ND and SMC welcome Class of 1993

ND freshmen defy the odds

By SARA MARLEY
Senior Staff Reporter

More than five students applied for each of the 1,820 spots in the University of Notre Dame Class of 1993.

A record 9,930 applicants vied for a place in the class, which Director of Admissions Kevin Rooney called among the strongest academically in the University's history.

Minority enrollment in this freshman class is the highest ever, 16 percent.

This exceeds the previously set goal of 15 percent by 1991.

Minority representation in last year's class was 13 percent.

The University registered its third consecutive year of record applications, despite a decline in interested students witnessed by comparable universities nationwide.

Rooney credits efforts to increase the number of minorities and women for the rise.

"Almost the entire 1989 applications increase can be attributed to increased minority applications," Rooney said.

The University's decision to increase the proportion of women in the student body also upped the number of applications.

Following that decision, applications jumped from about 6,700 in 1986 to Over 1800 Notre Dame freshmen and over 400 Saint Mary's freshmen arrive at the two campuses this weekend. Although it all may seem overwhelming at first, with the myriad of orientation events, meeting new roommates, and making new friends, soon all will become part of the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's families.

465 enter SMC freshman class

By CHRISTINE GILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Saint Mary's College welcomes 465 freshman to campus this fall, representing 34 states and four foreign countries.

The incoming freshman join the 1805 full-time students enrolled for the fall semester and come to the College with strong academic backgrounds.

More than a quarter of the students were in the top 10 percent of their graduating classes, and 50 percent finished in the top one-fifth.

Forty percent of the students were also members of the National Honor Society.

A significant development for the College was in the area of minority applications, where that number has tripled since 1986, with 28 minority students at the College this fall.

Mary Ann Rowan, director of admissions, said that the entire College--faculty, staff and students--is pleased with the increase and hope to continue efforts to bring diversity to Saint Mary's.

This freshman class brings with them the desire to participate in student government and activities, as many were club and class presidents.

There was also a prevailing interest in social justice issues, said Rowan, who sees the incoming freshman as a "class of leaders."

Construction continues across ND campus

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Construction around campus is progressing on schedule and in some cases ahead of schedule.

Donald Dedrick, director of the physical plant, said the top priority right now is the completion of the new wing of Nieuwland Science Hall in time for classes next week. He said he would like classes to be conducted in the building with minimal disruptions.

The construction of the new $33 million DeBartolo quad, band building and ROTC building are underway, and interior restoration is taking place in Sacred Heart Church.

Construction crews are working on the underground utilities for the new DeBartolo quad located between Notre Dame Avenue and the stadium.

The steam tunnel to the Hesburgh Institute for International Peace Studies is under construction. Dedrick said the tunnel will eventually serve the new Edward J. DeBartolo Classroom Facility and any other buildings in the quad.

A tunnel containing storm and sanitary sewers, electric, telephone and computer capabilities was completed and sealed.

Crews are now restoring the curbs and pavement, which will be finished in time for the first home football game on Sept. 22, said Dedrick.

The foundation for the Hesburgh Institute was laid and the basement walls have been poured, according to Dedrick.

Two floors in the new ROTC building have been poured and presently the attic floor is being poured, said Dedrick. Some exterior masonry work has begun. This building is being built east of Juniper Road.

The band building, located next to the ROTC building, is almost enclosed, said Dedrick. He said that the construction is ahead of schedule. A storm sewer is being installed under Juniper Road that will take the rain water from the new quad to the St. Joseph's Lake. The area in front of the Computing Center/ Mathematics Building was excavated to enable the construction of this tunnel.

Interior refurbishing continues in Sacred Heart Church, said Dedrick. The pews have been removed and scaffolding is in place inside. A new lighting and sound system will be installed. Dedrick added that the church will not be used this year.

Additional construction lies in the University's future. Work on the Edward J. DeBartolo Classroom Facility will begin

OF INTEREST

Freshmen interested in theater are invited to a party and organizational meeting at Washington Hall Wednesday, Aug. 30 at 7 p.m. Auditions for the October production of Tartuffe will be held Wed. Aug. 30 and Thurs. Aug. 31. The party and auditions are sponsored by the Notre Dame department of Communication and Theater.

All undergraduate students should have a copy of the Academic Code of Honor Handbook. For those who did not obtain one, copies are available in the Registrar's Office, Room 215 Administration Building. All undergraduate students, except seniors, are governed by the procedures outlined in the Academic Code of Honor Handbook. All courses without any seniors enrolled will follow the provisions outlined in the Handbook. Courses with only seniors enrolled will follow these procedures if all the students in the class approve. Courses with seniors and other undergraduate enrolled are governed by the provisions of the Code subject to the discretion of the department offering the course.

The Band of the Fighting Irish is holding auditions. There are openings on all instruments. For registration and complete information, come to the band office in Washington Hall as soon as possible. There will be an orientation meeting in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium today at 4:30 p.m.

Jose Cardenas, a graduate of Chicago's James Bowen High School, will attend Notre Dame this fall as a recipient of the Gerrits/Pepsi-Cola Foundation's annually awarded scholarship. Cardenas is the third recipient of the $32,000 scholarship, which is awarded to non-athletes who are incoming freshmen at institutions of higher education whose football teams have won the United Press International Coaches Trophy. Notre Dame's did so after its victory over West Virginia in this year's Fiesta Bowl game.

Thomas Morris, associate professor of philosophy at Notre Dame, has been selected as a Howard Foundation Fellow for the 1989 to 1990 academic year. He is one of seven fellows selected nationally from nominated applicants. The focus of Morris's research for the coming academic year will be on the seventeenth century philosopher and mathematician, Blaise Pascal. He hopes, as a culmination of this research, to write a ninth book, entitled Faith, Reason, and the Meaning of Life.

The fall schedule of Masses has been announced by the Office of Campus Ministry. At Stepan Center, which will be used for liturgies while Sacred Heart Church is closed for renovation, a Vigil Mass will take place each Saturday at 5 p.m. Each Sunday, Masses will take place at Stepan Center at 10 a.m. and 11:45 a.m. In the Crypt of Sacred Heart Church, Sunday Masses will take place at 6 a.m., 7 a.m., 8 a.m., 9:30 a.m. and 11 a.m. Daily Masses will take place in the Crypt at 6:30 a.m., 7:15 a.m., 11:15 a.m., 12:10 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. The schedule for Vigil Masses may be disrupted by campus activities during some Notre Dame home football game weekends. If so, schedule changes will be announced beforehand.

There's more to life at ND/SMC than just football

There is a new advertisement gracing the wall of the Michiana Regional Airport in South Bend. The ad shows a picture of a gold Notre Dame football helmet and states some to the effect of, "If this is all you know about Notre Dame you have a lot to learn." Truer words may never have been said.

