Pope John Paul II greets Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh, C.S.C., University of Notre Dame president, during a recent (Jan. 16) meeting of the Pontifical Council for Culture in the Vatican. Father Hesburgh is the American member on the group's 12-person international council which was created by the Pope to explore new ways of dialogue between "the saving message of the Gospel" and the variety of human cultures.

Attorney General Smith resigns

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — William French Smith, the multimillionaire corporate lawyer who directed sweeping changes in the Department of Justice and served as a close personal adviser to President Reagan, has resigned as attorney general, administration sources said yesterday.

The sources, who sought anonymity, said it appeared that a leading candidate to succeed Smith is presidential counselor Edwin Meese III.

They said Smith was not pressured to leave but had simply decided that after three years in office it was time to go and that he had accomplished his major goals.

One source said Reagan's expected re-election campaign influenced Smith's decision. The source noted Smith was active behind the scenes in every Reagan campaign and wanted to do so again but felt it would be inappropriate if he remained as attorney general.

The 66-year-old Smith, who reversed civil rights, antitrust and criminal enforcement policies that stood through previous administrations, kept his plans secret almost to the last minute.

The sources said he told Reagan in a one-on-one meeting in the Oval Office Wednesday. But even by yesterday, Smith had not advised his assistants at the department of his plans. And the reports of his resignation caught even some of Smith's closest friends by surprise.

During the Oval Office meeting, Reagan told Smith, Reagan's personal lawyer for many years, that the Cabinet post was his as long as he wanted it, the sources said.

Reagan, returning to the White House from his Maryland mountain-top retreat in time to watch the Super Bowl on television, dodged reporters' questions about Smith and any successor. The sources said they expected Reagan to formally announce the resignation today.

Meese was out of town yesterday and could not be reached for comment.

One sign of Smith's influence on Reagan came in the appointment of Sandra Day O'Connor as the first woman to the Supreme Court. She was Smith's choice, and sources said then he prevailed over the President's closest White House aides whose first choice was a man.

Student interning with legislature

By JOSEPH MURPHY

Staff Reporter

Junior Michael Jones said he "came to Notre Dame to learn the theories." He has taken a semester's leave of absence "to experience the facts."

Since the third of January, Jones has been working as a legislative intern for the Indiana House of Representatives' Democratic Caucus. His new job revolves around the powerful House Ways and Means Committee.

"I attend the committee meetings, take notes, get copies of bills, and write summaries which are distributed to the legislators," Jones said. Also, he has helped prepare possible Democratic versions for legislative reapportionment, an extremely "hot" topic.

When asked if there is any truth to the old expression that there are two things one should never watch being made: sausage and legislation, Jones laughed. "Most bills this session concern such issues as education, state taxes, toxic waste, and the troubled liscense branch."

Work at the state capital is not without its lighter moments. Jones said, "A representative from Gary, Indiana proposed that Michael Jackson, who is from that town, be put on state liscense plates." Some capital watchers even adopted a new state theme: "Beat it to Indiana."

When some of the legislators learned Jones was from Notre Dame, "they began circulating rumors that Father Hesburgh had resigned and the board of trustees were out trying to find a high school principal to replace him." Jones quickly learned the legislators follow Notre Dame football.

"This experience compliments my education. I applied for the job last year, but didn't get it. This year I was one of nine students selected from 60 student applicants. The other students here are from Indiana University and Ball State. These two schools are very active in coordinating it. They have a class that parallels the session and the students receive college credit," Jones said.

Notre Dame has not officially said whether Jones will receive any credit, but Jones believes he will. "Everyone I have talked to has been very supportive, but the administration wants to wait to see how I do."

With law school or a job related to politics as real possibilities, Jones

Short enrollment lines please new registrar

By BOB VONDERHEIDE

They called it enrollment, but a line by any other name couldn't be much shorter.

And newly appointed Registrar Dan Winicur couldn't be much happier.

Registration...er...enrollment — once a daylong exercise in paper-pushing — became for most students last week a five-minute visit to the ACC.

The stack of computer cards that once had been handed out at registration was replaced by a generic form requiring student I.D. and name. Class schedules for upperclassmen were mailed with grades during Christmas break, and laundry cards for male students were distributed at Saint Michael's Laundry.

"It went great," Winicur said Friday in his office, where only a handful of students were waiting for help. "My goal was for students to go through enrollment in five minutes."

The only hang-up was a slight wait to register for Infonet, a new long-distance phone service contracted by the University in the wake of Bell Telephone's divestiture. The Infonet line was especially busy at Stepan Center where freshmen enrolled.

In general, however, Winicur said freshmen enrollment went just about as smoothly as upperclassmen enrollment. The only difference was that Freshman Year of Studies did not mail class schedules during break.

As in past years, the longest lines came within the first 15 minutes that the ACC doors were open. "I have to say I was a little worried," Winicur said.

Within a half-hour, however, lines

Stepan ice rink adds athletic opportunities

During Christmas break, two of the Stepan Center basketball courts became surfaces for another winter sport: hockey.

The Stepan ice rink is the brainchild of Rob Bertino, the student senator from District 1. He included the idea in his proposal to install lights on the Stepan courts, because the ice rink makes year-round use of the lights worthwhile.

Bertino submitted the proposal in September of 1982 because he felt there were not enough places available at night to use for recreation. Since the installation, the lights have proved a great boon for late-night athletes.

"All we needed (to create the rink) were a few industrial-strength two-by-fours for the frame and some polyethylene over the courts," said Physical Plant Director Don Dedrick. "Maintenance is handled by the stadium grounds crew which sweeps and sprays the rink nightly."

Since the grounds crew would be working at that time anyway, additional cost is minimal to the University.

Bertino is pleased with the results as well as student response. "Every time I go by, I see people skating or playing hockey," he said. "I hope as the second semester gets going, more people will hear about it and make use of it."

Bertino said availability of a night rink will enable students to plan skating parties. "We've al-

Six East Germans who fled into the U.S. Embassy in East Berlin and asked for political asylum were escorted through the Berlin Wall to freedom in the West last night. A spokeswoman at the U.S. embassy said the six, who entered the embassy Friday, left with their East Germany lawyer who had been involved in negotiations for their passage to West Berlin. West German border guards said the five men and one woman crossed through the Berlin Wall in three cars at 9 p.m. It was not known where the East Germans were taken. The refugees were identified as Rene Faccin, 19; Bernd Apel, 43; Joerg Heikal, 23; and Bernd Macke, 28 all of East Berlin, and husband and wife Petra and Daniel Klingenberg of Potsdam. — AP

Townpeople in the mountainous resort of Whitefish, Mt., grieved yesterday for nine people killed when a school bus carrying the high school wrestling team crashed into a fuel tanker in a snowstorm. "A little bit of all of us died yesterday," Mayor James Putnam of Whitefish said of the fiery crash Saturday night that also injured 19 people. "The people of Whitefish are in shock. I'm sure that Jan. 21 will remain in the minds of Whitefish people for many, many years as one of the most tragic things that ever happened to us." The bus, carrying about 30 wrestlers, coaches, cheerleaders and others from Whitefish High School, was returning from a losing 1 match at Browning, 94 miles to the northwest. It collided with the empty fuel tanker truck on U.S. 2 and burst into flames. It was the worst traffic accident in Montana history, said Al Goke, state highway traffic director. — AP

