House leaders meet, discuss FBI probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti met with House leaders last night and indicated his department will oppose giving evidence in the FBI's political corruption probe to congressional investigations.

Civiletti proposed the meeting with congressional leaders concerned about the FBI investigation, in which eight members of Congress have been implicated.

Following the session, the Attorney General said he had told the congressmen that the Justice Department will present to the House Ethics Committee Wednesday "the position of the department on preserving the integrity of the investigation and...the role of the Ethics Committee."

Asked three times if that meant he will refuse to turn over videotapes and other evidence implicating congressmen, Civiletti replied: "I will make no further comment."

But Justice Department officials said they traditionally have negotiated with committees to brief them on cases but have declined to turn over documents and other evidence until the criminal cases are closed.

Civiletti said Philip Heymann, assistant attorney general in charge of the department's criminal division, will present the Justice Department's position to the House Ethics Committee on Wednesday morning. The Statement might be given in public.

On Monday, Ethics Committees of both the House and Senate met to discuss reports that members of Congress were implicated in the FBI investigation. The chairman of the Senate Ethics panel informally asked Civiletti for Justice Department help with its own investigation.

The Senate panel met again Tuesday and its chairman, Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., said he hoped committee members would receive a briefing from Justice Department officials.

Before Civiletti's meeting with House members, Heflin quoted the Attorney General as saying it was possible that congressional and Justice Department investigations could be conducted simultaneously.

But late in the day, Heflin said he had no word on whether the Justice Department would cooperate with an investigation by the Senate Committee.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a member of the committee, said he hoped the lone senator implicated so far in the investigation, Harrison A. Williams, Jr., would agree to appear before the panel.

"Either it can be explained or it can't," Helms said. "I would hope he would appear voluntarily."

During Tuesday's meeting, Civiletti said he described to the House leaders the processes of the FBI investigation "without identifying names or specific cases."

The meeting with congressional leaders followed by several hours Civiletti's appearance before a Senate subcommittee where he ran into criticism because of the leak that led to publication of details of the FBI investigation.

Sources have said FBI undercover men posed as aides to a wealthy Arab sheik willing to buy favors from congressmen and other public officials.

In all, some 20 public officials and 10 businessmen and lawyers have been implicated, sources say. Undercover agents paid out almost $500,000 in cash, but sources said fewer than half the officials actually

Afghan rebels initiate new Soviet attacks

(AP) Anti-communist rebels, showing better organization and equipped with heavy weapons, have launched new attacks against Soviet troops in northeast Afghanistan's remote Badakhshan province, inflicting casualties on the Soviet units there, Western diplomatic sources in India reported yesterday.

The Soviet news agency Tass confirmed an upsurge in attacks since last weekend in Badakhshan and the other eastern provinces, Nangarhar and Paktia, but its report did not mention Soviet troops, saying instead that Afghan soldiers were "liquidating" the "bandit gangs."

The Tass report also described the enemy as "well armed," indicating that the ragtag contingents of Moslem tribesmen of just a few weeks ago may be giving way to a better coordinated rebel force.

In the Afghan capital of Kabul, some 100 shops burned down in a major fire early Sunday morning, Western diplomats in New Delhi reported. They said reports spread in Kabul that the fire may have been set to cover up a looting spree by Soviet soldiers.

In other developments: Tass denied as "monstrous misinformation" reports by the Christian Science Monitor and Newsweek Magazine that Soviet-led Afghan troops last April massacred more than 1,000 men in an eastern Afghan village whose inhabitants were accused of helping the rebels.

U.S. National Security Advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski ended two days of talks with Saudi officials in Riyadh, Saudi Arabia, and diplomatic sources there said the oil-rich kingdom is expected to help the United States finance a major program of military and economic aid for Pakistan as a result of the Soviet intervention in neighboring Afghanistan.

In a new reprisal for the Afghan operation, the U.S. Commerce Department blocked further shipments of phosphates, used for fertilizers, to the Soviet Union.

After talks in Paris, French President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt issued a statement calling the Afghan intervention "unacceptable," demanding that the Soviets pull out and saying East-West detente "would not withstand another shock of the same order."

