Candidates announced for elections

By MIKE DUPLESSIE
News Staff

The final petitions for elective offices in the student government were completed Friday, as two candidates for Student Body President submitted the required 200-signature document.

Tickets for the office of SBP/SBVP are: Don Murdy and Tara Kenney; and Pat Borchers and Rosemary Canino.

Thirteen candidates are contesting for the five Student Senate seats. The races are summed up below:

District 1 - (St. Edward's, Lewis, Holy Cross, Carroll, Sorin, Walsh, and Alumni.) Ricardo Navarro, Clare Padgett.

District 2 - (Stanford, Keenan, Zahm, Cavanaugh, Breen-Phillips, and Farley.) Brian Callaghan, Edward Bylina.

District 3 - (Dillon, Fisher, Pangborn, Lyons, Morrissey, Badin, and Howard.) Robert Zimmerman, Tom Cushing, Carl Carney, Patricia Hiler, David DeJute.

District 4 - (Flanner, Grace, Villa Angela, Pasquerilla East and West.) Karen Corbett, Thomas Weithman.

District 5 - (Off-Campus.) Mike Schuster, Matthew Huffman.

Official campaigning begins Feb. 23 at 12:01 a.m., and ends March 2 at 11:59 p.m. The election will be held on March 3, and if a runoff is necessary it will be held on March 5. Voting will be held in the dormitories; people who are off-campus and wish to vote can do so in the LaFortune Student Center.

Paul Riehle, this year's student body president, praised the students for their interest in the election process. "I'm excited about the number of people running," he said.

Riehle urged the candidates to take their campaigning seriously, and urged voters to closely question all those who are running. "I hope that students will take the time to let the candidates know what they would like to see happen here at Notre Dame," he stated.

SMC elections

Platforms finalized

By MARY AGNES CAREY

SMC Governance Board considers publication

BY SUSAN KING
News Staff

The Liberator, a student government publication dealing with social justice concerns, was the main issue discussed at the Saint Mary's Student Board of Governance meeting yesterday.

The last Liberator topic was Child Abuse, and upcoming topics will be Alternative Careers, El Salvador and World Hunger.

Ambassador White, former ambassador to El Salvador, is scheduled to speak in O'Laughlin Auditorium in March. An awareness program is also being organized to make students aware of U.S. involvement in El Salvador.

In other business, Student Body President Kathleen Sweeney urged the board to "utilize the Snack Bar as a place of communication." A travel board has been organized in the Snack Bar to aid students who need rides or riders. A map, divided into regions of the U.S., has been set up with corresponding cards for travelling students to complete. Board members encouraged the use of the travel board for weekend trips or rides home for breaks.

The weekend of March 6-8 is Little Sisters Weekend. All students who plan to invite a little sister are asked to deposit $20.00 by Monday, Feb. 23, to the student activities office in LeMans Hall. All Saga meals are included, along with activities such as tubing, free admission to the film "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" and a reception following mass on Sunday. More information can be obtained from Student Activities.

Student Body and Class elections are this Thursday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in LeMans lobby and from 4:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. in the LeMans side of the dining hall.

Latest Vegas fire sparks arson concern

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK - The fire at the Las Vegas Hilton Hotel was not the only case of arson in the United States last Tuesday. There were 400 others. There will be 400 more today and 400 more tomorrow.

"Arson is an epidemic in this country," said Ed Wall, who teaches investigative techniques at the government's National Fire Academy in Emmetsburg, Md.

Indeed, Americans are setting fire to their homes and businesses, even their cars, in record numbers, prompting new anti-arson efforts by government agencies and private associations.

MONDAY FOCUS

Yet arson remains one of the toughest crimes for authorities to snuff out. The U.S. Fire Administration said an arsonist has less than one chance in 10 of being arrested, and less than one in 100 of being convicted.

In 1979, the last year for which complete statistics are available, there were 148,500 known cases of arson in this country, and tens of thousands of other fires which may have been started deliberately.

The National Fire Protection Association in Boston said those fires caused 675 deaths, an estimated 10,000 injuries and $1.3 billion in smoke and fire damage. And that does not include the U.S. Forest Service estimate that brush and forest arson cases caused $450 million in damage to the nation's wild lands last year.

