NORFOLK, Va. - Relatives and friends of the 1,600 crewmen of the USS Iowa, the battleship scarred by a blast that killed 47 sailors, gathered Sunday at the Norfolk Naval Base to await the ship's arrival.

The explosion Wednesday flashed through the Iowa's No. 2 gun turret, which extends six decks down into the ship. There were 11 survivors inside the turret, all on the lowest deck loading powder from the ship's magazines, the Navy said.

Churches throughout the area dedicated prayers Sunday morning to the families of Iowa crewmen.

"We have lost 47 of our number in a tragic way," said Cmdr. John Fitzgerald, a chaplain, in a service at the Norfolk Naval Air Station. "Our faith helps us to handle what science cannot answer, the mystery of death."

A red rose, a yellow ribbon with the number 47 on it and a book containing the names of the dead were taken to the altar.

Fitzgerald said the Iowa tragedy and that of a recently lost Soviet submarine "put political differences aside and unite the human family as one."

On Monday morning, President Bush will lead a memorial service in a base hangar that can accommodate 3,000 people.

The families of the victims were invited, but Navy officials said they did not know how many would attend. None of the victims listed the Norfolk area as their hometown.

The Navy has refused to speculate on the cause of the explosion, which damaged only the inside of the turret.

But Navy teams who entered the turret immediately after the blast found the No. 2 gun's breech open and undamaged.

Hayes speaks at SMC dinner

CATHY FLYNN

Actress Helen Hayes was the guest presenter at the 10th anniversary Madaleva Society dinner Saturday night. The dinner recognized the most generous donors to Saint Mary's.

"I really do feel as if I've come home," said Hayes. The 88-year-old actress visited Saint Mary's several times between 1934 and 1961, when her friend Sister Madaleva Wolff was president.

Hayes was cited by coordinator Becky Drury as the most likely choice as a speaker for the dinner because of her close relationship with Sister Madaleva. The Madaleva Society, which was named in her honor, has raised over 4 million dollars since its inception in 1979, according to William Hickey, president of Saint Mary's.

"I loved the friendship we had," Hayes said of her relationship with Madaleva. "We had such a giggly companionship and a serious one too."

Madaleva invited Hayes to the campus for the first time in 1955, for the laying of the cornerstone in Moreau Hall fine arts complex. Hayes said that she was awed and frightened by Madaleva's reputation as an intellect and poet.

"Since these are the first words that an actress has delivered from this platform," said Hayes, christening the partially-completed O'Laughlin Auditorium, "I hope they may find their way into some of the cornices and rest there."

O'Laughlin was to be a place where plays could be polished before they went to the bigger theaters, said Dennis Andres, director of Conference and Events at Saint Mary's. Madaleva invited many famous people during her tenure.

"I had been promoting greater support for university theater when I was on the Council of the Arts under Kennedy," Hayes said. "I said we should support the university theater instead of the Theater of the Absurd and it has saved the American theater to a great extent."

An honorary doctor of law degree was awarded to Hayes in 1956. That was the day she became part of the Saint Mary's family, she said. Acting in Thornton Wilder's, "The Skin of Our Teeth" in 1960, she spent two weeks on campus. In 1985, she endowed a $50,000 scholarship fund in Madaleva's name.

"I wish I were here as a freshman with four lovely years ahead of me," said Hayes. "May the vision of Sister Madaleva continue into eternity."

Winning her first Oscar in 1931 for her role in "The Sin of Madame Claudet," Hayes went on to win a second time in 1971 for a supporting role in "Airport." She was the first actress ever to win both a best actress and best supporting actress Oscar.

Other noted films of Hayes's include "Arrowsmith," "A Farewell to Arms," and "Anastasia." Her television work in-

Students call for reform in China

Protest has violent episodes

Many students also called for Premier Li Peng's resignation and hung posters on campus mocking him.

The official Xinhua News Agency said Monday's People's Daily newspaper contained a commentary that warned: "Social turmoil can only do good to an extremely small number of people with ulterior motives."

About 150,000 people joined Saturday in one of the biggest protests in Communist China's 40-year history, holding a 15-hour rally at Beijing's Tiananmen Square. Authorities allowed the protest to unfold, but students alleged Sunday that police beat several and injured one seriously.

Worse violence was reported Saturday in Xian and Changsha. The state-run Xinhua News Agency said rioters in Xian, a popular tourist city and capital of northwestern China's Shaanxi province, forced their way into the provincial government compound and burned buildings and vehicles.

It said 130 security officers were injured and 18 people were arrested. Xinhua said the melee began after students who had been mourning Hu left the scene.

Seventy-three National Guard recruits were hospitalized briefly in the second mass food poisoning involving security forces in two weeks, the official Kuwait News Agency reported Sunday. Recruits at the National Guard Training College were apparently poisoned Saturday by the iftar, the meal with which Moslems break a daylight fast during the holy month of Ramadan, the agency said. They were admitted to hospitals and released a few hours later, the agency said. In a similar incident two weeks ago, 400 police cadets fell ill after an iftar meal at the Police Academy. Thirteen were hospitalized, the agency said.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

A 10-year-old boy was buried waist-high in more than 2,000 pounds of bricks when a chimney collapsed, but police say the child was not seriously injured and was in stable condition Sunday. Joseph Stanley Williams was playing in an empty lot near his home when the chimney, all that was left of a house formerly on the lot, collapsed Saturday, said Clayton County police Lt. George Pinson. It took rescue workers about 20 minutes to free the boy. He was taken by helicopter to Scottish Rite Hospital, where he was listed in stable condition with a fractured thighbone. Pinson said Joseph and another boy apparently were beating on the chimney with sticks when it collapsed.

Black Muslim minister Louis Farrakhan brought a fiery close to the African American Summit '89 in New Orleans on Sunday, accusing government leaders of formulating secret policies to perpetuate poverty and drug abuse among blacks. Summit chairman Richard Hatcher, former mayor of Gary, Ind., who organized a similar gathering in his home city in 1972, defended the invitation to the controversial Farrakhan. Citing statistics showing declines in white births, Farrakhan said powerful whites want to destroy the black community to keep from losing power in the next century. Farrakhan called poverty a subtle form of genocide and said highly addictive crack cocaine may have been introduced in low income areas by people who wanted black youths to "sell death to each other."

WNVI-AM in North Vernon, a town of 6,000 residents, has adopted the call letters of the fictional radio station in the 1970s television comedy "WKRP in Cincinnati." Federal Communications Commission regulations allow just one station at a time to have the call letters. WNVI management jumped at the chance to capitalize on the name recognition when the last WKRP in Dallas, Ga., decided to change its name.

More than 11,000 men and women were incarcerated in Indiana prisons in 1988, an increase of 5.3 percent over the previous year, the Justice Department reported on Sunday. Nationally, a record 627,402 men and women were held in federal and state prisons at the end of last year, an increase of 7.4 percent over 1987. Indiana's prison population at the end of 1988 totaled 11,406, compared with 10,827 at the end of 1987. But prison construction has not kept pace with the inmate population, the report found, with overall prison capacity increasing by just 5.5 percent in 1988.

Give me pancakes or give me death

'The pancake breakfast will be sorely missed if it's cancelled again.'

Robyn Simmons
Assistant Accent Editor

Finals week is fast approaching; we only have more weeks until the descent into hell begins. Despite the grueling tortures of finals, there was always one glimmer of hope, sort of a calm before the storm: the midnight pancake breakfast.

As most of you already know, the pancake breakfast is served on the Sunday night before finals. Alumni and other friends of the University serve the food, and the students get to blow off a little steam before they get back to the books. It's a great time-- probably the only time in the entire year that I enjoy going to the Dining Hall.

Last semester, a lot of us were looking forward to what we thought was a Dining Hall tradition. We told all of the freshmen in our section how great the pancake breakfast was going to be until we realized that there wasn't going to be one that semester. Mysteriously, the pancake breakfast was taken off of the Dining Hall's menu.

I don't know why the University Food Services decided against having the pancake breakfast last semester, and I don't know whether or not there will be a pancake breakfast this semester, but I do know one thing: we want it back. The pancake breakfast will be sorely missed if it's cancelled again.