An anti-communist Afghan militant, Khan Nassry, told a news conference in Geneva, Switzerland, he has proposed to Arab oil states that they raise oil prices by $1 a barrel to raise $2 billion in military aid for the rebels, fellow Moslems, in Afghanistan. Nassry identified himself as chairman of the Afghan Islamic National Revolutionary Council.

Festival retains full budget

by Bridget Berry

Doug Krietzberg, Sophomore Literary Festival chairman, said yesterday that the $13,000.00 budget they expected in the beginning of the year has remained intact.

Cultural Arts Director Dave Ellison commented yesterday that a budget cut had never been definite and that the release of this information was "nothing less than literary irresponsibility."

The "information" Ellison referred to was contained in an Observer article which appeared Jan. 24. The article reported on the basis of an interview with Krietzberg, that the Festival "anticipated" a $2,000 cut, but the plans for the cut were not yet definite.

Ellison commented that he was somewhat angered and totally surprised by the negative publicity given the Festival. He said that the overall cooperation of the Observer has been commendable and noted especially "excellent coverage" of the Blues Festival.

"There really is no story," Ellison insisted repeatedly. He said that all setbacks have been "expected disappointments." Planning and executing the Festival is a strategic game, he explained.

Inaccuracies appear after riot

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) - While more bodies were hunted in the still-smouldering ruins of the New Mexico State Penitentiary, a state official said yesterday many prisoners risked their lives to save hostages from the horrible atrocities inflicted on some inmates.

Furthermore, Felix Rodriguez, deputy secretary of criminal justice, said many of the convicts trapped in the weekend rioting should not have been there in the first place.

After revising the death count several times, officials said yesterday at least 36 inmates died - some of overdoses of drugs - in the 36-hour reign of terror, the most savage prison riot of modern times in this country. Thirty-nine had been reported dead at one time.

Inmates said a convict execution squad armed with blowtorches and axes killed some prisoners in a cellblock that held men identified as informants.

The murders, beheadings, torture and mutilations ended when state police and National Guardsmen moved in Sunday afternoon.

Warden Jerry Griffin placed the death toll at 33 yesterday. But three other officials said 36 were confirmed dead. Gov. Bruce King's press secretary, Jill Marron, said Griffin's total did not include three bodies found in the burned-out gymnasium.

Dr. James Weston, state medical examiner, said some of the 33 bodies examined by his staff had been mutilated, but he could not determine scientifically whether inmates had been tortured.

"Some had injuries suggesting torture, but nothing you could check with a microscope," he said at a news conference in Albuquerque.

Weston confirmed that one inmate had been decapitated and that another arrived with a rod through his head. He said he thought both incidents occurred after death.

He said mutilations were confirmed in a minority of the cases, but said most of the dead

Fire forces evacuation of South Bend Adams

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) - South Bend Adams High School was evacuated yesterday when fire broke out in a basement storage room. The 1,400 students were sent home for the day, and officials said it was undetermined whether the school would reopen today. The fire broke out in a room where theatrical costumes were stored, but was confined to a basement hallway. There were no injuries, and no immediate damage estimate was available.

American delegation heads to Iran for talks

NEW YORK (AP) - At the invitation of Iranian students holding American hostages, a delegation of 50 Americans prepared to leave for Iran yesterday to meet the revolutionaries for an "intensive dialogue." The delegation is understood to consist of people from across the United States who are sympathetic toward the Iranian revolution. It could not immediately be determined if the group had contacted the State Department, and a spokesman for U.N. Security General Kurt Waldheim said he did not believe the group had spoken to Waldheim.

Court blocks presentation of Pinto evidence

WINIMAC, Ind. (AP) - The prosecution in Ford Motor Co.'s reckless homicide trial was prevented yesterday from trying to show that the fuel system of the 1973 Pinto was an outgrowth of earlier designs that the automaker knew were unsafe. Pulaski Circuit Judge Harold R. Staffeldt said the state must first show that the 1973 Pinto was unsafe and then try to connect it with 1971 and 1972 models. The ruling "hurts like hell," said chief prosecutor Michael A. Cosentino, who has repeatedly been blocked from presenting evidence about any Pintos except those made in 1973. "We may have to go into 1973 (Pinto testimony) and back into 1971-72."

