227 arrested and 9 hurt as rally turns violent

Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile—Thousands of people rallied in Santiago Sunday to protest President Augusto Pinochet's nomination as the only candidate in the Oct. 5 presidential referendum. More than 200 were arrested and nine were hurt in clashes with riot squads, police said.

Police fired tear gas and water cannons when tens of thousands of demonstrators marched toward the city center, blocking traffic on the broad boulevard leading to the government palace.

Organizers said 300,000 people packed the avenue for the generally festive rally that became violent when some groups began to march toward the capital's central district. Journalists estimated the crowd at more than 100,000.

The national police said nine people were injured and 227 were arrested in the clashes. The police report said a group of demonstrators looted and damaged two electronics factories, and that several shops also were damaged.

It was the first rally by the opposition since Pinochet, the army commander, lifted on Aug. 27 the state of emergency that restricted public gatherings.

Scattered street demonstrations broke out after Pinochet's nomination was announced Tuesday, and three people were shot to death and hundreds were arrested.

Pinochet, in an "open letter to the men and women of my country" printed Sunday in most local newspapers, promised full democracy if he is returned to office.

In an interview printed Sunday in the conservative newspaper El Mercurio, Pinochet also promised to resign as army commander and govern as a civilian.

Pinochet, 72, came to power in the 1973 military coup that ousted the elected government of Marxist President Salvador Allende.

Soviet minister may face death penalty

Associated Press

MOSCOW—The trial of Leonid Brezhnev's son-in-law, accused of taking $1.1 million in bribes, is expected to lay bare the widespread corruption of the Brezhnev era.

Court begins Monday for Yuri Churbanov, a former first deputy interior minister who once moved in the top levels of Kremlin society. If found guilty of bribe-taking and abuse of office, he and eight co-defendants could be executed by firing squad.

Their trial, and the extraordinary publicity given its investigatory phase, are in line with Communist Party chief Mikhail Gorbachev's drive to break with the cronyism, corruption and nepotism now seen as endemic under Brezhnev. Brezhnev ruled the Soviet Union from 1964 until his death in 1982.

The court case, to be heard by the Military Collegium of the Soviet Supreme Court, may also have a political aim—to signal the Kremlin Old Guard who flourished under Brezhnev that their time has passed and that continued resistance to Gorbachev-era reforms must cease.

Churbanov, who married

Brezhnev's daughter Galina in 1971 after divorcing his first wife in 1964, is a central figure in an embezzlement and bribery scheme authorities say centered on the Central Asian republic of Uzbekistan.

The Communist Party newspaper Pravda said that beginning in the 1970s, cotton harvests in Uzbekistan were padded by almost 1 million tons annually, and Moscow was made to pay for the non-existent crop by corrupt officials all the way up to longtime Uzbek party boss Sharaf Rashidov, who died in 1983.

"Today it has been proven that the cotton barons stole more than 4 billion rubles ($6.34 billion) from the state, half of which they stuffed into their own pockets," Pravda said earlier this year in a sensational expose on the fraud, whose scale is without Soviet precedent.

Churbanov, 51, who held the rank of colonel general in the Moscow-based ministry responsible for police and law enforcement nationwide, was a power-hungry epicure who helped shield the racket, Soviet press accounts say.

Officials investigate engine failure theory in Delta crash

Associated Press

GRAPEVINE, Texas—Federal investigators wound up their field work at the site of last week's Delta air crash Sunday, refusing to comment on speculation that double engine failure might have led to the disaster.

The Dallas Morning News, quoting anonymous sources close to the investigation, reported Sunday that investigators are trying to determine whether two of the three engines on the Boeing 727 failed in the seconds before Wednesday's crash.

"When someone says engine failure there are a whole host of things that might mean," Lee Dickinson, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, said at a briefing Sunday. "One of the things I will not do is speculate on anything."

Some pilots said the fact that the wing flaps on the jet were apparently retracted at the time of the crash, when they ordinarily would have been extended for takeoff, may have been a sign the pilots were trying to fly the plane on one engine, not a cause of the crash, newspapers reported.

Thirteen people were killed when Flight 1141 en route to Salt Lake City crashed and burned seconds after takeoff at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. Ninety-five people survived.

A recording of cockpit crew members showed they mentioned engine failure. Two loud pops were then heard, which could have indicated a "compressor stall." But Dickinson said a compressor stall, which occurs when an engine is starving for air, is not critical. "Keep in mind, compressor stall is not serious, it's a hiccup."

At the site Sunday, investigators sealed the cockpit in a blue tarp. It will be taken to Delta headquarters in Atlanta where it will be dismantled and studied.

Dickinson said he planned to leave Dallas later Sunday, and only a few investigators would remain as the center of the inquiry moves to Washington.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post reported that as the plane taxied to the end of the runway, the cockpit crew spoke about previous air crashes including the 1985 Delta Flight 191 crash that killed 137 at the airport.

The newspaper said the crew talked about recent reports about a cockpit recording in the crash of a jet last November in Denver, which revealed the crew members discussing a co-worker's dating habits.

Lisa Mackett is recovering after being hit by a car Thursday near the JACC. The Knott Hall sophomore should be out of the hospital this Wednesday, said Father Andre Leveille, director of Campus Ministry. Mackett was crossing Juniper Road to buy football tickets when the accident occurred. She suffered a broken leg and some cuts to her left hand and forehead. "I'm concerned with our safety and the safety of pedestrians (on Juniper)," Leveille said. "Juniper is a major road. Sometimes people are not careful." -The Observer

More fat is being cut away from red meat servings by Americans according to the Reebok Aerobic Information Bureau. In 1979, American households cut away about 3.5 grams of fat a day. In 1985, that figure rose to 7.5 grams. Now, however, Americans are eating more meats with hidden fat that cannot be cut away, according to a study in the Journal of the American Dietetic Association. -- Associated Press

INSIDE COLUMN

Notre Dame students are too resistant to change

After spending 15 minutes fighting her way to the keg, she returns holding aloft a cup of the cheap brew of the evening. She takes a tentative sip, grimacing as she does so, gazing with distaste at the contents of the plastic cup. Concerned, I ask her what is wrong. Smiling self-consciously, she confesses in a stage whisper that she "doesn't really like beer." I feel somewhat compelled to ask her why she spent the last quarter of an hour being liberally doused in a substance she doesn't even like so she can spend the next hour pulling attractive faces as she forces it down. When I tactfully pose this earth-shattering question, a look of shock spreads over her face. This is, after all, a party.

