Two U.S. Marines killed in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Mortar shells fired by Moslem militiamen killed two U.S. Marines yesterday.

And at least 36 Lebanese died when fighting broke out as the Lebanese army tried to crack down on Shiite Moslem militias.

The militiamen had seized control of parts of west Beirut.

The two Marines were the first deaths in Lebanon, and the fighting was the hardest in the country since the Israeli invasion in June 1982.

And the new battles posed a serious challenge to President Amin Gemayel's 11-month-old government.

In Washington, a Marine Corps statement said 14 other Marines were "slightly wounded." Reports in Lebanon listed eight of the Marines as seriously wounded.

The Marine Corps communique identified the killed Marines as 2nd Lt. Donald Losey, 28, of Winston-Salem, N.C., and Staff Sgt. Alexander M. Ortega, 25, of Rochester, N.Y.

The communique noted that the number of Marines reported wounded continued to increase through the day "as Marines report to aid stations."

The Marines were killed and wounded by mortar shells fired by members of the pro-Iranian Shiite militia group, Amal. The shells hit Marine positions at the international airport on the south side of Beirut, a Marine spokesman in Lebanon said.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said that the fire which hit the Marines "appears to have been directed at the Lebanese armed forces positions."

But the American peacekeepers retaliated with a 40-minute artillery attack. Mortar and helicopter gunships silenced the militia batteries, the spokesman reported.

Twenty five civilians and 11 soldiers were killed in the second day of fighting between the army and Amal, and 130 civilians and 60 troops were wounded — 16 of the troops seriously — Beirut police reported.

The Shiites captured an unknown number of army soldiers and several armored personnel carriers, but Shiite casualties were not reported.

By nightfall, Amal militiamen were in control of several residential neighborhoods in west Beirut, as well as all crossing intersections to Christian east Beirut.

The only army presence left in west Beirut was near Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan's office at the entrance to Hamra, the main commercial thoroughfare, and near the American University of Beirut in the Manara neighborhood.

Gemayel interrupted a four-hour emergency Cabinet session at his presidential palace in Baabda, in the pine woods east of the city, to discuss the situation with U.S. presidential envoy Robert C. McFarlane.

In Santa Barbara, Calif., President Reagan expressed "profound sorrow" over the death of the two Marines.

Begin resignation plan announcement today

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Menachem Begin kept Israel in suspense yesterday by delaying his planned resignation for the second time.

But he promised final word this morning.

Heads of the ruling coalition parties spent about three hours pleading with Begin to change his mind.

Members of Begin's Herut Party said after meeting with him late yesterday that he would make the announcement today at a meeting with leaders of his coalition after seeing U.S. special envoy Robert C. McFarlane.

Ehud Olmert, a member of Herut's parliamentary faction, said after meeting with Begin, "His mood is very relaxed."

Olmert said that Begin "is resolved to retire." But Ronnie Milo, another parliamentary deputy and Begin's son-in-law, said the chances were 50-50 that Begin would stay on.

Twenty-four hours after Begin dropped his bombshell announcement at a routine Cabinet meeting, the reasons for his move remained largely unknown, and throughout the country, Israelis kept their radios tuned to live broadcasts from the doorstep of Begin's office.

Israel radio said Begin told his colleagues his reasons were strictly personal. Begin denied reports that he had become fed up with his Cabinet, which has grown increasingly split and unstable in trying to deal with the inflation-torn economy.

A crowd of 50 supporters gathered across the street from Begin's home in the Rehavia quarter of Jerusalem, chanting, "Begin, king of Israel, lives." They waved placards urging him not to resign, including one which said, "Begin, don't abandon us at a time of trouble."

Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir was mentioned in the Israeli media as Begin's likeliest successor. But Israel Army radio later reported that Deputy Premier David Levy also had solid backing.

Coalition Chairman Avraham Shapira said an early election was possible and mentioned November as a likely date. He said he did not know whether Begin planned to run for re-election.

Begin denied the notion that he felt too feeble to lead Israel through tough political and economic times, the radio said.

Health Minister Eliezer Shostak said at a news conference that Begin did not feel physically and mentally on top of his job, but Begin cut him short saying "no, that isn't the reason," the radio reported.

Begin's colleagues said they argued that his timing was politically and religiously bad.

West German C.T. hancellor Helmut Kohl is about to visit Israel, and the country is about to carry out a complex partial withdrawal from Lebanon and implement a series of unpopular economic measures.

Automated tellers arrive at ND

By MARK WORSCHER
News Editor

It's Friday afternoon. You're short on cash. The line at the cashier's office in the Administration Building stretches out the door. Your alternative? The Bus Shelter. Yes, the Bus Shelter, because that's where the Notre Dame Credit Union has installed its latest 24-hour Automated Teller Machine — "The Exchange."

Announced with much publicity more than a year ago, the machines were supposed to begin serving students in January. It was not until late spring, however, that credit-union customers were able to use the machines.

Paula Nemeth, an employee of the credit union, said that all three automatic tellers are working now. Additional machines are located at the Main Office on Douglas Rd. and the St. Joseph Medical Center. A fourth machine will open soon at the Torrington Branch, 3509 West Sample.

Customers must obtain a plastic bank card and a Personal Identification Number to use the machines. Nemeth said that students can either apply for the service in person or call the credit union. It usually takes two to four weeks to get the card and the identification number, she said.

The credit union charges a $1 a month for the card. Most South Bend banks, including the St. Joseph Bank and 1st Source Bank, do not charge for automatic-teller service.

But Nemeth said that those banks place "outrageous service charges" on their checking accounts while the credit union doesn't charge for checking.

With the teller cards, customers can make deposits, withdrawals, loan payments and fund transfers. The Exchange is also a nationwide network, and customers can call 1-800-237-ATMS to find out other Exchange locations.

Up to $100 can be withdrawn per day from The Exchange, with the period from 2 p.m. Friday to 2 p.m. Monday considered one day. Nemeth said the credit union made the weekend hours because it is not open and reports are not run on Saturday or Sunday.

In Brief

Michael Loux, chairman of Notre Dame's philosophy department, has been named dean of the College of Arts and Letters. Loux, a specialist in metaphysics, Greek philosophy and the philosophy of language, came to Notre Dame in 1968 after receiving his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. He has written seven books and has received two awards for outstanding instruction — the Sheedy award in 1974 and the Madden Award in 1979. Loux became chairman of the philosophy department last year. — The Observer

Richard Foley, associate professor of philosophy, will replace Michael Loux as chairman of the philosophy department on Thursday. Foley, a specialist in epistemology, received a Ph.D. in 1975 from Brown University. He came to Notre Dame in 1976. Foley has been co-director of the undergraduate program in philosophy and coordinator of the department's honor-thesis program since 1979. — The Observer

Professor of American Studies, Thomas J. Schlereth, has been named to the national editorial board of Museum Studies Journal, a San Francisco-based publication of the Center for Museum Studies at John F. Kennedy University. — The Observer

Monsignor Joseph Gremillion has become the new director of Notre Dame's Institute for Pastoral and Social Ministry. Gremillion, who has served on two papal commissions, has been director of social and ecumenical ministry since 1978 in the diocese of Alexandria-Shreveport in Louisiana. He replaces Monsignor John Egan, who resigned in April to take a post in the Archdiocese of Chicago. — The Observer

Art professor Susan P. Madigan has been elected secretary of the Association of Alumni of the Dumbarton Oaks International Center for Byzantine Studies in Washington, D.C. She will edit the group's quarterly bulletin. — The Observer

Philosophy professor Father Ernan McMullin has been named the president of the American Philosophical Association, western division. McMullin, director of the history and philosophy of science program, has been president of the other three major American philosophical groups — the Philosophy of Science Association, the Metaphysical Society of America and the American Catholic Philosophical Association. — The Observer

Need that final touch to make your room distinctively you? Try the Stepan Mall tomorrow and Thursday. The mall, sponsored by the Student Union, features everything a dorm room could want: plants, furniture, posters and other knickknacks. The Used Book Exchange, which has moved to the mall this year, starts Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Used books can be dropped off tomorrow, and money and unsold books will be returned Friday. The Stepan Mall opens tomorrow at 9 a.m. and runs through 6 p.m. — The Observer

The theatre department of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's will hold an informal reception for interested freshmen tonight at 7 in O'Laughlin Auditorium at Saint Mary's. Theatre faculty and students will discuss how students can get involved in the department. Audition for the department's first three plays will also be held next week. — The Observer

A Mass officially opening the 141st academic year at Notre Dame will be at 10:30 a.m. Sunday, Sept. 18, in Sacred Heart Church. Father Theodore Hesburgh, University president, will be the principal celebrant, and Timothy O'Meara, provost, will give the homily. — The Observer

A little constructive advice

As the joy of moving into dorms and off-campus abodes subsides, students may find many surprises awaiting them as they wander across campus. Both the newly oriented freshmen and the experienced upperclassmen at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's will encounter numerous physical changes and additions.

