Heppen, Dedrick discuss dormitories

Director of Student Residences Fr. Michael Heppen and Physical Plant Director James Dedrick recently met with Observer News Editor Kelli Flint to discuss current renovations in on-campus student housing.

Q: What are your immediate plans for the dormitories?

A: (Dedrick) Immediately, we plan to continue the long-range dormitory renovation project that we started in the summer of 1980. Our first concern, particularly in some of the older residence halls, was that of life safety. We looked at the exits, put in new exit towers, and addressed the fire sufficiency of the corridors. In the last couple of years we have installed total sprinkler sysdetectors and detection systems in those dorms.

Q: Do all of the dormitories have fire towers or something comparable now?

A: (Heppen) There is a problem in a couple of dorms that we have not addressed as yet. For example, we have a "dead" corridor in Alumni which has to be addressed someplace down the line. I think we also have a dead corridor in Dillon. (Dedrick) It's true we have those corridors, but they are not long enough that I would consider them a hazard. (Heppen) We are conducting an ongoing study of what has to be done here in the future to make the halls as safe as possible.

Q: What other renovations are you planning?

A: (Dedrick) In addition to the safety, we are also addressing some of the ambience of the dorms: cracked plaster has been replaced or repaired, we replaced showers and toilets in Badin Hall, and we have created new rooms in Carroll Hall. If you talk to boys who have lived in Carroll for the past three years they will definitely tell you what an upgrade of life has occurred there. (Heppen) We are also addressing the liveability of the dorms. One of the unfortunate things is that some of these dorms were built for students in the '30s, '40s and '50s, when students did not have as much electrical equipment as they do these days. There were no stereos or hi-fis around when I came to school tems in Saint Edward's Hall, Sorin Hall, Walsh Hall, Badin Hall, and Carroll Hall. We also put individual room hard-wired smoke detectors in each of these buildings. We are going to continue that program. We are even going to work at additional fire safety in some of the more modern dormitories, the so-called "fire resistant" dorms like Pangborn, Fisher Keenan, Stanford, and Breen-Phillips which are made of concrete. We plan to add individual smoke

Book examines "appetite"

By EILEEN PUTMAN
Associated Press Writer

Jean Harris deeply hated Herman Tarnower, a sadistic bully to whom she crawled like an addict for sex, love and money, according to a newly published book by a longtime social critic.

"Deep in her mind and heart she wanted to kill Dr. Tarnower," Diana Trilling writes of the former Madeira School headmistress she sees as "neither fine nor ladylike."

As for Tarnower, Mrs. Trilling labels him a tyrant with "an insatiable appetite" for power and fawning women.

"Little wonder he became famous as a diet doctor; he was a glutton for other people's vulnerabilities," the author says in Mrs. Harris: the Death of the Scarsdale Diet Doctor.

The book may shock Mrs. Harris' defenders, who saw her as a lady of Victorian principles and impeccable breeding who wanted only to shoot herself amid the daffodils surrounding the backyard pond of the man she loved.

Now 58, Mrs. Harris is serving a 15-year-to-life sentence on her conviction for the March 10, 1980, murder of Tarnower, 69, in a jealous rage over another woman.

Mrs. Trilling's book is being published a year after Mrs. Harris' trial began and just one month before an appellate court will convene to hear her appeal.

Attorney Joel Aurnou said on Friday that he hadn't read the book and therefore would not comment on its portrayal of his client, pending next month's court appearance. But contained in the appeal is this statement: "it will do no good to search for villains or heroes in this case, for there are only victims — Dr. Tarnower dead and Jean Harris unlawfully convicted of his murder."

The book is the work of a respected essayist and critic who at age 76 has edited literary works and published commentary on political and social events but has no particular training in law or psychology — discussions of which dominate her book.

Mrs. Trilling also admits to never interviewing Mrs. Harris: "if I was going to take a point of view which was in any way disinterested and only objective, I couldn't do it."

The author makes no pretense at being a reporter. Her book is rife with unconfirmed hearsay: "a story I had heard," "was said to have told the press," and "can it be true?" In an interview in her Manhattan apartment, she said she is used to "interpreting" what events mean to society.

Mrs. Trilling had never been inside a courtroom and never written a book when she decided to tell Jean Harris' story in a 5,000-word essay embellished with trial highlights.

