Mother of 20 discusses family, work

Editor's note: Dorothy DeBolt, mother of 20 children, author of one book and subject of two recent films, spoke at Saint Mary's last week as part of Women's Opportunity Week. She was interviewed by Observer Staff Reporter Anne Jane Dregalla.

Q&A

Dorothy DeBolt

Q: What do you think of the Women's Movement and its tendency to draw women away from the home?

A: I think that it is very possible for women to have both a family and a career. I think it's a matter of establishing priorities. As a mother of 20 I have precisely both, and I revel in it. I think it's a matter of organizing one's time and determining what you have to forego to be able to achieve both. I am very much in support of the women's movement, in the search for equal rights in all respects. This is tremendously important. I fully support the Equal Rights Amendment.

Q: What is your advice for young women trying to decide those priorities, between a family and their job?

A: There are those of us who have great capabilities with children and raising a family who instinctively relate to the idea. I loved it. On the other hand, I would have been terribly frustrated had I not been able to use my artistic abilities. I happened to be able to use them in the same environment; being with my children, and yet using those abilities. I think the young woman who finds that she really does not relate too well to children once having had them, probably should not have more. Also, she should do her darndest then to find an environment which is the best one for that child while she seeks to do something with her life. I think it is probably worse for a mother, so totally frustrated with staying at home with the child, to be a martyr and say 'I am sacrificing to stay home with my child', because she can do more damage than good to the child in her frustration. I think that some cases of child abuse come about from that kind of thing. On the other hand if she can possibly work out keeping her own ego intact, keeping her own career to whatever degree she can and still cope with her child, that is the best.

Q: What kind of outside help do you employ?

A: We don't. We have no outside help. Our help is the whole family. Again, it's a matter of organizing and getting us all to learn how to do everything. We have no sexist roles in our household. We feel its terribly important that we all learn how to do everything, earn a living, go out and mow the lawn — and the boys

Young lectures on Reagan foreign policy

By KELLI FLINT

Senior Staff Reporter

Former United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young discussed the foreign policy of the Reagan administration Saturday in the Center for Continuing Education.

Young said that he believes that the problems in America today are the result of the loss of American ideals and values.

"In my travels as ambassador, I found that the people causing the trouble had either been educated in the United States or were educated by missionaries from the U.S."

Young added that the Soviet Union is not responsible for many of the political crises in countries such as El Salvador.

"We do ourselves a disservice by accrediting most political upsets to the Russians", he said. "You can't have a country where fourteen families own most of the land and a church where we all declare ourselves God's children without expecting people to raise questions as to why they're hungry."

"No matter what administration is elected, I don't think that we can repeal the notion that the American government is on the side of human rights. We will never be able to reverse the American's respect for human life."

Young stressed the need for peace in order to maintain economic success on the foreign market.

"We need stability through peace in order to be able to sell our exported goods and services," he said. "In this instance the Russians are no match for us. The more we move towards peace, the more competitive we are in the economic market."

"Our competition is not Russia, but Japan and Germany. While we were developing tanks during the Japanese were developing cars that could run 35 miles on one gallon of gasoline. The current demand is for those cars."

"We forced countries like Japan and Germany into peacetime development. Now they are economically stable. Their governments cooperated on the international market, and have developed 'export expertise'."

"The United States will have to expand their business interests. There is currently a conflict between American interests and ideology."

"We have a 'reactive' foreign

Workshops and counselors

SMC Career Center aids students

By CATHY DOMANICO

SMC News Editor

Study skills workshops, interview workshops, human sexuality workshops and Freshman seminars are only a few of the workshops and groups offered by the Counseling and Career Development Center at Saint Mary's.

Career Planning/Placement

MONDAY FOCUS

Services and Personal Developmental Counseling are provided to Saint Mary's students alumnae, faculty, staff and their families.

Mary Elizabeth DePauw, Director of the Center explains that the program developed in 1978 when the counseling center and career center were combined. This union encouraged students to come to the center to discuss personal or career issues. The focus of the Center is to learn growth and planning skills through workshops, groups and counseling.

On the personal level, students are encouraged to talk to the counselors about the ups and downs of college life. According to counselor Tony Campbell, "we work with a range of problems from suicide attempts to boyfriend problems." "But," he continued, "the majority of the students who seek personal counseling are dealing with one or more of the seven developmental tasks faced by all young adults (which are) a normal part of growing up."

Achieving competence is the first of the developmental tasks. It involves the development of intellectual and social abilities, as well as physical and manual skills. The young adult must also face the initial task of becoming aware of personal feelings and emotions. Without emotional independence mature autonomy can not be achieved. Often, a young adult has difficulties coping with problems without the aid of others and the counselors at the Center help individuals deal with this.

The fourth developmental task for college students is establishing identity. Identity is confidence in the ability to maintain continuity. To establish this, the student must understand his own characteristics, physical needs and be sure of his sexual identification.

Once personal identification is established, a student should be able to express greater trust, independence and respect for others. Developing tolerance for a wide range of persons is an important aspect of this task.

Clarifying purposes and developing integrity are the last of the developmental tasks. To develop purpose an individual must formulate plans and priorities dealing with interests and lifestyles. The task of developing integrity involves making one's values more personal. Individuals must provide a set of beliefs to be used as a guideline and begin to live accordingly.