This scenario typifies a common problem at Notre Dame: people's actions are too often governed by others' expectations, rather than their own feelings. They tend to push aside their true desires in order to conform to society's standards of right and wrong or sacrifice an opportunity because they are afraid of what the outcome might be.

"He's really cool. Too bad he's a freshman." If I had a nickel for every time I've heard that in the last two weeks I'd be a millionaire. While it might help me with my college tuition, I'd gladly sacrifice the wealth to rid myself of the annoyance I feel at hearing people being written off as unworthy because of their ages. The thought that there are women on this campus who, given the choice, would date a senior who is twenty-one going on twelve before considering a freshman who conducts himself with the self-assurance of someone older never ceases to amaze me.

It also saddens me when I think of people who close their hearts and minds to relationships because they feel threatened by the insecurity of what could happen. The guy or girl is nothing like the type you usually date; therefore, the relationship is doomed. They prefer the security of staying home on Saturday nights to taking a chance with someone new. Sure, you run the risk of having to listen to the excuse that the bodacious blonde bimbo you saw hanging all over the love of your life's arm when he thought you were at home with the flu is really his long lost sister, but on the other hand you could be missing out on a fantastic experience.

People who select their majors based on the likelihood of finding a job after graduation are another prime example. I would never consider wasting four years of my life and spending thousands of dollars to study something I don't really like and don't believe in. Maybe deciding that a business major was not the right one for me decreased my job prospects, but at least I won't be gnashing my teeth over classes I hate. Chances are, if I don't like studying a certain subject, I probably won't like the job it prepares me for much better. I may never own a yacht or a townhouse in a fashionable area of London, but I'll be doing something I enjoy.

Alison Cocks
Assistant Production Manager

Generally speaking, I have found that the students at this university are extremely resistant to change. They are afraid that by admitting that a decision they have made is wrong, they are also conceding that they have failed in some way. Too many people run away from this possibility by avoiding situations that they have not previously encountered. No one knows himself so well that he knows what will befall him when he pursues the unfamiliar. Those who always choose the safe path may never know the humiliation of stumbling and falling, but they will also never feel the exhilaration of having taken a chance and come out ahead.

Bangladesh floods endanger millions

Associated Press

DHAKA, Bangladesh—Floods have inundated three-quarters of this impoverished nation, stranding at least 20 million people who are eating raw food and drinking muddy, probably contaminated water, officials said Sunday.

At least 882 people have died since June, when rivers began overflowing their banks in annual monsoon flooding in this country of 110 million people, according to newspapers in Dhaka. The government count of 333 dead is widely considered low.

"It is a calamity," Information Minister Mahbubur Rahman told reporters Sunday night. "It is a havoc-creating, menacing flood."

The rivers flood almost every year after the monsoon rains in Bangladesh and India.

This season, some refugees have found shelter in relief centers or relatives' homes, said government officials who spoke on condition of anonymity. But they estimated that at least 20 million people were either stranded in their homes or marooned on small outcroppings of high ground with few supplies.

Country boats as well as water flood the streets of Dhaka during the annual monsoon season. The country boats are being used to transport people to work. See related story at left.

Indiana lacks personnel policy on workers convicted of crimes

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS—With no state policy to help them, directors of state agencies must rely on their own discretion when an employee commits a crime.

"There isn't a black-and-white rule that says any crime will get you fired," said Keith Beesley, deputy director of state personnel.

State employee Mark Abbey, who was charged with felony crimes after a domestic incident involving his estranged wife, has benefited from the lack of a strict policy.

Abbey has kept his job as an oil and gas inspector for the Indiana Department of Natural Resources. The decision was made by Gary Fricke, division director.

"I was glad to hear him (Fricke) say he wanted me to stay," Abbey said. "At the time that's all I could see that I had going for me. And had I lost that, it would have been worse."

"It would have been a prime opportunity to terminate a marginal employee who didn't show any potential," said Fricke.

But Abbey, 33, didn't fit that mold. His job with state government, at least for the moment, remains secure.

"You can hire someone convicted of a felony, but you don't have to," Beesley said. "It's a legitimate reason to pass over someone. I'm sure there are former felons working for the state of Indiana. I'm not sure how many."

A judge has sentenced Abbey to spend weekends in a community corrections center in Evansville. He will do so for more than 90 weekends as part of a plea agreement.

Abbey was charged with four felonies last November. He abducted his wife from the University of Evansville campus and held her captive in a truck for several hours, according to police records. Then there was a struggle and the gun discharged, causing damage to the truck.

Police reports characterized the incident as a domestic dispute.

Soviet cargo plane aborts takeoff at air show

Associated Press

FARNBOROUGH, England—A massive Soviet cargo plane aborted takeoff Sunday when flames shot from an engine 100 yards from spectators as Europe's top aviation event opened under the shadow of last week's West German air show disaster.

Soon after a Soviet MiG-29 fighter thrilled the crowd at the Farnborough Air Show with precision maneuvers, a blue-and-white Antonov-124, the world's heaviest aircraft, began its takeoff.

About 10,000 spectators stood by as a 20-foot sheet of flame shot out of the No. 2 engine.

A pilot cut the other engines and halted the nearly 450-ton aircraft of the Soviet Aeroflot state airline. No one was injured.

An official of the Soviet delegation at Farnborough said the Antonov-124 "will fly again before the end of the week." The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, did not immediately give the cause of the mishap.

The Antonov, 227 feet long and with a wingspan of 240 feet and a cargo bay 21 feet wide, was to have given daily demonstrations during the week-long Farnborough show, Europe's main aviation showcase.

Organizers stressed that Farnborough's safety regulations were stringent.

Their comments came after the Aug. 28 disaster at the U.S.

Air Force base at Ramstein, West Germany. Three Italian jets collided during an aerobatics display at a Ramstein air show, and one of the crashing aircraft hurtled in flames into the spectators, killing 51 and injuring more than 300.

On Sunday, two MiGs, the first advanced Soviet combat aircraft to take part in a Western display, took star billing.

Gang-related violence on the rise in US

Associated Press

Los Angeles—Gang violence rages on in the City of Angels and street thugs are expanding their drug trade to other cities in the United States despite police sweeps, a new FBI task force and two "gang summits."

More than 200 people have died in gang-related slayings so far this year; 11 people were slain last weekend, and an undercover police officer was shot to death Saturday while tailing suspects in a drive-by shooting.