The alterations, from newly renovated student centers at both schools to comfortable seats in the Engineering Auditorium to strange new log creations lurking at the edge of Saint Mary's Lake, may start a few students thinking. The changes should open some eyes to the many opportunities on both campuses that are not presently taken advantage of.

The major building renovations, of course, will have students flocking to them out of sheer curiosity. The first floor of LaFortune, at the sacrifice of the sunken courtyard, is finally functional and aesthetically pleasing. If the same type of attention is paid to the ballroom and the upper floors, maybe the student center will at last begin to attract the student body.

Perhaps Notre Dame could take some lessons from Saint Mary's in that department. The new Hagggar College Center, created from the former library, means the College has finally provided much-needed social space for its students.

The new bookstore, snack bar and lounges finally give Saint Mary's a social facility worth staying on campus for. The new student offices, for so long banished to the catacombs beneath Regina, should serve as encouragement for Saint Mary's students who want to become involved, yet appreciate daylight too.

The snack bar of the new center is particularly impressive. The Huddle, even with the booths and new-wave ceiling taken into account, may at last be faced with some serious culinary competition.

Students might also take better advantage of the co-exchange program between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. While the debates rage about the food quality at the two institutions, few students take it upon themselves to actually procure a co-ex card and partake in the scrumpuous fare available on the other side of the road.

That Mecca of campus social life, the Engineering Auditorium, will certainly be drawing the crowds now. The addition of cushioned seats, a raised stage and new equipment ensure that this year's freshmen will never be able to fondly reminisce about the hard, cramped seating and poor projection quality of their collegiate cinema experiences.

Inside Tuesday

The new mall under construction at Notre Dame (more commonly known as The Place Where the Old Fieldhouse Used to Be) holds some interesting possibilities. While the area presently appears as a maze of concrete, sand and unusual lumps, it might actually be a credible addition when completed. By adding a few benches and picnic tables and keeping the silver posts to a minimum, the area could become a popular campus spot.

Students may find enjoyment exploring the concrete expanses of the numerous sidewalks Notre Dame added during the summer. While the chaotic, widened walkways between LaFortune and Washington leave one wondering why they just didn't cover all the grass, some of the new sidewalks really are quite helpful. With the new cement strip from O'Shag to the library, students are going to be hard pressed to find creative new routes across the grass.

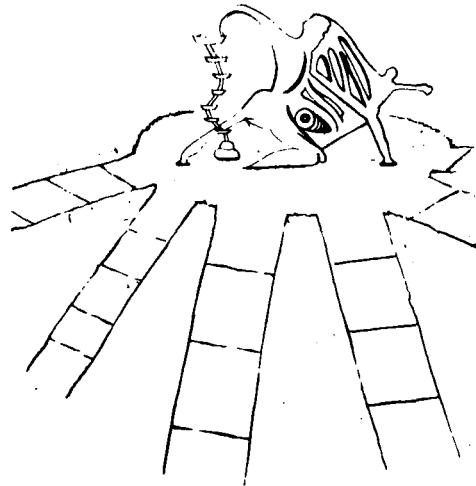

The two new pieces of outdoor modern art at Notre Dame, while hardly subtle blendings of the campus architecture, may intrigue some students. And if you'd like to see some real art, saunter over to the Snite Museum, a facility that far too many students ignore during their years here.

On the natural side, the outskirts of the campus are potentially a source of unlimited undergraduate adventure. Unfortunately, most students never take advantage of the outer realm.

The lake area in particular can be the source of quite a bit of collegiate activity. The island, complete with new railroad ties to halt erosion, is always a pleasant spot to feed the ducks or watch a sunset.

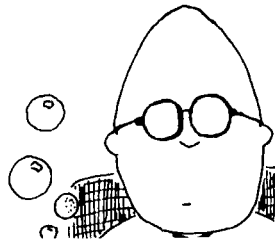

The Notre Dame Beach, located on the beautiful shores of Saint Joseph's Lake, is a spot few students frequent, except perhaps for an illicit early morning dip. Few universities, however, sport such a facility. But if one doesn't mind nibbling fish (and warm waters as a result of the nearby power plant), the beach can add much to one's Notre Dame experience.

The renovations and additions are merely stepping stones to further enjoyment during one's years at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. These are only some of the legitimate facilities available. The possibilities are endless.

Welcome Week activities continue

By AMY STEPHAN
Copy Editor

You can rollerskate tonight. Go dancing under the stars Thursday. And check out the Dunes this weekend.

All free of charge, during "Welcome Week" at Notre Dame.

This afternoon, take off on a scavenger hunt.

The hunt will leave from the front steps of LaFortune at 3 p.m.

The Stepan basketball courts will become an outdoor skating rink tonight from 7 to 10. A DJ will provide music and skates will be available free. Remember to bring your ID and socks.

You can purchase necessities for your room at the Stepan Mall on Wednesday and Thursday. Area vendors will sell art, furniture, rugs and other supplies, while the Irish Gardens will sell plants.

The Student Union book sale will be incorporated with the Stepan Mall this year. Books will be collected tomorrow and sold on Thursday.

Musical entertainment will be at noon tomorrow and Thursday. The band Trinity will play tomorrow, and Shenanigans will perform on Thursday. Both groups will perform in front of the statue of Father Sorin, at the south of the main quad.

Be at the 'Brar Thursday night, but don't bring your books. The library reflecting pool is the site for a "Dance under the Stars." A DJ will provide music and special effects, including a fog machine.

Experience a "Taste of Notre Dame" on Friday. The North Dining Hall will be closed and about 80 area food vendors will be distributing samples of their products on the south side of Stepan Center from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Stepan Center is also the site of the Carne picnic, which will feature the band Par III and field games similar to those at An Tostal. The picnic will be from 4 to 7 p.m. on Friday.

The movie "Blazing Saddles" will be shown at Stepan Center at 10 p.m. on Friday. Admission is $1.

If you've always wanted to play in a band, but can't play an instrument, get a group together for the air-band competition on Saturday. Contestants will have six minutes to perform to prerecorded music using original props and costumes.

You'll have the "Chance to Dance at a Polish Wedding" on Saturday at 9 p.m. The band Nightflight will play both polka music and rock music, and Polish food will be sold. The finals of the air-band competition will be held then.

A bus will leave for the Warren Dunes at 10 a.m. on Sunday and will return around 4:30 p.m. Sign-ups for this trip will be on Friday at the Student Union Record Store.

In addition to these Student Union activities, individual classes are planning many events.

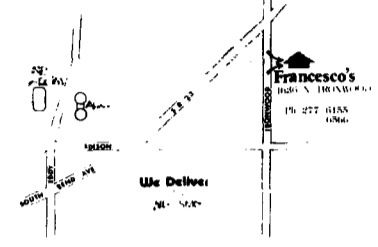

The senior class is holding a social at Rafferty's from 4 to 6:30 tonight, picnics on Wednesday from 4:30 to 6 p.m. at the Saint Mary's beer gardens and Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. on Green Field, and a canoe trip on Friday from 2 to 4:30 p.m.

The junior class is sponsoring a golf tournament on Wednesday and a junior night at Giuseppi's on Friday.