Lebanese troops and Shiite Moslem militias fought a one-hour battle in Beirut's southern suburbs yesterday and first reports said four people, including one soldier, were wounded. The fighting was the first major confrontation between the army regulars and Shiite Moslems in the southern suburbs, adjacent to the U.S. Marine base at Beirut International Airport, in almost a month. Each side blamed the other for starting yesterday's battle. State-run Beirut Radio said formations of U.S. F-14 Tomcat jets from U.S. carriers off the coast made reconnaissance flights over the capital and the central mountains. It said four Israeli jets also crossed the skies of southern Lebanon, but no bombing was reported. Druse leader Walid Jumblatt vowed in an interview published yesterday his men would continue fighting unless the Cabinet of Prime Minister Amin Gemayel is replaced. Speaking to the Jordanian paper al-Rai, he said, "We will not stop fighting this time unless and until the Gemayel government resigns. Its staying in power would mean the complete destruction of Lebanon." He said later he was referring only to Gemayel's Cabinet and not to the president himself. — AP

Scores of demonstrators were killed when troops and police quelled riots in the past few days in the major towns of northern Morocco, diplomatic sources reported yesterday. Rumors of increases in food prices and school examination fees apparently caused the riots. It was officially denied yesterday that any increase was planned in school fees. Diplomats, insisting on anonymity, said they believed about a dozen civilians were killed in Tetouan. They said they did not have even "an approximate estimate" of the overall casualty toll. Spanish media said upwards of 200 people were killed at Tetouan, Alhoucemas, Nador, Tangier and other towns in the region. The Moroccan government imposed a total news blackout on the violence, refusing any official statement. A communique from the Ministry of Education yesterday "categorically denied" rumors that high school students preparing for final exams would have to pay fees ranging from $7 to $14. It said the fees would be unchanged at eight to 12 cents. — AP

South Bend apparently is not the only place that Mother Nature has given the cold shoulder. A tourist focuses on the Imperial Palace in Tokyo Saturday, where the morning's temperature of 27 degrees Fahrenheit was the coldest of 1984 so far. In Louisville, a towboat barges through a sheet of thin ice on the Ohio River. Temperatures fell below the zero mark across Kentucky this weekend and broke records in some areas. In Boston, firefighters Saturday morning were still pouring water on the flaming remains of a collapsed pier in the Charles River. Despite the cold, the fire had been raging for more than a day already.

began to thin, and by the afternoon, there was little if any wait to enroll. Because class schedules arrived in the mail, there was little incentive for students with correct schedules to drag themselves out of bed early, Winicur said. That kept a steady flow of students throughout the day instead of long lines in the morning.

But students with schedule mix-ups did need to enroll early. A yellow copy of the enrollment form was necessary to add or drop a class.

While students enjoyed a quick day of enrollment, Winicur was worrying how well his new enrollment procedures would work. Winicur, a former chemistry professor, took over the job in July, and "after seeing the headaches" of registration as assistant dean of science, decided to try to streamline the biannual tradition.

"I saw that a lot of what we were doing (at registration) wasn't really necessary," Winicur said. "We were asking students for information we already had."

The most important thing needed at the beginning of each semester is a quick way to count heads. "We have to know who's here and who isn't," Winicur said. Solution? Introduce the enrollment form, a simple and more direct way of counting students than a stack of computer cards.

Winicur's long-range plans call for restructuring how students add or drop classes with the possible help of the University's new Hewlett-Packard computer. Students would know before break if they have been closed out of a class, and schedule adjustments would possibly be typed directly into an "on-line" computer terminal.

But for the third week in January 1984, Winicur was satisfied with the way things were. One day after registration there were only a few students in the registrar's office, and when the flu finally caught up with the new registrar, he was able to go home for an afternoon without any problems at all.

CSC offers social concerns groups

By PAT SAIN
Senior Staff Reporter

Do you miss the pressure and the crowds at Activities Night at Stepan Center in September? Were you able to find all the groups you were interested in?

The Social Concerns Festival, which starts tomorrow night at 7 in the Center for Social Concerns, offers a second chance for students to learn about social concerns groups at Notre Dame. Notre Dame students are aware of social problems, but many of them do not see how they can relate to these problems, said Lynn Lawrence, coordinator for service and social action at the Center.

"Social work allows you to test career choices," Lawrence said. "If you choose a logical and analytical career, social work allows you to balance your life out," she said.

There are two types of social concerns groups, said Sharon Murphy, coordinator for peace opportunities at the Center. Volunteer service organizations, like the Neighborhood Study Help Program, work in the South Bend area and help tutor students. Volunteer groups also help the elderly and the handicapped.

Other social concerns groups, like Amnesty International, deal with "broad issues of peace and justice," and give information on these issues through seminars and fund-raisers.

John May, vice president of Notre Dame's Right to Life, said, "At activities night, we hope to find students interested in our Pregnancy Help Center, and our home for single mothers. We need volunteers for fund-raising, remodeling the house, and organizing our counseling and support services."

Like Right to Life, many campus and local social concerns groups will be giving information on their group. In the Center's classroom, there will be a setup similar to Fall Activity Night, with information on different groups available at the group's table.

Audio-visual presentations on specific groups will be given in the Resource Room, and the coffeehouse will be serving coffee and cookies.

Gandhi critical of U.S. policies

Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi says America cultivates dictatorships around the world while displaying indifference and a double standard toward India.

"They don't seem to be bothered about India," Mrs. Gandhi told the Associated Press during a weekend interview.

Mrs. Gandhi, who has pursued traditionally close Indian relations with the Soviet Union, also denied India is dependent on arms from the Soviet Union, its major foreign supplier.

"When we need it and we get it on attractive terms, we take it, but it's not binding us in any way," she said.

India recently moved to diversity, buying arms from Britain, France and West Germany.

"I don't want to be sounding as if I am anti-U.S., because I am not at all," said the 66-year-old leader of some 700 million Indians.

"But you see, the administration talks of democracy but actually whom does it help? The majority are not democratic. They help dictatorships of one kind or another."

Asked if by dictatorships she meant countries such as Pakistan, the Philippines and South Korea, which got U.S. aid, Mrs. Gandhi said yes: "and in Africa also, you know, Latin America and so on."

She said she and other government leaders are frustrated "that we're trying to keep our country democratic, but what do you get for it in terms of better relations with the Western democracies?"

Mrs. Gandhi, who also heads the 100-country group of non-aligned nations, said good relations with President Reagan and Britain's Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher are "personal. From the point of view of policy, their views are entirely opposed to ours."

Mrs. Gandhi restated her objections to the U.S. shipment of arms to neighboring Pakistan. She said in some areas, Pakistan is "about a decade ahead" of India in weaponry.

