

INSIDE:

SHOWCASE

A WHO TRIBUTE
- see centerspread

NEWS

TYLENOL UPDATE
- see page one

THE IRISH EXTRA

The Observer

VOL. XVII, NO. 32

the independent student newspaper serving notre dame and saint mary's

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1982

Hurricane warnings

Two top defensive teams square off, each with a score to settle

By CHRIS NEEDLES
Sports Editor

For the third week in a row, Notre Dame will be facing a pass-oriented offense, as it squares off against 17th-ranked Miami of Florida at Notre Dame Stadium.

There was a time when games against passing teams used to be X-rated material and bring screams of horror from Irish fans. But no more.

The Hurricanes come into tomorrow's contest averaging nearly 200 yards a game through the air. But the combination of a formidable pass rush and a vastly-improved secondary have made the Notre Dame pass defense air-tight.

The secondary, which limited Michigan State to just 121 yards in the air last Saturday, should be tested again this week. Miami quarterback Mark Richt, who replaced the injured Jim Kelly three weeks ago, has filled in admirably. Richt has hit on 40-of-73 passes for 395 yards in two-and-a-half games since taking over for Kelly.

When Kelly separated his shoulder in the Hurricanes' 14-8 win at Virginia Tech on September 18, skeptics immediately wrote off Miami's chances for a national championship. Kelly, who was a prime candidate for the Heisman Trophy, had burned the Irish in their last two meetings.

In Notre Dame's 32-14 home victory in 1980, Kelly passed for 220 yards and two fourth-quarter touchdowns in the losing effort. And in last season's "game," if you want to call it that, the Pennsylvania native threw for 264 yards in the 37-15 blowout.

So, you would think Irish Coach Gerry Faust is rejoicing over Kelly's absence. Not so.

"Richt is doing an outstanding job," says Faust. "Losing someone of Jim Kelly's status had to be a tough blow emotionally as much as anything. I don't think there's any question he was the leader of their team."

"But you have to be impressed with the success Richt has had the last couple of weeks. He's in a difficult position, but he's handled himself well. I'm not sure he's quite the deep threat Kelly was, but that's not always essential because of the way Miami utilizes its running backs in the passing game."

The way Notre Dame's rushing defense has been going lately, pass receiving may be the only thing Miami's running backs will be able to do tomorrow. The Irish front four of Bob Clasby, Jon Autry, Mike Gann and Kevin Griffith, which has now been coined "The Gold Rush," has held opponents to a mere 71 total yards rushing in the first three games. The 23.7 yard per-game average is tops in the nation, and translates into a meager 0.8 yards per rushing attempt.

Miami will try to counter with what has been a sub-par rushing attack led by junior halfback Keith Griffin (62 carries for 221 yards) and junior fullback Speedy Neal (42 for 142 yards).

OUTLOOK, page 3A

Mike Gann

A game on the line

Both teams must control the offensive line to move the ball

By SKIP DESJARDIN
Sports Editor Emeritus

It is a time-worn cliché, uttered ad nauseam by television announcers resplendent in polyester sport coats.

"Football," they say, "is a game won and lost in the trenches."

This one will be no exception.

Notre Dame's aptly — if not uniquely — named "Gold Rush" defensive line, and Miami's own talented front line will dictate the outcome of the game. The Irish are No. 1 against the run, and the third-ranked defense overall. The Hurricanes are not far behind them in the latest NCAA statistical release.

So, the real job will be for the offensive linemen, the anonymous men who work the hardest for the least amount of glory.

Notre Dame linemen will be contending with All-America candidate Tony Chickillo.

"Defensively, we're not as strong as we were a year ago," says Chickillo of the defensive unit that held Notre Dame's offense scoreless last year. "But we are a lot quicker, and more explosive. We're a big play defense. We cause a lot of big plays."

There have been changes in the offensive line this week. An injury to center Mark Fischer, though not as severe as once believed, will necessitate some position-shuffling.

Tom Thayer will move over to the center spot, leaving his own guard position to Neil Maune. Mike Shiner, who returned from pre-season arthroscopic surgery to his knee last week, will also be forced into duty.

"Thayer played there during the spring," said Coach Gerry Faust this week in explaining the move, "so he knows how to play the position. Tom Doerger (listed second on the depth charts) played well last week, but he's only a freshman."

"Thayer's a three-year starter, and at this point of the season we want experienced players in our lineup."

And Chickillo is not the only man with which the Irish linemen must contend.

"I've got a couple of young guys playing next to me," the 6-3, 250-pound Chickillo says. "But I have a great deal of confidence in what Tony Fitzpatrick and Fred Robinson can do. They've been waiting in the wings a long time. Now their opportunity is here, and they are going to make the most of it."

These two men will be a real challenge for the Irish offensive line. Fitzpatrick is small at 6-0, 240, but he has great quickness. He and Robinson combined for a game-saving tackle-fumble recovery combination against Michigan State two weeks ago.

Last week, Robinson had what many observers considered the best game of his career. He harassed Louisville Quarterback Dean May to the point of forcing five interceptions. He also had three sacks.

The Irish line must buy time for Blair Kiel if he is to be effective. They must also provide a hole through which Phil Carter can run. The game against Michigan State was an example of an occasion where Carter, who's strength is his ability to get through the hole and into the flats, simply had no place to run.

LINES, page 2A

Tony Chickillo

Kevin Griffith

Griffith for the defense

A knee injury taught the Irish lineman what football, and life, is all about

By LOUIE SOMOGYI
Sports Writer

He's an end.
He's 6-3.
He's a senior.
He's from Kettering, Ohio...

Sounds familiar. Anyone, of course who has been to a Notre Dame home basketball game in the last year knows that the last three lines will be the dramatic introduction for John Paxson this season.

But what's with the "He's an end" business?

If you don't know, then meet Kettering's "other" connection in athletic prowess for Notre Dame — defensive end, scholar-athlete and perhaps as good an embodiment of the Notre Dame spirit as you will ever find, Kevin Griffith.

Paxson — who attended the same high school as Griffith in Kettering — will probably still be the most-talked-about athlete on campus by the end of the year, but for now quite a bit of talking is being done about Griffith.

Forget that he has made only 11 tackles (tying him for tenth on the squad) in three games. Griffith has become perhaps the major stalwart for the much-improved Notre Dame "Gold Rush." Already in the young season, opposing offensive units have been dropped 18 times behind the line of scrimmage for a total of 87 yards in losses. Griffith himself has accounted for six of those losses for 49 yards.

"Those 11 tackles don't tell the story about what Kevin has done for us this year," says his defensive line coach, Greg Blache. "He is very valuable for us with his experience and strength alone. He is so physically awesome for us at times that it has enabled him to make the gigantic plays when we needed them."

Such was the case last Saturday when Michigan State had a first down on its own 29 yard line in the first quarter. Two Griffith sacks later, the ball was on the State 10 yard line. Then Griffith helped out linemates Mike Gann and Jon Autry with yet another sack in the Spartan end zone (thus beating out his Kettering colleague in scoring the first "two points" of the season).

The floodgates opened after that, as the Irish defensive unit recorded seven more tackles for losses on the afternoon.

"He set the tempo for us right there," says Blache, "and he got the others fired up."

"Kevin and Bob Clasby are two seniors that have really earned the respect of our younger members in the line. They look to them for their poise and maturity and that's exactly what they have been providing. It's just like having another pair of coaches on the field."

Griffith's play and leadership have been all the more pleasant since he was suspect in the beginning as a starter after having sat out all of spring drills this year in order to nurse an old knee injury. In addition, he was moved from his old contain tackle position to the end spot this season.

His shift, however, is one of the reasons why he feels that the defensive front has made such great strides this season.

"We have people in the positions this year where they are best suited," explains Griffith. "We are also a lot physically stronger and established this year. The system last year where players on the defensive line were rotated in and out was good in the sense that it would give a player a rest, but it was also bad in that when a guy finally figured out the opposing players style or tendencies, he would lose his continuity by having to sit back down on the bench."

"As for myself, I've just been fortunate on the sacks this year through hard work. I'm still kind of learning the new position and I still have some improving ahead of me."

Learning and improving, though, are Griffith's true talents in life.

One of the philosophies that has made Griffith the person he is today is the axiom that when life hands you a lemon — make lemonade. Two years ago when he was racked up for the year at the beginning of the season with a major knee injury, moaning about the unfairness that life brings wasn't his style.

"It was nothing more than a case of my becoming a student first, and an athlete second," he recalls. "I was able to work that year at a juvenile center in Michigan — which was just a tremendous experience in itself. I was also able then to attend seminars and lectures outside of class that I wouldn't have been able to attend if I had been playing football."

"I love the game, but there are so many other things to do in life. The injury just opened up new opportunities for me."

The new opportunities paid their dividends at season's end last year. Besides attaining second-team Academic All-America honors for his 3.3 grade point average in government, Griffith was awarded the coveted John W. McMullan award from Notre Dame, which is given to the Irish gridders who best exemplify spirit of the student-athlete while contributing his skill and ability in the classroom and on the field.

Finally, his greatest opportunity arrived this summer when he assisted in the office work of Ohio Congressman Clarence Brown in Washington, D.C.

All of which gives Griffith an inevitable "All-American Boy" tag — a label which he embarrassingly laughs off.

"I've had my nights at the C-Club (Corby's)," he explains.

"There's a time for work and a time for play though," he continues more seriously, "and when it's time to work I'll do everything I can to give my best effort. The one thing that Notre Dame really teaches you is your faults. When I first came here I immediately realized that I would have to become stronger, faster and smarter on the field. I've worked hard for those goals and developed myself as a person along the way both mentally and physically."

"There is so much here. All the people — not just athletes — are talented in their own ways. Having had the opportunity to meet the different people here is something that will always stay with me."

In an era where many athletes are used by the scholarships that universities give them, Griffith has used Notre Dame in a positive manner through his own scholarship.

"I think every father dreams of his own sons growing up to be like Kevin," says Blache. "He's just a phenomenal kid to be associated with."

Chalk up another plus for Archbishop Alter High School in Kettering, Ohio.

... Lines

continued from page 1A

Miami's front line must contend with Kevin Griffith, Jon Autry, Mike Gann, and Bob Clasby. But they have done so before, and well.

Mark Cooper was a part-time starter at tight end for two years, then was relegated to a third-string role behind Andy Baratta and Glenn Dennison. But all that changed just before the end of the season last year. Starting tackle Bill Welch went down at a Tuesday practice with a knee injury. With two days to go before the Notre Dame game, Coach Howard Schnellenberger turned to Cooper to fill the slot. It was a chance out of a Horatio Alger dime novel, and Cooper made the most of it. By the end of the Hurricane win Cooper put on a performance that earned him Offensive Player of the Game honors from the Miami coaching staff.

He has been a starter ever since.

Don Bailey has been around much longer. The 6-4, 250-pound senior has started at center for the 'Canes for three seasons, and has proven himself against some of the best nose guards in college football. The Miami press releases incline only slightly to euphemism when they call him "the spiritual leader for the Hurricanes' offensive heart."

The Hurricanes must buy time for Mark Richt, just as the Irish must do for Kiel. If anything, however, it is more vital for the 'Canes to do so. A mediocre running attack requires that Richt pass — a lot. And if Griffith, et al., put the same amount of pressure on him that they did on Leister, they will, more than likely, won the battle.

And the game.

IRISH EXTRA
BY
Skip Desjardin

Phil Carter

The Observer

VOL. XVII, NO. 32

the independent student newspaper serving notre dame and saint mary's

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 8, 1982

Philadelphia Police Chief Inspector Frank Scafidi poses for photographers while holding a suicide note found near the body of William Pascual, a University of Pennsylvania Wharton School graduate student who died last April 3 of cyanide poisoning. (AP Photo)

Chicago-Philadelphia No link found in poisonings

(AP) — Top authorities in Illinois said yesterday there is no apparent connection between the April cyanide death of a Philadelphia man and seven deaths from cyanide-contaminated Tylenol in the Chicago area.

"We have no reason to suspect ... that there is any connection," said Illinois Attorney General Tyrone Fahner, who heads a task force investigation into the Chicago-area deaths.

At an afternoon news briefing he said he could not disclose "other objective facts" that led officials to conclude there was no relation between the two incidents.

Meanwhile, in Oroville, Calif., detectives investigating the discovery of Tylenol laced with strychnine said they believe "the crime probably is local," and a new lead had turned up. Authorities there had speculated that the poisoning was done by a "copycat" who heard of the Chicago cases.

Chicago's top police official had discounted a link between the Chicago and Philadelphia cases earlier yesterday after being briefed by Philadelphia police about the investigation into the April 3 death of a graduate student at the University of Pennsylvania.

"Based on the preliminary report (from Philadelphia police), with the facts we know now, the cases are not connected," said Police Superintendent Richard Brzeczek.

"But we will be getting the evidence gathered in their investigation and a full report," he said, "and we'll look them over to see if there is anything that will be of use to us."

"Right now," he added, "we are no closer to solving this as a result of what was learned there."

Brzeczek said Philadelphia police told him "there was no tie" to the Chicago cases after they conducted a second interview with an associate of William Pascual, 26, a graduate student whose death had been ruled a suicide. The probe of Pascual's death was reopened when seven people died in the Chicago area last week after taking capsules of Extra-Strength Tylenol that had been contaminated with cyanide.

Investigators discovered that a bottle of Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules found in Pascual's apartment contained cyanide, a piece of evidence that was not detected in the initial investigation.

But, said Brzeczek, "The cyanide they found there was not in capsules as we found them here." And, he said, authorities were attempting to learn whether Pascual put the cyanide there himself.

Tylenol capsules have been withdrawn from the market nationwide.

Tunnels found under West Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — An elaborate tunnel network under west Beirut served as a "city within a city" for Palestinian guerrillas, complete with an amusement center and torture chamber, security sources said yesterday.

They also said that the international terrorist Carlos used the tunnels to meet with Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas.

The sources said the four-mile network ran from the Sabra and Chatilla refugee camps to Bourj el-Barajneh next to the airport, and was packed with arms, forged passports and stolen cars. Other sources said helicopters and small submarines were hauled from the tunnels, but that was not confirmed.

The tunnels were discovered late last month, the sources said.

In other Lebanese developments, U.S. envoy Philip C. Habib met in Washington with top Reagan administration officials to refine a plan for the phased withdrawal of Israeli, Syrian and Palestinian forces from Lebanon, followed by the recall of the 1,200 U.S. Marines in the peacekeeping force; Israeli officials in Jerusalem, in an apparent softening of earlier positions, said the Palestine Liberation Organization could pull out in stages with the Syrian army, but that all PLO fighters must be out before the last phase of the Syrian and Israeli pullout; and Lebanese army troops arrested 175 more people in west Beirut, bringing to more than 1,000 the number seized since last week in what the

See BEIRUT, page 6

Near double digits

More Americans unemployed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 700,000 more Americans sought jobless benefits late last month, the government said yesterday. This came on the eve of the expected release of figures showing the highest unemployment level since the waning days of the Great Depression.

For the seventh consecutive week, first-time claims for unemployment checks surpassed the 600,000-level considered by economists as a clear signal of a pending rise in the overall jobless rate.

That rate was 9.8 percent of the work force in August, so a fractional 0.2 percent rise would produce double-digit unemployment.

The latest claims figures, reported by the Labor Department, revealed that 697,000 people completed forms at local employment offices to test their eligibility for 26 weeks of government checks.

The claims filings for the week ending Sept. 25 fell 6,000 short of the record-setting 703,000 first-time claims placed the previous week, according to the Employment and Training Administration.

But the filing binge, nonetheless, was the second highest registered since the government began compiling such figures in 1974.

The report came as critics of President Reagan's economic policies girded for today's release of figures likely to show the nation surpassing 10 percent joblessness in September. That would be the worst mark since 1940, when America was emerging from the Depression.

The jobless rate in August was 9.8 percent, matching a post-World War II record set the month before, with nearly 11 million people out of work. The previous post-war high of 9.0 percent, registered in May 1975, was matched in March.

Before this year, the highest figure short of double-digits was the year's average of 9.9 percent in 1941, before the government began keeping jobless statistics on a month-to-month basis.

An overall rate of 10 percent or more would be the highest since an annual average 14.9 percent was recorded in 1940. The highest rate ever registered was a 24.9 percent annual average joblessness registered during the depths of the Depression in 1933.

Reagan was on the campaign stump yesterday, hammering away at his assertion that the Democratic Party is responsible for high unemployment. In a visit to Reno, Nev., Reagan said Democrats are the "last

See CHECKS, page 5

Joe Corcoran, left, Press Coordinator for Richard Trumpka, and Clemmy Allen, Trumpka's National Campaign Manager, sort through items being sold to help raise money for Trumpka's bid for United Mine Workers President. Trumpka is not accepting campaign contributions outside the rank and file membership. (AP Photo)

Economy hampers Republican chances

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The specter of a pre-election jump in unemployment shadowed President Reagan's efforts yesterday to enhance the prospects of Republican candidates in states where his personal popularity remains high.

Hammering away at his campaign theme of trying to lay the blame for high unemployment on Democrats, the president said they are the "last ones who should be delivering sermonettes" on the problem.

Addressing a Republican rally at the University of Nevada-Reno, the president left no doubt he anticipates bad political news when the Labor Department issues its latest unemployment figures today, the last report before the Nov. 2 elections.

The jobless rate, which was 9.8 percent the last two months, is widely expected to reach 10 percent or higher in the new report.

"Tomorrow the new unemployment rate comes out," Reagan told a partisan rally. "I have some questions for those who will be all over our (television) screens tomorrow. Where were they when the economy first started going haywire? What are they offering except the same failed policies they pushed in the past?"

The president flew to Nevada to generate enthusiasm and money for Republican candidates, particularly Gov. Robert List, who is trailing his Democratic challenger, and Chic Hecht, a businessman who is given a chance of upsetting four-term Democratic Sen. Howard Cannon.

Also on the president's schedule were fund-raising receptions in Reno and Las Vegas that the party hoped would bring in $150,000 for GOP candidates.

The president was heading for Los Angeles after the Las Vegas fund raiser at entertainer Wayne Newton's ranch.

He had a meeting scheduled with President-elect Miguel de la Madrid of Mexico in San Diego today, but had no campaign stops planned during a three-day California stay.

He resumes the campaign Monday with a stop in Dallas, Texas, on behalf of Republican Senate candidate Jim Collins.