These developmental tasks are a normal part of the maturation process. Often college students have difficulties achieving them. Along with DePauw and Campbell, the Counseling and Career Developmental Center is provided with other counselors like Mary Theis and Pat McQuinn who confidentially help students through these growth processes. DePauw is a certified psychologist, and a psychiatrist is on hand if necessary.

It is just a myth that the Career Center is only for Seniors. In fact, DePauw stresses the importance of early career development. The Center provides workshops and counseling for all classes.

For all students having academic difficulty, the Center designed a voluntary program with Teresa Marcy, Dean of Academic Affairs, and Susan Vanek, Freshman Academic Advisor, to teach students skills for academic survival. Study skills, time management and test taking skills are only a few of the

Heppen cancels lottery; overcrowding continues

By JOHN M. HIGGINS

News Editor

There will be no lottery of on-campus housing space this year, University Director of Housing Michael Heppen said Friday. Heppen explained that a sufficient number of students had decided to live off-campus to avoid a lottery.

The possibility of a lottery was announced in February after a record number of students submitted contracts for on-campus housing next year. Heppen had set this Friday as the deadline for students to renege on their contracts without the standard $150 and $50 deposit forfeit.

The overcrowding problem in the dormitories has not been completely eliminated, however. Some students will be required to live in the study lounges of Grace and Flanner Halls, Heppen said. "The largest number of returned contracts were in Grace and Flanner," Heppen said. "Some upperclassmen will be required to live in study lounges on floors 2 through 11."

Heppen affirmed that no incoming freshmen would be required to live in the quadruples rooms.

A release from the Housing Office states that in the future juniors will be issued residence contracts "on a space available basis" and that a committee would be formed next fall "to study the various options."

Heppen declined to comment on the makeup or function of the committee.

President Reagan, still running a mild fever, received detailed briefings on the Polish crisis and paid tribute to the Secret Service agents who protect him. Visited by wounded Secret Service Agent Timothy McCarthy in the presidential suite, Reagan instructed the agent that when his children visit him, "You tell them this: their father put himself between me and that guy. I'm proud there are guys around to take those kinds of jobs." The president was described as, "very alert, telling stories and laughing." Hearing about progress being made by the others wounded in Monday's assassination attempt — White House Press Secretary James S. Brady, District of Columbia police officer Thomas Delahanty, and McCarthy — Reagan said: "That's great news, just great, especially about Jim. We'll have to get four bedpans and have a reunion." — AP

Poland's Parliament postponed the start of its spring session on grounds Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski was "temporarily indisposed," and leaders of the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact were reported considering a summit that could decide whether to intervene in Poland. Talks with Polish farmers hoping to form an independent union also were adjourned. A western diplomatic observer in Warsaw said there were signs of increased communications installations in the Polish capital and some indication that "things are not absolutely normal." But the observer, who requested anonymity said he did not foresee a Soviet intervention. — AP

Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr., arriving in Cairo on the first leg of his Mideast mission, met some resistance to his proposed Persian Gulf "strategic-consensus" stretching from Pakistan to Egypt. The U.S. perception that outside threats to the Mideast are of global concern is not accepted by the Egyptians, said an Egyptian official who attended talks between Haig and Foreign Minister Kamal Hassan Aly. The official, who declined to be identified, said there was opposition to stationing U.S. forces in the Sinai Desert as a peacekeeping presence. He also ruled out a formal agreement for U.S. use of the Ras Banas navy and air base on the Red Sea for a rapid deployment force. The official said this would be the same as giving the Americans a base, which the Egyptians are unwilling to do. — AP

Gale W. McGee, United States Ambassador to the Organization of American States (Pan-American Union), will discuss Latin America: New Dimensions for the 1980's on Monday, April 6 at 7:30 p.m. in Carroll Hall at Saint Mary's College. The talk is open to the public without charge. From 1959 to 1977 McGee served as a Democratic United States Senator from Wyoming. In the Senate, he chaired the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, and was also a member of the Appropriations and Foreign Relations Committees. The author of several books and articles on international relations, McGee has served as United States Senate delegate to the United Nations and several international events. He holds a Ph.D. in American history from the University of Chicago and has taught at several universities, including Notre Dame. Ambassador McGee's visit is sponsored by the Saint Mary's government department and government club with assistance from the Organization of Former Members of Congress and the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation. Ambassador McGee will also speak to various classes during his visit to the College. — The Observer

A convict accused of drowning a state prison warden and fatally shooting the manager of the prison's farm apparently feared he was going to be beaten for breaking a rule. The suspect, Eroy Edward Brown, 30, was hospitalized in good condition at the maximum-security security Ellis Unit outside Huntsville with a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the foot. Officials said Brown, serving a third term for armed robbery, will be charged today with killing Warden Wallace M. Pack, 54, and prison farm manager Billy Max Moore, 49. Pack apparently was beaten and drowned, and Moore was shot to death with the warden's pistol. Brown tried to break free from the officials, apparently fearing he was to be taken to "the bottoms" — a part of the prison farm — and beaten, an unidentified deputy told the Dallas Morning News. — AP

Calvin M. Bower will succeed Professor William Cerny as chairman of the Music Department next September. Bower is currently serving as music professor at the University of North Carolina where he directs the Schola Cantorum, a vocal group which performs medieval liturgical pieces. Bower hopes to make this background work for Notre Dame and looks forward to developing the University's potential as "the national center for development of liturgical music in the Catholic tradition." Cerny will continue to expand his radio programs presently airing in Philadelphia, Barian Springs and Augustana College after his departure from Notre Dame. While still residing in South Bend, Cerny will do research to aid the advancement of the Notre Dame graduate music program. — The Observer

'The Tube' faces test

Television is in trouble. For an industry that is based upon the creation of fantasies, the fantasy of captive and passive audiences is quickly coming to an end. Networks, producers and advertisers are feeling the pressure of militantly dissatisfied audiences.