The ad brings up an important point about Notre Dame. The problem, like at many schools, is that everyone, incoming students included, tend to see colleges in only one light. One may associate Harvard with academic excellence, USC with beautiful weather, and some connect Notre Dame only with athletic excellence.

No university, however, should be thought of so narrow-mindedly. Many of incoming freshmen may not realize it yet but their next four years at Notre Dame will be some of the most enjoyable of their life. Notre Dame is not just a football school and it is also not just an academic institution. Notre Dame and Saint Mary's cannot be cubbyholed this easily.

When most of you leave in four years you will not only have learned about science or English, or how to cheer at football and basketball games, but you will also have made a lot of new lifetime friends, learned how to better interact in the world, and discovered many of your hidden talents. You will have become a part of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and this will stay with you for the rest of your life.

In the simple but elegant words of one of Notre Dame's faculty, "There is more to college than books." Don't allow yourselves to become so devoted to your studies or any other single activity, make sure you save time to experience college life in total, not in single parts.

The wonderful thing about college life is that everyone can take advantage of it differently. Not everyone has to take the same courses and join the same clubs. There are enough activities to interest anyone.

Freshman year is a great time to explore all the facets of college life. There is no need to decide right away what major you're going into (you have two whole years) and you don't have 'The wonderful thing about college life is that everyone can take advantage of it differently'

Editor-in-chief to stay in every club you join. Experiment now while you have the time because time goes by much quicker than you think.

I realize that college life might seem a little overwhelming at first but just give yourself time to get acquainted to your new surroundings, roommates, and classes in time you will feel perfectly at home. In the words of a previous editor of this paper, "grow to love this community for what it really is, not what you think it might be."

Finally, I want to be one of the thousands who welcome to the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's family. The Observer looks forward to serving you for the next four years and we hope you enjoy the paper.

The Observer is published Monday through Friday by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's and we need your help. If you are interested in becoming involved in the paper please feel free to stop by anytime, I or someone else will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Don't worry if you don't think you can write well. The Observer needs people in all of its departments and writers are only a fraction of our entire staff. Positions, however, do fill up quickly so if you are interested act soon.

Thank you and good luck. And remember to try and enjoy every minute at Notre Dame because time really does go too fast.

Nine Saint Mary's freshmen in temporary housing

By JOHN O'BRIEN
Senior Staff Reporter

For the second year in a row, no freshmen are being housed in temporary housing, according to the Office of Student Residences.

Last year was the first year in 17 years that freshmen were not forced into temporary housing in study lounges.

Last year, Director of Student Residences Evelyn Reinebold attributed this to the decision to keep Holy Cross Hall open and only a slight increase in class size.

Reinebold could not be reached for comment, but a spokesman for the Office of Student Residences confirmed that no freshmen are living in study lounges.

In 1987-88, the last year to have freshmen in temporary housing, 111 freshmen spent either part or all of their year in study lounges in Planner, Grace, Pasquerilla East, and Pasquerilla West.

According to Minni Owens, coordinator of housing for Saint Mary's College, 9 freshmen are being housed in temporary housing.

"The rooms that these students are in, however," said Owens, "were built especially for temporary housing and are actually quite nice."

Owens said that the 9 students are living in three separate rooms, each with a bathroom. She added that even when given an opportunity to leave, the students usually choose to stay in those rooms for the entire year.

190 transfer students to enroll at Notre Dame

By CHRISTINE WALSH
Senior Staff reporter

In addition to the freshman class numbering between 1820 and 1830 students, approximately 190 transfer students will be enrolled at Notre Dame for the 1989-90 academic year.

This year marks an increase in the number of transfers accepted, up from 155 in 1988.

The number of transfer students accepted depends largely upon space available and the current housing situation, according to Susan Joyce, transfer coordinator and assistant director of admissions.

Since the opening of Siegfried and Knott Halls, it has been slightly easier to accept female transfer students, said Joyce.

"No woman who requested to live on-campus was denied such housing," Joyce said.

Not all men who requested on-campus housing were able to get it, whereas in the past it was generally the women who were at such a disadvantage, Joyce said.

One of the most frequently cited reasons for transferring to Notre Dame was to experience dorm and campus life, said Joyce.

Adjustment to a new school and environment is difficult, and transfers must "face extra trials living off campus," Joyce said.

Being a transfer student is like "entering a movie after it's begun," according to Roland Smith, executive assistant to the president.

Female transfer students are distributed among the dorms across the campus, while many of the male transfers can be found residing in Holy Cross Hall.

The men were given the option to live in Holy Cross, said Joyce, although the dorm is slated to close after this academic year.

Those transfer students living in Holy Cross this year "may not be able to live on campus next year, depending on housing availability," said Joyce. "Everyone (all Holy Cross residents) will be displaced next year," Joyce said.

According to Joyce, "The feeling of community at Notre Dame... the Notre Dame tradition, the spirit" is what attracts the typical transfer student.

"Obviously academics (are the primary attraction). Students view a Notre Dame diploma as a way of getting ahead. They are looking for a challenge," Joyce added.

When applying for transfer status, students are largely judged on a combination of both course work completed at their previous institution and grades. The school from which the student is transferring is also considered, said Joyce.

Unlike freshmen, transfer students apply to the individual colleges, which then conduct the primary evaluation of the prospective student.

The most difficult college to enter as a transfer is the College of Arts and Letters, said Joyce. This is because "approximately 40 percent of the freshmen choose to enter the College of Arts and Letters, leaving no room for transfer students."

Only about 35 of the 85 transfer students who are juniors, and no sophomores, were able to get into the College

Malloy works on ND-Australia, Vatican documents over summer

By JOHN O'BRIEN
Senior Staff Reporter

While many students used the past summer to vacation and to prepare for college, University President Father Edward Malloy spent much of the summer attending to important matters.

Besides addressing commencement ceremonies at various institutions and speaking with alumni, Malloy also continued work on revising a Vatican document and planning the University of Notre Dame-Australia.

Malloy, along with University Provost Timothy O'Meara and Executive Vice-President William Beauchamp, travelled to Australia from June 27 to July 16 to continue planning of the new university.

According to Roland Smith, executive assistant to the president, Malloy and O'Meara are serving on the new university's planning board and Beauchamp is serving as a consultant.

"They are planning to have the university established by 1992, but I'm not sure how realistic that is," Smith said. "The timetable is the key question," he added.

When established, the University of Notre Dame-Australia will become Australia's first private university, a fact which is causing local problems in Australia, Smith said.

In late June, Malloy received the fourth draft of the document, "The Schema on Catholic Higher Education," which was first proposed in 1985 by the Vatican Congregation for Catholic Education.

In May, Malloy was elected as one of three North American members of a 15-member commission created by a world congress of Catholic educators. The commission was created in order to assist in revising the document.

