Undercover officers crack down on ticket scalpers on campus

By KENDRA MORRILL
Senior Staff Reporter

As a consequence of the newly implemented ban on ticket scalping, approximately 60 football tickets were confiscated by police and Notre Dame Security this weekend as "scalpers" attempted to sell the tickets above face value, said Director of Promotions Bubba Cunningham.

The ticket office also learned the seat locations of about 40 more tickets that were being scalped, said Cunningham.

Fourteen undercover agents, a combination of Notre Dame Security and city and county police officers, patrolled the campus this weekend looking for people selling tickets above face value, according to Rex Rakow, director of Notre Dame Security.

"(The agents would) wait for people to approach them or they'd overhear conversations," said Rakow. "Or they'd have conversations with people, and when it turned to the point where the people offered them tickets, (the officers) would inform those making the offer that they were agents of the University and that they (making the offer) were violating University regulations," he said.

If the tickets were exchanged, said Rakow, then they were confiscated. If the tickets were just offered, the section, row and seat number were recorded, he said.

This operation would not constitute entrapment, Rakow said. "We're not enforcing any criminal law," he said. "We're enforcing University policy on private property. As the property owners, we have the right to do that."

The athletic department is planning to contact all people who owned tickets that were on the market, said Rakow. Those people will be informed that their tickets were being sold above face value and that this is against University policy, he said.

Cunningham said the University hasn't done anything but confiscate and record tickets that were being scalped.

"The athletic department and the University administration will have to sit down and decide what to do with the scalpers and the tickets that have been confiscated," he said.

No penalties for those caught scalping tickets have been set up yet because "we didn't know what we would find (this weekend)," Cunningham said.

"A student is probably in more trouble than a non-University person because scalping isn't illegal but is against University regulations," he added.

Rakow said he didn't know yet whether any Notre Dame students were caught scalping tickets.

The ban on ticket scalping was implemented this fall by the University. Scalping is not against Indiana law.

Cunningham said earlier this month that individuals who had extra tickets could turn them in at the Gate 14 ticket window. The University would then attempt to resell those tickets at face value two hours prior to kickoff.

Dedication ceremony held for Sports Heritage Hall

By THERESA KELLY
Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame Monogram Club officially dedicated the Sports Heritage Hall in the concourse of the Joyce ACC on Saturday.

"Our job is an enjoyable one," said Notre Dame Athletic Director Richard Rosenthal. "We are here to bless and dedicate this hall. Of course it's a facility; of course it's an exhibit. But it's so much more. It's the recognition and memorialization of many many hundreds of athletes who meant something special to the spirit of Notre Dame."

Located between the fieldhouse and the arena on the second floor of the JACC, the hall is home to photographs, trophies and memorabilia from over 100 years of Irish athletics. Included in the collection are the seven Heisman Trophies, from Angelo Bertelli to Tim Brown, the 1975 Orange Bowl trophy, complete with oranges and, a recent addition, the basketball used by Irish scoring star Austin Carr when he scored a collegiate-high 61 points in one game.

The Notre Dame sports less frequently in the spotlight are also represented by a lacrosse stick from the first Irish team and a portrait of Pan American Games gold medalist and 1988 Notre Dame graduate Molly Sullivan.

"Young men and women have for some hundred years been adding to the mystique of the Notre Dame spirit, and that continues today," Rosenthal said.

Saturday's dedication ceremony was kicked off with a reception of Notre Dame Monogram Club members, followed by a luncheon with the official blessing given by Father William Beauchamp, University executive vice president. Dedication speeches were given by several members of the Irish athletic community.

Candidates for special election announced

Observer Staff Report

The following candidates have been declared eligible for the supplementary Student Senate election for district two:

- Jim McCarthy, a junior in Zahm,
- Brian McCarthy, a junior in Zahm,
- James Robertson, a sophomore in Cavanaugh,
- Dustin Klinger, a freshman in Cavanaugh.

District two includes Breen-Philips, Cavanaugh, Farley, Knott, Sigfreid, and St. Edward's Halls.

The election for the Student Senate seat, left vacant by the resignation of Mary Feliz, will be held on Thursday. Election times will be from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m., and from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m., said Ombudsman Steering Committee member Pat Stadter.

Campaigning for the vacant seat started Saturday at midnight and will continue until midnight Wednesday, said Stadter.

Results will be released Thursday night.

IN BRIEF

The Children's Museum sent its 2,500-year-old mummy to the hospital Saturday to learn more about the ancient woman who recently filled in some of history's blanks. During her visit to Indiana University Hospital, Wenu-hotep got her picture taken with a three-dimensional CT scan that provided a never-before-seen view of her face. "We found much finer pictures than I would have expected of the bones. ... These were incredibly clear and detailed images of the skull, the tissues, the internal bones of the skull," said Robert Pickering, curator of anthropology for the museum. Before the new technology became available, such information could be gained only by destroying the mummy. -Associated Press

Most teachers feel left out of critical decisions affecting classroom life, except for choosing texts and shaping curriculum, according to a nationwide poll released Saturday. Ten percent or fewer of 21,698 public school teachers surveyed by the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching felt they had any say in issues like teacher evaluation or selection of new teachers and administrators. Just 20 percent believed they were influential in tailoring school budgets. On the positive side, 79 percent of those surveyed said they felt involved in choosing textbooks and instructional materials, and 63 percent said they had a say in shaping the curriculum. -Associated Press

INSIDE COLUMN

Notre Dame pushing 'champagne suites'?

(This column is the result of a friend's tip, so let me give credit where credit is due: Thanks, C.L.)

Do any of you have your Student Business Directories handy? Remember those yellow books they handed out at registration? You might turn to page 12 for an example of Notre Dame's never-ending quest for social alternatives to the alcohol policy.

"The Ritz: Perfect for Honeymoons, Anniversaries, Birthdays, Etc.," says the advertisement. Below is a list of amenities like "heart-shaped whirlpool baths" and "queen size waveless waterbeds," along with two coupons for a 50 percent discount on any weekday overnight stay in a "champagne suite"

Well, they also offer "tours daily." So I went down to The Ritz yesterday to check the place out. It unfortunately is a bit farther than Motel 6 or Days Inn, but is well worth it.