So with two more weeks until the eve of finals week, I've decided to make a pitch to your friend and mine, Mr. Bill Hickey, the Director of Food Services, to let him know just how much we want the pancake breakfast to return.

Dear Mr. Hickey,

I am writing you this letter as a formal request to bring back the midnight breakfast on the Sunday before finals. If you've already decided to have the breakfast, ignore the rest of this letter. If you have decided against the breakfast or are currently undecided, please read on.

I don't know why the breakfast was cancelled and I'm sure you had a very good reason to cancel it, so let's start with a clean slate and let me present my arguments for bringing back the breakfast this semester. I figure that you're a groovy guy and you'll take my request into consideration. First, just think about all of those poor deprived freshmen who never got to experience the excitement of the midnight pancake supper. And just think what a pleasant memory it would be for our graduating seniors.

Also, the pancake breakfast is a real morale booster. After we eat our pancakes, we'll want to study some more, the more we study, the better our grades, the better our grades, the happier we are, the happier we are, the happier our parents are, the happier our parents are, the happier their co-workers, neighbors and relatives are. That's a lot of joy you're spreading with just one pancake breakfast.

One more thing, if you let us have this pancake breakfast we promise to behave. We won't throw food after football games. We won't make fun of the meatless cheeseburgers. Instead of saying "Oh no, not again!" we will say, "Mmmm. Yummy. I love shells and sauce." Instead of saying, "What's That?!" we will say, "The cheese, brocoli and rice casserole looks particularly appetizing today."

I hope you bring back the pancake breakfast. I think that everyone will have a good time and we will be eternally grateful. The midnight pancake breakfast is truly a Notre Dame moment.

Sincerely,
Robyn Simmons

P.S. I don't care what anyone else says, but I love the Chicken Patties.

Observing Hitler's birthday

A group of about 20 Nazi sympathizers celebrate the 100th anniversary of Adolf Hitler's birthday on Thursday in Sao Paulo, Brazil's largest city. The demonstrators, members of the Brazilian National Socialist Party, donned swastikas and made stiff-armed Nazi salutes while carrying the Brazilian flag.

1987 plane crash is reinvestigated

Associated Press

DETROIT - The pilots involved in a deadly 1987 airliner crash, blamed in part on a warning system failure, may have intentionally disconnected a similar alarm on another jet two days earlier, the plane's maker says.

In a petition filed with the National Transportation Safety Board, Douglas Aircraft Co., a division of McDonnell Douglas Corp., said the pilots pulled a warning system circuit breaker on the first plane, interrupting power to the system and silencing an unwanted warning, The Detroit News reported Sunday.

The same pilots, John Maus and David Dodds, were in control of Northwest Flight 255, a McDonnell Douglas MD-80, when it crashed on takeoff at Detroit Metropolitan Airport on Aug. 16, 1987.

The pilots died, along with 154 other people, including two people on the ground. The only survivor from the plane was a 4-year-old girl. It was the second worst aircraft accident in U.S. history behind the 1979 crash of an American Airlines jet near Chicago that killed 275 people.

The NTSB concluded last May that the warning system on the MD-80 failed to alert the pilots that they hadn't set the wing flaps and slats, which provide added lift for takeoff.

The board faulted the pilots for not setting the flaps and slats and failing to complete a routine preflight checklist. The board also said power to the warning system was interrupted, but couldn't determine why.

Flight records show Maus and Dodds landed that plane in Santa Ana, Calif., on Aug. 14, 1987, and the plane stayed on the ground until Hodges entered the cockpit the next day, Douglas' petition said.

DePauw U. pianist and violinist perform at ND

By JANICE O'LEARY
News Staff

Violinist Dan Rizner of DePauw University performed in concert with Claude Cyberman playing piano on Sunday.

The team has been performing together for seven years, although this is the first time they have played this particular program. The program included selections by Ludwig van Beethoven, Johannes Brahms and Sergei Prokofiev.

After the concert, family and friends greeted the duo with cries of "Bravo," and Rizner's father commented that "they play well together." Cyberman, who played at Notre Dame's Snite two years ago, said he was "pleased with the new piano."

The recital was part of an exchange program with DePauw University, where Rizner and Cyberman are associate professors of violin and piano respectively.

Rizner began playing violin in the fifth grade and eventually went on to receive his bachelor's degree from Michigan State University, where he was a student of Walter Verdehr. He holds a master's degree from Yale University, where he studied with Broadus Erle and Syoko Aki. At Yale, he was a recipient of the Stuart Walker Memorial Award, which is given to one outstanding violin major.

He has served as concertmaster of the Lansing, Mich., Symphony Orchestra and as first violinist of the New Haven, Conn., and Grand Teton, Wyo., Festival Orchestras. He is an active chamber musician and recitalist and has performed for the past nine years at the Grand Teton Music Festival.

As a soloist, Rizner has performed with the Depauw Symphony and the Philharmonic Orchestra of Indianapolis. Recently, he was appointed to the faculty at the Strings in the Mountains Music Festival.

Claude Cyberman began his piano studies at age seven in his native Metz, France. A student of Pierre Sancan at the Conservatoire National Supérieur de Musique de Paris, he took first prize there in piano by the unanimous vote of the jury in 1966.

He emigrated to the United States in 1972 and began graduate work in piano and chamber music at Indiana University, studying with Gyorgy Sebok, Janos Starker and Menaham Pressler.

He performs often as a recitalist, a chamber musician and a soloist with major orchestras, including: the Paris Conservatory, the Indianapolis Symphony, the Orchestre de L'ile de France, the French Radio Orchestra and the Luxembourg Radio Orchestra. Cyberman made his Carnegie Hall debut with Romanian violinist Sherban Lupu in 1985.

Concession stand to stay open for summer

By MISSY WEBER
Staff Reporter

The new fieldhouse mall concession stand is scheduled to stay open through the end of summer school said Larry Schaack, assistant manager of the Huddle.

The booth opened on the afternoon of April 18 during the snowstorm and is managed by the Huddle under University Food Services.

Foods such as hot dogs, nachos, popcorn, ice cream novelties and soda are sold at the booth and the prices are identical to those in the Huddle.

The concession stand is open from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the weekdays.

The idea for the booth began last summer during summer school when a hot dog cart was rather successful said Schaack. "The cart involved too much time to be set up and torn down each day," said Schaack, "We (the Huddle) wanted something more permanent."

Schaack said he did not know if the Huddle had plans to open the booth next fall and spring. "I'm sure we'll do something next spring if this proves successful," said Schaack.

USSR space program challenged

Associated Press

MOSCOW- Soviets once danced in the streets to celebrate their country's space successes, hailed by the party as proof of the superiority of socialism.

But with chronic shortages of everything from toothpaste to housing, the cheers are now drowned out by calls to spend available rubles on Earth.

The Soviet space program has become the latest target of criticism as President Mikhail Gorbachev's policy of "glasnost," or openness, unleashes long-suppressed public complaints.

Untold billions of rubles were spent to put the first Sputnik satellite in orbit 1957, to make Yuri Gagarin the first man in space in 1961, and to achieve other space feats.

On April 12, the anniversary of Gagarin's flight in Vostok-1, a newspaper recalled how Soviets celebrated the news by singing and dancing through the streets.

But more than 31 years after Sputnik circled the globe, Soviet space exploration has not realized the prediction of rocket pioneer Konstantin Tsiolkovsky, who said harnessing the cosmos would bring "mountains of bread and enormous power" to those who mastered it.

Soviets began soul-searching about space expenses after a series of problems with their country's space program. The problems coincided with official pressure to cut a $162 billion budget deficit and growing impatience with shortages of food, consumer goods and housing.

In part for economy reasons, the Mir space lab will be without a crew for three months starting Thursday when three cosmonauts return to Earth.

The debate on Soviet space spending is reminiscent of the American public's questioning of the billions of dollars spent on the Apollo project in the 1960s and 1970s to put men on the moon while some Americans lived in poverty.

Controversy over space spending spilled into the open early this year in the campaign for a new Parliament. Candidates, including maverick Communist Boris Yeltsin, received some popular support when they suggested the space program be put on hold for a few years.