For years, television audiences have eagerly swallowed whatever the networks pumped out. The networks abandoned creativity for silliness and audience ratings. Imitation is the key to success. If a show worked once, it will work again. And again, and again. Violence and jiggle came in. Quality took a rear seat.

Those good old days are gone. As socially conservative groups such as the Moral Majority and the National Conservative Union have risen into the public's eye, the few voices that have ever bothered to protest "immoral" television programming in the past have gathered new strength. At the forefront of this movement is the Coalition for Better Television (CBT.)

By June 1, the CBT will have monitored all network prime-time television programs over a three-month period.

The coalition will compile any incidents of explicit sex, vulgarity and profane language broadcast, and list the 10 "most constructive" and "least constructive" programs. The CBT will then construct a "hit list" of advertisers who are judged to be insensitive to the moral character of the country and declare a nationwide boycott of their products.

The idea of boycotting television advertisers is not a new one. Violence on TV was the focus of a boycott by the National Parent and Teachers Association and other education lobbies during the mid-'70s. Those groups were upset that programs like Starsky and Hutch and Baretta were teaching children that violence was an acceptable behavior. While these shows eventually were pulled off the air, it was due more to old plots and tired scripts than to the effectiveness of the boycott.

The difference today is the mood of the country. People are running scared of Rev. Jerry Falwell and his Holy Crusade. Every politician in the country shivers at the thought of being one of Rev. Falwell's Chosen People. The conservative and evangelical groups have proven to be the most effective campaigners and lobbyists in politics. Never mind their tactics, they are effective.

Utilizing the methods and mailing lists compiled by these groups, the CBT has a tailor-made audience for its campaign. Their boycott will be an emotional appeal to those who see moral permissiveness as the greatest weakness of society. They decry the sexual explicitness of today's media as the major force in the degradation of Christian values in a moral society. The same people who helped defeat Jimmy Carter, Birch Bayh, Frank Church and George McGovern will try to clean up television's act.

They will not be unopposed, however. Producer Norman Lear, the man who brought us All in the Family and Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman, has formed People for the American Way, a group aimed at combating the power of the CBT, the Moral Majority, and other evangelical/political groups. He enlisted the assistance of religious leaders around the country, including Notre Dame President Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, to counter the fundamentalists' influence and produced a series of television commercials focusing on the right to free expression that aired across the country last fall.

"I felt that something had to be done about this growing climate of confusion," Lear said in an interview published this month. "People were having views forced on them through the evangelical television shows and their mail campaigns. They were being led to believe that they were bad Christians if they didn't have certain views about gay rights, abortion, the recognition of Taiwan, the E.R.A., etc. We addressed our organization to the climate, not the issues. We wanted people to believe they had a right to their own opinions, regardless of what they were."

The fight has been fairly quiet so far. Sparks of rhetoric have flown, but no real gunshots yet. The evangelicals are not taking Lear's organization lying down, though. In a recent fundraising letter, Rev. Falwell proclaimed People for the American Way "probably the most dangerous and vicious effort ever launched against the use of radio and television for the propagating of the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

Television does need help. But not by Rev. Falwell and his Holy Terrors. In principle, the evangelicals have every right to wage their campaign against tasteless television. They are interested not in Christian philosophy, but political philosophy. They are hypocritical in their claims that Christianity entails support for Taiwan and the dismantling of détente. They properly oppose abortion, but paradoxically support capital punishment. I resent their attempts to control the media to their own ends. Society is best served by the free expression of all ideas. While television is not even close to being perfect, it permits this free expression. Rev. Falwell should appreciate that freedom more. After all, that's where he got started.

For Fellow

Seniors choose Hunter

I'm speechless and for me that's quite unusual. I'm surprised and pleased. It's really an honor. These were the words of Rich Hunter when he was told that the senior class had elected him Senior Class Fellow. Hunter, a Notre Dame professor and coach, is the 13th person to be named Senior Class Fellow.

Hunter is known for assisting students both inside and outside the classroom. As one student put it, He helps us out with more than just school work. I think he's a great guy. He's always available.

Another student added, In his classes he's concerned about the students, not just pushing through the material.

A native of Belmar, New Jersey, Hunter received his undergraduate degree from Notre Dame in Government and International Studies in 1971. In 1972, he received his master's in International Economics from John Hopkins. Hunter graduated from the Notre Dame Law School in 1976.

As Assistant Professor in the Business School's Management Department, Hunter teaches the Legal Environment of Business and Business Law, and a graduate course entitled Legal Problems in Business.

Along with his teaching responsibilities, Hunter also coaches varsity soccer. Since 1977, Hunter built Notre Dame's soccer program, and compiled an impressive 77-21-3 overall record.

Besides being a teacher and coach, Hunter also helps many students with legal matters free of charge. This is one of the many ways Hunter shows his interest and concern for Notre Dame students. Hunter is Supervising Attorney for the Notre Dame Legal Aid and Defender Association.

Hunter will be honored during Senior Week. Information will follow about the plans for these events at a later date.