Cronkite plans to pursue other news areas

WASHINGTON (AP) - Walter Cronkite says he plans to leave his post as anchorman on the CBS Evening News next year and concentrate on other special assignments, according to a published report. Cronkite, in an interview published in today's edition of The Washington Post, said he wants to leave the anchorman job no later than November 1981, when his current contract expires. "I have no intention of leaving the air, it's just my intention to slow down a little and not be frozen to the daily grind," said the 63-year-old Cronkite.

had been "beaten and stabbed."

"I would say the injuries indicated there was a great deal of rage," he said. "It's not so much mutilation per se, it's more what we would call overkill. They inflicted more injury than necessary to kill."

Weston said the gymnasium and one dormitory at the prison remained sealed because they were so badly damaged by fire. As soon as firemen say the buildings are safe to enter, he said, forensic anthropologists will be sent in to sift through rubble for more bodies.

Col. Bill Fields, the commander of the National Guard unit called in to encircle the prison shortly after the takeover, said yesterday authorities were aware of what was going on inside, that the release of the first injured inmate Saturday left little doubt.

"A doctor told me the man had been cleavered in the head and his hands nearly chopped off. That gave me a pretty good indication," he said. "There most certainly was some talk about going in when the mutilations started, but our primary concern was that they had hostages and we wanted to do everything we could to get them (hostages) out alive."

The warden said the death count in the gymnasium "could go higher but that's speculation. It's pretty hot in there and we are really having to go over it closely."

Fr. McDonagh to speak tonight

Fr. Enda McDonagh, Huisking professor of theology at Notre Dame, will speak on "Justice and the Search for God" tonight at 7:30 pm in Carroll Hall at Saint Mary's. The lecture, sponsored by the Saint Mary's Committee for Social Justice, will address the issue of Catholic responsibility in an unjust world.

Mardi Gras revises plans

By Annmarie Storz

A campaign similar to the United Way campaign will be launched tonight with the hopes of bringing in revenue for the 1980 Mardi Gras raffle. Mike Day, business manager of Mardi Gras needs "full cooperation of all halls in order to recoup our losses"—losses due to problems in raffle ticket distribution earlier in the school year.

Although last week's effort to rectify the raffle situation caused a brief flurry of response, Mardi Gras is still behing in raffle ticket sales. "Usually we have $10-12,000, but right now we have close to $6,000."

Although everything is accounted for, Day said the committee stands to make $10,000 less profit than last year.

The proposal calls for co-operation of every hall in the ND-SMC community as well as the effort of each student. All ticket chairmen will meet at 6:30 p.m. tonight in Stephan Center, at which time tickets will then be sold and distributed by hall section leaders. The goal is to sell two tickets to every student, according to Day.

There is an added incentive in this new campaign which should stimulate competition between halls and increase cooperation of all students. The halls which sell the greatest percentage of tickets per person will stand to win cash prizes of $100, $50 and $25. All books sold in each hall will be labeled with the name of that hall giving them the chance to win the raffle prizes.

Day said he anticipates that "response should be at least as good or better than the United Way campaign because all revenue is going directly to student associated, local charities." He said he hopes that every hall "will get into the spirit of competition."

The Observer will print daily tables comparing the percentage of tickets sold in each dorm.

"Without the problems of the raffle, this might be a record year for Mardi Gras" said Day. Mardi Gras is under tight control this year," Day said, "and construction is going famously well—incredibly better than in past years." said Day. He said costs have been cut and dealer school attendance is "better than ever."

This campaign calls for a joint effort involving all students of the ND-SMC community. "The good thing about this campaign is that it will reach out to those students unable to purchase books before," said Bob Morin, chairman of Mardi Gras.

Tickets will be distributed tonight and the campaign will run until the night of the drawing. Off-campus students wishing to buy tickets may stop by Stephan Center or the Student Union/Student Government offices in LaFortune.

took money. Some transactions were videotaped by the FBI agents.