The Kremlin already has reduced outlays for another institution once outside public criticism, the military. Last year, Soviet leaders announced some defense plants will be converted to produce consumer goods, food and building supplies to parry chronic shortages.

Adding fuel to the space-spending controversy were the November launch of the $10 billion shuttle Buran; the loss in September and March of two unmanned Mars probes, Phobos I and II, at a cost of a half-billion dollars; and embarrassing delays caused by technical problems and human error in the landings of the last two crews from Mir last year.

Opposition grew when space officials hungry for foreign currency last month chose a Japanese for the first commercial trip to Mir. The price tag was $11 million.

Defenders of space exploration emphasize the benefits of technology and information transfers to the Earth-bound economy. The Tass news agency recently reported that more than $2 billion was spent on space research in the Soviet Union last year and that economic benefits totaled $3.2 billion.

Satellites have gathered weather information, extended television and telephone service, aided navigation of ships and located mineral and oil deposits, according to articles in state-run media.

Pravda and other newspapers say public support has declined because space officials tout successes and hide problems.

Pursuit continues in pipe bombing

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS- Some amid fragments of the pipe bomb that exploded in the hand of a 5-year-old girl at the Castleton K mart last week may be the signature of the person who built it.

Federal agents in a Rockville, Md., lab who have begun to study those fragments say they've solved similar cases because of their eye for identifying marks that bombers leave behind.

"Most people think with bombings and arsons that the evidence is destroyed," said Richard Tontarski, forensic lab chief with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. "They're wrong. There's a tremendous amount of evidence that remains."

Indianapolis bureau agents and Marion County sheriff's detectives reported no progress Saturday, acknowledging that the flood of telephone tips that followed the bombing appears to be drying up.

The victim, Erin Bower, was in satisfactory condition at Methodist Hospital. She lost most her left hand to the blast and her left eye was injured.

Investigators still are trying to identify two men seen leaving the store moments after the bombing Monday night.

Someone matching the description of one of those men had been in the store three days before, buying BB's like those packed into the pipe bomb.

Rewards totaling more than $35,000 are being offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a suspect.

Six out-of-town bureau agents will join the investigation this week, bringing to more than 20 the detectives working full time to solve the bombing case. But the solution may lie in the work of the three agents assigned to the case in the Rockville lab.

The key, Tontarski said, probably will be identifying the brands of the various components in the bomb- the gunpowder, the electronic detonator, the pipe.

Lab work once helped to implicate a suspect in the bombings of several abortion clinics in Florida and Washington, D.C., by identifying the relatively rare explosive he used- so rare that investigators could trace it to the store where he bought it. The suspect, already suspected in the bombings, had used a false name in buying the explosives.

Ethics committee continues with investigation of Wright

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The House ethics committee investigation of Speaker Jim Wright moves to San Antonio this week, where panel members will interview the Texas businessmen involved in an oil well investment that netted large profits for the blind trust held for the embattled Democratic lawmaker.

Two committee members and panel investigators reportedly will spend three days in Texas, beginning Monday, to interview San Antonio financier Morris Jaffee; his business associate and son, Doug Jaffee, and two others involved in the oil well deal.

At the same time, Wright's lawyer in Washington, William Oldaker, is expected to continue negotiations with the ethics committee's special outside counsel, Richard Phelan, over a timetable for the speaker's personal appearance before the panel.

The ethics panel officially charged Wright with 69 instances of violating House rules in his dealings with Fort Worth developer George Mallick, and evading limits on outside income through bulk sales of a book authored by the speaker.

Wright denies any wrongdoing and says he will fight the allegations.

The first phase of its investigation finished, the panel now turns to considering whether there is clear and convincing proof of violations and, if so, deciding whether to recommend disciplinary action to the House.

A spokesman for Wright, Mark Johnson, said no resolution of the Washington negotiations is expected until later in the week.

The Wright case continues to dominate interest on Capitol Hill, particularly on a week with little else on the agenda.

The Senate remains out of session all week on an extended Passover break and the House does not return until Wednesday when action is scheduled on a supplemental appropriation bill for the current fiscal year and the House banking panel continues work on its version of a measure to shore up the S&L industry.

The ethics committee said Monday, in its report on Wright, that it was still investigating how a Wright-Mallick company bought a 4 percent interest in an oil and gas well for $99,000 - putting up only $9,120 in cash - and sold it the same day for $440,000.

Phelan said the committee needed to determine whether Wright had knowledge of the deal.

WASHINGTON - How different George Bush's first 100 days are from Ronald Reagan's.

No battering of Washington's ways by a charismatic Californian. No outsider's hand on the vember unless four committees allow it to continue.

He submitted a $441 million education package. It has been met with little enthusiasm.

For much of Bush's first 100 days, however, the overriding issue in his dealings with the Democratic-controlled Congress was his nomination of John Tower as defense secretary.

After a bruising confirmation battle, the Senate rejected the former Texas senator 53-47 on March 9. It was the first time in 30 years that a president's nomination to his Cabinet had been turned down.

Opinions differ on whether the Tower defeat will impair Bush's dealings with Congress or whether he repaired the damage with his swift and popular second choice of Dick Cheney, one of Congress' own.

"The whole town seems to have put the Tower thing behind us, and I didn't think we would ever do that," said Tom Korologos, veteran Washington lobbyist who handled congressional relations for the Reagan transition team.

On the other hand, Bayard Catron, a professor of public administration at George Washington University and an expert on government ethics, said, "It really did hurt the administration. It detracted from everything else they were doing at the time."

And a Republican strategist who spoke on condition he not be identified said, "I think it demonstrated a vulnerability which people will tuck away for later on."

Not only have Reagan and Bush faced different situations, they are different types of people.

Donald Regan, another Reagan chief of staff, described his boss' role in shaping the economic recovery package this way in his book, "For the Record":

"The president himself had very little to do with the invention and the implementation of the policies and mechanisms... was content to exercise the symbolic powers of his office- and his astonishing skill in doing so was of course the very thing that made success possible."

Bush, on the other hand, is a veteran of the nuts and bolts of government. "He's got a managerial interest, which Reagan never had," said Catron, the professor of public administration.

Gov. of Alaska asks 5 minutes of silence

Associated Press

VALDEZ, Alaska—People all over Alaska, so heavily dependent on oil and fishing, agreed to silence their anger for five minutes Sunday to remember the way things were before a tanker spilled 10.1 million gallons of oil in an area rich in wildlife.

The period of silence was requested by Gov. Steve Cowper to mark the 30-day anniversary of the spill.

"This disaster has almost turned us into people who aren't human. We've been running on adrenalin just to get things accomplished," said Belle Mickelson, who teaches commercial fishing at Cordova High School.

"We need a quiet time to reflect on why we're here doing this and to get set for the long haul. A Band-Aid isn't going to fix this," she said.

Meanwhile, a storm threatening wind up to 30 mph and 9-foot seas pushed oil to unstained shores over the weekend and forced a cleanup crew to take shelter.

"We expect to have some pretty severe weather for a few days," said Bill Lamoreaux, an Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation supervisor. "It will definitely have an impact on skimming operations."

The crude oil from Alaska's North Slope poured from the Exxon Valdez on March 24 after the tanker hit a reef in Prince William Sound, an important fishing area at the southern end of the Alaskan pipeline.

Inadequate equipment and a slow response complicated recovery of the oil, which has been driven by currents to Kodiak Island, the nation's No. 1 fishing port.

Thousands of birds and marine mammals have been killed by the oil, and biologists fear many more will die.

Students praised

Dear Editor:

I really enjoy reading the Observer, and I must say—next to the quite amusing personals—the Viewpoint column is my favorite section.

Being an aspiring writer myself, I thoroughly enjoy reading the opinions and feedback of the Notre Dame students and have been longing to voice a different kind of feedback as a “regular” full-time employee of the school. I work at the Huddle.

Before I came to work at Notre Dame, I would hear lots of snide remarks about how rich, lazy, and stuck-up Notre Dame students were. I never really thought that much about it, as I didn't know too many students personally. Often I would read comments from students who were given unjust punishment for some petty “crime,” just because they were Notre Dame students who everyone “knew” could afford the outrageous fines.