Questions safety

McDonnell kills Mass Assassins

By ELIZABETH CLAY
News Staff

"I think we may have goofed, allowing the game", James McDonnell, director of Student Activities, said concerning the Mass Assassins game for An Tostel.

McDonnell said that for "reasons concerned with the safety, maturity and general psychology of the game...Dean Roemer has asked that I discontinue it next year."

McDonnell cited several specific incidences to back this reasoning, including the report of one student hiding out in an office for an entire day.

In a recent issue of On Campus Review, an article by Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, a well-known child psychhologist, stated the harmful effects of games such as Mass Assassins. Although McDonnell admitted that "it seems harmless enough", he also said that this article emphasized the destruction such games cause.

Concerning the safety of Mass Assassins, Security Director Glenn Terry said that "a couple of incidences that I haven't told anyone about yet" have occurred. An Tostel Chairman Mitch Feikes was unsure of the game's future. "I've heard things but he (Roemer) hasn't told me anything definite," he said.

Former Student Union Director Rich Coppolla said that most of the complaints state that "it's not in good taste, not mature and not worthwhile for college students." He said he didn't understand why the administration was "picking on such trivial things when there's so much more to concentrate on."

McDonnell said, "I approved it with extreme reservations." He had expected the game "to be limited to the daylight hours."

"Now," McDonnell said, "with the real assaults and batteries around campus, I am concerned about people jumping out of bushes and such with toy guns at night, something I hadn't anticipated before."

McDonnell said that every spring new games are introduced, just as ones that have been around for years are discontinued (such as Earthball and the Carnival have been this year). "I think we should re-evaluate Mass Assassins," he concluded.

Dean of Students James Roemer was unavailable for comment.

Hayes-Healy lecture begins Awareness Week

World Hunger, refugees, and U.S. foreign policy will be the topic of a panel discussion presented as a part of East African Awareness Week. The discussion will take place at 7:00 PM Wednesday night in Room 120 Hayes-Healy.

Professors Tetteh Kofi, Charles Wilber, and Gilbert Loescher will address the issues of political instability and underdevelopment in the horn of Africa, causes of the continuing food shortages, and the increasing number of refugees. A question and answer period will follow the presentations.

All are welcome to attend. East African Awareness Week is sponsored by the Third World Commission of Student Government, CILA, and the World Hunger Coalition.

policy, which is not one that grows out of American values. Whenever the Soviet Union does something stupid, the United States has to do something more stupid."

Young explained that he was not cynical about President Reagan's foreign policy.

"The Reagan administration is sounding off on the ideology that got them elected," he said. At that time, Americans were so frustrated by the hostage situation that they forgot their long-term values and ideologies.

"What Secretary of State Haig will find when he visits the Middle East is that what the Carter administration had been doing was reflective of American values.

"We need to send people to places like El Salvador not with guns, but with political savvy. Someone who can tell them that the United States supports land reform.

"This could be financially as well as ideologically beneficial to the United States. Even if the Republicans don't believe in human rights, they do believe in money.

According to Young, students are also guilty for the new shift to the right. "Statistically, voters between the ages of 18 and 30 did not vote in the elections of '78 and '80," he noted.

"Institutions such as Notre Dame should take the responsibility to have students register to vote. Then candidates would make it a point to stop here and address political issues.

"As long as there are only a handful of registered voters here, you have no impact on the political process.

"This is why we have a 'reactionary' administration. The country is now run by a group of old men who are living in the past and risking the future with your blood."

Young added that he is optimistic about the future. "Democracy has a way of swinging back into vogue. We swung about as far right as we could in the Presidential election.

Young is a mayoral candidate in Atlanta, his home community. "In terms of my professional life, there isn't anything I would rather do than be mayor of Atlanta," he said. "I feel that I owe a few more of the productive years of my life to the development of that great city."

Young stated that if elected mayor, he would not expand the search for the killer(s) of the black children in Atlanta. "By and large, anything that could be done to speed up the capture of the killer has already been done. I don't think that anybody other than the mothers of the slain children are complaining about the police, and their complaints are legitimate."

"There is a realization that the person killing the children is sicker than the one who shot President Reagan. This situation is forcing us to work together."

skills taught to achieve academic success. According to DePauw, this program has proven to be very beneficial to those who participate in it.

Underclassmen and Seniors are urged to attend all career workshops designed to teach the skills necessary for successful decision making and creative job seeking. Designed especially for freshmen is the freshmen seminar, a series of meetings giving students information on life planning and value exploration. Choosing A Major is a workshop to help underclassmen choose a major based on their interests and skills. Workshops are scheduled regularly throughout the semester.

For the first time at Saint Mary's, internship programs are being offered to juniors. Designed mainly for the Liberal Arts majors, the programs give students the opportunity to experience the business world. Says Campbell, "You are treated as a professional, learning a professional skill."

Although the internships complement the academic program, academic credit can not be applied through the Center. However, students can ask for individual credit from their professors. Students are expected to work 10-15 hours per week. At present, there are four internships in progress. All are considered to be very positive learning experiences.

can cook and sew as well as we.

Q: Do you feel that it is difficult with that many children for the children to obtain the attention from your husband and yourself that they deserve?