Two things tipped me off to the nature of this "establishment" before I even walked in the door. One was the phone number, which spells out BUY LOVE. The other was the door itself, which could not be entered until I pressed a buzzer and someone came to look me over, probably to make sure I wasn't a cop.

After I was let in and my eyes had adjusted to the extremely dim lighting, I asked to take the tour. I was ushered through the 18-room hotel, and told that it was a good idea to call ahead at least two weeks in advance for weekend stays.

I also snagged a brochure, which billed The Ritz as "A private facility dedicated to romance and intimacy ♥ ♥ ♥ An atmosphere of special sharing, a romantic retreat, a time to be long remembered, just the two of you ♥ ♥ ♥ at The Ritz."

The most basic room available is the "Ritz Suite," furnished with a bed. That's it. The bed is nice, queen-sized and semi-waveless and equipped with an excellent stereo in the headboard. The walls are carpeted and the ceiling is mirrored. The mirrors are "bronze-tinted," I was informed by the tour guide.

According to the brochure, the bathroom is furnished with "disposable razor, shaving cream, body lotion, shampoo, shoeshine cloth, etc." I would imagine "etc." includes condoms but I did not see them myself. The television in each room shows "selected adult movies" as well.

The champagne suites have the same stuff plus a heart-shaped whirlpool bath. "Just like a Jacuzzi," said my tour guide.

Then there are the Penthouse Suites, which offer cathedral ceilings, built-in bars, and a separate "love seat/conversation area." As if someone staying here would be interested in conversation.

On the whole, the place was quite nice for the type of clientele it is trying to cater to.

Now for the bad news: they only allow single or double occupancy. No exceptions. Well, I suppose you could sneak two more in through the window.

But for those of us who are budget-conscious, The Ritz offers "four-hour getaway rates" which are roughly half of the overnight rates. With the 50 percent coupon offered in the Notre Dame Student Business Directory, even the most broke student can afford The Ritz. Just think how cheap this would be if it were split two ways.

Well, far be it from me to call the administration hypocritical for advertising this place themselves while banning alcohol advertising in The Observer. Actually, I'm sure this ad was run with the intent of providing reasonable alternatives to alcohol. So let's all go to places like The Ritz for "romance and intimacy." The administration seems to prefer that to having a beer or two.

The Inside Column is solely the opinion of the author of the column. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily those of The Observer, the University of Notre Dame, or Saint Mary's College.

Parliament calls for open elections in Burma

Associated Press

RANGOON, Burma- Parliament on Sunday yielded to weeks of massive nationwide protests and approved holding the first multiparty elections since 1960.

The legislature appointed a group of elders to supervise the polling and set a target date for about three months from Saturday, when President Maung Maung announced the ruling Burma Socialist Program Party would relinquish its 26-year monopoly on power.

Despite government concessions, opposition leaders continued to press for an interim government to cope with Burma's growing chaos, and demonstrations continued in the capital.

Maung Maung issued a stern warning to demonstrators, who have taken to the streets by the millions since spring in their fight for democracy.

"People are now fed up with this lawlessness and are expecting the government to take effective action," Maung Maung said. "I therefore warn those responsible for the lawlessness to cease such activities."

In some areas of Burma, he said, students and Buddhist monks were setting up rival local governments, creating "a grave and dangerous situation for those responsible."

He called on demonstrators to get back to work and on civil servants to reactivate the stalled machinery of government. In addition, he attacked the recent formation of a rival government by former Prime Minister U Nu.

Maung Maung called Sunday's decision "a milestone in Burmese history."

"It will be evident in 20 years' time whether the decision was correct or not," he told the 489-member Parliament.

While authorizing elections in about three months, Parliament also held out the possibility that they could be postponed or held as early as November.

Parliament empowered the Council of State, the highest government organ, to change the Constitution to permit a multiparty system, enlarge the Elections Commission if necessary and formulate election rules.

Named to the Elections Supervision Commission were three retired civil servants, a retired army brigadier general and a former member of Parliament. The men, all over 70, are generally regarded as neutral, although not especially prominent. At least four are not members of the ruling party.

The Parliament session was held under tight security, and delegates slept in the building Saturday night. The area was cordoned off with barbed-wire fences and road blocks manned by troops.

Maung Maung urged Burma's 22 million voters to "use their potent weapon- the vote- to choose the right representatives."

Class of 1992 minority enrollment hits 13 percent

Associated Press

SOUTH BEND- A $12 million endowment has helped boost minority enrollment in the University of Notre Dame's freshman class to record levels this fall.

Kevin Rooney, director of admissions, said 13 percent of the 1988 freshman class are members of a minority, compared with 11 percent last year and 9 percent in 1986.

University President Edward Malloy and Provost Timothy O'Meara have said they would like a 15 percent minority enrollment in the freshman class of 1992.

Rooney said the $12 million financial aid endowment for minority students was key to this year's increased enrollment. "If we're going to continue this, we'll need more infusions of this money," he said.

The university also funds eight one-year fellowships for minorities, including three for black students and five for Hispanic students.

Two new black faculty members were named to the school of Arts and Letters, and administrators have said two more minority professors will be added to the faculty each in the schools of business administration, law and engineering.

John Paul visits southern Africa

Associated Press

HARARE, Zimbabwe- Pope John Paul II appealed yesterday for reconciliation, racial harmony and human rights in southern Africa, a region teeming with tribal, racial and political problems.

John Paul's first full day on his tour of the region was crammed with events, beginning with a meeting with the country's seven Roman Catholic bishops and ending with a session with diplomats.

In between, he celebrated a two-and-a-half-hour mass before more than 200,000 people, met with members of the laity and spoke to 30,000 youths at a jammed sports stadium.

His comments did not have the political edge that they did Saturday, when he arrived here for 10 days of travel through five black-ruled countries that are neighbors to white-led South Africa.