Besides state and local officials in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, sources say subjects of the FBI investigation include Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Reps. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y., Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J.; Michael D. Myers, D-Pa.; Raymond F. Lederer, D-Pa.; John W. Jenrette, D-S.C.; John P. Murtha, D-Pa., and Richard Kelly, R-Fla. Most of them have denied any wrongdoing.

In addition, a source close to the investigation has said a ninth member of Congress may be involved in the case.

But his source, who asked not to be named, said that at this time the ninth member does not appear to be the subject of further scrutiny, unlike the seven House members and one senator whose names became public over the weekend.

A source said Tuesday that "the cases of those eight will be presented to grand juries."

Civiletti, in his appearance before a House appropriations subcommittee Tuesday, ran into criticism from senators upset about news accounts of the FBI investigation.

"Reputations have been irreparably damaged," said Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nes.

Sen Lowell Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., told Civiletti: "The basic question here is that without any presentation to a grand jury, without any indictments, this is all out here in full view. Does it not make a fair trial very difficult?"

Civiletti said he shares the Senate's concern about leaks that led to revelation of the investigation and that is why he ordered an "intensive investigation" to determine the source of the news accounts.

But in general, he confirmed press accounts of the FBI probe saying they are "quite expansive and quite explicit."

He said he had heard that reporters were asking questions about the investigation, but said he was surprised by detailed press accounts he read over the weekend.

"I did not know the degree or the extent of the leaks or the number of organizations that were in possession of the facts or some of the facts," he said.

Assailant confronts student

A South Bend high school student attending an Upward Bound class on the Notre Dame campus last Saturday was confronted by a former boy friend and struck on the forehead, it was reported by Security.

Her assailant is a South Bend high school student not involved in the Upward Bound Program, and he ran off after brandishing a knife at the girl's escort.

The victim was examined at the Student Health Center and referred to her private physician. The incident occurred at 11:45 a.m. outside O'Shaughnessy Hall.

For low income families

Local accountants offer tax aid

by Pat Gallagher

Now in its ninth year of service to South Bend area residents, the Department of Accountancy's Tax Assistance Program is aiming to aid more than 1,500 low income families in the preparation of their tax returns. The program opened last night.

About 40 seniors in accounting along with law students and local CPA's are offering their expertise in tax assistance free of charge according to faculty coordinator Prof. Kenneth Milani. The students and the CPA's work in nine centers in the South Bend area. These centers are located in low income areas allowing for easier access by those in need of the service. There are also two "SWAT" teams who travel to homes and hospitals to prepare returns for people unable to make it to a center, Milani said.

This unique concept, as it was dubbed by the IRS in a recent report on the ND program, of going to the taxpayer instead of making the taxpayer go to them is helpful to their clients, according to Milani. "We want to make sure the taxpayer takes advantage of every option available. We can point out opportunities for the individual to save on his taxes," said Milani.

Student project chairman Dave Osborn agreed and added that last year the program did 1500 returns and generated $168,000 in refunds. "Hopefully we can help more people this year. The key is letting people know we are available," Osborn stated.

Osborn mentioned that the students involved also gain from the experience of working on the program. Students do not receive credit toward graduation, "they take it not for credit, but for the experience and the help they give people," according to Osborn. The service is also available to students who need help with their returns.

The centers will be in operation until the filing deadlines, April 15, Osborn said. Funding for the program is provided to the College of Business and the Department of Accountancy by grants from public accounting firms.

... Festival

Krietzberg attributes the cancellation of three authors—E.L. Doctorow, Sam Shepard and Mario Vargas Llosa—to "something inherent in the system."

Because the budget has always been limited, he said, agents are not employed and contracts with the artists have never been made. As engagements are not binding, Krietzberg explained, cancellations are typical. Fortunately, he said, cancellations this year have come well in advance of the Festival.

He added that substitutions should not be too difficult as the English department has been invaluable in providing information and "making contacts."

