

RELIGIOUS BULLETIN.

Our Lady of Peace, Pray for Us.

The game today resumes football relations with a friendly old rival. Our men will wear medals of Our Lady of Peace. Pray to Our Lady of Peace that the game will be what we like to see: a brilliant exhibition of clean sportsmanship, unmarred by the slightest accident.

P.S. If you can't understand the clear-cut Christianity of Notre Dame football, read "The Courage of Christ", by Schuyler, and make your own applications. (Apostolate Library, Brownson Hall).

Their Breath Smells Bad.

Some of the visitors last Saturday exuded the odor of a Ford radiator on an icy morning. If any of your guests today shellac their throats for one purpose or another, please, as a matter of decency, keep them out of range of faculty noses. Those who devote their lives to the high ideals of Catholic education should not be called upon too frequently to contemplate its pickled abortions.

You Cannot Insult a Pig.

The Bulletin has been requested not to insult our honored guests. The Bulletin will not insult honored guests, but it will continue to protest against the unwelcome invasion of those who have to become animals to appreciate Alma Mater.

You Can't Strike Fire from Putty.

A lot of men, freshmen and upperclassmen, did not make the Mission. Some of them may have had good reasons; some gave satisfactory explanations. For most of the others the explanation is simply lack of character. This takes the following forms:

1. The deadly sin of spiritual sloth;
2. Unwillingness to give up a sin;
3. Inability to break with a bad crowd;
4. Domination by a carnal nature;
5. Dishonesty in facing conscience;
6. Cowardice in the matter of confession.

Only the grace of God can turn putty into flint. It is a miracle.

Putty Does Not Hold Its Shape.

Tonight you will see putty, fashioned into the shape of man, lose its likeness to God. You will see this putty melt and run under the fire of temptation.

The Off-Campus Mass.

Confessions are heard during the 8:10 Mass at St. Joseph's Church. There should be some Communions of Reparation tomorrow for those who failed to make the Mission.