I can now say fairly, after working with many students at the Huddle, that they are, indeed, a misjudged group. I can look at the strictness of Our Lady's policies and see it in the hearts of these students. I must say I've never seen such commitment as that which the students have to the University.

Working side by side with the students, I feel I am now at liberty to more accurately judge them, and I must say to those who haven't discovered so yet, they are truly great kids.

Each year when graduation rolls around, there are always some senior student workers who move on to a new life, and it kind of hurts to see them go because they've become a part of our life for a while. I often wonder what they are doing once they leave us.

As my years of employment pass at Notre Dame, I will see a lot of new faces come and go, and it's just one of those things one never really gets used to. For each and every one of those faces have left some kind of mark upon my life, and I will occasionally think of them as I continue to serve Our Lady and all her students.

There is one thing that I have always wanted to do since I came to work here: find out just where everyone goes during the summer when we full-timers remain here to work. I devised a plan that would be wonderful if I could get a vast number of the students to propose it. And this is where The Observer could really help. What if I could get all the students to send a postcard from wherever they go for the summer to Operation Marsha, c/o the Huddle, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, IN 46556.

I would put them all in an album and title it, “The ND Summer of '89,” and those who wished to see it in the fall could request to do so. I think it would be “awesome,” as some of the student workers remarked. So how about it everyone? What do you say we give it a try and see what we can come up with? A card from every state and as many countries as possible? WOW...

Whatever the outcome—God be with all of you.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

“The brain is as strong as its weakest think.”

Eleanor Doan

We felt it was important to clarify that student government's work, in conjunction with the Freshman Year of Studies, was not one of destruction, but rather of construction, separation, and specialization. It was seen as the best way to allow freshmen an increased opportunity to serve for the betterment of their class and for the Freshman Year of Studies to receive the kind of advice it needs from its student advisory council.

assert that God is just a rock, so it is to assert that God is only Father. Father is a rich way of understanding God, but it does not exclude conceiving of God as Mother.

If, by asserting that this is wicked, Ms. Irving implies that one can only conceive of God as Father, she is the one that is guilty of idolatry.

I hope Miss Irving, and anyone else, tries to conceive of God in this new way. She will bless you greatly.

WAR AND REMEMBRANCE

Talented cast contributes to ABC's continuation of Wouk's 'War and Remembrance'

The mini-series to end all mini-series is back. Part two of ABC's blockbuster epic, "War and Remembrance," returns in May with more of the war, terror, and intrigue that captivated audiences in November. Herman Wouk's sensational novel, translated to the screen in all its grandeur and glory, will hopefully attract ratings as high as the book is long.

ABC will air the final eleven and a half hours of "War and Remembrance" beginning May 7. The series will continue on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of that week and will conclude on the following Sunday. ABC hopes this concise schedule will keep more viewers tuned in than the show's spread out schedule did in November.

When viewers last saw the Henry family, it seemed a family in name only. Pug (Robert Mitchum) and his son, Byron (Hart Bochner), were fighting the war in the Pacific. The Battle of Midway brought tragedy to the Henrys as it took the life of Pug's other son, Warren. The tragedy further drove a wedge between Pug and his wife, Rhoda (Polly Bergen). As Pug grew closer to a young English woman, Pamela Tudsbury (Victoria Tennant), Rhoda entered into a series of affairs.

In the meantime, Byron's wife, Natalie (Jane Seymour), her uncle, Aaron Jastrow (John Gielgud), and her son, Louis, became trapped in Covering three and a half years of America's involvement in World War II and requiring five years to complete, "War and Remembrance" features one of the best casts ever assembled.

Facts and Figures

- Herman Wouk's "War and Remembrance" covers three and a half years of America's involvement in World War II—December, 1941, to August, 1945.
- Pre-production alone (planning, location-scouting, casting) required two years.
- Principal photography, involving actors, required 21 months.
- The story involves 2,070 scenes in a 1,492 page script. (Film scripts usually run under 120 pages.)
- The filming, done entirely on location, involved 494 sets in Europe and 263 sets in the United States.
- The death camp at Auschwitz, Poland, was opened for the filming of "War" for the first time in history after two years of negotiations with the Polish government.
- Thirty lifeguards played Japanese sailors fired upon in the water, and 10 unseen divers equipped with stun-guns were present in case sharks should appear. They didn't.

Europe in the midst of Nazi terror. The November segment followed them through European countrysides as they attempted to return to America; however, as the first half of the series concluded, the trio was in incarcerated at the Nazi concentration camp of Theresienstadt. Byron, unsuccessful in his attempts to rescue Natalie, prepared to resume his duties aboard a submarine in the Pacific.

May's segment will follow Natalie and Aaron as they begin a horrible odyssey through Nazi camps. Byron's submarine undergoes some fierce sea battles, and Pug and Pamela face a decision about their marriage. Viewers will witness such historical milestones as Yalta, the assassination attempt on Hitler, the D-Day invasion of Normandy, the Battle of the Bulge, and the explosion of the first atomic bomb.

Covering three and a half years of America's involvement in World War II and requiring five years to complete, "War and Remembrance" features one of the best casts ever assembled. Mitchum, Seymour, Bochner, Gielgud, and the Emmy Award-nominee for her work in "Winds of War," Bergen, make up the cast of the epic's main characters. Their incomparable talent adds realism and prestige to this historic piece of entertainment.

In January, both Gielgud and Barry Bostwick won Golden Globe Awards for their performances in the first half of "War and Remembrance." The series won the best mini-series category at both the Golden Globe and People's Choice Award presentations. In addition, the series received nominations for awards by the Directors Guild of America, Writers Guild of America, and American Society of Cinematographers.

"War and Remembrance" is sure to be 11 hours of suspense, intrigue, and adventure. Those who missed November's installment may be interested to know that that portion of the series is available on videotape. With the availability of the cassettes and the excitement surrounding the upcoming segment, ABC hopes that "War and Remembrance" will be remembered for years to come.

Loss drops SMC tennis to 8-5

By SARAH GEREND

Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's tennis team is approaching the final days of its spring season with a record of 8-5.

"The matches have been very competitive, a lot of them close up until the final points of the third set," said number-two doubles player Sarah Mayer.

The Belles have been playing against mostly NCAA Division I schools. Unlike the fall season (18-1), the spring season is prepping the players for the Nationals (May 22-27), which the team qualified for in the fall.

The number-one singles player, Jennifer Block, said that the season has been going quite well.

"The highlight of the spring season were the two excellent wins against Kalamazoo and Wheaton, both who we've lost to in the past year," Block said. "Our team is very young, but has a lot of talent."

The new coach, Jo Ann Nester, has done a superb job on short notice, when the past coach resigned one week before spring break.

Last Thursday Butler came to South Bend for a home meet. Although Butler won 8-1, the matches were rather close up until the end. The single win was by the number two doubles team of Charlene Szajko and Sarah Mayer.

There is one more meet left in the season before moving on to the Nationals. The Belles host Toledo at the Notre Dame courts Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

King wins USX Classic

Associated Press

GULFPORT, Fla. -Betsy King shot a 6-under-par 66 Sunday to overcome a four-stroke deficit, then beat third-round leader Lynn Adams with a birdie on the first playoff hole to win the $250,000 USX Classic.

King's final round, the lowest of the day by two strokes, allowed her to catch Adams on the 17th hole when she dropped an 8-foot birdie putt. Adams scrambled for a par on the 18th hole to set up the playoff.

Adams closed with a 70 to tie King at 275, 13 under par for the 72-hole event.

Playing the 18th again as the first playoff hole, King dropped a 12-foot birdie putt after Adams two-putted from 25 feet.

King, winning her third title of the year and the 17th of her career, won $37,500 and became the fifth player in LPGA history to reach the $2 million mark in career earnings.

The 33-year-old Limekiln, Penn., native also solidified her position as the LPGA's 1989 leading money-winner.

Adams, whose only LPGA victory came in 1983, won $23,125.

First-round leader Lori Garbaz closed with a 69 and took third with a 277 total, worth $16,875.

