65 people perish as plane crashes into icy Potomac

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Florida-bound jetliner roared from a snowy takeoff and crashed into a Potomac River bridge yesterday, smashing automobiles and plunging into the icy water. About 65 people were reported killed, but the casualty count was unconfirmed.

The Boeing 737 was an Air Florida flight, with a booking of 68 passengers and a crew of five, bound from Washington National Airport to Tampa and Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. The actual number of people on board could not be verified.

Lt. Hiram Brewton, a District of Columbia police spokesman, said there were believed to be only five survivors from the plane. A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration, Ted Marr, said an "unofficial" estimate "would be 65 dead."

Police Capt. Michael L. Canfield said at least six motorists were killed as the plane sheared the tops of cars and hit a truck.

At least 16 survivors were taken to Washington hospitals, some suffering crash injuries, some the effects of the frigid river.

Even as ambulances and rescue crews struggled through the snow — and the massive traffic jam it produced — to the bridge, three people were killed when a Washington subway car hurtled from its track near the Smithsonian Institution station.

As darkness — and temperatures — fell, divers worked by floodlight in the ice-crusted river, searching for victims.

Within minutes after the crash, helicopters pulled several survivors from the river. Presumably, most of the others aboard the plane perished under the ice.

It was not known how many of the 16 known survivors were from the plane or vehicles struck upon the bridge, a multi-lane artery with three spans connecting the city with suburban Virginia. The craft hit the span nearest the airport, bearing traffic, much of it from the Pentagon, headed into the city or neighboring Maryland from Virginia.

The snowstorm had closed the airport periodically during the day.

An AP photographer said he saw bodies strapped into airliner seats beneath the surface of the Potomac.

The snow stopped shortly after the crash, but the foul weather impeded rescue efforts. The temperature hovered in the 20s, wind whipped the river.

One witness said one of the plane's wheels hit a truck on the bridge.

Jerome Lancaster, an Air Force sergeant who was in the traffic jam on the bridge at the time of the crash said "It looked like he lost his direction. The plane's wheel hit a truck."

Another witness, Terence Bell, said the nose of the plane broke away from the fuselage, plunged into the bridge and sank into the Potomac about 25 yards off the Virginia shore.

The tail section also broke away, Bell said, and floated for about 20 minutes. Bell said he saw five or six people emerge and escape across the ice coating the river.

Coast Guard and Park Police helicopters were sent to the scene to drop lines with lifesaving rings to survivors in the river. One survivor grasped a ring, but then fell back into the freezing water, and was pulled to shore by divers.

Rescue boats were at the scene, too, but the ice impeded their work. The airport was closed, with incoming flights diverted to Dulles International Airport in Virginia.

The crash occurred little more than a mile from the White House.

The government had shut down its offices in midafternoon because of the snow that blanketed the city.

Holiday burglaries

Crime hits O-C, Holy Cross

By TONI RUTHERFORD and JOHN MACOR
News Staff

Break-ins of student residences seem to occur over vacation periods. Matt Huffman, off-campus commissioner, reported that over break his house was broken into for the second time. The first break-in occurred over Thanksgiving break. There were also three break-ins last year at the same residence.

In the past, items such as clock radios, a speaker system, money, and things of that type were stolen. This time, loss was due to damage. The intruder broke the back door and a window on the side of the house, and also tore the moulding off a locked door while trying to gain entry. The inside of the house was left in disarray in an apparent search for items.

South Bend police were notified of the break-ins, but their records do not show if a victim is a student or a permanent resident of town. This makes it virtually impossible to form an accurate count of student break-ins.

Off-campus students are not the only victims. Glenn Terry of Notre Dame Security reports an incident at Morrissey that turned out to be a student trying to get into his room. Numerous break-ins were also reported at Holy Cross.

Suffering its second break-in of the school year, Holy Cross Hall was the victim of a burglary in the early morning of December 28.

From evidence gathered by Notre Dame Security, the robbers gained entry into the dorm by breaking an obscure rear window in the basement. Once through the window, the criminals, using a back stairway, had access to the entire dorm. In all, thirteen rooms were robbed by the intruders, who were believed to be from the Northeast Neighborhood.

The building had been checked previously by Security at midnight on the evening of the intrusion. At approximately 2:30 a.m., a security guard discovered the break-in. Footsteps leading from the back of Holy Cross to the Fatima Retreat Center have led Security to believe that the robbers parked their vehicle at the center and carried the stolen goods there.

Most of the rooms robbed were located in the "old section" of the building. Losses were found to have occurred in "the eight," a complex of rooms housing eight students. From the losses incurred and items not stolen, it appears that the criminals selected with some care which items to steal. Stereos were not stolen in some of the rooms, but in other rooms full stereo systems were taken. One student's stolen stereo was valued at approximately $500.

Since many of the rooms have been burglarized for a second time this year, victims were understandably upset. One irate member of "the eight" vindictively noted that they "wanted to have a lottery to see who chops the hands off of the guilty parties."

Fr. Keena, Chroust pass away

Saint Mary's Campus Ministry member Fr. Joseph P. Keena died at 7:45 p.m. Jan. 4 in St. Joseph's Medical Center after a brief illness. He was 61.

Keena was born Dec. 10, 1920 in New York City and entered the Holy Cross Novitiate, North Dartmouth, Mass., Aug. 15, 1942. He made his first profession of vows in the eastern province of the Congregation of Holy Cross on Aug. 16, 1943.

He graduated from the University of Notre Dame in 1946 and, after completing theological studies at Holy Cross College, Washington, D.C., he was ordained to the priesthood June 6, 1950, in Sacred Heart Church.

Keena received both his master's and Ph. D. degree from ND and taught in the English department at Stonehill College, North Easton, Mass., from 1953 to 1978. Since 1979 he has been a member of SMC Campus Ministry. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Katherine Keena, of South Bend.

Services for Fr. Keena were conducted at 10 a.m. Jan. 6 in the

Fr. Joseph P. Keena

Church of Loretto, Saint Mary's. Fr. Thomas J. McDonagh officiated. Fr. Robert Kreig, offered the homily. Services were also conducted in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 7. Burial was in Community Cemetery, Stonehill College.

A memorial service will be conducted for Keena in the Church of Loretto, Jan. 24 at 10 a.m.

Anton-Hermann Chroust, 74, Professor Emeritus of Philosophy, History and Law, died Monday after an unexpected illness.

Chroust came to Notre Dame in 1946, after serving 12 years as a Harvard fellow. He received doctorates in law, philosophy and history from the German universities of Erlangen, Munich and Wurtzburg, and served on the Olympic gold-medal-winning German water polo team in 1928.