A daily observer at the trial, she said she first viewed the defendant as a symbol of a woman "driven to desperation" by a womanizing, manipulating man: "I could make a feminist identification with her ... and I think many women did."

But she came to see not the pitiable middle-age woman the defense portrayed, but a "hard woman" who matter-of-factly handled Tarnower's bloody sheets and pajamas and showed "unflagging snootiness."

"To be there in the courtroom and to have seen her total lack of remorse... She wept only for herself," Mrs. Trilling said.

"Is this the best we can do in the way of female champions? Surely what's wrong here is that we're confusing an irremediable and fatal collision between one man and one woman with a remediable attitude toward women in our society."

After Sadat's funeral

Gunmen attack minister's home

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptian police sources said yesterday that gunmen in two cars sprayed machine gun fire at the home of Interior Minister Nabawy Ismail, killing an undetermined number of his bodyguards. Ismail told a news conference the report was "completely a lie."

The police sources said the attack occurred hours after the funeral on Saturday of President Anwar Sadat. They also said there were armed attacks on at least two police stations in Cairo, and a shootout between police and Moslem fundamentalists barricaded inside a Cairo mosque.

Security sources, meanwhile, said they were seeking at least two other suspects in the assassination of Sadat last Tuesday.

Ismail called a news conference minutes after the report of the attack on his house, but later refused to field questions. Instead, he took reporters on a tour of his offices and, in the process, said there was no attack on his house.

He characterized the report, from sources whose reports in the past have been accurate, as "completely a lie, don't believe it." Then he said there would be no news conference, and told reporters to leave.

Reporters who drove by his house last night saw no evidence of damage but security men prevented reporters from getting a close look.

The police sources said the cars used in the attack — a white Peugeot and an orange Fiat 125 — were believed to be the same vehicles used by armed men who assaulted two police stations in Cairo on Saturday.

The official Libyan news agency JANA had reported Saturday that Egyptian guerrillas raided the Shubra police barracks Friday afternoon and that a number of people were killed or wounded.

JANA in reports in the Libyan capital of Tripoli, also reported Saturday that Egyptian "patriotic guerrillas" had blown up two major railroad lines.

An Egyptian security official said authorities are seeking two more suspects in connection with Sadat's assassination during a military parade in Nasr City, a suburb of Cairo.

The government has insisted that only four men — three civilians in army uniforms and an artillery lieutenant — had participated in the attack against Sadat.

Thatcher condemns latest IRA attack

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher yesterday took flowers to the soldiers and civilians wounded by the IRA's bomb attack on a busload of Irish Guards and condemned the bombing as a "cold, callous, brutal and sub-human thing."

"I shall never, never give them political status — never," Mrs. Thatcher said of the outlawed Irish Republican Army, which claimed responsibility for Saturday's deadly bombing. Scotland Yard said the attack, which came exactly one week after the collapse of the IRA's 7-month-long hunger strike in Northern Ireland's Maze Prison, could signal the start of a new terror campaign in the British capital.

Guerrillas using a command wire attached to a van set off the explosion as a bus carrying 23 Irish Guards back from duty at the Tower of London passed by, authorities said.

A 62-year-old widow passerby was killed and 38 other people, including 22 of the guardsmen and two children aged 2 and 5, were wounded in the shower of nails from the bomb and glass and debris flying from nearby buildings. Witnesses said nails pierced some of the victims in the face, head and body.

Thirteen people, including 10 soldiers and the wife of one of them, were still hospitalized yesterday. A Defense Ministry spokesman said

FOCUS

A National Award for distinguished preaching will be established as a memorial to Fr. William A. Toohey, director of campus ministry, who died Oct. 13, 1980.

Fr. Toohey earned a master's degree from Northwestern University in communications and public speaking and taught homiletics at Holy Cross College in Washington, D. C. from 1962 to 1968. He joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1968, the same year he served as president of the Christian Preaching Conference.

The annual award was decided upon by Fr. Toohey's co-workers and friends after the University's trustees set aside funds to be used as a memorial to the priest, whose own sermons in Sacred Heart Church during his ten years as head of campus ministry were widely acclaimed.

