Pathologists confirm body is Oswald's

DALLAS (AP) — Pathologists yesterday identified the body buried in Lee Harvey Oswald's grave as that of the suspected assassin of President John F. Kennedy, ending 18 years of speculation and court battles.

"We both individually and as a team have concluded beyond any doubt — and I mean beyond any doubt — that the individual buried under the name Lee Harvey Oswald in Rose Hill Cemetery is Lee Harvey Oswald," said Dr. Linda Norton, head of the pathology team.

The body was exhumed at Rose Hill Burial Park here after Oswald's brother, Robert, dropped his opposition to the procedure.

The pathologists took X-rays and made dental impressions to compare the teeth with Oswald's military dental records, and located a mastoidectomy scar referred to in the Marine Corps records but not in the autopsy.

John Collins, lawyer for British author and assassination theorist Michael Eddowes, said the casket contained "just skeletal remains. The casket was so terribly deteriorated it (the body) could not be removed in one piece."

Oswald, suspected of killing Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, was shot to death two days later by Jack Ruby.

Working quietly, gravediggers exhumed the casket of Lee Harvey Oswald yesterday, and one lawyer said the body inside appeared to be that of the man suspected of assassinating President John F. Kennedy.

The exhumation and examination of the remains by pathologists were aimed at ending 18 years of speculation and months of court battles over who was in the grave — if anyone.

An attorney involved in the case and another source who asked not to be identified said pathologists located a mastoidectomy scar referred to in Oswald's military records, but not in his autopsy.

"The odds are very, very good that it's Oswald," said John Collins, attorney for Michael Eddowes, a British writer said that "it's Oswald," said John Collins, attorney for Michael Eddowes, a British author and assassination theorist. Eddowes contended a Soviet spy was buried in the plot.

"They're doing the dental workup to further confirm that it's Oswald," Collins said. "The only way it could not be Oswald at this point would be if the dental X-rays and impressions do not match up with those from the Marine Corps."

Eddowes issued a statement thanking the parties involved for "the joint effort to finally ascertain the truth in this matter."

"Though surprised, I am in no way disappointed in the apparent disproving in my theory of imposture," Eddowes said. "Rather, I have accomplished my objection in obtaining the exhumation and I'm glad for those who have steadfastly maintained the contrary for whatever reason."

The body was exhumed at Fort Worth's Rose Hill Burial Park after Oswald's brother, Robert, dropped his opposition to the procedure.

The pathologists made the dental X-rays and dental impressions to compare the teeth with Oswald's military dental records. Oswald, suspected of killing Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22, 1963, was shot to death two days later by Jack Ruby.

$4,730 allotted

Twenty SMC clubs receive funds

By JANE DEROSE
News Staff

Last week, the Saint Mary's College Student Activities Allocations Committee voted on and approved the distribution of available funds to various Saint Mary's student clubs and organizations.

The total amount of money being dispensed between 20 Saint Mary's clubs is $4,730, according to Ann Gassman, student body treasurer.

The committee allocated amounts ranging from $2,000 to $30 per organization. An Tostal will receive $2,000, a dollar for every Saint Mary's student plus $300 additional funding. ROTC will receive $30, ten dollars for each Saint Mary's girl in the Air Force ROTC program.

Other organizations receiving funds include the Gymnastics Club ($500), Tri Beta ($400), the Government Club and Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Right to Life ($300 each).

The committee allocated $150 to both the Sailing Club and the "Adopt-a-Nun" program. A number of groups received $100. They include: the Saint Mary's chapter of the American Chemical Society, the Education Club, the French Club, the German Club, the Pre-Law Society, the Psychology Club, the Social Action Club, and the World Hunger Coalition. In addition, the committee allocated $75 to the Nursing Club.

Three other clubs received funds for the first time; the Cross Cultural Club ($50), the Ski Team ($450), and WSND ($150).

The committee also donated $700 to the Logan Center, $650 to the Neighborhood Help Study and $100 to the Fun and Learn Center.

Organizations receiving funds had applied to get funding earlier this year. The applications were out the first week of September; the deadline for applications was Sept. 21.