Chroust wrote almost 200 articles and books on ancient, medieval and modern legal history, ancient history and philosophy, and jurisprudence in general.

Funeral services will be today at 3 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church.

Rush-hour subway derails, kills 2 in Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least two people, perhaps three, were killed and eight injured Wednesday when a rush-hour subway train derailed just about the time an airliner slammed into a bridge, officials said.

Rescue efforts in the subway accident were disrupted by the commitment of disaster units to the bridge about a mile and a half away.

Firefighter Bill Giovanni said he saw "three dead people, two women and a man ... There were many injuries."

Giovanni said only one car of the train — which normally would have six or eight cars — left the tracks. That car was torn open, he said.

Cody Pfanstiehl, a spokesman for the Washington Area Metropolitan Transit Authority, said he had been told by the Fire Department that eight people were hurt. He said he did not know the extent of the injuries.

Pfanstiehl said the subway train, bound from northern Virginia through the District of Columbia to the Maryland suburbs, could have been carrying as many as 1,500 people.

He said he did not know the cause of the derailment. Passengers said it occurred shortly after the train left the Smithsonian Station, came to an unexplained stop and began backing up.

The new deli line will begin operation at the South Dining Hall approximately Feb. 2. It will be open Monday through Friday at lunchtime only. The specialty items will include two soups, cold cuts, cheeses, breads and potato chips. Students will choose their sandwiches and kitchen employees will prepare them. Much consideration has been given to the fact that service may be slow. The efficiency will be as great as possible, yet student cooperation will help. — The Observer

Students may obtain copies of their tax returns or microfilm transcripts of their return information needed for basic education grants and other financial aid by contacting the Internal Revenue Service. The request should be made in writing and addressed to Internal Revenue Service, Chief, Taxpayer Service Division, Post Office Box 44211/Stop 60, Indianapolis, Ind., 46244. Since the time required for processing these requests is at least eight weeks, students should anticipate their need for tax returns and timely submit their request to IRS. Call the IRS, toll-free, at 1-800-382-9740. — The Observer

Kosimierz Braun, a professor scheduled to join the ND-SMC Communications and Theatre Department, has been unable to leave Poland because of martial law restrictions limiting travel of Polish citizens. His arrival is still questionable. "It's really up in the air," stated Department chairman Mitchell Lifton, "but we should know by next week." Braun's classes will not be cancelled until the situation is clarified.

A 67-year-old man in Aripeka, Fla., was charged with second-degree murder after another man died following a game of Russian roulette, sheriff's deputies said. Pasco County sheriff's deputies arrested Howard Ernest Agee of Spring Hill after Nicholas Wendt, 26, died Tuesday of a gunshot wound to the chest from Agee's .357-caliber Magnum. Wendt had removed five of six bullets in the gun, then tried to spin the cylinder, officials said. Agee then took the gun and tried to spin the cylinder, officials said. But instead of pointing the gun at himself, Agee pointed it at Wendt and fired, deputies said. — AP

Strip-search policies must be the same for men and women in order to be legal, a federal judge has ruled in a class-action suit against the Chicago Police Department. U.S. District Judge Thomas R. McMillen ruled Tuesday that the department's pre-1979 policy of routinely strip-searching women violated equal protection rights because men were not routinely subjected to strip searches. The suit was filed by the American Civil Liberties Union in 1979 on behalf of 191 women who said they had been strip searched by police matrons. The judge has not yet set damages. After the suit was filed, the city offered to pay $250 to each woman subjected to a simple strip search and $1,000 to all women who claimed they underwent a body cavity search. Ninety women accepted. — AP

Two Baltimore, Md. teenagers have been charged with murder in the weekend slaying of an art restoration expert, police said. The nude body of Peter Michaels, 54, was discovered Monday at his home. He had been stabbed to death, police said, and his car and several firearms at his home had been stolen. Police charged Ralph Mills, 17, and Bobby Oxentine, 14, with murder, and they were being held without bail according to Dennis Hill, a spokesman for the police department. Hill said the teenagers met Michaels in downtown Baltimore on Saturday and that Michaels took them to his home in the Mount Washington section of the city. Michaels was an associate conservator at Walters Art Gallery until starting his own business in 1974. He specialized in the restoration of paintings. — AP

An anonymous caller in Bilbao, Spain told a newspaper yesterday that the Basque guerrillas who kidnapped German-born industrialist Josef Lipperheide on Jan. 5 were treating him well. The caller to the Basque militant newspaper Egin said the 76-year-old industrialist was "in perfect health" and that ETA guerrillas would soon announce conditions for his release. Lipperheide, who came to Bilbao in the early 1920s, is the head of more than a dozen firms in northern Spain. The industrialist's relatives said his abductors told them at the time of the kidnapping they planned to demand "a huge ransom." — AP

Plunge broadens urban perspective

During semester break I participated in the Urban Plunge, a 48-hour immersion into urban life designed to enable Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students to experience the problems of injustice, poverty and apathy in U.S. urban areas.

I was one of six students assigned to Saint Malachy's, a Catholic parish located on the West Side of Chicago. Our hosts were Father Stephen Mangin, Father John Kobur, Sister Mary Robertus, and Sister Maude.

St. Malachy's is in an area which includes two high-rise housing projects and several vacant lots. "There is not one complete block in the area," Fr. Stephen noted, adding that much of the damage resulted from the 1968 riots. "Some of our nuns were here during the riots," he said. "They watched as property was burned, and saw people standing in front of their homes and schools to protect them."

Ethnically, the general area includes Ukrainian, Italian, Hispanic and black residents. Fr. John, however, noted "ethnic stratification." "Most whites are assumed to have a negative purpose in this area," he said. "White women are generally assumed to be prostitutes, and white men narcotics agents."

Fr. John led our group on a walking tour of the West Side area surrounding St. Malachy's. As we walked by a housing project, we saw three children, one of whom was holding a knife in front of him. "Most people in this neighborhood carry weapons at all times to protect themselves," Fr. John said. "Many bring guns and knives with them to bingo here every week."

The housing projects in this neighborhood are filled with people Mayor Byrne "pushed" out of Cabrini-Green after she moved into that housing project last spring, according to Fr. John.

Fr. Joachim of nearby Our Lady of Sorrows parish, who grew up in the Cabrini neighborhood, expects the Cabrini-Green housing project to change drastically within the next few years. The mortgage on Cabrini-Green will be paid in 1983, and Fr. Joachim claims there are plans to convert it into a luxury apartment complex.