By The Observer and The Associated Press

A 13-year-old boy punched and threatened to kill his principal after being expelled from school for throwing books on the floor and kicking them, officials in Lyndonville, Vt. said. The boy, who was not identified because of his age, was taken into custody at the Lyndonville Grade School after he hit Principal Carl Anderson, police said. Village Police Chief Leo Desjardins said the youth had been expelled earlier in the day because he threw books on a classroom floor and kicked them. Anderson took the boy home, but the youth returned later, officials said. He then left a second time, returning to threaten Anderson. — AP

A bus carrying workers to Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. crashed off U.S. 17 in Tabb, VA early yesterday, injuring all but two of the 39 people aboard, state police said. Three people were hospitalized, but most of the injured suffered only cuts and bruises in the 5:46 a.m. crash at the intersection of U.S. 17 and Virginia 134. "Everything indicates that the steering of the bus failed and the driver lost control and went off the right side of the road, striking several large trees," said Trooper P.K. Hargis. — AP

Bethel police officers were not to blame for the deaths of four teenagers during a high-speed chase, Newtown, Conn. police have concluded. The results of the inquiry, made public Wednesday, also said the teenagers were not to blame for the crash, although investigators said they were traveling too fast to make a turn. Two teenagers also were injured in the Sept. 10 crash, which occurred after two Bethel officers pursued the teenagers' vehicle from a Bethel parking lot into Newtown. Bethel police said they tried to stop the vehicle because there were passengers in the open back of the ranch-style car and because it was operating erratically. — AP

About 400 aborigines and supporters marched and chanted slogans yesterday in Brisbane, Australia, in another protest to draw attention to native land claims. About 200 people were arrested, charged with violating a special law prohibiting protests during the Commonwealth Games. Queen Elizabeth II is in Brisbane for the sports event, which ends tomorrow. Ann Stephen, daughter of Australia's governor-general, was arrested for the second time. More than 350 people have been arrested in the past week for staging illegal marches in support of aboriginal land rights. Aboriginal activist Gary Foley, who addressed the marchers before they moved into the streets, said the protests have attracted worldwide attention to the "oppression" of aborigines in Queensland, Australia's most politically conservative state. — AP

Parole was denied yesterday to 34 mercenaries convicted of commandeering an Air India jetliner last November to escape the botched coup attempt in the Seychelles, according to the South African Press Association. The men are commandos who received the minimum prison sentences of five years, with four and a half years suspended. They were sentenced in July and will have served the required terms by January. Col. "Mad Mike" Hoare, famed for his mercenary exploits in the Congo in the 1960s, was the alleged coup leader and was sentenced to 20 years, with 10 years suspended. — AP

The proposed deployment of F-16 squadrons in northern Japan is intended to cope with the Soviet military buildup in the Far East, a Japanese Defense Agency official said yesterday. Haruo Natsume, head of the agency's Defense Bureau, told a Parliament committee that the deployment will help strengthen the U.S. deterrent and thus strengthen Japan's security. The U.S. Air Force said the plan calls for a wing of F-16 fighters to be stationed at Misawa, 350 miles northeast of Tokyo, starting in 1985. Twenty-four would be initially deployed. — AP

Jihan Sadat leaves Egypt today for a three-country tour, her first since the assassination of her husband, President Anwar Sadat, one year ago. Mrs. Sadat has been in mourning since her husband was killed by self-proclaimed Moslem extremists while reviewing a military parade Oct. 6, 1981. A close friend of the family, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press Mrs. Sadat will visit West Germany for two days on her way to the United States, where she will spend a week. She then will visit London. In the United States, Mrs. Sadat will accept two awards for her husband and be welcomed by Egypt's ambassador, Ashraf Ghorbal. During her two-day stay in London, Mrs. Sadat will meet with Queen Elizabeth II and Princess Diana. — AP

International Harvester Co. concedes that despite all its efforts to stay afloat, including its pullout from the IH heavy-duty truck plant at Fort Wayne, it could sink into bankruptcy court. In a statement mailed to stockholders this week, the truck and farm-equipment manufacturer said that even if its current financial restructuring efforts go through, the company's future is far from secure. "The language is very grim," said spokeswoman Annette De Lorenzo, "but we have a very difficult story here." Harvester is staggering under an immense debt load of $4.2 billion and expects its 1982 fiscal losses to total $1.5 billion to $1.6 billion. — AP

Sunny and mild today with a high in the low to mid 70s. Increasing clouds tonight with a 30 percent chance of showers late. Lows tonight in the upper 50s. Occasional thunder-showers tomorrow, high in the mid 70s. — AP

A need for the Beatles

The four young men scuffled into the recording studio, their vested suits seemingly out of step with their long, tousled hair. The studio director showed them to their places before the microphones and pleasantly asked if there was anything they didn't like. "For a start," replied the youngest, "I don't like your tie."

Tuesday was the 20th anniversary of the release of the first Beatle record, "Love Me Do." The simple lyrics and unassuming melody of the John Lennon-Paul McCartney composition helped build the foundation for the musical and cultural revolution the Beatles would spearhead for the next eight years, and in essence, have spearheaded ever since.

What about the supergroup AC-DC? you scoff. Don't current popular artists have any musical or cultural influence?

In a way, AC-DC — the Bandits of Banality — and scores of other groups who idolize this high-intensity rock sound have led a counter-revolution against everything the Beatles stood for. The pounding distortion of their merciless heavy-metal and barbarian, make-them-up-as-we-go-along lyrics have chipped away at the towers of thought and elegance that the Beatles worked so hard to construct.

Perhaps more disturbing is the growth in popularity of the commercially-successful "wimp" groups of the late seventies, the REOs, the Foreigners. These are bands too scared to tread far on the limb of creativity, but instead wait to hear what their bosses on Madison Avenue have to say. Their songs speak not for them but for their wallets.

What might be most disturbing, however, is that the ideals — or lack thereof — these plastic groups parlay on vinyl often reflect the ideals held by the record-buying public. Has the free-thinking spiritedness and readiness to voice opinions that accompanied — and was encouraged by — the Beatles in the late sixties evaporated?

I think it has. Throughout its history, the British group rejected societal norms that had rarely been questioned previously. Often the charisma with which it ridiculed society only enhanced the group's appeal to those it had criticized. When the Beatles played before Queen Elizabeth at the Royal Command Performance in 1963, John Lennon told the exclusive audience, "On the next number, would those in the cheap seats clap their hands? The rest of you rattle your jewellery." When asked if he was embarrassed by the Beatlemania and "near-lunacy" the Beatles had created, Lennon replied, "No, it's great, we like lunatics, it's healthy."

Artistically, they were always ready to experiment with new ideas. Their first film, A Hard Day's Night, saw them frolicking in a park with a freshness and exuberance that was never found in an Elvis Presley movie. Their musical maturation through the Rubber

David Sarphie
Assistant News Editor

Inside Friday

Soul, Revolver, and Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band albums included such innovations as Indian sitars, hypnotic cellos, and backward tapes.

Young people accepted and applauded these musical innovations, looking upon the freedom expressed by the Beatles with earnest. They, too, sought to explore their own values. They, too, sought the freedom to express these values.

Marches on college campuses and anti-war riots became almost commonplace in the late sixties. These were among the "revolutions" the Beatles were describing when they sang, "You say you want a revolution/ We'll you know/ We all want to change the world."

Young people today seem to lack this interest in free thought and experimentation that was so important to the Beatles and their fans. Rather than questioning the opinions and values of parents, teachers, and administrators, many are content to accept these as the gospel truth. Rather than marching on campuses to protest inadequate leadership or policies, students are content to hide under the umbrella of their pre-programmed daily routines.

Part of the blame for this change in the outlook of the young must be attributed to the decay in music industry values. Money is now stressed more than art and innovation. Artists are too scared to take chances because their money-hungry bosses are too scared to take chances.

And so, while current artists sing about "jukebox heroes" who "take it on the run" on the "highway to hell," music fans who desire more from their music must look nostalgically backward and hopefully forward. Young people must hope future changes will inject the spirit and thoughtfulness that was so important to the Beatles.

Let it be.

The views expressed in the Inside column are the views of the author, and do not necessarily represent the views of The Observer or its editorial board.

The Observer

PARENTS WEEKEND
Observer record — 28 pages & we were there
Design Editor: Brecken Moon & Dad —
Scotty Pettit (Lynn)
Design Assistants: Get a grip! Co. (Lynn) —
He (Pete) — Tom
Hula Hoop: Beth & the Strapper — Pete Layout Staff: —
Kash
Lynettes: —
Tracie
News Editor: Ed (Tom), Dad, Jim, Bev, Joe, Marco — Mike
S/D Day Editor: —
Landy Coltrane
S/D Day Editor: —
Greg Swartz
S/D Day Editor: —
Ed (Tom) and Dad from Tom
Features/Layout: Ed (Tom), Jamie, Tom (Lynn)
— Ed
How's Puerto Rico? Madie, Padre — Lori Editorial/Layout: —
Ken & Paul
Sports Copy Editor: Ed (Tom) & Dad! What breaks down over — Rich
Mom — I need some TLC — Drave
Lynette
Laura Degnan of Design: —
Bob
Photographer: —
Ted
Guest Appearances: Telephone (Lynn)
Yes! Mom & Dad! Im still alive — Chris
A fish with no relatives, a disappointing
Tom
Rachel to the rescue
And here's to you, Mrs. Robinson Put it in the pants, with your cupcakes

The Observer (USPS 598 920) is published Monday through Friday and on home football Saturdays except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $25 per year ($15 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556. The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved. Second class postage paid at Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

You won't have to take up a collection to afford our lavish Sunday Family Buffet.

All you can eat.
11:00 a.m.
to
3:30 p.m.

Family Buffet
$6.95
(Children under 12 - $3.95)

Every week, we dish out the tastiest Sunday service in town. Roast Beef, Chicken a la King, Lasagna & Fish. Mashed Potatoes, Dressing & Gravy, Salads & Fruit. Plus a whole buffet full of other family favorites. All for the heavenly low price of just $6.95. So come pass the plate with us next Sunday. You can take all you want. Without giving 'till it hurts.

52885
US 31 North

South Bend,
272-5478

To replace Smeal

Five vie for NOW presidency

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Firebrand Sonia Johnson and two of officers of the National Organization for Women are squaring off in balloting to determine the next president of NOW and, perhaps, the future of the women's movement.

Essentially, the question is whether control of the 220,000-member group, America's principal feminist organization, will remain with the established leadership or shift to the more radical elements represented by Johnson.

The fight follows two portentous events this year for the movement: defeat of the Equal Rights Amendment in state legislatures and victory against anti-abortion legislation in the Senate.

Hundreds of women from around the country were gathering here for today's start of NOW's annual convention, three days of speeches, panel discussions and hearings on women's issues.

But the focus of the meeting is the election of a successor to retiring NOW president Eleanor Smeal. There are five candidates for the post, but three are regarded as front-runners.

The main differences among the major candidates seem to be matters of emphasis rather than policy. One issue, for example, concerns how much of NOW's resources should be devoted to electoral politics, a theme developed by Smeal since defeat of the ERA. Another question is how each contender would deal with relations between national headquarters in Washington and chapters around the country.

The contender best known outside the organization is Johnson, who earned national prominence in her fight with the Mormon Church over her support for the ERA, a proposed constitutional prohibition against sexual discrimination. The church opposes such an amendment.

Ultimately, Johnson was expelled from the church, and the 40-year-old mother of four became a full-time activist. Her most recent publicized activity was a 37-day fast with other women in an unsuccessful attempt to persuade the Illinois Legislature to approve the ERA before the June 30 deadline.

"We need to be a lot more aggressive in our efforts; we need to initiate more, be on the offensive more," she said in an interview.

Judy Goldsmith, a Wisconsin native who is NOW's vice president-executive, is another leading candidate for the job. She served as chief assistant to Smeal in the last 18 months of the ERA fight and is reported to have Smeal's endorsement.

At Smeal's urging, the NOW executive board imposed a gag order on officers, forbidding them to discuss the election with news organizations before the convention. But sources familiar with the situation confirmed that Goldsmith has Smeal's endorsement.

The other major contender is Jane Wells-Schooley of Pennsylvania, the vice president-action. Wells-Schooley was largely responsible for NOW's non-ERA and non-political activities in recent years.

Two other candidates are Mary M. McQuay, a ANNE leader in Oklahoma, and Anne L. Lang, who is active in the political action committee.

Smeal says she does not expect major changes in the organization, no matter who is elected.

Lebanese army soldiers blocking cars from entering the area surrounding the Bourj El-Barajneh Palestinian refugee camp also stop a youth on a bicycle Wednesday in Beirut. The Lebanese army arrested dozens of Palestinians in a dawn raid on the camp, military sources reported. (AP Photo)

Valerian Trifa

Nazi sympathizer must leave U.S.

DETROIT (AP) — Valerian Trifa, the Romanian Orthodox archbishop accused of being a Nazi sympathizer who incited bloody riots during World War II, will be deported, the Justice Department said yesterday.

Trifa, who hopes to find refuge in Switzerland, will become the first person deported from the United States for concealing war crimes from immigration officials, said Neal Sher, deputy director of the Office of Special Investigations in the U.S. Justice Department.

Under an agreement with the federal government, Trifa admitted lying to immigration authorities to cover up his fascist sympathies when he entered the United States 32 years ago. He agreed to leave the United States rather than continue the civil deportation proceeding.

His trial had begun Monday before Immigration Judge Bellino D'Ambrosio in Detroit.

The government was prepared to show that Trifa had been an ardent Nazi supporter and member of a group called the Iron Guard and that he wrote inflammatory newspaper articles and made anti-Jewish speeches, said Allan A. Ryan Jr., director of the special investigations office.

U.S. officials said that a Jan. 20, 1941, speech by Trifa in Bucharest touched off four days of riots that killed 300 Christians and Jews.

The charge of inciting riots, and others relating to alleged persecutions of enemies of the Nazis, were dropped under Trifa's agreement to be deported.

Trifa repeatedly has denied inciting anti-Semitic violence. But he acknowledged that when he entered the United States he concealed his activities in the Iron Guard, a pre-World War II anti-Semitic group.

"This is the first time in 30 years a person has been ordered deported for fascist activities... and it won't be the last," Ryan told a news conference.

He said his office is probing 210 people who are known fascists living in the United States. Twenty-five of those cases are in the courts.

Cosimo's Hair Design

18461 St. Rd. 23 South Bend
call for appointment 277-1875

Shampoo, Conditioner, Cut Style

ND Special

Guys-$10.00 (reg. 13.00)

Girls-$15.00 (reg. 18.00)

From the designers at Cosimo's

Present this coupon on arrival

You Asked For It

PIZZA

South Dining Hall

Oak Room Cafe

	Slice	1/2	Whole
Cheese	$.65	$2.55	$5.00
Sausage	.80	3.10	6.00
Pepperoni	.80	3.10	6.00
Mushroom	.80	3.10	6.00
Onion and Peppers	n/a	n/a	6.00
Double Cheese	n/a	n/a	1.00
Comb. Ingredients	n/a	n/a	Add .90

BRING IN THIS AD AND GET 50c OFF ANY WHOLE PIZZA
Good Thru Oct. 21, 1982.

Doc. Pierce's Restaurant

The Best in Aged Steaks

120 N. Main Street
Downtown, Mishawaka
255-7737

Lunch
11:00 A.M. to
2:00 P.M.

Dinner 5:00 P.M.

Closed Sundays
& Holidays

The Winner!

The Faculty Dining Room

In the South Dining Hall

THE NOTRE DAME - MIAMI GAME

Saturday - October 9th

ALL YOU CAN EAT !!

Breakfast $3.50

8:30am - 10:15am

Buffet Lunch $4.50

10:30am - 12:30pm

1,730 workers affected Clark begins consolidation

BUCHANAN, Mi. (AP) — Clark Equipment Co. said Wednesday that production operations would be phased out at three Michigan plants and greatly reduced at a fourth during the next 15 months under a plant consolidation plan.

The jobs of some 1,730 of the company's 4,200 Michigan workers would be affected, Clark said, which builds construction machinery, materials handling equipment and automotive parts. Many Indiana workers cross the state line near South Bend to work at the Buchanan, Mich., plant.

"We deeply regret the effect this phaseout will have on Clark employees and these communities," McKernan, a Clark vice president.

"We have too much manufacturing capacity and our manufacturing cost (in Michigan) are too high to be competitive in world markets. There also has been a sharp drop in demand for our products."

McKernan said Clark manufacturing operations in Buchanan, Jackson and Benton Harbor would be phased out, while operations at the Springfield plant in suburban Battle Creek would be reduced to 40 percent capacity.

Some 457 jobs would be lost at Buchanan, 603 at Jackson, 270 at Benton Harbor and 400 at Springfield, company spokeswoman Pat Whelan said.

Some 1,300 production workers would remain at Springfield on completion of the plant consolidation program, she said.

She added that production at the four plants has been at less than 50 percent capacity for several months due to poor economic conditions.

Clark headquarters would remain in Buchanan.

Beginning in about six months, Clark will transfer the production capability lost at the four Michigan plants to facilities in Georgetown, Ky., Stateville and Rockingham, N.C. and St. Thomas, Ontario.

But Ms. Whelan said "I don't think we're projecting any job increases" at those Southern plants until economic conditions improve.

"While labor costs certainly entered into our decision, this was not the overriding factor, especially given the encouragement by salaried employees and union representatives in several plants that they would accept wage and benefit reductions," Clark Chairman James R. Rinehart said in a letter to employees.

Since last spring, Clark has been studying operations at its 11 U.S. manufacturing facilities to determine where cuts could be made to reduce overall capacity.

The Buchanan-based firm reported losses of $3.4 million for the first six months of 1982. Its 1981 profits were $29.9 million on sales of $1.36 billion — down from a year earlier when the company earned $51.9 million from $1.53 billion in sales.

City and state officials had offered the company help in lowering its operating costs, which Clark estimated to be $10.77 per hour higher at the Buchanan plant than in two sister plants in North Carolina.

United Auto Workers union Local 468, which represents workers at Buchanan, offered last month to approve a 20 per cent pay cut and a three-year freeze on wage increases for its members if Clark would keep the facility open.

"They never even responded," local president Phillip Freeze said.

The Buchanan axle and transmission plant has about 550 workers, company officials have said. At Benton Harbor, a construction machinery facility, there are about 620 employees. The Springfield operation, which builds lift trucks, has about 1,500 workers. About 750 workers build axles and transmissions at the plant in Jackson.

Minneapolis Star and Tribune Editor Charles Bailey reads a statement to the newspaper's editors and reporters. He announced the company's decision to lay off 75 employees, including 30 journalists. He said he opposed the decision and is leaving the newspaper because of it. (AP Photo)

$82 million worth Government losing money

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is holding $82 million in seized cars, trucks, boats and aircraft and is losing money because it can't dispose of the property quickly enough, the chairman of a House committee said Wednesday.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, said the government has failed to remedy the problem despite a warning last February from the General Accounting Office of Congress and a Customs Service report.

toms Service report.

"Although a previous GAO report and a Customs internal audit report had identified these problems, nothing has been done to alleviate them," said Brooks.

The GAO said that because of vandalism, theft, storage costs and depreciation, the government is losing money through its inability to sell off the property.

The situation got so bad that for a time, in the middle of 1981, the Immigration and Naturalization Service stopped making seizures altogether because it had no place to store the vehicles, the watchdog agency said.

The GAO said the General Services Administration was unable to move quickly enough to make room in its overstuffed storage areas. GSA blamed the problem on inadequate manpower to handle what was an unexpected increase in seizures.

The Justice and Treasury Departments had no immediate comment.

The GSA said federal law enforcement agencies have seized 3,665 cars and trucks, 692 boats and 161 aircraft since being empowered to do so by a law which took effect in 1979.

Most of the property was seized by the U.S. Customs Service, the GAO said. But the Drug Enforcement Agency and the Immigration and Naturalization Service also have stepped up seizures of property to control contraband shipments, the GAO said.

GREAT WALL

RESTAURANT & COCKTAIL LOUNGE
SZECHUAN - CANTONESE - AMERICAN

CHUCK WHITE
At The Piano Bar
See Chuck Every Tues. thru Sat.
8:00 p.m. - 1:00 a.m. .... Enjoy Life!