According to Malloy, the document is "supposed to address the question of the role of Catholic higher education, the relationship between the institutions and the local bishop and national groups of bishops, the role of various component parts like the theology department, or the way that science and technology are approached."

Malloy's review of the April meeting of the congress appeared in the June 10 issue of the Catholic weekly, America. In the review, Malloy wrote that he expected the new draft to be substantially changed as a result of the April meeting.

Among those recommendations were proposals that the document be more "positive, inspirational and future-oriented," and that the "full autonomy" and "freedom of research and teaching" of Catholic universities be clearly affirmed.

of Arts and Letters, added Joyce.

"The College of Business Administration took the lion's share (of transfers)," Joyce said.

Although the minimum GPA requirement for a potential transfer is a 3.0, the average transfer student applies with close to a 3.5, said Joyce.

Various improvements have been made this year in providing more helpful and extensive orientation and counseling programs for transfers, said Joyce.

"The orientation, organized by Kevin Keane, chair of the student government committee on transfers, has gotten better each year. This year shows how good it (the orientation program) can be," Joyce said.

"Transfers are in no way second class citizens. They bring to Notre Dame the best of what they have seen before. They make this a more heterogeneous community," said Joyce.

Another factor in the upward trend is the favorable press exposure the University has received with the end of the 35-year administration of University President-emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh and the first two years of the tenure of University President Father Edward Malloy, Rooney said.

Breslin, Kinkopf set high goals for 1989-90

By FLORENTINE HOELKER
Senior Staff Reporter

The main goal of student government for the 1989-90 school year will be to provide services to students while promoting intellectual life on campus.

Balancing intellectual life and services is the primary purpose of student government, and the current student government will strive to provide both of these things for students, said Student Body President Matt Breslin.

"Our goal is to make sure there is a balance of services from student government, along with a healthy intellectual life," said Breslin. "We plan to continue activities such as the Iceberg Debates, while hopefully improving some services."

One improvement is the Blue and Gold Pages, which is a directory of information for nearly anything imaginable, designed for students, Breslin said. The Blue and Gold Pages will have information like phone numbers of important places on campus, general information on the campus, and will also provide information on off-campus locales.

"A guide like this is good, especially for freshmen who have questions about things they're not quite sure about," said Breslin.

Student government plans to continue efforts to construct a 24-hour lounge, and Breslin said that he and Student Body Vice-President Dave Kinkopf will soon meet with their cabinet to establish other long-term goals.

Over the summer, Breslin and Kinkopf held a meeting on campus with representatives of six other Catholic colleges and universities to create the National Association of Students at Catholic Colleges and Universities.

SMC government begins new year

By CHRISTINE GILL
Senior Staff Reporter

College diversity, security department relations and increased interest in Saint Mary's sports are some of the issues the student government will be covering this year.

Lisa Catenacci, student body president and chair of the Board of Governance, said these are areas of concern expressed in a survey of student leaders last semester.

Increased communication with the security department, including the issues of security procedures and parking regulations, was a prominent topic and will be a focus of the governmental boards when they meet this fall.

Continuing college diversity and increasing student support of the athletic teams are also goals the student leaders will work toward.

The major difference in student government this year is the change of the title of the Programming Board to the Board of Student Affairs (BOSA).

Although the positions included on this board remain the same, with the addition of a Health Commissioner and Campus Clubs Commissioner, the change in name also reflects efforts to include the total student lifestyle into student government at Saint Mary's.

Vice President for Academic Affairs, Mary Beth Blajda, is the head of BOSA, which also includes the Student Activities Board.

Saint Mary's Academic Council, led by Deirdre Milon, vice-president for Academic Affairs and College Relations, will continue to make decisions about academic programs and policies.

The governing bodies begin the fall semester with meetings on Sept. 4 for BOSA and Sept. 6 for the Board of Governance.

New faces now a part of the ND community

Welcome to Notre Dame.

This is the weekend to find your way around your new surroundings. If you've visited here before you already know what a beautiful campus this is. If not, then take advantage of the free time you have this weekend to stroll around and explore.

Enjoy the warm weather while it lasts, for arctic cold is only a few short weeks away. If you've never experienced a South Bend winter there is really no way to describe it for you except to say that words such as freezing and arctic cold don't do it justice.

This is now your home away from home. No matter what your background or where you've come from you are now a part of a unique community--the Notre Dame family. You are now officially a "Domer."

Just what is a "Domer?" Ask ten different seniors and you'll get ten different answers.

Being a Domer means being a part of the best Catholic university in the world. It means an opportunity to challenge your values and beliefs. It means a chance to explore who you are and to change what you don't like about yourself.

Of course, there's more to it than that. As a Domer you are now a part of a close knit group of students and alumni who stick together long after graduation. Start this weekend to go out and make new friends, for you will find that many of your new friendships will last a lifetime.

Dave Bruner Viewpoint Editor

Start in your dorm with the people in your section. These are the people with whom you'll be up 'till 3:30 discussing nuclear proliferation and Stealth technology or maybe just last Saturday's date. Long after this group has moved apart you will still consider yourselves something of a fraternity or a sorority.

Though graduation may seem like an eternity away, any senior will tell you that the time goes by quickly. One day you're sitting in Freshman chemistry and wondering if you'll ever turn twenty-one and the next you're applying to medical school and wondering where all the time went.

Notre Dame abounds with opportunities to get involved--Non-Varsity Athletics, Student Government, The Observer, community service projects, and many others. Find out what interests you and get involved. No one can study 24 hours a day. Outside activities can be a way to have fun, to learn something new, to meet new people and a way to keep your sanity. Don't wait until your senior year to decide that you want to participate in all the many extracurricular activities which can be found under the Dome.

Above all, remember that you are the newest members of the Notre Dame community, a membership which will last a lifetime. You've earned it, so be proud.

Malloy welcomes class of 1993 to ND

Dear Class of 1993:

I am happy to welcome you to Notre Dame on behalf of the faculty, staff and administration of the University. You are now part of the rich heritage and tradition of Notre Dame. I am sure that each of you will find a way to make a distinctive contribution to the life of the campus as we approach the celebration of our sesquicentennial.

You have already displayed during the course of your high school career many outstanding attributes. All of you were scholars but in addition many of you were leaders of your student bodies in many student-oriented activities. I hope that you continue this involvement at Notre Dame. I also encourage you to consider participation in many of the social service projects available on campus.

There are many people here who who will be happy to be of assistance to you along the way. Take advantage of their presence and allow them to become part of your extended community. May the coming year and all those that follow be a time of real growth in the life of the mind and in the ways of God.

Hickey invites freshmen to get involved

Dear Class of 1993:

Welcome to Saint Mary's College! You are about to begin what we hope will be one of the most rewarding four-year periods of your life. We are excited to have you here.

In selecting a liberal arts education, you have decided to explore the many educational avenues which will give you a solid foundation for the life you will live after Saint Mary's. This education will prepare you for a lifetime of learning.