Michiganders buying Indiana beer

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Michigan residents are saying "no" to their state and "yes" to Indiana by purchasing alcoholic beverage supplies at numerous retail outlets along the border of the two states.

Michigan authorities began cracking down on smuggling of "imported" alcoholic beverages a few weeks ago, enforcing a law passed in 1980 by Michigan's Legislature. The law limits the amount and types of alcoholic beverages purchased in Indiana by Michigan residents.

"Oh, they're (Michigan customers) angry," said Connie Williams, night manager at a liquor store located only 2 miles south of the Niles, Mich., border.

"A couple of our Michigan customers are hoping to fight the purchasing limitations on constitutional grounds. One man said he couldn't wait until they caught him," she said.

The 'they' are two agents dispatched in December by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission's licensing and enforcement division to Indiana communities that border the Michigan state line.

The agents' job is to monitor liquor, beer and wine purchases by Michigan residents that exceed state imposed limits.

Michigan law prohibits residents from purchasing more than two gallons of wine and one case of beer per trip to an Indiana outlet. Hard liquors shouldn't be purchased at all, explained Roger Rosendale, head of the commission's licensing and enforcement division.

"Violators can be fined up to $100 and have their liquor and vehicle impounded by the state, depending on the size of purchase," he said.

sees his time as very well spent. Despite the long hours and suit and tie formalities of the chamber, "I've really enjoyed it," he said.

Accepting the job meant certain sacrifices. "I make $125 a week, but that does not cover my expenses. I went to summer school to enable me to still graduate on time," he added. Yet, it has been well worth it.

Michael Jones looks forward to once again walking the North Quad next fall, but for now he is content with hustling down the busy corridors of political power in the Indiana House.

Besides parties being planned for the future, Bertino expressed hopes for expanding the rink next year. "It all depends on the response this year — if it works it will become a tradition every winter. I think it's great and I'm glad the University is allowing us to create new options for using our free time. I just hope the rink will be used a lot."

Holy Cross Associates: a valuable experience

During my senior year at Saint Mary's, watching my friends choose their post-graduation paths fascinated me. Some went to medical school, others joined the Big Eight and others impressed me with their patience, waiting for the "perfect job."

Along with 22 other college seniors, I chose

M. J. Murray

Guest column

Holy Cross Associates. We committed ourselves to support and explore with each other community lifestyle, abandonment of material luxury and service to those in need. Already having experienced the program, I tend to want to list what I actually gained from it instead of my original dreams, goals and expectations.

Choosing the Associates program is a big decision. There is no way of knowing exactly what you are getting into. HCA is definitely a risk, but so is any other post-graduate choice. Is any accountant guaranteed that public accounting will be risk-free?

Not everyone is called to be an Associate, but I believe it would be a beneficial experience for anyone. I have never regretted my choice. Two years ago I was afraid that stepping out of academia for a year would keep me from returning to get the law degree I've always wanted. I tend to rush through life, trying to accomplish everything now.

My experience as an Associate helped me learn the value of living in the present — to live my present opportunities and allow them to evolve into future ones. To have enough faith to quit planning my future so that all bases are covered. To let go of concrete plans so I could step back and see if they were right for me. Much of the credit for these realizations, some of which were painful, must go to the many senior citizens I shared my year with.

Last July I left Colorado Springs, my four Associate housemates and new friends to become a full-time Notre Dame employee. I work part-time as administrator at the Senior Bar and part time on the staff of the Holy Cross Associates.

Initially only the other staff members joked that I could work at Moreau Seminary (where HCA is based) by day and recruit at Senior Bar by night. I have yet to take full advantage of my position at Senior Bar (I haven't shown the HCA slide show there), but I have met quite a few seniors interested in HCA. This contact has allowed me to learn the major misconceptions people have about the Associates.

Many think the program is the first step toward priesthood or sisterhood. While some Associates have chosen this route, it by no means is the aim of the program. Through my experience as an Associate I became much more aware and responsible for my role in the church.

Participating in the local Hispanic parish was a wonderful support system. It helped me meet people living out their Christian beliefs at their workplace, with their families and in their community. These people deeply inspired me and helped me realize that I could combine a degree in business with my heart's desires.

The HCA experience gave me strength to follow my heart — to break away from the expectations of others and, with God's help, to decide what was best for me.

Another fallacy about HCA is that it will change one's entire life. A person's life changes drastically when the diploma is in hand. How one develops from then on is not only a personal choice, but an individual responsibility.

I wanted life to consist of more than eight to five and a station wagon. I wanted to discover parts of myself yet untapped — to think with a far more open mind, feel more sincerely, and love with more faith.

I wanted to continue to put in perspective my need for material possessions, and be surrounded by others who wanted to live life, not purchase it. For me the Associates was the right place to continue developing these parts of myself.

I cannot imagine what my life would be like without my Associate experience. Many new aspects of my life opened up. My desire to attend law school is still there, but the urgency is gone. Knowing that law school will be there in years to come has given me strength to forge on and test myself in other areas, rather than making rash judgments for short-term security.

If you would like to learn more about the Holy Cross Associates, see Mary Ann Roemer at the Center for Social Concerns soon. This year's application deadline is Feb. 3.

Wednesday fast

Dear Notre Dame students,

Over the Christmas holidays several World Hunger Coalition members had the pleasure of sending checks to development programs to help the poor throughout the world.

We sent aid to groups in India, Bangladesh, Peru and to others here in the South Bend community. With joy, we also received Christmas greetings and progress reports from several of the agencies we support.

We would like to pass on their thanks. The money sent by the World Hunger Coalition was the fruit of your sacrifice last semester and the continued cooperation of the administration. Thank you for your generous participation in the fast.

The goals of the World Hunger Coalition and of the Wednesday-lunch fast are threefold: education, direct aid and personal and spiritual growth. Our hope is that the fast served all of these purposes for you last semester and we invite you to an even fuller participation this spring.

If you would like to know more about the problems of World Hunger, or about the organizations which are receiving funds from us, please indicate this when you sign-up for the fast.

Better yet, come to our next general meeting. (Watch The Observer for time and place.) Your input would be appreciated. We plan to start a prayer and study group during Wednesday lunch hours for fasters who are interested. We are also preparing several news releases on the groups we support.

The agencies that we support will be reexamined this semester and other projects will be considered. We have set a monetary goal of $12,000 in aid this semester. Your help is needed here as well.

Although this past semester the administration raised the amount of money it gives us per meal from $.75 to $1, we will still need a 50 percent increase in participation to reach this lofty goal.

Therefore, we ask each of you not only to continue to participate but to convince a friend to join (only 10 percent of all undergraduates participated last semester.) Sign-ups for this spring will be Wednesday and Thursday during lunch and dinner at the dining halls.

Finally, we invite you to use the fast this semester as a tool for your own personal and spiritual growth. It is an invitation to sharing and solidarity with the poor. We are offering you the opportunity to give from your substance, not merely your excess and to receive the peace of one who hungers for justice.