•Dancing•Drinks•Dinner
•Hospitality•Reasonable Prices

Lunch Special $1.99 to $4.25
Dinner Specials: Seafood Platter $3.95
Pork Fried Rice $3.00
Chicken Chowmein $3.50

"The Best Chinese Food You've Ever Had"

HOURS:
Mon-Thur 11:30 a.m.-10:00 p.m.
Fri. & Sat. 11:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m.
Sun. & Holidays 4 p.m.-9:00 p.m.
Happy Hour 5-7 P.M.

OPEN 7 DAYS A WEEK

130 DIXIE HWY. SOUTH SOUTH BEND (Roseland)
Next to Randall's In.
272-7376

BANQUET ROOMS & GROUP RATES AVAILABLE

D.C. Club!

Sign-ups for October Break Bus are Sunday, October 10 from 7-9 p.m. in LaFortune Ballroom.

$75 round trip
must be paid in advance.

East Coast Tailgater before Miami game on GreenField...look for Washington Monument.

Come & Dine

Old Fashioned Home Cooking At Its Best!

- *If You Are Looking For Something Unique and Different
- *Homemade Pies, Breads, Salads, & Rolls
- *40 Foot Salad Bar
- *Nightly "All You Care To Eat Specials" Choose from Roast Beef, Turkey, Chicken, BBQ Ribs, Frog Legs & Lake Perch, Swiss Steak, Ham
- *Open Menu Always Available
- *Elegance, Good Prices — 850 Seats
- *Souvenirs, Gifts & Homemade Goodies

Sat. morning brunch-75 items under $5<sup>00</sup>-8 am - 2 pm
We will accept your reservations to guarantee immediate seating.

Open Daily 11 A.M. - 9 P.M. • Saturday 8 A.M. - 9 P.M.
Closed Sundays — Except Easter, Mother's Day & Father's Day
1202 E. Jefferson Blvd. • Mishawaka, Indiana 255-8040 from Notre Dame south on Eddy - 5 min. to Jefferson - east 10 min.

ROCCO'S

637 N. St. Louis St. 233-2464

ROCCO'S ORIGINAL PIZZA

Delicious Homemade:
Sausage Sandwiches
Foot-long Hoagies
Tortollini

Carry-Out
BEER & WINE

open
Tues-Thurs 5pm-1am
Fri & Sat 5pm-2am

SOUTH BEND'S FIRST PIZZA
— SINCE 1951

Experimental success

Arthritis drug brings relief

(AP) — The first trial of an experimental drug treatment for severe cases of rheumatoid arthritis has halted progress of the disease in five of 17 patients and sparked a startling regrowth of damaged bone, doctors say.

"Some of the damage to the bone that people thought would never go away seemed to get better," Dr. Guillermo Carrera of The Medical College of Wisconsin in Milwaukee said yesterday. "It startled us."

Carrera, a radiologist, helped assess the effectiveness of the new treatment developed by Dr. Daniel McCarty, a rheumatologist at the college.

Their report will be published today in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

In an accompanying editorial in the journal, Dr. George Ehrlich of Hahnemann Medical College in Philadelphia writes, "No other current treatment program can claim such successes with this type of patient, except as anecdotal reports in isolated instances."

Dr. Frederic McDuffie of the Arthritis Foundation in Atlanta said the study is moderately important, but the treatment would be useful only for a small, but important, fraction of the almost 7 million Americans who have rheumatoid arthritis.

Rheumatoid arthritis is a chronic disease characterized by inflammation, pain and swelling in the joints. It can lead to deformity of the joints.

The treatment consisted of a combination of three drugs known to be effective against rheumatoid arthritis — cyclophosphamide, azathioprine and hydroxychloroquine.

All of the drugs have dangerous side effects, Carrera said.

"This was used only in people with advanced, unremitting rheumatoid arthritis," he said. "It was an effort to save their lives."

McCarty was out of the country and could not be reached to comment on his research.

His idea, borrowed from cancer research, was that by using a combination of the risky drug it might be possible to treat severe rheumatoid arthritis with lower doses, thereby reducing the side effects.

Cancer researchers have found that combinations of anti-cancer drugs can allow better treatment with fewer side effects.

Researchers cautioned that McCarty's study was only a preliminary one, and that the effectiveness of the drug treatment would not be established until larger, carefully controlled studies are done.

Dr. Lawrence Ryan, a rheumatologist and a colleague of McCarty's at The Medical College of Wisconsin, said that the regrowth of damaged bone observed by McCarty and Carrera is unique but does not represent a reversal of rheumatoid arthritis.

Of the 17 patients who received McCarty's treatment, five had complete remission, two had near remission, seven showed partial remission and three had no response, according to his report.

Some of the 1000 steelworkers who turned out to march for jobs make their way past the all-but idle National Tube Works of U.S. Steel Corporation in McKeesport, PA. Unemployment is running at 50 percent in the four-county Pittsburgh steelworker labor market. (AP Photo)

Freeze campaign announces leader

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign on Thursday announced it will set up state headquarters in Indianapolis and Brother William Mewes of the Congregation of Holy Cross from Notre Dame, is the coordinator.

"In most analyses of the coming national elections, the economy is listed as the No. 1 issue, but we believe that the nuclear weapons arms race is the No. 1 issue," Brother Mewes said Thursday.

"If this wild, insane arms race is not brought under control and brought under control soon, then we won't have an economic problem or even an economy," he added.

One of the first public functions of Brother Mewes is to make an appearance at a peace procession Oct. 17 in Bloomington. The procession, which the state freeze campaign supports, is to be a "symbolic expression of the need for nuclear disarmament," according to a statement from the campaign.

The state campaign is gathering signatures on petitions being circulated statewide which call for arms reductions by the Soviet Union and United States.

The petitions are to be presented to Sen. Richard G. Lugar R-Ind., and Rep. Floyd Fithian, D-Ind.

For the last four years, Brother Mewes has been the executive secretary of his order's Midwestern Social Justice Commission at the University of Notre Dame.

Of the 276 city councils in the nation which have endorsed the freeze, the councils of Bloomington, Elkhart, Fort Wayne, South Bend, Terre Haute and West Lafayette have passed resolutions in support, according to the campaign.

EARN EXTRA $$$

N.D. Student Union is looking for an advertising salesman for the

DOGBOOK

Inquire for application from secretary in SU 2nd floor LaFortune

DEADLINE WEDNESDAY Oct. 13 5pm

... Checks

continued from page 1

ones who should be delivering sermons on the problem.

In Washington, his critics put the final touches on plans for elaborate speech-making and a protest rally timed to coincide with release of the unemployment report. AFL-CIO president Lane Kirkland, who has called unemployment "a national scandal," was scheduled as the leadoff speaker at a rally planned by the Full Employment Action Council for Lafayette Park, across from the White House.

Several private economists said in telephone interviews they saw no way the unemployment rate would be below 10 percent based on the large number of claims for jobless benefits.

"It's clear that the unemployment rate is going to go above 10," said Thomas D. Thomson of Crocker National Bank in San Francisco.

"But I doubt very much that it will be the last increase we see," he added.

Special Thanks from the

N.D. UNITED WAY STUDENT DRIVE

to:

Monica Jeffers &amp; Personnel Dept. James McDonell Fr. Hesburgh Ryan ver Berkmoes Margaret Fosmoe Kathleen Doyle	Dan McQillan Ken Stefarek Mike Browne
--	--

All those who helped out at The Observer.

Brian Crouth Billy Kramer Pete Jeffery	All the hall representatives &amp; section leaders
---	---

And all those who gave

See you again next year

Thank goodness for the abundance of Pappagallo.

And we have an abundance of fashions you like by:

David Brooks Ltd.
Lanz
Ms. Sero
Lady Thompson
Robert Scott Ltd.
... and of course shoes & accessories by ...

Pappagallo
University Center
6502 Grape Rd., Mishawaka
Daily 10-8:30

Plan Your Gift Giving Now!

Get a FREE KODAK Color Enlargement

Here's a great "early-bird" gift idea for Christmas. Buy two KODAK Color Enlargements and get a third free. Just bring in your favorite negatives from KODACOLOR Film, color slides, color prints or instant color prints. All sizes, up to 16" x 24". Hurry, offer ends October 27, 1982. Stop in today!

THE HAMMES NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

Alaska gives support

Libertarian Party finds home

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — "Alaska: Land of the Individual ... and Other Endangered Species," proclaims a popular T-shirt.

The message goes a long way toward explaining why the Libertarian Party has found a home in Alaska, where it enjoys much more political power than anywhere else in the country.

Dick Randolph of Fairbanks, who preaches unfettered individual rights and freedom from government interference, was the first Libertarian ever elected to office in a state when he won a seat in the Alaska House of Representatives in 1978.

The number of Libertarian state legislators anywhere in the country doubled in 1980 when Alaska voters re-elected Randolph and sent Ken Fanning, also of Fairbanks, to join him in the 40-member house.

This year, with 15 candidates, Libertarian Party officials say they expect to pick up three or four additional seats in the Legislature. Randolph, 46, wants to succeed retiring Republican Gov. Jay Hammond.

The Libertarian Party, which considers itself the country's third largest political party, says it will make its views heard in 1982 as never before, even if it fails to score many electoral victories.

It says it will have at least 11 gubernatorial candidates this year, and will have candidates running for enough offices to give 75 percent of the voters a chance to vote for at least one Libertarian.

All told, the party says, 900 to 1,000 advocates of the Libertarian philosophy will be on American ballots in 46 states.

That philosophy advocates near absolute laissez faire: a free market economy and no government restrictions on personal behavior which does not infringe on other peoples' rights. Libertarians would limit government to the single task of protection, protecting the untry from foreign attack and protecting people from crime.

The party's first presidential candidate, John Hospers, ran in 1972 on the ballots of two states and won 5,000 votes.

In 1980, Libertarian presidential candidate Ed Clark, an antitrust lawyer with Atlantic Richfield in California, became the first third-party candidate in history to get on the ballot of every state.

In what was a five-man race, he won 882,000 votes, and finished fourth behind Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter and independent John Anderson, but well ahead of Barry Commoner of the Citizens' Party.

In 1981, the party says, Libertarians won 15 elections for municipal posts in nine states, chiefly in non-partisan races.

Few Libertarians can boast of Randolph's stature in Alaska as a serious candidate who is spared the indignities usually inflicted on third-party candidates in other states. Randolph is routinely included in every forum for gubernatorial candidates, along with Democratic nominee Bill Sheffield and Republican Tom Fink.

The fourth gubernatorial candidate is Joseph Vogler of Fairbanks, representing the small Alaskan Independence Party.

...Beirut

continued from page 1

military calls a campaign to pacify the Moslem sector of the capital. The Palestinians fear the drive is to terrorize them and force them to leave the country.

Israel invaded Lebanon June 6 to rout the Palestinian guerrillas, and thousands of PLO fighters were evacuated from west Beirut in August. Thousands remained, however, in northern Tripoli and behind Syrian lines in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley.

The Syrians have been in Lebanon for six years, ostensibly policing the armistice that ended the 1975-76 Moslem-Christian civil war.

One security officer described the west Beirut tunnel network as a "city within a city," two yards beneath the earth. He said it was equipped with air raid shelters, food storage rooms, an underground prison, a torture chamber, an amusement center, a hospital, printing press and radio relay station.

He and the other sources said they believed an unknown number of refugees fleeing the Sept. 16-18 massacres of civilians by Christian militiamen might have been trapped in the tunnels when grenade explosions blocked the exits.

The sources could not say whether such people might still be alive but that they could be among the 380 listed as missing after the massacre in the nearby Sabra and Chatilla camps, the sources added. The Red Cross says at least 340 people were killed in the massacre.

The sources, who did not wish to be identified in accordance with government regulations, said the underground network was discovered when Lebanese soldiers took up positions in Bourj el-Barajneh late last month after the departure of PLO guerrillas.

UNIVERSITY PARK CINEMA I·II·III Bargain Matinees
277-0441 GRAPE & CLEVELAND ROADS

'Totally awesome.' "FAST TIMES AT RIDGEMONT HIGH" Shows 1:30-3:30-5:30-7:30-9:30	Richard Pryor Live on the Sunset Strip Shows 1:45-3:30-5:15-7:15-9:15	"YES, GIORGIO" Starring Luciano Pavarotti 2:00-4:30-7:00-9:30
	Fighting Irish midnight special 2 for 1 "ROCKY HORROR" "TOMMY" with this ad. Good for Midnight shows Fri &amp; Sat GENERAL CINEMA THEATRES

© 1982 Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, WI

PUTTING TOGETHER A BASKETBALL TEAM IS LIKE DRINKING BEER. START OFF WITH A COUPLE OF TALL ONES.

Red Auerbach

EVERYTHING YOU ALWAYS WANTED IN A BEER. AND LESS.

Contemporary Shrew Theatre opens season tonight

The Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Theatre opens its 1982-83 season tonight at 8 with a contemporary adaptation of William Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew.

The show also will run tomorrow and next Thursday through Saturday, Oct. 14-16. Tickets can be purchased at the door.

Placing the production in a country/western setting, Julie Jensen, assistant professor in the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's theatre department, said she hopes to "speak to people the age of the actors with incorporating a dose of mythic America at the same time.

"Although the play is frequently done and one can see a museum version of it anywhere, we hope to hit closer to home with the students (in this interpretation)," she added.

Jensen said that The Taming of the Shrew was chosen as the season opener primarily since it represents

"the most active, funniest, and wittiest play in Shakespeare's canon."

Basically, the plot revolves around the confrontation between two equally strong, funny people — Kate and Petruchio (played by Saint Mary's senior Heidi Lucke and Notre Dame junior Kevin Finney, respectively). The situations which arise before, during, and after their consequent marriage provide a dramatic backdrop for most of the play's action.

Grand Jury investigates Ball State

MUNCIE, Ind. (AP) — Prosecutor Michael J. Alexander of Delaware County said yesterday there is not enough evidence to call a grand jury now to investigate allegations of a possible conflict of interest by members of the Ball State University board of trustees.

The Ball State student newspaper, The Daily News, said it had discovered a possible conflict of interest involving four of the eight members of the board of trustees who have connections with local banks in which the school has investments.

"All I know is what I read in the story," Alexander said. "Whether a grand jury will be called will have to be decided in the future. I find the story interesting. But no one has presented me with any evidence."

The story said board president Will Parker is a senior vice president of Industrial Savings Bank at Muncie.

The newspaper said that in 1981 the bank declared a $1 million loss six months before Ball State invested $19 million in certificates of deposit with the bank.

According to the Daily Student, BSU president Robert P. Bell also is a member of the board at Muncie Federal Savings and Loan. Shortly after Bell took office at the university, Ball State purchased certificates of deposit at Muncie Federal.

Bell declined comment Wednesday, saying a statement would be issued early next week concerning the situation.

Concert lottery corrected

The Student Union has announced that tickets won at yesterday's Chicago concert lottery will be on sale Monday, not Tuesday as announced at the lottery. Tickets will go on sale at 9:00 a.m. in the Student Union Ticket Office/Record Store.

Celebrate Life! Help the

March of Dimes

BIRTH DEFECTS FOUNDATION

This space contributed by the publisher.

Heidi Lucke and Kevin Finney rehearse the lead for The Taming of the Shrew last night in O'Laughlin Auditorium. The show begins

MEATS FOR YOUR PARTIES

Bratwurst - 10 Box - 19.50

Hot Dogs - 10 Box - 12.50

Hamburgers - 12 Box - 17.50

Rhodes Food Services

234-1021

Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theater Presents:

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

by William Shakespeare

Oct. 8, 9, 14, 15, 16 8:00pm

O'Laughlin Auditorium (Saint Mary's campus)

$3.00 General Admission

$2.50 Student / Senior Citizen / Faculty / Staff

Opening Night - 2 for the price of 1!

For information call 284-4626

Welcome to
Mr. Benton's
Dining Room

GIANNETTO'S ORIGINAL

STUFFED PIZZA

Prices quoted on request

Dixie Giannetto, owner of the former Giannetto's Restaurant, wishes to announce that her famous STUFFED PIZZA, voted last year as Michiana's finest is now being served at Mr. Bentons.

Hours
4:00-10:00 pm Tues-Sat Closed Sun & Mon
907 31st. St. South Bend
Phone: 289-9008

Power Play

TASTY ROCK & ROLL 60's 70's 80's

* Call Bruce (219) 277-2807

Announcing

The Newest Location of the

Rib Shack

1835 Lincolnway East, South Bend

Hickory Smoked Ribs Deliciously thick Pizza

Fried Chicken BEER & WINE

Now two locations to serve you:

1835 Lincolnway East South Bend, 288-8240

St. Rd. 23 & Bittersweet Granger 277-3143

Film Club of Notre Dame presents

Sean Connery

as

James Bond 007

in

"FROM RUSSIA WITH LOVE"

Starring Sean Connery, Daniela Bianchi, Robert Shaw

Agent 007 is caught up in an elaborately contrived web of assassination and double-crosses as he attempts to thwart the plans of SPECTRE in this, the second of the remarkably successful James Bond films. Daniela Bianchi is the beautiful Soviet Cipher clerk who serves as bait for the trap, and Robert Shaw is Red Grant, SPECTRE's deadly assassin who stalks Bond across Europe and confronts him aboard the Orient Express in one of the most thrilling fight sequences ever filmed.

Fri & Sat Engineering Aud. / 7, 9:15, 11:30

Adm. $1.00

Queen Elizabeth II stops to chat with a group of Aboriginal children in Darwin's main thoroughfare, Smith Street Mall, Wednesday during her walkabout. At left is Darwin's Mayor Cec Black. The Queen is later going to Brisbane to attend the Commonwealth Games which are now underway. (AP Photo)

Against Lugar

Kendall supports Fithian

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — State Sen. Michael C. Kendall has decided to put aside personal feelings and campaign actively for Democrat Floyd Fithian, the man who spoiled his hopes for the U.S. Senate.

"It's difficult to forget hurts," the Jasper Democrat said yesterday. "But I believe that the worst thing a public leader or politician can do is continue to base political decisions on settling old scores, rather than trying to do what they think is the best thing to do."

It may come as a surprise that Kendall, who once described Fithian as the ideological twin of GOP incumbent Richard G. Lugar, would embrace a man he fought so bitterly against in the Indiana primary in May. Add to that the widely held belief among Kendall backers that Fithian double-crossed the young lawyer by luring him into the U.S. Senate race and then deciding he wanted the job himself.

"My mother told me two things about politics. The first is that there will be many hurts in politics. But the other thing was that time heals all wounds. I guess that balances out," Kendall said in a telephone interview from his Jasper law office.

"The simple answer is that I don't carry grudges. I've tried to beat them down as best I can," he explained. "On balance, Fithian is going to vote for the issues I'd like him to vote for many more times than Lugar will."

During the primary campaign, Kendall rapped Fithian for his votes on nuclear arms, the MX missile and racial equality measures, particularly tax credits for private schools which discriminate on the basis of race.

Over the summer, Kendall spoke with Fithian and resolved some of their differences, persuading Fithian to change his position on some of these issues.

Campaigning in Evansville, Fithian said, "There were never any real differences between us. And we are both hundreds of miles from where Richard Lugar is. The differences between us are miniscule, compared with our differences with Richard Lugar."