Bowing to a demand by Solidarity's congress, the Communist government offered yesterday to include representatives of the independent union on a commission to solve the country's food crisis. The government announced however, at the same time, that more price hikes will be necessary by next month. The conciliatory gesture came as Polish consumers threatened another round of strikes to protest food shortages, and amid reports of panic-buying of gasoline in Warsaw. Poland's economy is shackled with a foreign debt estimated at $23 billion to $27 billion, chronic shortages, a fall in coal exports and rationing on most goods. Past government attempts to bring the price of goods more in line with the cost of production have sparked strikes and violent protests. Solidarity, the first independent union in the Soviet bloc, was formed during one of those protests last year. — AP

Egypt's "foremost friend" in the Middle East is the United States, according to a statement made yesterday by American Secretary of State Alexander Haig. Haig also predicted a reconciliation soon between Egypt and Saudi Arabia. He also said the United States would become more involved in the Mideast as a result of President Anwar Sadat's assassination, "demonstrating that it is not fatal to be an ally of the United States." "We're going to have to show our presence here from time to time," Haig added. Haig talked with Egyptian President-designate Hosni Mubarak for nearly an hour yesterday in their second meeting since the Haig arrived Friday at the head of the U.S. delegation to Sadat's funeral. "The United States intends to work actively with our friends in the region, and foremost among those is the government of Egypt and the people of Egypt, for whom our friendship and respect have been deepened by this tragedy," Haig said. "We would welcome closer relationship between Egypt and Saudi Arabia," Haig said. "I do not expect this will be too difficult in the weeks ahead." Saudi Arabia's conservative government and most other Arab regimes severed diplomatic ties with Egypt because of the Egyptian-Israeli peace pact. — AP

The Soviet Union government issued an official statement early today accusing the United States of exerting "gross pressure" on Egypt by alerting American military forces after the assassination of President Anwar Sadat. In an unusual move, a dispatch by the official Tass news agency said, "The Soviet government resolutely condemns U.S. attempts at interfering in any way in the internal affairs of the Arab Republic of Egypt. 'What is happening around Egypt cannot but affect the interests of the Soviet Union's security and it will attentively follow the development of events.'" The statement, apparently written by top Kremlin leaders, did not refer directly to the assassination Tuesday nor did it specify how developments in Egypt involved Soviet security. Tass occasionally prints "Tass statements" that serve as major Soviet policy pronouncements, but it rarely carries direct government-to-government communications. It began today's dispatch by saying, "The following statement by the government of the U.S.S.R. to the government of the U.S.A. has been issued here." A U.S. Embassy spokesman said he had "no comment" on the statement. — AP

Barred from Anwar Sadat's funeral to ensure the security of foreign dignitaries, Egyptians were allowed for the first time yesterday to visit the place where their president died and was laid to rest. Children poked curious fingers into the bullet holes and their fathers shook their heads and asked how it could have happened. A few women wore black and someone had a tape of the fatal gunfire. It was the first time authorities allowed the everyday citizens to inspect the bullet scarred reviewing stand where Sadat was cut down last Tuesday by assassins identified by the government as a renegade army officer and three men masquerading as soldiers in the annual military parade. Authorities say the killers are linked to a cell of Islamic extremists and security sources told The Associated Press yesterday that at least two more suspects were being sought. News photos of the attack showed at least four assassins within point-blank range of the president, firing repeatedly from the chest-high marble barrier five feet from Sadat's body. The government has not explained how Sadat's security melted away in the face of the assault. The United States reportedly spent $25 million to train and equip the president's bodyguards. — AP

The Power of Assassins

Everyone knows it now. Another world leader, Anwar Sadat, was killed last week and buried Saturday. Struck down in a military parade by what Egyptian authorities termed an "isolated" group of four soldiers, a man whose main concern was peace has been killed in a violent manner.

According to a story by Associated Press Writer Steven K. Hindy, Sadat was reviewing troops during a holiday celebrating Egypt's 1973 "victory over Israel," when the assassination occurred. Tanks, helicopters and jets were assembling for Sadat's review when the lead tank, a Soviet-made T-62, "swiveled its turret and lowered its gun to Sadat's level as it rumbled by." Distracted by the jets above, Sadat probably didn't see his assassins as they left the tank, throwing grenades into the stands and bombarding the platform with machine-gun fire. Along with Sadat, seven others were killed and 27 were wounded. Yet, the power of the assassins had just begun.