The U.S. Fire Administration said the average arson caused $9,000 in property damage in 1979, nearly twice that of a non-arson fire. And figures still being compiled for 1980 are undoubtedly higher, authorities said.

Bruce Bogart of the American Insurance Association in New York said reported arson cases have increased by about 25 percent each year of the past decade.

"The biggest increase has been in cars. There were 63,500 cases of arson in automobiles in 1979, up 33 percent," he said. "People have these big old clunkers they can't sell, so they burn 'em up."

Aside from actual damage to structures, Bogart said, arson has the most serious economic "ripple effect" of any crime. He said jobs, income, sales and taxes lost to arson probably total $6 billion to $10 billion a year.

For instance, he said, the loss of several hundred Las Vegas Hilton guest rooms for three months of repairs will probably cost the hotel $6 million just in room fees.

"And what about hotel employees who will be laid off?" he asked.

The Las Vegas Hilton fire killed eight people, injured 198 others and caused an estimated $10 million in damage. Philip Bruce Cline, 23, a Hilton room service busboy, has been booked on one count of first-degree arson and eight counts of murder.

Doug Burdick, a claims consultant for the American Insurance Association, said member insurance companies recently spent $2 million for a computerized system to investigate fire reports.

He said the system turns up any earlier fires at the same location, undisclosed insurance policies and the names of people who have a history on collecting insurance on fires.

"The system costs $500,000 to $1 million a year to operate, but it's worth it to the insurance companies," Burdick said. "In terms of arson, it doesn't take long for millions to accumulate."

John Lynch, an arson specialist for the Fire Administration in Washington, said almost half of the nation's arson cases are blamed on vandalism, usually by teenagers who set fires to schools, churches, warehouses, apartment buildings and homes.

He said one-fifth of all arson cases involve "spite or revenge." An example would be the disgruntled employee or ex-employee who torches the factory or office building.

Lynch said arson for profit is blamed in only 14 percent of all deliberately started fires, but is responsible for half of the property damage from arson because it is often more thorough and professional.

In seven percent of the nation's arson cases, the motive is concealing a previous crime, such as a burglary or a murder, he said. Pyromania, the catch-all term for the mental defect of the classic "firebug," is responsible for 14 percent of arsons.

Lynch said pyromania includes "vanity" arson, such as a fire set by a

Charles K. Wilber, professor of economics, has received his third three-year appointment as chairman of the department, announced Timothy O'Meara, provost. A specialist in economic history and development, Wilber received his Ph.D. from the University of Maryland with a thesis on the "Soviet Model of Economic Development." He came to Notre Dame in 1975 as professor and chairman of economics, after serving on the economics faculty of American University in Washington, D.C. Wilber's most recent book, coedited with colleague Kenneth P. Jameson, is "Directions in Economic Development," a collection of essays treating the economic development of the Third World. The book was published by the Notre Dame Press in 1979. — AP

The fire at the Las Vegas Hilton last week was apparently not the work of only one person. Fire officials said they are convinced the four separate fires which started the blaze cannot all be linked to the prime suspect in the case — busboy Phillip Cline. The county's chief arson investigator, Mike Patterson, said it is possible the other fires were set by someone who "wanted to jump on the bandwagon." The fire killed eight people and injured nearly 200 others. — AP

Rev. Thomas E. Blantz, C.S.C., chairman of the Department of History at the University of Notre Dame, has been named winner of the 1980 competition for the best manuscript in American Catholic Studies. The annual competition sponsored by the University's Center for the Study of American Catholicism provides an award of $500 and a publishing contract with the Notre Dame Press. Blantz's manuscript, "A Priest in Public Service: Francis J. Haas and the New Deal," is a comprehensive study of a man who was both priest and public servant. Haas was an advocate of social justice who won national renown as a mediator of labor strikes. He held several prominent positions in the Roosevelt administration during the 1930's and also served on President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights. Blantz's study analyzes the work of this public servant, following Haas's career from his immigrant homestead in Wisconsin to his tenure as bishop of the Diocese of Grand Rapids, Mich. Blantz studied at the University of Notre Dame before pursuing graduate studies in theology at the Gregorian University in Rome. In 1968 he received a Ph.D. in history from Columbia University. He joined the Notre Dame faculty that year and subsequently served terms as vice president for student affairs and as archivist. He is a fellow and trustee of Notre Dame. — The Observer