Kendall's decision was influenced, at least in part, by a decision he made 14 years ago. It was during the 1968 presidential campaign, after Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was assassinated. Kendall, a Kennedy backer, refused a request to work on behalf of Hubert Humphrey's campaign for president. Humphrey lost and Richard Nixon was elected.

"I've always regretted that decision," he said. "Politics isn't always a choice between perfect candidates and people you agree with 100 percent."

But a big part of his decision was Fithian's support of striking furniture workers at the Indiana Desk Co. in Jasper. Fithian sided with the union members, even though it meant losing the financial support of businessmen in Jasper who had pledged to back him.

"He came at a time when many politicians didn't come. That was pretty important to me," said Kendall, who does legal work for the furniture workers. "It showed me he was willing to run some risks for people who supported him."

Kendall concedes that his decision to support Fithian could be a double-edged sword. "Endorsing someone you disagreed with in the past may help you with party regulars but hurt you with people who supported you on those issues," he explained.

"I've thought about it a lot this summer and how it would appear. But that isn't the real issue," he said. "The real issue is what's best for the party and the state and the country, not what's best for Mike Kendall."

Kendall has agreed to speak on Fithian's behalf at dinners and rallies around the state. He and his wife Sharon will host a fund-raiser for Fithian in Jasper on Oct. 21.

"The problem is I'm an idealogue and an idealist. At the same time I am a Democrat and a pragmatic politician who knows that to get those ideals implemented, you've got to have someone who's going to listen to them," Kendall said. "I know damn well that Dick Lugar isn't going to listen."

Broadcasters' award presented

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Former Gov. Otis R. Bowen yesterday received the Indiana Broadcast Association's humanitarian-citizenship award, the highest honor presented by the statewide broadcasters' organization.

Bowen, a Republican, was cited for his accomplishments in open government and in medical and educational programs during his two terms as governor.

Broadcasters called him "a strong voice for all mankind."

Earlier yesterday, Sen. Richard G. Lugar addressed the group, which is holding its three-day fall meeting at South Bend. Lugar urged the continuation of Reagan administration policies and said interest rates must come down more before the economy recovers.

Lugar is seeking re-election to the U.S. Senate, running against U.S. Rep. Floyd Fithian, D-Ind.

Lugar also said Indiana must continue an emphasis toward retraining its workers for new fields and new jobs. Once an economic recovery is accomplished, the nation will find industry is more efficient and will need new skills from its workers, he said.

The Center for Experiential Learning is sponsoring a slide presentation entitled "Universidad Iberoamericana Program in Mexico" Sunday at 6:45 p.m. in the Lyons Hall basement lounge.

Noble Roman's®

PIZZA

277-5300

---

PIZZA DINNER FOR TWO

With Salad Bar

$6.99 SAVE OVER $4.00

Save even more on Dinner for Four. $11.99

- Medium Deep-Dish Sicilian, 12" Hand-Tossed Round or 10" Monster pizza (your choice of toppings)
- 2 "Create-Your-Own Salad Bars"

Drinks not included. Inside Dining Only. One coupon per customer per visit. Cannot be used with any other coupon or discount offer. Offer good through October 14 1982.

Good at Cleveland Rd. Store
Across from University Park Mall
277-5300

$2.00 Off

Any Large Deep-Dish Sicilian, 14" Monster or 16" or 20" Hand-Tossed Round pizza.

2 pizzas may be purchased with each coupon. Cannot be used with any other coupon or discount offer. One coupon per customer per visit. Offer good through October 14 1982.

Good at Cleveland Rd. Store
Across from University Park Mall
277-5300

---

Noble Roman's     Noble Roman's

Senior Bar

opens its doors this Sunday from 7:00-10:00 pm to all ND / SMC students!

pizza, munchies,
subs, nachos, and refreshments will all be available ...

COME IN AND RELAX WITH FRIENDS

Listen to Notre Dame Football on Mutual Radio

Join Tony Roberts and Al Wester Saturday, October 9 as the "Fighting Irish" meet Miami during the 15th consecutive season of national play-by-play broadcasts produced by Mutual Sports, radio's leader in sports broadcasting.

Tony Roberts
Play-by-play Announcer

Al Wester
Color Commentator

Larry Michael, Producer of Mutual's weekly show entitled "Quarterback Sneak with Joe Theismann," interviews QB Blair Kiel

MUTUAL BROADCASTING SYSTEM
The Leader in Network Radio Sports

Oktoberfest ends with Bier Garten

Oktoberfest at Saint Mary's, expanded to three days to accommodate a new activity, came to a close last night with the traditional Bier Garten and band.

The Bier Garten was held in tents located east of Angela Athletic Facility. One of the tents featured food and non-alcoholic beverages for students under 21.

The "No Problem Band" provided the entertainment for the evening.

The annual celebration began on Tuesday, when students decorated residence halls in European and autumnal motifs.

Activities continued Wednesday with a traditional German dinner at the dining hall. The Sound of Music, with Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer starring in the saga of an Austrian household torn by the rise of the Nazi regime, was also shown that night in Carroll Hall.

A new Oktoberfest activity, roller skating on campus, was introduced at Angela yesterday afternoon. Roller skates were available for a $3.50 rental fee. The Sound of Music also was repeated last night in Carroll Hall.

The roller skating was added this year to give a new dimension to the celebration.

Karen Hosinski, vice chairperson for the Student Affairs Planning Board, which sponsored Oktoberfest, said, "We were trying to change it (Oktoberfest). We wanted to expand it so it didn't include just the Bier Garten."

Hosinski said she considered this year's Oktoberfest successful.

"Because we're trying to change the image, it will take time to get people enthusiastic," she said.

Members of University Hospital's airborne ambulance team of Louisville, Kentucky, carry a patient into the hospital for treatment of a crushed pelvis. This was only the second patient to be transported by the new aerial service. (AP Photo)

Conditions for blacks Guide gives mixed reviews

NEW YORK (AP) — An upcoming Black Student's Guide to Colleges rates the academic and social climate blacks can expect on 114 campuses, including some low marks for race relations at some of the nation's more prestigious schools.

Black-white student relations at the University of Michigan, for instance, are described as "the pits." Harvard and Radcliffe Colleges are termed "impersonal."

Black students are "disenchanted and unhappy" at the University of Arizona, according to the guide.

The guide quotes a black student at UCLA as saying there is "an atmosphere of de facto segregation . . . on campus."

But it gives rave notices to the University of Iowa, and to Oberlin College, saying the small Ohio liberal arts school "certainly has provided a welcome and comfortable environment for most of its black students." And tiny, selective Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn. is called "tops" for black students.

The guide, to be published next spring by E.P. Dutton, was edited and compiled by Barry Beckham, head of the graduate writing program at Brown University. A copy of the final manuscript was obtained by The Associated Press.

The book focuses on prestigious, predominantly white schools, but also includes many state universities and about a dozen historically black institutions. According to government figures, about 1.1 million of the nation's 12 million college students are black.

The book provides statistics on each college, including tuition, the number of black students and faculty, and the average amount of financial aid students can expect. Those are followed by two-to-three page essays which evaluate the quality and quantity of black counseling and support services, black-white relations on campus and in the surrounding community, and the party and social scene black youngsters can expect.

The language, says Beckham, is geared to the typical black teenager. Such colloquialisms as "brothers and sisters," when referring to black men and women, appear throughout the book. "I was trying to get a flavor for the black language in the book," Beckham, who is black, explained in an interview.

He said facts about each campus came from questionnaires sent to school administrators, usually the dean of students. Deans were asked to distribute questionnaires to five black students on campus of their own choosing, who were asked for "candid observations" about race relations and the quality of support services for blacks. Those students are quoted anonymously in the book.

Such students observations have already unsettled campus officials, some of whom are criticizing the book as too subjective. Bernard Goldstone dean of students at UCLA, said that while he thought the description of his school's black support programs was "pretty good," he "categorically disagreed" with the black student who says in the guide that "de facto segregation" exists at the giant university.

"My concern is that it be understood that that is just one student's opinion," he said, adding that "I think UCLA's reputation is certainly strong enough to withstand any negatives a reader may cull from this description."

The actual writing was done by Brown University students, both whites and blacks, says Beckham, although he says he wrote several profiles himself.

The praise for many schools was as lavish as the criticism for others in the guide, and Beckham said the picture the book provides of the black mood on American campuses is by no means all bleak.

AGOSTINO'S Whistle Stop Specializing in Prime Rib, Seafood, Steaks and serving your favorite cocktails. TAKING RESERVATIONS NOW

602 So. Walnut South Bend 232-2494

Take Eddy to Sample, turn right on Walnut.

Banquet rooms available with option to create your own menu. Serving dinner at 5pm Mon. - Sat.

LOWEST LIMOUSINE RATES TO AND FROM MICHIANA REGIONAL AIRPORT AND SOUTH SHORE

24-hour-a-day, Door-to-Door Convenience Small-package delivery available

YELLOW CAB SERVICE
Call 233-9333

You Will Flip At This!

GENUINE

For Students Only

$28.95 Busch & Natural Light

Now Below Wholesale!!! Over 500 KEGS in Stock Cold & Fresh

FOR SALE New Taps just $200.00 Buy your own!!!

ICE $1.92 (KEG BAG 1 BUCK)

NEW DEPOSIT CHARGES $25.00 (incl. Tap & Keg) Sure We Take Student Checks!!!

T-SHIRTS & CAPS

Never Run Out

UNITED "THE BEER CO."

Take Eddy St. South from campus - over the bridge - Now count 5 stoplights - Past new police & fire station - Cross R.R. & turn right - YOU HAVE ARRIVED!! Corner Sample & Chapin 287-1067 Early Birds Every Saturday Morning Early Birds SPECIAL PREMIUM TO FIRST DOZEN NOTRE DAME CUSTOMERS

this Bud's for you!

GENUINE

AMHESSE BUSCH, INC. BEVERAGES OF BUSCHWEISER BEER ST. LOUIS, MO., U.S.A. ITEM NO. 132227 88

BUCK IS A REGISTERED TRADEMARK OF AMHESSE BUSCH, INC.

Pendulum swings back, or does it?

On Election Day 1980, the voters delivered what appeared to be a mandate for conservatism, Reaganomics, the Moral Majority, new federalism, et al.

With the mid-term elections less than a month away, the political polls are showing that the pendulum may be on the verge of swinging back to a more middle of the road political philosophy.

Randy Fahs

Friday Analysis

Appearances can be a bit deceiving. The 1980 election was not a clear mandate for anything. It is true that Reagan and many of his fellow conservative Republicans were swept into office with large majorities of the popular vote. But, one must take into account that people vote for candidates for a variety of reasons. Some of the vote undoubtedly came from people who strongly believe in a right-wing political and economic philosophy, but few people are really well-informed on issues or are that dedicated to a political philosophy.

It is my contention that the driving force behind the massive Republican majority was a vote against the Carter Administration and Democratic policies which proved to be ineffectual in international politics and domestic economics. In reality, the only mandate in the 1980 election appears to have been apathy. The 1980 election had the lowest voter turnout in American history.

In the 1982 election, most political analysts predict that the Democrats will gain between twenty and thirty seats in the House of Representatives and will close in on the Republican majority in the Senate, though they likely will be unable to gain control of it. I would like to point out that this change will not be due to a massive liberal swing on the part of the electorate.

The economy is in bad straits with more businesses failing each week than at any time since the Great Depression. Unemployment is approaching double digits, while the Reagan Administration is perceived as being pro-rich and unsympathetic to the problems of the working man. Once again, the turnout at the polls will be extremely low. Democratic gains will come largely from voters who are disaffected with the President. In a sense, they will be negative votes for the party in power rather than a mandate for the Democrats.

There is another important consideration: there is statistical evidence from every mid-term election since the Eisenhower Administration which shows that the party in power is going to be the big loser. The exact numbers are very close to the Democratic gains predicted by the political analysts.

There is undoubtedly a shift in the political pendulum from the philosophical right to more of a mainstream view. It seems to be happening in both houses of Congress already. The "boll weevil" Democrats, that Reagan was able to woo to support his legislative policies, seem to have closed ranks and rejoined their partisan allies. The anti-abortion bill, the school prayer bill, and the balanced budget constitutional amendment, all supported by right-wing conservatives, have failed. The Republicans in Congress are becoming more willing to compromise with their Democratic counterparts than they are to have conservative Reagan-sponsored legislation rammed down their throats.

While there has been a liberal shift in American politics (though I doubt that it will swing sharply to the left), Democratic gains in the upcoming election will be due to dissatisfaction with the policies of the president and his party, rather than to a change in political philosophy. Tragically, the real winner in the 1982 mid-term election will be voter apathy.

NFL strike: who cares?

I don't know about you, but I don't miss the National Football League.

First of all, there were three and a half great pennant races in major league baseball. It may have been the best season for baseball, immediately following its worst. Despite predictions to the contrary, baseball fans in most cities returned to the ballparks in droves to watch their favorite teams; having 14 of the 26 teams still involved in pennant races in September added to the suspense and drama. And finally, the four division winners — St. Louis, Atlanta, Milwaukee, and California — were new and different. It beats having the same old Philadelphia-Los Angeles-Yankees-Kansas City combination again. This year's playoffs are more interesting than they have been in a while.

Tim Neely

My Turn

Next, it has already been an interesting year in Division I-A college football. Teams not recently associated with the Top 20 have arrived, like Illinois, LSU, and Boston College. Some of those normally found in the upper echelons, like Michigan, Ohio State, and Oklahoma, are not on that level (at least not yet, anyway). And the pollsters cannot decide what to make of those "usual" teams that remain. Without losing a game, Pittsburgh has dropped from its preseason Number One ranking on both the Associated Press and United Press International polls. Other teams have dropped without losing, like Notre Dame and Arkansas. It appears as if major-college football is getting closer to a semblance of parity at the top. Some of the potential bowl-game matchups are interesting — like, how about Illinois vs. Stanford in the Rose Bowl? It could happen.

The NFL strike has allowed the American public to see football in forms that normally would receive no exposure. Those are the games as played in 3,000-seat stadiums, in the vast world of NCAA Division III, and as played north of the border, in the Canadian Football League. As opposed to the NFL players, those in Division III play for fun, the way football was meant to be played. And the CFL — well, it is interesting to see football played on a 110-yard field with 25-yard end zones, with one point for punts kicked into the end zone. It is certainly more interesting than watching a group of men playing games with handshakes.

Something else that is interesting is pro basketball. The season hasn't even started, yet the competition has already begun: the National Organization for Women vs. the Chicago Bulls in Peoria.

And finally, maybe the best fringe benefit of the entire NFL situation is that we don't have to put up with Howard Cosell on Monday nights. As knowledgeable as he may be about football, it seldom carries across onto the Monday Night Football broadcasts.

So with all the other interesting things going on, it would not bother me if the NFL strike went on . . . and on . . . and on. I didn't miss baseball last summer; I don't miss NFL football now. There's plenty to keep me interested on Sundays and Monday nights without it.

P.O. Box Q

United Way needs reemphasis

Dear Editor:

I realized that many an article has been written on the annual United Way drive here at Notre Dame, but after reading the editorial "For Only Two Bucks, It's a Bargain," I feel compelled to comment.

The article made its point — and a good point at that — in a highly satirical and funny fashion. As a section leader this year, I can say from first hand experience that McGinn and Higgins' points were well taken. I found students giving their "fair share" more out of a sense of guilt and pressure than for any other single reason (although I was careful to call it a "donation" and to exert no undue pressure). And the girls who would not give did so for the simple reason that they did not like the way the drive was being run. And, to tell you the truth, I could not blame them.

I know what many United Way leaders would say, and have indeed said to this, "Oh, they are the types who would never have given in the first place anyway." Perhaps this is true — I too felt that $2.00 was not too much to ask for a good cause. However, I feel that there is such a simple way to remedy all of the animosity and furor generated by this drive every year that I cannot even comprehend why it has not been done from the beginning.

My question is: Why aren't the goals and worthy causes of the United Way given as much advertisement as the "fair share" posters or contribution grids? How can such a fundamental part of fundraising — that of letting potential contributors know what it is that they are giving to — take second place to pressure tactics? True, this information is available and perhaps a few motivated students will take time out from their busy schedules to do a research project on what the United Way does. I feel, however, that if the drive was only run emphasizing what United Way does, the spirit of competition would be self-generated in that people would urge others to give due to the worthy nature of the cause as opposed to easing a guilt complex. I am realistic in the sense that I realize that some pressure may have to be exerted in order to benefit the United Way; however, I feel that the emphasis on the giving in order to get 100% has been taken to extremes at Notre Dame.

The United Way drive at Notre Dame should be a show of Christian charity rather than a competition. I have heard this said time and time again. If there is this much opposition to the way the drive is being run, the drive is due for an overhaul. One way would be to simply give as much, if not more, emphasis to the thirty-some organizations that comprise the United Way, as well as to the advantages a central organization like United Way, as well as to the amounts given by each dorm. Just try it for next year. I guarantee that you will have a much more responsive and less angry student body, and most likely a lot more generous giving to a very worthy cause.

Phyllis Shea
Junior, Arts and Letters

P.O. Box Q

To Rich Hunter

Dear Editor:

Tonight, the Irish Soccer team takes on Western Michigan. Should we win, this will mark Rich Hunter's 100th collegiate soccer victory. In just six seasons as varsity coach, Rich has a 99-27-7 record.

Yet, as many of you know, Rich is not just a coach. He teaches in the business college and Law School, coordinates the Bengal Bouts, helps students in legal problems, practices law, and is involved throughout the South Bend community. No matter how busy he is, when asked, Rich has always made time for something more. Every year he gives more and more of himself, yet, rarely has Rich ever asked for anything in return. Therefore, we are going to ask for him.

Tonight at 8:00 you will be able to send the best Thank you message ever sent by showing up for the game. We ask you to please take advantage of this opportunity to say, "Thanks a lot, Rich."

Thank you for your time — we'll see you tonight.

The '82 Irish Soccer Team

The Observer

The Observer is an independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and as objectively as possible. Editorials represent the opinion of a majority of the Editorial Board. Commentaries, editorials and letters are the views of their authors. Column space is available to all members of the community, and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, IN 46556 (219) 239-5303

Editorial Board

Editor-in-Chief.....Michael Monk
Managing Editor.....Ryan Ver Berkmoes
Executive News Editor.....Kelli Flint
SMC Executive Editor.....Margaret Fosmoe
Sports Editor.....Chris McGinn
Editorials Editor.....Paul Needles
Features Editor.....Tari Brown
Photo Editor.....Rachel Blount

Department Managers

Business Manager.....Tony Aiello
Controller.....Eric Schulz
Advertising Manager.....Chris Owen
Production Manager.....Maura Murphy
Circulation Manager.....Ray Inglin Systems Manager.....Bruce Oakley

Founded November 3, 1966

The Concert...

Joe Musumeci concert review

Pete Townshend

Roger Daltrey

They didn't open with "Substitute". I have seen one or more concerts on every tour The Who has made since before Keith Moon died, and they opened every one with the same song. This was only the first of many differences noticed at Wednesday night's concert in the Rosemont Horizon.

The Who opened with "Can't Explain", and from that moment I knew that this concert would be something special. This tour has been billed as the band's farewell to our country, and I believe it. The tour may go on for ever (rumours, and reliable ones at that, are already circulating that Pete Townshend and company will be returning to the area sometime in December), but once the group leaves for England, I don't think they will be back. And that saddens me, for Wednesday's concert confirmed in my mind that The Who is still the best concert band in existence.