We would like to share with you a few thoughts that James Mundell, the president of a development group called the Chol-Chol Foundation, sent to us in his Christmas wish:

"No man can eat dessert before every man can eat bread. It is urgent that we learn to work with the poor in developing countries: to live with them; to forget about charity and hand-outs — and bullets. 'Without sharing there is no justice. Without justice there can be no peace.' Let us be intranquil. Let us reflect. Let us resolve. Let us seek justice. Peace will follow."

Thank you again for your participation last semester. Let's try to make this semester's fast an even greater success.

Concerning my article of Nov. 29, "There's no business like bowl business," I hereby publicly retract the unwarranted characterization of Oklahoma and Nebraska as "academic slums." My apologies to all offended parties.

The real top 10 of 1983

by Marc Ramirez
features columnist

Every year, in the latter days of December and leading into the early days of the next year's January, all the movie critics sit down and start figuring out which of the last year's movies should be in their "Top Ten of the Year." It may all be very confusing to you, but to them it's a lot of fun, and so this year, they did it again. They sat around and went back through their files and cast away such films as "Flashdance," "Yor: Hunter from the Future," and "Strange Brew." Then they went eeny-miny-mo through the remaining movies and picked their Top Ten.

In their Top Ten they included such achievements as "Silkwood," "Terms of Endearment," "War Games," and "The Right Stuff." I'll have to admit that those are pretty good movies. I mean, I totally loved Meryl Streep's Oklahoma accent; and the general's "After careful thought and consideration, I've come to the conclusion that your defense plan sucks" in "War Games" was one of my favorite lines of the year.

But the critics were wrong. Oh sure, they think they picked the Top Ten, but then, critics always think their opinion is sacred. Here is the real Top Ten of 1983, movies that didn't even get a nod from the critics, movies that weren't shown in most public theatres because they were too avant-garde for people to understand.

Wilkwood. The story of Jamaal Wilkwood, a Notre Dame student who mysteriously falls over dead one day in his dormitory room after investigating his theory that Observer and Dome photos have been retouched in order to make Irish guard Dan Duff appear six feet tall. The role is played brilliantly by Robert Blake, and the musical score by Adam and the Ants makes Wilkwood one of the year's best.

Dirty Harry Meets the Tremendous Build-Up of Mold and Bacteria. Clint Eastwood is at it again, portraying his character of Harry Callahan and trying to justify vigilante justice as he performs the inspection of Notre Dame food sales operations. Breaking down doors at will, Dirty Harry uses his .44 Magnum to blow away filthy toasters and microwave ovens. When a mouse seems to contemplate attack in one memorable scene, Harry aims and sneers, "Go on, punk. Make my breakfast."

The Big Big Chill. Barry Manilow and Susan Sarandon head a brilliant cast in this story of eight Notre Dame juniors who return from Spring Break only to discover that they have been lotteried off campus. As off-campus housing is either nonexistent or in Elkhart, the eight are forced to face the South Bend winter elements. Bob Hope is brilliant as the comedian whose USO show arrives just moments too late as they freeze to death in the snow.

Tootsie and Yentl and Victor/Victoria. Dustin Hoffman, Barbra Streisand, and Julie Andrews recreate their brilliant roles in a simple story about a man posing as a woman who falls in love with a woman posing as a man. In the public's eye they are a man and woman in love, but only the man and woman know that they are really a woman and a man. The fun of the plot is complicated when the man posing as a woman becomes a lover to the woman posing as a man posing as a woman and the woman posing as a man gets upset. However, the woman posing as a man posing as a woman doesn't know that the man who hangs around with the man she loves is really a woman posing as a man, and so the woman posing as a man poses as a woman in order to gain entry to where the woman posing as a man posing as a woman is posing as a man and kills her. The movie is enhanced greatly by the music of Culture Club.

Lettuce Serve You 3-D. Just when you thought it was safe to go back into the dining hall, director Dino DeLaurentis brings this motion picture epic to the screen. Academy Awards galore should go to Phil Dupp, who produced the spectacular special effects in this film. It really hits the fan this time, seeming to fly out at you in the audience in a potpourri of veal, meatcake and gravy. Dee Wallace is brilliant as a dining hall worker who takes matters into her own gloves and saves the day.

On a Roll. This educational documentary recounts the five days from December 4 to December 8 when a Midwestern university held an event known as "Charmin Week" when it discovered that its students were fans of the toilet paper. Mr. Whipple made a cameo appearance and gave away a year's supplies of Charmin to lucky winners. Contests were also held in which groups of four students apiece ran from one end of a large lawn to the other holding a roll of Charmin. One end of the roll was tacked to a pole, and the object was to avoid tearing the paper. The movie reveals a growing concern among American college students for intellectual social activity.

Your Money or Your Life. Martin Sheen is brilliant in this story of a Notre Dame student who refuses to pay a late fee bill of $1.25 from the Memorial Library. His dormroom water and heat are mysteriously turned off, and at registration he is informed that all of his classes are closed. At the dining hall he is constantly served veal no matter what the entree is that night. Angie Dickinson plays the counselor who pays $1.24 of the library bill.

How To Succeed in Life Without Really Trying. This film tells the story of three stockholders of the Notre Dame bookstore and their personal troubles as they sit back and collect dividends from early semester book sales. William Hurt, Sissy Spacek, and Terry Bradshaw are brilliant in the roles. The drama is intense as they face the everyday crisis of withdrawing thousands of dollars from their bank accounts. Carrie Fisher is also brilliant in the minor role of a Notre Dame student who loses her entire savings to the high bookstore prices.

Honorable Mentions: Quiet Riot Dines Out at the Emporium, and Father Dearest.

The internationally known architect, Walter Netsch has gathered works of such artists as Albers, Dine, Hofmann, Noland, Youngerman, Rickey and Oldenburg.

The exhibit, sponsored by the Walter R. Beardsley Endowment for Twentieth Century Art is located in the O'Shaughnessy Galleries and will remain there until March 24. Gallery Hours are weekdays from 10 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. and on weekends from 1 to 5 p.m. Evening hours are Thursdays from 7 to 9.

At the Hammes and Moreau Galleries

Special to The Observer

Two exhibitions currently occupy the Moreau Gallery Three at Saint Mary's College. They will be on display until February 17.

"The Indiana Printmakers Exhibition" in the Moreau Gallery will feature the works of 19 artists who work and teach printmaking in the state. Each artist has contributed two to three pieces that he or she has completed within the last three years.

"Marilyn Sward: Paper Scrolls, An Incorporation of Photographic and Handmade Paper Processes" will be featured in the Hammes and Little Theatre Galleries.

Founder of the "Paper Press" in Chicago, Sward has exhibited nationally since 1977 and currently is affiliated with Van Straaten Gallery in Chicago.