When news of such violence is announced, it reminds one of the other terrors that have happened throughout history, especially those which have happened in one's lifetime. To me, this attack brings back memories of the assassinations of brothers John and Robert Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr. and the shooting of Gov. George Wallace, as well as the senseless violence that occurred during the past year. Sadat's murder reminds me of the cruelty of Mark David Chapman's shots which killed singer John Lennon; Chapman destroyed not only musical legend, but also took away a husband, father and friend. Sadat's death conjured further memories of the fear thousands of Americans experienced when President Ronald Reagan was shot, and of the anger and confusion the world felt when Pope John Paul II was attacked in Rome.

After every assassination or attempted assassination, most of the world thinks about the ramifications of the murder (for Sadat, what will happen to peace in the Middle East; for the president as to what will become of the nation's security; for the pope in his peace-seeking missions), but people aren't angered enough about the basic action that has occurred: a human life has been taken by someone else who had no right to begin to assume the responsibilities of another's death.

Who do the assassins think they are? They certainly receive plenty of attention after their actions. Newspapers, television, authors of screenplays and books give assassins all the glory they could ever desire. And the public listens, too. The motivations of the assassins actions are sought; their lives become a challenge of analysis, and their trials are followed with a fever unimaginable, a fever that lasts a long time (recently Lee Harvey Oswald's body was exhumed to guarantee the tomb did contain the body of JFK's assassin, a murder that occurred almost 20 years ago).

Mary Agnes Carey
SMC Executive Editor

Inside Monday

I just wonder where fascination replaced anger. I just don't know why the public is so often more concerned with the motivations behind so violent an act than angered because of it. I'm not telling Americans to run and lynch the next assassin, but it's important to think about the injustice that has happened, and will probably continue to happen, when one person decides to take the life of another.

It's also important to think of how assassins' actions force one to summarize the condition of the world. When another leader is killed, or another bomb explodes (assassins don't always kill with guns), or another violence, whatever its form, occurs, one tends to assume the world is "a mess" in such a hopeless state that peace can never be achieved. When that assumption is made, the assassins have become too powerful.

They have not only taken a life but they have taken away the spirit and faith of thousands, possibly millions of people. The first injustice is uncontrollable, but the second can be stopped.

The assassins do not have the right to destroy hope. They may continue to take away lives, but they should not be allowed to destroy the public's perspective of the entire world. Think about and realize the uselessness of their actions, but don't allow their violence to overpower your hopes for a better world. Don't give the assassins that power.

Students explore Neighborhood Roots

By ROGER WILKE
News Staff

Over 100 Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students participated in the Neighborhood Roots program last Thursday evening.

The purpose of the program was to learn about the neighborhoods of South Bend.

The tour took the students and other participants through a cross-section of neighborhoods, offering examples of affluent, middle class, ethnic and decaying areas of the city.

After the tour, the students dined on a Hungarian meal and discussed the tour, the role of neighborhoods, and the University programs of community service, experiential and in class learning.

The program began with a tour of the various neighborhoods of the city. The upper class Ranch Acres area was one of the first stops.

Students then visited Oakmont Park, a middle income neighborhood.

Rum Village, a Hungarian neighborhood, and St. Casimir's — a Polish area — followed.

The tour concluded with a drive through the decaying area of Ohio Avenue.

After the tour of the city, the group visited Our Lady of Hungary Church. Fr. Thomas Molnar showed the visitors murals and stained glass windows in the church and then invited the students to the cafeteria for a Hungarian meal featuring goulash and fried chicken.

During dinner, South Bend Mayor Roger Parent spoke on the effect of neighborhoods on the city, emphasizing that the success of the inner city areas depends on the residents' attitudes toward their area.

Prof. Irwin Press gave an overview of the tour, noting the significance of each neighborhood students stopped in.

Prof. John Roos followed with a talk on "neighborhood cycles". "Neighborhoods tend to follow a pattern of growth, prosperity and eventual decline," he said.

Mrs. Thatcher toured the scene of the blast — outside Chelsea Army Barracks less than a mile from Buckingham Palace — before visiting the injured at St. Thomas and Westminster hospitals.

Visibly upset, she pulled a 6 inch nail from the shattered van used in the bombing and said later, "These people are just criminals without regard for human life and limb."

Standing on the hospital steps,

Mrs. Thatcher said, "The people who did this were murderers, murderers. This was the most brutal attack I have ever seen."