Krietzberg attributes his optimism about the success of the Festival to confidence in his staff. They hope to promote the Festival atmosphere, said Krietzberg, "We don't want this to be purely a lecture series. We are aiming for the exchange of ideas."

John Barth, novelist and author of a current book, "Letters," will open the Festival with a discussion and reading in the Memorial Library Auditorium at 8 pm March 9. He received the National Book Award for "Sot-Weed Factor."

English playwright David Hare will attend performances and discuss production of his current musical drama, "Teeth n' Smiles," which will be presented by the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Theater.

John Cage, composer and author of experimental poetry, including the current "Silence" will speak March 12.

Two noted poets, both Guggenheim Fellowship recipients, will share the Library stage March 14. They are Louise Gluck, author of "The House on Marshland," and Charles Simic, Yugoslavian born poet and translator, and author of "Charon's Cosmology."

Israel's John Auerbach and English poet Roy Fischer also plan to attend the Festival.

Krietzberg's staff is compiling the Festival program now and hopes to have it into the publisher within two weeks.

San Salvador unrest continues

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) - High school students occupied the Education Ministry and left-wing militants seized the Spanish Embassy yesterday in a double-barreled challenge to the beleaguered military-civilian junta.

No casualties were reported, but officials said some of the 20 militants who invaded the Spanish Embassy were armed and had taken nine hostages, including Ambassador Victor Sanchez Mesa.

The leftists reportedly were demanding four jailed comrades be released and Spain sever diplomatic relations with El Salvador.

Spain broke relations with neighboring Guatemala last week after peasants invaded the Spanish Embassy in Guatemala City on Thursday and 37 persons perished when a fire broke out in the building during a police assault.

A government spokesman said junta member Hector Dada Hereze assured the Spanish government in a telephone call to Madrid that security forces would not intervene in the embassy takeover here. No police were seen around the embassy.

About 100 youths who identified themselves as members of the Secondary Students's Revolutionary Movement entered the Education Ministry and claimed they had taken 1,000 hostages, including Education Minister Eduardo Colendres. There was no confirmation of the number of hostages.

It was unknown if any of the students were armed. A spokesman for the youths said the occupation was "peaceful" and the students demanded a 40 percent reduction in tuitions at private colleges, expanded enrollment at the free public universities and the firing of some ministry officials. The spokesman said the students ranged in age from 13 to 18.

Interhall

The men's doubles racquetball tournament is single elimination. Each match consists of three games (best-of-three series). The pairings for the tournament will appear every week in The Observer. It is the responsibility of each participant to contact their opponent and set up the match for each round. (Phone numbers are listed in parenthesis below). The results of the matches must be turned in, in person, to the interhall office before noon on the following Wednesday. Failure to report the results will mean disqualification of both participants. Results will be accepted only if the participants have filled out the proper insurance forms. Failure to fill out forms after the first week of the tournament will also mean disqualification.

Due to the design of the single elimination tournament, some participants will receive byes. Those listed as having a bye should check next Thursday's paper for their opponent.

The Women's Doubles Racquetball
 Tournament and the Handball Doubles
 Tournament are both double elimination.
 Each match consists of three games (best of three series). The pairing for these tournaments will appear each Thursday in the Observer. It is the responsibility of the participants to contact his or her opponents and set up a match in each round.

(Phone numbers are listed in parenthesis below). The results of these matches must be turned in, in person to the interhall office before noon on the following Wednesday. Failure to report the results to the Interhall Office will mean disqualification of both participants. Results will only be accepted if the participants have completed the proper interhall insurance forms. After the first round of the tournament, any participant who has not met the insurance requirement will be dropped from competition.
 Due to the design of a double elimination tournament, some participants receive "byes." Those participants receiving "byes" should check next Thursday's Observer for their opponent.

IMPORTANT!! In a double elimination,
 you are in the tournament until you lose twice.

Stephens speaks on scholarships, future of Notre Dame athletics

by Brian Beglane
Sports Writer

What is the future of athletics at Notre Dame?

The first open forum concerning that subject since the athletic department's announcement Jan. 16, which put a hold on all future athletic grant-in-aids except for football and basketball, was sponsored by the Grace Hall social commission last night in the dorm's pit.