Kathy Postlewait and Jan Stephenson both shot 70 to finish tied for fourth at 279. Ok-Hee Nu and U.S. open champion Liselotte Neumann tied for sixth at 280.

in playoff

King's 35-31 round included one bogey and seven birdies, including three straight beginning at the ninth hole. She also birdied the third and 14th holes, both par-5's, after reaching the green in two shots.

"It's easier not playing in the final group," said King, who finished 30 minutes ahead of Adams. "Coming from behind, I didn't have to worry about protecting anything. I could just concentrate on posting a good score and then wait to see what happens."

"I knew I would have to shoot a good round to stay in there, and that's what I did," Adams said. "I had a good game plan and stuck with it. Betsy just flat beat me."

Prep stars spotlighted in McDonald's Classic

Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. -- Shaquille O'Neal scored 18 points and had 16 rebounds and Bobby Hurley had a game-record 10 assists as the West beat the East 112-103 Sunday in the McDonald's High School All-American game.

O'Neal and Hurley, who scored 10 points, were named most valuable players in the game that featured the 25 best high school players in the country.

The West team featured two Indiana players. Greg Graham of Warren Central in Indianapolis scored five points and Indiana Mr. Basketball Pat Graham of Floyd Central scored nine.

Hurley broke a record of eight assists held by three players in the game, which features players selected by a coaching panel from a pool of 1,500.

The West took a 16-2 lead at the start of the game and never trailed.

"Coach went with his five best guys and told us to go out and play hard," said O'Neal, a 6-foot-11 center from San Antonio who is headed to Louisiana State.

"You just come out to have fun in a game like this. Usually I'm playing against guys who are 6-4 or 6-5, so it was good to come out and play against people my own size. I just went out and played my game."

O'Neal—who once scored 27 points, got 36 rebounds and blocked 26 shots in one game—also blocked six shots in this game despite sitting out most of the first half with three fouls.

"He's got a real big base," said Conrad McRae, who scored nine points for the East. "Guys who are that tall are usually a lot skinnier than that."

"They came out and got that big lead on us and that was the game. I could tell by looking in the eyes of our guys that they weren't ready to play. It took them too long to realize they had to get in the game and play defense and rebound."

O'Neal and Deryl Cunningham each had two baskets as the West broke to its 16-2 lead by the 16:47 mark of the first half.

The West built an 88-73 lead with 9:33 to play on 3-point shots by Tracy Murray and James Robinson, and two straight 3-pointers by Allan Houston.

ND tennis cruises against Spartans

By BOB MITCHELL

Sports Writer

At St. Edwards' Carnival on Sunday afternoon, superfreshman Dave DiLucia was the recipient of one whip cream pie after another in his face, many thrown by his fellow teammates. But on Saturday afternoon, the Notre Dame men's tennis team came together to down the hapless Michigan State squad, 7-2.

The victory over the Spartans improved the Irish record to a respectable 2-3 against Big Ten opponents this season. The 17-9 Irish squad overcame a variety of illnesses to take a 4-2 lead after the singles competition, and solidified the win by sweeping the doubles competition.

"I have a very young ballclub," said Spartan head coach Stan Droubac who is in his 32nd and final campaign. "This year's Notre Dame squad has great depth. Their number one through number six players are just tremendous. I was very impressed with their doubles. They are a well coached and a good ballclub."

While the Michigan State coach was quick to give the Irish accolades, Notre Dame skipper Bob Bayliss assessed the match in a somewhat more subdued manner.

"We played a good match," said the second year head coach. "Coming into the match we certainly had a better record, better schedule but you can take all those things and throw them out the window when you play a match. Last year it was the same situation and they beat us."

Indeed, the Irish knocked off essentially the same Spartan team that beat Notre Dame 5-4 last year in East Lansing. Leading the way for the Irish was No. 1 Dave DiLucia and No. 3 Brian Kalbas.

The No. 53 collegiately ranked DiLucia simply overwhelmed South American Damon Valentino in a battle of the No. 1 players, 6-2, 6-2.

Next up for the Irish is perennial Division III power Kalamazoo and Illinois State next Saturday on the Courtney Tennis Center. These two matches will mark the end of Notre Dame men's tennis 66th season of play.

Dave DiLucia

Senior team captain Brian Kalbas had a surprising easy time with Santiago Cash in straight sets, 6-4, 6-0. Cash downed Kalbas last year in straight sets.

"Brian had a little extra incentive today to finish early because he was leaving for the senior formal right after the match," said Bayliss dismissing the notion that coaching had anything to do with the win. "David's match was just a case of having too much."

The Michigan State match marked the first home outdoor match of the year. And in the eyes of two Notre Dame players, they might have wished that the milestone had come later in the year. No. 2 Walter Dolhare suffered a two set loss to freshman Grant Ascher, 6-1, 6-4. Dolhare was hampered by a flu throughout the week that undoubtedly affected the outcome of his match. The Argentinian was not able to play his usual No. 2 doubles spot. "It was pretty nasty out there today," said Bayliss. "It was uncomfortable and there was nothing to block the wind. It definitely hurt Ryan Wenger. For Walter to lose that match he was not 100 percent physically."

Starter Brian Conway (3-2) did not get much help from his team, which committed four errors. Conway went five innings, gave up seven hits, and allowed six runs, four of them earned.

Double plays encapsulated the second game as well. In the ninth inning with the score 5-4 and runners at first and third, catcher Ed Lund hit into a double play to end the game, despite the fact that the runner at first base was off with the pitch. On the day, the Irish hit into eight double plays.

Mike Passilla, 4-2, suffered the loss, going five innings and allowing five earned runs.

decided by three or less.

Sunday was the day of the double play, with five coming against the Irish in the first game and three in the second. Both games started, and ended, in a double play.

In Sunday's first game, the Irish were victims of four double plays in the first four innings. The 6-3 loss was made final in the seventh inning when Pat Pesavento hit into a bases-loaded double play to end the game.

Starter Brian Conway (3-2) did not get much help from his team, which committed four errors. Conway went five innings, gave up seven hits, and allowed six runs, four of them earned.

Double plays encapsulated the second game as well. In the ninth inning with the score 5-4 and runners at first and third, catcher Ed Lund hit into a double play to end the game, despite the fact that the runner at first base was off with the pitch. On the day, the Irish hit into eight double plays.

Mike Passilla, 4-2, suffered the loss, going five innings and allowing five earned runs.

Detroit 25-year head coach

Bob Miller was especially responsible for the last double play, as he made four position changes when Ed Lund stepped up to bat. For Lund, he sent third baseman Ryan Raymond to pitch. In the last three innings, he made four pitching changes.

"Sometimes it (a pitching change) works, if it doesn't, you're a bum," said Miller.

"I've been around long enough to know that. (Relief pitcher Mike) Gabriele got a little tired on us, and the other kids came through who hadn't been in there as much."

In Saturday's split, Erik Madsen (6-3) tossed a five-hitter in the first game's loss, allowing five hits and one run in seven innings. The Irish were shut out by senior pitcher Stewart Hillman, who pitched on the 1988 Olympic Canadian baseball team. It was the fourth time this season that the Irish have been shut out.

Detroit scored its only run in the fourth inning when Mike Cloutier singled and Mike Stefanski singled him home.

In the second game, the Irish beat the Titans 7-2 by pounding out 16 hits and shutting down the Detroit offense. Brian Piotrowicz picked up his sixth win of the season when he allowed only one run in seven innings.

Tony Livorsi pitched the final two innings, striking out the last four batters.

In that game, Murphy was ejected after the second pitch when Lonnie Draper hit a fly ball into right field and it was ruled that James Sass dropped the ball. Murphy had argued several questionable calls in the first game.

"It was one of those weekends with four well-played ballgames, and the credit goes to Detroit," said Murphy. "Bob Miller is a master. I hope someday I know half as much as he does today."

EXTRA BASES: Despite the fact that junior centerfielder Dan Peltier broke his 16-game hitting streak in the first game on Saturday, he is continuing his hot hitting. Peltier was 6-for-13 over the weekend, raising his average to .453 after 40 games. James Sass has raised his average to .400, up from .350 on April 10. The Irish are hitting .317 as a team. When the Irish score four runs or more, they have record of 28-1, the only loss coming in the 5-4 defeat against Detroit on Sunday. Sunday's doubleheader sweep was the first MCC doubleheader sweep of the season for Detroit.