On the 28th, the Allocations Committee voted on the allotting of the funds. The committee consisted of five women: Eileen Murphy, student body president; Emmie Lopez, vice-president for academic affairs; Donna Perreault, vice-president for student affairs; Ann Gassman, student body treasurer; and Mary Anne O'Donnell, student activities director. They decided on who should receive funding and the amount to be awarded to each club. The criteria for each decision was that the club had to be beneficial to the Saint Mary's or South Bend communities.

Any questions or appeals should be directed to Eileen Murphy in the Student Activities Office, or by calling the office on or before Oct. 12.

From Cuba

Analyst predicts new exodus

By BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A CIA analyst says serious economic problems and internal discontent may prompt Cuban President Fidel Castro to encourage "a new large-scale exodus" of refugees from the Communist-ruled island nation.

The forecast came in a compendium of papers on Western hemisphere countries released yesterday by the congressional Joint Economic Committee.

Analyst Russell Swanson of the CIA's National Foreign Assessment Center wrote that in coming years, "the Castro government faces its most serious economic challenge since the transition from capitalism to socialism in the early 1960s."

Despite improvements in areas such as health and education, Cubans have seen a decline since the mid-1960s in per capita supplies of clothing and key staples such as sugar, rice, beef and coffee while "the housing shortage has gone from bad to worse," he said.

"Revolutionary fervor among both the young and the old is on the wane because of continuing consumer austerity," Swanson said. "At the same time, the prospects for dynamic economic development are bleak for at least the next decade."

In the face of deep-rooted economic problems, he wrote, "Havana could again seek to defuse internal discontent through large-scale emigration — a tactic employed successfully on three pre-departure for some 1 to 2 million Cubans on the periphery of the revolution, but he is not above threatening a new large-scale exodus to achieve his goal," Swanson said. "In addition, growing numbers of Cubans could take it upon themselves to leave illegally and thus escalate bilateral tensions."

In the Joint Economic Committee report, Swanson said Cuba's economic slowdown was reflected in the growth rate of its national budget, which dropped from about 10 percent a year between the mid-1960s and mid-1970s to 1.3 percent in 1980.

Swanson said that "growing malaise and despair have led to serious declines in labor productivity through deliberate work slowdowns and absenteeism. At the same time, black market activities and other economic crimes have been increasing."

Swanson's portrayal of the Cuban economy contrasted sharply with a recent assessment by Cuban officials, who argued that the economy has enjoyed substantial growth despite the U.S. trade embargo and would become even stronger over the next five years.

Saint Mary's Board of Governance last night discussed improvements in communication between Saint Mary's and Notre Dame and progress in the Parietal and Library Ad Hoc Committees.

The first meeting between student government executives from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's met to discuss better relations between the two schools. SMC student government executives, Eileen Murphy, SBP president, Donna Perrault, vice-president for student affairs, and Emmy Lopez, vice-president for academic affairs, met with ND Student Body President Don Murday and V-P Tara Kenney to plan for more cohesive relations between the two student governments. The SMC Board of Governance will be sending representatives to HPC meetings at ND, in order to become more involved with the Notre Dame dorms and to familiarize hall presidents with events that take place at SMC.

An in-depth series on racial tensions in northwestern Indiana captured the top award for The Michigan City News-Dispatch in the 1981 Indiana Associated Press Managing Editors Newswriting Contest. The News-Dispatch won the APME "best of All" award for its series titled "Black and White — 10 Years Later," which discussed racial problems in the northwestern Indiana city and outlined some of the differences in perceptions of blacks and whites viewing the city's racial situation. The entries were judged by the University of Arizona's Department of Journalism, which said the News-Dispatch series "resulted in several steps taken to improve relations between the races. The News-Dispatch can take pride in its public consciousness and its efforts to improve the city by unlocking the doors that could lead to greater social harmony." — AP

Gov. Hugh Gallen has 10 gallons of New Hampshire apple cider riding on the energy-saving efforts of Peterboro. If the 5,000 townspeople come through, Gallen will collect 10 gallons of Massachusetts cranberry juice that Gov. Edward King bet on West Bridgewater, Mass. The towns are entrants in the second annual energy conservation contest sponsored by the Northeast International Committee on Energy. Ten towns in all are participating — one each from the six New England states and the four eastern Canadian provinces, Gallen aide Jennifer Murray said Friday. The winning town will be the one that conserves the most energy during the four days. King proposed the wager. According to Ms. Murray, Gallen cabled back: "you're on ... may the best community win." — AP