President Reagan's proposed budget cuts could eventually result in the lay-off of more than 200-thousand federal workers — or one-tenth of the force. Newsweek magazine said it has learned that the cuts will be concentrated among federal regulatory agencies. A fire in a disco in Dublin, Ireland killed 48 young people on Saturday. Investigators suspect the blaze may have been set by local troublemakers out for revenge. There have also been reports from witnesses who say they saw two people lighting foam-backed chairs with matches minutes before the blaze broke out. — AP

Pope John Paul II is to fly to the Philippines tomorrow and will spend six days visiting nine of the Philippines' cities. The Manila government has only recently reached an uneasy truce with its most vocal critic: the Catholic Church. But opposition politicians are still protesting President Ferdinand Marcos' moves. Just a month ago, Marcos lifted martial after eight years. But he kept the greatest portion of his powers under than declaration — including the power to reimpose marital law. Although it has only been a month since marital law ended, Marcos has already proposed changes in the constitution which, opposition leaders say, would increase his powers. Eight of those legislators walked out of the National Assembly last Thursday to protest the proposed changes. Hundreds of political prisoners have been freed — in anticipation of the Pope's visit. Marcos has also promised to hold elections in May, as well as allow lawful strikes and protests. — AP

A danger to freedom

Last week, The Associated Press reported that an unnamed conservative group is hoping to re-establish a House Internal Security Committee to investigate terrorism in the United States. The group is claiming that "trained communist revolutionaries" were among the 125,000 refugees who recently immigrated from Cuba. The story went on to explain how Rep. Daniel Crane (R-Il.) has put together a fund-raising letter in order to start "an anti-terrorism campaign... because subversive terrorists are coming through America's open door right this minute."

Most people would agree that it is not unlikely that Cuban President Fidel Castro sent over revolutionaries to stir up some trouble here. Such a maneuver would be consistent with his tactics for overthrowing governments in Latin America.

After reading this story I agreed that we should be a little nervous about the situation. However, I don't think it is the possible subversive terrorists that we need to be afraid of. I'm more afraid of Crane's group.

As reported by AP, this House Internal Security Committee that Crane proposes would be the successor to the House Un-American Activities Committee (HUAC). That name takes us back some 20 years to the McCarthy witch hunt trials and the "Red Scare" of the '50s. It is also notorious for its investigations into anti-war demonstrators during the '60's. Since its disbanding in 1975, most people have forgotten exactly what HUAC did and what it stood for during the 30 years when it was a standing committee of the House. It had the power to investigate threats of subversion by any group in the U.S. and recommended legislation to the House. Its main interest was to search for Communist influence inside and outside of the government. However, it took on a broader search for conspirators against the government when it began investigating the war-protesters during '60s. Because of the amount of criticism the committee received over its investigative tactics, its name was changed in 1969 to the House Internal Security Committee. Despite the name change, the committee remained the same, spying, infiltrating and making unsupported charges against any groups or individuals who were critical of the government in any way.

These are the true products of the committee. Whether it managed to actually find any true subversives is unimportant in view of the number of innocent people that were persecuted and "blackballed" because of a comment made at a cocktail party or they had a friend who had "communistic" tendencies.

This persecution was at its worst during the McCarthy Era when the Red Scare was at its height. Most of that was the result of the extreme paranoia the people felt about communism. Today, most people are more tolerant of communists. It is not seen to be as powerful a threat to our government that it once was.

Inside Monday

Candidates run openly on the Communist Party ticket and they are no longer tarred and feathered in the press. If we learn from history, we would understand that separate, individual "conspirators" can do very little to undermine our government. They can never have the power or the resources to adequately infiltrate a political system as complex as ours.