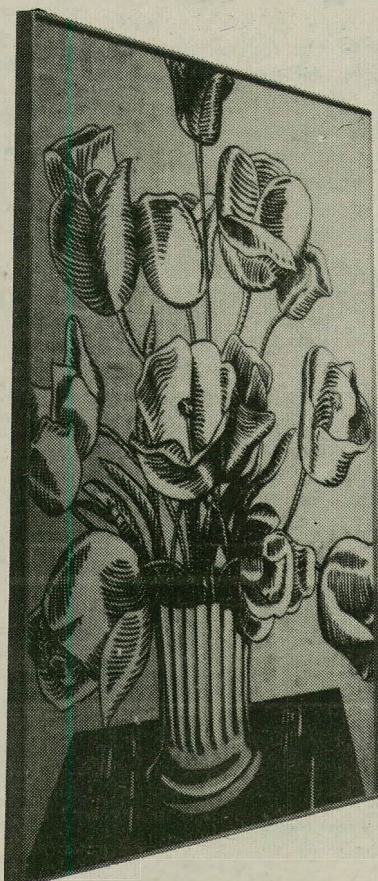

Sward's work "communicates meaning, riddles and mysteries of our inner natures in a sensitive balance of what is contained within and without." She examines a mystical, metaphorical center of universal being in intimate fragments of paper, writing and image. Delicate cyanotype and gum bichroinate photographic images are collaged against paper formed with an expressive painterly gesture from natural fibers such as kozo abaca and cotton.

A graduate of the University of Illinois, Sward has served as a member of the art faculty at Columbia College, Illinois-Chicago Circle and her alma mater. She also has lectured as a guest artist at Northwestern University and the Art Institute of Chicago.

Sward recently completed the book, "The New Photography," with Catherine Reeve.

Moreau Gallery Three is open from 9:30 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday. There is no admission charge.

Kentucky ends Houston streak

LEXINGTON, Ken. (AP) — Sophomore Kenny Walker scored 20 points and senior Mel Turpin added 19 as third-ranked Kentucky snapped the six-game college basketball winning streak of fourth-ranked Houston 74-67 yesterday.

Sam Bowie dominated the boards, grabbing 18 rebounds for the 14-2 Wildcats, while Houston fell to 16-3.

Akeem Olajuwon, the Cougars' 7-foot center, was in foul trouble much of the game before fouling out with 6:14 remaining and Kentucky leading 61-54.

Alvin Franklin, Houston's sophomore guard who finished with a game-high 25 points, kept the Cougars in the game.

Houston pulled to within 70-67 with 1:58 remaining as Franklin hit his 10th straight point.

The nationally televised (CBS) game then became a foul shooting contest as the Cougars fouled in order to break up the Wildcats' stalling tactics.

Freshman Winston Bennett made three of four free throws in the last 31 seconds to cushion the Kentucky margin. He finished with 11 points.

Michael Young added 19 and Olajuwon contributed 14 for Houston.

Houston led at the start 7-0 and 11-1 before Kentucky got rolling as Bowie collected 10 rebounds in the first half. After three ties Kentucky led at halftime 35-31.

Walker's alley-oop stuff with 8:00 left gave the Wildcats their largest margin 61-51.

Kentucky, which suffered its only losses last week, now has won two straight.

Helping Bowie on the boards were Turpin with 11 rebounds and Walker with 10 as Kentucky outrebounded the Southwest Conference team 51-45. Olajuwon had 12 rebounds and blocked five shots.

Kentucky outshot Houston from the floor 49 percent to 34, helping overcome 24 turnovers to the Cougars' 13.

starting lineup.

"We'll be ready to play," assures Suits. "The biggest problem the team may have is maybe being intimidated because we're playing up there, but we're hoping we can play the game up to our potential."

"Our total lack of size is our biggest weakness," says Suits. "We have to play against people like (Houston's Akeem Abdul) Olajuwon in the conference, so we have to deal with that in every game."

The Irish have shown a good deal of improvement from their first games of the season. Notre Dame needs to gain some momentum to take it into the game against Maryland on an upbeat note.

Captain Tom Sluby has been increasing his scoring punch, averaging over 19 points for the last seven games.

Scott Hicks and Joe Howard have registered two straight solid performances, giving the Irish a needed resurgence in the backcourt.

Suits has a high opinion of the Notre Dame team.

"Coach Phelps is on the verge of having a very good team," says Suits. "I have been very impressed with the way they have been playing. They have a lot of talent."

IRISH ITEMS — Tonight's contest against Rice is the first of three home games for the Irish this week. On Wednesday night, the Irish will try to avenge last season's loss to Davidson. Sixth-ranked Maryland visits on Saturday at 1 p.m. in front of a national television audience.

Big Ten roundup

No. 10 Illinois beats No. 19 Purdue

"Possessed" by the grim memory of blowing a 20-point lead in a 56-54 defeat to Purdue last year, the Illini took control of the Boilermakers this time around.

"We remember last year — there was no way we were going to let them get back in the game," a pumped-up Illinois center George Montgomery said after the Illini hammered visiting Purdue 76-52 Saturday night.

It was 19th-ranked Purdue's first Big Ten loss and dropped the Boilermakers into a tie with No. 10 Illinois for the league lead. Both clubs are 4-1 in conference play.

Illinois tossed in its last eight shots of the first half and shot 60 percent from the floor overall. Purdue managed only 40 percent of its shots, and hulking, 245-pound center Jim Rowinski — whose 18-footer at the horn sealed Purdue's comeback against Illinois last year — failed to score a point until 26 minutes had passed. He wound up with six points — 10 below his average.

"We were possessed," said Montgomery, who swarmed about the middle to isolate Rowinski from Purdue's playmaking guards. "There was nothing they could do tonight. Probably because we were at home and it was a (Assembly Hall) sellout, helped."

Going into halftime with another 20-point bulge, 38-18, Illini players went around to each other saying, "Not this time."

It was Illinois' most resounding victory against Purdue since 1965.

"It was very simple," said Purdue Coach Gene Keady. "They were ready for us. It didn't make any difference that we spent all week running their offense in practice. We wasted our time. We might as well have stayed home and studied."

"We were never in this game," he continued. "What happened last year was once in a lifetime. They were just determined not to let it happen again."

Quinn Richardson led Illinois, 13-2 overall, with 14 points, Montgomery had 13, Doug Altenberger 12 and Scott Meents 11. Steve Reid paced Purdue, 11-4 in all games, with 14 points.

In Ann Arbor, Tim McCormick's game-high 16 points boosted Michigan to a 55-50 victory over Indiana, but the game paled beside fireworks between the two opposing coaches, who claimed to have been friends beforehand.

The Hoosiers' Bobby Knight exploded in rage after he overheard Wolverine court boss Bill Frieder urge the referee to assess Knight another technical foul on top of one he had already received.

"It burns me to get that kind of treatment from a guy I've helped out more than any coach in the country," said Knight. "I don't like being used, and Bill Frieder has used me."

Frieder told reporters, "he may not be my friend any more, but he's the best basketball coach in the country. ... I can't understand Knight. Can you guys?"

Michigan improved to 12-4 overall and 4-2 in the Big Ten. Freshman Steve Alford led Indiana, 10-5 and 3-2, with 12 points.