"This is gradually taking place," Fr. Joachim said. "The tenants are systematically being removed from the buildings, and the surrounding area is being cleared. It is in the perfect location for a luxury complex — a ten minute walking distance from the Loop. Eventually, this will take place over the entire West Side. I think the people currently in this area will migrate to the suburbs. Suburban housing is constructed more poorly than the buildings in this area," he said.

We visited one of the tenants in that first project. Dolly, a 25-year-old wife and mother of two, lives on the fifth floor of the building with her husband Red, a 20-year-old laborer. Dolly is taking classes at a local junior college to qualify for nursing school. She noted the high incidence of violence in the housing projects. "I would not advise anyone to live here because of the violence," she said. "People hurt you for no reason — all you have to do is be in the building to provoke them. I have lived here for eighteen years, and have adjusted to the conditions. I don't mind living here."

Kelli Flint

Dolly added that the police don't seem to care about the violence, and rarely respond to calls. "Once a man in this building was beaten and thrown out of a window," she said. "The ambulance arrived, and though he was still alive they dragged him to the vehicle instead of placing him on a stretcher and carrying him. Even if they thought he was dead, they could have carried his body on a stretcher — he deserved that respect as a human being."

Fr. John claimed that he found a dead woman on a street corner last year. "I called the police, returned an hour later, and found her still there."

As we walked through the area, no one on the street stopped us. A police car, however, stopped us by the housing project and an officer asked what we were doing in the area. When Fr. John explained that he was a priest, the officer asked if he was carrying a gun. When Fr. John answered "no," the officer said "well, good luck" and drove off.

A fire ambulance later stopped and asked if we had business in the area. They offered us a ride, but we declined. We walked about five miles in the area without difficulty. Mayor Byrne called this area a "public disgrace," Fr. John said. This neighborhood averages one shooting and two rapes per night. These crimes rarely appear in newspapers because they are black-on-black crimes, and usually only interracial crime makes news, according to Fr. Stephen.

"Our school janitor was shot in the stomach with a .44 Magnum one night last year behind a housing project," Fr. John said. "He was driven by ambulance to a hospital that was not equipped for the treatment he required, and the ambulance would not take him to Cook County, a nearby hospital, unless we paid a $70 cash fee. We managed to collect the money, and he went into surgery at 9 a.m. He died of shock shortly after surgery." Both priests believe that he would have survived had he been treated immediately following the injury, which could have been accomplished.

We passed a post office where one of the parishoners at St. Malachy's claimed she entered to find a man lying in the middle of the floor with a knife in his stomach. She reportedly stepped over him and completed her transaction.

Loan problems

GOP may ax Richards as chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — The disclosure that Republican National Chairman Richard N. Richards has been delinquent in repaying $300,000 in federally guaranteed loans stirred new speculation Wednesday that he may be forced out of his job.

White House aides insisted President Reagan felt Richards "should continue as party chairman."

But Richards' difficulties repaying the loans was seen by some of his critics as one more reason for replacing him.

One official who plays a key role in designing the GOP's 1982 election strategy said, "I don't believe you can have the titular head of the Republican Party leading that party into the campaign of 1982 with the kinds of clouds that now cover Dick Richards." The official asked not to be identified.

The story of Richards' failure to keep up payments on $292,000 in loans guaranteed by the Small Business Administration was published Wednesday in The Washington Post.

A spokesman for Richards confirmed the details of the story and said the chairman would not comment on the matter.

The loans were used by Richards and a partner to purchase the American Health and Sports spa in Roy, Utah in 1977. His original partner in the venture was a Utah neighbor, Lew Wangsgard, who later sold his interest to Alex Hutardo, who now heads the political division of the Republican National Committee.

After Richards and his partner failed to make 12 monthly payments on one $110,000 loan, the SBA had to pay $96,203 to the Bank of Utah. The partners also are behind in payments on a $181,000 loan.

The $110,000 loan was brought up to date last November with a $20,454 payment. But payments of $1,000 due in November, December and January were missed.

"The main reason I don't pay it is I don't have the money to pay it," Richards told The Post.

The chairman also said he told the acting director of the SBA's Salt Lake City office, C. Dale Randall, that "I don't want to be given any special privilege."

The newspaper quoted SBA officials as saying they expect Richards and his partner to make good on all the payments. The officials said the two partners had pledged their private homes as collateral.

New phone directories provide additional info

By MARK WORSCHER
Staff Reporter

New telephone directories have been received and are scheduled to be distributed next week, according to Carl Magel, Director of Printing and Publications.

Magel said that the installation of the new faculty phone system necessitated the change. Faculty and administration phone numbers now begin with a 239 prefix and require students to dial "9" first.

"The old directories just didn't have sufficient information," said Magel. "We thought it was worthwhile enough to do this and protect the investment (in the new system). We wanted to do it first class."

In addition, Magel said that a new roll of students from the registrar's office was used, hopefully correcting the omissions in the previous edition.

The directory is generally supplied free of charge to the university, explained Magel.

"The printers of the book do this because they get permission to sell ads to people in the community. Whatever monies they get from ads is what they get."

Ombudsman Director Tom Koegel said the directories will be distributed through the Hall Presidents Council "sometime early next week."

Upon receiving the new directories, Magel advises students to throw away their old phone books to avoid confusion.

Recession keeps business from expanding in 1982

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's businesses, starting the year mired in recession, intend to ignore the Reagan administration's plea for a 1982 surge in expansion, a government survey showed yesterday.

A Commerce Department poll of executives concluded that they now plan to actually cut back spending for new plants and equipment by 0.5 percent this year, not counting increases due only to inflation.

Such plans can change quickly, but if "real" capital spending actually falls this year, it would be the first such decline since the severe 1974 recession.

Top Reagan officials have said repeatedly that incentives in the multiyear tax cut enacted in 1981 should spur investment this year and help pull the national economy out of its second recession in two years.

But executives apparently remained unswayed by such arguments when they were surveyed in November and December.

"I don't think it means the Reagan program isn't working; it just hasn't picked up steam yet," said Commerce's chief economist, Robert Ortner.

Considering that the survey was taken as the recession was really beginning to bite, "these capital spending plans aren't that bad actually," he said.

Many businesses have cut production and laid off workers as the recession has deepened, shelving at least for the present any plans to expand.

Veteran's wife

War follows husbands home

By NANCY TRAVER
Associated Press Writer

DENVER (AP) — The wives of Vietnam veterans have never watched a buddy die, carried an M-16 rifle or survived in a jungle half a world away. But for many women, the war has come home with husbands unable to put Vietnam behind them.