Grace Hall president Curt Wesseln served as host for featured speakers Col. John Stephens, associate athletic director, and Joseph O'Brien, assistant athletic director and business manager. Also in attendance were captains from the football and hockey teams, and representatives from a host of other men's and women's sports, both of varsity and club status. Approximately 100 people were in attendance by the conclusion of the one and a half hour discussion.

"Where does all the money go?" said Stephens. "It goes to the general fund of the University. Fr. Joyce (Rev. Edmund P. Joyce, executive vice president) and the Board of Trustees are the ones who decide where it goes from the general fund."

"Our university has performed beautifully for many, many years--on the basis of self-determination. We have decided this is the way to go. Now we are confronted with bureaucracy. They (the government) are saying this is the way to run your university."

This would appear to be the crux of the controversy surrounding the future of Notre Dame athletics. The recent ruling from Title IX has put its university's administration into the position of not being able to control its own athletic budget. Changes must be made, and Stephens indicated a decision concerning those changes is imminent.

"Fr. Joyce will meet with the University's officials and Board of Trustees in the next fortnight," said Stephens. "The only thing I can tell you is that this whole matter is going to be wrapped up by them. Not everybody is going to be happy with the decision, but if you follow the track record of Notre Dame, it will be satisfactory to the majority of the people."

"What people?" was the retort of many in attendance.

"All of us," answered Stephens.

Who would be effected by the forthcoming decision seemed to be the concern of all the athletic interests represented at last night's discussion.

One major issue was the future of women's athletics.

"I am not going to say Notre Dame's philosophy of women's athletics will make you happy," said Stephens, "but the people who run this institution have decided that this (the present philosophy) is the way to go."

"I think they (the forces behind Title IX) are expecting Notre Dame to come up with a women's basketball team at the same level as the men's team. We don't have a physical education school--we don't strive to bring in great female athletes."

"Do you want us to go out and recruit great women's teams? Is this what Notre Dame wants? Are we going to become like a state school? We must propose to have our athletic programs function within the overall framework of Notre Dame."

Greg Meredith, captain of the hockey team, was the only speaker besides Stephens and O'Brien to make any speech last night. The hockey team received the most scholarships (20) of all the sports whose status are in question.

"I heard this indirectly," said Meredith, "but I heard from an official in student government that Fr. Joyce said one of the worst decisions he ever made in his tenure at Notre Dame was to create a hockey program."

"I think the entire conduct of the University in this whole matter has been abysmal. Someone is lying concerning the status of the hockey program. I just hope the University sees fit to come out with a firm statement soon and let us (the students) know what is going on."

Meredith received an enthusiastic round of applause for his statements.

Stephens also came out with a statement expressing optimism for a sport which has received little funds from the University thus far--soccer.

Kevin Lovejoy's sport is the sport of the future," said Stephens. "Soccer. It is the coming sport."

Yet Lovejoy later brought out the fact that the soccer team had to cancel a trip to play Loyola-Baltimore next season because there was no money in the budget for it. The soccer team does not have any scholarships under the University's present allocations.

"The athletic department will not make the final decision," said O'Brien. "Fr. Joyce and the Board of Trustees have the final say concerning the matter."

Irish await 'inexperienced' Jaspers

by Bill Marquard
Sports Writer

With scouting reports and medical reports in hand, head basketball coach Digger Phelps sends his charges onto the ACC hardwood for an 8 p.m. faceoff against the Manhattan Jaspers tonight.

Faced with the loss of five lettermen and three starters, two of whom combined to average 36.8 points per game last season, second-year coach Brian Mahoney's squad has managed to chalk only a 77-70 overtime decision against Wagner and a 55-54 win over Army into their otherwise bare victory column.

Sophomore guard John

Leonard paces the Jaspers with a 12.2 scoring average while backcourt classmate John Ward has scored at a 6.1 clip. Manhattan gives up a lot of height on the front line, with sophomore Brinton Huggins at 6-5 and junior Ducey Hughes at 6-2. The forecourt pair are averaging 6.9 and 8.8 points per contest respectively.