In Evanston, Art Aaron posted 17 points and Northwestern, 9-6 overall and 2-3 in the league, overcame a sorry 12-for-25 performance at the line to edge Minnesota 52-50 in overtime.

Andre Goode, held scoreless for 37 minutes, scored two tying baskets near the end of regulation time, then add the extra period. Tommy Davis led Minnesota, 10-5 and -4, with 15 points.

Elsewhere, Greg Stokes sank 23 points as Iowa downed visiting Wisconsin 75-62. The Hawkeyes, 9-6 and 2-3, limited high-scoring Badger guard Ricky Olson to eight points. Wisconsin, 7-8 and 3-3, was led by Cory Blackwell's 26 points.

In East Lansing, Tony Campbell rang up 25 points as Ohio State, 9-6 and 2-3, dealt Michigan State its fifth straight Big Ten loss, 82-68. The Spartans, 7-8 and 1-5, were spearheaded by Scott Skiles with 24 points.

Wisconsin plays at Minnesota on Wednesday, and on Thursday Iowa meets Ohio State, Northwestern faces Indiana, Michigan is at Purdue and Michigan State at Illinois.

... Hockey

shorthanded.

Parsons tallied the lone Notre Dame goal in the second period. St. Norbert finally got on the board at the 18:27 mark, but trailed 7-1. At 11:47 Notre Dame's Rob Ricci was stopped by St. Norbert goalie Dave King on a penalty shot after a St. Norbert defenseman had covered the puck in the goal crease.

Whitmore completed his hat trick in the third period, notching two goals within 38 seconds beginning at 8:17.

"It felt great," said Whitmore. "I settled down, gained some confidence and was ready to play good hockey. Everything worked out."

St. Norbert picked up its final goal as Bart Bagnett slid one past Irish goalie Marc Guay at 18:19 of the period.

John Lucas finished off the Notre Dame scoring with just 47 seconds remaining. It was his first goal as a Notre Dame hockey player.

Guay had 19 saves in recording the victory. St. Norbert's King had 42.

The losses drop St. Norbert to 4-12 on the season.

This year's Irish hockey team now holds the school record for consecutive games without a loss. It also set the record for the longest unbeaten streak at home.

Notre Dame travels to Lake Forest on Wednesday evening to take on the Foresters in an 8:30 p.m. contest.

A key to Saturday's victory over the Wildcats was the strong defensive play of Ken Barlow and Tim Kempton on All-American candidate Ed Pinckney. The dynamic duo held the Villanova star to five points before Pinckney fouled out of the game. The nationally televised game should be a big lift for the young Irish, as they gained confidence at the free-throw line by making clutch charity shots. Tonight's game against Rice, which starts at 8 p.m. at the ACC, should be an interesting one, because if Notre Dame suffers too big a let down after their victory, they could be beaten.

Great depth

Women fencers look impressive

By MICHAEL J. CHMIEL
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's fencing team, now in its thirteenth year, will be looking for its twelfth consecutive winning season under the direction of Coach Mike DeCicco as they begin 1984 with a record of 1-1 going into this past weekend's action.

The Irish, who boast a 124-45 record since their beginning, will be looking to improve on last year's 17-6 mark and 12th place finish in the NCAA tournament.

In the fourth year of his five year building plan, Coach DeCicco will look to replace two outstanding athletes in Susan Valdiserri (.725 career winning percentage for four years) and Charlotte Albertson (51 victories in 1983).

Providing experience and leadership on this year's lady foil squad are Senior Co-Captains Mary Shilts and Sharon DiNicola. Shilts, who achieved a 31-25 record last year, will be an anchor for the team at one of the top starting positions. After meets against Pennsylvania and Cornell, Shilts was 2-2.

Di Nicola, a three year starter who will be in the number one or two slot, has won the Dit Lansford award twice and boasts a 80-67 lifetime record. After the Cornell match last Tuesday, Di Nicola was 4-0 as she proved to be the key figure in the 10-6 Irish win over Cornell.

Coach DeCicco will look to Shilts and Di Nicola to provide steady leadership for his young and inexperienced team throughout this year.

One freshman who is rapidly establishing herself as a strong foiler is Pia Albertson (4-0) who finished sixth in the United States Fencing Association (USFA) Collegiate Open on January 14th. According to DeCicco, Albertson boasts international experience and will be a great asset to the team.

Another outstanding freshman who would have solidified the squad was Michelle Madon. According to DeCicco, however, she has chosen to leave Notre Dame after her first semester in order to prepare for the Junior World Championships to be held in Leningrad, Russia, over Easter.

Madon who was ranked third among the Junior Olympians in the United States last year will be missed. However, the Irish have other capable fencers including freshman Cindy Weeks (2-1) and Sophomore Janet Sullivan (2-0) who will compete for starting positions along with Senior Kathy Morrison.

Besides these top fencers, the Irish will maintain a team of great depth with 16 women on the squad. "It certainly is nice to have depth," commented DeCicco. "Last year we searched for the right chemistry; now we have seniors with bout experience and freshmen who are going to make a mark for themselves."

DePaul defeats disappointing Irish

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Editor

CHICAGO — This past week will not go down in history as one of the highlights of the Notre Dame women's basketball team's 1983-84 season. Three games, three losses, including Saturday night's 62-46 loss to conference rival DePaul in Alumni Hall.

Now, with the season quickly going downhill, Irish coach Mary DiStanislao has declared that some major changes will be made.

"In the next five days (before Friday's game against Evansville), there will be some changes made," warned DiStanislao. "For the past two games we've spent time groping for the right combination among the regulars. We still haven't found it."

Saturday's game is not the only reason for the change, which was becoming more and more imminent, but the team's lifeless performance in the first half was the last straw.

The half represented the team's worst performance in at least two years. Poor shooting, poor rebounding, and poor defense took the Irish out of the game almost from the opening tip. They fell behind 36-16 before the half mercifully ended.

"DePaul was ready to play a basketball game and we weren't," said DiStanislao. "They felt their loss to Loyola (last week) was a fluke and they played like a team ready to make up for it. They didn't shoot great, but they executed very well."

After falling behind 11-4 early, Notre Dame made a brief run at the Blue Demons, pulling to within three points. A few minutes later, though, the Irish were barely within shouting distance as DePaul's Barb Atsaves and Janine Douglas led a rally that saw the Demons outscore the Irish, 25-8, over the next ten minutes.

Notre Dame's failure to make its shots (7-of-35 in the half) and DePaul's 27-20 dominance of the boards kept the Irish from even making a run at the lead. Only once in the half did they make more than one unanswered basket.

"Our rebounding situation in the first half was horrendous," said DiStanislao. "We got good shots, but we didn't take them. We also didn't go to the basket because we were afraid to get fouls."

"Our intent is to get good shots that fall and you hope to shoot 60-70 percent. We didn't anticipate missing, though, and we just waited for DePaul to lay down and die."