The New York-based Noraid (Northern Ireland Aid) organization has raised $250,000 for the IRA since March 1, when the IRA launched its hunger strike. Ten men died in the fast demanding privileges for jailed Irish nationalists — privileges the British government said would amount to political prisoner status, thereby legitimizing the IRA's violent campaign to end British rule in Northern Ireland

... Harris

Mrs. Trilling noted Tarnower's many affairs, about which Mrs. Harris was "well acquainted" during their 16-year relationship.

"Sexual variety was the pattern of Tarnower's life, its boast really, which he protected by bachelorhood," Mrs. Trilling writes. "It was obviously one of Tarnower's pleasures that his women should be aware of each other."

Denied Tarnower's exclusive love, Mrs. Harris turned to money and status, and in that arena the pair mutually used each other, Mrs. Trilling said.

Tarnower was a "vain, self-important" man whose insecurity about being an Eastern European Jew led him to cultivate German Jewish friends and take middle-class respectability from Mrs. Harris' WASPishness, Mrs. Trilling writes.

For her part, Mrs. Harris never made it among the WASPs of her native Middle West, but "was making it beautifully among the Jews (of New York)," Mrs. Trilling writes.

Mrs. Trilling's parents were Jews forced out of Poland, and she insisted the "German Jewish-Eastern European Jewish thing is real."

Mrs. Trilling suggested that in the end, Jean Harris was seduced not by Herman Tarnower, but by her desires for money, social class, sex and a love she never found.

She rationalized her lengthy liaison by telling herself Tarnower was worthy of her love, Mrs. Trilling said. When he ended the relationship, the realization that she had betrayed her moral values and received nothing in return came crashing down, she continued.

"She'd been seduced by our present-day culture into believing that a free sexuality is anyone's for the taking, that one can throw over one's moral rearing without emotional consequences," writes.

She said the Harris case is important to present day culture.

"This was a mature woman, not a youngster carried away by some wild passion," she said. "If she could do it, it's just as if we were saying, 'look what human nature is capable of.'"

Computers will probably be very common around here within the next five years. (Dedrick) We're trying to address the public facilities, study space and social space in each dormitory. Unfortunately, we are not able to accomplish all that we believe is necessary in these areas as quickly as we would like. In the last three years, however, we have done quite a lot in terms of adding social space, study space, and beds.

Q: Will these renovations leave less space to house students?

A: (Dedrick) Definitely not. When you renovate an old building, you tend to find new space; you rework the old space in such a manner that you use it more efficiently. We are actually finding space. (Heppen) We also have a general rule that the architects follow to delegate square footage per student, which we use as an overall guide in any of these renovation projects.

Notre Dame finished the weekend competition with 35 points, 15 better than Butler and Franklin, which tied for second. Irish players reached the championship round in all nine brackets, and only No. 4 singles player Carol Shukis emerged without a triumph. Three freshmen — Lisa LaFratta (No. 1), Laura Lee (No. 5) and Lisa Gleason (No. 6) won straight set finals in the singles competition. Sophomore Pam Fissette won her second straight singles title with a 6-0, 6-0 thrashing of Franklin's Janet Muston in No. 3 singles. — The Observer

LOST/FOUND

LOST a two-tone blue sweatjacket. Reward, call Vince x1238.

LOST: TWO GOLD RINGS AT THE ROCK EXTREME SENTIMENTAL VALUE. IF YOU HAVE ANY INFORMATION, PLEASE CALL CINDY-3141.

LOST: SMC CLASS RING (pinkie), initials RMS. Reward. Call 287-2405.

LOST: Brown umbrella in room 366 of Old Chem. Bldg. Call 288-9322.

FOUND: Hat last Sat., Oct. 3, during play at O'Laughlin Theatre at St. Mary's. Call 288-9322 if yours.

FOUND: Lady's watch in front of Badin Hall. Call 8593 and identify.

TO WHOMEVER FOUND MY CHECKBOOK: I HAVE STOPPED ALL THE CHECKS. THEY ARE NO GOOD TO YOU. MY NAME IS ON THE CHECKS. YOU KNOW WHO I AM. PLEASE EITHER RETURN THE CHECKBOOK TO THE NOTRE DAME CREDIT UNION OR CALL ME AT 287-7157.