Services planned for Walsh soph. killed in wreck

By TOM MOWLE
Copy Editor

Memorial services are being planned for Cathy Pax, a Walsh sophomore who died in an automobile accident 10 days ago.

Pax, 19, was killed in a two-car accident Aug. 20 while returning to her home in Coldwater, Ohio, from a summer job. According to the Hamilton post of the State Highway Patrol, her vehicle crossed the center line and was struck by a motor home. She was pronounced dead at the scene.

Pax was a copy editor and a senior staff reporter for The Observer. She also was fund-raiser chairman for Walsh.

One other sophomore and two retired Holy Cross priests also died during the summer.

Mark Lamping, 19, died in his home in Colorado Springs, Colorado, on June 13. The Sorin resident was an Air Force ROTC cadet and a member of Alpha Phi Omega, a volunteer services organization.

Father Louis Thornton died Aug. 5 in the Holy Cross House at the age of 77. Before he retired in 1970, Thornton was registrar and director of the placement bureau.

Father Francis O'Hara, 84, former professor of psychology died on June 23 at the Holy Cross House. O'Hara taught at Notre Dame for 10 years, and lived here in retirement since 1970.

Jackowski named new SMC Dean

By ANNE MONASTYRSKI
Saint Mary's Editor

Sister Karol A. Jackowski, former director of residence life, was named Dean of Student Affairs at Saint Mary's this summer.

And Pat Rissmeyer, former programming coordinator at the University of Massachusetts assumed Jackowski's position.

Other appointments at the College included: Nancy Schoeneman, assistant director of the counseling and career development center; Nancy Foldesi, counselor in the center; Amy Lowden, counselor in admission; and Rev. Thomas Mayeski, campus minister.

Jackowski replaced Kathleen Rice who resigned as dean at the end of last semester. Jackowski was director of residence life for five years before assuming position as dean of student affairs.

"I had done what I wanted to do. The job was getting stale," said Jackowski.

College establishes lost aid fund

By BOB VONDERHEIDE
 News Editor

Goshen College is setting up a special $15,000 fund to replace federal aid lost if students fail to register with the Selective Service.

The Mennonite school southeast of Notre Dame is one of a handful of colleges that have acted to offset a new law linking draft-registration status to federal financial aid.

Notre Dame has not considered a special fund.

The law, which passed Congress easily last year, requires students receiving federal aid to submit a form stating they have complied with Selective Service laws.

Failure to submit the form by Oct. 1 will force financial-aid offices to cancel the credit of federal assistance dispersed after July 1, according to Joe Russo, financial-aid director at Notre Dame.

The Goshen College plan would replace dollar-for-dollar any canceled federal financial aid — which includes the popular Guaranteed Student Loan program.

But Goshen financial-aid director Walter Schmucker said the plan's cost "is not going to be significant." Schmucker said the plan will replace grant money with grant money, and loans with other loans.

He said special contributions from Mennonite Church members will pay for the expected $15,000 annual fund.

And at least three other Mennonite schools will have a special fund. Some Quaker schools, including Earlham College in Richmond, Ind., and Brethern Church schools, such as Manchester College in Manchester, Ind., are also planning a fund.

Russo said at Notre Dame, of the forms already submitted to the financial-aid office, no male student has refused to register.

The Education Department originally set July 1 as the deadline for submitting the form, but financial-aid directors complained of too little time to handle the paper work.

A month ago, the Education Department moved the deadline to Sept. 1, but this week the department again extended the deadline one month to Oct. 1 "in anticipation" of congressional action.

Under the law, male students between the ages of 18 and 22 will have to submit a form to the Office of Financial Aid stating that they have registered.

Appreciate the place

For the last few days the incoming freshmen at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's were immersed in a sea of orientation information and activity. Shortly, this will be replaced with the daily grind of classes and homework.

Somewhere between the two, freshmen should take the time to look around and really get to know Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. There are students who let their undergraduate careers pass without once exploring this place in which they live. The pressures of college life make it easy for a student to get caught up in wandering aimlessly from dorm to class to library and home again.

It is all too common to fall into a pattern of complaining about the dining halls, Indiana weather and the dean's directives. Less common is the time spent talking to the hall chaplain, the visiting alumnus or the stranger in the lunch line. Becoming part of a university or college does not mean one must sacrifice individualism.

Stepping beyond the sidewalks and the silver posts is also important. There are more than a few Notre Dame and Saint Mary's graduates who never took the time to wander through the Administration Building, sit by Lake Marion or read Tom Dooley's letter at the Grotto. Taking the time to sit back and take a look at the campuses gives one a different perspective on the college years.

Criticism often seems the norm during the undergraduate years. This is not entirely bad — without criticism there is no progress. But the freshmen should make it a point to make the criticism helpful. The good side of campus life should be recognized and students should work to make it better.

There are few better ways the class of 1987 can improve campus life than through knowing the campuses. Knowing the place is essential to capturing the essence of the university and the college.

The Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community has a lot of things going for it. Incoming freshmen: appreciate the place.

College: a great opportunity

So here you are. After months and years of waiting and working and hoping, you've finally made it. But now you're beginning to wonder: Was it worth it? Is Notre Dame or Saint Mary's as good as rumor makes it? Will I get along with my roommates? Can I handle the work? Is this really the best that dining hall food ever gets?

Tom Mowle

On the Line

None of that is easy to answer (except the last one: yes, I'm afraid it is). Over the last couple of days, a lot of people have thrown a lot of information at you, a lot of which you forgot within a few hours because they were trying to tell you how a student should behave in college, while you want to behave however you please. Which is justified.

Look at this as a great opportunity: for one of the last times in your life, you are entering a new environment with no reputation at all

Here's your chance to start over, to establish a whole new character for yourself! Chances are that no one here knows you, and those who do have better things to do than mess up your life.

If you feel that you spent too much time buried in the books and want to be more social, go ahead! No one here knows that you were a geek in high school. Or if you think that you partied too much and really ought to pay a little more attention to classes, no one here will tell you, "But you never studied before. It's only a mid-term. C'mon, let's get wasted."

The important thing is to establish for yourself who you are and what you want to do. I know, that's much easier for me to say than for you to accomplish, but it's the only way to avoid being manipulated by everyone into being what they want you to be. And you must do this as soon as possible, because once you begin to create your reputation it can be hard to shake.

If you start out as a throat for six weeks, then suddenly want to party all the time, you won't feel you fit in with the blow-off crowd; while the friends you had will wonder what's wrong with you. It works the other way as well, perhaps to an even greater extent: you'll always be bothered by people who want you to do something — anything — besides study. Schizophrenia probably isn't the way to go.

The other important thing is to avoid worrying. Freshmen always worry too much. Don't worry because everyone works better when relaxed. And don't worry because there is little need to.

You can handle school here. The fact that you were accepted proves that. Whether you will do well or not depends on how hard you try.

You will get used to the food. No, don't panic; that doesn't mean you'll go home on break and ask Mom for spinach quiche. But you will develop a resistance to what is served.

No, you won't be studying fifty hours a week, whatever Emil told you. I don't know whether you should or not, but you won't.

Yes, Virginia, there is a social life here. People will tell you there isn't, but if you pay attention, you'll find that these people don't try; they want someone else to give them things to do. If your impression of college life comes from Animal House, you're on the wrong campus, but this place is not as dead as some say. South Bend, however, is deader than you can even imagine.

Another common complaint is the difficulty of relating to the opposite sex on campus. This complaint is somewhat justified. For some reason, it takes more effort here to develop friendships with the opposite sex than it did in high school, but it is very worthwhile to do so. Romance — no; it is possible, but not necessarily as beneficial as good, strong friendships.

Get involved in something, or you'll burn out quickly. It doesn't matter what — athletics, music, volunteer work, windsurfing, this paper (I had to put that in to get this printed) — but extracurriculars enable you to meet other people, to feel that you're doing something more than Calculus homework. Unless, of course, you want to sit through graduation four years from now listening to someone important and wondering: Was it worth it?