A former Nazi police official has been sentenced by an East German court to life imprisonment for his role in killing at least 280 people and assisting in the slayings of thousands more during World War II, the official news agency ADN said yesterday. ADN said 69-year-old Karl Jaeger, a group commander in "battalion 304" who took part in sealing off the Warsaw Ghetto and aided in mass executions in the Ukraine and elsewhere, was sentenced on Friday. "Jaeger had a significant role ... in the murder of thousands of Soviet citizens and single-handedly killed at least 280 men, women and children," ADN said. It gave no details of Jaeger's postwar life, but said his "crimes, hushed up for years, were brought into the open through intensive investigation" and that witnesses to the atrocities testified against him. — AP

First Monday in October

The natural proper timidity and delicacy which belongs to the female sex evidently unfits it for many of the occupations of civil life.

The above excerpt is from an opinion written by Supreme Court Justice Joseph P. Bradley in Bradwell v. the State of Illinois. The 1873 decision stipulated that the state of Illinois could bar women from the practice of law simply because they were women.

A little over one hundred years later, a woman takes her place on the nation's highest court. How times have changed.

The question existing in the minds of many Americans on this first day of the Supreme Court's term is "What can we expect from Madam Justice O'Connor?" Given her experience as Arizona Senate Majority Leader, and as a state appellate court judge, one can safely assume that there is little "natural proper timidity" in Sandra O'Connor.

From the proceedings of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and from the comments made in the Senate on the day of her confirmation vote, more speculation can be made about Justice O'Connor's presence on the nation's highest tribunal.

Sen. John East (R-N.C.), a member of the Judiciary Committee, referred to Mrs. O'Connor as "a conservative woman with conservative instincts." Mrs. O'Connor views marriage and family as "mankind's basic unit of society, the hope of the world and the strength of our country."

The nominee, however, would not go beyond this statement to offer her opinions on such family-oriented issues as abortion and ERA, on the ground that this might prejudice her views on individual cases that could come before the court.

This infuriated at least one member of the Judiciary Committee, Sen. Jeremiah Denton (R-Ala.), who simply voiced "present" during the Committee vote on Mrs. O'Connor's nomination. Sen. Denton told the press that he could not vote to confirm Mrs. O'Connor because she would not elaborate on her opinions regarding abortion.

This reluctance to voice a strong opinion on controversial issues is an important part of Mrs. O'Connor's legal philosophy, that judges should interpret the law, not establish it.

In a resume submitted to the Judiciary Committee, Mrs. O'Connor wrote in response to the question of judicial activism: "The Constitution itself establishes the guiding principle of separation of powers in its assignment of legislative power to Congress in Article I, executive power to the President in Article II, and judicial power to the Supreme Court in Article III. This principle requires the federal courts scrupulously to avoid making law or engaging in general supervision of executive functions."

Tim Vercellotti

Inside Monday

Addressing the Senate on the day of Mrs. O'Connor's confirmation vote, Sen. Strom Thurmond, (R-N.C.), chairman of the Judiciary Committee, stated that "We sought a person who understands...that federal law is changed by Congress, not by the Court; who understands that the Constitution is changed by amendment and not by the court; and who understands that powers not expressly given to the Federal Government by the Constitution are reserved to the States and to the people, not to the Court. In Judge O'Connor we believe we found such a person."

Mrs. O'Connor's time in the Arizona Senate and on the State Appellate court contributed to her philosophy of judicial restraint. In the words of Sen. Arlen Specter (R-Pa.), another member of the Judiciary Committee,

Mrs. O'Connor's "extensive background on the bench and in the legislature puts her in a unique position to say, as she did, that she knows the difference between being a judge and a legislator..."

Specter also pointed out that Mrs. O'Connor's experience as a state appellate court judge would enable her to more easily distinguish between the cases that should fall under the State court's jurisdiction, and that of the Federal court.