A: Yes, it is the biggest challenge we have. As a result, what we try to do is provide quality time as opposed to quantity. We also took out the television many years ago because it destroys all kinds of communication. The parent who says I spent time with my child last night while they sat and watched the 'boob-tube' for three hours is kidding himself. We may only find time to go for a walk around the block with the child, but we make sure we do that. We also, if we are going to the grocery store, take one child with us so we can have that time for just the two of us. If we're going to the dentist together we sit and talk and take advantage of the time to have a good, intimate conversation. It's a matter again, of working it in to the organization of your day. It's the most difficult for us to find that, but we do try to balance and so far we seem to be handling it.

Q: And balancing time for your marriage at the same time?

A: Absolutely. That's terribly important. As a matter of fact our responsibility to each other, my husbands and mine, is the most important one, and the children know that. And second to that comes our responsibility to the children. That is where the security lies of course, because you feel that the rock is there. And if that's there than everything else comes from that.

Once seen, it can never be forgotten: more than 76,000 people, 90% of them women and children, clustered together on a barren hillside, their only shelter small huts made of thorn bush branches, animal skins, and pieces of cloth. No one in the camp had received food rations in two days, and it was uncertain when the next food supply truck would arrive....

NBA roundup

Rockets win, take series

Houston 89, L.A. 86

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Houston Rockets upset defending NBA champion Los Angeles 89-86 Sunday to win their opening playoff series two games to one, holding last year's hero, Earvin "Magic" Johnson to just 10 points.

Johnson scored only two field goals and six free throws, and it was his miss with five seconds left that preserved the victory for the Rockets.

Moses Malone scored 23 points for the winners, while Kareem Abdul-Jabbar topped Los Angeles with 32.

The Rockets went into the playoffs with only a 40-42 regular season record while the Lakers' were 54-28.

The Rockets now play at San Antonio Tuesday and Wednesday nights in the opener of the Western Conference semifinals, a best-of-seven series.

Mike Dunleavy threw in an 18-footer, sending the Rockets ahead 87-86 with 15 seconds left. Johnson dribbled up court, kept the ball and then badly missed a 10-foot jumper.

Johnson, the MVP of last year's Laker championship, missed 12 of his 14 field goal attempts and five of his 11 tries from the free throw line.

K.C. 104, Portland 96

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Forward Reggie King scored 20 points in the second half and dominated play inside as the Kansas City Kings downed Portland 104-96 Sunday and eliminated the Trail Blazers from the NBA playoffs.

The Kings beat the Blazers twice in Portland to win the best-of-three miniseries 2-1. The Kings meet the Phoenix Suns in the semifinals of the Western Conference playoffs.

The series starts Tuesday in Phoenix. It was the first time the Kings have won a playoff series since the franchise moved from Cincinnati in 1972.

Kansas City led by as many as 12 points in the fourth quarter before the Blazers made a final run.

Portland sliced the lead to three, 96-93, on a driving basket by Kelvin Ransey with 1:34 to play. But Sam Lacey hit a 10-foot bank shot and King scored on an offensive rebound to put the game out of reach.

King led Kansas City with 28 points and grabbed 15 rebounds. Billy Ray Bates paced Portland with 34 points, 22 in the second half.

Sixers 125, Bucks 122

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Julius Erving scored 38 points, including a pair of game-winning free throws with 38 seconds remaining, as the Philadelphia 76ers defeated the Milwaukee Bucks 125-122 Sunday in the first of their best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference semifinal playoff series.

The Bucks, Central Division champions, led 122-121 with 53 seconds left after a field goal by Sidney Moncrief.

Milwaukee's Quinn Buckner, however, then fouled Erving, who hit two of three free throws to send Philadelphia ahead. The 76ers final two points came on a pair of free throws by Lionel Hollins, who was deliberately fouled with 11 seconds remaining as the Bucks desperately tried to get the ball.

Junior Bridgeman led the Bucks with 32 points, while Marques Johnson had 27. Maurice Cheeks had 22 points and substitute Bobby Jones added 21 for the Sixers.

Celts 121, Bulls 109

BOSTON (AP) — Larry Bird and Kevin McHale ignited a third-quarter burst that broke open a tight game and propelled the Boston Celtics to a 121-109 victory over the Chicago Bulls in the opening game of their Eastern Conference NBA semifinal playoff series Sunday.

The lead had changed hands nine times in the third quarter before Bird hit two free throws, giving Boston the lead for good at 78-77 with 3:44 left in the period.

That launched an 18-4 surge that saw the third quarter end with the Celtics leading 94-81. The lead never dipped below nine points the rest of the way.

Bird scored 13 of his game-high 23 points in the third quarter when Boston outscored Chicago 40-29. McHale came off the bench to score 21 points and block five shots. Chicago was led by Artis Gilmore with 20 and Dwight Jones with 17.

Irish women 'fantastic' in W. Michigan Invitational

By LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writer

Neither wind, lack of experience, nor a shortage of performers prevented a strong performance by the Notre Dame women's track club in Saturday's 16 team Western Michigan Invitational.

"We had a fantastic meet," said student-coach John Amato of the sixth-place finish. "The wind was really incredible. It was blowing the high vault and pole vault equipments all over the place. The fact that we ran against it and did well was even more great."

What is even more amazing is that only nine of the 25 girls on the squad were able to make the trip as others had to stay home due to illnesses or exams.

The meet started off with Freshman Lisa Monti running a :28.11 200 meter preliminary heat, and finishing with the eighth best time among the 16 team dual. While that was a more than adequate start, the real fun began with Freshman Rosemary Desloge's 18:32.0 5000 meter run — good enough for first place.