Los Angeles County had a record 387 gang-related slayings in 1987, and authorities are expecting more than 420 in 1988, said Deputy District Attorney Michael Genelin, head of the district attorney's Hardcore Gang Unit.

Drive-by gang killings now average more than one a day and often claim innocent bystanders.

Community outcry prompted Los Angeles police to launch a full-scale assault in March. Twice since then, they have marched 1,000 officers into the most gang-infested areas on weekends.

The result has been a decline in the overall crime rate, although the gang murder rate continues to climb.

"We're in a holding action. We're keeping the flames from spreading but we're not putting them out," said Robert Philibosian, former district attorney and head of a state task force on gangs and drugs.

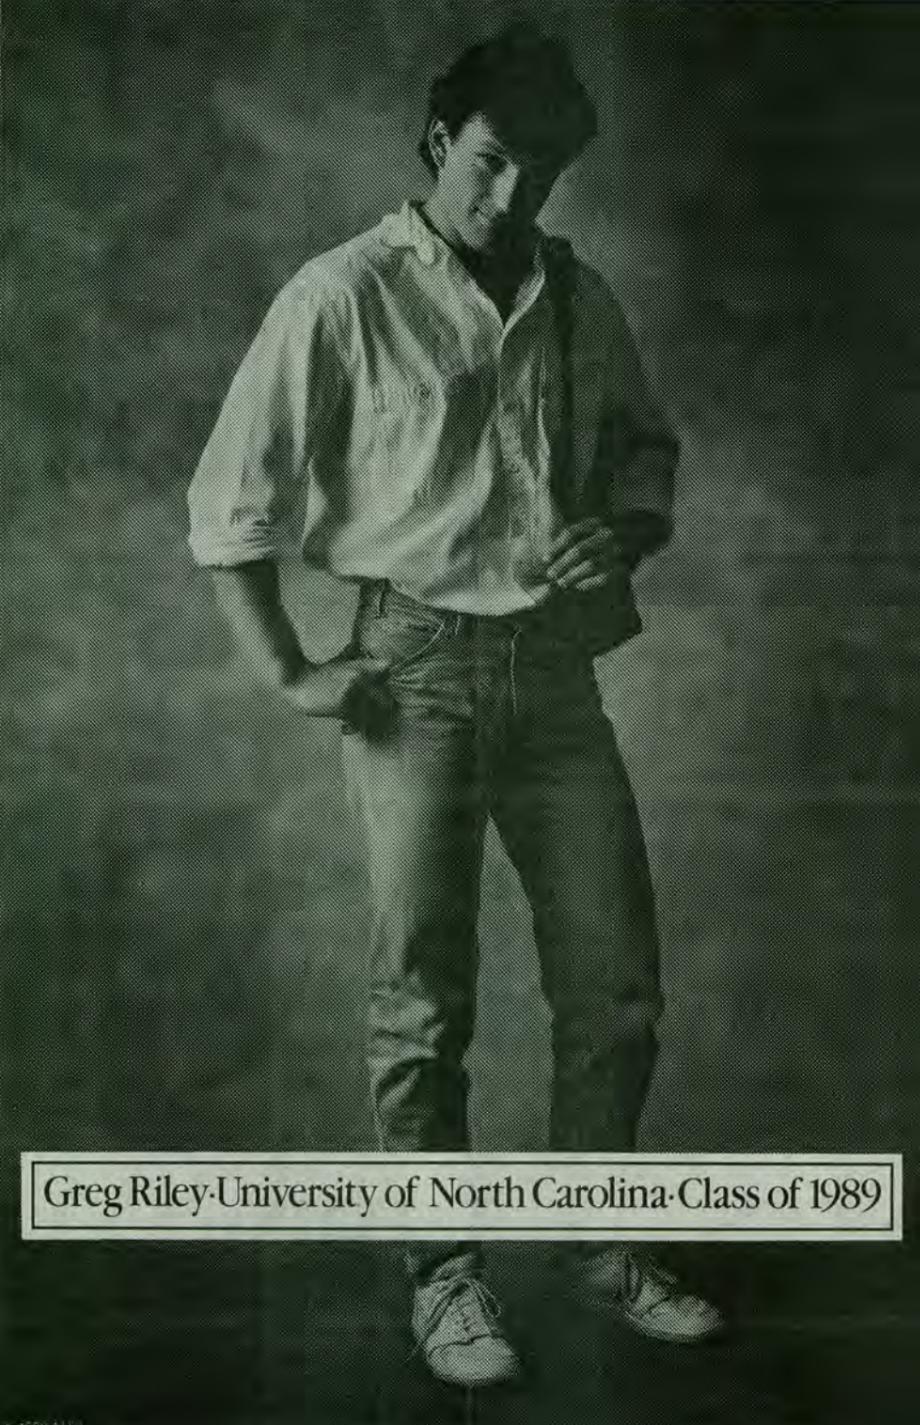

Los Angeles gangs are expanding their cocaine-trafficking networks as far as Seattle, Kansas City, Mo., and Philadelphia, law enforcement authorities said.

"We have people coming from L.A. to sell cocaine, not to start gangs. It's a business deal here, it's not gangs," said Seattle Police Officer Dan For-dice.

Campaign kickoff set for Labor Day

Associated Press

Michael Dukakis and George Bush rested up Sunday for the traditional Labor Day kickoff of the presidential campaign while GOP vice presidential contender Dan Quayle stumped in the South, telling stock car drivers what the candidates soon will hear—“Gentlemen, start your engines.”

Quayle ended his Southern swing with a rally in Richmond, Va., where he told the crowd, “The South is going for George Bush.”

“I can’t tell you what an upbeat feeling we have had on that Southern swing,” Quayle said. “We’re going all the way to the White House because we are the party of the future.”

Quayle, on his second solo campaign trip, visited Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and Virginia before traveling to Newark, N.J., for a Labor Day appearance at Liberty Island.

Democratic nominee Dukakis spent Sunday in Boston, preparing for a Labor Day tour that includes stops in Philadelphia, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago.

The vice president relaxed in Washington, D.C., before embarking on a West Coast trip to Oregon, Washington and the biggest electoral prize - California with its 47 votes.

In a survey conducted for the Wilmington News-Journal papers in Delaware, Bush led Dukakis 38 percent to 34 percent with 28 percent of the 1,824 registered voters undecided.