The Blue Demons did not die, although it looked like they might after an entirely new Irish lineup scored nine unanswered points to get back into the game. However, DePaul guard Judy Banathy got open for an easy basket and Notre Dame quickly lost its composure. Three straight traveling violations effectively took the Irish out of the game completely.

All was not bad, though, as Trena Keys and Lynn Ebben led a patchwork lineup to a 30-26 edge in the second half. This would not be too impressive if DePaul had cleared its bench when it had things well in hand. However, Demon coach Ron Feiereisel, who will not win any Mr. Congeniality contests, left almost his entire starting lineup in the game until the buzzer.

Irish give a hoot about the Owls

By THERON ROBERTS
Sports Writer

The Rice Owls take a breather from its rugged Southwestern Conference schedule and journey north from Houston to face the Irish at the Athletic and Convocation Center tonight, with the action starting at 8 p.m.

This will be only the second meeting between Notre Dame and Rice. The first game between the two schools resulted in a 105-61 Irish rout during the 1978-79 season.

The Owls have struggled so far this year but have turned in good performances in recent losses to Texas and Texas Tech.

Tommy Suits, third-year coach of the Owls, has only three seniors on his team, and is in the midst of rebuilding the Rice program. The Owls have not had a winning season in basketball for 13 years.

"I am pleased with the way we have played so far this season, but we wish we could have a couple more wins to our credit," Suits says. "We have played pretty well the last five games."

That was before the Owls fell to Southwestern Conference opponent Houston, 72-42, Friday night.

Rice suffered from many misfortunes last year that contributed to its 8-20 record.

Four of its top players did not play part of the 1982-83 season, allowing the younger members of the Rice squad to gain playing experience.

Two of those players, Tracy Steele and Ivan Pettitt, were called on from the bench to start the last 11 games of the season for the Owls. They head the list of backcourt players again this season.

Pettitt, a 6-1 sophomore point guard, is the second-leading scorer for the Owls this season with a 9.7 scoring average. Although Pettitt, according to his coach, has been hampered by "inconsistent shooting" recently, his quickness is a valuable asset, as he leads Rice in assists and steals.

Steele will start at the other guard position. The 6-4 junior is scoring at a 8.2 clip.

The leading scorer for the Owls is 6-8 junior forward Tony Barnett. Suits says that Barnett has played well lately, and has assumed a leadership role among his teammates. Barnett carries a 10.8 scoring average and is also tops in rebounding for the Owls.

Joining Barnett at forward is 6-7 sophomore Terrence Cashaw. Cashaw contributes 9.5 points per game to the Rice attack.

Mike Cunningham (9.3 scoring average) will start at center. The 6-8 senior rounds out the balanced Owl

Irish make crucial free throws, control Pinckney, beat Villanova

By WILL HARE
Sports Writer

For the Irish, it was a mighty important win.

After a half-season of missed foul shots and last second losses, the Notre Dame basketball team went on national television and picked up an 81-68 decision over Villanova at the ACC.

While the visiting Wildcats (6-8) didn't enter with an impressive record, the Irish finally beat a "big-name" school and shut down an All-American in the process.

His name is Ed Pinckney and while he is one of the top players in the country, Jim Dolan and the rest of the Notre Dame defense responded to the test by holding him to a season-low 5 points.

"Today we tried to sag and take away his (Pinckney's) inside game," said Irish captain Tom Sluby. "I think we did this pretty well — as you could tell by the final score."

The aggressive defense and offensive sparks from Joe Howard and Scott Hicks off the bench keyed the Irish, now 10-5.

Howard, a 5-9 junior playing in just his fifth game since joining the squad after the football season, scored all of his 11 points in the second half while sparking a defense which created 20 Villanova turnovers.

"He's an athlete and athletes come to play," said Wildcat coach Rollie Massimino. "He gives them (Notre Dame) a very nice addition in the backcourt."

"Joe is that little spark that we need with the loss of Dan Duff," adds Digger Phelps. "He helps to create offensive situations. He helped us get into an up-tempo game."

The up-tempo attack forced Villanova into grave foul difficulties the Irish continually exploited.

By the end of the game, five Wildcats (including four starters) fouled out, giving Notre Dame enough free throw practice to last them until the NCAA tournament. Villanova picked up 37 fouls to just 19 for Notre Dame. The Irish earned the victory by going to the line 34 times in the last five minutes of the game.

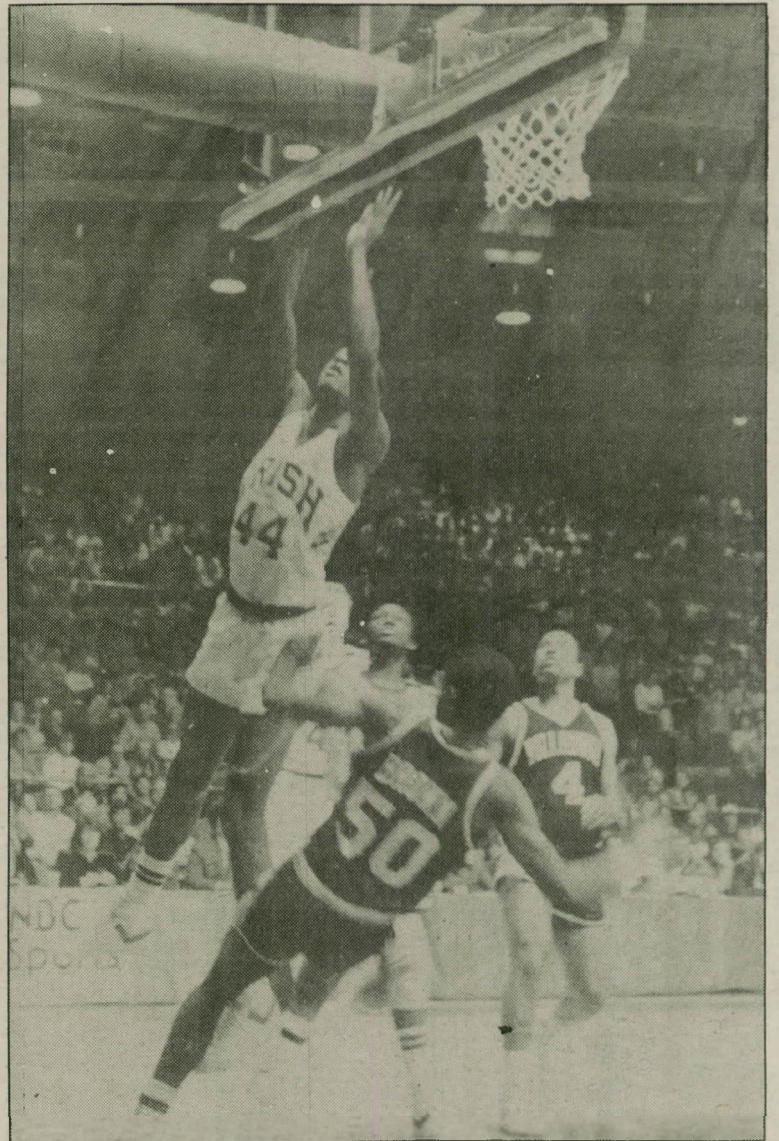

Tom Sluby again proved himself the leader, scoring a game-high 23 points.