The freshman dean held the attention of hundreds of students as he delivered the opening address at orientation week. The shy students proceeded to turn their heads first to the right, then the left.

Keith Picher

Short of Profundity

"One of you three will not survive the year."

The words struck the bewildered freshmen like news of a close friend's death. Silence settled over the auditorium, followed by nervous laughter. Like the Apostles at the Last Supper, every student sought reassurance wondering to themselves, "Surely not I?"

"The freshman year is a test," the speaker barked out like a drill sergeant. "You'll get more F's and D's in the next two months than you had A's in high school. We're not here to fool around — we're here to find out who's serious about their life. If you're not up to the challenge, the door's over there."

Though many students felt like walking out, something mysterious kept them in their seats. After the dean finished his Rockne-like pep talk, every freshman resolved that he or she would not flunk out. They left the building, and the rat race began.

At year's end a full third of the students had left school. Their life now seemed hopelessly confused. Worst of all, the administration felt they had done their job.

Across the country a different dean talked with several hundred young adults. He seemed almost like a parent — ready to offer advice, but eager to let each child discover.

"Look at the hundreds of new students seated to your right and left," the dean suggested. "Over ninety-nine percent of you will be here at the end of the year."

The speaker's words reassured the neophytes. They had heard horror stories about the rigors of the freshman year, and were relieved to know that they would survive it.

"The freshman year is a difficult experience and we'll be sure to help you with senior advisors, advisors from the Freshman Year Office, and tutors, should you need them." Already he had begun to sow seeds of confidence.

"Don't feel bad when you get your first B or C in a course. With enough work, grades will take care of themselves. But if you ever need our help, the front door to the office is right over there."

Though many of the parents felt like hugging the man as he walked away from the podium, something mysterious made them applaud politely instead.

After the dean finished his pep talk, the students were glad they had come. They left the building, and their college career began.

At year's end only a few had left school. Their year had been challenging but not unbearable because the administration had done their job well.

No, the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College may not be academic Harvards or MIT's, but they do have an administration, faculty, and student body who care about their incoming freshmen.

The doors are open

by Sarah Hamilton

Colleges across the country are opening their doors to welcome the Class of 1987 this weekend. And Notre Dame and Saint Mary's are following suit. For Domer freshmen, this weekend will be filled with seemingly endless speeches, mixers and picnics and countless nameless yet smiling faces.

Dr. Emil T. Hofman is one face whose name will soon become quite familiar. As dean of the Freshman Year of Studies, he and his staff are probably some of the most dominant forces in a student's first year under the dome. The Freshman Year of Studies office serves two main purposes. It administers the freshman curriculum and helps students plan their schedules. Also, it provides freshmen with a system of supports.

The freshman curriculum builds a foundation of general education, and as Hofman described, it allows students to "sample an area of specialization before having to commit (oneself) to a major."

An advising team, consisting of nine counselors and 63 senior interviewers, forms the backbone of the supports system. Directed by Dr. Peter P. Grande, this set of full-time professionals and specially selected students tries to aid first-year students in personal adjustment, academic survival and long-range planning.

Because academia is the major reason for attending any college, survival in this area is utmost. For this reason, the Learning Resource Center is available to freshmen. In this center, located in Brownson Hall, help is provided in certain learning skills and remedial or background material. Tutoring can be arranged over and above that which the teacher and course provide, but only when a passing grade is in jeopardy.

An example of this center's various facilities is the new pre-calculus program. This learning aid involves a series of 15 video-taped lectures and supplementary materials organized by Dr. Alan Howard of the Math Department.

Interest inventories are one means of long-range planning assistance furnished by the Learning Resource Center. Printed materials and video tapes are also available.

Though the Freshman Year of Studies office provides programs and counselors, it is the student who will eventually sink, drift or sail. So he is the one who must make use of them as well as organize himself. According to Hofman, time management is the "most important technique for freshmen to master" if they are to sail. Consequently, time management is the subject of one of four workshops offered to freshmen. Workshops on note taking, effective study, taking tests and writing papers are also available. (See the accompanying calendar for dates, times and places.)

If it is not already obvious, college does not end at 3 p.m. It is a complete living experience. This is especially true at ND, a university which emphasizes its residentiality. The Freshman Year of Studies office does not shut down at 3 p.m. either. For this semester alone, trips to the Dunes, shopping tours of South Bend, a square dance and many more activities are scheduled. (See accompanying calendar.)

"Don't make the mistake of thinking there is nothing to do here but fall into the drinking scene," emphasized Hofman. "There are so many good things to do here... you have available to you here the nicest group of people you're ever going to meet."

A little student initiative can open the doors to all of these "good things" and nice people. And the Freshman Year of Studies is waiting with the key.

Dean Hofman swings open the door on the 1983-84 school year. (The Observer/Scott Bower)

The suitcase contains the key

by Sarah Hamilton

Welcome! You have arrived. In case you are wondering where it is that you have arrived, you are just west of civilization and just east of America's heartland. South Bend is the nearest metropolis, and the closest means of escape to the real world is Chicago's O'Hare airport. (Piedmont does fly from South Bend to Newark, but I'm talking real world.)

Congratulations are most definitely in order. You are the best and the brightest of your high school graduating classes. You survived senioritis; mastered that menace, the Scholastic Aptitude Test; and most difficult of all, made the choice to leave your hometown honey. At least until October break, which, incidentally, begins Oct. 22. You are now an official freshman at the University of Notre Dame du Lac.

I'm quite certain that you have been well-prepared to handle the rigors that this Harvard of the Midwest will present. After all, you are the best and brightest. With the help of Dean Emil you have created a first-semester schedule designed to introduce you to higher education without locking you into any college at this point.

But are you ready for college life? Really ready? College life now, not higher education. I didn't think so. Well, that is what freshman orientation is all about. So let me start orienting.

Let's face it, Best and Brightest, you may have scored "fives" on all A.P. exams from Ancient Greek to Advanced Calculus, and you may have banked 18 grand, but if you haven't packed your suitcase right, you are not going to make it. (The $18,000 won't hurt though.)

First off, Notre Dame is older than the hills. (Hills in Indiana? OK, so it is older than the bumps.) And so are the dormitories. But they are full of character. (Except for Flanner and Grace, and they are full of air-conditioning; and the Pasquerillas, and they, well... they have bathtubs.) Consequently, though all dorms do claim indoor plumbing and electricity, they never actually promised that every room would have an electric outlet.

You did pack extension cords, didn't you? Three-hundred yards or so should be sufficient, depending on the length of your hallway and the location of your room. Other than in a few senior rooms (something to look forward to), these fountains of electricity have been strategically positioned in the dorms at each end of the hallway on every other floor. With your $18,000 you might try purchasing electricity on the black market.

Six-foot extension cords are on sale in the bookstore for $1.50.

No doubt you have been forewarned about South Bend's winters. Ignore the fact that most of the students were wearing shorts March 3, 1983. It was a fluke. The killer plows will be racing their engines again this November. Another ice age is coming, you know.

You did bring your battery-operated, temperature self-adjusting thermal underwear, didn't you? If perchance you left them at home, here's how to dress for a typical January day at ND: For breakfast, there is no appropriate attire, no one is going to breakfast in January! You do have to go to your eight o'clock finite math class, though, so dress warmly. Stepan Hall can be brutal, and the temperature is chilly too. Two sweaters, wool socks, a ski vest and hat will do. You can stay dressed as such until your 11:15 French class on the fourth floor of the Administration Building. Then, strip down to your alligator and bermudas!

Upon returning to your dorm room for the evening you may need to pull out your designer swim suit. A tropical jungle if not paradise is always a possibility. If your room faces one of the lakes, however, you're better off sporting the Nanook look.

Two C-cell batteries are on sale in the bookstore for $2.60. Thermal underwear can be purchased at University Park Mall, which is situated on State Road 2.

In the midst of all the excitement and confusion we must always keep in mind our purpose for attending this hallowed institution: acquiring a superior liberal education.

Hence, you did bring an extra pillow, didn't you? No, not for your Philosophy 101 but one you can scream into on Thursday nights.