The opening act was ignored by the majority of the audience, in large part because they were still struggling to obtain access to the arena, which, while adequately managed and ushered, seemed barely capable of containing the press of humanity that descended as the warm-up band finished.

After "Can't Explain" the main attraction succumbed to tradition and belted out "Substitute" in classic style, with Roger Daltrey thrilling the audience with his microphone-twirling gyrations, popular since the days of Tommy.

After the two favorites, known best from the Meaty, Beaty, Big and Bouncy anthology, the group started in to some works from the new album, It's Hard, the first by bassist John Entwistle (see album review at right). In all, the band played six cuts from their newest work, spaced through a free-for-all of classics. Definitely one of the crowd's favorites was a medley from the album Tommy, which began with a searing rendition of "Pinball Wizard" and finished up with "We're not gonna take it"; during the latter, a batten of lights was lowered behind the stage to illuminate the crowd in front, and the effect was reminiscent of those days when the group used to perform the entire rock opera in concert.

Two cuts from Quadrophenia were included in the program: Townshend stood alone on stage to begin "The Real Me", another crowdpleaser performed so perfectly that it sounded like a cut off a "live" album; later on Daltrey paid his dues with "Love, Rain O'er Me"

Who's Next was represented by a wonderfully melodic "Behind Blue Eyes" done under a blue light set, with Daltrey proving his gravel-and-honey voice can still do justice to a soft ballad. Baba O'Riley received the usual tumultuous screams of "teenage wasteland", and worked as well as it ever has.

The choices from Who Are You were two of the best-received of the night; "Sister Disco" came relatively early in the program and was accompanied by two sets of spinning, choreographed spotlights on either side of the stage, and the title cut drew a vote of mass hysteria during which Townshend proved himself still one of the guitar greats as well as a master of myriad styles (yes, Daltrey did his running in place act through almost the whole song and never missed a note).

The truly new works performed, however, didn't come off quite as well. The group wisely stuck with one cut from Face Dances, "The Quiet One", which has replaced the older "My Wife" as Entwistle's showcase piece, and was a particularly pleasing work in concert, but promotional considerations dictated that the band perform a large number of selections from It's Hard, and with the notable exception of "Athena", most of these seemed, well, just not quite right for a Who concert. The songs require a level of musical fidelity that is just not available on stage and that doesn't mesh with the Townshend/Daltrey style of performance. This, I think, is the main reason that The Who will be reverting to the studio for most of their future work.

For, after all, these men are getting of age, and it would seem a little insincere for Daltrey to harp once again, "I hope I die before I get old." (Several people complained after the concert that "My Generation" wasn't played; but really, think about it...) Townshend looked his best in years Wednesday night (death toll: two guitars), but I can't help wondering how much of his contagious enthusiasm was based in relief "Won't Get Fooled Again" (the best I've ever seen it done). "Naked Eye" and "Summertime Blues" were performed to perfection as encores; one puts a lot into anything one does for the last time.

I will miss The Who. If this really is their last tour in the country, then an era in music is truly coming to an end. No one has ever lent such sophistication to rock in performance. But the albums will keep coming, and the music which will become the "classical" of our era is perhaps yet to be written.

John Entwistle

Kenny Jones

Trivia Quiz 51

Well, my editor talked me into doing a quiz on The Who this week. My knowledge of The Who definitely does not rank with that I have on, for example, The Beatles or The Rolling Stones. But I think I've found ten questions to challenge all the Who-siers in the audience.

First, unfinished business. Here are the answers to last week's abbreviations quiz. The letters of the abbreviation are in italics.

1. Music Corporation of America
2. Anna, Bjorn, Benny, and Anafriid (the members of the group)
3. EX Yes and Zepplin (the composition of the band, of former members of the two groups)
4. Broadcast Music, Incorporated
5. Electronic and Musical Industries, Ltd.
6. Brothers Trucking Express
7. Bert (Berns), Ahmet (Ertegun),

Neshi (Ertegun), Gerald (Wexler) — they were the four founders of the label

8. Booker T. and the Memphis Group's)

9. McCartney Productions, Limited

10. Love, Togetherness, and Devotion

As you can see, all very straightforward. I think. Now on to my quiz on The Who, without further ado.

1. Who was their drummer prior to Keith Moon? (He was replaced because the band's managers considered him too old at 35.)

2. In their early days, The Who, despite having much British success, received little profit from their recordings. Finally, as a protest measure, they left Decca Records and recorded one single for another label — and immediately thereafter

This tribute to The Who is dedicated to Ed Konrad and all the others who were not able to attend the concerts due to the mix-up at a certain music dispensary. Justice always wins in the end.

The Album...

Ed Konrady

record review

"Rock is art and a million other things as well. It's an indescribable form of communication and entertainment combined, and it's a two-way thing with very complex but real feedback processes."

Pete Townshend

With this tour, The Who will end the feedback process that Townshend always valued in his writing. According to interviews, The Who does plan to continue recording, only without the tours. How this will affect future albums will be seen. It's Hard, however, is enhanced by the threat of this being the last Who album.

Townshend had always wanted to do more with rock and roll than create music — he wants to create thoughts. This album shows a maturity the others hinted at, and fulfills its promise as an end of an era.

The band is as tight now as they ever were in their prime. Roger Daltry's vocals soar and growl, Pete Townshend's writing is incredibly strong, and his guitar fills may be his best ever. John Entwistle wrote three great songs, and his bass playing is still as pounding and innovative as ever.

But the key to this tightness may be Kenney Jones. His drumming holds together the group like Keith Moon could during his best days. The beat is solid and rhythm changes are effortlessly made. Jones' increasing voice in the band has improved the group and made The Who a foursome again.

It's Hard is a true growth from The Who classics. Their is a quietness to the album, even in the harder-rocking songs. It's not a mellowness, or even a sign of losing their touch. Instead it fits their lyrical message with a more somber touch. But make no mistake, The Who Who is still playing breath-taking rock and roll.

Maybe the difference is that The Who have become thoughtful. Their antics start from a preconceived base, and then they go on from there, as opposed to the total chaos that marked The Who, especially in their early live shows.

As always with great Townshend songs, the music accompanies the lyrics. Moods are set for the messages that blare through between piercing guitars, room-filling synthesizers, popping bass, and rolling drums.

Also on It's Hard are three Entwistle songs, "It's Your Turn", "Dangerous", and "One At A Time." The remarkable thing about the songs are that they are not typical of the talented bassist. His songs are usually dark and slyly witty. On It's Hard, he has written three solid

Who songs. "It's Your Turn" is a hearty rocker featuring excellent vocals by Roger Daltry and Pete Townshend and an excellent synthesizer background. "Dangerous" features a pulsating bass — it's a classic Who song — forceful drumming, and the synthesizer builds tension up for the guitar which takes it and runs. "One At A Time" starts with a weird horn opening that works into a drum solo and a guitar riff. It rocks along with Townshend throwing in awesome guitar licks throughout the song.

It's Hard opens with "Athena", a song that could be placed along side the best of the older Who material. It opens with an acoustic guitar, with an excellent rhythm guitar driving the song along, and when Townshend sings "just a girl, just a girl, just a girl," the song is complete as one of the best singles The Who has ever had.

"Why Do I Fall For That" and the title cut both have excellent background vocals and synthesizer work, with the former featuring some brilliant piano work and a thumping drum that works like left jabs. "Cook's Country" stars Townshend's guitar work, with solos that add an extra dimension. Daltry and Townshend's vocals work together, with Entwistle's pounding bass working the song along.

"I've Known No War" opens the second side, with an opening vaguely reminiscent of "Won't Get Fooled Again", only darker and a trifle slower.

"One Life's Enough" and "A Man Is A Man" features piano work by Townshend that highlights the delicacy of the songs, which talk about the life men thought they lived at the time and what it turned out to be like years later.

Both sides close with moody songs, "Eminence Front" creates a dark, moody environment for a study of social behavior and people's masks to others.

"Cry If You Want", the last song of the album, starts out with feedback, although it is symbolically softer, smoother, and under more control. The lyrics talk about reflecting upon things people said and did when they were younger. "Once it was just innocence/Brash ideas and insolence/But you will never get away/With the things you say today."

Chairman Townshend has always been famous for his quotes on the rock scene, and probably his most insightful concerning himself and The Who and why they keep going is this: "Sometimes I really do believe that we're the only rock band on the face of this planet that knows what rock and roll is all about."

Tim Neely

rock trivia

were re-signed to Decca on their terms. Name the one single (A and B sides) for the other label, and name the American label on which it appeared.

3. Fill in the blanks in this history of Who names: "They were first known as —, then became The Who, then became The High Numbers, then became The Who again, then performed under — for a brief time, and then finally and irrevocably kept the name The Who."

4. While they were known as The High Numbers, they recorded a single for British Fontana Records. Name the A and B sides.

5. This record peaked on the American charts at number 74, but it is considered the definitive Who single. Name it. (That's not much to go on, but if you think about it, there should be no problem.)

6. What was the name of a live EP released in Britain several years before the Live at Leeds LP came out?

7. Between 1969 ("I'm Free") and 1973 ("Love, Reign O'er Me") The Who released eight singles. Five of them, at the time of release, could not be found on LPs. Name them. While you're at it, name the one of the eight which was the biggest (it was one of the other three).

8. The only number-one LP featuring The Who was —

9. Each of the four main members of The Who (Pete Townshend, Roger Daltry, John Entwistle, and Keith Moon) released at least one solo album. Name each one's first.

10. What was strange about the Who Are You album cover?

This growing old

It is clear to me that writing — or sometimes talking, as in a homily — is a way I have of coping with worries or wonderment. Getting it down on paper helps. If it is honest writing, I think it is of use to other people who have similar concerns. If it is not honest writing, I am apt to discover the lie sooner than anybody else.

Thursday, October 7, was my birthday. Birthdays are landmarks on which we count all our yesterdays, and wonder where our lives will go from here. Yesterday, I thought a great deal about my mother, for my birthday must have been a landmark in her life too. Mothers must have a special regard for the anniversaries of childbirth.

Rev. Robert Griffin

letters to a lonely god

My mother died this summer on August 22. When a person is old, blind and full of sickness, you don't make their deaths occasions on which to quarrel with the order of the universe. If you have any class at all, you accept the inevitable without the appearance of whimpering. You don't let it show that you think the death is any big deal.

Sooner or later, everybody's parents die. It seems morbid to want to hang onto pain as though you were wallowing in self-pity. You don't talk about what you are feeling. You keep your memories to yourself. Silence is not only macho; it is also etiquette.

One thinks of Clifton Webb, the actor mourning the death of his mother, as described by Noel Coward in this week's Time: "Poor Clifton is still, after two months, wailing and sobbing over Maybelle's death. As she was well over 90, gaga, and had driven him mad for years, this seems excessive and overindulgent. He arrives here on Monday (Dec. 19) and I'm dreaming of a wet Christmas."

Nevertheless, the death of one's mother does rearrange the terms of whatever contract one has made with the gods. Freud wrote a letter after his mother's death. "Her value to me can hardly be heightened . . . no pain, no grief, which is probably to be explained by the circumstances, the great age, and the end of the pity we had felt at her helplessness. With that feeling of liberation, of release, which I think I can understand. I was not allowed to die as long as she was alive, and now I may. Somehow the values of life have notably changed in the deeper levels."

Chaotic as the world seems, there are still the proprieties to be observed. The day seems unkind when parents have to go to church as mourners to bury their children. That, by itself, seemed like a sufficient reason for not telling my mother, last year, when my brother died.

"I was not allowed to die as long as she was alive," Freud writes, "and now I may." Of course, the surviving son makes no immediate plans for departure. The hour is still distant when one needs to pack. A necessary preliminary has been taken care of, that's all, like seeing that your passport is in working condition. You are free to move to a distant country without violating the laws of custom.

"Ah me! This growing old!" Noel Coward writes as he turns into his 60's. "I suppose I should envy the afterlife believers, the genuflectors, the 'happy-ever-after' ones who know beyond a shadow of a doubt that we shall all meet again in some celestial vacuum, but I don't. I'd rather face up to finality and get on with life, lonely or not, for as long as it lasts."

No one ever knows, beyond the shadow of doubt, and there's the fun of it. It would almost be neater not to believe. For a Christian, there is this whole matter of unfinished business: the interrupted conversations, the apologies, the promises, the regrets, the guilt. If you didn't believe, you wouldn't pray for the dead as a way of making up for good times lost by carelessness, and for good words you never bothered to write.

As a priest making promises of eternal life in the name of the living God, you ponder the evidence for the resurrection of the dead. Is it foolish to believe in homecomings, as faith teaches us? Ah, my dear, I could never write you an apology for heaven that would not tease you with its inconclusiveness. Theology and philosophy can never be as personal as grief, replacing it with overwhelming truth more wholesome than tears.

Comfort comes humbly, like a barefoot girl doing chores. It is a small song heard among the night sounds of a great city with crowded streets. Taxis toot their horns. Trucks and busses slam their way through traffic. Trains rumble underground, shaking the earth, and sirens scream to announce ambulances on their ways to emergencies.

Above all the din, you hear a song played on a flute by a sidewalk musician.

After great pain, a formal feeling comes, says E.D. Emotion has worn itself out: numbness and weariness takes its place. A chapter has ended; the book has been closed. The funeral liturgy has dotted its "i's" and crossed its "t's" in an overwhelming way. Cosmetics have done their best to disguise the loss and maintain an illusion. You, in your grieving, begin the rest of your life.

Then, bringing peace, the flute song of faith begins, that sense that love has been made larger. Conversations begin in the shape of prayer. Heaven touches you, as personal as the sickroom you went to visit for a final time. Human love has taken its place besides God's love to cherish you forever, confirming the truth of gospels about caring that is deathless.

I have the strangest feeling this year that birthdays are a temporary convenience. I no longer need the cards and cakes. Windows from eternity have opened on my life. For the first time, I am content with growing old.

I hope you don't mind my writing about it. I wouldn't have known how I was feeling if I hadn't put it down in words.

DR. JECKYL fifty minutes too long

There are a great deal of people in the world who would take umbrage to someone's calling a motion picture the worst movie ever. Frankly, I tend to include myself in that bunch. Because a film takes so much talent to make in the first place, someone who was making the worst movie ever

ing. Imagine if you will my sitting in the darkness, slowly realizing that what was being projected on the screen before me had a very good shot at being the worst movie ever. I broke out into a cold sweat, ruining what was left of my popcorn. I sank deeper and deeper into my seat.

How could this be? I'd already seen Santa Claus Conquers the Martians, Plan Nine from Outer Space, Little Shop of Horrors and Thunderbirds to the Rescue.

But never before had I seen anything like The First Fifty Minutes of Dr. Jeckyl and Mr. Hyde... Together Again. I'm reviewing only the first half of the film since that was all it took for the cinematic magic to click and drive me out of the theater.

Let's make a list. The script was ill-paced and unfunny. The dialogue was flat and uninteresting; the jokes were consistently off-target. I am being very conservative when I say eighty percent of the edits were bad. Continuity was non-existent. The sound was bad. The cinematography was bad. The acting was bad.

One scene in particular seems destined to be included in the annals of bad cinema. A group of men are playing cards; one of the men is a large bald-headed Chinaman. The straightman delivers his line: "Cut the cards." Okay. Has everyone seen the Marx Brothers in Horse-Feathers? Jerry Belson has. Now, I could put up with lifting a joke if the offense were there but it isn't. In time, the large oriental produces a cleaver, cries "Hie-Yah," takes a whack at the cards, and misses. So he cries "Hie-Yah" again, takes another shot at the deck, and misses again. Another "Hie-Yah." Another attempt. Hurray, he got them. I'd never witnessed a better example of the fine art of telegraphing a joke.

And yet this thing isn't even the worst movie ever. Mark (Fridays) Blankfield ruins that. His Keatonish sense of staight-faced baggy-pants comedy makes the first five minutes of the film only mediocre. But it doesn't take long for lousy to reign king. As soon as Jeckyl takes the solution and turns into the drug and sex crazed Mr. Hyde, the cheap jokes abound.

Gosh, I haven't done a plot synopsis yet. Forget it. This movie has already taken up too much of your time. Not to mention mine.

Dennis Chalifour

movie review

would have to assemble an unimaginable number of talentless noobs in order to achieve the nadir of filmdom. And since a man must be at the very least halfway competent at his trade to join a union and union rules forbid the use of a non-union crew, making the worst movie ever seems virtually impossible. I resolve that if the worst movie ever truly does exist, it must surely have been made many years ago when Hollywood was not quite so organized.

I'd say that is a pretty strong argument.

Last weekend, I saw a film that came so close to making the impossible possible, it was frighten-

What's happening...

Home football weekends don't necessarily have to consist of just tailgaters, the game and more partying. Adhering to the old adage that variety is the spice of life, I have taken my traditional time out to put together a list of the weekend's event. Being that it is parent's weekend, why not take mom and dad to the theatre or the Nazz or (if their constitution is strong enough) the Engineering Auditorium. Could there be a better way to show the parental units what another side of Notre Dame weekends is like?

•THEATRE

The Notre Dame/Saint Mary's Theatre Department opens its Mainstage season this weekend with Prof. Julie Jensen's production of William Shakespeare's The Taming of the Shrew. Petruchio comes to wive it merrily in Padua, displaced to an American western setting, with his trusty servant, Grumio in tow. The traditional story of the breaking of the stubborn-headed Katherine is updated to contemporary times via the talents of student designers Elizabeth Bottom, Ed Moreno and Desiree Eartly. Jensen and Associate Director Kathleen Macario have milled a production worthy of viewing its less-than-two-hours traffic on the stage. The house at O'Laughlin Auditorium will open at 7:30 p.m. tonight, tomorrow night and Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of next week. Tickets are priced at $3 for general admission, $2.50 for students, senior citizens, faculty and staff. Important note: Friday night is two-for-one night — two tickets for the price of one.

•DANCE, MUSIC, ART

A unique experience in sight, sound and movement will unfold at the Snite Museum's O'Shaughnessy Gallery II on Sunday, October 10 from 1 to 4 p.m. Dancers Wendy Taucher and Tommy Gomez will dance to an original music score, On Reflection, by Paul Johnson, assistant music professor. The setting is a sculptural space entitled On Reflection — A Space Transformed, created by Moira Marti Geofrion, associate art professor. The scenario, On Reflection — The Autobiography of an Image, was written by Thomas Leff, assistant professor and designer/technical director in the Communication and Theatre Department. The sculptural space incorporates opaque, reflective and transparent surfaces as elements which define, at times, a real physical space and, at others, the artist's "real" space. The illusions of light, shadow and imaginary forms are reflected by two wooden carved and painted sculptural pieces.

•MOVIES

It would be all together too easy to spend the weekend in either Annenberg Auditorium or the Engineering Auditorium. The screen fare is led off by tonight's showing in the continuing Friday Night Film Series sponsored by the Communications and Theatre Department. Eric Rohmer presents the last of his series of "moral tales" in his production of Chloe in the Afternoon. Rohmer sets up the moral dilemma facing an introspective Paris commuter played by Bernard Verley. The problem is posed in terms of Chloe, a Parisian bohemian, or Helene, his suburban wife. This 1972 film is in French with English subtitles. Showtime is 7:30 p.m. in Annenberg Auditorium. As always, admission is a lowly $2.