Sluby, a 6-4 senior, netted 10 of 17 shots to pace the Notre Dame attack for the fifth time in the last six games.

"He's our star," stated Phelps. "Sometimes I don't think he realizes how good he is."

Notre Dame trailed 29-23 at halftime after Villanova's Dwight Wilbur scored on a four-point play

see MEN, page 8

Saturday, the Irish defeated Villanova in a nationally televised game, 81-68. Ken Barlow was a dominant force on defense, and went six-for-six in free-throws. Tonight Notre Dame faces Rice at the ACC. See Will Hare's story at left and Theron Roberts story on page 10.

Marcus Allen MVP

Bad boy Raiders whip Redskins

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Marcus Allen rushed for a record 191 yards, including a 74-yard touchdown run, and the Los Angeles defense shut down Washington's John Riggins and Joe Theismann as the Raiders crushed the defending champion Redskins 38-9 yesterday in the most lopsided Super Bowl ever.

Understudies Derrick Jensen and Jack Squirek turned alert defensive plays into instant first-half touchdowns before Allen, a unanimous selection as the game's Most Valuable Player, broke loose in the second half and paced the Raiders to a Super Bowl record 38 points.

Allen picked up his yardage on 20 carries and broke the record of 166 rushing yards set by Riggins in last year's 27-17 Washington victory over the Miami Dolphins.

Jensen, a reserve tight end and LA's special teams captain, blocked Jeff Hayes' punt and fell on it in the end zone for a touchdown 4:52 into the game. Squirek, a backup linebacker, intercepted Theismann's screen pass and burst five yards for a score just seven seconds before halftime.

Between those scores, Jim Plunkett passed 12 yards to Cliff Branch for a second-period touchdown and Allen applied the coup de grace in the third quarter with two touchdowns — running five and a Super Bowl record 74 yards to put the Raiders safely in command for their third Super Bowl triumph.

The Redskins had been 3-point favorites to win their second successive Super Bowl — but by holding Riggins to 64 yards and Washington's only touchdown on a 1-yard dive in the third period, the Raiders became the only team besides the Pittsburgh Steelers to win more than two. The Steelers won four times in the 1970's.

Three plays served to propel the Raiders to this victory over a team which, at 14-2 was the best in the National Football League during the regular season — Squirek's interception, Allen's big run, and between them, a defensive stand that stopped Riggins on fourth-and-one at the LA 26 late in the third quarter. If that wasn't enough, the defense also blocked a Washington extra-point attempt and forced a Theismann fumble that ended a Redskins threat in the fourth period.

The Redskins never were really in the game. Riggins' run typified the Redskins' frustration on this day.

With the Raiders holding a 14-3 lead, Ray Guy's 27-yard punt buried the Redskins at their 12-yard line with 12 seconds remaining in the first half. Theismann brought his team to the line with three receivers split wide to the right, apparently ready to try for a bomb.

Instead, he only looked to his right, then turned to his left, where Joe Washington was a step outside defensive end Lyle Alzado. Theismann lofted the ball toward his all-purpose back but Squirek, sweeping to his right, stepped between them, grabbed the ball and was in the end zone in a flash.

The Raiders' bench erupted, Coach Tom Flores grinning widely while his players danced around. On the other sideline, Coach Joe Gibbs muttered what for him what must have been an expletive at what had become a 21-3 halftime deficit.

Hoodlum hockey

Perfect Irish beat and defeat St. Norbert's

By ED DOMANSKY
Sports Writer

"Turn out the lights, the party's over." For the Green Knights of St. Norbert College, this familiar little line was echoing in their minds, not just as this weekend's hockey games drew to a close, but right from the early stages as well. The over-matched Knights fell victim to a far-superior Notre Dame squad by identical 10-2 scores.

Notre Dame is now 15-0-0 overall and 9-0-0 in the Central States Collegiate Hockey League.

Friday evening St. Norbert scored early in the game, but never scored again until the Irish, led by two goal efforts from co-captain Brent Chapman and Mark Benning, had put nine goals of their own on the board.

On Saturday, Notre Dame grabbed a 6-0 lead after one period, and never looked back. Steve Whitmore scored the hat trick to pace the Irish attack.

The scrappy St. Norbert team gave its all trying to keep up with the high-flying Irish, but found little success.

"They couldn't skate with us," said Chapman. "They were just hacking us. It's pretty frustrating and hard to keep your cool."

"They were a physical team," said Notre Dame head coach Lefty Smith. "They try to intimidate their opposition to slow them down. We just had too much skating ability and as a result, the games were so one-sided."

After Joe Ventimiglio gave St. Norbert a quick 1-0 lead just 1:36 into Friday's contest, Chapman, Mike Metzler and Tim Reilly struck for Notre Dame to give it a 3-1 lead after one period.

Chapman put the Irish up by three with his second goal of the game one minute into the second period. Benning followed with both of his goals, less than three minutes apart, before the midway point of the period to put Notre Dame up 6-1. Both Benning goals were powerplay efforts.

The St. Norbert intimidation worked well to aggravate the Notre Dame players, but did little to aid the Knights overall cause. Ninety-nine minutes in penalties were assessed on the evening, forty-five against the Irish.

At the 3:17 mark of the final stanza, tempers flared when St. Norbert's Mike Garland punched Notre Dame goaltender Tim Lukenda. Benning retaliated in an effort to protect his goalie levelled Garland. When everything finally settled, six players had been ejected and would miss Saturday's game as well.

Gone for St. Norbert were Garland, Chuck Taffe and Nick Candotti. Notre Dame played without the services of Benning, Steve Ely and Tim Reilly.

"Anytime anyone even touches your goaltender, it's like an unwritten rule that you protect him," said Benning. "And I tried to protect him."

The Irish turned on the red light four more times in third period as four different players connected. Whitmore, Bob Thebeau, Tom Parent and Adam Parsons picked up the goals. Parsons and Whitmore scored the third and fourth Notre Dame powerplay goals on the night. Scott Bunting beat Lukenda at 14:05 for the second St. Norbert goal.

Lukenda needed just 17 saves to earn the victory.

On Saturday, the Green Knights were never in the game. Despite the continuous intimidation, Notre Dame played a more disciplined game.

"We played much better hockey tonight," said the Irish mentor Smith. "After being off for so long, it was quite nice to do well."

In the first period, the Irish picked up six goals for an insurmountable lead. Chapman, Parent, Whitmore, Metzler, Tony Bonadio and Dave Waldbillig tallied the goals. Two of the goals came while the Irish were

see HOCKEY, page 10

Steve Ely and the rest of the Notre Dame hockey team had quite a tangle with St. Norbert's this weekend in the ACC. The games weren't as close as the fights, as three Icers were thrown out of the game as suspended for two. See Ed Domansky's story above.