Our government suffers far greater damage when the system violates its own values and beliefs. When the system begins to suspect and then persecute individuals because they differ from the status quo, it abuses the very freedoms it is trying to protect. When the artists, writers and actors who expressed a more radical view of the world were blacklisted and jailed for those views, HUAC was denying their freedom of expression. Many brave people during the 1950s and 1960s refused to cooperate with HUAC based on the principle that the investigations were an infringement upon their constitutional freedoms. These people refused to take the loyalty oaths that were forced upon them by employers because of the these implications.

The purpose of Crane's group for the reinstatement of the committee is not in itself dangerous. Terrorism in any form should be repressed. But this should not be at the expense of individual freedoms. Nor should it create such a panic of fear where citizens become suspect of their every word and move. The chance that the abuses that occurred under the original HUAC would be repeated is too great to allow another such group to surface again. The abuses of power that result from fanatics blinded by their righteousness was proven during the 30 years of HUAC existence.

The potential of terrorists in this country is not in itself a grave threat to the stability of our government. Pro-Castro groups have operated in this country for many years in the Cuban communities of Miami and New York. By themselves these and other groups, for example the Puerto Rican group FALN, present a minimal threat to the integrity of our government. The danger lies in our own overreaction and abuse of power in dealing with such groups through wholesale suspension of individual rights and freedoms such as occurred in the past under the HUAC. We are far more vulnerable from the fanatics within than we are from those without.

ND celebrates Corps' founding

By DAVID RICKABAUGH
Staff Reporter

Plans have started at the University of Notre Dame on a major celebration marking the twentieth anniversary of the Peace Corps, according to Admissions Director John Goldrick.

R. Sargent Shriver, the agency's first director, formally announced in a commencement address at Notre Dame in June, 1961, that the University would administer the Chilean Peace Corps Project.

One month later, a training program for 51 young men and women began at Notre Dame under the direction of Walter Langford, professor of Modern Languages, and one of the scheduled speakers for the March event. Included in the first group were nine Notre Dame and three Saint Mary's College graduates.

The University continues as a recruiting center for volunteers and is ranked in the top forty campuses for number of recruits today.

The Notre Dame observance will include a March 24 keynote address by an as yet unannounced speaker. Other talks and a panel discussion to explore the history of the Peace Corps, the implications for the future, the role of women volunteers, and the possible directions for the future are scheduled for the final day.

Current and former national leaders, several congressmen and senators who served as Peace Corps volunteers for two or more years, approximately 100 student leaders, graduates of the Notre Dame training program, faculty, and other former volunteers have been invited to participate in the March 24-25 observance.

Goldrick and his wife, Jacqueline, both former Peace Corps volunteers, are the campus chairpersons for the event.

The goals of the celebration have been listed by Rev. Theodore M. Hesbergh, C.S.C., university president. Hesbergh said that the anniversary provides an opportunity to reflect on the birth of the Peace Corps and the University's participation in assisting that mission through the years, as well as a time to consider what such reflection might mean for the 1980's.

John Kennedy cited the need for an organization such as the Peace Corps while campaigning for the presidency in 1960. He said, "There is not enough money in all America to relieve the misery of the underdeveloped world in a giant and endless soup kitchen. But there is enough know-how and knowledgeable people to help those nations help themselves."

The Notre Dame connection with the Peace Corps began within hours after President Kennedy signed an executive order on March 1, 1961, to establish the organization. Father Hesbergh was asked by Kennedy to submit a proposal for a training program.

night watchman who reports it or puts it out and is then hailed as a hero. Cline, the man arrested in Las Vegas, told a newspaper reporter at the hotel that he had been the first to sound the fire alarm and begin evacuating guests.

Lynch credited the quick arrest to Las Vegas' "arson task force," one of 200 set up around the country. The government helps train personnel and organize cooperation among fire and police departments, prosecutors and citizen groups.

"Until 1975, when we set up our task force, arson here was ridiculous," said Robert Davis, chief arson investigator for the fire department in Seattle, which formed one of the first task forces.

In the last five and a half years, he said, arson arrests and convictions have gone up and instances of arson have gone down.

to us often. We just didn't have the same intensity or enthusiasm, whatever you call it."