E-M-I-L! Unfortunately not all of the freshman class partake in this Notre Dame ritual, but for the 1,000 or so of you who will, have fun. (Heh, heh, heh.) I'll say no more. Discover the exhilaration of Chemistry 115 on your own.

Fighting Irish pillows are on sale in the bookstore for $6.95. A genuine feather pillow is more effective though.

This year marks the 12th year of co-education at Notre Dame. But as we all know or will soon learn (Biology 101), men and women are different. Therefore, their suitcases must see a parting of the ways.

Lady Domers, you did pack at least 10 assorted colored sweatsuits two sizes too large, didn't you? The gentlemen of this campus seem to think that our wardrobes consist entirely of fleecewear with drawstrings. (Have they looked in their own closets lately?) I guess this is what they mean by equal-opportunity education. Besides, think what new possibilities "Flashdance" has created for the sweatshirt.

Irish sweat apparel is available in the bookstore in a variety of styles and prices. But you'll want to go off campus to round off your wardrobe.

To complete the picture of the Notre Dame woman, unpack your super industrial-size ice cream bowls. You didn't forget them, did you? I thought everyone knew that ND ladies were infamous for their ice cream eating habits. If you seek quick adjustment and acceptance, plan at least four trips to the ice cream freezer nightly, and remember, Sunday is sundae night in the old dining hall. Those sweats won't be two sizes too big in May!

The bookstore doesn't carry a supply of bowls, but extra large mugs are available for $4.00.

Gentlemen, don't think your suitcase is full yet. In choosing ND, fellows, you made a decision to come to a college where there are more cows in the surrounding fields than there are women on campus.

So, if you want to attract any females of the species your suitcase had better be specially equipped. Forget the suitcase, just load up the wallet! This is where the $18,000 comes in handy. Find me one girl who doesn't like to be indulged. And then there are those dorm parties. They bring women in herds, but relieve you of dollars even faster. Well, when that supply of currency runs low, say in November, remember to get Dad's check to the bank before it closes.

Notre Dame Credit Union hours are Monday through Wednesday and Friday 8:30 a.m. through 5 p.m. and Thursday 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

The Cashier's Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. and 1 to 4:30 p.m.

And now, Best and Brightest, your suitcases should be pretty well equipped. If they're not, you'll never fit everything in your dresser. Trust me, I know. Oh, don't forget that last little knickknack in the side pocket: your naive freshman look and matching star-filled eyes. Welcome.

Loft it!

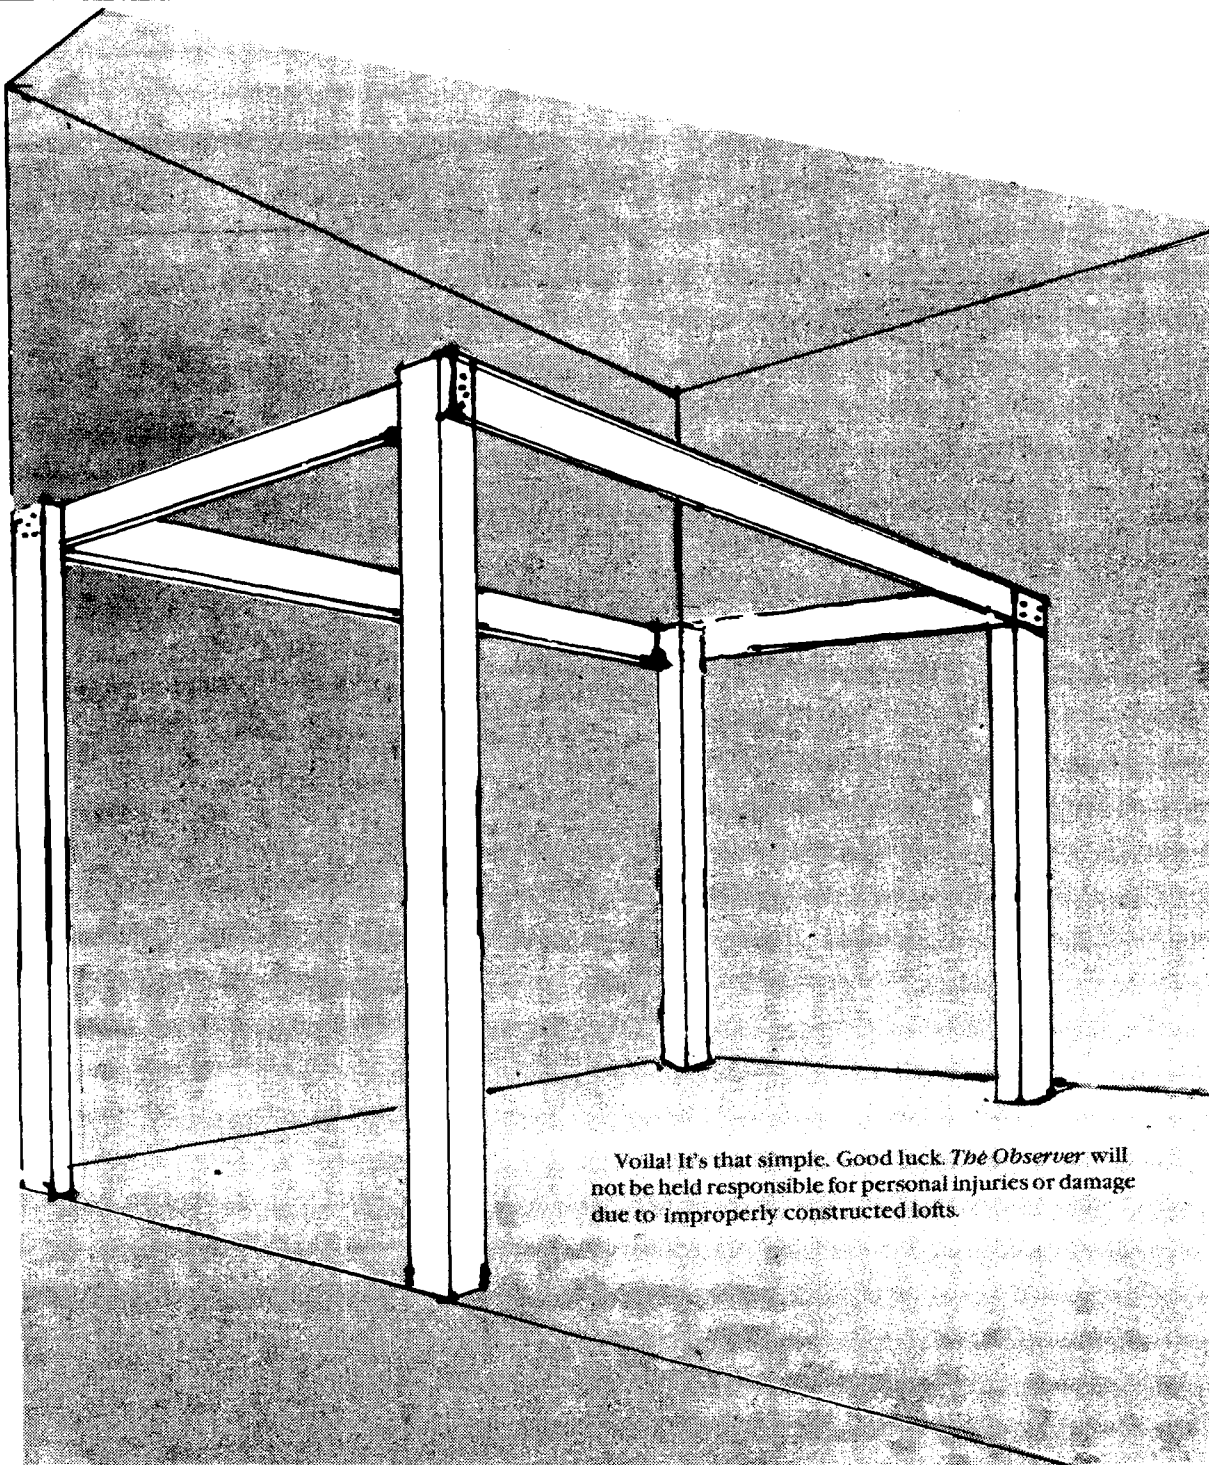

Not enough space in your dorm room for all of your furniture and memorabilia? Then loft it! The bed that is. Although there are many different designs for such structures, here are the materials and procedure for a basic two- to three-person loft. Check with your rector or rectress before building one for special regulations concerning lofts in your dorm.