"There are plenty of programs for vets, but their wives are secondary. Many times, I find women suffering even more than their husbands, because they have nowhere to go for help," said psychologist Candis Williams, who, as the wife of a Vietnam veteran, has pioneered a counseling program for other wives.

Nearly one million American soldiers served in combat in Vietnam, and half still suffer from the stress they experienced during the war, according to the federal government.

The men who went to war can use programs set up by the Veterans Administration or the privately sponsored Disabled American Veterans.

Ms. Williams' two-year-old sessions, where groups of six to 12 women could discuss their problems, were among the first in the nation for veterans' wives. She was the first psychologist to publish a guide for other professionals who wanted to begin work in the field, according to DAV outreach program director Bob Lenham.

Her pioneering efforts laid the groundwork for the creation of other programs in DAV centers across the nation, Lenham said.

Her husband Tom became active in an early Vietnam veterans' program that was started in Denver by the DAV in 1979. In the beginning, she kept her distance.

"I backed away from getting involved at first, because I didn't want to set up a ladies' auxiliary, and I didn't want to do something aimed only at helping the men get better," said Ms. Williams. "I changed my mind when I saw there were a lot of people who were really hurting, and it seemed they had nowhere to go for help."

Before she could help the women, she had to learn about what was bothering their husbands, Ms. Williams said. She was able to find the answers to most of her questions by turning to her own husband, who served in Vietnam for two years.

THURSDAY FOCUS

Williams said he "buried" most of his memories after his return home from the war. It wasn't until 1979, when he saw the movie "The Deer Hunter," which told the story of the war's effects on a group of men from a small Pennsylvania town, that Williams began to relive his war experiences.

"The war invaded the fabric of veterans' lives — their sleep, employment and all their relationships," causing loneliness, depression and a refusal to accept responsibility, he said.

"Women in some of my counseling sessions say they feel they are expected to give and give and give," said Ms. Williams.

A veteran's wife must learn she need not be "wife, mother, nurse, lover and breadwinner," she said. "To be healthy, women have to get into learning what they want and what they need to be happy."

For some women, that may require leaving their husbands.

Heavy women may risk chance of diabetes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women who are overweight in their upper bodies face an increased risk of having undiagnosed diabetes and should be tested for the disease, a researcher said yesterday.

A study at the Medical College of Wisconsin found that the location of fat in the body can help predict whether a woman has diabetes long before symptoms appear.

Obese women with most of their fat located in the upper body — the waist, chest, neck and arms — are more likely to be diabetics than those with fat concentrated in lower body areas such as hips, thighs and buttocks, researchers found.

Dr. Ahmed H. Kissebah said an upper-body obese woman has eight times greater risk of having clinical diabetes than a woman of normal weight. Those with lower body obesity showed little or no increased risk.

Speaking at a Milwaukee news briefing that was monitored by reporters throughout the country, Kissebah said the risk goes down with dieting and loss of the fat.

"What is heartening is that it is relatively easy to identify those women at risk and to take early measures to reduce upper body segment fat," he said.

"This reduction lowers the risk of such metabolic disorders as diabetes, as well as high blood pressure and heart disease," he continued.

The researcher said about 40 percent of American women are overweight and of these women, 25 percent have upper body obesity.

Kissebah said the findings should encourage doctors to make a more serious effort to persuade women to lose weight.

Women with fat upper bodies also should ask their doctors to test them for diabetes so that treatment, which normally consists of weight control and special diets, can begin as soon as possible, he said. Insulin injections normally are prescribed only in extreme cases.

Diabetes is a condition that keeps the body from metabolizing sugars. Insulin, a hormone that helps the body use sugar, either is not produced in sufficient quantities or there is an inability to use the insulin that is produced.

Some studies indicate that early diagnosis and treatment result in better long-term outcomes for patients, said Kissebah, director of the college's General Clinical Research Center, a special human studies unit funded by the National Institutes of Health.

The association between upper body obesity and diabetes was first identified by French researchers in the 1970s. The relationship was confirmed in 1980 by the Milwaukee researchers after studying 15,000 obese women from around the country.

To examine this relationship more closely, the researchers compared 52 women between the ages of 20 and 40 — 25 with upper body obesity, 18 with lower body fat and nine of normal weight who were used as a control group.

Polish government listens

"Big Sister" controls phones

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Big Sister is warning telephone callers their conversations are "being controlled" in martial law Poland these days.

Since telephone service in Poland's major cities was restored last Sunday, some numbers start a screechy-voiced woman chirping, "Rozmowa Kontrolowana, Rozmowa Kontrolowana."

In Polish that means "the call is being controlled, the call is being controlled."

The voice of Big Sister changes, sometimes high, sometimes a bit huskier. But the message is clear: anything said on the phone may be heard and there should be no doubt about it.

Big Sister — a variation on Big Brother, the symbol of dictatorship in George Orwell's "1984" — is what foreign journalists have dubbed the Polish voice.

On the first day the telephones came back after 29 days of silence, the intrusion was often inconsistent.

People testing the telephones, working for the first time since just before midnight Dec. 13 when martial law began, found that some numbers triggered Big Sister, while others did not.

Calls to the Roman Catholic Church press office were said to be under control by the voice, as were calls to some others who one could assume would be monitored.

But it was unclear later if the voice was triggered by the person placing the call, or the phone number receiving it.

Two days after the phones were back in order, every call from The Associated Press office phone brought the warning "the call is being controlled," two or three times. Then the voice stopped and the other party either did or did not pick up the phone.

It was not the fact of the warning, but only the form it took that came as a surprise.

In an announcement that telephone service would be restored within the nation's big cities, the authorities said that the calls would be subject to control and could be cut at any time if whoever was listening deemed them damaging to the state.

The communique also warned that telephone conversations could be subject to further checking and anti-state activity could be punished.

Some people reported that calls were cut when such words as "internees" were used in conversations about seized members of the now-suspended independent union Solidarity.

But others said use of the word "Walesa," name of the now-sequestered chief of the independent union, and "Solidarity" did not trigger a cutoff.

It is unlikely that every single call is monitored, but it is impossible to tell which are or are not and the effect of the woman's reminder is clear.

Irish hockey fortunes received a big boost over the holidays when Lefty Smith's squad won the prestigious Great Lakes Invitational Tournament held annually in Detroit. By virtue of an impressive 6-2 victory over Michigan in the semi-final game, Notre Dame found itself pitted against Michigan Tech for the championship before ESPN cameras and a record collegiate hockey crowd of 19,225 at the Joe Louis Arena. The Irish took full advantage of the opportunity by overcoming a 2-0 deficit and recording a 4-3 win over their CCHA rivals. Full coverage of both games and a report on last weekend's series with Chicago Circle will be provided in tomorrow's editions. — The Observer

Aaron, Robinson elected to Hall

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Aaron, baseball's all-time home run king, and Frank Robinson, the game's first black manager, were elected to the Hall of Fame yesterday in their first year of eligibility.