Valvano, in his first year as State's head coach following five seasons as the head man at Iona, related Saturday's game, and the performance of Woolridge, to last Wednesday's game with Virginia, and the performance of Ralph Sampson.

"Wednesday night we didn't want Ralph Sampson to get a dunk (with State up by one with three minutes to play) because of the emotional effect it would have on his team. He got none. Tonight we didn't want Woolridge to dunk for the same reason. I think he got about seven." He had three.

Irish coach Digger Phelps was pleased with his team's play on Saturday, but also took time to credit Valvano and his club.

"We played very well," said the Irish coach. "We had a good 40 minutes of basketball. We had great rebounding, and we made the foul shots we needed." The Irish connected on 23 of 28 charity tosses.

"I have a lot of respect for North Carolina State," Phelps continued. "The team was a little down after the game the other night — they had a chance to beat the number one team in the country. Sometimes you catch a team when they're flat. That's what we did tonight. But Jimmy (Valvano) will do a great job — he'll get it done. All they need is one good win over somebody."

Phelps went on to say that, "A key to the game was that they had only one offensive rebound in the first half. Then, when they scored the first four points of the second half, we called a timeout and readjusted things a little bit. That stopped their momentum. The players did a good job. We executed very well tonight, and played well offensively."

Another key to the game that Phelps failed to mention was that Notre Dame prevented things from getting close in the second half by shooting 80 percent from the field (12-15).

In addition, the Irish committed only 12 fouls in the contest, and the Wolfpack went to the line only three times, making one. Two of the officials were from the ACC.

Woolridge, whose 24 point total bettered his previous high of 23 in last year's Fordham contest, said that his scoring display was not the result of a conscious effort to really do anything different.

"I have been looking to score a little more lately, but the shots just happened to be there Saturday night. I've really been trying to work on my offensive rebounding, because when you get those, you're naturally going to open up the scoring a little more. We've been working on getting the ball inside more to Kelly or me. We've been shooting from the outside a little too much.

Mitchell, Bourjaily and Pagnucci states their major concern is to "increase student awareness in all that student government has to offer the students." The candidate's platform features a monthly Board of Governance newsletter and calendar, a reference guide to Student Government offices, and a Fine Arts awareness week in conjunction with the 25th anniversary of O'Laughlin Auditorium.

Student Body candidates Makens, Hulme and Kelly state they will "evaluate present Student Government programs and continue those met with approval from the student body and the administration." The ticket contains plans for a student union, an expanded Student Activities Programming Board (SAPB) and a student speaker series.

The Murphy, Lopez, Perreault ticket promises to "devote our time and abilities to the direction of the growing Saint Mary's community." The candidates divide their objectives into the areas of student, academic and social life, planning a cooperative escort service with Notre Dame, promotion and increased opportunity for volunteer services with credit and plans for more weekend activities on the Saint Mary's campus "to reverse the weekend exodus to Notre Dame."

Saint Mary's seniors, as well as underclassmen, can cast their ballots between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. in the Le Mans lobby, and also in the dining hall between 4:30 p.m. and 6 p.m.

SMC hosts prayer house

By LINDA WEEKS
News Staff

The Sisters of the Holy Cross have set aside part of the Saint Mary's campus for solitude and reflection. Mary's Solitude, a house of prayer and silence, is open to all who need a quiet place to reflect upon their relationship with God, themselves, and others, according to staff member Sr. Melanie. Mary's Solitude was founded six years ago in a garage behind Augusta Hall on the westernmost point of the campus.

Named after the order's founder Fr. Moreau's own personal prayer house, The Solitude, Mary's Solitude is completely renovated and houses several bedrooms, a large kitchen and dining hall, a spacious lounge, library, offices, and chapel.

"Mary's Solitude is a house of prayer, not a retreat house," Sr. Melanie said. "There are no organized activities or group programs, although counseling and spiritual direction are available on a one-to-one basis."

Mary's Solitude has a permanent staff, the Core Group, available to counsel spiritual and personal matters.

"The essence of Mary's Solitude is silence, solitude, prayer, and reflection," Sr. Melanie said. "There are no radios or other loud activities allowed. Even conversation between visitors is not encouraged."

The length of a stay at Mary's Solitude varies.