At one point in the discussion preceding the vote (one could hardly call all of these glowing remarks a debate), Sen. Joseph Biden of Delaware, the ranking Democrat on the Judiciary committee, cautioned the Senate that they were "whistling in the graveyard," in an effort to assure themselves of the kind of justice Mrs.

O'Connor will be. Biden said that while we can base our expectations on Mrs. O'Connor's past experience, only time and individual cases will show the colors of the nation's first Madam Justice.

Following her 99-0 confirmation vote, Mrs. O'Connor said that her "hope is that ten years from now, after I've been across the street and worked for a while, that they (the Senate) will all feel glad that they gave me this wonderful vote." Today the speculation ends, and the Supreme Court gets down to business.

Contrary to what Justice Bradley thought, we can be sure that Mrs. O'Connor is indeed fit for her civil occupation. The passage of time will tell us how fit.

Weekend session

SMC parents' council convenes

By MARY AGNES CAREY
Saint Mary's Executive Editor

Saint Mary's College's Parents Council, an organization that meets annually at SMC to discuss counseling and career development, admissions and general development for the institution, convened this weekend at Saint Mary's.

The 36-member council's role, according to Tom Becker, director of development at Saint Mary's, has become stronger "in response to the un-merger (between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's)." To combat an "image problem" SMC faced after the cancellation of the proposed 1972 merger, Parent's Council members became more active as "personal endorsements of the institution." The Council is not, however, a policy-making unit.

Besides their committee work in the areas of counseling and career development, admissions and development (including fund-raising and capital drives) for the College, Parents Council members receive a "more in-depth feeling of what's really going on at Saint Mary's," while also providing "comment and feedback" on the issues expressed, according to Becker.

Council members, Becker explains, "aren't selected for demographic balance" but rather for their diversity in age, geographical placement, alumnae ties to Saint Mary's (some are alumnae, some are not) and different fields of enterprise.

Appointed by SMC President John M. Duggan, recommendations for council members come from faculty and students. "A variety of people are interviewed," Becker states. Once appointed, Council members can serve until two years after their daughter has left SMC.

Parents Council members are especially helpful to SMC's admissions department, recommending good "feeder" schools or specific students, as well as corresponding with students who are interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Carpowicz, St. Louis, Mo., are chair-couple for the 1981-1982 school year. After five years as a Parents Council member, Mrs. Carpowicz sees her role as a Council member as being able to make the College aware of parental concerns. "We have input back to the administration. We're the link between parents and the administration."

She also cites the new library, accreditation of the nursing program (which the program now has), career counseling and other student affairs as issues Parents Council members have discussed in past years. This session, Council members received presentations on student affairs, athletic policies, financial aid policies and campus ministry in addition to their committee work.

In their fourth year as Parents Council members, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Vite, Elkhart, Ind., view themselves, as well as other members of the Council, as "self-thinkers" who are "more of an arm or liaison" between the Board of Regents and the College.

Hunger strike aftermath

Britain pledges prison reforms

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Britain's top official in Northern Ireland pledged yesterday to implement prison reforms for all inmates now that jailed Irish nationalists have ended their hunger strike.

"There are certain reforms which can be introduced. We will now try to see what we can do about them," Northern Ireland Secretary James Prior told reporters before departing for Belfast from Norwich in eastern England.

The violence-torn province was reported quiet. Police reinforcements were called up in Londonderry, Ulster's second largest city, where about 1,500 mostly Roman Catholic supporters of the hunger strike and 200 followers of the hard-line Protestant leader, the Rev. Ian Paisley, staged demonstrations in separate parts of the city. No incidents were reported.

At Belfast's City Hall, about 300 Protestants and Catholics gathered for the annual co-denominational "Witness for Peace" service, carrying small white crosses in memory of the more than 2,000 victims of Northern Ireland's 12 years of sectarian violence.

Prior, after arriving in Belfast, conferred with top prison officials at the British administrative headquarters at Stormont Castle. Sources said the officials were studying recommendations for changes in prison regulations proposed by an International Red Cross delegation that attempted to mediate an end to the hunger strike in July.

Ten Irish nationalists, most of them members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, starved themselves to death at Belfast's Maze prison during the seven-month protest that ended Saturday when the six remaining strikers ended their fasts.