The Observer / Scott McCann

The Notre Dame lacrosse squad dropped an 18-5 decision to visiting Ohio Wesleyan Saturday afternoon. The loss dropped Notre Dame's record to 7-4, while Ohio Wesleyan improved to 10-3. Pete LaFleur will detail the weekend action in Tuesday's paper.

Ryan loses no-hitter in ninth against Blue Jays

Associated Press

TORONTO -- Nolan Ryan came within two outs of his sixth career no-hitter, losing it when Nelson Liriano tripled in the ninth inning Sunday as the Texas Rangers beat the Toronto Blue Jays 4-1.

Ryan finished with his 10th lifetime one-hitter. He had been untouchable until Liriano tripled.

Ryan was attempting to become the oldest pitcher to throw a no-hitter. Ryan, 42, would have surpassed Cy Young, who did it at 41 in 1908. Ryan, 2-1, struck out 12 and walked three in his 275th career victory.

Orioles 3, Twins 0

BALTIMORE -- Rookie Bob Milacki pitched a three-hitter and the Baltimore Orioles beat the Minnesota Twins 3-0 Sunday.

The Orioles moved into first place on Saturday night, the first time they had been on top since May 11, 1985.

Milacki, 1-1, faced the minimum 27 batters and threw 100 pitches. He struck out three, walked two and was helped by four double plays.

Royals 10, Red Sox 0

BOSTON -- Bo Jackson's two-run homer highlighted a 17-hit attack and Charlie Leibrandt pitched a five-hitter as the Kansas City Royals routed the Boston Red Sox 10-0 Sunday.

The Royals hit seven doubles, including three by Bob Boone, and stole two bases.

Leibrandt, 1-2, allowed five singles in his 13th career shutout. He struck out four and walked none.

Athletics 2, Angels 0

OAKLAND, Calif. -- Mike Moore scattered three singles in 7 2-3 innings and the Oakland Athletics got past the California Angels 2-0.

Moore, 2-1, struck out five, walked two and allowed only three singles by Claudell Washington.

Mariners 10, White Sox 6

CHICAGO -- Scott Bradley hit a three-run double, keying a five-run first inning Sunday that sent the Seattle Mariners over the Chicago White Sox 10-6.

Bradley later added a run-scoring double as Seattle got 10 hits off six pitchers.

Steve Trout, 1-1, gave up one earned run in five innings.

Shawn Hillegas, 0-2, retired only two of eight batters in the first inning. Harold Reynolds led off the game with a triple and scored on a single by Henry Cotto.

Yankees 5, Indians 0

CLEVELAND -- Andy Hawkins pitched two-hit ball for 7 2-3 innings and Mel Hall snapped a scoreless tie with a two-run double in the sixth inning Sunday as the New York Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians 5-0.

Dave Righetti finished with one-hit relief. Hall hit a bases-loaded double off John Farrell, 0-1.

Dodgers 7, Giants 6

LOS ANGELES -- Will Clark went 5-for-5 but Atlee Hammaker walked in the winning run in the 10th inning Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers came from behind to beat the San Francisco Giants 7-6.

Eddie Murray gave the Dodgers a 5-4 lead in seventh with a homer off Craig Lefferts. The Giants took a 6-5 lead in the eighth only to see the Dodgers tie in the bottom of the inning.

Astros 5, Reds 2

CINCINNATI -- Glenn Davis hit a two-run homer Sunday as the Houston Astros defeated the Cincinnati Reds 5-2.

Danny Jackson, 1-4, allowed nine hits and four runs in seven innings. Bob Knepper, 1-3, gave up four hits over 1-3 innings.

Knepper walked Bo Diaz with one out in the sixth and pinch-hitter Joel Youngblood singled, bringing on Larry Anderson. Barry Larkin's grounder scored Diaz, and shortstop Rafael Ramirez' throwing error on the play scored Youngblood, pulling the Reds to 4-2.

Expos 9, Cardinals 3

ST. LOUIS -- Spike Owen had three hits and drove in three runs and Hubie Brooks homered Sunday as the Montreal Expos beat the St. Louis Cardinals 9-3.

Montreal had 15 hits off five Cardinals' pitchers, including four doubles and two triples. Tim Raines had three hits and scored two runs.

Brynn Smith, 2-0, gave up five hits and struck out two in seven innings. Joe Hesketh finished the combined seven-hitter.

Braves 9, Padres 4

ATLANTA -- Dale Murphy drove in six runs with four hits Sunday, leading the Atlanta Braves past the San Diego Padres 9-4.

Rick Aguilera, 1-0, pitched two innings of hitless relief for the victory.

Andre Dawson gave the Cubs a 2-0 lead with his 300th career home run in the seventh inning, off Ron Darling. Darling pitched seven innings and allowed seven hits.

Pirates 6, Phillies 4

PITTSBURGH -- Bobby Bonilla's two-run homer in the eighth inning capped Pittsburgh's come from behind rally as the Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 6-4 Sunday.

Philadelphia led 4-0 before Pittsburgh scored three runs in the sixth and three in the eighth.

Singles by pinch-hitter John Cangelosi, Jose Lind and R.J. Reynolds in the sixth scored a run and chased starter Larry McWilliams.

Ricky Jordan misplayed Bonilla's grounder to first, allowing a second run to score and Barry Bonds followed with a run-scoring groundout.

Draft

people," said Seattle coach Chuck Knox.

Moore coached Pro Bowlers Covert, May, Grimm and Fralic as an assistant at Pitt.

Seattle originally wanted to choose a defensive end. That plan changed after San Diego took Pitt's Burt Grossman with the eighth pick and Chicago picked Trace Armstrong of Florida with the 12th selection.

"We tried to get help at the defensive line and possibly make deals to move up in the draft, but we weren't able to do it," said Knox.

Stams, another All-American last season, also was surprised about his selection.

"I was thinking third round," said the 6-4, 257-pound defensive end. "It was a surprise to go in the second."

Like Heck, Stams went to a team that had not spoken with him much before the draft.

"They tested me in the 40, but I hadn't seen the head coach or owner at all," said Stams. "I know they're a class organization, and I talked to the head coach and owner and they're excited about having me."

Green was in for a different kind of surprise. The three-year Notre Dame starter had not received a phone call by 8 p.m., when the draft was supposed to adjourn for the day.

"I was sitting here with my head down, and at 8:15 the telephone rang," said Green. "I didn't think it would be any team because I thought it was over for the day. It was the director of player personnel for the Bears, and he told me, 'We're in the fifth round, and we're considering drafting you,' and at that point I hit the ceiling."

"They put (Bears coach) Mike Ditka on the phone," continued Green. "He was telling me they usually carry five running backs, and they have four running backs right now."

Draft used as rebuilding tool

Associated Press

NEW YORK -- The first round of Sunday's NFL draft was a simple matter for the league's downtrodden, who grabbed the top eight players and hoped they would work instant miracles.

Starting with Troy Aikman, the UCLA quarterback signed last week by Dallas for $11.2 million over six years, the first eight picks were no surprises--players who can provide instant oomph to the downtrodden. It was so predictable, it took just 20 minutes for the first six players to be chosen, a process that has sometimes taken more than an hour.

One of the early linebackers was a huge surprise--6-5 1-2, 240-pound Jeff Lageman of Virginia, considered a second rounder, who instead was the shock of the first. He went to the New York Jets with the 14th pick.

Green Bay, picking second, took 315-pound offensive tackle Tony Mandarich of Michigan State, rated the top player in the draft regardless of position.

Detroit then took Heisman Trophy-winning running back Barry Sanders of Oklahoma State, the first pure junior ever taken--he was granted eligibility after his school was placed on probation.

Alabama linebacker Derrick Thomas went to Kansas City; Florida State cornerback Deion Sanders to Atlanta and Nebraska linebacker

Broderick Thomas to Tampa Bay.