On Saturday, the pope talked of powerful political, economic and ideological forces that endanger the stability of the region and who fomented ethnic and tribal conflicts.

1550 injured in riot during Michael Jackson concert

Associated Press

LIVERPOOL, England—A huge mass of fans pressed to the stage during a Michael Jackson concert yesterday, and more than 1,550 people were reported injured in the crush, authorities said.

Most injuries were minor, but officials said 40 people required hospital treatment.

Mounted police and vanloads of uniformed officers in riot gear were called to the Aintree horse racing track, where 125,080 attended the final concert of the singer's European tour, police said.

Police said about 22 people were arrested for disorderly conduct.

First-aid workers said they treated an estimated 3,400 fans during the concert for a variety of injuries.

John Crook, St. John's Ambulance Brigade assistant commissioner, said 1,550 of the casualties were treated after being crushed at the front of the crowd near the stage because of the pressure of people behind them. He said several of the casualties were people who fainted in the crush.

"We are really surprised by the number of casualties but out of an audience of 125,000 I suppose it isn't too bad," Crook said.

At one point trouble flared outside the arena when youths without tickets, which cost $27 each, tried to pull down fences to get a view of the show. Reporters said they saw mounted police and officers in riot gear hurry to the scene and arrest several youths.

Earlier reports indicated that the concert crush was caused by the youths trying to enter the concert area, but Crook said there were no reported injuries when fans without tickets tried to enter the concert arena.

Terry Smith, managing director of co-promoters Radio City, said the casualties seemed exaggerated.

"I think it has gone very well and the local council and the police seem perfectly happy with it," he said.

Local councilman Owen Brady said: "I think it has gone excellently and above our expectations."

Hurricane Gilbert expected to hit Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic

Associated Press

KINGSTON, Jamaica—Hurricane Gilbert swept toward Jamaica on yesterday with 100 mph winds and officials issued warnings to residents on the southern coasts of the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Cuba.

The storm ripped the roofs off houses and caused coastal flooding in Puerto Rico. In the Dominican Republic all domestic flights and flights to and from Puerto Rico and Miami were canceled.

Heavy rain and winds lashed the southern zone of the Dominican Republic last night as the hurricane passed south of the Barahona peninsula, officials reported.

Eugenio Cabral, director of the Dominican Civil Defense, said there was some flooding in parts of the capital of Santo Domingo and power outages there and other southern areas but no casualties had been reported.

Jamaican Prime Minister alerted all government agencies and told a news conference last night: "Hurricane Gilbert appears to be a real threat and everyone should follow the instructions and hurricane precautions issued by the Office of Disaster Preparedness in order to minimize the danger."

Jamaica's National Meteorological Service said if the hurricane continues on its current course effects of the storm would be felt in Jamaica by 6 a.m. EDT today.

Cuba's official Prensa Latina news agency reported a state of alert was declared at midday in the western Cuban provinces of Guantanamo, Holguin, Santiago de Cuba and Granma.

Space Shuttle faces possible launch delay into October

Associated Press

WASHINGTON- The head of the nation's space flight program cautioned yesterday that NASA might not be able to launch space shuttle Discovery on the first attempt late this month.

"I think that when we get to get to a launch date on the latter part of this month, it wouldn't surprise me at all if it took us two or three times to get airborne," said Rear Adm. Richard Truly, the head of the shuttle program.

Truly, who is NASA associate administrator for space flight, said that if two recent successful simulations of crew and launch systems had been the real thing, a launch would not have taken place because of weather and winds.

"We're going to wait until we have it right, and then we're going to do it," said Truly, a two-time shuttle astronaut. "I think the American people expect that of us and that's what we're going to do."

"It will be the last week in September unless there is a hiccup," he said.

Appearing on ABC-TV's "This Week with David Brinkley," Truly shied away from revealing a date for the launch of the first shuttle since the Challenger exploded on liftoff in January 1986, except to say it probably will be late in September.

He said there has been no administration pressure to have the shuttle program restart before the election for whatever political advantage that might give to George Bush.

Hatian gunmen massacre churchgoers

Associated Press

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti- Men armed with guns and machetes burst into the church of a militant Roman Catholic priest yesterday and killed at least three parishioners, wounded 60 and burned down the building, witnesses and news reports said.

Police stood near the church, but none came to the rescue, witnesses said. After the attack, gangs of men roamed the streets and stoned the offices of two groups opposed to the military regime of Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy.

The Rev. Jean-Bertrand Aristide, an outspoken opponent of the military government, had just begun a 9 a.m. (9 a.m. EDT) mass when a group of men began throwing rocks at the church, panicking hundreds inside who rushed for the doors, said a foreign journalist attending the service.

"Suddenly the doors at the back of the church burst open and 20 to 30 men with machetes, huge sticks and guns came in. They were dressed in civilian clothes," said the journalist, who contacted The Associated Press in New York by telephone.

"They started shooting people, beating them, and stabbing and slashing them," the reporter said. "They stabbed a woman who was pregnant. They stabbed another man who ran outside the church. He died. Some people were shot."

Estimates of the numbers of parishioners in the church ranged from 600 to 1,500.

The journalist, speaking on condition of anonymity, said at least three parishioners were killed. Parishioners surrounded and protected Aristide, who was uninjured.

Radio Haiti-Inter reported 60 people suffering from gunshot wounds and machete slashes were being treated at the public general hospital.

Firefighters responded around 10 a.m., but the fire gutted the modest cement-block church and the roof collapsed before the blaze was extinguished.

Aristide is one of the most popular opposition leaders in Haiti. There have been several attempts on his life blamed on forces loyal to the government.

Upjohn CEO: an abortion profiteer

The scheduled appearance Tuesday of Dr. Theodore Cooper, CEO of Upjohn, at the Notre Dame Law School should be of grave concern to all those who cherish and respect basic human rights. Though Dr. Cooper will be here to talk about the AIDS crisis, the activities of the company he leads cannot be divorced from him. Making an accommodation for him tells people everywhere that even though his company plays an active role in the killing of thousands of preborn babies every year, he will be held accountable for his and his company's actions; indeed, we will ignore these unpleasant facts and welcome him into "civilized" society.