The Parietals Ad Hoc Committee, chaired by Mary Leavitt is working on improvements in their proposal and survey as suggested by the student affairs committee. The Committee will be working with the SMC Business Department to improve upon the parietals survey. A letter to SMC students will be sent out to request suggestions on the parietals issue.

The Library Ad Hoc Committee, chaired by Emmy Lopez, is in the process of tabulating the current survey and members will be proposing goals at the next meeting.

Other issues discussed by the Board included the student allocations meeting last Monday, which was attended by twenty club representatives; the success of last week's Octoberfest, with Holy Cross Hall as the winner of the Hall Decorating Contest and an honorable mention to McCandless Hall; and the enthusiastic participation of students in College To Career Days.

A future meeting with Hall section leaders is also being planned for after break in order to integrate them further into the issues of student government; a student government newsletter is planned to come out before break; and a SMC student government party is being planned for this Thursday night.

The meeting closed with reports from commissioners updating future events of halls, classes and activity boards.

Rich Hunter's Irish soccer team rolled to its ninth victory of the season by defeating the University of Chicago 5-0 yesterday on Alumni Field. Rob Snyder gave the Irish a lead it never lost by scoring a pair of goals in the first half. Senior forward Ed O'Malley added the third Irish goal on an assist from Jay Schwartz. Schwartz later scored an unassisted goal to give Notre Dame a 4-0 lead, before freshman Steve Chang closed out the Irish scoring. Junior goaltender Gerard McCarthy scored the shutout for Notre Dame, which is 9-0-2 on the season. Next action for Hunter's club will be Friday night on Cartier Field against the Warriors of Marquette University. — The Observer

The Irish baseball team won two of three games this weekend to improve its record to 7-2 in fall baseball action. Yesterday, Coach Larry Gallo's club came back to defeat Xavier 11-3 in the second game of a double-header, after dropping the opener 7-4. Saturday, the Irish scored six times in the bottom of the eighth to pull out a 12-11 win over Valparaiso. Senior Dan Szajko provided most of the offensive punch over the weekend by going 9-for-13 with three triples, four rbi, seven runs scored and one stolen base. In yesterday's second game, Szajko was a perfect 4-for-4 at the plate, and scored all four times he reached base. — The Observer

Today's Games

Kansas City (Splitter 4-5 and Wright 2-3) at Cleveland (Waits 8-9 and Garland 3-7) 2
Only games scheduled

NOTE: The regular season in the National League is over. In the American League, Cleveland and Kansas City are scheduled to make up a doubleheader this afternoon. If the Royals win the first game, there will be no second game since they would clinch the second half West division title. If the Royals lose both games, Oakland will be the second half champion.

The intradivisional playoffs between the champions of the two half-seasons begin tomorrow. In the American League, Oakland is at Kansas City, and Los Angeles is at Houston in the National League. On Wednesday, Philadelphia is at Montreal and the Astros again will play host to the Dodgers in NL games, while New York will play at Milwaukee in the AL. Wednesday's West division game between the Royals and the A's will be in Kansas City if the Royals win one game this afternoon at Cleveland. If the Indians sweep, Game 2 will be in Oakland.

Corrigan speaks on CFA

ELKHART, Ind. (AP) — Self-government, not television money, was the real motive behind the formation of the College Football Association, Notre Dame Athletic Director Gene Corrigan told a meeting of the Indiana Associated Press Managing Editors yesterday.

"What we in the CFA are seeking is control of our own programs, not the death of the NCAA," Corrigan told the group.

"The NCAA has told schools playing major college football, 'You don't have control over anything unless we say you have.' I find that very disturbing."

The CFA's 61-school membership includes all major independent colleges playing Division I football, as well as members of the Big Eight, Southeast, Southwest, Western Athletic and Atlantic Coast conferences. Two other major conferences, the Big Ten and the Pac-10, chose not to join.

Corrigan said money has become the focus of the media's coverage of the NCAA-CFA struggle, and he admitted, "If I were a sports editor, the money is what would grab my attention, too."

The NCAA-CFA battle came to a head last month when the CFA voted to accept a $180 million prime time television offer from NBC. That pact was in conflict with a $213 million deal the NCAA struck with ABC and CBS.