The Pittsburgh Steelers then let the 15-minute clock run down to 35 seconds before they did the expected and took running back Tim Worley of Georgia. San Diego let the clock run down to zero before taking Pitt's talented but somewhat offbeat defensive end, Burt Grossman.

Chicago, with picks from the Raiders for Willie Gault and Washington for Wilber Marshall, picked for need cornerback Donnell Woolford of Clemson and defensive end Trace Armstrong of Florida, who will be phased in for the aging Dan Hampton and Steve McMichael.

Backs

I think the depth is starting to come.

"I feel much better about tailback now than I did prior to spring practice."

Much of Holtz's enthusiasm can be contributed to the recent play of Culver, who wasted little time in making himself known to the 25,694 fans gathered for the annual spring classic.

Culver, who scored only three touchdowns all of last season, capped a 16-play, 80-yard drive with a 10-yard touchdown run on the first series of the day for the Blue squad. On third-and-goal from the 10, Culver took a pitch from Belles and sprinted the distance to give his team an early 6-0 lead.

Culver gained 51 yards on nine carries in the first half, including his longest run of the day, an 11-yard scamper up the middle for a first down.

He also scored on the Blue squad's first possession of the second half, powering through an enormous hole in the middle of the line to give his team an insurmountable 13-0 lead. Culver put the finishing touches on a spectacular day with his third score nine minutes and 16 seconds into the fourth quarter.

"The line blocked well on a lot of my big runs," said Culver. "On the one going down towards Touchdown Jesus, there was a big hole there and I went in untouched."

Culver is listed as a fullback on the Irish depth chart, but he has seen action from both backfield positions. With Braxton Banks still recovering from February arthroscopic surgery, Culver could very well be the glue that holds the Irish backfield together.

"I feel comfortable at both places (tailback and fullback)," said Culver. "In high school I played a lot of fullback and tailback, so I'm pretty comfortable at both positions. I just want to play. Whatever I can do to help the team, I'll do."

Spears gained an impressive 58 yards on 10 carries on Saturday, and Johnson compiled a hard-fought 47 yards on nine attempts. Rice and Belles contributed most of the Blue squad's remaining rushing yards.

"I think Rodney Culver can play fullback or tailback," said Holtz. "Anthony Johnson is the most underrated football player I've been around. It was really encouraging to watch Kenny Spears run. He's been coming on during the course of the spring."

Ricky Watters, who returned to his natural tailback position this spring after spending last season at flanker, also showed up well in the game. The sophomore picked up 27 yards on seven carries despite great penetration from the Blue defensive line.

"I thought Ricky Watters ran as well as I've ever seen him run," said Holtz. "I always look at how well a guy does when he doesn't have an awful lot of blocking, and I thought Ricky Watters played well."

"Ricky really had a great spring. Even my wife said to me, 'Boy, he runs different now than he did last fall.' I want to tell you, it's no great sight to be able to see the sun or no great feat of hearing to be able to hear thunder, but if my wife says Ricky Watters improved, then that's really something."

The Observer / Scott McCann

Todd Lyght stretches for the ball during a rare stint as a receiver during Saturday's Blue-Gold scrimmage. Lyght, a receiver in high school, tried to catch the pass from George Poorman, a high school quarterback, on a halfback option.

18 plays, scoring on Culver's one-yard run. Rice threw only four passes (completing two) on the drive, which included carries by Culver, Spears, Rice and Anthony Johnson.

"With the Gold team, it was kind of hard because it was the first time I was playing with a lot of those places," said Rice, who went 3-of-11 passing for 34 yards and an interception and rushed for 48 yards on 11 carries. "It was pretty good with the Blue team because that was most of the first team."

Kent Graham's 41-yard touchdown pass to Ismail with 2:20 left in the game foiled the Blue team's shutout attempt. Watters ran three yards around right for a two-point conversion that accounted for the final score of 21-8.

Ned Bolcar, who made 12 tackles for the Gold, earned defensive MVP honors. The Blue's Chris Shey and the Gold's Donn Grimm each had interceptions.

EXTRA POINTS: At halftime, Holtz handed out winners of Hering Awards for outstanding achievement in spring practice. Grimm won the award for linebackers, Mike Crounse won the defensive line award, Todd Lyght took the secondary award, Joe Allen got the offensive line award, Ryan Mihalko received the offensive backs award, Rod West won the receivers award and Johnson was the overall spring MVP. . . Kicker Billy Hackett and punter Jim Sexton played for both teams. Hackett made all three of his extra-point attempts and tried no field goals. Sexton averaged 43 yards on five punts. . . Holtz would not announce whether his second-team quarterback was Graham or Belles after the game. Pete Graham also had an effective spring before getting injured. . . A pair of defensive linemen got chances to run with the ball at the end of the game, with varying degrees of success. Chris Zorich fumbled on his only carry, while George "Boo" Williams ran one time for two yards.

Second period helps Bruins avoid sweep in NHL playoffs

Associated Press

BOSTON -- Cam Neely and Michael Thelven scored in a seven-second span late in the second period as the Boston Bruins avoided a playoff sweep with a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

The Bruins, trying to become the third team in NHL history to win a series after losing the first three games, still trail the best-of-seven Adams Division final 3-1. The Canadiens can advance to the Wales Conference finals with a victory at home Tuesday night.

Brian Hayward started in goal Sunday and Neely beat him to give Boston the lead with his seventh playoff goal at 14:54 of the second period. It broke a 1-1 tie created by Randy Burridge's first-period goal and Russ Courtnall's unassisted goal at 3:57 of the second. Each has five playoff goals.

Neely jammed a five-foot shot between Hayward's pads after Andy Brickley's slap shot went behind the net and came out to Hayward's right.

Thelven, a defenseman whose error led to Courtnall's goal, got his first playoff goal at 15:01.

Bob Sweeney tied up the faceoff after Neely's goal and the puck went to Keith Crowder at the blue line. Crowder passed it to the right point to Thelven, who had no one between him and Hayward. He fired a 40-footer that hit the inside of the left post and went into the net.

Brian Skrudland's third playoff goal cut the lead to 3-2 just 12 seconds into the third period. He took a pass from Claude Lemieux on the left side and beat Andy Moog from 40 feet.

Flyers 4, Penguins 1

PHILADELPHIA -- Tim Kerr scored two power-play goals in a 2:21 span of the second period and Philadelphia's defense checked Mario Lemieux and the Pittsburgh Penguins to a standstill Sunday night as the Flyers evened the Patrick Division finals at two wins each with a 4-1 victory.

The series returns to Pittsburgh for Game 5, but the Penguins may be without Lemieux, the NHL's top scorer, who was helped off the ice early in the third period after a collision with teammate Randy Cunneyworth.

Kerr, who took over the playoff lead in goals with 10, broke a 1-1 tie at 6:57 when he deflected Gord Murphy's 55-foot slap shot past goaltender Tom Barrasso. Kerr then scored his eighth power-play goal of the playoffs at 9:18, snapping Pelle Eklund's centering pass behind Barrasso from 10 feet. It was Kerr's sixth goal of the series and the Flyers' seventh on the power play.

Terry Carkner put the game away at 7:13 of the third period with a shorthanded goal, banging in a rebound after Barrasso stopped Dave Poulin's slap shot.

The Penguins dominated the early going and went ahead just 3:22 into the game when John Cullen beat goaltender Ron Hextall from between the circles with a wrist shot. But the Flyers took control after the midway point of the first period and tied the score at 13:24 when Derrick Smith got his own rebound, circled the net and fed Poulin, who rammed the puck past Barrasso from five feet.

Irish tie for sixth in Spartan Invite

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame men's golf team tied for sixth place out of 16 teams at last weekend's Spartan Invitational at the Fort Akers West Golf Course in East Lansing, Mich.

Wisconsin won the event with a three-day total of 889, two strokes better than second-place Iowa. Indiana placed third with a total of 895.

Notre Dame tied Michigan State for sixth with a 915. The Irish shot 304 in the first day, 310 the second day and a 301 the final day.

Doug Giorgio led Notre Dame with a three-day total of 226 (77 the first day, 76 the second, 73 the third). Pat Mohan followed with a 232 (74,83,75).