materials

- 1 Measure room crosswise, the distance from wall to wall where the loft will stand. Purchase two two-by-fours that length.
- 2 Measure the distance floor to ceiling less three feet. (According to fire regulations, all lofts must be three feet from the ceiling.) Purchase four four-by-fours that length.
- 3 Measure the bed frame crosswise from the inside of one bracket to the other. Purchase two two-by-fours that length.
- 4 Purchase four hardwood wedges.
- 5 Purchase a box of 10 penny nails.

procedure

- 1 With 10 penny nails hammer one four-by-four to each end of each of the two-by-fours the crosswise length of the bed frame. These will form two inverted "U's."
- 2 Set each "U" up against the walls in between which the loft will stand.
- 3 Nail the two-by-fours that are the length from wall to wall to the corners of each "U" forming a rectangle on top of the two inverted "U's."
- 4 Hammer one wedge between each corner of the loft and the wall it touches to secure the loft.
- 5 Place the bed frame and mattress on top of the wooden loft frame. The loft should hold two or three mattresses positioned crosswise.

Voila! It's that simple. Good luck. The Observer will not be held responsible for personal injuries or damage due to improperly constructed lofts.

Regina decorating: No single way

A humble abode

Singly yours

Contents: one twin bed, one desk, one sink, one window, one wardrobe complete with dresser drawers. It may not be a palace, but it is home for a year: your very own Regina single.

Though not every Saint Mary's freshman resides in a single in Regina Hall, the majority do and in fact enjoy the experience. Sophomore Linda Casio commented, "I think it's great for freshmen. I wouldn't give it up." Margaret Caven, rectress of Regina, said that students seem to enjoy the set-up. "It forces them to get out and meet people. They are not restricted to one or two roommates."

A Regina single may be a socially broadening experience, but as an abode, it is mighty humble — when you first walk through the door in August. But it doesn't have to remain as such.

"It's really important (for the room) to feel like home," adds Casio, "because it is home." But how do you personalize a room in which all furniture except the bed is bolted to the floor?

Several upperclassmen reflected on their year in the freshman dorm and have come up with these creative suggestions:

- To provide more storage space and a different perspective for the room, Junior Anne Monastyrski suggests propping the bed up on cinder blocks. This creates a place to hide objects which would otherwise be wasting space somewhere else in the room.

The wardrobe is another area which can be better organized to conserve space. When she was a freshman, Casio added a second bar to the closet section to achieve the extra space.

- Student Body President Elaine Hocter suggested the idea of grid shelving for knickknacks.

simple single ideas

- family pictures
- photographs of high school friends and activities
- hand-crafted items (a particularly personal touch)
- stacked milk crates
- carpeting
- wind chimes
- posters
- plants (both standing and hanging, make use of any southern exposure)

Though most pets are prohibited from Regina, or any other dorm for that matter, senior resident assistant Janet Dean does keep a goldfish in her room. Dean loves the idea of the freshman single. "Since it's a single you have the option to do whatever you want . . . everything's right there."

Everything is right there, all of the basics. So go to it. Create your Regina single.

All returning sports writers, there will be a meeting tonight at 8 p.m. Come to the office and we will find some place to meet. The meeting is extremely important, so if you cannot make it, call Mike at 239-5323. — The Observer

Anyone interested in writing sports should come to an organizational meeting of the sports department tomorrow at 8 p.m. The location of the meeting will be announced in tomorrow's paper. If you would like to write, but cannot make the meeting, or if you have any questions, call Mike at 239-5323. — The Observer

The Non-varsity Athletics Office has announced deadlines for signing up for some fall sports. Wednesday, September 7 has been announced as the deadline for interhall football, both men's and women's, mixed doubles tennis, both men's and women's interhall tennis singles, and grad/faculty tennis, men's, women's, and mixed. September 7 will also be the deadline for sign-ups for the 16-inch softball tournament and co-rec softball. The NVA office also has announced that aerobic exercise classes will start on September 7. If there are any questions, call 239-6100. — The Observer

Baseball tryouts will be held soon. There will be a very important meeting concerning tryouts and the upcoming season tomorrow, August 31, at 5 p.m. in the ACC Football Auditorium. Returnees from last year's team and any new candidates interested in playing should attend the meeting. Each person should bring a pen or pencil. — The Observer

The volleyball team is looking for statisticians and line judges for its home games this fall. A good knowledge of tennis or volleyball is preferred but not necessary. Matches are played on weekday nights and on the mornings of home football games. There is a small salary. If interested, call the volleyball office at 284-6281 as soon as possible. — The Observer

The Student Managers Organization is looking for freshmen interested in becoming a part of Notre Dame athletics. Look for a letter in the mail with information about an organizational meeting to be held soon. — The Observer

There will be a meeting for all lacrosse players and those interested in playing this year tomorrow at 4 p.m. in the ACC Football Auditorium. Everyone should bring a pen or pencil. — The Observer

Nebraska destroys Penn State

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Quarterback Turner Gill keyed Nebraska's offensive fireworks with a 1-yard touchdown run and a 19-yard scoring pass in the first period and the No. 1-ranked Cornhuskers crushed defending national champion Penn State 44-6 last night in the first Kickoff Classic.

While Nebraska was piling up 298 yards in the first half — 167 rushing, 131 passing — the Cornhusker defense held Penn State to a total of 109. Some 59 yards came on one drive late in the second quarter, the only time the fourth-ranked Nittany Lions got beyond their own 41-yard line in the first two periods.

A crowd of 71,123 turned out at Giants Stadium, which seats 76,891.

EXPONENTIAL, MY DEAR WATSON

If you have at least two years of graduate or undergraduate education ahead, and you keep getting clues that your money is running short, then a two-year Air Force ROTC scholarship may be the solution.

Currently we're seeking young men and women who would like to serve their nation as Air Force Officers. Consequently, if you're majoring in a selected technical/non-technical scientific, nursing, or pre-medical field, or can qualify for pilot, navigator, or missile training, then you may be eligible for a two-year Air Force ROTC scholarship. The scholarship pays your tuition, lab fees, (plus incidental fees), books, and $100 per month tax free. And even if you don't qualify for the two-year scholarship, you still receive the $100 a month while enrolled in the Air Force ROTC two-year program.

What do we ask in return? That you serve America at least four years as an Air Force officer. Your Air Force ROTC counselor has the details and qualification requirements. Check it out. It might even make your education finances seem elementary.

Get down to business faster. With the BA-35.

If there's one thing business students have always needed, this is it: an affordable, business-oriented calculator. The Texas Instruments BA-35, the Student Business Analyst.

Its built-in business formulas let you perform complicated finance, accounting and statistical functions — the ones that usually require a lot of time and a stack of reference books, like present and future value calculations, amortizations and balloon payments.

The BA-35 means you spend less time calculating, and more time learning. One keystroke takes the place of many.

The calculator is just part of the package. You also get a book that follows most business courses: the Business Analyst Guidebook. Business professors helped us write it, to help you get the most out of calculator and classroom.

A powerful combination.

Think business. With the BA-35 Student Business Analyst.

... Summer

Blair Kiel decided to take the same route as 1981 All-American Bob Crable and got married in the summer before his senior year. Kiel married his high school sweetheart in Columbus, Indiana.

The basketball team also made news over the summer by traveling to Yugoslavia for a series of games. Graduating senior Bill Varner was especially impressive. A ninth-round draft pick by the NBA's Milwaukee Bucks, Varner also left open the possibility that he would play in Europe.

After the team returned from the trip, senior Tom Sluby was named captain of the 1983-84 squad.

Varner was one of three Irish basketball players chosen in last June's draft. Tim Andree, who also has the option to play in Europe, was chosen in the third round by the Chicago Bulls.