Lotto pot highest in US history

Associated Press

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—There’s a new multimillionaire somewhere out there, as only one Lotto ticket held the six numbers needed to win America’s richest-ever lottery jackpot of $54 million, officials said Sunday.

The winning $1 ticket for Saturday night’s drawing was purchased in Longwood, in central Florida, Lottery Secretary Rebecca Paul said. She declined to name the store until the winner steps forward.

The new Florida millionaire-or millionaires, if several persons shared the ticket—gets 180 days to claim the prize. The earliest it can be claimed is Tuesday, after the Labor Day holiday.

The prize will be doled out over 20 years. The state lottery withholds 20 percent of large payouts for federal income taxes, although actual federal taxes owed could be higher. Florida has no state income tax.

Players had turned to psychics, gimmicks and other formulas to beat the 14 million-to-1 odds of picking the six winning digits out of 49.

“This became an international news story. What better way to let people know about your lottery than through an international news story,” Paul said at a news conference.

At least $20 million of the week’s lottery profits will go to state education, Paul added.

Besides the jackpot, more than 1 million other Lotto players won smaller prizes.

Ticket vendors across the state reported brisk Saturday sales.

“Frantic isn’t the word,” said James Salvatore, owner of Lotto News in Miami. “It’s madness.”

Meanwhile, lotteries in other states credited Florida’s Lotto with boosted sales.

“That kind of publicity raises the awareness of lottery of everyone in the nation, and we all see an increase in sales,” said Kathy Rem, a spokeswoman for the Illinois lottery, which had a $21 million drawing Saturday.

Florida Lottery spokesman Ed George spoke via telephone on an Arizona radio talk show and said he was deluged with questions from people who wanted to play Florida’s game.

Freshman laments football fiasco

Dear Editor:

"Get your football tickets?" people ask me.

"Of course," I tell them. Who doesn't get football tickets?

"What section?" is the typical follow-up.

"13, 16 twice, 17, 18, 21, and 23," I tell them, trying to suppress my frustration.

You won't see me or a few hundred of my classmates in the student section at any of the football games this year. Not because we aren't loyal, spirited Irish football fans. Not because we'll be out of town. Not because we'll be too busy for the seven biggest events on campus. You see, we've been tossed to the winds, scattered at random throughout the stadium.

Those freshmen towards the back of the line were not issued the standard student ticket books. Instead, the ticket office exchanged our $73.50 for seven tickets, each from a different row and section, neatly wrapped with a rubber band. How considerate.

You might say, "That's what you get for going late." And you'd be right. I didn't camp out. I had classes in the morning. But another freshman would have received my sorry set if I had lined up earlier. It never occurred to us that we might be placed outside the student section. I guess we were naive to think that as students, we were entitled to sit there.

"Welcome to the Notre Dame family," we were told a few weeks ago. We've been welcomed to the family all right, but on unequal terms. It's like when the family gets together for Thanksgiving, and you have to sit at the little kids' table instead of with the adults. It's the same meal, perhaps, but you're not part of the real action.

Rockne understood the importance of the student body at a football game. In his autobiography, Rockne writes, "The most loyal support a coach can have—support he should cherish and hold—should come from the student body." Maybe if Rockne were here, he would do something for us. Lacking his intervention, we will have to settle for petitioning the powers-that-be for whatever aid they can render. It's probably too late for our freshman class, but maybe with some better planning next year, there will be room for the entire Class of 1993 in the student section.

Students should register and vote

Dear Editor:

The 1988 election year has proven to be an exciting and controversial time. We have been assaulted by scandal and rhetoric, conventions and stirring oratory. However, beyond the images and superficial questions bandied about the media there is a deeper issue that strikes at the heart of this entire political season. That is, how, as responsible adults, do we participate in choosing the next President of our country? The two most obvious answers are, to be informed about the stands and background of the respective candidates and to vote.

In light of the aforementioned criteria for participation in the process Student Government will run a dual project of voter registration and political information. That is, beginning in approximately two weeks in the dining halls and out on Field House Mall, Student Government will have tables set up to register any student who wishes to vote in the November election. Concurrently, along with the registration, campaign information stations will be provided with literature on both presidential candidates, George Bush and Michael Dukakis.

Clearly, the time has come for Notre Dame students to demonstrate their commitment to political participation in this country. Our mission here is not to sit back and watch the country move ahead or fall behind. Instead, each of us must make a commitment to be active in the system of which we are intrinsically a part. Robert Kennedy in his 1967 campaign for the presidency called on young voters to make a difference. He said, "The youthfulness I speak of is not a time of life but a state of mind, a temper of the will, quality of the imagination, a predominance of courage over timidity, of the appetite for adventure of love of ease... It does not accept the failures of today as a reason for the cruelties of tomorrow. It believes that one man (or woman) can make a difference and that men (and women) of goodwill, working together, can grasp the future and mold it to our will."

football per se but much to do with the spirit behind the football chant, "We are N.D."

Members of U.S.C., excited about Notre Dame and what it means to them, volunteer to visit their high school during fall or Christmas break to talk to interested students about Notre Dame. Since admissions counselors cannot possibly visit every high school where there are students interested in Notre Dame, let alone every high school from which present students come, people who may add much to Notre Dame are not learning important things about Notre Dame. By having students who enjoy Notre Dame go back to visit their high schools, at least some of these students for whom attendance at Notre Dame would be beneficial are reached.

In other words, by talking about Notre Dame to high school students of any race or belief all across the country, the undergraduates of Notre Dame, the very same people who chant "We are N.D." become visible representatives of Notre Dame and important agents in the constant effort to improve Notre Dame's student body.

Last year approximately 280 students participated in U.S.C., and an enthusiastic reaction was received from both the Notre Dame students and the high school students with whom they talked. However, considering the size of our student body, the spirit we are known for and the number of people who will return to their home towns for at least one of these breaks, 280 people is a relatively small number. Furthermore, visiting your high school to talk to old teachers and friends isn't exactly a hardship situation. We can and should be eager to represent Notre Dame to other people who can benefit from the experience of Notre Dame. I encourage anyone who would feel comfortable to join U.S.C. and make a valuable contribution to the maintenance and improvement of the quality of the Notre Dame student body. If you are interested, plan on attending one of the planning and training sessions on Sept. 5, 6, or 7 at 7:00 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library Lounge. Further questions can be directed to the admissions office on the ground floor of the administration building.