"Rosemary just ran an outstanding race," praised Amato, "It really gave us a great push, lightened everyone up and set a tempo for us."

What followed was a tremendous exhibition of what Notre Dame has been proud of in their athletic hierarchy — reaching back, and winning over the odds.

Sophomore Barbara Jacobs was seeded 17th out of 18 girls who were to run in the 800 meters. But with a "gutsy" run as Amato put it, she managed to place sixth with a 2:31.0 performance.

Freshman Carolyn Woidat had never run the 400 meter hurdles in competition, but on Saturday decided to try it out because of the shortage of Notre Dame performers at the meet.

"I told her she may be making a mistake," recalled Amato, "But she decided to go on with it. She finished fourth out of the 12 that ran. I never saw a bigger smile than what she had on after the race. She wanted to run it again afterward."

All this set up the dramatic 3000 meter run by senior co-captain Kathy Merra who was to compete against one of the top 3000 meter runners in the Midwest, not to mention 16 other runners. Merra and "the other girl" were all alone in front of the pack after the halfway point. Eventually, Merra finished second with an 11:07.0 run — but that didn't stop the free ride that she received on the shoulders of her teammates afterwards.

"That was by far the best performance by anyone on our team this year," said Amato, "Her previous best had been 11:04, but she ran this against the wind. Her time even improved after every lap."

Kelly Tripucka was named MVP of the East team in Saturday's 10th Annual Pizza Hut Classic in Las Vegas. The Notre Dame senior forward scored 13 points, helping the East to an 84-82 victory. Louisiana State's Rudy Macklin hit two free throws with 1:03 remaining to nail down the win. The game annually matches outstanding seniors from throughout the country who are chosen by a panel of college basketball writers and coaches. — AP

The ND Rugby Club will have a meeting tonight in the LaFortune Ballroom at 7 p.m. Old and new members are welcome.

Chuck Aragon beat two Olympians and broke the outdoor school record en route to a second place 4:01.2 finish in the mile at the ASU Sun Devil Classic in Tempe, Ariz., Saturday. Doug Padilla, the current NCAA indoor champion in the two-mile and runner-up in the mile, nosed out Aragon with a time of 4:00.9.

Two of the Irish standouts at Saturday's non-scoring meet at the University of Illinois were Jim Moyar, who took third place in the 1,500 meters with a personal-best time of 3:53.7, and Jacques Eady who ran a third place 4:7.93 quarter. The Irish will try to defend their team title at the Arkansas State Invitational next weekend.

The Notre Dame baseball team won four times at home over the weekend, and was deprived of a fifth victory when yesterday's contest at Valparaiso was rained out. On Saturday, the Irish swept a doubleheader from the University of Cincinnati by scores of 13-4 and 17-9. First baseman Henry Valenzuela cracked three home runs and drove in eight runs in the sweep, and Dan Szajko added a grand slam. Bob Barler (3-2) picked up his third victory in the opener, while Bill Matre (2-0) won the nightcap. On Friday, the Irish began their undefeated weekend with a 7-1, 2-1 sweep of Saint Mary's (Minn.). T.J. Prister's eighth inning single drove in the winning run in the nightcap, as Steve Witmer (2-1) went the distance on the mound. In the opener, Mike Deasey hurled a three-hitter and Jim Montagano added a home run to pace the 9-10 Irish. The Irish resume play on Tuesday with a 1 p.m. doubleheader with Bethel College at Jake Kline Field. Next weekend, Notre Dame plays a pair of home doubleheaders against Western Michigan on Friday and Xavier on Saturday.

Signups begin April 7 for this spring's interhall golf tournament and outdoor track meet. You can register by stopping by the non-varsity athletics office in the ACC, or by calling the interhall office at x7185. The deadline for entries is Tuesday, April 14.

In tennis action over the weekend, the Notre Dame men's team won one match, but dropped two, of the three home matches that they played. Yesterday, the Irish lost to perennially tough Michigan, 8-1. Ironically, that "one" was the first point that the Irish have scored in three years against the Wolverines in match play, as ND's Mark McMahon defeated UM's Mark Meese in number one singles play, 6-2, 6-2. On Saturday, the Irish blew away Butler, 9-0, in the only match played outside this weekend. In Friday's action, Notre Dame lost 6-3 to Iowa. Notre Dame's number two doubles team of McMahon and Jim Falvey scored impressive victories against Iowa (7-6 in the third set) and Butler, but fell in a tough match to Michigan's doubles team, losing the third set 7-5.

"but we weren't. Twila's return (from a year of studying in Rome) helped us immensely. She and Sharon Moore (the senior captain) provided a strong 1-2 punch. The Belles were able to defeat two teams that Notre Dame couldn't beat, Wayne State and Wisconsin; otherwise the two teams were of equal ability."

"When I arrived at Saint Mary's, I wanted to have the chance to compete in a sport," noted Kitchen, "I didn't want to sit on a bench and watch. The people (in the fencing program) are great! Coaches Greg Mueller (of Saint Mary's) and DeCic-

To have a great attitude that just carries over in the practices."

During her sophomore year, Kitchen took lessons at a club in Rome. "I couldn't compete because I wasn't a club member," she said. Returning to Saint Mary's for this, her junior year, she compiled a 40-9 regular season record and won the Great Lakes Regional Individual title to qualify for the nationals.

