Dame to announce reserved seating for next May's commencement.

The policies on admission to graduation exercises scheduled for May 20, 1979, were outlined to representatives of the senior class and of postbaccalaureate degree groups yesterday by several administration officials, headed by Sr. John Miriam Jones, assistant provost.

Jones said that the University made the decision reluctantly to adopt the seating procedures used in 1977 when President Jimmy Carter addressed graduates. "We are faced with an overtaxing of the ACC Arena and its 10,350 seats," Jones said.

She pointed out that some 2,000 persons attending last May's commencement did not have seats and were forced to sit in aisles and stand in exit ways. She also noted that the past policy of unreserved seating has come to result in many persons arriving up to three hours in advance of the two-hour ceremony to insure seats.

According to Jones, "These conditions have become irritants to those who have sacrificed so much toward this important day and should have the right to enjoy it in comfort."

The unpredictable nature of Indiana spring weather does not make a return to outdoor ceremonies sensible, Jones explained, noting that it has rained on the day of the last two Saint Mary's outdoor commencements.

Jones said that the University would adopt the ticket allotment procedure used in the Carter commencement. All seats will be reserved, and candidates for baccalaureate degrees will be entitled to five tickets in the initial distribution. Candidates for postbaccalaureate degrees will be eligible for four tickets.

In each case, two lower arena seats together will be issued, with the remainder together in the upper arena. If all seats are reserved together, they will be assigned in the upper arena as long as seats are available there. All locations will be selected randomly.

If every degree candidate requests the maximum number of tickets to which he is entitled, about 500 seats, most of them lower arena, will be available for a lottery distribution to students needing an extra ticket. Students are encouraged to ask for the maximum number of tickets only if they need them, allowing unclaimed tickets to be added to a lottery.

Postbaccalaureate graduates needing more than four tickets will be given a priority in the lottery because they are eligible for fewer tickets in the initial distribution.

The initial ticket distribution and lottery will be handled by the Registrar's Office during advance registration in November. It is hoped that lottery results will be available in January so that all students will know in advance exactly how many tickets they have for commencement.

Jones said that letters will be mailed soon to all candidates for baccalaureate and postbaccalaureate degrees, as well as the parents of the former, explaining the necessity of the policy for "the safety and convenience of parents and guests."

Invited to today's briefing were Andy McKenna, student body president; Mike Roohan, vice president; senior class officers Jerry Castellini, president; Julie Rittenhouse, vice president; Barb Langhenry, secretary; Gary Fair, treasurer; Joe LeVert, graduate student; Peggy Foran, law student, and Bob Riley, M.B.A. student.

The administrators also asked the students for advice concerning student decorum at graduation. The University officials indicated behavior at last year's commencement was inappropriate to an academic exercise.

Nicaraguan militants attempt to overthrow Somoza's regime

OUTSIDE MASAYA, Nicaragua [AP] - Bloody street fighting raged through embattled Masaya yesterday as national guard troops fought for ground inch by inch against rebels trying to overthrow President Anastasio Somoza.

The bitter conflict threatened to involve Costa Rica to the south and Honduras in the north.

In San Jose, Costa Rica, the civil guard director said a Nicaraguan plane strafed a vehicle yesterday morning on a Costa Rican road two miles from the border town of Panas Blancas. Ramon Umana said he had no information about casualties, but the attack spread panic among Panas Blanca's 6,000 residents.

Honduran customs agents said at least 2,000 Nicaraguans had arrived at border outposts in the previous four days. Some sought refuge in Honduras while others bought food and then went back to Nicaragua, they said.

A soldier at a roadblock on the outskirts of Masaya, 18 miles southeast of the capital of Managua, said. "They are fighting all over the city. We have been told there are many dead and wounded."

Rebels led by militants of the left-wing Sandinista Liberation Front also were reportedly locked in battle with government units in Esteli, 90 miles north of Managua, and in Leon, 45 miles northwest of the capital. Reports were sketchy, with telephone lines torn down and military roadblocks checking travel.