The Upjohn company has been at the forefront of the development and distribution of chemicals known as prostaglandins which are used to destroy human life in its more vulnerable state: the womb. Further, Upjohn has continued to market the dangerous drug Depo-provera in the Third World even though it has not been approved for use in the U.S. For those not familiar with these assaults against humanity, a review of the record is in order.

What are prostaglandins? Prostaglandins are hormone-like substances which cause, in the words of abortion authority Dr. J. C. Wilke, "powerful and sustained contractions of the uterus (labor), at any stage of pregnancy, resulting in vaginal delivery of whatever size baby the mother carries. In early pregnancy the drug always kills the baby. In mid-pregnancy, the baby is sometimes born alive—a complication."

Upjohn was the pioneer in developing these drugs for pregnancy termination. According to a company pamphlet, "(the) company undertook development of abortion-inducing drugs because it had a medical obligation to the physician who had decided, with the patient, that a second-trimester abortion was to be performed." Three Upjohn products were approved as abortifacients in the U.S.: Prostin F2 alpha, an intra-amniotic injection to be used on mothers in the 16th to 20th week of pregnancy; Prostin E2, a vaginal suppository to be used in the 12th to 20th week of a baby's gestation; and Prostin 15M, an intramuscular injection, which is to be used anywhere between the 13th and 20th weeks of gestation. Though the marketing of Prostin F2 alpha has been stopped in the U.S., Upjohn continues to market the other two domestically, and all three are exported to the Third World. It is to be noted that two percent of the abortions in America are done using prostaglandins; that's 30,000 a year, 82 a day, or 12 every hour.

Upjohn's abortion imperialism does not end with the exportation of prostaglandins. Depo-Provera is an injectable "contraceptive" used mainly in the Third World to produce periods of "infertility" in women for up to three months. It is quite possible that the drug acts as an abortifacient itself, flushing newly conceived human embryos through the mother's womb. Regardless of the nature of the drug, it produces serious side effects—serious enough that the U.S. Food and Drug

"The Upjohn company has been at the forefront of the development and distribution of chemicals ... which are used to destroy human life in its most vulnerable state: the womb."

Administration has not even allowed testing of the drug on humans in the U.S. This does not stop Upjohn from pushing the drug elsewhere. J. Braithwaite writes "Huge quantities are being dumped on the Third World. Throughout Central America one can walk into a pharmacy and purchase Depo-Provera without a prescription." Pro-life groups are not the only ones criticizing this practice; feminists and health activists have also added their voices of opposition. Regardless, Upjohn hopes to market this poison statewide.

The officers of Upjohn must accept responsibility for their company's international assault of humanity. Unfortunately, the CEO of Upjohn, Dr. Theodore Cooper, reasserted the company's commitment of supplying abortion-producing drugs after being questioned on the topic by a stockholder at the May 17, 1988, annual stockholder's meeting in Kalamazoo, Michigan. Given the commitment of Upjohn's officers to continue their company's killing, it is clearly inappropriate for any of them to speak at any kind of forum on the campus of a Catholic university.

Lest anyone think this is a call for a litmus test for speakers on this campus, it is not. A university is to be a forum for open discussion. A line must be drawn, however, when an invitation has been extended to one whom has taken an active part in making decisions that enable our preborn brothers and sisters to be killed. Dr. Cooper is not merely a pro-choice advocate, he is an abortion profiteer. Could not another person, as qualified to speak on the topic of AIDS as Dr. Cooper apparently is, have been found that does not carry the baggage that Dr. Cooper does?

Military science complies with faith

Dear Editor:

I read with considerable interest Mr. Michael Garvey's letter of Sept. 2 concerning Major Lindsey's column of Aug. 26.

I do not believe that the presence of ROTC on campus is inappropriate nor do I believe that military science will always be profoundly at odds with my faith. The purpose of ROTC programs is to train leaders for our military units which will protect our country. I see nothing wrong with the recent examination and report on the ethical aspects of ROTC and would not object to a similar examination of the Department of Public Relations.

I do believe that it is quite possible for a person to be a member of the military or a member of the Department of Public Relations and still be a son or daughter of the same father. Indeed, a person could even be an Assistant Dean or a faculty member and maintain the same relationship.

I hope that Mr. Garvey is not on the same committee which reports to St. Peter when I apply for acceptance.

DUI sign needs to be relocated

Dear Editor:

The other day, as I was leaving campus in my car through the north gate, I noticed a sign dedicated to the memory of Michael Cogswell, a victim of drunken driving. Of course I feel that such a sign is an excellent idea, but one thought came to mind: what is it doing there? Every day professors and University employees who leave through the north gate are reminded of the tragedy of Michael's death, but this message is not primarily directed towards them. It was erected last year to remind the students of Notre Dame of the horrible consequences of drinking while intoxicated. While I realize that there isn't much of it running around on campus, I feel that it is time for those in charge to use some common sense, for a change. Why not move the sign across from the D2 parking lot, where students will see it as they are migrating off-campus and will be reminded of the tragedies that drinking and driving can cause. In its present location I do not see how it can help, so move it. Who knows, it may even do some good.

Notre Dame Encounter Uplifting

DAN STRUTZEL

Notre Dame Encounter? What's that? Wait a minute, is that one of those retreats where everyone sits around and talks about God? It's not too personal is it? Is it co-ed? Why do I need to have an encounter with Christ anyway?

Notre Dame/Saint Mary's students who have seen table tents, posters, and newspaper ads for Notre Dame Encounter for the past year and a half have been asking these questions over and over again. The idea of a retreat to deepen one's personal, spiritual, and social awareness seems interesting, while at the same time, very intimidating.

However, as many past participants, team members, and campus ministers would attest, the Notre Dame Encounter with Christ Program is one of the most unique and powerful experiences that the campus has to offer.

Jim Wimbiscus, a graduate of Notre Dame and Encounter team member said, "It's a campus-wide retreat program that allows people from all dorms and classes to gather together and experience one another, members of the faculty and staff, and most importantly, Christ. Notre Dame Encounter breeds a sense of unity and support on campus."