ND students recruit at their high schools

Dear Editor:

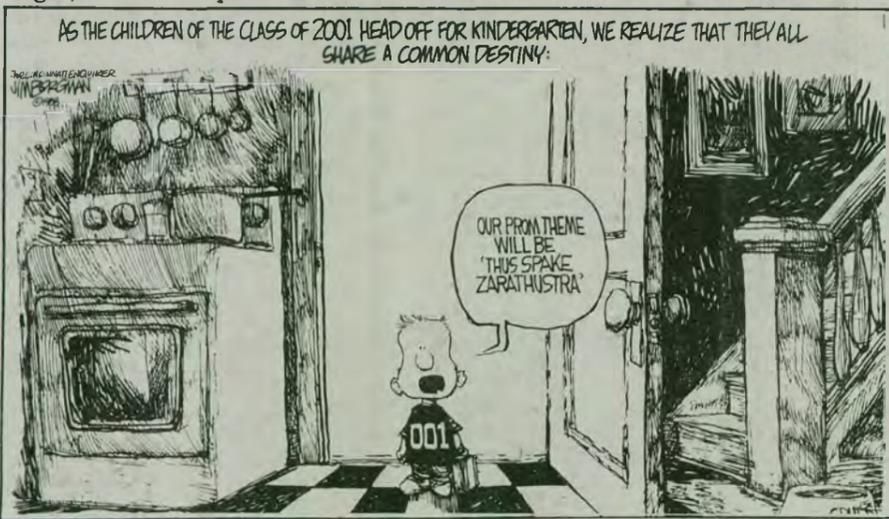

When I first volunteered for the Undergraduate Schools Committee as a freshman, I made the mistake of telling an upperclassman during the football season that I really liked U.S.C.. After much rather tenuous discussion, I finally convinced the now dialated domer that I did not like that hated school in Southern California but rather enjoyed participating with the student arm of the undergraduate admissions office. As such, U.S.C. has nothing to do with

New facilities to make Senior Bar The Club

The Observer / Mike Moran

The Club provides weekend entertainment for the over-21 crowd.

This is part one of a two-part series on the changes at the Alumni Senior Club. The second part will run on Wednesday.

accent writer

After a long day of classes, meetings, and other school-related activities, students often look forward to their evening plans-- whatever they may be. Money is sometimes hard to come by, so entertainment has to be affordable with a lot of benefits.

One pastime that many Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students enjoy is an occasional trip to the bars, but as many students know, this can become one very expensive habit. The management and staff of the Alumni Senior Club (also dubbed "Senior Bar") have changed that image, so that "a night out" won't put a strain on one's wallet.

Although The Club may not look physically different to its veteran patrons, definite changes have been made. "We would like to emphasize the 'club' atmosphere as opposed to a 'bar,' explained Mark Gibbs, student rentals and promotions manager. That is exactly how The Club got its name. Gibbs said he feels the word "Club" gives people the impression that it's more than just a filling station.

The Club offers students a variety of settings within one location. Equipped with a spacious dance floor, a quality sound system, and a recently installed light show, The Club is one of few places in South Bend where people can dance and the only one specifically for students. The game room, opposite the dance floor, is a remote area complete with pool tables, electronic darts, a new Pop-N-Shot and plenty of video games. If Notre Dame happens to be playing an away game, and you just can't seem to tear yourself away from your television set, The Club's game room has a wide screen TV.

Sometimes, a hearty appetite accompanies your thirst for enjoyment, and with most "bars" you'd have to go elsewhere to find food. The Club serves several enticing entrees, such as pizza, subs, nachos, potato skins, burgers or fries (to name a few). "Our goal is to limit quantity and increase quality," Gibbs said. The managers agree that they would rather have good food than just a good selection of food.

One little-known aspect of The Club's operation is rentals. The Club is now offering its facilities, including food and beverages, to a variety of student clubs and organizations. The Club may be reserved for rental before business hours during off days, according to Viz.

Those people who have visited The Club already this school year have probably noticed one monetary change--before they even get to step foot in the place. The $2 cover (up from $1 last year) may initially turn off some customers, but if you frequent The Club enough, you can invest in a lifetime membership. For $25, you can free yourself of that $2 cover charge and receive an Alumni Senior Club mug, t-shirt and cap, take advantage of 75 cent refills (when you bring in your mug) and special discounts on drinks.

Every night is a special night at The Club, with mixed drinks and brand beer at special student prices. Wednesdays are dollar imports; Thursdays are cup night (for special "mug" owners; and the 50 cent drafts attract the weekend crowds on Friday and Saturday nights.

At The Club entertainment is performed for the students and by the students. The Club is looking for comics, singers, lip sync-ers and D.J.s to perform. "It's the perfect outlet for student talents," explained Viz, "and if the students have any suggestions they'd like to offer us, we'd be more than happy to consider them."

With a trained student staff of 25, the Alumni Senior Club is ready to start off the new school year. "Things have really gelled together so far," Viz remarked confidently. "Needless to say, we're looking forward to a very successful year!"

First impressions in letter to Mom

Dear Mom,

It's been well over a week now since we said goodbye, and I thought you'd like to know that your son is still alive and well and living in South Bend. I know that first phone call home wasn't exactly the friendliest one you've ever had, but it was very awkward to talk with you on the phone in a room filled with suitemates who were still strangers; eventually you must have noticed how most of my answers were one-syllable grunts.

These past few days have been some of the busiest of my life. I've moved in, bought books, joined clubs, met people, and oh yes, attended class. The weather isn't as bad as I was led to believe, but then again, nothing short of the North Pole would have been.

By the way, I have now arrived late to every class on my schedule at least once, which just goes to show two things: one, that some things never change, and two, that the snooze alarm is one of the greatest technological advances of man since the invention of fire. The classes themselves are fine; it turns out that I wasn't the only one in my Spanish class who didn't speak like a native, and I even got by the much dreaded swim test. But already I can tell that classes in college move much faster than those in high school; normally it would take three weeks before math started to become incomprehensible, in college it took just one.

It's very hard to go from being a senior in high school--the most knowledgeable and coolest group of people in the world-- back to being a freshman-- one of the lowest forms of existence. It's very awkward to walk into a room and not know anyone. It's very difficult to walk up to a total stranger and introduce yourself. I spent a considerable amount of time last week doing both. But on the whole, it's been easier making friends than I expected, and I think things will turn out all right.