Aaron, who hammered 755 career home runs, shattering the record of 714 held by Babe Ruth, received 406 votes of the 415 cast by 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association of America. No player ever has been a unanimous choice to the Hall.

Robinson, the only man to win the Most Valuable Player Award in both the National and American Leagues, and, like Aaron, one of baseball's most feared sluggers for two decades, received 370 votes. A player needed 312 for election, or 75 percent of the voting board.

Aaron and Robinson became the 12th and 13th members to win election to the Hall of Fame in their first year on the ballot. Both retired following the 1975 season.

Aaron and Robinson will be inducted into the Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N.Y., Aug. 1.

Aaron's 406 votes represented the second highest vote total ever and the second best election percentage. Only Willie Mays, with 409 of a possible 432 in 1979, received more votes. Only Ty Cobb, with a percentage of 98.2 in 1936, had a higher percentage than Aaron's 97.8. Cobb missed being unanimous by only four ballots, receiving 222 of the 226 cast in 1936, the first year of the Hall of Fame vote.

Close behind Aaron and Robinson were former San Francisco Giants' pitcher Juan Marichal, who missed election by only seven votes. He received 305 in his second year on the ballot, 72 more than he got last year. But his percentage of 73.4 fell just short of the 75 percent required.

No other candidate came close, although several made important gains in the vote.

Fourth in the balloting was slugger Harmon Killebrew with 246, followed by relief ace Hoyt Wilhelm with 236.

In addition to his home run record, Aaron had the most runs batted in in baseball history, finishing with 2,297. He also holds records for the most games played (3,298), at-bats (12,364), most years with 100 runs scored (15), as well as many others.

Currently vice president and director of player personnel for the Atlanta Braves, Aaron was not at the announcement made by the BBWAA. He was expected in New York late yesterday, delayed by travel problems in Atlanta.

Robinson, currently the manager of the Giants, hit 586 home runs in his major league career and was named Most Valuable Player in the NL in 1961 with Cincinnati and MVP in the AL with Baltimore in 1966.

When he was named manager of the Cleveland Indians in 1975, he became the first member of his race to be put in charge of a major league team.

... Irish

Wrestlers undefeated; win triangular match

By BRIAN REIMER
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame Wrestling team raised its won-loss record to 6-0 with a convincing triangular sweep last night at the ACC pit. The Irish pounded Huntington College 38-6 and whipped Concordia 33-18 to claim their second triangular win of the season.

"We were worried about this meet because of the injuries we've had recently, just about everyone has something wrong with them," claimed Coach Brother Joseph Bruno. 167-pounder Phil Baty suffered a stress fracture seven weeks ago and may wrestle in two weeks. The other injuries are not as bad.

Brian Erard was the lone pin winner against Concordia as he pinned John Partipilo in thirty-seven seconds at 158 pounds. Karl Dahlhauser (177-lbs) claimed the lone pin in the Huntington match. The Irish benefitted from three wins by forfeits in both matches. Coach Bruno admitted that the forfeits were very helpful. They served to offset a Notre Dame forfeit in the heavyweight division.

Over Christmas break, the wrestlers participated in the toughest college-style wrestling tournament in the country; the Midlands Invitational. Because of its open format, assistant coach Tihamer Toth-Fejel was able to wrestle at 142-lbs. He placed second. The Irish defeated Carthage in a dual meet and placed sixth as a team in the Olivet Tournament. Pete Agostino placed second at 142-lbs and Joe Andretti finished third at 118-lbs individual.

The Notre Dame wrestlers will face Wabash and Millikin on the road this Saturday. The Irish return home next Thursday to face Bowling Green and Defiance in a triangular at the Pit, starting at 7:00. The Bowling Green Falcons are a traditional Mid American Conference power and they pose a threat to Notre Dame's undefeated record.

we just happen to have a little more talent than they do."

Four Irish players reached double figures in the contest. In addition to Schueth, Ruth Kaiser, playing in front of a group of friends and relatives that out-numbered the St. Francis rooters in the small crowd, scored nine first-half points and finished with 13. Kaiser is a former resident of Chatsworth, Ill.

Bates and Laura Dougherty each scored a dozen. Dougherty was particularly instrumental in leading the Irish back into the game. She hit five straight second-half shots, all from the 16-18 foot range, after entering the game at the 14:19 mark. Included in the streak was a 16-foot jumper from straight away that came after a nice head-and-shoulder fake.

IRISH ITEMS — Turnovers were one of the things that displeased DiStanislao. Her team committed 31 in the contest, 13 of which were traveling violations. The Irish were a dismal 5 of 11 from the free throw line, but did hit 61 percent from the floor, connecting on 28 of 46 shots. Chris Prieboy, the Saint's leading scorer, was shut down in the second half. She scored only three points after tallying 17 in the first half on a variety of shots, including one prayer — a running jump-hook from five feet away on the baseline. Last night's game marked the return to uniform of sophomore guard Jenny Klauke. Klauke did not play, but will begin scrimmaging with her teammates today and should see action Saturday against SMU.

our program," DiStanislao said. "We defeated a team with an established program."

In order to capture the title of the Dial Classic, Notre Dame had to defeat Creighton and Marquette. The Irish overcame a slow start to defeat Creighton in the opener, 69-48. The Irish shot 53 percent from the field, while the Bluejays shot only 35 percent. Kaiser led all scorers with 14 points. Schueth added 13 points and freshman guard Laura Dougherty tallied 11.

Marquette had defeated Notre Dame twice in a row, including a 21-point victory at the ACC in 1980. But excellent team defense and good rebounding enabled the Irish to triumph this time, taking a 50-36 decision. Freshman guard Laura Dougherty led the Irish with 15 points. The Irish shot 74 percent (14 of 19) from the free throw line and allowed the Warriors to go to the line only twice in the contest. Schueth, who scored 24 points and grabbed 15 rebounds during the tournament, was named the Most Valuable Player. Kaiser was named to the all-tournament team.

"We learned some valuable lessons during the trip," she said. "We definitely need to concentrate more on playing to our own potential and not the level of our opponents. We should have won a few games by larger margins. But overall, we played very well."

'I was very impressed with Coach Faust and Notre Dame...'

Another change involves former center-guard coach Jim Higgins.