I encourage you to probe, question, search, grow--stretch your mind and take full advantage of the knowledge that is just waiting to be discovered.

An important part of this process will be the interaction you will have with your professors. Take the time to get to know them well. They care deeply about you, as a person and as a student. Give them the chance to challenge you intellectually and to guide you academically. They are your mentors, and you will find that learning from them extends far beyond the doors of the classroom.

Saint Mary's College is dedicated to helping you develop your talents, not only academically but also spiritually, culturally, and as a human being. You have selected a Catholic college and are truly blessed to be studying in a caring, Christian community. There are many ways on this campus for you to explore your religious heritage. Take advantage of these opportunities; your faith can be renewed and deepened during your stay with us.

Saint Mary's has many clubs and organizations for every interest. There are varsity intramural sports, the campus paper, yearbook, literary magazine, and student government. We encourage you to get involved and to enjoy developing what will become some of the most special and treasured friendships of your lifetime.

We realize that the transition to college is not easy. But we want you to know that we are here to help you through it. Counselors, faculty, administrators, and Sisters alike, we want you to succeed and to get over the hurdle. Seek us out, if you need us.

As you begin your first year at Saint Mary's, I challenge you to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities awaiting you. Persevere. Take strides forward and grow as a total person. Soon these few short years will be past. Let them be well spent so that when you leave, you will set out with confidence toward making our world a better place.

Editor's note: The Observer welcomes the class of 1993 with this handy clip-n-save Domer Dictionary. Carry this essential reference guide with you at all times until you have mastered Domespeak.

Ad Building The building with the dome on top of it.

Alcohol Policy Be sure to read this stirring sermon put out by the administration, because its rules are enforced. Remember, a dry campus is a happy campus.

Alumni Clad in blue and gold plaid pants and Notre Dame paraphernalia, these former students are best identified by their vociferous rah-rah spirit. Often found in flocks outside the bookstore, the alumni may try to torment you by showing their exhausted families their former haunts in your room.

Bookstore 1. No, you can't buy condoms at the bookstore. Also the place for students to buy their books and start their collection of Notre Dame sweatshirts. 2. The place where flocks of alumni and enthusiastic fans go to buy Notre Dame paraphernalia. 3. -- Basketball tournament The name of the springtime basketball extravaganza involving almost everyone on campus including Lou Holtz and Monk Malloy.

BP An abbreviation for Breen-Phillips Hall. Located on North Quad next to Farley Hall, its indistinguishable neighbor.

Brare Also known as the Theodore M. Hesburgh Library. Rarely populated by students aside from exam week and only then if the streakers are coming. As a general rule, the first two floors are for social studies, we think the third floor is the Bat Cave, and we've heard that the other floors are for academic warriors.

Bridget's One of the two bars near campus most frequented by Domers. Bridget's is the bar with the "We love Lou" sign painted on the outside wall. Often referred to as a bar for "beautiful people."

CCE Located across from the Morris Inn, the Center for Continuing Education looks like the house in the great Hitchcock movie "North by Northwest."

CHEGS These zany people are chemical engineering majors. Often found on the 12th floor of the library hunched over their periodic tables, these students have the luxury of easy classes and great looking calculators.

Choke Room The technical name of this pay cafeteria is the Oak Room. The Oak Room's food always manages to taste better than the food in the South Dining Hall's, yet both come from the same kitchen.

Circus Lunch While dubbed by some critics as "Lunch on a Stick," it is actually one of the better special meals offered by the dining hall, such as "Swamp Night (Maalox delight)."

Common Sense A monthly rag thrown together by people who are anti-everything. Look to Common Sense for anything but its namesake.

American Studies Program Often dubbed as the easiest major at Notre Dame, AMST majors receive a broad-based, diverse education, ranging from courses like "The Frisbee and Middle America's Post-Modern Consciousness: A Meeting of the Minds," to "Batman as Pop Hero."

An Tostal Notre Dame's spring fling before the hell of second semester finals week. This is the weekend of the mud pits, chariot races and jello wrestling.

Archies (ARK-ees) Mysterious creatures who sleep most of the day, and only venture forth at night to toil on design projects.

Beer Goggles 1. The phenomenon which makes members of the opposite sex appear more attractive in proportion to the amount of alcohol ingested. 2. An excuse.

Benders Residents of the booming metropolis known as South Bend. Keep your South Bend slams to a minimum though-- Father Sorin could have just as easily founded this fine institution in Gary.

DOMER DICTIONARY

The Commons The other of the two most frequented bars near campus. The proprietor Pasquale created quite a stir when he installed condom vending machines in the washrooms. Patrons like to say that the beautiful people go to Bridget's and everyone else goes to The Commons. The uncommon meet at The Commons. Come join us for a beer.

Comp Math The little building behind the library where most of your Calculus labs will be. A fantastic example of functionalist architecture.

Crunchy An adjective describing those students who dress like they've just raided a Third World Bazaar. They commune in front of O'Shag, play guitars and get absorbed into the Universal Consciousness.

CSC The little building next to the library is the home of the Center for Social Concerns. The CSC directs such programs as the Neighborhood Help Study Program.

Cushing Auditorium 1. By day, a rather uncomfortable classroom. This very classroom was once the sight of the dreaded Chemistry quizzes known to most seniors as "Emils." 2. By night, a movie theater featuring great flicks like "9 and 1/2 Weeks" and "Bull Durham."

Digger The nickname of Notre Dame's basketball coach. Digger Phelps' fashion sense is amazing. Check out some photos of him from the 1970's if you want to see something really disco.

Dog book Remember those horrible graduation photos that you sent in to school over the summer with other details about your life? Those photos and that information will appear in a pictorial guide of the class of '93. Watch out for people without photos, they might have been too ugly to put in the dog book. Actually they probably forgot to send their pictures in so don't worry.

Domers Congratulations. You can now include yourself as one of these creatures.

Double Domer Burgers This culinary masterpiece is composed of two burgers of questionable quality carefully placed between a greasy bun with an extra piece of bread.

Du Lac The handbook of How to, When to, and Where to. Learn it, Love it, Live it.

Duck Island The island in the middle of St. Joseph's Lake is often frequented by duck watchers on warm weekend nights. Also known as Treasure Island because of the number of chests that have been uncovered.

EE s (double eez) 1. Electrical Engineering majors. 2. The middle two letters in the word "geek." 3. Freshmen soon to enter the College of Business Administration.

Emil The legendary chemistry professor retired from teaching in '87 but continues to serve as the dean of the Freshmen Year of Studies. Emil T. Hofman's dreaded Friday morning quizzes were the bane of existence for many a freshman.

Ethanol The pungent aroma that permeates the Notre Dame campus when the wind blows from the direction of the ethanol plant in town. Students claim the aroma smells like everything from stale beer to french toast.

