

Religious Bulletin.

May 29, 1923.

The Frolic.

The Freshmen set a fine precedent of sober gaiety and demonstrated that, contrary to a popular notion, a person can be refined and still have a wonderful time. And there was a good representation of the participants at Holy Communion Saturday morning.

May Devotions.

There will be no services Wednesday evening. On Thursday at 7:30 father Donahue will preach for the closing. First Friday confessions in the church after Benediction.

No lover of the Blessed Sacrament should excuse himself from Holy Communion on Thursday.

Decoration Day.

~~Before and after the field Mass, Holy Communion will be distributed~~ in the Walsh Hall chapel. Don't break your Novena.

First Friday.

The Adoration will be conducted as usual, but there will be no lists posted Mass of exposition at 6:30.

Situations Wanted.

Two Freshman bootleggers with several weeks' experience and a record of only one loss (May 25) offer their services as booze runners extra-ordinary for the summer. White, amiable, good address, unmarried, good insurance risks.

Summer is Neigh.

"I expect this summer to be thrown in with a wild crowd -- boys with whom I used to gang and whose company I can not well avoid. I have turned strait since I came here, and I want to continue strait. Can you suggest any special remedy."

If your year here has not strengthened your character, you should quit school. You are wasting time. And if your character has developed, don't place too much confidence in it. Frequent the Sacraments; and avoid the occasions of sin, even though it costs you supposed friends.