LOST: A GREEN 60/40 PARKA SHELL JACKET. IT IS FOREST GREEN, HAS A HOOD AND IS MONOGRAMMED SET ON THE BREAST POCKET. IT WAS A GIFT FROM MY LATE SISTER AND HAS GREAT SENTIMENTAL AS WELL AS PRACTICAL VALUE. IF YOU HAVE INFORMATION ABOUT THE JACKET, OR IF YOU HAVE THE JACKET, PLEASE CALL SCOTT AT 287-7157. NO QUESTIONS ASKED!

I just want to thank the person who took my jacket from the dining hall and tried to sell it back to me. I was willing to pay you for it, but twice, you never showed up. If you are the same person who called up and did the same thing to the girl with the purse and the kid with the sweatshirt, I think that I speak for all of us in saying that you are probably the lowest form of life that can exist. I don't understand what you are going to do with a jacket like mine because you certainly can't wear it and nobody else but me would buy it from you. If you still have my jacket or any of the other stuff, I hope that you will seriously consider giving it to lost & found, or arranging to return it. I can't understand how playing games like this turns you on, but your cheap thrills have come at the expense of others. I hope that soon you will sit back and just think about how low you have been stooping. You are nothing, but a loser.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jerry Reuss outpitched Nolan Ryan and the Los Angeles Dodgers scored three runs in the sixth inning to soar to their third straight victory over the Houston Astros Sunday, winning 4-0, and qualified for the National League championship series.

The Dodgers shelled Ryan — who had allowed only two hits in his previous two outings against them — in the seventh inning as they won the best-of-five divisional series after losing the first two games in Houston.

Los Angeles opens the league championship series at home Tuesday afternoon against Montreal.

The Dodgers will host the Expos on Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday night before the best-of-five championship series move to Montreal.

NEW YORK (AP) — Reggie Jackson, New York's celebrated "Mr. October," and Oscar Gamble smashed consecutive tape-measure home runs in the fourth inning Sunday night, rallying the Yankees to a 7-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers and the championship of the American League East.

Jackson's two-run shot into the upper right field stands, more than 50 feet above the 353-foot sign erased a 2-0 Milwaukee lead. It was his 16th post-season homer and second of this series. Gamble followed with his second of the East playoffs, a 400-foot line drive into the right center field bleachers, chasing Brewers starter Moose Haas, who also lost the playoff opener.

The victory gave the Yankees the series 3-2 — they won two games in Milwaukee, then dropped two in New York — and sent them on to the AL championship series against their ex-manager Billy Martin and his Oakland A's. The A's swept Kansas City in three games for the West Division crown.

The best-of-five series begins at Yankee Stadium Tuesday night.

'Like a nightmare'

Irish can't explain third loss

By KELLY SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Notre Dame, ranked No. 1 in the nation less than a month ago, is below the .500 mark this late in the season for the first time since 1963. The players find that hard to explain.

"I don't know what the problem is," offered quarterback Tim Koegel. "If I knew, we'd be 5-0."

"It's so hard to explain," remarked linebacker Bob Crable, who kept busy by making 19 tackles. "This is like a nightmare."

It's not hard to find reasons for Saturday's 19-13 loss to Florida State. The Irish lost their last chance for victory on a trick play in the closing minutes, a shift into the shotgun designed to draw FSU offsideline on fourth-and-five.

"That's one of the objectives, but there's a play in it, too," insisted Faust, whose plan backfired when his team was assessed a five-yard penalty for illegal procedure. "They said the quarterback (Koegel) drew them off; it's an official's decision."

But you can't pin the loss on that one play. Notre Dame suffered too many breakdowns in crucial situations. It was outplayed by a much faster Seminole squad. The offense failed to put points on the board, while the defense, worried about FSU's passing game, let the draws and sweeps go by. And the players know it.

"Florida State's biggest asset was its speed," said linebacker Mark Zavagnin. "Both of their backs were as quick as any we've faced. And I don't think I've ever seen a team get their receivers out into their patterns faster."

"We just weren't consistent enough all the way through, and they were," he continued. "They were able to run the ball against our defense, and those breakdowns were all they needed to get going."

"We still lack consistency on offense," explained quarterback Blair Kiel, inserted for Koegel right before halftime after the offense repeatedly stalled. "There's no reason a team of our caliber should be going 1-for-14 on third down conversions."