The mission statement of NDE provides a good outline for how the program intends to foster this unity: "NDE calls one to a personal gospel commitment: to be a witness to one's covenant with God. NDE develops this commitment in a communal process. NDE hopes to enlighten, affect, and inspire the participants to live as Christians in the world. NDE aspires to be a vehicle for God's call to covenant and community."

NDE acts as this vehicle through a two-fold process: 1) A three day weekend retreat in which every participant is called to focus on issues concerning self-knowledge and awareness, one's friendship with God, and one's responsibility to the community. 2) A follow-up program in which retreatants glimpse the needs of the campus and the world and the ability to respond to those needs. Finally, NDE gives one the power to respond by sharing the spirit in one's life with others."

The love and acceptance program, NDE hopes to be a comforting guide to a fruitful spiritual life for students. Father Paul Holland SJ, a PhD. student and campus minister for NDE, highlights three aspects of the program which are integral in one's faith development.

development. Whatever the reason, NDE fosters a communal atmosphere where people can talk about and respond to issues together.

"The response to the Encounter from students shows that there is a need for it on campus. There's a need to have a more mature response to Christianity. This comes from making one's faith more personal, rather than merely making it a creed," said Brother Bonaventure Scully, rector of Keenan Hall and a member of the NDE board.

"NDE makes faith more personal by adding the communal aspect." Scully added, "Participants begin to see Christianity as a part of one large family." NDE hopes to expand its family of participants in the future by offering six to eight retreats a year (four are offered now) and implementing an alumni encounter for returning graduates.

Just as one may have many questions about the idea of NDE, one also has unanswered questions and uncertainties about his/her faith. Conversely, just like faith, the whole experience of NDE can never be fully explained or described. What NDE does have to offer is a chance to grow in one's personal journey of self-discovery and spirituality, and to affirm one's faith in a communal process. Where one's journey will proceed from there depends on one's willingness to explore.

Seniors find NDE an excellent way to integrate their present personal and spiritual lives before they leave Notre Dame. Freshmen often look to NDE as a way to take a responsible first step in their personal faith

Visiting prof finds home in shadow of Dome

ROSE HERRMANN

This fall there is a new face circulating among the faculty of the College of Arts and Letters. Visiting from Virginia Tech, Professor Donald V. Stump will be spending a semester at Notre Dame teaching two classes in the Program of Liberal Studies.

This semester, Stump is teaching a junior-level Great Books Seminar and a sophomore tutorial, Language and Poetry.

Originally from Wyoming, Stump obtained his bachelor of arts degree in English at Grinnell College in Iowa, a liberal arts school of about 1200 students. It was the Great Books courses Stump took at Grinnell that first interested him in teaching. He was excited and intrigued by the variety of world views he was exposed to in these classes and wanted to be involved in teaching others in similar programs.

With this goal in mind, Stump decided to continue his education at Cornell University, where he completed his masters and doctoral degrees specializing in the English Renaissance. Because an understanding of the works of a wide cross section of periods was vital in understanding the Renaissance, he was able to make extensive use of his Great Books background.

Stump's professional career began with a year of teaching at Colgate. He moved on to Virginia Tech where he has spent the past nine years as a faculty member in the English department.

Stump became interested in teaching at Notre Dame when his wife-- also a faculty member at Virginia Tech-- received a senior fellowship to conduct research at the University in Philosophy of Religion. He has since been appointed as Visiting Associate Professor in the Program of Liberal Studies.

Stump is especially enjoying his involvement in the Program of Liberal Studies at Notre Dame because of its structured curriculum. Beginning in the sophomore year, the backbone of the Program of Liberal Studies is a series of seminars which progresses chronologically. This format enables the students to, "learn in a clear historical order," according to Stump.

Since the students have already studied Aristotle's philosophy in a previous seminar, they can broaden that understanding in later seminars which compare Aristotle's views to those of other authors.

"Liberal Arts approaches education as the development of the whole person," said Stump, "Instead of training students for particular careers, liberal arts teaches them a balanced variety of subjects. Consequently they are able to develop a full range of intellectual potentials."

According to Stump, people often base their views and assumptions about the world only on their own immediate culture in more career-oriented forms of education. They do not recognize that their perceptions may be "distorted by the limitations of a particular time and place."

Stump views the Program of Liberal Studies as an opportunity to study several cultures over many centuries, recognizing the best aspects of each.

This broadens the students' perspectives and enables them to be more objective about their own culture.

The students that Stump has encountered at Notre Dame seem to be devoted to this concept of broad education. "They are excited about what they are learning. They want to participate in class and are well prepared with good answers," he said.

After completing his semester at Notre Dame, Stump will spend the following months working on a book on tragedy and epic. He plans to return to teaching at Virginia Tech in the fall.

Women's c.c. falls to Hoyas in opener

By MARY GARINO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's cross country team opened its third varsity season on Saturday by facing a strong Georgetown team. Although the Irish were not intimidated, they were not solid enough to topple the Hoyas, who defeated the Irish by a final score of 21-38.

Georgetown took seven of the top 10 spots in the race. Elizabeth Brendan and Chris Brough, both from Georgetown, placed first and second with respective times of 18:36 and 18:54. Notre Dame's first three finishers were freshman Lucy Nusrala (third), senior Theresa Rice (fifth) and senior Terry Kibelstis (seventh). A group of Irish runners filled all the last eight places.

"I was a little disappointed that nobody emerged from the pack to be fourth, fourth fifth, sixth and seventh," said Irish coach Tim Connelly. "I was hoping someone would come out."

Irish sophomore Jenny Ledrick, who Connelly was hoping would be the team's fourth runner, was held out because of a slight injury. Connelly didn't want to risk her in the season's first meet.

Connelly was pleased with the performance of his top three finishers.

"We knew that we had three that could run with anyone and they did," he said. "I was really happy with Lucy and Theresa. And Terry ran great. Overall, we ran well."