The latest round of violence against Somoza's authoritarian military government erupted three weeks ago when leftist Sandinista guerrillas stormed the national capitol building.

Juniper Press operating normally after summer

by Pat Mangan

Juniper Press, the publishing company founded, owned, and managed by the students of Prof. Elizabeth Christman's book publishing class is back in operation and is reviewing ten manuscripts of varied authorship for publication.

According to Karen Caruso, company president, the search was not limited to any specific type of book or author. She said that every manuscript that they found would be considered. However Christman said that a book of more than 100 pages would not be feasible.

Since the company was founded by students, it is also funded by students. At the beginning of the semester each student in the class invests at least $35 in the company. This amount, plus whatever is left by the previous class, is the bulk of the company budget. So far, the Juniper Press budget has never exceeded $1000.

Each year the company publishes one book. In its first year under the leadership of President Bob Maden, Quick As A Dodo by Notre Dame philosophy professor Ralph McInerney was published. Last year, Cleats, by Ken MacAfee, George Berry and John Gelson was the center of the company's efforts.

Both of these endeavors succeeded to make a profit, but Christman pointed out that the success of a given class could not be measured in dollars. She stated that the experience gained is the decisive factor in determining the success of her class.

"Losing money can be a very good learning experience also," she added.

Before coming to Notre Dame Christman spent 20 years in the publishing business and taught at De Pauw University. During this time she developed the conviction that students need practical experience in addition to classroom instruction.

According to Christman, "One of the best aspects of the class is that the students' company is a 'real'

company."

As members of the company, students will choose a manuscript, make a contract with the author, edit the work, have it printed and bound, advertise it, balance financial records of necessary transactions and pay royalties.

Aragon set for sophomore season

by Bryan Carey
Sports Writer

The 1977 sports year was a very successful one at Notre Dame, with National Championships in both football and fencing. Few, however, would recall the fact that Notre Dame also gained significant national recognition when its track team set the NCAA school record in the two mile relay.

Unless of course, you're Chuck Aragon, a key member of that record breaking foursome.

Aragon ran cross country and track during his high school years in Los Lunas, New Mexico, and was recruited by over fifty colleges to compete on the collegiate level in these sports.

"I finally chose to go to Notre Dame because it offered me a high quality education," recalls the sophomore from Morrissey, "and when visiting the campus, everyone was so friendly."

Aragon's normal weekday starts a bit earlier than the typical students. He's up at 6:30 to run a brisk five miles before his eight o'clock class. He finishes his days training in the late afternoon with ten to fifteen more miles (eight to ten, at a faster pace, during track and field.)

"I only have so much energy to spend in a day," said Aragon, "and I try to find a happy medium between my academics and athletics."

Aragon's balancing of energies proved most successful his freshman year. Not only was he a member of the record-setting relay team, but he also ran well enough in his specialty, the half mile (800 meters), to qualify for the U.S. Junior Team Trials in Bloomington, Indiana.

From there, things were as smooth as Aragon's stride. He placed second in the trials and was off to spend a portion of his summer running in West Germany and Russia.

"In Russia," he recalls, "people would barter with us for colorful T-shirts and blue jeans. I got sixty dollars for a pair of Levis!"

Aragon's success in Russia was not limited to his marketplace dealing. There, Aragon ran his best time ever, an 1:49.4, and placed first in the event, displaying "world class" capability.

This will be Aragon's second year of running at Notre Dame. His outlook?

"We had a good recruiting year and have a lot of lettermen returning from last year's squad," pointed out Aragon, "so it looks like a good year is in store for Notre Dame tracksters."

"Personally, I would like to improve my time and bring it into the low 1:48's," Aragon said.

Aragon doesn't dwell much on the future. "Right now I'm a biology major," said Aragon, "but have yet to make any future career plans. I just do the best that I can during the present."

One thing, however, has been the subject of Aragon's thoughts—that is, the upcoming Olympics.