All-American John Paxson was the 21st player chosen in the first round when the San Antonio Spurs picked him to run its run-and-gun offense. Paxson has not signed a contract, however, and San Antonio papers have reported that the Spurs are thinking about trading him.

There were two coaching changes over the summer. John Schumate, who had been helping out Digger Phelps, accepted the head coaching job at Grand Canyon College, an NAIA school. Pat Knapp, an assistant coach on the women's basketball team, is now the head coach at New Mexico State. Knapp, who helped Mary Distanslao build up the women's basketball program over the past three years, will take his coaching and recruiting skills to Las Cruces, N.M., where the team finished last season with an 11-15 record.

In news involving other sports, Steve Dziabis, a track standout who graduated in May, was awarded a $2000 NCAA post-graduate scholarship for excellence in academics and athletics. He owned a 3.64 GPA as a pre-med and joins Paxson who also was awarded a scholarship.

Larry Gallo's baseball team finished its season by grabbing fourth place in the Midwest City Conference playoffs. The Irish lost to eventual-champion Oral Roberts and Detroit in the playoffs.

Former Irish track star Chuck Aragon finished third in the 1500-meter run in the recent Pan American games.

make a strong impact on the team as the season progresses.

Other freshman who have seen action with the second unit so far this fall include 5-9, 172-lb. split end Alonzo Jefferson. Steve Beuerlein, a 6-3, 195-lb. quarterback, 6-5, 235-lb. defensive end Robert Banks, Steve Lawrence, a 6-0, 180-lb. cornerback, and 5-11, 170-lb. cornerback Troy Wilson.

Under the tutelage of first-year offensive coordinator and second-year quarterback coach Ron Hudson, Beuerlein, who hails from the same high school as last year's backup, Jim O'Hara, has been especially appreciative of the transition to collegiate level football.

"I'm getting coached more and am working more on technique," says the Fullerton, Cal. native. "In high school I was always team-instructed, now I'm instructed as an individual. Coach Hudson really knows what he's talking about and has shown me new ways to do old things."

Last year's Ohio prep player of the year and USA Today first-team tailback, Hiawatha Francisco, seems to be in the same position that Allen Pinkett was in as a freshman last year. Pinkett started on the third squad last year, but was soon the buzz of the campus when he filled in for the injured Greg Bell and Phil Carter.

Francisco, "H" as he is dubbed by teammates, has also been working with the third unit this fall and accepts it graciously.

"I realize they're talented," says Francisco of the competition playing ahead of him. "I'm not expecting to walk in and take over."

Like the rest of his classmates, like Pinkett last year, "H" is simply waiting for the chance to compete. He and other members of Notre Dame's freshman class could probably start and even star at other institutions by their second year. But football is just part of the package at Notre Dame.

James Bobb, a safety from Texas, perhaps best summarized the attraction and lure of Notre Dame.

"I took it in perspective," says Bobb, a National Honor Society member. "I was looking for a school where I fit in with the people on the campus and the people on the team. Notre Dame has just what I wanted."

For Banks, who was named as national high school "Player of the Year" by the Columbus (Ohio) Touchdown Club, the attraction came down to the coaching staff's concern for the well-being of the players beyond the gridiron.

And contrary to what many people think two sub-par football seasons in a row has hardly tarnished the image of Notre Dame throughout the country.

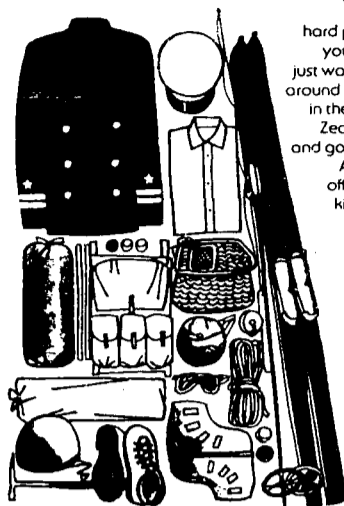

"No one said anything bad about Notre Dame while I was being recruited," says Rehder. "In fact, when I mentioned that I was considering Notre Dame, other recruiters seemed to have gotten worried about it and did a double take."

Basically, this is the place to be," says Miller. "This is family. The talent is here and you just know that things are going to get rolling around here."

Maybe it is a coincidence, but the upperclassmen have been saying the same thing since spring.

Lichtenberg gone

Ara's aide joins coaching staff

By LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writer

While you've been away . . . Tom Lichtenberg, receiver coach and recruiting coordinator for Notre Dame's 1983 football squad, resigned from his position on July 21 to become assistant athletic director at Iowa State.

Lichtenberg was an assistant coach at Iowa State from 1974-78 before becoming head coach at Morehead State in 1979. He then came to Notre Dame in 1981 as Gerry Faust's offensive coordinator — a position that was given to Ron Hudson this spring. Lichtenberg also coached the quarterbacks in 1981.

Mike Stock

Replacing Lichtenberg as receiver coach and recruiting coordinator is 43-year old Mike Stock. Stock is no stranger to the Notre Dame scene since he had previously served as the Irish receiver coach from 1969-74 under Ara Parseghian.

After Parseghian resigned in 1974, Stock was given the position of offensive coordinator for Wisconsin from 1975-77. He next served as the head coach at Eastern Michigan from 1978-82 before becoming the offensive backfield coach for the USFL's New Jersey Generals.

. . . Scrimmage

Gann. Gann, who had sat out spring practice to nurse knee surgery from last year, was imposing the whole afternoon as he was involved in four sacks for over 30 yards. Safety Joe Johnson, meanwhile, had a hand in three blitzes that netted 16 yards in losses.

IRISH ITEMS — Mike Johnston kicked field goals of 44 and 28 yards after missing a 36-yard attempt earlier . . . Besides t Bavaro, other injured starters included guard Tim Scannell, flanker Mike Haywood, defensive tackle Eric Dorsey, linebacker Rick Naylor and cornerback Stacey Toran . . . Scannell is still resting his knee from surgery last May, but is expected, like the rest of the injured starters to be more than ready for the Purdue opener . . . Freshman flanker Alvin Miller was still tending to a twisted ankle on Saturday . . . Sophomore linebacker John McCabe scored a touchdown when he recovered a fumble in the end zone.

Starters rest, some reserves shine as squad plays first fall scrimmage

By LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writer

Two weeks before its opening game against Purdue, the Notre Dame football squad held its first fall scrimmage on Saturday in the Stadium.

"I would have hated to have played Purdue today," Head Coach Gerry Faust told his squad after the two-and-one-half-hour practice. "We looked awfully sluggish out there."

Faust did admit, though, that a lot of the sluggishness could be attributed to the week long two-a-days that were just completed on Friday.

The No. 1 units on offense and defense did not compete against each other as they did in the spring. Rather, the main purpose was to test different individuals from the backup units and analyze their performance.

Though the overall scrimmage may have been disappointing for the coaches, there were some very pleasant surprises at the tight end and quarterback positions.

Ever since Tony Hunter, a first-round draft pick in last April's NFL draft, completed his senior season last year, a top priority for the team has been to find someone to take his place. Despite never having caught a pass in his collegiate career, sophomore Mark Bavaro solidly established himself as the No. 1 tight end with a sterling spring performance. The depth behind Bavaro, however, was still suspect.

A minor thigh injury forced Bavaro to sit out the scrimmage and gave his top backups, juniors Brian Behmer and Ricky Gray a better chance to display their all-around talents. Gray and Behmer promptly went on to be the top two pass receivers on Saturday. Gray caught four passes for 56 yards while Behmer latched on to three passes for 35 yards.

Faust seemed fairly pleased and relieved to see that the tight end position is coming together very well this fall.

"Ricky has come a long way since the spring," praised Faust, "and Brian has been doing a real good job for us."

Another top priority for the team has been to get solid back-up support for quarterback Blair Kiel.