Laundry service and meals are provided with the help of donations left by visitors.

Although Mary's Solitude is based on contemplative prayer, the house does offer other forms of worship. There is the Liturgy of the Office every morning at 8:00, daily Mass at 4:45, and Vespers every evening at 7:00.

mile in Irish history. He eclipsed Ed Dean's 4:03.6 ND mile record which was set in 1966. It also qualifies him for the NCAA Championships in the mile. He had already qualified for the half mile.

Aragon's mile left both his teammates and his coaches with the impression that he can run faster — and break four minutes. One reason for this is that he ran each quarter mile faster than the previous one. His splits (quarter-mile times) were 64, 61, 60, and 58 seconds. Aragon obviously wasn't tiring and it may only take a faster-paced field to push Aragon below the four minute barrier.

"It's going to take a race where they run the half a little quicker," said Piene.

All-American teammate Tim Macauley commented, "He took it easy most of the race. His potential is limitless. He is definitely going to break four minutes. I think all he has to do is to get into a fast race."

The Blue Wave participated in an invitational over the weekend. See Sports Briefs on page 7 for details.

IN 1864, THIS PERSON TURNED DOWN OUR JOB OFFER.

Looking back at it, our friend appears rather shortsighted. In 1864, The Travelers had just started doing business. He was concerned about the uncertain world situation and decided to stick with a job with a future. So he turned down our offer and went on selling blacksmith supplies. The rest is history.

Our point is, in the hundred-plus years we've been doing business, The Travelers never lost faith in the future. Through good times and bad, we've achieved our growth by daring to innovate. In 1864, we were the first company to insure against accidents. In 1919, we were the first to offer aircraft liability insurance. In 1979, we were the first company to install the Distributed Claims Processing Computer — the fastest way there is to pay claims. We could go on, but you get the point.

Today, The Travelers is a Fortune 500 company with wide-ranging career opportunities in accounting, sales, engineering, underwriting, data processing,* finance. We're taking the lead to make sure no man or woman at The Travelers is shortchanged when it comes to having an equal opportunity to succeed.

Our Representative will be visiting your campus on February 23. Your Placement Director has additional information.

At The Travelers, we're ready to meet the future, starting yesterday.

'Tree' leads Irish past Wolves

RALEIGH, N.C. — Outplaying North Carolina State in virtually every facet of the game, Notre Dame cruised to a surprisingly easy 71-55 victory here at the Reynolds Coliseum Saturday night.

In running their record to 18-4, the Irish outshot, outrebounded, and outplayed Coach Jim Valvano's Wolfpack club.

Senior tri-captain Orlando Woolridge had the best offensive output of his career in helping Notre Dame avenge last year's 63-55 loss to NC State at the ACC. The 6-9 native of Mansfield, La. scored 24 points on eight of nine shooting from the field, and eight of ten at the free throw line.

Woolridge also led Notre Dame with eight rebounds and two blocked shots.

All-American candidate Kelly Tripucka and senior teammate Tracy Jackson also scored in double figures for Coach Digger Phelps' club.

Tripucka, a .573 field goal shooter, hit on only two of seven shots from the floor, but connected on 11 of 12 free throw attempts for 15 points. The Essex Fells, N.J. native also hauled down seven rebounds.

Jackson, as he has done so many times against Athletic Coast Conference foes in his career, played another steady game, hitting seven of nine from the floor, and both of his free throw attempts, for 16 points.

NC State, which was coming off a disappointing and controversial 51-46 loss to number-one ranked Virginia on Wednesday night, also had three players in double figures.

Sophomore forward Thurl Bailey, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, scored 13 second-half points and finished with 17. He also collected four rebounds.

Scott Parzych, a 6-7 junior from Lockport, Ill., scored eight first-half points and wound up with 14, while 6-0 sophomore guard Dereck Whitteberg added ten.

Sidney Lowe, a teammate of Whitteberg's at DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C., handed out eight assists in the contest.