HTH 1. Home Town Honey 2. A standard excuse for blowing off undesirable SYR dates or unusually aggressive companions.

JACC The Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center. Hosts such talented groups as Whitesnake, Cinderella, and Frank Sinatra.

K-9 corps Favored method of the South Bend police to break up Off-Campus parties. They reserve tear gas for extreme cases.

Life in Hell 1. A cartoon with a one-eared rabbit in it. 2. The part of the weekly magazine Scholastic that is read. 3. Finding out that you have a 20-page research paper due in a class that you haven't attended since Spring Break.

Loftus Center The Taj-Ma-Holtz

Meatless cheeseburgers Yes, we know it is an oxymoron, but the dining hall served these mystery patties during Lent last year. So be on the lookout for creative cooking on the meatless Fridays in Lent. You never have the opportunity to feel tempted. Big Brother even feeds you the "right" food.

Monk Malloy President of the University of Notre Dame. Monk Malloy is a resident of Sorin Hall and can be seen burning up the courts at Moreau during Monk Hoops.

O.C. Denotes 'Off-Campus' and includes anything located outside the boundaries of the Notre Dame and St. Mary's campuses. 2. Going O.C. On weekends, this expression refers to a search for a fulfilling 'social gathering' at off-campus locations once the on-campus possibilities have been exhausted.

O'Shag An abbreviation for O'Shaughnessy Hall, home of the College of Arts and Letters.

P.E. 1. One of the most rewarding of the University's graduation requirements, open only to freshmen, this provides students with the opportunity of relieving academic stress in activities ranging from brain-bashing to social dance. Prerequisite: successful completion of a 'survival-of-the-fittest' swim test without drowning. 2. The abbreviation for Pasquerilla East, one of the aesthetically pleasing dormitory structures located on the Mod Quad. Another glorious example of functionalist architecture.

P.W. Stands for Pasquerilla West. Also located on the Mod Quad, this dorm is only distinguishable from P.E. by its greater proximity to the center of campus and its competitive interhall flag football team.

Parietals 1. Strictly enforced times during which no students may be present in the rooms of members of the opposite sex, instituted in honor of the old adage: "Remember, every room is a bedroom." These times are midnight on weeknights and 2 a.m. on weekends. Since no self-respecting Domer should have any pressing business in a member of the opposite sex's bedroom at night, this should not prove a hindrance to campus social life. 2. Breaking Parietals Although the University takes a serious view of this offense, which is punishable by death by crucifixion after a 'fair' trial is conducted by Notre Dame's special Spanish Inquisition Task Force, those who have actually succeeded in doing so attain a special status within the student body. Their success implies that the amoral cretins have been engaging in the S-word at risk of life and limb, or at least endless hours of community service.

Parietals

Pit The social snack bar located in the basement of the library. This is frequented at least every half-hour by every library goer with a sense of priorities. Serious study is secondary; scoping and complaining about the five twenty page papers due tomorrow that one hasn't even begun to research take precedence. Real students are rarely glimpsed here. 2. The lower-level P.E. aerobics torture chamber in the Joyce ACC located near the soda/vending machines.

Passion Pit Almost every 24-hour-lounge area on campus takes on the title of 'Passion Pit' after parietals, particularly on weekends. Couples with some sense of what is morally right and wrong at this university find their way to these 'social areas' both to see and be seen. Keep all four feet on the floor, folks, we don't want to scandalize the security guards!

Passion Pit

Program of Liberal Studies a.k.a PLS If you enjoy the pseudo-intellectual life, combined with a certain amount of expulsion of hot air, this major is perfect for you. Those who find themselves among the elite group participating in this 'Great Books' program tend to excuse any lack of GPA by reminding their peers that they could have followed the American Studies path had they not seen the light and instead chosen this higher intellectual plane.

Quad Notre Dame has four main quads, known to its inhabitants as North, South, Mod, and God quads. A fifth quad, referred to as 'Green' quad is in the works, on the site of the student tailgaters during football season. These are extremely useful for sunbathing and scoping.

Rent-a-cop Term of endearment used by students to refer to campus security, who thoughtfully makes sure that students know when they're illegally parked.

Rock Short for the Rockne Memorial, located on South Quad, this tribute to the legendary Knute Rockne houses sports facilities such as racquetball courts and a swimming pool.

Rolfs Aquatic Center If you can take the trouble to walk out to the JACC (an exercise of questionable value for residents of South Quad), you can swim in Notre Dame's multimillion dollar Olympic size swimming pool. When it's functioning, that is.

ROTC Reserve Officer Training Corps. They have guns. Big guns.

SAGA 1. An abbreviation for 'Soviet Attempt to Gag America' 2. The name of the catering company which used to run the SMC dining halls. Although SAGA is no longer with them, the dining hall is still referred to as SAGA as an affectionate tribute to the many years of quality food service they provided.

Scamming This is often the result of a night's carousing, particularly if beer goggles have been donned by both participants. You may be embarrassed to show your face on the quad the next morning, but this popular post-party activity is legal in the eyes of the Czars under the Dome provided parietals are not broken, articles of clothing are seemingly intact, and S-word activities are not indulged in. Single hitters only, please.

Scoping This is often a fore-runner of the above entry, as it entails shopping for a potential conquest in dining halls, dog books, classes, and on quads. This is a superficial activity; looks are favored, brains and personality are optional.

Shuttle These can be picked up in several spots around the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's campuses and are the most effective mode of transport between campuses, aside from a car.

SMC 1. Abbreviation for Saint Mary's College. 2. If pronounced Smick, refers to any student of Saint Mary's College.

Stonehenge Modeled on the ancient ruin over in England, this peace memorial adorns North Quad and is a tribute to Notre Dame men who gave their lives in World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. Its fountain can be a satisfactory source of a midnight swim, and watch out for soap bubbles...

Study Breaks Essential to maintain the sanity of even the die-hard Throats. Unfortunately the amount of time spent on study breaks is often inversely proportional to the quality of GPA.

SYR Abbreviation for 'Screw Your Roommate'; refers to the all-hall semi-formals each dorm holds throughout the semester. Get your revenge for all the nasty habits you are forced to endure by setting your roommate up with the blind date of the century.

Throats Academic Warriors whose home is the library. If they surface from their books for extended periods of time, they experience serious withdrawal symptoms.

Touchdown Jesus Our irreverent but affectionate nickname for the 14-story mural on the side of the Hesburgh Library which faces the stadium. Jesus' arms are raised in the traditional Touchdown position, confirming the popular campus myth that God really is on our side.

Towers The twin high-rise men's dormitories on the Mod Quad, Flanner and Grace halls.

'Za One of the few true distortions of the English language. Rumor has it that there are Domers who actually use this in reference to pizza, but fortunately they are few and far between.