Paul Nolta shot a 234 (84,74,76), as did Mike Crisanti (77,77,85). Mike O'Connell recorded a 246 (76,87,77).

Iowa's Jeff Schmid was the event's medalist with a tournament-record score of 213 (69,72,72).

Green captures Greensboro Open

Associated Press

GREENSBORO, N.C. -- Ken Green made good on his vow to atone for a playoff loss last year, using a final round 72 for a two-shot victory in the $1 million Greater Greensboro Open tournament Sunday.

Green, in scoring the fifth victory of his career, finished with a 72-hole total of 277, 11-under par. Before Sunday, his best performance this year was an 11th-place finish at the Masters. The victory was worth $180,000.

John Huston, playing in the same threesome with Green, finished second at 279 after a closing par 72. He earned $108,000.

Last year, Green was in position to win, but he missed a three-foot putt and dropped into a tie with Sandy Lyle, who won a sudden-death playoff.

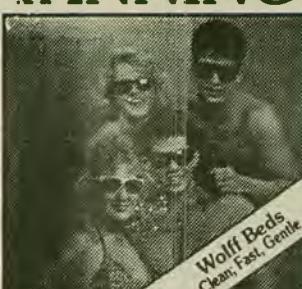

After Saturday's third-round 66 thrust him into a two-shot lead over Huston, Green declared himself a favorite of the crowd and said he wouldn't yield to the Forest Oaks Country Club course. True to his word, he gave little ground and held a five-shot lead with three holes left.

Green overcame a bogey 5 on the third hole with birdies at the fifth and ninth for a 35 over the front nine. Huston birdied the par-5 second and was tied with Green at 10-under.

But Huston, who needed five tries before he could attain his PGA Tour card in 1987, bogeyed the fourth, birdied the fifth and bogeyed the seventh. With Green's aggressive play, Huston couldn't catch up.

Culver runs for three touchdowns in Blue victory

The Observer / Paul Compton

Rodney Culver lunges for a touchdown in Saturday's Blue-Gold football scrimmage. Culver scored three touchdowns to lead the Blue to a 21-8 victory over the Gold.

Irish backfield should be strong point in fall

Notre Dame does not have a problem at the tailback position.

Despite the graduation of three-year starter and tri-captain Mark Green, and the still-uncertain status of Tony Brooks, the Irish return plenty of rushers capable of posting numbers similar to those of last season's highly-ranked backfield.

One of those backs, freshman Rodney Culver, carried the ball 14 times for 63 yards and three touchdowns Saturday to lead the Blue team to a 21-8 victory over the Gold squad in the Blue-Gold Game. He was named Offensive Most Valuable Player for the game.

ND baseball drops three to MCC foe

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame baseball team suffered a disappointing weekend against MCC East rival Detroit at Covaleski Stadium, losing three out of four to a Detroit team which had not won two in a row since April 4.

The Irish (30-10) split the Saturday doubleheader, losing the first game 1-0 and winning the second game 7-2. On Sunday, the Irish were swept, losing the first game 6-3 and the second game 5-4.

The two losses on Sunday marked the first time Notre Dame had lost two games in a row.

Head Coach Pat Murphy, however, is not about to make any changes because of the weekend losses.

"I'm not worried about our ballclub," said Murphy, "I mean, how can you be worried about a ballclub that's 30-10 that's beaten the teams we've beaten? I'm disappointed obviously because there were three Culver's big day highlighted a 237-yard performance by the Blue backfield, which also included freshman Kenny Spears and fullback Anthony Johnson, plus quarterbacks Steve Belles and Tony Rice.

"I think we'll be all right at tailback," said Head Coach Lou Holtz, who in three years has seen the tailback position develop from one of the team's most glaring weaknesses into one of the top units in the nation.

"We have a little bit more depth at tailback now," Holtz continued. "If you recall, we're here our first spring and we didn't even have a tailback. We stuck Mark Green back there and played Anthony Johnson there as well, but games we could have won."

After this weekend, the Irish now have a 14-4 overall record in the MCC, 8-4 in the Eastern Division. Detroit, also in the East, has a 6-4 record in the East.

Prior to Saturday's 1-0 loss, the Irish were 11-0 in games decided by three runs or less. All three losses over the weekend, however, were

Holtz discovers one answer, still searching for the other

By STEVE MEGARTEE

The Notre Dame football team solved one question and left another unanswered as the Blue team won the Blue-Gold Game 21-8 Saturday at Notre Dame Stadium.

Freshman Rodney Culver earned offensive most valuable player honors with 63 yards and three touchdowns on 14 carries. The performances of Culver, Kenny Spears (10 carries for 58 yards) and the Gold's Ricky Watters (7-27) left Holtz happy with his tailback situation.

"I feel good about tailback right now," said Holtz. "(Running backs coach) Jim Strong really is doing a great job with the backs. We're much better at tailback now than prior to spring."

The same can't be said of the receiving corps. Notre Dame quarterbacks combined to complete just seven of 22 passes and throw four interceptions. Most of the interceptions came on deflected passes.

"Our passing game is behind but not because of Tony (Rice)," said Holtz. "If there's one problem we've got, it's receiver. That's a severe problem right now."

"We have a problem at split end," Holtz continued. "I think (Pat) Eilers will be solid. We've got to be solid behind him. We have people with talent who haven't progressed. How much progress they make over the summer is critical."

Starting flanker Raghbir "Rocket" Ismail and tight end Derek Brown led the Irish with two receptions each. George Poorman, who had two interceptions as a Blue defensive back, was the only other player with more than one catch.

The Blue team opened the scoring with an eight-minute, 80-yard touchdown drive in the opening possession. Culver took a pitch and darted 10 yards along the right side for the score.

Culver, a freshman from Detroit, ran nine times for 51 yards in the first half.

Steve Belles, who completed one of five passes for nine yards and an interception, directed a Blue scoring drive that included 14 rushes and just two passes.

Rice quarterbacked the Gold in the first half, completing one of eight passes for 19 yards and an interception.

The Blue team also scored on its first series of the second half, after it had taken its 7-0 lead into the intermission. With Belles again at quarterback, the Blue drove 68 yards on nine plays for the score.

Culver ran two yards through a giant hole to extend the Blue's lead to 14-0.

Spears, another freshman running back, saw most of the action out of the backfield in the second half. The Atlanta resident responded with three carries for 30 yards on the touchdown drive and a second-half total of seven carries for 46 yards.

After Poorman intercepted a Kent Graham pass for the Gold team's second turnover, Rice switched to the Blue team and led a 13-minute touchdown drive.

Heck leads trio of Notre Dame picks

By STEVE MEGARTEE
Associate Sports Editor

Andy Heck, whose stock among NFL scouts had grown as much as his size over the past several months, went to the Seattle Seahawks in the 15th overall pick at Sunday's NFL draft.

Heck, who earned All-America honors at offensive tackle after moving from tight end last fall, becomes Notre Dame's 35th player to go in the first round of an NFL draft.

"This is a dream come true to me," said the 6-7, 286-pound Heck. "To go this high is unbelievable. I couldn't be happier to go to an organization like the Seahawks."

Other Notre Dame players to receive calls included defensive end Frank Stams, who went to the Los Angeles Rams in the second round, and tailback Mark Green, who went to the Chicago Bears in the fifth round.

NFL teams go through the final seven rounds of the draft today. Probable Notre Dame selections include linebacker Wes Pritchett and strong safety George Streeter.

Most scouting reports had projected Heck to go late in the first round or early in the second. His draft position rose to that level because he had gained 18 pounds since last month's NFL scouting combine.

"At the combine he weighed 268 and now he's 286, so he's putting in the effort you like to see," said Mike Allman, Seattle's director of player personnel, "and he hasn't reached his full maturity yet. He can play at 295 and still can move with the smaller defensive ends."

"He's got really good feet and will be able to compete well with the pass rushers on the right side."

Seattle officials also commended Notre Dame offensive line coach Joe Moore for contributing to Heck's improvement.

"Joe Moore has worked with (Jimbo) Covert, (Mark) May, (Russ) Grimm and (Bill) Fralic, and (Heck) compares very favorably with those