The Irish next will compete in the National Catholics, which Notre Dame will host on Sept. 30. Connelly predicts at least a fifth place finish from among the approximately 20 teams competing. Rice, the Notre Dame captain, backed this up.

"We'll run more competitively I'm sure," she said.

UCLA tops Nebraska; Mich. St. upset

"The fans were on fire, the team was on fire, everything was clicking, everything was working," Donahue said after his fifth-ranked Bruins scored 28 points in the first quarter and upset second-ranked Nebraska 41-28 Saturday.

"That was the best quarter of football I've seen in my tenure at UCLA," said Donahue, who earned his 100th victory since becoming the Bruins' head coach in 1976.

Troy Aikman threw three first-quarter touchdown passes, including two to Charles Arbuckle, as UCLA avenged three losses to the Cornhuskers in the last five years.

In another clash of ranked teams, Reggie Ho kicked the last of a school-record four field goals with 1:13 left to give No. 13 Notre Dame a 19-17 victory over No. 9 Michigan.

The only ranked team to lose to an unrated school was No. 15 Michigan State, beaten 17-13 by Rutgers.

In other games involving the Top Ten, it was No. 3 Clemson 23, Furman 3; No. 4 Oklahoma 28, North Carolina 0; No. 6 Southern California 24, Stanford 20; No. 7 Auburn 20, Kentucky 10; No. 8 Georgia 38, Texas Christian 10, and No. 10

Florida State 49, Southern Mississippi 13.

In the Second Ten, it was No. 12 West Virginia 45, Fullerton St. 10, No. 14 Alabama 37, Temple 0; No. 16 South Carolina 38, Western Carolina 0; No. 17 Iowa 45, Kansas St. 10; No. 18 Penn State 42, Virginia 14, and No. 20 Washington 20, Purdue 6.

Rutgers 17, Mich. St. 13

Scott Erney completed 25 of 36 passes for 239 yards and two touchdowns, and Doug Kokoskie had a key fumble recovery as Rutgers stunned the defending Big Ten and Rose Bowl champions.

Kokoskie's fumble recovery killed a fourth-quarter drive by Michigan State after the Spartans had moved 50 yards to the Rutgers 15. On first down, Blake Ezor, who gained 196 yards on 33 carries, was tackled for a 1-yard loss. Ezor ran right for six yards on the next play, but fumbled the ball.

Clemson 23, Furman 3

Tailback Terry Allen scored two touchdowns and freshman Chris Gardocki kicked three field goals for Clemson, 2-0.

The Tigers struggled on an overcast afternoon at Clemson, S.C., in beating Furman, 1-1, an NCAA Division I-AA team that had entered the game with a 3-1-1 record since 1982 against Atlantic Coast Conference teams.

Oklahoma 28, UNC 0

The quarterback tandem of Janelle Holieway and Charles Thompson paced Oklahoma's wishbone attack to 391 yards on the ground, and the two combined to complete three of six passes for 72 yards.

Thompson ran eight yards to cap the second of three sustained Oklahoma scoring drives in the first half. Holieway completed the scoring when, after a penalty enabled the Sooners to eschew a field goal in favor of a first down, he ran four yards around end with 7:54 left in the game.

Ho, a senior pre-med major with a 3.8 grade-point average and junior eligibility, did not try out for the team until the spring of 1987 because he wanted to concentrate on academics.

"I thought I was going to flunk out of school," he said.

Ho tied the Notre Dame record of four field goals in a game, a feat last accomplished by John Carney in 1986 against Southern Methodist.

"Reggie always makes those," Irish head coach Lou Holtz said. "I told him that it was just like practice, and not to make it bigger than it really was."

The Irish got off to a bigger start than many expected when Ricky Watters took a low, 53-yard punt from Gillette 81 yards for a touchdown early in the first quarter. Watters raced through a huge hole in the middle of the field, made a cut to the left and sprinted into the end zone untouched.

Key blocks were thrown by freshmen Rodney Culver and Raghib Ismail.

"I don't deserve any credit at all," Watters said. "I just caught the ball and ran. You could hear the blocks all around."

The Irish took a 13-0 lead on Ho's first two field goals of the game. The second kick was set up when Notre Dame freshman Arnold Ale recovered a fumble by Michigan's Leroy Hoard on a punt return late in the first quarter.

D'Juan Francisco forced the fumble when he jolted Hoard in full stride.

But the Michigan defensive line, which allowed the Irish 91 rushing yards in the first quarter, held Notre Dame scoreless for most of the second quarter and all of the third.

Michigan took advantage of some breaks on special teams to get on the board and eventually take the lead, despite solid play from all units on the Notre Dame defense.

Tony Boles took the kickoff 59 yards after Ho's second field goal before Francisco caught him from behind on the Notre Dame 38. Hoard dove over the top from the 1-yard line 12 plays later to make the score 13-7.

A misfielded punt by Watters in the third quarter led to the second Wolverine score. Watters signaled for a fair catch deep in Irish territory, but slipped as he approached the ball, which bounced off his leg and was recovered by the Wolverines.

Michigan quarterback Michael Taylor scored on a fourth-and-goal play from one yard out, faking a handoff and jogging in on a nifty bootleg to give Michigan a 14-13 edge.

But it turned into a tense game of defense and field goals from that point, and Ho and the Irish answered every Wolverine strike.

"Our football team answered the challenge every time," said Holtz, whose squad trailed 14-13 and 17-16 before it was over. "I thought it was one great football game. Our defense played exceptionally well. We were as physical as I thought we would be."

Junior inside linebacker Mike Stonebreaker was all over the field, making two solo tackles and 17 assisted ones.

Irish quarterback Tony Rice was 3-of-12 passing with one interception, a bullet which bounced off Watters' chest and into the hands of David Key.

Senior Mark Green led Notre Dame in rushing with 68 yards on 18 carries. Boles picked up 83 yards on 25 rushes for Michigan.

The world according to Ho

By MARTY STRASEN
Sports Editor

Walk-on placekicker Reggie Ho not only impressed Notre Dame fans with his poise and accuracy, but also impressed many members of the media with his humility in answering post-game questions.