Saint Mary's joins NCAA Division III ranks

Special to The Observer

Saint Mary's College will compete at the NCAA's Division III level in each of the school's seven varsity sports beginning this fall, according to athletic director Jo-Ann Nester.

Previously, Saint Mary's had competed as a member of the NAIA. The Belles will fulfill their present scheduling commitments by maintaining a dual NCAA/NAIA membership for the coming year.

Nester said the switch resulted from a desire for a more consistent level of competition with an emphasis on scheduling schools more comparable to Saint Mary's in terms of structure of their academic and athletic programs

"As an NCAA Division III affiliate, we now have the opportunity to compete in a non-scholarship division, among schools with athletic and academic philosophies similar to ours," Nester said. "This kind of peer scheduling clearly will allow our teams to be more competitive in post-season play at the district, regional and national level.

Saint Mary's received written verification of its acceptance in a letter from the NCAA. The membership is effective Sept. 1.

Saint Mary's fields varsity teams in basketball, soccer, softball, swimming and diving, tennis and volleyball.

Irish earn many honors during summer break

Special to The Observer

Winning the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament in most unusual fashion, the Notre Dame baseball team advanced to the NCAA tournament this spring for the first time since 1970.

The Irish won one game before being eliminated from the double-elimination NCAA West II Regional at Fresno, Calif. Notre Dame lost to host Fresno State 9-8 in the first round, failing to hold a ninth-inning 8-6 lead. Notre Dame later defeated Portland in extra innings, then fell to Fresno State 11-4.

Wichita State, the eventual winner of the West II Regional, went on to capture the national championship.

Notre Dame, which closed the season at 48-19-1, received an automatic bid to the NCAAs by taking the MCC tournament. It required an all-day, all-night effort by the Irish.

After losing 16-15 to Detroit in the double-elimination tournament, Notre Dame defeated Saint Louis 10-6. The Irish then faced Dayton in a game that did not begin until 1:38 a.m. because of rain delays.

The Irish prevailed 20-4 over the Flyers, in a game that did not end until well after 4 a.m., then took the championship by winning three games the following day. Notre Dame eliminated Evansville 11-2, then swept a pair of games from season-long nemesis Detroit.

In all, Notre Dame won four games in a time-span of 22 hours to earn the trip to Fresno.

Notre Dame outfielder Dan Peltier, who batted .453 with 15 home runs and 90 runs batted in, was a consensus first-team All-America selection. Peltier and pitcher Erik Madsen each earned second-team Academic All-America honors.

Peltier now is a member of the Texas Rangers organization, which selected him in the third round of the professional draft in May. The Detroit Tigers selected shortstop Pat Pesavento in the 17th round.

Baseball players were not the only Notre Dame athletes to earn honors over the summer.

David DiLucia of the men's tennis team competed in the NCAA tournament, where he was eliminated in the first round. DiLucia, who posted a 38-9 singles record, was named Region IV Volvo Tennis Rookie of the Year. Teammate Dave Reiter was named to the Volvo Tennis Scholar Athlete team. Reiter had a 3.56 cumulative grade point average as a government major, while earning a career singles record of 62-51.

Theresa Rice of the cross country team was named a first-team at-large Academic All-American by the College Sports Information Directors of America. Rice, an all-conference runner for the Irish, received a 3.95 cumulative grade point average while pursuing two degrees in modern languages and medieval studies. Rice is currently working toward her Ph.D. at Notre Dame in medieval philosophy.

Ron Markezich, who had qualified for the NCAA outdoor championships in the 5,000 meter run by setting a school record in the event, was forced to withdraw from the race due to a stress fracture in his leg. Markezich was seeded second in the NCAA field.

ment last season under Lambert. The Irish went 19-12 and was among the final 16 teams left in the tournament.

Jay Louderback: After coaching the Iowa State men's and women's tennis teams the past three seasons, Louderback debuts as the Notre Dame women's coach this year.

Louderback has a 10-year career coaching record of 204-179. Before his tenure at Notre 1979, Louderback led the program at his alma mater Wichita State.

Fran McCann: The Notre Dame wrestling team finished 21st in the nation and had two All-Americans, another step forward in McCann's plan to make the Irish one of the nation's elite. McCann has brought Notre Dame's program to national attention with his aggressive recruiting and scheduling. The Irish host traditional powers Iowa and Oklahoma this year.

Muffet McGraw: Despite an injury to top player Heidi Bunek, McGraw led the Notre Dame women's basketball team to the NIT in her second year at the helm last winter. McGraw has a 41-19 record since arriving at Notre Dame.

Before coaching the Irish, McGraw led the Lehigh program to a total record of 88-41 in five years.

Pat Murphy: The energetic Murphy led the Notre Dame baseball team to its first NCAA tournament appearance since 1970 last spring and guided first-team All-American Dan Peltier. During the season, the Irish defeated Texas and Miami, which both advanced to the eight-team College World Series.

In two seasons at Notre Dame, Murphy has compiled a total record of 87-41-1, including a 48-19-1 mark last season.

Digger Phelps: The winningest Notre Dame basketball coach of all time, Phelps has a 365-164 record in 18 years with the Irish. Phelps, whose actual first name is Richard, also is known as one of the most outspoken coaches in discussing the relationship between academics and athletics in collegiate sports.

Phelps led the Irish to a Final Four appearance in the 1979-80 season.

Joe Piane: The Notre Dame men's cross country team has finished among the nation's top 10 teams each of the past two seasons under Piane. The Irish placed ninth last fall despite injury problems and recorded a surprising seventh-place finish in 1987.

Piane also coaches the men's track team and is in his 15th year directing both squads.

Ric Schafer: A former player and assistant coach of the Notre Dame hockey team, Schafer is a third-year head coach trying to bring the program back to the stature it enjoyed a decade ago.

The Irish posted a best-ever 27-4-2 record in Schafer's debut season of 1987-88. Notre Dame slumped to 10-26-2 last season facing a much tougher schedule.

Schafer coached for seven years at Alaska-Fairbanks before getting the head coaching job at Notre Dame.

George Thomas: This Michigan City native is set to begin his second year as coach of the Notre Dame men's golf team. Thomas, the golf pro at Elkhart's Elcona Country Club, upgraded the team's schedule last spring in a season which saw the Irish show steady improvement.

Thomas has qualified for two U.S. Opens as a player and was the subject of a Sports Illustrated piece titled "A Nobody At the Open" in 1965. The article focused on Thomas because he was the player at the Open with the least amount of tour experience.

Tim Welsh: After coaching both the men's and women's swim teams at Johns Hopkins for eight years, Welsh is entering this fourth year holding the same positions at Notre Dame.

Plenty of athletic facilities available for active students

Special to The Observer

From racquetball courts to golf courses, from skating rinks to swimming pools, the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's campus has the athletic facilities to fit the needs of any sports enthusiast.