NC State led only twice in the game, at 2-0 and 4-2, on baskets by Parzych and 7-0 center Craig Watts. But from that 4-2 deficit, Notre Dame went on a 12-0 tear, and were pretty much in control the rest of the way. Tripucka's first two free throws of the night, at the 15:55 mark of the first half, gave Notre Dame a lead that reached 11 points at halftime, and 21 points late in the second half.

State did make a run at the Irish late in the first half, pulling to within four points at 24-20. But a travelling call prevented them from pulling any closer, and Notre Dame went on an 11-4 spurt to take that 11 point lead into the locker room.

Big reasons for Notre Dame's first-half success were a 54.5 field goal percentage, a 91.7 percentage from the line, and a lack of turnovers (they committed only two in the period.)

Thurl Bailey scored the first four points of the second half to pull the Wolfpack to within seven, but that was as close as they would come the rest of the way.

The Irish scored the next six points to take a 41-28 lead, and coasted the rest of the way, handing State its 11th loss in 23 games.

After the game, Wolfpack coach Jim Valvano, credited Notre Dame as being "as good as any team we've faced," including Virginia, whom the Wolfpack has faced twice this season.

"They have great senior leadership," he continued, "and (John) Paxson is a very nice floor general. They put it to us early and they put it

Runs record mile Aragon stars in Big State Meet

By Earl Rix
Sports Writer

Chuck Aragon's record-breaking 4:03.11 mile highlighted a fine team performance by the Irish in Friday's Big State meet in Bloomington, and prompted Irish head coach Joe Piane to predict that "Chuck Aragon will be Notre Dame's first sub-four minute miler."

The Irish placed third in the five team meet with 44 points. Indiana won the meet with 75 1/2 points. Purdue nosed the Irish out of second with 46 team points. Fourth place Indiana St. and fifth place Ball St. tallied 42 1/2 and 25 points respectively.

Both Irish coaches were enthusiastic about the team's overall performance. "It happened to be the finest team performance by ND in many years," said sprint coach Kelly. "Very rarely have I seen as many people compete as well as this," said Piane.

Irish running back Greg Bell turned in a fine 23-11 1/2 long jump to finish third. Paul Jorgensen took second in the triple jump with a personal best of 47-8. In his first college meet, Irish griddler Rob McGary put the shot 50-4 1/4, but missed placing by 1/2 inch. Andy Dillon likewise turned in a good performance but failed to place by running a 9:11 two mile.

Aragon won both the 1000 yds. and the mile. Sophomore Jim Moyar ran well and took third place in the 1000 yds. Jacques Eady finished third in the 600. Tim Macauley and Rick Rodgers finished second and third in a very close half mile.

The Irish took three places in the 60 yd. high hurdles. Dave Bernards took second, John McCloughan third, and Tim "Pierogie" Twardzik finished fifth. The mile relay team of Eady, Aragon, Rodgers, and Macauley took second place with a time of 3:20.18 in what coach Kelly called "the best performance in the mile relay since we (Piane & Kelly) have been here."

The level of competition at Bloomington was very high and several outstanding performances were turned in. Hoosier frosh Dave Volz vaulted 18-2 1/2 to set a meet, Big-Ten, and junior world record. Ron James, another IU frosh, won the high jump with a leap of 7-2 3/4.

Despite the many fine performances, coach Kelly cited Aragon as the meet's outstanding performer. "Chuck was the outstanding performer because he ran well in three different events," Kelly added, "He set a school and meet record in the mile with 4:03.11. He also won the 1000 yd. run with a time of 2:11.8 and ran a leg on the mile relay team that finished second. He had a spectacular night."

Icers sweep series from Michigan State

By BRIAN BEGLANE

EAST LANSING — The Notre Dame hockey team may still be in ninth place in the Western Collegiate Hockey Association, but don't let that fool you.

The Irish took one giant step toward the WCHA playoffs this weekend with their first league sweep of the season, a pair of 4-2 victories over Michigan State Friday and Saturday here at Munn Ice Arena.

With Colorado College splitting with Wisconsin and Minnesota-Duluth getting swept by Michigan, Notre Dame made up a lot of ground between itself and eighth place in the WCHA, the final qualifying spot for post-season play. The Irish now trail No. 8 Duluth by just one point while Colorado is three points in front. Just two weeks remain of the regular season.