Senior center Vinnie Harris, at a comparatively small 6-7, chips in just over 11 points per contest from his middle position while clearing the board at a 7.3 mean.

"Manhattan has many young and inexperienced players," said Phelps. "They are going through a learning process, and that takes time."

At this point in the season, Notre Dame's team doctor is almost more qualified than Phelps himself to detail the team's upcoming performance.

The newest patient in the Phelps Infirmary is senior guard Rich Branning, who sprained his wrist in practice yesterday. The playmaking co-captain is not expected to play tonight.

Saint Joseph comes back to defeat Belles, 75-60

by Beth Huffman
Women's Sports Editor

RENNSALEAR, Ind. - St. Joseph's College came back from an early deficit to overwhelmingly defeat St. Mary's 75-60 last night. The Pumas were sparked by the outstanding performance of 6'2" center Pam Bell, contributing 20 points and 9 rebounds, and the quickness of guard Rhonda Hillenburg, who poured in 17 second half points in addition to her 9 steals on the evening.

First-half action saw St. Mary's pull ahead behind the strength of their fast break. The Belles rattled off an unanswered streak of eight points to give them their biggest lead of the game at 12-4 with 14 minutes remaining in the first half.

Then something happened to flip on St. Joe's switch and the Pumas came to life. The home team battled the Belles and nabbed a 15-14 lead midway through the period. The two teams continued to exchange the lead until the Pumas pulled ahead 36-30 at the half.

In the second half, St. Mary's came to life again. Tracy Hargreaves started the period out with a steal and proceeded to dribble down court for a lay-up. The Belles managed to stay within eight with a tough defense against the taller Puma team.

The Belles successfully shut out the play of Jennifer Boreis with box-in-one and man-to-man defenses. Belles' coach Jerry Dellassio termed her "the best player we faced all last year," but they could not manage to stop the rest of the Puma charges.

"We did a good job against Boreis, but we couldn't cut off the rest of the team. They really hurt us on the offensive boards," Dellassio added.

Regarding St. Mary's play, Dellassio said, "Our offense was sporadic and we had a lot of turnovers."

Anne Armstrong led the Belles with 14 points and five steals. Mary Bayless added 12 points while Hargreaves collected 8. Maureen King led St. Mary's in rebounding with 12.

The next action for the Belles will come this Thursday at 7:00 p.m. versus Goshen College at the Angela Athletic Facility.

Who has the answers?

The first headline read, "Where has all of ND's money gone?"

The second one read, "Is Title IX cause for ND cutback?"

Questions. That's what we have been presenting thus far. Although my name has appeared with the copy, I have been asking these questions which interest a vast number of people.

Last night in Grace Hall, the questions were flying. They came from athletes from teams with scholarships and without, from males and females, from team managers and other concerned students, concerned about the future of sports at Notre Dame.

And who was there to answer these questions? Colonel John Stephens, Associate Athletic Director, and Joseph O'Brien, Business Manager for the athletic department and Assistant Athletic Director. Some of their answers were adequate. The vast majority were not.

"With all due respect to your speaking ability, Colonel," responded Rhodes scholarship candidate and hockey co-captain Greg Meredith, "I don't think you've answered any of these questions satisfactorily."

There was an emotional push behind several questions. One girl who is not even a varsity athlete was genuinely concerned about the status of women in this much-talked-about "Notre Dame family." During Meredith's well-received, off-the-cuff presentation he said, "I have to wonder if this is the special institution you (Stephens) say it is when the hockey coach has to find out from a newsman that his recruiting for the year has been cancelled."

And as Stephens stumbled through one "That's a very good point, that's a really good question" after another, one point became painfully obvious. The man who should have been facing that firing squad of students wasn't even there.

Major athletic decisions at Notre Dame have been made by one man for a long time - Father Edmund P. Joyce, Executive Vice President of the University.

Perhaps the Colonel put it best when he said, "Father Joyce is number-one. He's like E.F. Hutton. When he talks, people listen."

We're listening, Father.