"Sure the Olympics have crossed my mind," remarked Aragon, "the 1980 Olympic Trials is something to aim for and with some hard work, maybe the 1984 games could be a possibility."

If past performance is indicative of things to come, it seems that the sophomore from Los Lunas might be visiting Russia again sooner than he thinks.

Notre Dame's Chuck Aragon displayed his running prowess in Russia this summer.

Kickers blank Tri-State, 3-0

by Mark Perry and
Bill Murphy
Sports Writers

The Notre Dame soccer team won their second straight game of the season last night, as they defeated Tri-State University, 3-0. The win extended the Irish winning streak to eighteen games over the past two seasons, which now ranks as the top winning streak in the nation.

"We were very pleased with tonight's game," said coach Rich Hunter. "We have a new defense which has been developed by assistant coach Todd Cooper, and it has been very successful so far."

The defense was very effective last night, as the Irish controlled play throughout the game, taking 25 shots on goal to only three for Tri-State.

Tri-State used a kick-and-run offense for the entire game, booting the ball high into the Irish end and then trying to run under the ball in front of the Irish defenders. But strong defensive play by fullbacks Jim Rice, Tom Luetkenhans, Randy Wittry, and Jim Sabitus denied Tri-State the scoring opportunities they wanted.

Sabitus was injured on a rush by Tri-State in the first half, but Hunter expects him back by next Monday at the latest.

Neither team could score in the first 25 minutes, although the Irish had several scoring opportunities. Roman Klos had two excellent shots, one which bounced off the crossbar and another blocked by the Tri-State goalie from point-blank range. Terry Finnegan also looped a shot over the goalie's head, but this was also pulled down.

Finnegan finally broke the tie with 18 minutes, 12 seconds left in the first half. After an illegal push in the goal area, Finnegan blasted a low line drive into the left side of the net on the penalty kick.

The Irish increased their lead 32 seconds later, as Bill Wetterer drove down the right side and crossed the ball in front of the net, where Kevin Lovejoy headed the ball in for the 2-0 lead.

The Irish continued to dominate play for the remainder of the first half, with a lot of good passes in front of the Tri-State net, but could not manage another score.

Tri-State finally developed some offensive pressure in the second half, as a few high kicks got past the Irish defense, but goalie Bob Ritger kept Tri-State off the scoreboard.

Then, with one minute, 30 seconds left in the game, a handball by the Tri-State goalie outside the goal area gave the Irish direct kick. Finnegan lined up for the kick, but swung over the ball. Bill Ralph followed right behind him to drive the ball past the surprised Tri-State defense into the lower left hand corner of the net for the final Notre Dame score.

In last Friday's home opener, the Irish defeated St. Louis Community College 3-0. Wetterer opened the scoring for Notre Dame in the first half, assisted by Lovejoy, and Sabitus and Lovejoy scored in the second half, the final goal coming with only five seconds left in the game.

Next on the schedule for the Irish will be two more home games, as they face Indiana-Purdue University this Friday, and then take on St. Joseph's College next Monday. Both games will be at Cartier Field beginning at 8 p.m.

AL-NL baseball round-up...

PHILADELPHIA [AP] - A pair of two-run homers by Dave Parker and a solo shot by John Milner powered Pittsburgh to a 5-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday night, snapping a five-game losing streak and reducing the Phillies' lead in the National League East to four games over the Pirates.

Parker, who started the game leading the league in hitting, third in RBI and fifth in home runs, struck the game-winning blow in the sixth inning, his 25th home run, that scored winning pitcher John Candelaria ahead of him. It gave Pittsburgh a 3-1 lead.

SAN FRANCISCO [AP] - Right-hander Burt Hooton baffled the San Francisco Giants with a five-hit and Dave Lopes knocked in four runs with a home run and double as the Los Angeles Dodgers romped to an 8-0 victory Tuesday night.

The Dodgers, who only managed three hits off loser John Montefusco, 11-7, won for the 11th time in 15 games and increased their National League West Division lead to six games over the Giants. The Giants have dropped seven of their last eight games.