● On the pressure of his 26-yard game-winning field goal:
 "Nobody was going to hit me, so I wasn't too nervous."

● On the possibility of receiving a football scholarship in the future:

"They've given me the opportunity to play football for Notre Dame. There's no way I'm going to take money from them. They've given me enough already. The privilege of kicking here is all I want."

● On being tossed around by his teammates after field goals:

"Sure, I feel it. But as long as we get the momentum going for the team, they can hit me as hard as they want."

● On the decision to play football in the spring of 1987, after spending his first two years at Notre Dame concentrating on his pre-med studies:

"I thought I was going to flunk out of school at first. But then I did pretty well first semester, and second, third and fourth. I decided I didn't want to be a geek, so I went out for the football team."

● On how he planned to celebrate the victory Saturday night:
 "Study."

shield block and, as Watters put it:

"It really says something about your (blocking) wedge when you're looking at an open field at your own 40 (yard line)."

On the drive that put Notre Dame in position for Ho's 26-yard game-winning field goal, Anthony Johnson picked up a key block downfield, taking out two would-be tacklers, when Tony Rice kept for 21 yards on the option. Two plays later, wideout Pat Eilers took out another two defenders on Rice's swing pass to Tony Brooks, which picked up another 18 yards. When you consider the relative ease of booting a 26-yard field goal as opposed to one from 35 yards or beyond (with a rookie kicker, no less) to win or lose the game, those two blocks could have made the difference.

And it's doubtful that a group of football players could have had a more quietly outstanding game than the members of the Notre Dame secondary.

Michigan quarterback Michael Taylor had one of the best receiving corps in the nation to work with in Greg McMurtry, John Kolesar and Chris Calloway, but those three receivers had a combined total of just 60 yards in catches. The great coverage helped enable the defensive line to record two sacks, several scrambling short gains by Taylor and a few errant tosses.

How about the punting? Did anybody notice that rookie punter Jim Sexton averaged 43 yards a punt in his first varsity game? He booted a 41-yarder from his own end zone under heavy pressure to keep Michigan near midfield in the third quarter.

And now back to Ho. A lot of credit has to be given to snapper Tim Grunhard and holder Pete Graham, who were flawless on all four of Ho's kicks.

"It was a little bit of luck," agreed Irish captain John Guignon, "but from last year we knew that we could play with them. They're No. 2 in the nation, so we were pretty satisfied with the tie."

Indiana, now 2-0-1, played like the second-ranked team in the nation, owning a 22-4 edge in shots. But the Irish defense came up big when it had to. "We played an outstanding soccer game," said Indiana head coach Jerry Yeagely. "We took it to Notre Dame from start to finish. When we keep a team to four shots, you don't lose too many games. So that's the disappointment, because our players did come out and play a beautiful game, and they deserved to win."

With Notre Dame now 3-0-1 after Sunday's win over Xavier, Grace believes that the tie puts his squad on the right track for the NCAA tournament.

"At the end of the year, when Indiana rattles off another 15 wins and is ranked nationally, and the only team to tie them is Notre Dame, the NCAA steering committee has to take a look at that, especially since the game was played at IU," said Grace. "They have to give us the recognition now."

Graf takes Grand Slam

Associated Press

NEW YORK—It took 18 years for tennis to get another Grand Slam winner. The next wait could be much shorter.

Minutes after Steffi Graf completed the Slam with a victory over Gabriela Sabatini at the U.S. Open Saturday, some people were predicting the 19-year-old West German might sweep the four major tournaments again next year.

"It's a tough assignment, but she's such a good player and she's so strong and determined that it's definitely possible," said CBS commentator Tony Trabert, who won five Grand Slam tournament singles titles in the 1950s.

"I think her biggest potential threat is Wimbledon. Grass is her least favorite surface because she takes such a big swing and because of the bad footing."

Billie Jean King, who won 12 Grand Slam tournament singles titles, also thinks Graf can become the first player to win consecutive Grand Slams.

"She has the determination to be a great champion, the potential to be one of the best ever," King said.

"Steffi beat all the top players in all four tournaments. And she looks like she might be able to do it some more."

King said Graf's feat was more difficult than the first five Slams: Don Budge in 1938, Maureen Connolly in 1953, Rod Laver in 1962 and 1969, and Margaret Court in 1970.

"It's more impressive now because all the best players go to all the Grand Slams," King said.

"When I was playing, you would skip the Australian a lot and not even go to the French all the time. The clay courts were so different for us, and Australia meant going away for three months."

Irish down Michigan in battle of kickers

Ho becomes ND's biggest little hero

By MARTY STRASEN
Sports Editor

Notre Dame's most dangerous weapon came in the form of a 5-5, 135-pound walk-on who said he tried out for the football team because he "didn't want to be a geek."

Irish placekicker Reggie Ho nailed an Irish record four field goals, including a game-winning 26-yarder with a minute and 13 seconds remaining, to lift Notre Dame to a 19-17 victory in an opening-night thriller at Notre Dame Stadium.

Mike Gillette, Michigan's all-time leading field goal kicker who booted a 49-yarder to give the Wolverines a 17-16 lead with 5:39 left, missed a 48-yard attempt on the last play of the game. The ball fell wide to the right, giving Notre Dame its second opening-game victory over Michigan in as many years.

But Ho, who split the uprights from 31, 38 and 26 yards before the winning kick, was unfazed by the pressure of the game's final moments.

"Sure I was a little nervous," the Hawaii native said. "But I have the best holder in the world in Pete Graham, the best snapper in the world in Tim Grunhard and 280-pound guys on the line. Nobody was going to hit me, so I wasn't too nervous."

Reggie Ho (2) is mobbed by his Notre Dame teammates, including Pete Graham (11) and Bryan Flannery (92), after kicking a 26-yard field goal with 1:13 left in the game. The field goal, Ho's fourth of the evening, proved to be the gamewinner as the Irish won 19-17.

Small details key year-opening win

By PETE SKIKO
Assistant Sports Editor

The cynics will say that Notre Dame was just plain lucky to come out of Saturday night's 19-17 squeaker with Michigan with an unblemished record.