What better way to drop out of reality and into the world of cinematic fantasy than to go to the Engineering Auditorium and see From Russia With Love? One in the continuing series of James Bond movies, it is the film on campus that will pack in all the domers who need a change of pace from the tedium of weekend partying. As always, the best advice I can give is to get there early. Showtimes are 7, 9:15 and 11:30 p.m. Don't think you can avoid the lines by waiting to see it tomorrow night. The lines will probably be longer tomorrow than tonight, so plan accordingly.

•NAZZ

Time for the oldies but goodies. Dan Keusal, a veteran of the Nazz stage, will take the mike along with his entourage of friends. Playing tonight at 10 p.m., Dan will be joined by John McEachen, Mike Thornton, Ann Berners, Debbie Hill, Ann Perrin and Terry Austin. If your taste runs to Fogelberg or James Taylor and takes a turn in various other directions, you will enjoy an evening with Dan immensely. Let me tell you a secret: ask him to play anything by James Taylor and then tell him later how much he sounds like Taylor.

•OUTLOOK

As we reach midway in the semester, the Monday Night Film Series, parts I and II present two films dedicated to a person or era. First up at 6 p.m. is a Sergei Eisenstein film, October. Made in 1928, this silent black and white film commemorates the 10th anniversary of the 1917 Russian Revolution. Eisenstein incorporates his own theories of intellectual montage, integrating images of objects as metaphorical elements as well as the titles, into a total dynamic and plastic unity. Admission is $2.

Following closely behind at 9 p.m. will be Francois Truffaut's The Bride Wore Black. He has dedicated his work to Alfred Hitchcock. Truffaut details a wedding, a time when the expression of the emotion of love is at its greatest, in which the groom is murdered. He turns this scene of love into a film of revenge; the bereaved wife searching for those responsible for his murder. Tickets are $2 and don't be scared by the French subtitles. We should all be used to them by now.

THE STUD.® YOU WON'T SEE THEM ON EVERYBODY... YET!

THE STUD IS ALSO AVAILABLE IN LEATHER/MESH.

BUT YOU CAN GET THEM AT:

Foot Locker
All Stores

Big Sky
University Park

All State Athlete
Southbend

Athlete's Foot
All Stores in IN.

Athletic Annex
All Stores in IN.

Dunham's
Anderson

Dunham's
Monsey

Mike's Sporting Goods
Gary Area

Coach's Corner
Terra Haute

Van's Sporting Goods
Central Indiana

Messenger's Sports Center
Mishawaka

Players Choice
Elkhart

Sports Den
Fort Wayne

Blyth's Sporting Goods
Griffitt

Emroe Stores
All Stores,
Greater Indianapolis

All Athletic Dept. Stores
Indiana

Galvan's Trading Post
Indianapolis

Hartzer's Sports Shop
Fort Wayne

Dunham's Sporting Goods
Kokomo, IN.

Dunham's Sporting Goods
Muncie

Dunham's Sporting Goods
Logansport

Jimmy's Athletic Apparel
Hammond

Super Shoes
Indianapolis

THE MARK WITH THE CHEVRON™

UNBEATABLE
PRICES!!

Closest Liquor
Store to N.D. Campus

1621 South Bend Ave. (only)

“Your Keg and Quart Headquarters”

Hamm's
$4.99 case 24 cans

*****

Pabst

$5.99 case 24 cans

*****

Quart Beer Specials

- Old Milwaukee $6.99
- Budweiser $8.99
- Pabst $7.99
- Strohs $8.99

CARLO ROSSI
DINNER WINES

 $4.99 BIG
4 LITER

KEG SPECIALS

Generic or $23.99
Generic Light

Budweiser $29.99
Bud Light $28.99
Michelob $35.99

prices don't include deposit

Shooter Specials
(750 ML)

- Jack Daniels $7.99
- Jim Beam $5.49
- Jose' Cvervo Tequila $6.99
- Frangelico $11.49
- Southern Comfort $6.49
- Steel Schnapps $6.99

Fire Ballers

- Bacardi 151 $8.59
- Wild Turkey 101 $9.99
- Everclear 190 (grain alcohol) $8.99
- J W Dant 100 $6.59

Wine

- J. Roget Champagne 750 ML $1.99
- Riunite Lambrusco 750 ML $1.99
- Bonifato Bianco 1.5 L $1.99

Bar Stockers

- Bellows Gin 1.75 $9.99
- Calvert Gin 1.75 $9.99
- MacIntosh Scotch 1.75 $11.99
- Kanchatka Vodka 1.75 $8.99
- Lord Calvert 1.75 $9.99

Prices Good Thru Oct. 12, 1982

By The Observer and The Associated Press

Saint Mary's basketball team will hold tryouts beginning Monday night, Oct. 11, from 6 to 8 p.m. in the Angela Athletic Facility. Try-outs will continue Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week, and will also be held next Saturday morning from 9 to 11. For more information, call Tim Dillon at 284-5548. — The Observer

Stepan Center courts are now available to halls and groups. Reservations for the Nov. 1 to April 8 period must be made by Friday, Oct. 15. Reservation forms are available at the Student Activities Office in the LaFortune Student Center. — The Observer

Franklin College is today's opponent for the Notre Dame field hockey team. The game begins at 4 p.m. on Alumni Field. — The Observer

Maul Miami pep rally will be held tonight at 7 at Stepan Center. — The Observer

Off-Campus Golf Tournament tees off at 1 p.m. this Sunday. There is a $5 entry fee. Refreshments will follow the event. Any interested should contact Gregg Gross at 287-7306 or Mark Murphy at 234-5414. — The Observer

Irish baseball team plays host to Bradley University for three weekend games at Jake Kline Field. The two teams play a single game tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. Sunday's doubleheader begins at 1 p.m. — The Observer

Gymnastics Club will hold an exhibition and candy sale tomorrow on the South Quad. All members are invited to participate in the activities. — The Observer

Rich Hunter's Irish soccer team takes its 6-3-1 record into weekend action. Notre Dame plays host to Western Michigan tonight at 8 on Cartier Field. Alumni Field will be the site of Sunday's 2 p.m. contest versus Louisville. — The Observer

*****
 Got a beef?
 Tell us!
 Send a letter to the Sport's Editor
 P.O. Box Q
 *****

THIS SUNDAY AT 2 PUBLIC STEREO & VIDEO AUCTION!

SUN. OCT. 10
 Auctions at 2 pm
 Auction Preview at 12 pm

$500,000.
 A PORTION OF
 WORTH OF BRAND NEW STEREO & VIDEO
 EQUIPMENT WILL BE SOLD AT PUBLIC AUCTION WITH BIDS STARTING AT A FRACTION OF RETAIL VALUE!

CENTURY CENTER
 Convention Hall A, 120 S. St. Joseph
SOUTH BEND, INDIANA

NO DEALERS

ALL MERCHANDISE IS BRAND NEW AND CARRIES FULL MANUFACTURER'S WARRANTY SERVICE AVAILABLE AT MANY LOCAL WARRANTY CENTERS

CREDITORS DEMAND CASH
 Cash, Certified checks or Bankcards only

PORTABLE STEREOS
 Starting Bids at $10
 Values to $229.95

 SHARP PIONEER SANYO
 and more.

HOME TURNTABLES
 Starting Bids at $25
 GARRARD JVC FISHER
 KENWOOD
 Values to $265

HOME CASSETTES
 Starting Bids at $25
 JVC HITACHI
 OPTONICA KENWOOD
 and more!
 Values to $399.95

HOME RECEIVERS AMPS-TUNERS
 Starting Bids at $50
 JVC KENWOOD
 PIONEER Technics
 and more!
 Values to $499.95

CAR SPEAKERS
 Values to Starting $189.95 pr. Bids at $5 PAIR
 JENSEN PIONEER KENWOOD SANYO
 and more!

CAR STEREOS
 Starting Bids at $15
 PIONEER SANYO JENSEN Panasonic
 and more!
 Values to $399.95

HOME SPEAKERS
 ADVENT PIONEER JBL
 Starting Bids at
$10 EA
 Values to $499.95 ea.

VIDEO EQUIP.
 Values to $1500
 Starting Bids at $100
 Quasar JVC HITACHI Panasonic
 and more!

STEREO LIQUIDATORS
 The Nation's Electronic Wholesalers

CENTURY CENTER
 Convention Hall A, 120 S. St. Joseph
SOUTH BEND, INDIANA
 Some items adv. may not be available due to prior sale.

Auctioneer Joe Tutrone, licensed and bonded (not responsible for accidents)
 All Sales are FINAL. All items in limited quantities
 (all products are similar to illustrations)
 Stereo Liquidators is the licensed auction company.

Big showdowns on tap Saturday

By HERSCHEL NISSESON
The Associated Press

They will go at it again Saturday, these two great college football coaches.

Paul "Bear" Bryant, the country bumpkin from the Arkansas bottomland who moved east and settled down in Tuscaloosa, Ala., in 1958 and has become a legend as the winningest coach of all time with 319 scalps on his belt, 228 of them at Alabama.

And Joe Paterno, the city slicker from the streets of Brooklyn who went west and found a home in State College, Pa., where he was an assistant under Rip Engle for 16 years and is in his 17th campaign as Penn State's head coach with a winning percentage of .823 (155-33-1), which makes him the leader among active coaches with at least 10 years' experience.

Bryant is 319-81-17 overall, but his Alabama log of 228-42-9 figures out to .833, so he is a tad ahead of Paterno if you throw out the Bear's stops at Maryland, Kentucky and Texas A&M. And the reason Bryant has that one-point lead is a 3-0 record against Paterno, Alabama having beaten Penn State in the 1975 and 1979 Sugar Bowls, plus a 31-16 triumph a year ago that began a long series between two of the sport's glamour schools.

Bryant raised a few eyebrows earlier in the week when he called Penn State "probably the greatest team in the country and maybe the greatest team of all time." The Bear, of course, has been awed by every opponent he's ever faced.

"That's what I said about Nebraska two weeks ago," Paterno said when he heard of Bryant's remarks. "Paul's been around the block a few times. Sometimes you'll make some statements that are out of the ballpark to dramatize a big game."

And this game at Birmingham's Legion Field is a big one. Both teams are 4-0, with Penn State ranked No. 3 and Alabama No. 4 in The Associated Press poll. The line says Bama is a 4-point favorite. This corner says ... Penn State 28-27.

No. 17 Miami at No. 10 Notre Dame (favored by 7): a 37-15 windup loss to Miami saddled the Irish with a losing record last year. Time for revenge ... Notre Dame 17-14.

No. 19 Boston College at No. 16 West Virginia, the Mountaineers lost a heartbreaker to Pitt last week, while B.C. sputtered past Temple ... Boston College 21-17.

California at No. 1 Washington Cal is one of the nation's surprise teams, but the Huskies are due for a good outing ... Washington 24-14.

Mississippi at No. 5 Georgia Herschel is healthy and on the loose again ... Georgia 28-14.

No. 6 Southern Methodist at Baylor: Eric Dickerson and Craig James have been on the loose all season ... SMU 24-10.

No. 7 Nebraska at Colorado: the Cornhuskers have bounced back nicely from that tough loss to Penn State ... Nebraska 42-7.

Arizona at No. 8 UCLA: The Bruins keep rolling along, averaging almost 40 points a game ... UCLA 31-14.

Texas Tech at No. 9 Arkansas: the Razorbacks are coming off a near-perfect rout of TCU ... Arkansas 28-7.

Stanford at No. 11 Arizona State: an irresistible force (Stanford's John Elway vs. an immovable object (Arizona State's defense) Upset Special of the Week ... Stanford 27-20.

No. 12 North Carolina at Wake Forest: Carolina's fleet of runners overshadows Wake gunner Gary Schofield ... North Carolina 35-14.

Oklahoma vs. No. 13 Texas at Dallas: no more War of the Wishbones. Texas dropped it a few years ago and the Sooners went to the 'T' last weekend ... Texas 24-17.

The ND women's tennis team plays host this weekend to Central Mich., Western Mich., the Univ. of Toledo, Ferris St., and St. Mary's for the Irish Invitational. Action begins Sunday at 8 a.m. on the Courtney Courts. (Photo by Scott Bower).

... Jim

continued from page 21

"What were Custer's last words?" — ("My God! I thought they said the 'Cleveland' Indians.")

"We have met the enemy and they are ours." — (The San Diego Charger's offense said this in commenting on the San Diego Charger's defense after they had lost another 45-41 game, even though it is popularly supposed to have been said by Commadore Perry in the Battle of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.)

"Go west young man." — (A tribute to New York editor Horace Greeley, it was actually a suggestion of Montreal Allouette fans and management to Vince Ferragamo at the finish of the 1981 CFL season.)

"If I advance, follow me, if I retreat, kill me." — (This was originally said by some general or maybe by crazy Joe Gallo or Dutch Schultz, and they took him at his word, but it is part of the contract of the Notre Dame football coach, and was first signed by Dan Devine.)

"General Doubleday don't let baseball die!" — (This rather fanciful account of Abraham Lincoln's last words was promulgated by the broadcaster Bill Stern when he found out that Lincoln died in the company of his generals, but some savant has decided that what we really said, if anything, was "Don't let me die!")

"What hath God wrought?" — (People wrongly think that this was said by Alexander Graham Bell when he invented the telephone or Samuel Morse the telegraph, but it actually was said by Tom Watson when he watched that shot go in the hole at the 17th green of the US Open. History does not record what Nicklaus said at that precise moment but it probably translated the same.)

We all know the phrase "There stands Jackson like a stone wall!" was supposed to have been uttered by a Confederate soldier about his general at Bull Run, but it was actually what the pitcher said in last year's World Series when Davey Lopes' popup fell off Reggie Jackson's chest, and we know that "Winning isn't everything, it's the only thing" was not invented by Vince Lombardi or Pop Warner but by some Christian who had been pushed out into the Roman Colosseum against the lion in A.D. 100.

Now, you're all set for the first History exam.

Starts Today

ANNIVERSARY SALE

Our Biggest Sale of the Season

---

ANNIVERSARY SALE STARTS TODAY

CHARGE IT TODAY AT AYRES!

L.S. Ayres & Co.

14.99

Best Buy woven and flannel shirts for young men. Poly/cotton wovens and 100% flannel shirts at great savings! Assorted styles and colors in sizes S-M-L-XL.

24.99

Best Buy flannel and corduroy pants. Choose from our tri-blend flannel and cotton/poly corduroy pants. Both in waist sizes 28-36 in a good selection of fall colors.

19.99

Best Buy Cotler corduroy pants. Two styles: Cargo style with elastic back waist or a belted safari style. Lots of colors in waist sizes 28-38.

21.99

Special Purchase. Sedgefield (R) Do-Nothing (TM) denim jeans. Get the jeans with the physical fit (R) at a terrific price! Prewashed 100% cotton denim in waist sizes 28-38. Varsity Shop, Scottsdale Mall and University Park.

15.99

Reg. 20.00. Junior Cheeno's blouses. Choose from an assortment of pretty stripes in a feminine ruffle neck style. Sizes 5-13.

14.99

Reg. 19.00. Junior Cheeno's workpants. Popular poly/cotton basic workpants in all the colors you need for fall. Waist sizes 24-31. Junior World, Scottsdale Mall and University Park.

Shop Ayres Scottsdale Mall and University Park today, 10:00 to 9:00.

The Cardinals defeated the Braves 7-0 in their National League Championship game yesterday in St. Louis. See story at right. (AP Photo).

Record sixth helps Forsch pitches Cards to win

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Veteran Bob Forsch pitched a three-hitter and the St. Louis Cardinals staged a record-breaking rally that produced a 7-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves in last night's opening game of their best-of-five National League Championship Series.

Forsch, who is the senior member of this Cardinal club, was brilliant, mowing the Braves down, striking out six while walking none, and protecting an early one-run lead built on the blazing speed of rookie Willie McGee. The pitcher, who retired the last 11 batters in a row, also contributed a sacrifice fly in a five-run St. Louis rally in the sixth that wrapped up the victory, and scored in the eighth inning after his second single of the game.

Atlanta will try to even the series Friday night with 43 year-old knuckleballer Phil Niekro coming back after pitching 4 1-3 innings in the rained-out opener of the series Wednesday. The Cardinals will start rookie John Stuper.

McGee got the Cards started, opening the third inning with a shot past first baseman Chris Chambliss and into the right field corner. McGee turned on his afterburners when he saw the ball rattling into the corner.

What the youngster did not see was right fielder Claudell Washington slip chasing the hit and Coach Chuck Hiller waving frantically to go for the inside-the-park homer. Instead, he pulled up at third and when he realized what had happened, it was too late to change his mind.

It was a rookie mistake, but it didn't hurt because Ozzie Smith followed with a sacrifice fly that brought McGee streaking home with the game's first run.

The score by the Cardinals, who had 13 hits, came a half-inning after the Braves had their best shot at Forsch.

With one out in the Atlanta third, Bruce Benedict reached on an error by third baseman Ken Oberkfell. But pitcher Pascual Perez was unable to execute the sacrifice and struck out bunting foul on the final strike. It was a costly failure because Washington followed with Atlanta's first hit of the game. Benedict advanced to third, but was stranded when Rafael Ramirez forced Washington at second.

Armed with the lead, Forsch, a 15-game winner during the regular season, took control. He got a break in the sixth when Washington opened with his second hit of the game but then was out stealing, retired when he slid short of second base and never reached the bag.

In the bottom of the sixth, the Cardinals knocked out Perez and gave Forsch some insurance, sending 11 batters to the plate in an explosive display that had the capacity crowd of 53,008 at Busch Stadium roaring and left the Braves shaken.

Lonnie Smith started the rally with an infield hit and singles by Keith Hernandez and George Hendrick made it 2-0. Steve Bedrosian relieved Perez and walked Porter on four pitches, loading the bases. Then McGee and Ozzie Smith followed with RBI singles and Forsch's sacrifice fly made it 5-0. After Tommy Herr struck out, Oberkfell hit a roller to first. But Bedrosian failed to cover and the ball went as an infield single, scoring another run.

Donnie Moore relieved Bedrosian and hit Lonnie Smith with a pitch before retiring Hernandez on a fly ball to end the inning.

The six hits and 11 batters in one inning set NLCS records and put the game away for St. Louis.

Braves Manager Joe Torre said he had toyed with starting Niekro yesterday and in view of what happened to his club, it might not have been a bad idea.

Good friends stand up for you when you need them.

Phone calls got you nowhere, but this should get her attention. A mission requiring split-second timing, perfect planning and most importantly, some surefooted, stand-up guys.

When you come down to earth, spring for something special.

Tonight, let it be Löwenbräu.

Löwenbräu. Here's to good friends.

© 1982 Beer Brewed by Miller Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis.

BASEBALL

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Tuesday's Game

California 8, Milwaukee 3

Wednesday's Game

California 4, Milwaukee 2, California leads series 2-0.

Friday's Game

California (Zahn 18-8) at Milwaukee (Sutton 4-1), 3:17 p.m. EDT

Saturday's Game

California at Milwaukee, if necessary

Sunday's Game

California at Milwaukee, if necessary

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Wednesday's Game

Atlanta at St. Louis, rained out after 4 innings

Thursday's Game

St. Louis 7, Atlanta 0, St. Louis leads series 1-0.