Hooton improved his 1978 record to 4-0 against the Giants and registered his seventh straight victory while equalling his major league career high for victories with an 18-8 record.

DETROIT [AP] - Steve Kemp blasted a three-run homer in the first inning and Ron LeFlore and Rusty Staub hit solo shots in the third Tuesday night as the Detroit Tigers snapped New York's six-game winning streak with a 7-4 victory.

Detroit had built up a 6-0 lead for rookie Kip Young, 6-5. He was touched for a run in the sixth and then was ricked by a three-run homer by Reggie Jackson in the eighth inning before John Hiller came on to pick up his 13th save.

New York could have taken sole possession of first in the AL East with a victory, since first-place Boston dropped a 3-2 decision to Baltimore. Instead the Yankees remained one-half game off the pace. Yankees starter Dick Tidrow, 7-10, lasted only 2 1-3 innings.

BOSTON [AP] - Right-hander Dennis Martinez scattered three hits and the Orioles scored the winning run off Mike Torrez on a ground out as Baltimore beat the Boston Red Sox 3-2 Tuesday night.

Martinez, 13-11, handed Boston its 10th loss in 13 games, allowing only a single run in the first inning and Butch Hobson's solo home run in the fifth.

Baltimore scored an unearned run off Torrez, 15-10, in the fifth when George Scott and Hobson bobbled consecutive grounders and Torrez threw Andres Mora's sacrifice bunt into left field.

Torrez walked Ken Singleton leading off the sixth. After Doug DeCinces singled, Singleton scored on Eddie Murray's base hit to tie the game 2-2. Lee May knocked in the game-winner with a force out a second, scoring DeCinces.

Damned if he does...

Spectating

You had to feel sorry for Dan Devine. The Notre Dame head coach was damned if he did, and he was damned if he didn't. On 4th down and the football resting within the shadow of the Missouri goal line, Devine was faced with a hard decision. Should he send in Joe Unis, inexperienced under fire, to attempt a field goal that would break a scoreless tie? Or does he try to ram the ball in for six behind Notre Dame's mammoth offensive line?

If Devine opts for Unis, he is gutless and lacks confidence in offense, supposedly the strength of his team. But if he goes for the touchdown, he is foolish for passing up a near-certain three points in a scoreless game.

It's true, Devine was damned if he did, and he was damned if he didn't. But most of all he was damned because his players didn't.

Didn't block, didn't pass, didn't catch and didn't run.

Devine was damned because in the first half Joe Montana looked more like a prep team quarterback than a Heisman Trophy candidate. And he was damned because on the few occasions in the first half that Montana did get the ball to an open receiver, it seemed that the Irish offense was competing with the Irish defense for the lead in passes broken up.

But most of all, Devine was damned because his offensive line was stuck in neutral all afternoon. When the chips were down, so was Notre Dame's offensive line. Whether or not Devine was foolish to go for the touchdown on fourth-and-goal from inside the one is immaterial. What is important is that when the Irish needed a yard, they couldn't get it. Not once, but three times, Notre Dame failed on fourth-and-short.

There may have been instances of poor play-selection on the part of Devine and his aides Saturday afternoon; and questionable use of timeouts in the second half that left the Irish with only one in the final minutes didn't help either. But the point is that the Irish never should have been in the position where a single play could have made difference in the outcome of the ballgame.

I won't insult anyone's intelligence by restating the obvious, other than to say the Irish lost a game they should have won. Nobody needs to be told how damaging the loss was--the wire service polls are already out.

But at the same time, nobody needs to be reminded that the season is far from over. Thanks to Alabama's sour-grapes fans, nobody has forgotten last season's Mississippi game. And few people have forgotten the aftermath of that 20-13 loss to the Rebels—including the "Dump Devine" movement, complete with bumper stickers now covered by National Championship stickers.

Let's not be too anxious to peel off those top decals.