Last Friday they picked up our dirty laundry for the first time. The only problem was that I forgot the pick-up time and ended up having to run the bags over myself. In a strange way, it felt good to make a mistake like that on my own. I mean, if I had been at home, you would have made sure that I didn't forget. Here at college I pretty much have to make decisions and mistakes on my own, and that's kind of new and exciting. Don't worry though--if I come across a problem too big (or maybe a bank account too small) you can be sure that you'll hear from me.

During the freshman orientation program, when I hear the band play the Alma Mater (now my Alma Mater) and I joined the chant "We are ND," I didn't really feel like I was ND, at least not entirely. But as I was walking across campus this week, writing down my impressions of the University's architecture for Humanities class (sample question: "How does this quad make you feel?") I suddenly heard someone praying "Blessed are you, Lord of all creation..." I discovered then that I had come across the Grotto without realizing it, and that Mass was being celebrated there. And somehow hearing the familiar words made me feel just a little bit better. I've heard the same prayer a thousand times back home, and maybe it just reminded me that people are a lot the same here as they are back home.

On Sunday night, when I looked out my seventh floor window, I saw the sunset cover the campus with the Golden Dome, shrouded in scaffolding, in the foreground. And I felt, if not exactly at home, then at least not homesick.

It's still a little lonely, but I think that I'm beginning to feel a part of this place and that, well, "I am ND."

Love and Go Irish!

Miami destroys Florida State; Hawaii stuns Iowa

Associated Press

Against No. 1 teams, the Miami Hurricanes are tops.

"The players went out and took care of business," Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson said after the Hurricanes crushed the Florida State Seminoles 31-0 Saturday night in a mismatched battle of southern football powers. "I'm proud of how we approached this game, in a business-like manner."

While taking care of Florida State in impressive fashion, the Hurricanes continued a glittering record against No. 1-ranked teams in this decade.

With the victory in the Orange Bowl, the Hurricanes improved their record against top-ranked teams in the 1980s to 6-0. Miami, the defending national champion, went into the 1988 season ranked No. 6 in the country in The Associated Press poll.

Steve Walsh passed for two touchdowns and Cleveland Gary ran for one to lead the Hurricanes. Miami used a lightning-quick defense to smother one of the nation's most explosive offenses, limiting Florida State to 91 yards in the first half and permitting the Seminoles to cross midfield just twice in the first two periods.

So dominant was Miami's defense that FSU tailback Sammie Smith, who rushed for a school-record 1,230 yards a year ago, was held to just six yards, a career low, on 10 carries.

Hawaii 27, Iowa 24

Freshman place-kicker Jason Elam, making up for a key earlier miss, hit two fourth-quarter field goals and Hawaii held on to upset Iowa.

Iowa just missed tying the game when a 43-yard field goal attempt by Iowa place-kicker Jeff Skillet fell short with 21 seconds remaining. Before connecting on his game-winning field goals, Elam had missed one in the third quarter.

Elam's second field goal put Hawaii ahead to stay with 1:36 to go. His first, a 47-yard kick into the wind, gave Hawaii a 24-21 lead with 9:58 left.

Skillet had tied the game for Iowa on a 44-yard field goal with 7:48 left.

Nebraska 63, Utah St. 13

Quarterback Steve Taylor ran for two touchdowns and passed for another to lead the Cornhuskers past Utah State, their second victory in two tries.

Taylor ran for scores of 22 and 15 yards. He connected with Richard Bell on an 11-yard pass to cap a 74-yard scoring drive that took just 54 seconds late in the first half.

Clemson 40, Va. Tech 7

Quarterback Rodney Williams scored once and directed Clemson's option offense in a 24-point second-period burst as the Tigers defeated Virginia Tech. Williams now is the all-time winningest quarterback in Clemson history with 23 victories, one more than Homer Jordan had from 1979 to 1982.

In beating the Hokies for the 11th time in the last 12 meetings, Clemson scored its most points ever against Virginia Tech in the 24-game series. The Tigers' previous high score came in a 38-7 victory in 1978.

UCLA 59, SD State 6

Darryl Henley returned a punt 89 yards for a touchdown after just 3:25 of play and Troy Aikman threw three first-half scoring passes as UCLA overpowered San Diego State.

Aikman completed 13 of 17 passes for 155 yards without being intercepted before coming out of the game after the first series of the third quarter. UCLA led 38-0 at the time.

Eric Ball, another UCLA senior, was the game's leading rusher with 122 yards on 17 carries.

LSU 27, Texas A&M 0

LSU overcame a bad night by quarterback Tommy Hodson and ground out a methodical victory over Texas A&M on the strength of a defense led by linebacker Ron Sancho.

Hodson, a 61 percent passer for two years as a starter, completed only 7 of 27 passes for 112 yards, about half his usual output. Sancho, meanwhile, scored a first-quarter touchdown on a 20-yard pass interception and keyed a defensive effort that kept A&M out of the end zone on four shots from the 5-yard line as the fourth quarter began.

LSU's offensive touchdowns came on a 3-yard pass from second-string quarterback Mickey Guidry to running back Eddie Fuller in the second quarter and a one-yard plunge by Victor Jones with 2:41 left in the game.

Georgia 28, Tenn. 17

Rodney Hampton ran for 196 yards and two touchdowns and Tim Worley added 144 yards and two scores as Georgia used an overpowering ground game to beat Tennessee in a Southeastern Conference game.

The Bulldogs had to overcome the passing of Jeff Francis, who became Tennessee's all-time leader in passing yardage. Francis completed 25 of 39 passes for 354 yards, lifting his career total to 3,989 and breaking the record of 3,823 set by Alan Cockrell from 1981-83.

South Carolina 31, North Carolina 10

Tailback Harold Green rushed for 100 yards and two touchdowns and Todd Ellis passed for 290 yards and two touchdowns to lead South Carolina over North Carolina.

Red Sox beat Angels to move into tie with Detroit

Associated Press

ANAHEIM, Calif. -- Boston moved into a tie for first place in the American League East as Larry Parrish's leadoff homer in the 10th inning gave the Red Sox a 6-5 victory over the California Angels Sunday.

Boston ace Roger Clemens, who has lost five straight, worked 6 2-3 innings, allowing eight hits, striking out seven and walking one. Clemens' second-inning strikeout of Mike Brown gave him 259 for the season, breaking Smokey Joe Wood's team record set in 1912.

Parrish lined a 1-2 fastball from Bryan Harvey, 6-5, to right center for his 13th homer of the season and third in the four-game series.