Higgins will remain on the offensive line, but will take over Backhus' job with the tackles and ends.

No replacement has been announced for Higgins' spot, though there have been reports that Larry Vander Heyden, a three-year offensive line coach with the National Champion Clemson Tigers, turned down an offer to coach in the same capacity at Notre Dame.

"I'm not going, but the only reason I turned it down is that if you're happy where you are, there's no reason to move," Vander Heyden told The Times of Hammond, Ind., this week.

"I was very impressed with Coach Faust and very impressed with Notre Dame. I think it's the pinnacle of college coaching."

"But things are going well here. We have a youngster that's a freshman here at Clemson, and we just didn't want to disrupt the family situation now."

best player, put on a show.

In front of nearly 18,000 at the Capital Centre, the largest crowd to see either team all year, the 7-4 center scored 17 points, grabbed 14 rebounds, and blocked four shots. He did it all while playing just 27 minutes.

And again, the Irish lost.

This week, the Irish decided to revamp their show. Things obviously weren't working out, and a change was mandatory.

So they watched South Carolina take San Francisco to overtime. Then, in the best Milton Berle tradition, they stole all the good punchlines.

Tough defensive work held Quintin Dailey to 13 points, and forced 7-1 center Wallace Bryant to play outside.

Tim Andree was the latest of Notre Dame's revolving stars. He played one of the best games of his career.

But in the end, the Irish lost.

Phelps, as always, was hopeful as the trip came to an end. With a little fine tuning, he thought, he might be able to keep the show from closing.

So Phelps will try to change the script. Already, he's had a comedy, a tragedy and an adventure story.

Now he wants a winner.

Kentucky is upset by Ole Miss

'Cats lose again

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Junior forward Carlos Clark scored 23 points last night to spark Mississippi to a 67-65 upset over No. 6 Kentucky in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

Ole Miss never trailed in the game, which finally was decided in the final minute on two free throws by Eric Laird.

Mississippi stretched its first-half lead to 25-12 on two free throws by Sean Tuohy, and the Rebels led 34-23 at the half.

Kentucky's Jim Master cut the Ole Miss lead to 36-30 early in the second half with a short jumper, but Mississippi pulled out to a 13-point margin with a field goal from Clark, the SEC's second-highest scorer with a 20.4 average.

The victory gave Ole Miss a 7-6 record overall and a 2-3 SEC mark, and Kentucky dropped to 9-3 and 2-2.

Tigers stay unbeaten

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Senior forward Ricky Frazier scored 15 points, including four on key layups late in the game, as No. 2 Missouri defeated Oklahoma State, 54-49, in Big Eight Conference action last night.

The victory improved the Tigers' record to 12-0 overall and 2-0 in the Big Eight. Oklahoma State is 8-5 and 0-1.

After trailing at the half, 32-27, the Cowboys came back with balanced scoring to tie the game at 40 with 14:06 left. Frazier then scored on two layups to give the Tigers a 46-42 lead.

Oklahoma State guard Matt Clark hit a three-point play to pull the Cowboys within 52-49 with 1:52 left. But Missouri forward Marvin McCrary hit two foul shots with a

Demons rout Cocks

CHICAGO (AP) — Forwards Terry Cummings and Bernard Randolph poured in 19 points each last night to lift No. 4 DePaul to a 92-59 rout of South Carolina.

The Blue Demons, 14-1, ripped through South Carolina's defense in the first half, picking up 11 steals while the Gamecocks committed 16 turnovers. The Gamecocks, 4-9, were outscored 31-10 in a 10:54 span as DePaul built a 72-37 advantage. During that spree, Randolph scored eight points and Cummings and Skip Dillard had six apiece.

Kenny Holmes, one of two sophomore forwards starting for South Carolina, led his team with 16 points.

Hawkeyes, Buckeyes hit the road tonight

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

Iowa's fifth-ranked Hawkeyes and Ohio State's red-hot Buckeyes hit the road this week with high hopes of keeping intact their perfect Big Ten basketball records.

Both teams were off to quick starts last week, each nailing a pair of victories to climb into a first-place tie in the conference race.

"The reason we're successful at this point is we've had two games at home," said Iowa Coach Lute Olson. "We play four of our next five games on the road."

Iowa goes to Minnesota on tonight in a battle of preseason favorites and then to Wisconsin Saturday while Ohio State journeys to Illinois on Thursday and continues on to Indiana Saturday.

"We're not going to Minnesota fearful of playing in Williams Arena," said Olson. "We don't have a kid on this squad that has lost in Williams Arena."

Iowa has won all three of its games at Minnesota in the last three seasons but Olson doesn't want to put that much importance on tonight's game.

"It's important, but if you don't look at the season as 18 games, you can get into trouble," he said. "If you don't get too depressed by your losses or too elated by your wins and you give a good effort in each game, when the 18 games are over you'll be on top."

Ohio State Coach Eldon Miller wondered about his team being the early season surprise.

"I don't know," said Miller. "All we're trying to do is have a little fun. What's surprising to a lot of people and to me is that our young back-court players are not looking like their age too much."

Freshmen guards Troy Taylor and Ron Stokes have fit into the Buckeye pattern beautifully and at times Miller has teamed them with Larry Huggins in employing a three-guard offense to go along with junior Clark Kellogg up front.

"Kellogg is improving and he's better than a year ago," said Miller. "He rebounds well and he has made strides in other phases of the game. I wouldn't trade him for any other front line player."

Floyd saves Hoyas

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (AP) — Eric Floyd sank a jump shot with 58 seconds left to play to lead Georgetown to a 62-60 victory over Seton Hall in Big East Conference action last night.

Georgetown had a halftime edge of 29-26 after the lead see-sawed back and forth during the first half.

Seton Hall took a 34-29 lead early in the second half on a pair of free throws by Dan Callandrillo. The score was tied five more times until Callandrillo sank a layup to give Seton Hall a 54-48 lead with 6:24 left to play.

A jumper by Floyd and four free throws by Pat Ewing gave the Hoyas a 60-58 advantage with 2:06 remaining. Callandrillo tied it with a jumper, but Floyd sank another jump shot to boost Georgetown to 62-60.

Callandrillo's last-second shot bounced off the rim at the buzzer.

Callandrillo lead all scorers with 23 points. Floyd had 19 for Georgetown, and Ewing added 14 points and nine rebounds.

The victory boosted Georgetown to 14-2 overall and 3-0 in the Big East, and dropped Seton Hall to 9-3 overall and 1-2 in the conference.