"Speaking strictly from Notre Dame's point of view, the money issue is inconsequential," Corrigan told the Indiana APME. "We won't get any more money from the CFA plan than we would from the NCAA plan. Notre Dame has always been fortunate in that we get the maximum number of national television exposures every year. That's not going to change under either plan."

Instead, Corrigan said, Notre Dame is seeking a revision in rules governing student admissions and recruiting practices.

"The NCAA took a giant step backwards when it did away with the 1.6 predicted grade point average requirement," he said. "We opened the doors to hundreds of abuses; athletes enrolled in colleges who couldn't even read or write."

"That's why we had the transcript problems we had at several West Coast schools last year. That's why only 40 percent of our student athletes graduate with a degree on time. It has given college athletics a black eye. It's not fair to the schools, and it's certainly not fair to the students."

Corrigan said the CFA's television package has forced the NCAA to listen to some of the group's more important issues. "We have a meeting with the NCAA on reorganization in December," he said.

"There is no reason why the problems can't be worked out. I would hate to see us (CFA) get out of the NCAA," he added. "It's been a good organization. It can still be a good organization. It just needs to update a little of its thinking."

U.S. Steel invites you to check out a career in management.

- ☐ You're a self-starter. U.S. Steel is a company on the move, and we're looking for people with the initiative to tackle major projects and push them through to completion.
- ☐ You're a fast thinker. While the clock ticks, you may have to make decisions involving the future of thousands of U.S. Steel people—and the investment of millions of dollars.
- ☐ You're a team player. At a dynamic place like U.S. Steel, guiding and motivating others is likely to be an important part of your career in management.

Today U.S. Steel is a whole lot more than the nation's largest steelmaker.

We're in chemicals, with annual sales of over $1 billion. We're in resource development, ready to fill industry's growing needs for coal, iron ore, uranium and other vital materials. We build complex structures all over the country. We offer engineering services all over the world. And that's far from all.

Join us, and you're immediately a full-fledged member of our management team. Your opportunity for advancement is as bright as you are.

Money is good. Fringe benefits are liberal. And you can take advantage of a variety of continuing personal-development programs—including tuition refund.

Visit your placement office and check out the openings our representative plans to discuss. But don't worry if what interests you most happens not to be on the list. Just write us with your qualifications: Dave Bates, College Relations, U.S. Steel, 600 Grant St., Pittsburgh, PA 15230. An equal opportunity employer.

Friday's Solution

Today in History

Today's highlight in history:
In 1502, Christopher Columbus discovered Costa Rica.

On this date:
in 1793, Christianity was abolished in France.
In 1796, Spain declared war on Britain.
In 1918, the Allies announced that Germany's Hindenberg Line was broken in World War I.

And in 1970, Egypt's only political party named Anwar Sadat to succeed the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Ten years ago: South Vietnam's Vice President Ky charged that presidential elections in that nation had been rigged.

Five years ago: it was announced that radioactive fallout from a nuclear test in China had been detected in the eastern United States.

Irish offense gets on track

Saturday's Notre Dame-Michigan State game was only three seconds old, but it was already history as far as tackle Phil Pozderac was concerned.

"I knew from the beginning, from the first play, that we had the game under control," he said after the Spartans' fumbled on their own 23-yard line. Kevin Griffith recovered, setting the stage for Notre Dame's first touchdown, and their first win in two weeks, 20-7. "That kind of play can devastate a team. It took the air right out of them."

Muddy Waters offered no argument there. "It was a simple dive play, designed just to get everybody loose," explained MSU's coach, "but it turned out to be a bomb that exploded in our faces."

And the Irish were happy to be the ones dropping the bombs for a change. "It's about time we got a break like that," said quarterback Tim Koegel. "We didn't get many turnovers handed to us these past few weeks. Anytime we can turn a fumble into a touchdown it's demoralizing for the other team."

'I knew from the first play, we had the game under control'

Capitalizing on the Spartan let-down, the Irish struck quickly, putting a pair of touchdowns on the board before MSU had time to recuperate. And Notre Dame's defense countered with an equally enthusiastic performance, badgering quarterbacks John Leister and Bryan Clark, and holding MSU's ground attack to just 21 yards in 27 attempts.