Athletics 11, Yankees 2
OAKLAND, Calif. -- Dave Stewart allowed four hits in seven innings and Dave Henderson and Dave Parker hit two-run homers as the Oakland Athletics beat the slumping New York Yankees 11-2 Sunday.

The A's, who lead the American League West by 9 1/2 games, went to a season-high 35 games over .500 and reduced their magic number to clinch the division title -- a combination of A's wins or Twins losses -- to 17. They are 53-25 against the AL east.

Brewers 6, Tigers 1
DETROIT -- Ted Higuera allowed one hit in seven innings for his sixth straight victory and B.J. Surhoff hit a three-run homer as the surging Milwaukee Brewers beat the Detroit Tigers 6-1 Sunday and completed a sweep of their four-game series.

Royals 3, Twins 2
MINNEAPOLIS -- Israel Sanchez allowed one hit in 4 1-3 innings of relief and George Brett's RBI double broke a fifth-inning tie as the Kansas City Royals beat the Minnesota Twins 3-2 Sunday.

Indians 3, White Sox 2
White Sox 5, Indians 2
CLEVELAND -- Harold Baines' RBI triple highlighted a four-run ninth inning as the Chicago White Sox came back to beat the Cleveland Indians 5-2 and gain a split of their doubleheader Sunday.

The White Sox rallied against relief ace Doug Jones, 3-4, who failed to earn a save for just the sixth time in 36 opportunities. Bill Long, 7-9, allowed eight hits in eight innings, walked one and struck out two.

In the first game, Dave Clark homered with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning to lead Cleveland. Clark hit a 1-0 pitch from reliever Barry Jones, 0-2, for his second home run of the season. Brad Havens, 2-2, allowed one hit in two innings.

field goal with 25 seconds left as Cleveland won a game dominated by defense.

Seahawks 21, Broncos 14

Dave Krieg threw two touchdown passes in the third quarter as the Seahawks, 40-17 losers to Denver in last year's opener, got a measure of revenge.

49ers 34, Saints 33

Joe Montana threw three touchdown passes in a 12-minute span of the third quarter, despite having bruised his elbow in the second quarter. The elbow puffed up in the third quarter, however, and Montana went to the sidelines in favor of Steve Young, who finished the game. John Frank caught two of the passes from Montana and Mike Wilson the other.

Lions 31, Falcons 17

Detroit turned four Atlanta mistakes into touchdowns, including a 4-yard fumble return by linebacker George Jamison. Detroit quarterback Chuck Long completed 13 of 19 passes for 107 yards including scoring passes of seven yards to Pete Mandley and one yard to Mark Lewis.

Steelers 24, Cowboys 21

Earnest Jackson scored on runs of 15 and 29 yards and Bubby Brister's scrambling completions set up his own 1-yard touchdown run, but the Steelers needed two late stands to hold off the Cowboys.

Brister, improvising several key passes when his protection broke down, completed 13 of 27 passes for 214 yards and had a

In other opening-day action, The Rams beat the Packers 34-7. Art Still had three sacks to lead the Buffalo defense as the Bills beat the Vikings 13-10. The Eagles clobbered Tampa Bay 41-14 behind Randall Cunningham's 156 passing yards. Vinnie Testaverde was intercepted five times by the Philadelphia defense. The Bengals spoiled the Cardinals' debut as a Phoenix team. 21-14

Irish volleyball spikes Hoosiers in home opener

By GREG SCHECKENBACH
Sports Writer

The Irish women's volleyball team started the season Saturday night with a bang. Or maybe it was a boom.

"Boom" was the cheer from the Irish fans at the Joyce ACC as Notre Dame spiked its way to an impressive 15-9, 15-7, 15-7 victory over state rival Indiana.

After starting slowly in the first game, Notre Dame easily outmatched the Indiana team with an assortment of shots that included power spikes, quick sets, and finesse dinks. The serving in the first game did not please Irish head coach Art Lambert as Notre Dame put five serves into the net. The team rebounded with four service aces in the following two games.

Senior outside hitter Zanette Bennett, who led the team with 14 kills, blasted her way farther into the record books as Notre Dame's career kill leader. She also led the squad with 10 digs, most of which were of spectacular fashion.

Indiana's leaders were Liz Armbrustmacher and Jill Beggs, who each contributed nine kills. Indiana had a kill percentage of .136 compared to .373 for the Irish, who exploded in the final game with an outstanding .483 kill percentage.

Art Lambert was pleased with the results of the opening match.

"I am happy with the way we played, but we had too many unforced errors," he said. "If we do that against Stanford (the next Irish opponent) we'll get beat."

"Consistency was a weakness tonight," added Lambert, "We would phase in and phase out giving them three or four point spurts."

Lambert was especially pleased with Junior Kathy Cunningham and freshman Julie Bremner. Cunningham, who is coming off shoulder surgery for an injury suffered early last season, contributed eight digs and six kills. Bremner gave Irish hitters 29 assists from the setter position. She also stunned the Hoosiers with a variety of quick hits from everywhere on the court.

"We'll have to play with much more intensity if we plan on beating Stanford," said Bremner.