Next season, Kitchen will return as captain of a Saint Mary's squad that narrowly missed qualifying as a team for this year's nationals. With another year of experience under her belt, and with a little luck, she may be at the other end of some of those 5-4 bouts next year.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY LAUREEN LANGAN THE SWEETHEART OF ALL SWEET-HEARTS

Q: How do you kill Vanians in Yukon?
A: With a mooseket, he said, with a gleam in his eye and a grin on his face. (Thanks to Tim Neely, a Vanian in his own quiet way, for that wonderful punchline)

Cichy attempts change

For Steve Cichy, 1980 was a disaster.

While making a tackle on the opening kickoff of the season's first game, Cichy crushed the sixth vertebra in his neck. The injury wasn't discovered until after the game — after Cichy had gone the distance in Notre Dame's 31-10 win over Purdue. It was Cichy's first, and last, game of the season.

For Cichy, 1981 looks a lot brighter.

"The healing has stabilized," he says. "They tell me that the only way I could hurt it again is to get hit in exactly the same spot, exactly the same way, with exactly the same impact. It was truly a freak accident."

Nevertheless, Cichy has his work cut out for him. Any athlete will tell you how difficult it is to bounce back after missing an entire season. But what will make it tougher for Cichy, both this spring and in the fall, is his switch from strong safety to linebacker.

"Right when I got back from Christmas vacation, coach (defensive coordinator Jim) Johnson told me that they wanted to move me to a linebacker," Cichy says. "He said that I would probably be able to help the team most at that position."

"If that's where the team needed me, I'd play there. If things don't work out there, I can always go back to strong safety."

Regardless of where Cichy is most needed, his physical appearance has always been that of a linebacker. At 6-2, 218 pounds, he has always been a menacing tackler.

"I guess the position is probably more suited for me, because of my upper body strength and the physical nature of my play," he says. "But I'm still going to have to work extra hard with the transition."

"At linebacker, when you get up to the line of scrimmage, your instincts aren't as refined. Right now I feel like I'm in class one day, and have a quiz the next. I've just got to go over things again and again to get use to them."

"A lot of progress has been made, but I've still got a lot of things to learn, especially in regards to technique. But so far I've been pleased."

Also pleased with Cichy's progress is Johnson, who ranked the new linebacker among the most impressive performers in the first week of spring drills.

Spring Football '81

Cichy realizes, however, that he'll have to impress the coaching staff right up until the September 12 opener against LSU. With the likes of Bob Crable, Mark Zavagnin, Rick Naylor and Joe Rudzinski among those competing for fall jobs, Cichy will have plenty to do in order to attain his personal goal — winning a starting berth.

"We're very rich in talent," admits the Fargo, N.D., native. "But it really brings us together and makes us better football players."

"In most cases, if I was first team going into practice, I wouldn't feel any pressure except to improve myself. But with six or seven solid linebackers like we have, it really makes you want to improve. You really don't have much choice."

Cichy, who is expected to receive an extra year of eligibility due to last year's injury, is excited to play the type of defense that head coach Gerry Faust and Johnson have planned for the upcoming season.

"We'll show a lot of different fronts," he says. "Maybe we'll have a 3-4 to go along with our four-man front. We'll mix it up. We'll gamble a lot, and we'll blitz a lot, because we've got a lot of talented linebackers and defensive backs to cover up if a gamble at the line of scrimmage doesn't pay off."

Cichy claims the team is ready to set its goals high, as "We'll be shooting for nothing less than the national championship. We have the talent to do it, but we've got that tough schedule. Everybody is affected by the staff changes, but everybody is getting used to it."

"Coach Faust has got everybody five feet off the ground playing for him. I think my last two years should be really exciting."