The quads are available in the fall and spring for various activities, and there are plenty of indoor athletic shelters worth a visit during the winter months.

Here is a list of facilities available to students on both campuses:

Edmund P. Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center (JACC)—The double-domed Joyce ACC, located east of the football stadium, contains more area than the Houston Astrodome.

The South Dome houses the basketball arena used by the men's and women's basketball teams, the volleyball team and the Irish wrestlers. The hockey team's home ice is located in the North Dome, also known as the Fieldhouse. The JACC Auxiliary Gym, known as 'The Pit' is between the domes.

The building also contains basketball, handball, racquetball, squash, tennis and volleyball courts that usually are open to the public, the reservations are required for most of the courts.

For those interested in Fighting Irish sports history, the Sports Heritage Foundation, located on the second floor between the domes, is home to many awards, photographs and momentos from Notre Dame's history.

Rolfs Aquatic Center—This three-year-old natatorium, located at the east end of the JACC, features a 50-meter pool which is usually divided into three sections during recreational swimming times.

The diving section features three one-meter and two three-meter springboards. The recreational swimming section is 25 yards in length and has eight lanes for swimming laps. The final section is used for water basketball and water polo.

Angela Athletic Facility—Located north of McCandless Hall on the Saint Mary's campus, Angela includes basketball, racquetball, volleyball and indoor tennis courts, and also has a carpeted jogging track around the courts.

Weight machines, fitness and gymnastic equipment also are housed in the facility, while more basketball and tennis courts are just outside the building.

The facility is open to all Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students upon the presentation of a student ID. Reservations are required for the racquetball courts.

Eck Tennis Pavilion—This indoor facility, completed in the fall of 1987, is the home court for the Notre Dame men's and women's tennis teams. Located east of the out door Courtney Courts, the Eck is country club quality, housing six laykold courts and an observation deck.

Court time can be reserved in 75-minute blocks by calling 239-6929. The facility is currently opened 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., but will stay open until 11 p.m. beginning in September. Fees are $1 for students, $2 for faculty and staff and $4 for alumni and guests.

Loftus Indoor Athletic Facility—This new facility east of Jake Kline Field houses an artificial-turf football field (Meyo Field), a six lane, 300-plus meter track and an impressive varsity weight room. Loftus is used primarily for varsity team practices.

Burke Memorial Golf Course—On the west end of the Notre Dame campus is the 18-hole, par 71 University golf course, which is open until late fall and reopens in early spring.

During the winter, the course is occasionally opened for cross country skiing.

Knute Rockne Memorial—Located at the west end of South Quad, 'The Rock' is the center for the physical education program. The brick structure contains basketball courts, handball and racquetball courts, a weight room, a light apparatus room, a swimming pool and the golf pro shop.

Use of the Rockne Memorial is free to all students and faculty members upon presentation of a University identification card. Closing time is 11 p.m. daily.

Regina Pool—This small swimming pool is located in the middle of Regina Hall on the Saint Mary's campus.

Bookstore Courts—Notre Dame's renowned Bookstore Basketball, one of the largest tournaments in the world with nearly 700 teams participating each year, owes its name to these two courts.

ND golf hosts tournament

Notre Dame's varsity men's and women's golf teams, in conjunction with the Burke memorial Golf Course on campus, are hosting a golf tournament on two successive weekends, September 9 and 10, and 16 and 17.

The Notre Dame Campus Championship Golf Tournament is open to faculty, staff administration and students.

The tournament is also an open tryout for the men's and women's varsity golf teams.

Entry forms and information are available at the Burke Pro Shop or the Starters Hut. The entry fee is $5, and entries must be received by 5 p.m., Monday, September 4.

Meet the major names in ND sports

Special to The Observer

These are some of the major figures who will lead the University of Notre Dame Athletic Department in the 1989-90 school year:

Father E. William Beauchamp: Beginning his third year as Notre Dame's executive vice president, Beauchamp heads the faculty board in control of athletics. This body is responsible for overseeing Notre Dame athletics.

Richard Rosenthal: A former two-time Notre Dame All-America basketball player, Rosenthal is in his third year as Notre Dame athletic director. Rosenthal's first two years at the position have seen the women's golf, soccer, softball and track teams gain varsity status.

Rosenthal helped Notre Dame land a lucrative cable television package with Sports Channel America last May.

Yves Auriol: In four seasons as Notre Dame women's fencing coach, Auriol has guided his squad to one national team title and two national individual titles. The Frenchman coached the United States Olympic teams in 1980, 1984 and 1988.

Bob Bayliss: Since replacing Tom Fallon, who led the Notre Dame men's tennis team for 35 seasons, Bayliss has significantly upgraded the Irish schedule.

Bayliss led his team to 19-9 season last year that included three victories over nationally-ranked opponents, and freshman David DiLucia reached the NCAA tournament.

Brian Boulac: A former tight end on the Irish football team, Boulac coaches the women's softball team and serves as assistant athletic director.

The softball team finished 31-23 in its inaugural season last spring.

Before gaining his administrative duties, Boulac worked 13 years on the Notre Dame football coaching staff.

Tim Connolly: A 1983 Notre Dame graduate, the 28-year-old Connolly is the second-year head coach of the women's cross country team.

Kevin Corrigan: After barely missing an NCAA tournament berth in his debut season, Corrigan enters his second year as the Notre Dame lacrosse coach.

Corrigan, the son of former ND athletic director Gene Corrigan, was an assistant coach at Virginia for two years before coming to Notre Dame.

Mike DeCicco: This 1949 ND alum doubles as coach of the national power men's fencing team and academic advisor for all Notre Dame athletes.

Much of the credit for Notre Dame's high graduation rate among its athletes goes to DeCicco, who assists more than 500 athletes.

In 28 years as the Irish fencing coach, DeCicco's teams have won national championships in 1977, 1978 and 1986.

Dennis Grace: The 36-year-old Grace led the Notre Dame soccer team to its first NCAA tournament appearance last fall without the benefit of a single scholarship. In the past two years, Grace's Irish hold a 1-0-1 record against rival Indiana, the 1988 national champion.

Grace also assisted the women's soccer team in its inaugural season last year.

Lou Holtz: Famous for reestablishing the football programs at North Carolina State, Arkansas and Minnesota, Holtz has done his best repair job yet at Notre Dame.

In just three seasons under Holtz, the Irish have gone from a 5-6 season to a national championship. Holtz also has guided the Irish to consecutive appearances in New Year's Day bowls, coached a Heisman Trophy winner in Tim Brown and has led the Irish to a 31-30 grudge-match victory over arch-rival Miami.

Holtz also has coached at William and Mary and had a one-year stint as head coach of the National Football League's New York Jets.