Second half dominance

Irish defeat St. Francis, 61-57

By MARK HANNUKSELA
Sports Writer

JOLIET, Ill. — Mary DiStanislao must have had a lot to say to her women's basketball team at halftime of last night's game against the College of St. Francis here.

The Irish coach kept her team in the lockerroom for more than 16 and one-half minutes of the 20-minute period. The team that finally emerged was different from the one that ended the first half eight points behind.

Notre Dame limited St. Francis to just 23 second-half points and put together a pair of offensive spurts that carried them to a 61-57 win.

It was the second of those two spurts that gave the Irish control of the game. Down 50-42 with just over eight minutes left, the Irish went on a 19-7 tear and finally took the lead on Mary Beth Schueth's double-clutch jumper with 3:10 left.

Almost two minutes later, Schueth scored again, this time from just right of the lane, after taking a pretty lob feed from junior guard Debbi Hensley. St. Francis was able to close the gap to one, 58-57, with 0:59 left, but a free throw by Schueth and two more by freshman Carrie Bates iced Notre Dame's fourth straight win and eighth of the season.

The Irish, losers of only three, were led by Schueth in both the scoring and rebounding departments. The Indianapolis native scored 11 second-half points, and finished with 17. She pulled down 10 rebounds, including three very big ones in the last three minutes.

Despite the win, DiStanislao was not pleased with her team's overall performance.

"I'm happy we had enough fortitude to pull it out down the stretch," she said, "but, other than that, I'm not happy at all. I wasn't happy with our post defense. We let them flash and post up and take it right to us."

And that's exactly what St. Francis did in the first half — take it right to Notre Dame, using an effective transition game and full-court pressure. The Lady Saints built a lead that reached ten points with less than two minutes left in the half.

"We were flat out-hustled in the first half," DiStanislao said. "With the exception of Butler (which scored 67 in a nine-point win over the Irish), that's the most points we've given up. We were guilty of a lack of aggressiveness that caused us to do some really dumb things."

"St. Francis deserved to win — they played very well," she said. "We were able to win the game because

Women cagers play well during break

The championship of the Dial Classic and a victory over highly-regarded Missouri were the highlights of Notre Dame's successful women's basketball campaign during semester vacation.

"We played well over the Christmas holiday," said Irish Coach Mary DiStanislao. "Our freshmen have really adjusted well to college basketball. At times, we made some mistakes due to our inexperience, but for the most part, I've been pleased with our play."

The Irish, who are now 8-3, began their road swing in Philadelphia at the Penn Tournament. In the opening round, freshmen Mary Beth Schueth and Carrie Bates led the way to a 62-47 victory over host Pennsylvania. Playing in Philadelphia's Palestra, regarded as one of the most difficult sites in the nation for visiting teams, the Irish turned a slim three-point halftime lead into a big win. Schueth scored 17 points, while Bates scored 14.

In the championship game of the Penn Tournament, Mount St. Mary's outscored Notre Dame by 17 points in the second half en route to a 57-44 victory. Freshmen again led the Irish in scoring. Schueth, Bates, and Ruth Kaiser tallied 10 points each. Schueth and Bates were selected to the all-tournament team.

The Irish then travelled to Kansas City for a clash with the Tigers, who defeated UCLA earlier in the season. The Irish, who trailed by three points at halftime, outscored the Tigers by 10 in the second half for a 60-53 victory. Irish assistant Coach Pat Knapp called the victory "our biggest win in two years. The girls really played well."

Missouri led by as many as five points in the second half, but Notre Dame kept it close with aggressive play. A layup by junior forward Shari Matvey with 9:45 left to play gave the Irish the lead for good. Matvey scored 11 points, while the freshman trio of Bates, Schueth and Kaiser scored 12 each. Schueth grabbed 13 rebounds as the Irish out-rebounded the Tigers, 42-35.

"This was a real big win for us and

Irish look good but lose to USF

By SKIP DESJARDIN
Sports Editor

OAKLAND, Calif. — Rumor had it that a sign had been hung over the door to the Oakland-Alameda County Coliseum.

"Abandon hope all ye who enter here," it supposedly said.

After all, Notre Dame had never won here. Moreover, the 2-8 Irish were going up against the nation's No. 7 team.

Apparently, however, Tim Andree and the Irish came in the back entrance Tuesday night and missed the sign. They played by far their best game of the season, and nearly beat the San Francisco Dons.

"We grew up tonight," said Digger Phelps after the 57-55 loss. "We have to play with the best teams in the country for 40 minutes. Now we know we can."

The Irish played better than they had all season, and Andree led the charge.

He scored 14 points, pulled down seven rebounds, blocked two shots and stymied the Dons' seven-foot center, Wallace Bryant.

"Tim played the best he has all year," said Phelps. "The whole team did just what they had to do to win."

In the end, it was Notre Dame's old nemesis, foul shooting, that did the team in. John Paxson missed the front end of a one-and-one with the score tied at 53 and just 48 seconds left on the clock. The Dons came up with the rebound, worked for a good shot, and got it.

Bryant's five-footer was followed by a Ken McAlister steal, and Bryant's two foul shots put the game out of reach.

"I wouldn't change anything about the end of the game," Phelps said. "John is the man we want at the line in that situation. It doesn't bother me that he missed. He did what he had to do for us all night."

Paxson's biggest contribution came on defense. He held Quintin Dailey to just 13 points, less than half his average.

The Irish used a sagging zone defense to trap Dailey whenever he got the ball. In addition, Andree, Tom Sluby and Bill Varner combined to force Bryant to shoot from outside the foul lane.

The Irish took a lesson from last Saturday's nationally-televized game between the Dons and South Carolina. They saw the Gamecocks outthrust their opponents, and saw how effective double- and triple-team defenses could be against Dailey.

"South Carolina taught us how to beat these guys," commented forward Gary Grassey.

Phelps, despite the loss, was happier than he's been in any post-game press conference all year.

"These guys really proved a lot to me tonight," he said. "We stayed with one of the best teams in the country for 40 minutes. A struggling team needs that."

"We played with composure. These guys never lost their cool. Psychologically, this game was as good as a win for us."

Now the Irish return home. They'll look at the lessons they learned on the road, and try to apply those lessons to the 16 games still to come.

"Hey," said Phelps, "we've still got a shot at the NIT."

Irish forward Tom Sluby (33) scores two points in ND's 92-70 loss to Missouri on Jan. 2. For more on the team's — and Sluby's — troubles, see stories this page. (photo by Rachel Blount)

ND may lose Sluby to the school books

Notre Dame Assistant Sports Information Director John Heisler yesterday refused to comment on reports that Irish sophomore forward Tom Sluby had been declared academically ineligible and would not be permitted to play for the remainder of the 1981-82 basketball season. But other University officials have indicated that the reports indeed are accurate.