Friday's Game

Atlanta (Niekro 17-4) at St. Louis (Stuper 9-7), 8:25 p.m. EDT

Saturday's Game

St. Louis at Atlanta, (n)

Sunday's Game

St. Louis at Atlanta, (n), if necessary

Monday's Game

St. Louis at Atlanta, if necessary

History 101 And who was the author

With school back in session across the country, kids are once again turning to the history books (albeit, probably not voluntarily) for a view of what has made our nation great. They're studying about presidents, wars, treaties and other famous events, both wonderful and tragic.

But there's one element that's woefully lacking in most of our history books — the important role of Sports!

As I once wrote, Sports is America, too, as American as election returns, corn-on-the-cob and the Battle of Antietam. As I said, America is the Teapot Dome and Watergate, but it's also the Black Sox. It's Tilden at the net, Havlicek at the baseline, Nicklaus with a four-footer he can make for the Open. It's Man O' War in the stretch, Gretsky with the puck. It's the wall at Fenway, the stretch at Churchill Downs, the brickyard at Indy, Henry Aaron with a 2-0 count, Pete Rose with the pitcher in a hole, and Namath with a guy open.

But I would like to repeat, today is a spate of famous quotes of history and tell you who really said them. Here are some of my favorites.

"Everyman should have the right to cudgel his own jackass." — (Everyone thinks this was said by the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal about the governor of Kentucky he just criticized. Actually, it was said by George Steinbrenner as he fired his fifth manager in four years and cussed out his team in the clubhouse.)

"I have not yet begun to fight." — (Most people say that this was said by John Paul Jones when the commander of the British frigate called upon him to surrender in 1779, but it was actually said by Roberto Duran in the second Leonard fight in 1980.)

Jim Murray

Best of Jim Murray

"Fifty-Four Forty or fight!" — (A lot of people think this was the slogan of the war party which wanted to go to war with England over the territory of Oregon in 1847, but the fact of the matter is it represents the compromise position of the NFL players who are demanding 55 percent of the gross receipts from the game, but may drop their demands .60 percent given the nature of the economy today.)

"Laws are dumb in the midst of arms." — (Cicero is supposed to have said this but Al Davis said it more recently in the corridors of the Oakland City Council.)

"Merchants have no country. The mere spot they stand on does not constitute so strong an attachment as that from which they may draw their gains." — (Bartlett's thinks this quotation was from Thomas Jefferson but it is actually the closing arguments of Pete Roselle's case against Al Davis in the moving of the Raiders.)

"I do not choose to run." — (Popularly believed to have been said by Calvin Coolidge on the eve of the 1928 election, it was actually said by Jimmy Carter on the eve of the 1980 Olympics.)

See JIM, page 19

New Jersey Devils' captain Don Lever scored the first goal ever in the Byrne Meadowlands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J. during NHL action against the Pittsburgh Penguins Tuesday night. (AP Photo).

...NFL

continued from page 24

of fruitless negotiations on those issues that broke off on Saturday.

Garvey meanwhile, discounted the possibility of the union agreeing to federal mediation.

Despite the presence of a federal mediator in 1974, the union's contract dispute with the league was not resolved until 1977 and then, only after both sides agreed to settle the dispute themselves.

Last week, Garvey said he opposed private mediation because the two sides were too far apart and it would take a mediator too long to familiarize himself with the personalities and the issues.

However, he changed his position this week, saying, "we need bargaining. We need people at the table with an open mind."

Garvey also reiterated the union's demand that the owners come to the bargaining table, but there seemed little likelihood of that.

Yesterday afternoon, NFL attorneys asked the U.S. Court of Appeals here to overturn the ruling of a lower court Wednesday which said all suits to bar players from union-sponsored all-star games must be pursued in U.S. District Court in Washington.

By restricting the legal actions to Washington, the NFL said, the lower court is compelling the teams to file suits in a court that lacks jurisdiction over claims involving the players' contracts.

While U.S. District Judge John Garrett Penn upheld the players' contention that further legal actions be brought in Washington, he refused to clear the way for the players to participate in the all-star games.

Teams have filed lawsuits in the state courts of New York, Missouri, Texas, Pennsylvania and Florida to stop players residing in those states from playing in the union-sponsored games. Under Penn's order those suits could not be pursued.

The league asked that the appellate court stay Penn's ruling by Monday, seven days before the first of a series of 20 union-sponsored games is scheduled to be played.

ABSOLUTELY NO ONE
packs a lunch like us!!!

The Deli is located, main floor, LaFortune Building, at the Huddle.

Your box includes choice of turkey or ham sandwich on a sesame seed bun, sweet grapes, our favorite cheese, and two of Grama's Big Peanut Butter cookies. With choice of a 10oz milk or 16 oz soft-drink.

All For Only $2.69

Don't forget to stock up on ICE for this weekend's festivities. 8 lb. and 18 lbs. bags of ICE available at the Deli.

FOR BREAKFAST, THE HUDDLE'S EGG, BACON AND CHEESE SANDWICH

Only 99¢

good Sat. 10/9/82

8:00 am - 10:30 am

LETTUCE SERVE YOU

SUNNYSIDE
BEVERAGES

Beer and Soft Drinks

1340 South Bend Ave.
across street from campus

234-1114

FREE DELIVERY

FREE POSTERS

20 different brands of keg beer available including imports

Draft Trucks
Tapping Equipment
Keg Coolers
Cups and Ice
Tubs

Tommy John looks down at umpire Bill Kunkel after knocking him over while making a play at first base on Tuesday. See AL Championship Series story at right. (AP Photo).

Angels pitching holds Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Slugger Reggie Jackson says it's time to stop using the term "suspect" to describe California's pitching staff.

In what had been billed as a showdown of two of the most explosive lineups in baseball, the Angels have made it a mismatch so far, taking a 2-0 lead over the Milwaukee Brewers in the best-of-five American League championship series.

The Brewers, who led the major leagues in home runs, runs, runs batted in and total bases during the regular season, have been held to 12 hits and a .182 batting average by Angel veterans Tommy John and Bruce Kison.

Geoff Zahn, 18-8 during the regular season, is to pitch for the Angels against Milwaukee's Don Sutton, 4-1, in the third game here today. Since intraleague playoffs began in 1969, no team has won a championship series after having lost the first two games.

Games four and five, if needed, would be played here tomorrow and Sunday.

"I think you should remember that the guys on the mound get paid, too," said Jackson, who homered in the Angels' 4-2 victory in Anaheim on Tuesday night. "This series isn't over yet, but we shouldn't be talking about being surprised by our pitching."

John neutralized Milwaukee's power with his sinker pitches, forcing Brewer batters to pound the ball into the ground. Kison's three-quarter sidearm delivery had much the same effect. Kison held the third through sixth hitters in the Brewer lineup — Cecil Cooper, Ted Simmons, Ben Oglivie and Gorman Thomas — hitless in 15 at bats.

"Whenever you start the playoffs in your home city it's important to take the first two games," Angels' catcher Bob Boone said. "It doesn't surprise me that we were able to do that."

"I knew if our pitchers pitched the way they were capable, they could stop them or at least slow them down."

"I didn't expect this club to come in here and score just five runs in two games," said Milwaukee third baseman Paul Molitor, whose inside-the-park homer produced the Brewers' only runs Tuesday.

"This club has too much offensive potential for that, but a couple of pitchers have held us down," he said. "The last thing I expected was to have two complete games thrown at us."

The Brewers hope to get an early lead and force the Angels to their bullpen, which is even more suspect than their starting rotation.

"This series isn't over yet, but we shouldn't be talking about being surprised by our pitching."

The Brewers and Angels were 6-6 against each other during the regular season, with each team winning three times in its home park.

Pete Vuckovich, the losing pitcher Wednesday night, recalled that the Brewers lost the first two games of last year's East Division miniseries to the New York Yankees, then won two games in New York before the Yanks won the clinching fifth game.

"We bounced back last year, although we lost the fifth game, and we can bounce back this year, too," he said. "We're playing a great club and we're a great club, too. If anybody can do it, we can."

NOTRE DAME SAINT BERT'S COMMUNICATION & THEATRE

Oct 8 FRIDAY FILM SERIES

Chloe in the Afternoon (1972) Eric Rohmer. France. color.

In French with English subtitles

In the last of his series of "moral tales," Rohmer casts Bernard Verley as Frederic, an introspective Paris commuter whose moral dilemma is posed in terms of Chloe—a Parisian bohemian—or Helene (Francoise Verley), his suburban wife

Annenberg Aud., Snite Museum

Admission $2.00

TONIGHT

Buy Observer Classifieds

By popular demand the movie that "will leave you feeling 10 feet tall" is now playing at theatres everywhere.

Rex Reed, syndicated columnist

AN OFFICER AND A GENTLEMAN

PARAMOUNT PICTURES PRESENTS A LORIMAR-MARTIN ELFAND PRODUCTION A TAYLOR HACKFORD FILM

RICHARD GERE · DEBRA WINGER AN OFFICER AND A GENTLEMAN

Also starring DAVID KEITH and LOUIS GOSSETT, JR. as 'Foley'
Original Music by JACK NITZSCHE · Written by DOUGLAS DAY STEWART
Produced by MARTIN ELFAND · Directed by TAYLOR HACKFORD

A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

R RESTRICTED UNDER 17 REQUIRES ACCOMPANYING PARENT OR ADULT GUARDIAN

CHECK LOCAL NEWSPAPERS FOR THEATRE LISTINGS.

Corby's
CORBY'S
"FOOTBALL WEEKEND"

Fri HAPPY HOUR 3-7
DRAFTS 2/$1.00

Sat

- 9:00 am - "Bloody Mary Party"
- 11:00 am - "Pre-game Warm-ups"
- NOON - Draft Beer Sausage Sandwich $1.00
- 1:30 NOTRE DAME vs MIAMI
- 5:00 - Outside Bar-B-Q (in parking lot)
- 9:00 VICTORY CELEBRATION

GO IRISH! BEAT HURRICANES!

SENIORS
May 1983 is just months away, what next?
CONSIDER an alternative

THE HOLY CROSS ASSOCIATES
A 1-2 year postgraduate experience stressing: service, simple living, and Christian community. HCA is in several American cities and Chile

Applications now available
Deadline for Chile application
November 4, 1982

For more information contact: Mary Ann Roemer, Volunteer Services, LaFortune Center, 239-5293.

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Simon

Jeb Cashin

Fate

Photius

Campus

- 12:30 p.m. — Government Dept. Colloquium, "Human Rights, The Church in Central America and Reagan: The Emerging Conflict," Prof. Ronald Libby, Room 1200 Memorial Library
- 3:15 p.m. — Workshop, "Technical Change, Innovation and Bureaucracy," Prof. Leonard Rapping, 331 O'Shaughnessy Hall, Sponsored by Economic Department
- 3:30 p.m. — Philosophy Colloquium, "Scientific Realism," Prof. Rom Harre, Oxford University, 122 Hayes Healy
- 4 p.m. — Field Hockey, ND Women vs. Franklin College, Alumni Field
- 5 p.m. — Senior Oktoberfest Picnic, Bier and Brats, Saint Mary's Clubhouse, Sponsored by Saint Mary's Senior Class
- 5:15 p.m. — Mass and Supper, Bulla Shed, Sponsored by Campus Ministry,
- 7 p.m. — Pep Rally, Stepan Center
- 7:15, and 11:30 p.m. — Film, "From Russia with Love," Engineering Auditorium, Sponsored by Film Club, $1.00
- 7:30 p.m. — Friday Night Film Series, "Chloe in the Afternoon," Annenberg Auditorium, $2.00
- 8 p.m. — ND SMC Theatre Production, "The Taming of the Shrew," O'Laughlin Auditorium, $2.50 for Students
- 8 p.m. — Soccer, Notre Dame vs. Western Michigan, Cartier Field
- 10 p.m. — Nazz, Dan Keosal and Friends, Nazz

T.V. Tonight

- |            |                                    |
|------------|------------------------------------|
| 6 p.m.     | 16 NewsCenter 16                   |
|            | 22 22 Eyewitness News              |
|            | 28 Newswatch 28                    |
|            | 34 MacNeil/Lehrer Report           |
| 6:30 p.m.  | 16 M*A*S*H                         |
|            | 22 Family Feud                     |
|            | 28 Tic Tac Dough                   |
|            | 34 Straight Talk                   |
| 7 p.m.     | 16 The Powers of Matthew Star      |
|            | 22 Dukes of Hazzard                |
|            | 28 Baseball Championship Series    |
|            | 34 Washington Week in Review       |
| 7:30 p.m.  | 34 Wall Street Week                |
| 8 p.m.     | 16 Knight Rider                    |
|            | 22 Dallas                          |
|            | 34 Business Perspective            |
| 9 p.m.     | 16 Remington Steele                |
|            | 22 Falcon Crest                    |
|            | 34 Religion and Social Issues      |
| 10 p.m.    | 16 NewsCenter 16                   |
|            | 22 22 Eyewitness News              |
|            | 28 Newswatch 28                    |
|            | 34 The Dick Cavett Show            |
| 10:30 p.m. | 16 Tonight Show                    |
|            | 22 C.B.S. Late Movie               |
|            | 28 ABC News Nightline              |
|            | 34 Captioned ABC News              |
| 11 p.m.    | 28 Fridays                         |
| 11:30 p.m. | 16 Late Night With David Letterman |

The Daily Crossword

© 1982 Tribune Company Syndicate, Inc. All Rights Reserved

10/8/82

- |                                  |                            |
|----------------------------------|----------------------------|
| ACROSS                    | DOWN                |
| 1 Hairdo                         | 1 Dull pain                |
| 5 Leads off                      | 2 Source of oil            |
| 10 Ready money                   | 3 Great review             |
| 14 Bedecked                      | 4 Czech river              |
| 15 Western show                  | 5 Satellite trips          |
| 16 Spanish cooking pot           | 6 Steadiness               |
| 17 Invite everybody              | 7 Nose out                 |
| 20 Make use of                   | 8 Pen tip                  |
| 21 Jury members                  | 9 The sun                  |
| 22 Ending with Israel and Canaan | 10 Crouches in fear        |
| 23 Arabian chieftain             | 11 Century plant           |
| 25 Chicken and egg               | 12 Pronounce poorly        |
| 29 Like Punch                    | 13 Homburgs                |
| 32 Footnote abbr.                | 18 Vinegary                |
| 33 Animal nature in man          | 19 Narcotic                |
| 34 Iler's relative               | 23 Put in high spirits     |
| 36 How to use mint sauce?        | 24 Engage, as gears        |
| 40 Comp. pt.                     | 25 Locale                  |
| 41 Stood out                     | 26 Lower in estimation     |
| 42 Lay off                       | 27 Prefers the chef?       |
| 43 Arm of the sea                | 28 American fabulist       |
| 45 Cheap whiskey                 | 29 Coin                    |
| 47 Makes a choice                | 30 Escape by trickery      |
| 48 Nuclear letters               | 31 Vaguely                 |
| 49 Swagger                       | 33 Unmannerly persons      |
| 52 Constrict                     | 35 Busy as —               |
|                                  | 37 Can manage              |
|                                  | 38 Pronoun                 |
|                                  | 39 Movable cover           |
|                                  | 44 Fencing expression      |
|                                  | 45 Narrated again          |
|                                  | 46 Color of raw silk       |
|                                  | 48 Pale-faced              |
|                                  | 49 Have the lead           |
|                                  | 50 Across, for short       |
|                                  | 51 Date stamp abbr.        |
|                                  | 52 Global area             |
|                                  | 53 Ailments                |
|                                  | 54 Bismarck's state: abbr. |
|                                  | 55 Actress Rowlands        |
|                                  | 56 Quod — faciendum        |
|                                  | 58 Toss underhanded        |
|                                  | 59 Prohibitionist          |

Thursday's Solution

10/8/82

Brian

The saga of a 6 month old domer.

The Irish Gardens

your Screw your Roommate Headquarters

Stay on campus and save $$$ by letting us take care of your flower needs

Located off the Nazz in the basement of LaFortune

ND-SMC available

Dial M-U-M-S (6867) to place an order

Hours: 12:30-5:30

Senior Bar

Saturday nite SENIOR BAR welcomes "CUT LOOSE" from Chicago!

Volleyball captains lead Irish into new era

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Last year marked the beginning of a new era — a winning era — for the Notre Dame women's volleyball team. It was the first year that scholarships were awarded for volleyball, making it the second women's sport at Notre Dame to grant scholarships. The women who were given these scholarships, sophomores Josie Maternowski (South Bend, IN) and Mary Jo Hensler (Cincinnati), this year's co-captains, have begun a program that should eventually attain national prominence.

"Josie and Mary Jo are the two primary setters," says their coach, Sandy Vanslager. "They run the offense and make things quick.

"They were voted co-captains by the team. (Assistant Coach) Dan Anderson and I thought it was a good decision. A co-captain needs to be out on the court all the time and must prevent animosity between the players."

If those are the requirements for a good co-captain, then the team made a very wise choice. In the games through last weekend, Maternowski and Hensler were the only players to play every minute this year.

As co-captains, it is imperative that the two of them work together, sharing the responsibilities of their position. Their experience has allowed them to do this.

"When there are flagrant or questionable calls by an official, only one person can question the referee," explains Vanslager. "We rotate the two of them so each can have a chance.

"On the court, sometimes one might dominate if she is feeling better or if she feels more on top of things."

Each player, however, has different strengths and weaknesses. It is the combination of their strengths that makes them so effective.

"Josie is more of an emotional player," says Anderson. "Her play is reflected more on the way things are going on the court.

"But she reorganizes the team when they're down," adds Vanslager. "She'll talk to the individuals and get them all into a huddle.

"She likes to talk and reassure people. She tries to work on their heads. She has a very positive attitude and looks very comfortable on the court."

Last Wednesday's match against St. Francis College may show how important Maternowski is to the team. The Irish had won the first two games, but she was injured in the third game and the team lost the last three games and the match.

Maternowski's injury, torn ligaments in her ankle, may be enough to keep her out for the rest of the year. If it does, Hensler is going to have to make up for her absence. If Hensler she lives up to her coaches' descriptions, she should have no problem.

"Mary Jo is a very steady player," says Anderson. "She serves consistently and keeps the offensive play going. She likes to run more offensive plays than Josie.

"She also plays very smart ball. She is very aware of what's happening on the other side of the net. She puts the ball in the easiest place to put it and she always lets the other girls know where it's going.

"She goes for scores on smart hits," says Vanslager. "She has a plan before every time she hits the ball. She also can adapt to the situation."

Because they are the first scholarship players on the team, the co-captains are under pressure to perform well. "The pressure is whatever you put on yourself," explains Hensler. "Other people don't put it on me. It's all pressure that's internal. I have to prove that I deserve the scholarship."

The Notre Dame women's volleyball team travels to Fort Wayne tomorrow to compete in the IU-PU Ft. Wayne Invitational. See related story at left. (Photo by Scott Bower).

Seeks NCAA bid

Soccer team takes on WMU

By SAM SHERRILL
Sports Writer

When the Notre Dame soccer team began its 1982 season one month ago, they knew they could count on one thing, at least — consistent goalkeeping. And they've certainly gotten it from senior Gerard McCarthy.