"I don't want to sit down," stated Waters during his post-game conference. "I've been knocked on my butt all afternoon. I'm not faulting anyone on our team, they tried hard. But we were outplayed. Our big problem today was Notre Dame. They got sky-high with the fumble recovery, and it was a disaster."

What proved most disastrous for the Spartans, however, was the running of Irish tailback Greg Bell. The sophomore accounted for both of Notre Dame's touchdowns while picking up 165 yards on the ground. He suffered a slight hip-pointer in the second half, and left the game early but his work had already been done by then.

"I'm always ready to play," said the Columbus, Ohio native, who went in when Phil Carter sprained his ankle. "The coaches believe in me, and I've got plenty of confidence in myself. I know I can do the job when they call on me."

And Bell knows his blockers can do the job, too. "Our line played great today," he continued. "All I had to do was run. Anyone could have gotten through those holes."

The holes weren't all that opened up Saturday. Irish coach Gerry Faust opened up his offense a little more, too, and his team responded with back-to-back scoring drives on its first two possessions, the first, capped by a one yard Bell run, and the second, a 32-yard gallop up the middle.

"We played pretty wide-open football until the fourth quarter," Faust stated. "Michigan State didn't know what we were doing from one play to the next — we had them in that turmoil."

"But when Greg got hurt, we went to a more ball-control offense," continued Faust. "We were without our top two tailbacks, and that cut down our outside speed, so we adjusted the play calling a bit."

Faust's play calling was on target for most of the afternoon. Although Notre Dame found the endzone only two times, they piled up 394 net yards on offense.

"I think we moved the ball better today than we have the past two weeks," offered Koegel. "We're getting better every game. We established a ground game today too, and that allowed us to open things up."

Koegel, 7-of-15 for 72 yards, was not sacked. "The offensive line is blocking more efficiently now," he praised. "Their protection was terrific." But Faust did yank the senior at one point in the game.

"I don't want to take a kid out after one mistake, but we weren't moving after a few series' and Tim wasn't seeing his open receivers," explained Faust. "He missed some passes he should have connected on."

Blair Kiel's action was brief, after he threw two interceptions in four attempts. It was Michigan State who made a permanent quarterback change, late in the first half. An ineffective Leister was replaced by Bryan Clark, who gave the Spartans new life when he threw a 63-yard touchdown bomb to Daryl Turner that cut the margin 14-7.

"I really fooled them on that play," remarked Turner. "They couldn't handle my speed because their defensive backs aren't that fast."

Irish secondary coach Jim Johnson explained it differently. "It was a case of misjudged speed, really," he said. "Chris (Brown) was on the receiver, he thought he had him covered, but he let his man get away for a second and he couldn't catch up. We lose a lot of experience with (John) Krimm out, but Chris is coming along real well. He's a fine defensive back."

Coach inspires win

Irish 'win one for Faust'

Notre Dame established some statistical season highs Saturday with its 394 yard offense mark, its 300 yard rushing effort and its 21 first downs. But there was one record the Irish fought desperately not to break.

Gerry Faust had never, in his entire coaching career, lost three games in row. He denied feeling extra pressure because of it.

"I don't ever think about things like that," he said after the game, "but I did have my ticket to China ready, just in case."

His players were well aware of the licking Faust was taking for the team's 1-2 start. They didn't think it was fair.

"We're the ones doing the throwing, the running, the blocking," said quarterback Tim Koegel. "He shouldn't be blamed for our performance."

"We realized that Coach Faust has been taking a lot of criticism," explained running back Greg Bell. "All the pressure has been coming down on his head, but it's not his fault — we're the ones out there playing. We know what his system can do and we know it can work."

So the Irish decided to prove it to their coach. "We dedicated this game to him," added Bell. "We played with everything we had to."

"This was an emotional game for us," offered senior captain Tony Belden. "We didn't like the way Coach Faust was being treated this week. We played with our hearts, and that's how we're going to have to keep playing."

"He didn't want us to do that, either," added Harry Oliver, 2-2 on field goals Saturday. "He told us we should dedicate the game and the whole season to our-

What really came along for Notre Dame was their pass rush. "Phenomenal is the only word I can use for the line's play today," complimented linebacker Mark Zavagnin. "We had a lot of people going to the ball, and (Joe) Gramke, (Jon) Autry and (Tim) Marshall especially did a super job."