Junior Scott Grooms, who ran the No. 1 offense on a couple of occasions Saturday, has continued the strong hold on the position that he has had since the spring. He was especially impressive in a drive against the No. 2 defense when the two-minute drill was employed, and when the only way to "win" was to score a touchdown. Grooms, in taking the unit 55 yards for the score in only six plays, accounted for 41 of the yards, himself. After running for five yards on the first play, Grooms then completed a 19-yard pass to Behmer and an eight-yard screen to tailback Greg Bell. Two plays later, Grooms escaped a strong pass rush and made a nifty nine-yard scramble into the end zone.

But perhaps the most pleasant surprise of the afternoon was freshman quarterback Steve Beuerlein. Beuerlein, who has worked with the No. 2 unit this fall, continues to get better with each practice. Beuerlein was 6-for-12 on the afternoon for 134 yards, including a 61-yard touchdown pass to Van Percy.

On the 61-yard touchdown play, Beuerlein scrambled away from a very heavy rush put on by fellow freshman Robert Banks, hitting Percy 30-yards downfield. He also led the second unit to another score against the No. 2 defense when he drove the team 65 yards in just four plays in a two-minute drill.

In that drive, Beuerlein drilled a 23-yard pass to Gray between two defenders and a 17-yard pass on the run to freshman split end Alonzo Jefferson (a play where the officials did not see Beuerlein pass the line of scrimmage before releasing the ball). Tailback Lester Flemons the leading rusher on the day with 44 yards on nine carries, dashed the final 22-yards for the touchdown.

While there were typical freshman mistakes made by Beuerlein, such as being whistled for three delay-of-game penalties, it was, as Faust said afterwards, a good performance for a freshman's first scrimmage.

No surprises came from what may be the nation's best one-two punches at tailback and fullback in the nation. Tailbacks Allen Pinkett and Greg Bell, along with fullbacks Chris Smith and Mark Brooks saw limited action.

"We pretty well know what they can do," explained Faust.

Smith showed what he can do on the first possession when he, courtesy of a massive hole opened up by tackle Larry Williams and guard Neil Maune, romped 36 yards for a touchdown on his only carry. Brooks had his own breakaway gains of 14 and 27 yards on his four carries. Pinkett, meanwhile, toted the ball three times for 19 yards while Bell picked up 22 yards on two carries.

Kiel also saw limited action as he participated in only four series. He completed 10-of-19 passes for 112 yards, but did throw one interception as freshman defensive back Scott Rogers made an impressive diving grab in front of Joe Howard.

On the defensive side of things, the No. 1 defense simply dominated the No. 2 and No. 3 offenses. Of the six series in which the No. 1 defense was involved, 19 of those plays in the series resulted in negative yardage or no yardage for the offense.

Highlighting the strong defensive performance was flip tackle Mike see SCRIMMAGE, page 18

Freshman quarterback Steve Beuerlein looked impressive in Saturday's scrimmage, easing Gerry Faust's worries about a backup to Blair Kiel. The backup tight ends also looked good on Saturday, helping to fill another hole. For more on the scrimmage, see story at left.

Adjusting to college life

Freshmen get used to new game

By THERON ROBERTS and LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writers

For some 1,800 Notre Dame freshman, the next four years will offer a challenge of mental and spiritual growth.

For the last two-and-a-half weeks, 28 of those freshman have already experienced some of the pains and pleasures that come with adjusting to the collegiate scene at Notre Dame.

The 28, this year's scholarship freshman football players, comprise Head Football Coach Gerry Faust's third straight freshman class that features talent good enough to be ranked among the very best recruiting crops in the nation.

Of all the talented players, however, perhaps none matches the talent of Kirkwood, Missouri native, Alvin Miller. The 6-4, 205-lb. flanker was selected as Parade magazine "Player of the Year" this past season — an honor that has previously been bestowed on last year's Heisman Trophy winner Herschel Walker, last year's Heisman runner-up Eric Dickerson, and last year's first sophomore offensive lineman in recent memory to make first-team all-America, Bill Fralic of Pittsburgh.

The athletic prowess of Miller was perhaps best demonstrated in last spring's Missouri state track meet where he won the 100- and 200-meter dashes along with the 110- and 300-meter hurdles to win the state crown for Kirkwood High School.

His 40-yard dash has been clocked in 4.45, and his size and great leaping ability should make life difficult for defensive backs who are assigned to cover him.

Yet, even an athlete of Miller's stature cannot avoid the emotional effects that come with adjusting and playing big-time collegiate football at Notre Dame.

"It's been really a scary experience to go out and play against some of the best players in the country that are here," admits Miller who speaks for the class of 1987 as a whole. "We haven't got it together yet. We're still learning. You realize real quick when you're out there on the field that you're a freshman."

Nevertheless, Miller has been one of six freshman who are or have been working with the second-team units this fall, and who can perhaps

Notre Dame athletes keep busy over summer

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Assistant Sports Editor

There was a lot of news over the summer involving Notre Dame athletes and the Notre Dame athletic department. In case you were too busy working or sunning, here is an update.

•Nearly every preseason college football poll rated Notre Dame among the top ten teams in the country, including a number one ranking by The Sporting News. In making the Irish its top choice, the magazine admitted it was choosing "a longshot, but one that just might deliver." Other high rankings for Notre Dame came from GamePlan (No. 2), Street & Smith (No. 6), and USA Today (No. 7). There will be a consensus poll that will appear in The Observer next week.

•The 1984 opening game against Purdue that was scheduled to be played in Notre Dame Stadium will now be the dedication game of Hoosier Dome, a domed stadium that is under construction in Indianapolis. Both schools accepted the invitation of Indianapolis businessman Robert Welch who spearheaded the drive to construct the new stadium. Notre Dame will be the home team and will receive most of the tickets.

•The five Notre Dame football players who were drafted by the NFL last April had mixed fortunes. The twelfth player chosen in the draft, Tony Hunter, has people in Buffalo excited so far with his play in the preseason. Hunter has signed a big contract with the Bills.

Larry Moriarity appears to have a good chance to start in the same backfield with Earl Campbell in Houston. Moriarity, furious when he was not chosen in the early rounds (he was picked in the fifth), so impressed his coach Ed Biles that Biles proclaimed that he should have been a second-round pick. When he heard this, Moriarity lashed out at the Notre Dame coaches for using him sparingly after outstanding performances in his first two games last season.

Dave Duerson, a third-round pick by the Chicago Bears, is competing for a starting job in the Chicago secondary and has been tried as a kick returner.

A herniated disk is holding Mark Zavagnin out for this season. A ninth-round choice by the Bears, Zavagnin will attempt to join the team next season.

Mark Fischer signed as a free agent with Buffalo and has a good chance to make the final cut before the regular season.

After jumping to the USFL, Tom Thayer immediately joined the starting lineup of the Chicago Blitz.

Things did not go too well for the other 1983 graduates. Bob Clasby was cut recently by the Seattle Seahawks after being picked in the ninth round of the draft. Phil Carter and Rod Bone both signed as free agents with the Dallas Cowboys but were cut early in the preseason. Carter also failed in an attempt with Tampa Bay.

•Some Notre Dame alumni were in the news. Jeff Weston, a member of the 1977 national championship team, announced his retirement from football. Weston, a five-year veteran of the New York Giants, missed most of the 1982 season with an injury. He is interested in working for the F.B.I.

Another member of the 1977 team, Ross Browner, testified in a federal courtroom on June 27 that he bought cocaine from a Cincinnati man charged with drug-related crimes. The Cincinnati Bengal lineman was granted immunity from prosecution by a federal court in exchange for his testimony. He was not immune, however, from the ruling of NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle who suspended Browner for four games without pay.

John Krimm, a 1982 graduate, will miss the entire season with an injury. The New Orleans Saint cornerback injured his knee in the preseason.

Chicago Blitz defensive back Luther Bradley was named All-USFL after leading the new league in interceptions. Bradley set a USFL record with six interceptions in one game.

•In other news, freshman quarterback Steve Beuerlein threw the winning touchdown pass in the California Interscholastic Federation All-Star Game.

The other highly-touted freshman quarterback recruit Joe Felitsky has been red-shirted this year to recover from surgery to correct an intestinal disorder.