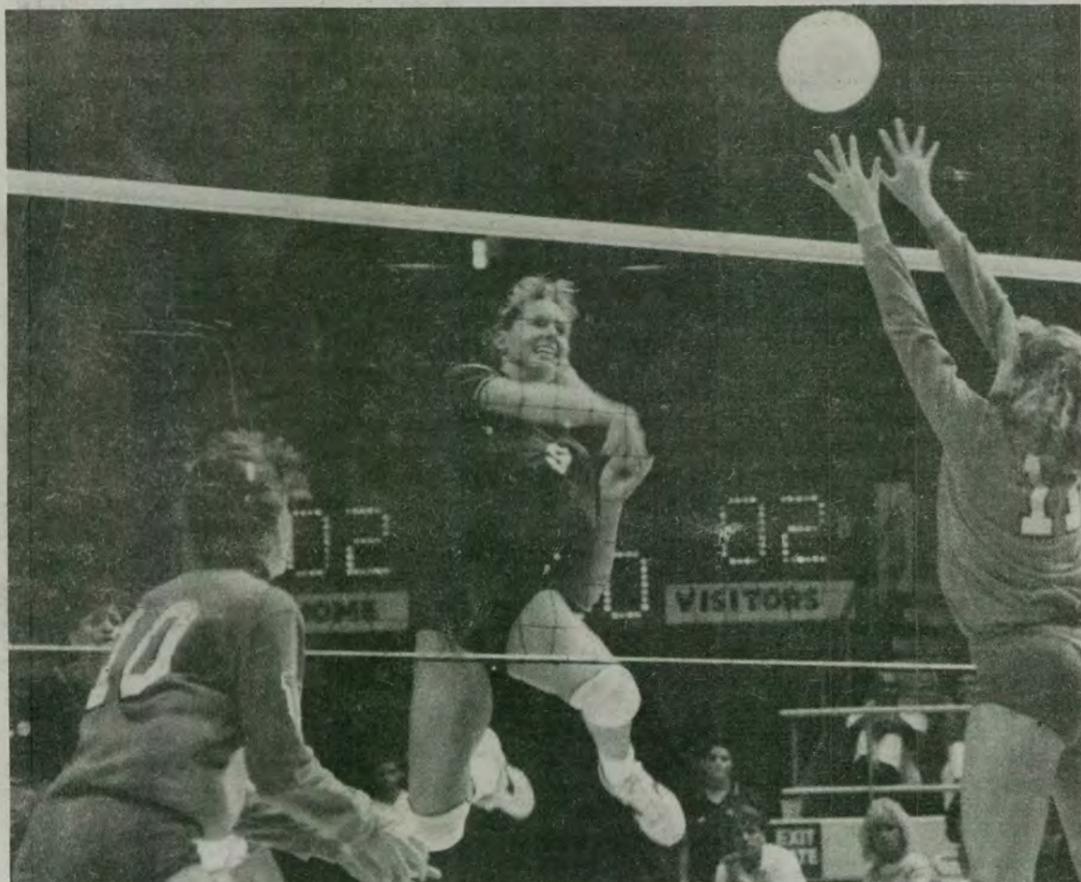

Maureen Shea and Mary Kay Waller dominated at the net for the Irish throughout the match. They had nine and eight kills respectively. The major contribution of the two six-foot seniors was their play at the net. They snuffed out Indiana's big hitters with numerous blocks.

"In the first few points we definitely had first game jitters, but we settled down in the second and third games," Waller said.

Senior Whitney Shewman came off the bench to add eight digs, which was second on the team. Freshman Joanna Bruno played well despite game jitters. She had seven kills and two service aces along with four assists to Irish hitters.

"I was really nervous," Bruno said. "I was shaking on the first play, and the first hit came right to me."

Overall, Notre Dame dominated almost every aspect of the match. The Irish will be looking for an equal performance against fourth-ranked Stanford Wednesday night. Last season, Stanford was the runner-up in the NCAA tournament.

Mary Kay Waller and the Irish volleyball team soundly defeated the Indiana Hoosiers Saturday night at the Joyce ACC.

Soccer team takes tourney by beating Lafayette 3-2

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame men's soccer team stayed undefeated over the weekend by winning the Metropolitan Life Soccer Classic in Lafayette, Pa.

Notre Dame, now 3-0, defeated Maine 3-1 on Saturday and came from behind to edge host school Lafayette 3-2 on Sunday to take the championship.

In Sunday's title game, the Irish spotted the Leopards a 2-0 halftime lead before mounting a comeback in the second half.

Steve LaVigne started the Irish spurt by scoring at 51:00. Rolfe Behrje tied the game 14 minutes later, and Joe Sternberg scored the championship-winning goal with eight minutes left in the game.

Randy Morris recorded two assists during the Lafayette game to become Notre Dame's all-time career leader in that category. Morris has 31 career assists.

In Saturday's game with Maine, Bruce "Tiger" McCourt led the Irish attack with two goals.

Tom Connaghan started the scoring against the Black Bears 23 minutes into the contest, giving the Irish a 1-0 lead. The score remained 1-0 at halftime.

McCourt scored one goal at 60:00, on an assist by Morris, then added his second goal with help from Sternberg at 79:00.

Lafayette tripped Syracuse 4-1 in Saturday's game to reach Sunday's final.

Notre Dame's McCourt, Morris and Johnny Guignon all were named to the all-tournament team.

Brown runs 97 yards for LA

Beuerlein gets first NFL start in 24-13 Raider victory

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES -- Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown returned the first kickoff of his NFL career 97 yards for a touchdown as the Raiders began the climb back from their worst season in 25 years.

Brown's return with 1:43 to go before halftime followed Vince Abbott's 23-yard field goal and gave the Raiders a 14-3 lead.

Steve Beuerlein, another former Notre Dame standout, completed only 13 of 29 passes for 171 yards in his first NFL start.

The Raiders, 5-10 last season, limited San Diego to only a 24-yard scoring pass from Babe Laufenberg to Jamie Holland with 3:25 to play.

Marcus Allen ran for two Raiders touchdowns.

Bears 34, Dolphins 7

Jim McMahon, whose ailing shoulder had robbed him of the ability to pass and the Chicago Bears of their inspirational leader, guided a devastating attack on Sunday that buried the Miami Dolphins 34-7.

McMahon ran for two touchdowns and led the Bears on two other long scoring drives to keep the ball away from Miami quarterback Dan Marino.

On the rare occasions that Marino had the ball, the Chicago defense routinely destroyed his pass pocket, limiting him to a career-low nine completions and sacking him once.

"A lot of people wrote us off," McMahon said. "But we have a lot of confidence in this team. We accept the role of underdogs."

"We went out there and played as bad as we've ever played," Miami coach Don Shula said. "We were bad in all phases -- offense, defense and special teams. I'm bitterly disappointed in our team."

Neal Anderson scored two touchdowns, the second after Richard Dent's fumble recovery on the Miami 1-yard line, for a 14-0 first-period lead.

Patriots 28, Jets 3

Steve Grogan threw for 256 yards and two touchdowns, both to Irving Fryar, and rookie Teddy Garcia added three goals for New England.

The Patriots led just 6-3 at halftime despite Grogan's 165 passing yards against an inexperienced Jets secondary.

A short punt sent up Grogan's 26-yard pass to Fryar that gave the Patriots a 13-3 lead.

Oilers 17, Colts 14 OT

Tony Zendejas, who missed two attempts in regulation play, kicked a 35-yard field goal 3:51 into overtime as the Oilers took advantage of a fumble by Eric Dickerson. It took Houston six plays to score after Dickerson coughed up the ball after a pass reception at the Indianapolis 42.