"We made mistakes in key situations," agreed guard Mike Shiner. "It's very demoralizing when you can't even make a yard."

The two teams played to a 3-3 halftime tie, and the Irish had a chance to go up by a touchdown when Zavagnin returned an interception to FSU's seven at the beginning of the third quarter. They were denied the endzone when Kiel was stopped on a bootleg on third-and-goal.

"If Blair had kept going around the corner he might have outrun that defender," said Faust. "But I don't think Blair thought he could beat him."

"Normally, I could beat a defense to the corner, and the bootleg would have worked," Kiel stated. "But their quickness was very obvious out there. Had we scored, the momentum would have shifted our way."

The Irish did get three points from Harry Oliver on that series, which put them ahead for the last time, 6-3.

But from then on, the momentum belonged to Florida State. Quarterback Rick Stockstill directed an 80-yard scoring drive that ended on a touchdown pass to Mike Whiting, one of two scoring receptions by the fullback, who accounted for 44 yards in the air and 72 on the ground. Seminole tailback Ricky Williams ran for 135 yards.

"Three times, the linebackers ran right by me when I had the ball because they were trying to get to Stockstill," said Williams.

"I didn't think we could sustain a drive on the ground against Notre Dame," admitted FSU Coach Bobby Bowden. "But when we started throwing, their front four started to lose discipline because of their pass rushing, so we went to our running game."

Kiel did get the Irish moving late in the third quarter. A drive was helped along by a pass interference call on a pass intended for Mike Boushka. Wingback John Mosley, subbing for a banged-up Tony Hunter, had runs of 11 and 10 yards to get Notre Dame down to the one. Greg Bell, who had 121 yards on the afternoon, took it in to knot the score at 13-13.

"I had the feeling we were going to get whipped, that we were letting the momentum get away from us," confessed Bowden. "I thought they were going to come back and win it." So did some of his players.

"Midway through the third quarter, I thought we had them," said tackle Garry Futch, "but that touchdown gave them a spark, and I knew it would be a dogfight from then on."

The Irish couldn't fight both the Seminoles and the bad breaks. On their next possession, cornerback James Harris, who got the interference call on Boushka, redeemed himself when he came up with an interception, the fifth that Kiel has thrown this year. Moments later, Stockstill found Whiting in the endzone again for the winning score.

"We knew that play would be open, because we saw that they had a tendency to overpursue," said Stockstill of his five-yard screen play. "Mike made a good catch, and the endzone was wide open."

Faust reinserted Koegel in the lineup with seven minutes left. "I had just thrown a pretty costly interception at the time, and that's probably why I got taken out," offered Kiel. "The coaches were trying to go with the quarterback who was moving the team best. But Tim and I really weren't sure when we were going in."

Nothing really worked with either one, as the Irish managed just 38 yards through the air. Koegel was three-of-nine, Kiel, two-of-nine.

"We forced them to pass," Bowden stated. "We knew we had to stop their running game, because Nebraska crushed us on the ground, and Notre Dame did, too, for awhile. But our defense began to adjust."

The Irish just couldn't compensate for a lengthy injury list, with key players like Dean Maszta, Phil Carter, Randy Ellis and John Krimm on the sidelines. "We knew going into this game that we were in pretty bad shape physically," Faust added. "We just hoped to get through it."

FSU punter Robn Stark keeps right and rolls toward a 10-yard pickup in the second quarter of Saturday's game. Freshman Mike Golic (No. 55) is in pursuit. Stark's keeper was one of three razzle-dazzle plays FSU Coach Bobby Bowden threw at the Irish, and all three worked for big Seminole gains. (Photo by John Macor)

'Oktoberfest OK'

Bowden converting skeptics

By KELLY SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Florida State's Bobby Bowden quickly is making believers out of the skeptics who scoffed at his national championship aspirations.

"Oktoberfest ain't so bad, yet," smiled the Seminole coach about the murderous 1981 schedule which pitted him against Nebraska, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Pittsburgh and LSU, all on the road on consecutive Saturdays.

Bowden made some pretty cocky predictions before the season began. "If we go 10-1, nobody else in the country can win the national championship. I wouldn't care who went 11-0, if we can get that 10-1 we'll beat out anybody."

He may be right. His team has looked particularly impressive the last two weeks, beating the Buckeyes and the Irish in their own backyards.