The reports first surfaced on the MetroSports telecast of the Notre Dame-San Francisco game on Tuesday night, and were reiterated on several television news programs last night.

Heisler did say that, if an announcement on the subject is forthcoming, it would come either today or tomorrow, but he refused to elaborate.

If the reports are accurate, that would leave Digger Phelps with only seven healthy scholarship players on the squad: Mike Mitchell, John Paxson, Bill Varner, Tim Andree, Barry Spencer, Cecil Rucker and Ron Rowan. Freshman guard Dan Duff suffered an ankle injury against Virginia, and is out of the lineup indefinitely.

The team returned to South Bend late last night from the West Coast, and Sluby and the coaching staff were unavailable for comment.

Glad to be home Road life disagrees with cagers

By SKIP DESJARDIN
Sports Editor

In years past, they were mandatory stops on the vaudeville circuit.

Kansas City. Washington. A show every couple of nights. Philadelphia. Louisville. A few pratfalls and lots of laughs.

Unfortunately, vaudeville is dead.

Over Christmas break, while most students were at home shovelling snow and eating Mom's lasagna, the Notre Dame basketball team went on a cross-country tour.

In city after city, from coast to coast, the show went on. Every night the act was a little different but the outcome never changed.

Against Kentucky, Digger Phelps had a surprise. He devised a stall that held the Wildcats at bay for a full 40 minutes.

Joe B. Hall was content to sit back in a zone defense and let the clock tick away. It was almost a fatal mistake. Officials missed an obvious double dribble by Dirk Minniefield, allowing Kentucky to take the game into overtime and eventually win, 34-28.

John Paxson ran the delay game and scored almost half of Notre Dame's points.

But the Irish lost.

Against Missouri, they came up with 70 points, enough to have won or tied five of their nine losses this season.

Again, Paxson was the driving force. He scored 21 points, while holding Jon Sunvold, Missouri's star guard, to just six. He also dished out a game-high six assists.

But the Tigers hit 72 percent of their field goal attempts and 92 percent of their foul shots, setting school records in a 92-70 win.

And the Irish lost.

Back east, in Philadelphia, there was a new star. Paxson had an off night, scoring just five points. So Barry Spencer, who had not played in the two previous games, came up with the best game of his career. Tom Sluby also played his best game for Notre Dame the same night, as the two sophomores scored 18 and 13 points respectively.

But Notre Dame couldn't buy a free throw, hitting less than 44 percent from the line. Starters Paxson, Tim Andree and Mike Mitchell came up with just nine points between them. On the way to a 66-61 victory, LaSalle's freshman sensation, Steve Black, picked up 20 points on 8-for-13 shooting.

And the Irish lost.

The Virginia Cavaliers had been the No. 1 team in the country and were riding a 28-game winning streak when Notre Dame upset them last year in Chicago. They were looking for revenge, and they got it.

Ralph Sampson and company overwhelmed the Irish. Every Virginia player on the roster scored at least two points, and four players scored in double figures as Virginia coasted to an 87-54 win.

Not since Indiana and UCLA handed Phelps' first team back-to-back defeats by 65 and 58 points, respectively, had the Irish been humiliated in such a fashion.

Paxson got 21 points of his own, but Sampson, college basketball's

Backhus, Meyers fired; Faust makes changes

By KELLY SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

As expected, Notre Dame Head Coach Gerry Faust made several changes in his staff over the holidays, including the firing of two coaches.

Offensive line coach Tom Backhus and defensive line coach Bill Meyers were informed several days after Christmas that they would not be retained as Notre Dame assistants.

Backhus, who admitted to being "deeply disappointed" by the decision, was Faust's first high school All-American as a player at Moeller. Responsible for the tackles and ends last fall, he was offensive coordinator at Air Force in 1980 before coming to Notre Dame.

Backhus expressed the desire to remain in coaching if possible.

Meyers, who was unavailable for comment, had completed three seasons as an assistant at Notre Dame. A standout lineman on the Stanford University Rose Bowl teams, Meyers worked with the offensive line for two years under Dan Devine before Faust moved him over to the defense. He primarily coached the tackles.

In addition, Faust announced that quarterback-receiver coach Tom Lichtenberg, running back coach Greg Blache and line coach Jim Higgins would assume new duties on his staff.

Lichtenberg, who also serves as offensive coordinator for the Irish, will now become the backfield coach. Faust said he wished to retain Lichtenberg as his coordinator on offense, but felt it was in the team's best interests to relieve him of the tremendous responsibilities of coaching the quarterbacks. He has already named a replacement for that position.

Ron Hudson, a former backfield coach at UCLA, will work with the quarterbacks and receivers beginning this spring. Hudson coached at Oregon and Stanford, under San Francisco 49er coach Bill Walsh, before his stint with Terry Donohue and the UCLA Bruins. Faust said that the addition of Hudson, 36, "comes to us highly recommended by a number of head coaches, including Bill Walsh. It also enables us to give more individual attention to each phase of the offense."

In talking with other head coaches, Faust said it became apparent that giving one man the chores of being both offensive coordinator and quarterback coach, as he had done with Lichtenberg, was too much of a burden. With the changes, Faust hopes each will have more time to devote to the two positions.

Blache, who coached the Irish backfield this season, will take Meyers' job on the defensive line. A former defensive back for Notre Dame in 1967, Blache was defensive

Devine lands job as booster club prez

Former Notre Dame Head Coach Dan Devine, who resigned after the 1980 season, finally has found a new job.

After dabbling in various pursuits for the past year, and also being rumored for several vacant head coaching positions, Devine yesterday accepted the presidency of the Arizona State University "Sun Angels," a booster group that is unaffiliated with the university. ASU officials made the announcement at a press conference yesterday.

Devine, 57, has kept himself busy, most recently as an adviser for the new domed stadium in Minneapolis, but he has all but divorced himself from the Notre Dame football program although he has kept in touch with many of his former players. In recent weeks, Devine has been rumored for several head coaching positions, including the NFL's New England Patriots and also a Canadian Football League job.

He also remains the most mentioned candidate for the coach and general manager positions for a possible NFL franchise in Indianapolis, if and when the opportunity arises.

In accepting the ASU position, Devine returns to the school where he began his illustrious collegiate coaching career in 1955. He coached at ASU for three years and compiled a 27-3-1 record before moving on to head coaching jobs at Missouri, the Green Bay Packers, and finally Notre Dame.