Though the team had some shaky moments early on, McCarthy believes that that period may be over. "I think we're starting to jell," he says.

"Before we were trying too much finesse. Now we're getting back to our game and being more aggressive. Our defenders are only letting them get one shot at a time. I think we may have turned it around."

A major factor in ND's success all year has been McCarthy's play in the nets. A starter in his sophomore year, he lost the job to John Milligan last season. As this season approached, however, he was firmly entrenched as the No. 1 goalkeeper.

"Last year, John just beat me out," McCarthy says. "He played great. We were good friends, too. As for my sophomore year, it was sort of shaky. I felt I only had a tenuous grip on what was going on. But I'm more confident this year."

McCarthy began in soccer as a fullback and didn't tend goal until his sophomore year of high school. "I was more into baseball," McCarthy says, and in fact he was captain of the baseball team his senior year.

In terms of strengths and weaknesses, one has to mention McCarthy's booming punts as a major plus. "Hank Hofman (assistant coach) has worked with me a lot on the punts.

"My greatest strength, though, the goal I set for myself, is staying in control of the box. Any ball in there is mine. If I'm alert to the ball and in control, I can play well.

"My biggest weakness would probably be when I dive for shots," he continues. "I have to improve on that."

McCarthy's course load is no piece of cake, either. "I'm in electrical engineering," he says. "Last year was probably the toughest year for me, but this year's not so bad because I enjoy my classes more.

"After graduation, I'm hoping to go to graduate school. I'd like to keep in soccer, maybe play in summer leagues and coach kids."

McCarthy agrees the victory over Dayton last Friday night was his best game of the season. "When I stopped that breakaway, that really built my confidence for the rest of the game," he says. "It's a lot easier playing against a good team. Against some of the bad teams, it's easy to fall asleep back there. I like some action."

McCarthy will certainly see a lot of action in the weeks ahead. Akron University, No. 7 in the country, will come in next week, and the Irish face a tough Western Michigan team tonight at Cartier Field. Not only can the Irish get revenge for last year's 2-0 defeat, but they can give Coach Rich Hunter his 100th win at Notre Dame.

"Rich does things right all the way," McCarthy said. "Most of the success of the soccer team is due to him. Hopefully, we can have a big crowd for him Friday night."

But Hunter is not the only attraction tonight. The play of Gerard McCarthy should be worth the price of admission.

Networks miss mark with subs

Somebody should explain the idea behind a carnival sideshow to the deep thinkers in the sports departments of CBS and NBC.

It's really quite simple. All you do is grab five or six of the strangest-looking people you can find, and stick them under a tent. Then, hopefully, people will pay a quarter to come inside and gawk. There is absolutely no talent involved, simply the most hideous sights imaginable.

The people who operate the carnivals, however, have the common sense to realize that, while the average person may fork over 25 cents to get a peak at the lady's mutton chops and full beard, he's not going to keep coming back time and again.

Unfortunately, the big wise at NBC and CBS haven't quite figured that out yet. They're more accustomed to the principle behind the roller coaster, where people actually derive enjoyment from the experience, and are prone to ride over and over again.

The roller coaster mentality works very well when the networks are offering NFL football on Sunday afternoons. The dizzy fans just keep watching, week after week after week. But, when in their strike-induced desperation, NBC and CBS start trying to cram Canadian Football League and NCAA Division III games down the throats of football-starved fans, the sideshow mentality is far more appropriate.

The networks' persistence in beaming these third-rate attractions into our homes can lead to but one of two conclusions. Either the networks are dumb enough to believe that America's football junkies are actually going to watch the same freak show over and over again — or the networks are right, and America's football junkies are dumb enough to watch the same freak show over and over again.

Lord help us.

But beyond whether the general population is crazed enough to believe that a dog called a cat is really a cat or whether 24 guys running around on a football field is really football, is a more fundamental issue.

Craig Chval

Believe it or not, there are parties even more aggrieved by the players' strike than the fans. We've already mentioned the dilemma of the television networks, who promised their sponsors Bo Derek and are delivering Shelley Winters. Restaurant and bar owners, who generate much of their revenue by showing NFL games to thirsty fans, may be wiped out in the event of a prolonged strike. Gang members who make their living stealing hubcaps out of stadium parking lots are on the verge of returning to school.

Forget about unemployment, inflation, crime, nuclear holocaust and Extra-Strength Tylenol. For the past two weekends, this country has faced its greatest peril since at least Jimmy Carter, maybe the Great Depression.

And how are we reacting to it? Miserably.

This country was born of adversity and the exemplary manner in which it responded to that adversity. History tells us it was George Halas, the founder of the NFL himself, who once said, "Necessity is the mother of invention."

Men and women of Notre Dame, your nation calls. You're the ones who taunted DePaul's Skip Dillard with chants of "St. Joe's, St. Joe's." You're the ones who jingled your keys when the UCLA travelling auto show stopped at the Athletic and Convocation Center last winter. The American people are dying for something to replace NFL football, and it's up to you.

If you can't do it for your country, at least do it for Don Ohlmeyer. Don't forget, the president of NBC Sports has a wife and kids to feed.

Owners, players stalled, mediation offer rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to end the National Football League players strike continued Thursday with no signs of apparent progress.

For the second time in as many days, the NFL Management Council rejected a proposal from the union for a private mediator to end the 17-day players' strike. It also said it saw no point to even resuming negotiations.

Late yesterday morning, Ed Garvey, executive director of the National Football League Players Union, released a list of nine private citizens the union would accept as mediators. It included former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame University, Archibald Cox, the former Watergate special prosecutor and three former secretaries of labor.

But Jack Donlan, Garvey's counterpart with the Management Council, rejected the proposal two hours later, saying the owners would only accept federal mediation. Jim Miller, the council's spokesman, said Garvey's call for private mediating was "injecting another issue into the dispute. Who should mediate becomes an issue."

The management council also stuck to the position it enunciated Wednesday — that no further talks would be held until the union dropped its demand for a minimum wage scale. Miller said the council saw no point to meeting even to discuss non-economic issues, as Garvey had proposed.

"We went down that road last week," Miller said of the three days

See NFL, page 21

... Outlook

Continued from page 1A

But it's obviously the passing game that funds the scholarships at Miami. Four Hurricane receivers are in double figures in receptions, with senior wide receiver Rocky Belk leading the team with 19 catches for 296 yards. Belk, you may or may not remember, caught a 63-yard touchdown last year against the Irish.

Senior halfback Mark Rush (18 catches for 221 yards), Neal (14 for 104) and junior tight end Glenn Dennison (11 for 114) lend support to the receiving corps.

"They've got so many talented people to catch the football," says Faust, "that it's probably a quarterback's dream to play in that sort of an offense. And now that Miami has won two games with Richt back there, they'll be that much more confident coming in here."

As for defense, Miami is strong up the middle with linebacker Greg Brown (57 tackles, including an incredible 21 against Florida on September 4), junior linebacker Jay Brophy (50 tackles) and senior tackle Tony Chickillo (30 tackles and three sacks). As a whole, the Hurricane defense surrenders about 300 yards a game, only 140 per game on the ground.

"I think Miami's defense has improved every week out," Faust says. "They've given up 13 points a game. So we've got to be prepared to move the football more consistently than we did in East Lansing."

The Irish offense has been plagued with several problems, the biggest of which has been poor field position. Opponents are averaging nearly 46 yards a punt, and the offense has done well to start from inside the 30-yard line on 27 of 46 possessions.

But Faust is not worried about his offense, which produced over 400 yards in the first two games, but came up with only 280 against Michigan State last week. "We're not where we want to be offensively," he says. "But there's no reason to panic. We won a game Saturday on the road against an awfully good Michigan State defense even though we didn't score a touchdown."

"A coach has to be happy anytime that happens. But we know we've got plenty of things to do to improve."

Quarterback Blair Kiel is coming off his worst outing of the season last week against the Spartans. The junior from Columbus, Ind., threw three interceptions and had a generally ineffective day throwing, completing just 9-of-20 passes for 126 yards.

One thing the Irish will have in their favor is that Miami has never won a game in Notre Dame Stadium in five tries since 1972. But Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger is confident.

"We have a lot of kids who have been in an awful lot of big ballgames," he says. "A win over ND would be very significant. I know the Irish will remember that Miami was the team that put them under .500 last year, and they'll be out to avenge that."

"But more importantly for us, I think our football team has the confidence to believe that they can beat Notre Dame."

"This is a real hallmark game for us," Schnellenberger concludes, "because no Miami team has ever won up in South Bend. We have a chance to accomplish what nobody else has been able to do."

On the contrary, Faust is not as optimistic.

"Miami's the best team we've played so far," he says. "They're an excellent football team and they're well-coached. They're better than last year in some areas."

If Miami has one weakness, it's that it is not a good road football team. Twice the Hurricanes have ventured into raucous enemy territories — at Florida and Virginia Tech. Florida beat Miami, 17-14, while Virginia Tech gave the Hurricanes a scare before succumbing just 14-8.

Knowing this, Faust has made a plea for vocal fan support, especially from the student body.

"Our crowd gives us a big lift," Faust says. "Our student body has done an excellent job so far — they've been great. But we really need them this week. I hope it'll be a big advantage."

Blair Kiel

Filling some famous shoes

Mark Richt has stepped in with poise to lead the Hurricane pass attack

By JEAN CLAUDE DELA FRANCE
Sports Editor
The Miami Hurricane

MIAMI — The Miami Hurricanes' 14-8 victory over Virginia Tech on September 18 brought about more changes than just another notch in the win column.

The careers of two U.M. players were vastly altered. Jim Kelly, undoubtedly the best quarterback in Miami history, suffered a separated shoulder and was lost for the season. Mark Richt, a former high school all-star quarterback from Florida who played in Kelly's shadow for three years, became Miami's No. 1 quarterback. Richt, who had yet to start a game until Kelly's injury, now leads the Hurricanes' offense as they continue to go for the national championship that Coach Howard Schnellenberger is aiming for.

Richt's major asset is his poise. He knows that every time he steps on the field, he will be compared to Kelly. Yet his calmness and outlook remain unchanged.

The one thing he has learned during his apprenticeship is to be ready. "The No. 1 priority is to win on Saturdays," says the native of Boca Raton, Fla. "I don't personally set any particular number of touchdowns to throw or how many completions I will get because it doesn't matter unless you win."

Richt is perhaps best remembered for the game last year when he came in to lead Miami to a 21-20 win over Florida. With Kelly injured, Richt came in before 72,000 screaming fans and engineered two drives that produced ten points — giving Miami its fourth straight victory over the cross-state rival Gators.

"That game taught me just to stay ready to play at all times," Richt says. "When I went into the Florida game, I was not really as prepared as I would've like to have been. Since then I've promised myself that I'd be ready in case I ever had to go in again."

He was ready against Virginia Tech, and showed signs that he could move the offense when he had to. In that game he completed two-of-three passes for 28 yards to march the team to the VPI one-yard line. It's this kind of play that has prompted the coaches to say that Richt would be a starter on 90 percent of the nation's top college teams.

"We are blessed that we have a great quarterback like Mark Richt," Schnellenberger said. "Mark has been preparing for this situation for several years."

"Had he been at another school with a similar offense Richt probably would have found himself in a successful situation as a starter: breaking records, All-American, and possibly a Heisman candidate."

"I know they all have confidence in me," Richt says of his teammates. "I think I've been around here long enough so that everyone knows what I can do. I am prepared to do whatever it takes to win."

Schnellenberger puts the whole situation into perspective. "This is our obstacle that our football team will overcome," he says, "and one that will draw us close together and demand a little more effort from each of our players."

Since replacing Jim Kelly at quarterback, Mark Richt has played impressively. Richt will be starting his third game for the Hurricanes this weekend against Notre Dame.

In his previous two outings, Miami victories (25-22 over Michigan State and 28-6 over Louisville), Richt has completed 38-of-69 passes for 367 yards and two touchdowns.

"We feel he (Richt) can throw just as well as Kelly," says Notre Dame head coach Gerry Faust. "He's done very well in the games he's played so far, and this is his fourth game he's going into. I don't think that Kelly's injury has made any difference at all in their attack."

With Kelly gone for the rest of the season, it looks like the burden of winning a national championship falls on the shoulders of Mark Richt.

But if the first two games of his starting reign are any indication, Richt is more than ready to accept the challenge.

Jim Kelly

Notre Dame vs. Miami

The Game

GAME: Fighting Irish vs. Miami Hurricanes
SITE: Notre Dame Stadium (59,075)
TIME: 1:30 p.m. EST Saturday, Oct. 9, 1982
TV-RADIO: WNDU-TV (Ch. 16)
 Jeff Jeffers and Jack Nolan

Metrosports Replay Network
 Harry Kalas and George Connor
 9 a.m. Sunday WNDU-TV (Ch. 16)

Notre Dame-Mutual Radio Network
 Tony Roberts and Al Wester
 WNDU-AM 1500

SERIES: Notre Dame 12, Miami 2, Ties 1
LAST MEETING: Nov. 27, 1981 at Miami, Fla.
 Miami 37, Notre Dame 15
RANKINGS: (AP) Notre Dame 10th, Miami 17th
TICKETS: Game is sold out

IRISH
(3-0)

'CANES
(4-1)

The Statistics

TEAM STATISTICS		ND	OPP	RUSHING		G		NO YDS AVG TD LG
TOTAL OFFENSE YARDS		1102	656	P. Carter	3	77	311	4.0	2 25
Total Plays		227	188	Moriarty	3	47	279	5.9	3 37
Yards per Play		4.9	3.5	Bell	2	24	123	5.1	1 19
Yards per Game		367.3	218.7	Pinkett	2	6	12	2.0	0 5
PENALTIES-YARDS		17-153	10-95	Brooks	3	4	11	2.8	0 4
FUMBLES-LOST		2-1	7-5	Kiel	3	10	-16	-1.6	0 9
TOTAL FIRST DOWNS		56	43	NOTRE DAME		3	168	720	4.3 6 37
By Rushing		37	10	OPPONENTS		3	88	71	0.8 0 19
By Passing		17	29	PASSING		G		NO CO PCT INT YDS TD
By Penalty		2	4	Kiel	3	59	33	559	3 382 0
THIRD DOWNS-CONV		15-50	10-44	ND		3	59	33	559 3 382 0
Percentage		300	227	OPP		3	100	53	530 5 585 3
POSSESSION TIME		105:53	74:07	RECEIVING		G		NO YDS AVG TD LG
Minutes per Game		35:18	24:42	Hunter	3	14	195	13.9	0 25
SCORING		GTD		PA		R-PA		S		FG		TP
Johnston	3	0	6-6	0-0	0	6-6	24	Hunter		3	14	195	13.9	0 25
Moriarty	3	3	0-0	0-0	0	0-0	18	Howard		3	6	97	16.2	0 22
P. Carter	3	2	0-0	0-0	0	0-0	12	Moriarty		3	5	17	3.4	0 6
Bell	2	1	0-0	0-0	0	0-0	6	Bell		2	3	20	6.6	0 7
Team	3	0	0-0	0-0	1	0-0	2	P. Carter		3	2	12	6.0	0 7
ND		3	6	6-6	0-0	1	6-6	62	Favorite		2	1	17	17.0	0 17
OPP		3	4	4-4	0-0	0	2-2	34	Percy		3	1	15	15.0	0 15
KICKOFF RET		NO		YDS		AVG		TD		LG		ND		OPPONENTS
Pinkett		3	59	19.7	0	23	NOTRE DAME		3	33	382	11.6	0 25
Bell		3	50	16.6	0	18	OPPONENTS		3	53	585	11.0	3 39
P. Carter		1	18	18.0	0	18	PUNTING		G		NO		YDS		AVG		LG
NOTRE DAME		7	127	18.1	0	23	Kiel		3	25	1052	42.1	60
OPPONENTS		11	216	19.6	0	25	NOTRE DAME		3	25	1052	42.1	60
INT RET		NO		YDS		AVG		TD		LG		OPPONENTS		OPPONENTS
Duerson		2	48	24.0	0	48	NOTRE DAME		3	25	1139	45.6	63
Brown		2	3	1.5	0	3	PUNT RET		NO		YDS		AVG		TD		LG
Zavagnin		1	16	16.0	0	16	Duerson		12	66	5.5	0	17
NOTRE DAME		5	67	13.4	0	48	Bell		1	12	12.0	0	12
OPPONENTS		3	8	2.7	0	6	NOTRE DAME		13	78	6.0	0	17
OPPONENTS		3	8	2.7	0	6	OPPONENTS		12	126	10.5	1	72

The Schedule

NOTRE DAME	MIAMI
SEPT. 18 beat MICHIGAN, 23-17	SEPT. 4 lost at Florida, 17-14
SEPT 25 beat PURDUE, 28-14	SEPT. 11 beat HOUSTON, 31-12
OCT. 3 beat Michigan St., 11-3	SEPT. 18 beat Virginia Tech, 14-8
OCT. 9 MIAMI (FLA.)	SEPT. 25 beat MICHIGAN ST 25-22
OCT 16 ARIZONA	OCT. 2 beat Louisville, 28-6
OCT. 23 at Oregon	OCT. 9 at Notre Dame
OCT. 30 Navy at Meadowlands	OCT. 16 MISSISSIPPI STATE
NOV. 6 at Pittsburgh	OCT. 30 FLORIDA STATE
NOV. 13 PENN STATE	NOV. 6 at Maryland
NOV. 20 at Air Force	NOV. 20 NORTH CAROLINA STATE
NOV. 27 at Southern Cal	NOV. 27 CINICINNATI

The Sports Staff Picks the Winners

Each week, The Observer sports staff predict the outcome of the week's major college football games. Records are compiled as to how each writer does against the spread. HOME TEAM is in capital letters.

SKIP DESJARDIN
 Sports Editor Emeritus
 21-14-1 .600

DAVE DZIEDZIC
 Assoc. Sports Editor
 20-15-1 .571

CHRIS NEEDLES
 Sports Editor
 20-15-1 .571

WILL HARE
 Sports Writer
 19-16-1 .543

RICH O'CONNOR
 Sports Writer
 15-20-1 .429

GEORGIA over Mississippi by 13
 MICHIGAN over Michigan State by 11
 Iowa over INDIANA by 1
 WEST VIRGINIA over Boston College by 3
 Texas over OKLAHOMA by 2
 ALABAMA over Penn State by 3
 ILLINOIS over Purdue by 12
 WASHINGTON over California by 13
 ARIZONA STATE over Stanford by 6
 AIR FORCE over Navy by 1
 NOTRE DAME over Miami (Fla.) by 6

Dawgs
 Wolverines
 Hoosiers
 Mountaineers
 Horns
 Lions
 Illini
 Huskies
 Sun Devils
 Middies
 Irish

Dawgs
 Spartans
 Hawkeyes Mountaineers
 Sooners
 Lions
 Illini
 Huskies
 Cardinal
 Middies
 Irish

Dawgs
 Wolverines
 Hawkeyes Mountaineers
 Horns
 Lions
 Illini
 Bears
 Sun Devils
 Middies
 Irish

Rebels
 Wolverines
 Hawkeyes
 Eagles
 Horns
 Lions
 Boilers
 Huskies
 Sun Devils
 Falcons Hurricanes

Dawgs
 Spartans
 Hawkeyes
 Eagles
 Horns
 Lions
 Illini
 Huskies
 Cardinal
 Middies
 Irish