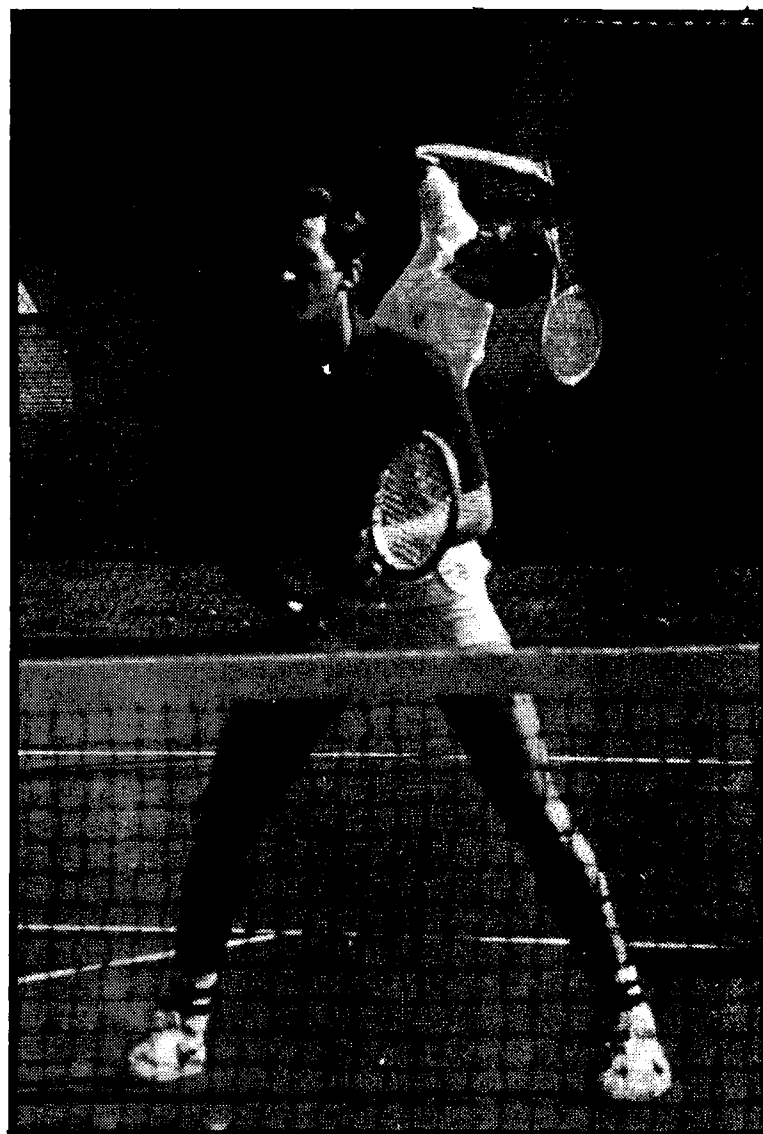

It doesn't take much to figure out that Steve Cichy isn't expecting another year like 1980.

IRISH ITEMS: Hundreds of Irish fans turned out for Saturday's open practice — the last session Faust will open to the public . . . the 45-mph winds didn't make it easy to throw the ball, but the passing drills seemed to draw the most attention . . .

Tim Tripp, a wingback in the new Irish offense, was highly impressive, making several picturesque catches on Blair Kiel tosses . . . quarterback Tim Koegel turned in another solid performance Saturday . . . Faust and Company got through the first five spring practices with few injuries. Perhaps the most severe injury this weekend was the cut that fullback Larry Moriarity sustained on his chin during Friday's practice. A few stitches were all Moriarity needed.

AIWA Fencing

Kitchen excels in championships

When Twila Kitchen arrived at Saint Mary's as a freshman, she had experience in a variety of sports, ranging from basketball to track, but like many other fencers in the ND-SMC program (the two schools hold joint practices), she had never touched a foil.

"We employ a step-ladder operation," says Irish coach Mike DeCicco. "Our more experienced fencers help our beginners improve their skills." With the help of two-time NCAA champion Mike Sullivan, among others, Kitchen has advanced from a novice to a national championship contender.

This past weekend Notre Dame and Saint Mary's co-hosted the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIWA) National Championship tournament at the Angela Athletic Facility. Kitchen placed 21st in a field of 48 in the individual competition.

Kathy McCann of Notre Dame, originally an alternate, was able to compete when a California fencer was unable to make the trip. She placed 46th.

A pair of clutch 5-4 victories over Virginia Yao of Cal State-Berkeley and Cindy Friday of North Carolina enabled Kitchen to advance to the final 24. The field then was split into four groups of six, and in order to remain in contention for the individual title, Kitchen had to place in the top three in her round-robin group of six.

Twila rallied from a 0-3 deficit to take a 4-3 lead over the eventual national champion, Jana Angelakis of Penn State. Angelakis, who led the Lady Lions to the team title, calmly rebounded to take a 5-4 decision.

After that match, Twila had to face the 1979 Champion and eventual fourth place finisher, Joy Elligson. The San Jose State star won, 5-0.

With her back against the wall, Kitchen faced a must-win situation against Temple's Maureen Leun. Leun rallied from a 1-4 deficit to hand Kitchen her second 5-4 loss and put an end to her championship hopes.

"A lot of people were surprised at the success (17 wins and three losses) of the Saint Mary's fencing team this year," claimed DeCicco,

Irish lose in lacrosse action

The Notre Dame lacrosse team received a rude introduction to the Midwest Lacrosse Association in their first weekend of league play. Facing the top two lacrosse teams in the Midwest, the Irish fell to Ohio Wesleyan, 17-5, on Friday afternoon and then succumbed to Denison, 16-4, on Sunday. Both games were played at Cartier Field.

Wesleyan's Battling Bishops, who were ranked eighth nationally among Division III teams and first in the Midwest, jumped out to a 6-0 advantage midway through the second quarter and the Irish never threatened. Jerry Levesque, Steve Linehan, Dan Charhut, Danny Pace and Kevin Campion all chipped in goals for Notre Dame. But the Irish could not thwart a seven-goal outburst by Wesleyan's Dan Sheehan.

The Big Red of Denison, defending MLA champions and the 10th-rated Division III team in the nation, jumped to an early 5-2 lead until Linehan brought the Irish to within 5-4 at 5:33 of the second period. But Denison exploded for five more goals before the half ended and shut out the Irish for the remainder of the game.

The Irish missed the offensive punch of freshman attackman Steve Pearsall, who had tallied eight goals in Notre Dame's previous two games. Pearsall missed weekend action with mononucleosis and a dislocated shoulder and should be out for at least another week. Senior midfielder Carl Lundblad was sidelined Friday with tendon problems in his knee and freshman midfielder Kevin Smith missed Sunday's action with a separated shoulder. Smith is doubtful for this week's action.

Notre Dame's regular season record dipped to 1-3, with an 0-2 mark in the MLA. Its exhibition ledger had been 2-2. The Irish trek to East Lansing on Wednesday for an afternoon battle with Michigan State. Both Ohio Wesleyan and Denison are in the MLA's College Division, while the Spartans will be Notre Dame's first foe in its own University Division.