They'll say that without Ricky Waters' touchdown punt return, the accurate foot of unlikely hero Reggie Ho and a last-second miss from Michigan's record-setting placekicker Mike Gillette, the Irish probably would have been scoreless and certainly winless.

But although the Irish undoubtedly have a long way to go in a lot of areas before they can seriously consider themselves national title contenders, they did a lot of little things that contributed directly to the win and also indicated potential.

Not the least of these little things was timely offensive blocking, something that was perhaps most scrutinized as the primary team weakness before the game. Irish running backs racked up a quiet but impressive 226 net yards rushing behind an inexperienced line. And that line faced a defensive line regarded as one of the best in the country by most informed observers.

But equally impressive was the timely blocking off the line of scrimmage. Raghib "Rocket" Ismail sprung Waters' touchdown sprint with a key

Cross country team pounds Georgetown to begin season

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Sports Writer

In its first meet of the season, the Notre Dame men's cross country team soundly defeated defending Big East champion Georgetown on Saturday.

The victory, very decisive in nature, saw the Irish take first through fourth place and six of the top eight finishes. Notre Dame won by a margin of 16-44.

Few people anticipated such a whipping, especially since the whole Georgetown team was healthy. Last year, with the Hoyas' top three runners not competing, the Irish beat them 18-41.

"I think Notre Dame is an excellent team," said Georgetown coach Frank Gagliano. "They can do well at the national level. Naturally, I'm very disappointed in my own team, not to take anything away from the Notre Dame team."

The Irish were competing without Pat Kearns and Rick Mulvey, two of their top runners who both sat the meet out with injuries. The big victory was a testament to the depth of this year's squad.

"We're a good team," said Irish coach Joe Piane. "We competed a little bit better than they did."

Classify that insight as a considerable understatement. Georgetown might not have run quite up to its potential, but the Irish had a spectacular meet.

The meet was won by fifth-year senior captain Dan Garrett and senior Ron Markezich, with identical times of 24:56 for five miles. Third and fourth place were occupied by juniors Tom O'Rourke and Mike O'Connor with identical times of 25:18.

The closest Georgetown competitor, Mike O'Donahue, finished 32 seconds behind the leaders for a fifth-place finish of 25:28.

Sophomore Ryan Cahill finished in sixth place with a time of 25:40, and sophomore Matt Ronzone finished in eighth place at 26:10.

The word for the day was dominance.

But Piane was not about to go overboard in praise of his runners this early in the season.

"We can have an excellent team," he said. "But we can be considerably better. There's always things that can be improved, but it's a nice way to start the season."

The runners agreed with Piane.

"The team ran really well," said junior Mike O'Connor. "This is a catapult for the rest of the season."

"There's a lot of room for improvement," continued the junior from Brightwaters, N.Y. "We're looking to mature and develop by the time season finals come around. We want a close team and a lot of support between members."

Co-victor Ron Markezich echoed O'Connor.

"We're obviously looking good, and we have to remember we're missing two guys," said the Williamsville, N.Y., resident. "We're geared for the end of the season. We're just looking forward to improve."

Irish tie Indiana 1-1

By PETE GEGEN
Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON—The Irish soccer team used a little luck and game-saving plays from Bruce "Tiger" McCourt and Danny Lyons to tie No. 2 Indiana 1-1 Friday night at Jack Armstrong Stadium.

The Hoosiers controlled play much of the game, but could only finish off one offensive chance when Han Roest headed in a Sean Shapert cross to give Indiana the lead.

But with just 6:26 left to play, McCourt scored from an impossible angle to send the game into overtime. Indiana keeper Juergen Sommer came out of the net expecting a cross from the corner by McCourt, but Notre Dame's leading scorer shot behind Sommer and hit the inside far post for the goal.

Then, with seven minutes left in overtime, Lyons stopped Shapert's penalty kick to preserve the tie. The play was reminiscent of last season's 4-3 overtime win, when Lyons stopped a penalty kick with two minutes left to play.

"Maybe it was the luck of the Irish, I don't know," said Irish head coach Dennis Grace. "Indiana did so many things against us - we couldn't counter, we couldn't gain control. But my hat goes off to our team. They have a way about them."

Soccer team defeats Xavier

By TIM SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

Maybe he should have expected a letdown.

Besides, his team had been through an exhilarating weekend, having tied No. 2 Indiana 1-1 on the road Friday night.

But by no means does Notre Dame Head Men's Soccer Coach Dennis Grace plan to accept his team's sloppy and disinterested play in its 4-2 victory over Xavier Sunday at Moose Krause Stadium.

"I just don't think they were mentally prepared," said Grace. "I'll take the blame for some of that—I cancelled our usual meeting after Friday's game—but we'll be out tomorrow (Monday), even though we usually don't practice on Mondays after (two-game) weekends."

Despite the ragged play, the Irish controlled the action for the entire first half and most of the second, as Grace substituted more liberally. Early first-half action saw Notre Dame controlling the ball in the Xavier end, but lacking the crisp passing which leads to good scoring chances.

Finally, nearly 30 minutes into the game, sophomore Danny Stebbins directed a sharp crossing pass by Bruce "Tiger" McCourt past Xavier keeper Matt Spagnoli to open the scoring.

Less than five minutes later, as the Irish maintained offensive pressure, senior midfielder Joe Sternberg lifted a pass from Mitch Kern past Spagnoli and into the top, left corner of the net.

The Irish, though controlling play, seemed to have too much trouble with an overmatched Musketeer squad.

"Defensively, I wasn't pleased at all," said Grace. "It just wasn't there."

Xavier moved within one goal early in the second half on a powerful boot by forward Jim Ferello.

Notre Dame responded quickly as McCourt was decked on a breakaway try, and John Guignon made good on the resulting penalty kick.

The two teams traded goals over the next 10 minutes (Tom Connaghan scoring for the Irish), and from there played uninspired soccer.

"Coming off the emotional IU game and then the exciting football win, I maybe should have expected something," said Grace. "But it will be a shame if we need a loss in order for us to get fired up."