Art Lambert: The Notre Dame volleyball team made its first trip to the NCAA tourna-

CLASS OF '93, Experience All the Best of Notre Dame Football Tradition In... CHAMPIONS: Lou Holtz's Fighting Irish

Welcome, you're now a part of the many fine traditions of the University of Notre Dame, among which is the rich history of Fighting Irish football. Under the leadership of Coach Lou Holtz, ND football has recaptured the magic and makeup of champions! Here, in CHAMPIONS, is the full, remarkable story of how Coach Holtz returned the glory to the Blue & Gold's gridiron.

Written by the South Bend Tribune's Bill Bilinski, the sportswriter closest to the Notre Dame football scene for the last 5 years, CHAMPIONS is an attractive 208-page, $16.95 hardcover, featuring 16 pages of photos and a foreword by Lou Holtz. For Fighting Irish Tradition 101, it's recommended reading not only for every freshman...but for everyone!

CHAMPIONS

Lou Holtz's Fighting Irish

Irish will begin title defense without several key players

THERESA KELLY
Sports Editor

Repeating as National Champions is difficult enough, but the first week of fall drills proved how tough the task facing the Notre Dame football team will be.

Seven players on the first and second teams left the team for various reasons, including 1988 All-American linebacker Mike Stonebreaker and the second-leading ground gainer for the Irish, tailback Tony Brooks.

"I thought we had a chance to return as an excellent football team," said Irish head coach Lou Holtz, "but we lost some excellent players. Now I don't know. Right now, we are not what I would call an excellent football team."

Stonebreaker violated the conditions of his University probation by driving on campus. The probation was the result of a drunk driving incident late last winter. He has indicated he will stay at Notre Dame and graduate with his class in May.

Brooks withdrew in the spring and was not permitted

re-entry into the University. He reportedly will reapply next year. Backfield mate Braxton Banks, a fullback, will also miss the 1989 season due to a knee injury. Banks can petition for another year of eligibility for next season. Defensive standout George Williams is academically ineligible for participation this year. He will remain at Notre Dame. Defensive end Arnold Ale has transferred from Notre Dame to UCLA. Linebacker John Foley has not recovered from a bicep injury suffered in the Cotton Bowl in 1988 and has retired from football. Finally, offensive tackle Pete Rausch, a junior, left the team August 11.

George Williams

"That's an awful lot of talent to lose," Holtz said, "especially if you're trying to replace it with people who have only been here 18 days."

"I think it may have hurt the morale at first," said Irish tri-captain Ned Bolcar. "I don't know if we can really replace what we've lost, but we have guys who can come in and play well."

File Photo

It's only a matter of time before legendary Notre Dame Stadium becomes this full with students, alumni and subway alumni singing the Victory March and cheering on the defending national champions. The Fighting Irish football team opens its home schedule Sept. 23 against Michigan State. Five of Notre Dame's 112 games are at home.

ND fall sports teams have tough act to follow

Special to The Observer

Even if the football team had not won the national championship, 1988 would have been considered a banner year for Notre Dame's first-semester sports.

The volleyball and men's soccer team each received their first invitations to NCAA tournament play. The women's soccer team went 13-6-1 in its inaugural season. The wrestling team finished a best-ever 21st place in the nation. And the men's cross country squad placed in the top 10 for a second consecutive year.

Judging from each of those team's schedules, the 1989 fall season could be just as interesting for Notre Dame athletics.

Men's soccer: The defending Midwestern Collegiate Conference champions open the season at the Indiana Classic in Bloomington, where the Irish face Virginia and MCC foe Saint Louis.

Notre Dame's home schedule will include defending national champion Indiana and MCC rival Akron. The Irish also will travel to the West Coast to face Cal. State-Los Angeles and Santa Clara.

The MCC tournament champion receives an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament this season. The Irish reached the NAAs last year and were eliminated by Southern Methodist in the first round.

Notre Dame loses its two all-time leading scorers this fall in Bruce "Tiger" McCourt and Randy Morris, but standout keeper Danny Lyons returns for his senior season.

Women's soccer: After faring impressively in its inaugural season, an upgraded schedule this fall includes Duke and Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference and Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan of the Big Ten.

The Irish no longer face Saint Mary's. Notre Dame won and tied in its two meetings with the Belles last year.

Wrestling: Irish coach Fran McCann sent his team to the Soviet Union over the summer to face some top international competition.

Over the winter, the Joyce ACC will be welcoming some of the most traditionally successful collegiate programs in the United States.

Iowa, which has won nine NCAA titles in the last decade, comes to Notre Dame on Feb. 25. Oklahoma, one of the best teams in the wrestling-rich Big Eight Conference, will visit on Jan. 8.

The Irish also will host Ohio State and Purdue, and will travel to Nebraska.

The wrestling team opens its season in the first semester, but the season highlights come after the winter holidays. For the men's and women's basketball teams, the schedule looks difficult in both semesters.

Men's basketball: Every single player from last year's 21-9 team returns to Notre Dame this season. Monty Williams, a 6-7 all-state forward at Maryland, will join them.

The Irish play 13 games against teams that competed in last year's NCAA tournament. Notre Dame hosts Georgia Tech, UCLA and Missouri, while the Irish will visit Indiana, LaSalle, Duke and Syracuse.

The schedule includes a pair of feature dates - a meeting with Louisville at the Hoosier Dome Dec. 2 in the Big Four Classic and a contest with LSU Jan. 20 at the New Orleans Superdome.

Women's basketball: The fireworks start early for the Irish this season. Defending national champion Tennessee comes to the JACC on Dec. 3. The Irish, looking for their first-ever bid to the NCAA tournament, will travel to Old Dominion on Jan. 12.

The Irish return seven monogram winners from last year's squad.

ND football ticket sales on the way

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame athletic department ticket office has announced procedures for 1989 season football ticket sales to students. Ticket applications will be in Notre Dame student mailboxes early next week, and Saint Mary's students will receive their applications at registration.

Any students who do not receive their applications by Thursday, Aug. 31, should get in touch with the ticket office to receive a copy of the application form. Students who do not have a local (Michiana-area) address should also contact the ticket office for their applications.

Distribution begins Tuesday, Sept. 5, at the Joyce ACC ticket booth, with seniors getting first shot at 50-yard line seats. This year's prices for the five-game home season are $57.50 for Notre Dame students and $77 for Saint Mary's students. All applications must be accompanied by student IDs.

The windows will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. September 5th through the 8th. Juniors can get their tickets September 6, sophomores, law students and grad students September 7, and freshmen September 8. One student may bring as many as four applications and IDs. Married students may purchase tickets for spouses at the student price, but proof of marriage is required.

The 1:30 starting time is intended to reduce the need for overnight lines, according to Associate Ticket Manager Jim Bell.

"Camping over is discouraged," Bell said. "In the mornings, we'll be as flexible as we can be as long as the lines are orderly and the area is kept clean. But we don't need the furniture and stuff out all night like we've had in the past."

Security will be on duty at the Joyce ACC during the ticket distribution process.