Linebacker Bob Crable had a team high 13 tackles, while Zavagnin and Gramke had eight and seven. Autry accounted for a 22-yard loss with his quarterback sack. "We've been working hard on our rush," said co-captain Crable. "The contain broke down once in a while, but basically, everyone took care of their responsibility."

Michigan State's score right before the intermission put some pressure on the Irish defense. "They gave us a real scare," admitted Zavagnin. "We were afraid they were getting the momentum."

But Notre Dame didn't panic. Taking the ball about a minute before halftime, the Irish put together an impressive drive ending with a Harry Oliver 38-yard field goal.

"It's been a while since I kicked a good one," said Oliver, 0-2 before Saturday. "After the first four games last year I had about ten, so it feels good to get one under my belt."

Oliver added a 34-yard boot in the third period. The Spartans threatened only one other time, on a pass play early in the fourth quarter. Clark hit Ted Jones in the endzone, but the split end came down out of bounds.

"Mistakes are beating us almost as much as the other team," said Clark, who came off the bench and passed for 161 yards. "That play right there was what did us in. It would have been 20-14 if I hadn't thrown it so far outside."

"The coaches had us ready for all of Notre Dame's motion," noted Spartan linebacker George Cooper. "There were no surprises today. They just beat us. They wanted it more."

ND, EMU share lead in Irish Invitational

The Fifth Annual Irish Invitational Women's Tennis Tournament began yesterday with seven teams, including the University of Notre Dame and St. Mary's College, participating in the two-day competition.

The remaining five are Eastern Michigan, Central Michigan, Ferris State, Marquette and Western Michigan. The competition is round robin format, with each team facing three other teams both days. At the conclusion of first day matches, EMU and Notre Dame were deadlocked in first place.

The Irish women upped its team record to 12-1 in dual matches with three impressive victories. Notre Dame defeated CMU 6-0 to begin the day, and then lodged wins over Western Michigan (4-2) and Marquette (6-0).

There were numerous bright spots individually for the Notre Dame. Senior Carol Shukis, the number three singles player, and freshman Lisa Gleason, at number four, each won all three of their matches. Senior Pam Fischette and sophomore Tina Stephen, playing number one doubles, were undefeated in yesterday's competition as was the freshman combination of Laura Lee and Camille Cooper at number two doubles.

The Belles of Saint Mary's ended their day with one win and two losses. SMC beat Marquette 4-2 for the only victory of the day. They lost to EMU (6-0) and Ferris State (4-2). Their dual match record now stands at 5-4. The first doubles team of Shelly Scamon and Nancy Golding distinguished themselves by winning two of their three matches.

Matches will begin at 9 a.m. today at the Courtney Tennis Center. The two-day tournament will conclude this afternoon.

selves."

But Faust surely appreciated their support. "It's been a tough two weeks," he admitted. "But the team, the student body, the alumni have bent over backwards to give me encouragement. The backing has been unbelievable."

While his players hope Saturday's win will silence some critics, Faust realizes he'll never please everyone. He made an unpopular decision late in the game. With 18 seconds remaining, Faust played it close to the vest rather than going for another score.

"We're not out there to beat point spreads," he stated. "If people want to bet on the game, that's their problem. We just want a win, even if it's only by a point. I'd sure have taken a 14-13 win last week."

This week, the Irish worked hard to restore faith in one another. Practices, according to the coaches, were the best and most intense of the year. The blocking assignments, the new techniques, according to players, were becoming more familiar each day. "We're starting to gel," they said, "it just takes time."

Faced with a do-or-die situation, they passed their first test of the new season Saturday. "Today was the turnaround," explained linebacker Mark Zavagnin. "It was a must game. We wanted to prove what Coach said about being the year's comeback team. We've got to keep things rolling, though, because we've got two tough games (Florida St. and Southern Cal) ahead."

"Coach Faust has treated everyone great," added Koegel. "We didn't want him to think he's let people down. We had to get back on track today. We were either going to get together and regroup or just die. This was the big game for the rest of the year. We've got too much talent to let things slide."