Notre Dame faces Colorado College in a crucial showdown this Friday and Saturday at the ACC. Faceoff is 7:30 each night and plenty of tickets remain available.

Minnesota-Duluth, meanwhile, must face first place Minnesota this week in Minneapolis.

"We needed this sweep desperately," said Irish Coach Lefty Smith. "Everyone gave 100 percent. We had to come from behind both nights and it was encouraging to see us do that."

Bob Martin gave the Spartans a 1-0 lead seven minutes into Friday's contest when he beat Irish goalie Bob McNamara on a 25-foot slapshot from the right wing.

McNamara, who made three saves in the first period, then came alive in the second period. He made 12 saves and blanked the Wolverines while Notre Dame came back flying.

Play became rough at 11:43 when three separate skirmishes broke out and three players from each team entered the penalty box. The fast-skating Irish capitalized on the ensuing three-on-three skating situation for two quick goals and a 2-1 lead.

Junior defenseman John Cox, playing his best series of the year, set up both goals. He blasted a slapshot from the right point on MSU goalie Ron Scott and Jeff Logan put by the rebound at 13:45 for a 1-1 score.

Kirt Bjork made the score 2-1 just 45 seconds later when he deflected a centering pass from Cox over the right shoulder of Scott.

McNamara held strong when Michigan State came up with two power plays late in the period and Dan Collard scored what proved to be the game-winning goal at 19:22 on a breakaway.

Dave Lucia set up the score when he flipped the puck out of the Irish zone and Collard stole it from MSU's Gary Haight at the Spartan line. Collard drilled the puck through Scott's legs for a 3-1 lead.

Frank Finn made the score 3-2 at 5:50 when he stole the puck in front of McNamara and caught the upper right corner.

But Logan gave the Irish a cushion again just 23 seconds later when he beat Scott on a 25-foot wrist shot.

McNamara totaled 23 saves while Scott made 21.

Saturday's comeback was much more dramatic. MSU jumped out to a 2-0 lead with second period goals by Craig Lakian (at 1:37) and Joe Omiccioli (at 5:53). Cox made it 2-1 at 15:19 with his first goal of the year, a short-handed tally.

SMC wins one, loses two in Wisconsin tourney

Saint Mary's picked up a win and two losses over the weekend at the University of Wisconsin Basketball Tournament. The performance was good enough for fourth place and gives the Belles a 12-9 record. The Belles face Grace College tonight at 7:00 in Angela Athletic Facility.

The team began the tournament Friday night by clobbering Ripon College, 70-44. According to Saint Mary's coach Jerry Dallesio, the game was won in the second half.

"We were only up 33-25 at the half," he said. "I got some good play from the bench in the second half and I think that really boosted the team."

Gretchen Meyer led the Belles in this first-round contest with 12 points. She was followed by Anne Armstrong with 11 and Maureen King with ten. Kim Works headed the team in rebounds, pulling down nine.

In the first of two games on Saturday, the Belles were demolished by the eventual champion Wisconsin-Green Bay, 88-36. King led the team in scoring with just ten points.

"Wisconsin was undoubtedly the dominant team in the tournament," Dallesio commented. "We stayed with them for awhile, but their strength and strong shooting got the better of us in the second half.

"We only shot 31 per cent," he continued. "That has to be our worst percentage for the whole year. They were just too much for us."

Finally, in a close game, Saint Mary's took Saint Norbert's all the way to the wire before losing 64-62 in overtime. Armstrong had another strong game with 18 points and six rebounds. King scored another 14 and Mary Pat Sitlington threw in 11 for the Belles.

"We probably played our best game for a losing effort," Dallesio said. "We were consistent, played a strong defense and didn't foul as much as we used to."

"I'm finally starting to see the experience of the season pay off," he continued. "We've cut down on some of our turnover problems and our biggest improvement has been in consistency."

"However, we still need to work on avoiding three-second violations in the key," Dallesio concluded. "They've been bothering us all season."

In addition to their fourth place finish, the Belles Armstrong was placed on the All-Tourney Team. Saint Mary's will play one more home contest later this week before preparing for the District Tournament in Fort Wayne.