"What does this do for your program?" he was asked. "It puts ya in there with the best of them, doesn't it?" Bowden responded. "I never believed we'd be where we are (4-1). I figured we'd be 2-3 at best."

But it's the Irish who are now 2-3 after a rare loss at home, where they boast an .833 winning percentage. It looked like they were destined to improve that figure, too, after Harry Oliver's first field goal bounced off the top of the left goalpost and sailed through the uprights.

"I thought about the luck of the Irish on that one," Bowden said. But his players weren't hung up on mystique.

"We weren't intimidated by the Notre Dame prestige," said punter Rohn Stark, who saddled the Irish with poor field position all day. "Maybe we're too young to be intimidated. The coaches instilled in us the last two or three seasons that if we go into a game and fight hard, we can win."

Fullback Mike Whiting wasn't thinking about legends, either. "The only thing on my mind today was winning," he offered. "If we give it all we have, we're just as good as anybody."

The Seminoles may be a little faster than anybody, and Bowden was worried he wouldn't be able to use that to his advantage Saturday.

"I got weather reports all week saying there was a good chance of rain with temperatures in the 40's," he said. "That scares me to death when I hear it might be cold and wet, because a muddy field would neutralize our speed."

But the weather reports were inaccurate, and FSU was able to utilize its best asset, despite a furious effort by the Irish defense.

"I thought their pass rush was excellent," complimented quarterback Rick Stockstill, who had passes picked off by Mark Zavagnin and Chris Brown. Stockstill threw for 100 yards, his lowest total of the season. "It was as good as we've seen all year. Nebraska's was heavy, but Notre Dame was really tough, and its secondary played just as well as we thought it would."

And the senior feels this victory has earned his team its just rewards. "This shows that we can play with the best," he stated. "I mean, we're on the road for this long, and we come up with two big wins. I think now we deserve the respect that Notre Dame gets."

They might get that from everyone but their own coach. "This was the biggest win I'll ever have," admitted Bowden. "I've always had tremendous admiration for Notre Dame. You can't imagine how much respect I have for a place that produced the likes of Knute Rockne, Frank Leahy, and a tailback named Ronald Reagan."

Yanks, Dodgers, Expos advance with wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Steve Rogers pitched a six-hit shutout and singled home the first two runs Sunday as the Montreal Expos beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-0 to win their first National East Division title in the 13-year history of the franchise.

The Expos won the first two games at home, but the Phillies won here Friday and Saturday to send the best-of-five series to a fifth game.

It was Rogers' second triumph of the series and he again beat Phillies ace Steve Carlton to seal the victory over the defending World Champions.

Rogers beat Carlton in the opening game of the series, pitching 8 and 2-3 innings and allowing one earned run. He is 4-1 against the Phillies this year, including the playoffs.

Carlton, who worked six innings in the opener at Montreal, worked eight Sunday, allowing seven hits and all three Montreal runs.

Rogers walked one and struck out two. He was in slight trouble in the first when the Phillies had hits from Pete Rose and Mike Schmidt, but

Irish still unbeaten after tying Badgers

Notre Dame's soccer team, ranked ninth in the Midwest region, battled No. 6 Wisconsin to a 2-2, double-overtime tie yesterday on Cartier Field.

The Irish, who trailed twice in the contest, battled back to tie the game at 2-2 on a Sammi Kahale goal at the 78:18 mark in regulation time.

It was the 10th goal of the season for Kahale, who leads the Irish in that category.

The Badgers had taken their second lead less than five minutes earlier, on a goal by Chris Henige.

Wisconsin scored first on a Mark Babich goal midway through the first half. Notre Dame countered with an unassisted Rob Snyder goal just :48 into the second half. That knotted the match at 1-1, and it stayed that way until Henige's goal midway through the second stanza.

The two goals scored by Notre Dame marked the biggest offensive output against the Badgers this season. Wisconsin entered the game having allowed only one goal in nine previous matches.

The tie capped another perfect weekend for the Irish, who also went into double-overtime Friday evening before beating Marquette 1-0. Sammi Kahale scored the game-winner with 4:02 remaining in the second session, his ninth goal of the season.

Now 10-0-3 on the season, the Irish will travel to Rensselaer, Ind., Wednesday for a 4 p.m. date with St. Joseph's College. — The Observer
